COMING IN FROM THE NORTH, THE 78TH CAPTURED A HALF DOZEN TOWNS BLOCK BY BLOCK UNTIL IT REACHED RUHRBERG, ON THE BANKS OF THE ROER, SUNDAY. IT THEN SWUNG NORTH AND CAPTURED SCHMIDT.

30.24 - 22829

THE SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM IS NEAR SCHMIDT AND WAS BUILT IN 1938. IT HAS A CONCRETE CORE AND HAS MILLIONS OF TONS OF EARTH PYRAMIDED UPON IT SO THAT BOMBERS NEVER WERE ABLE TO DO MORE THAN DIG CRATERS IN IT.

LIKE EVERYTHING ELSE BUILT IN THE REICH UNDER HITLER, IT WAS CONNECTED WITH THE WAR EFFORT.

TWO MILES SOUTH OF IT IS THE URFT DAM, BUILT IN 1904 OF STONE. IT HAS LESS THAN HALF THE CAPACITY OF THE LARGER DAM.

WHILE THE URFT WAS VULNERABLE TO BOMBING, THE GERMANS CONCENTRATED SO MANY ANTIAIRCRAFT BATTERIES ON NEIGHBORING HILLSIDES THAT PLANES WERE UNABLE TO MAKE ACCURATE BOMBING RUNS.

IT IS BELIEVED THE GERMANS HAD CALCULATED THAT DESTRUCTION OF THE DAMS WOULD DROWN OUT 20 PAPER MILLS, 14 TEXTILE FACTORIES AND SIX METAL WORKS EMPLOYING 22,000 MEN. IN ADDITION, THEIR LOSS WOULD DESTROY THE SOURCE OF ELECTRIC CURRENT OVER 100 SQUARE MILES OF THE INDUSTRIAL RHINE.

THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND PROBABLY ISSUED STRICT ORDERS THAT THE SCHWAMMENAUEL RESERVOIR SHOULD NEVER HOLD MORE THAN 66,000,000 TONS OF WATER, SO THAT EVEN IF THE URFT DAM WERE BLOWN, SCHWAMMENAUEL WOULD BE ABLE TO HOLD.

FOR SOME REASON, THIS ORDER WAS FORGOTTEN TWO MONTHS AGO AND BOTH RESERVOIRS WERE ALLOWED TO GO BRIM FULL. AT THAT TIME ALLIED BOMBERS TRIED DESPERATELY TO KNOCK OUT THE URFT DAM, WHICH PROBABLY WOULD ALSO HAVE DESTROYED THE ONE DOWNSTREAM.

AS LONG AS THE DAMS WERE STANDING AND THE GERMANS CONTROLLED THE SLUICE GATES, THE ENEMY HELD THE UPPER HAND ON THE PLAIN BEFORE COLOGNE.

THE GERMANS HAD SEVERAL CHOICES. THEY COULD WAIT UNTIL THE ALLIES TRIED TO CROSS THE ROER AND THEN BLOW SCHWAMMENAUEL, DESTROYING COMMUNICATIONS AND ISOLATING ALLIED TROOPS ON THE EAST SIDE OF THE RIVER, WHERE THEY WOULD BE HELPLESS IN THE FACE OF COUNTERATTACKS.

WORSE STILL, THEY COULD MANIPULATE THE SLUICE GATES TO CAUSE A SERIES OF SMALL FLOODS THAT WOULD WIPE OUT PONTOON BRIDGES AND CAUSE DISRUPTION OF COMMUNICATIONS OVER A PROLONGED PERIOD.

AT ONE TIME, THE AMERICANS BROUGHT UP EVERY ENGINEERING AID KNOWN AND GRIMLY PREPARED TO TAKE THEIR CHANCES AND CROSS ANYWAY.

THEN CAME THE BITTER FIGHT FOR THE DAMS AT SCHMIDT, WHEN THE GERMANS STOPPED A SURPRISE ATTACK BY TWO REGIMENTS.

LATER THE ARDENNES BREAKTHROUGH DISRUPTED THE 78TH'S PLANS TO SEIZE THE DAMS, AND FOLLOWING THAT CAME THE PLAN TO BOMB THE DAM AND REPAIR THE DAMAGE IN THE VALLEY BELOW.

ON THE LOWER RHINE ELEMENTS OF THE SECOND FRENCH ARMORED DIVISION REACHED CHALAMPE ON THE ALSATIAN BANK OF THE RIVER OPPOSITE NEUENBERG WHERE THE RETREATING GERMANS HAD BLOWN THE BRIDGE.

ON THIS BANK OF THE RHINE BELOW COLMAR THE GERMANS NOW HELD ONLY CHALAMPE, BANTZENHEIM, OTTMARSMEIM AND PETIT LANDAU, FIVE MILES SOUTH OF CHALAMPE.

WITH THEIR LAST BRIDGE OVER THE RHINE WRECKED, THE GERMAN REAR GUARDS APPEARED DOOMED EXCEPT FOR SUCH PERSONNEL AS MIGHT ESCAPE BY FERRY.

IT WAS DISCLOSED TONIGHT THAT THE RECAPTURE OF WINGEN, 20 MILES NORTHWEST OF HAGUENAU, LATE IN JANUARY WAS ACCOMPLISHED BY THE 70TH (TRAILBLAZERS) INFANTRY DIVISION WHICH ALSO IS KNOWN AS THE "OREGONS."

THE 70TH, WHICH LANDED ONLY RECENTLY IN FRANCE, WAS ACTIVATED AND TRAINED AT CAMP ADAIR, ORE., AND COMPLETED ITS TRAINING AT FT.LEONARD WOODS, MO.

WINGEN, WHICH HAS CHANGED HANDS SEVERAL TIMES IN THE FIGHTING, NOW IS ONLY A GROUP OF WRECKED BUILDINGS.

MANY AMERICAN PRISONERS WHO HAD BEEN HELD IN A CHURCH WHICH WAS CONVETED INTO A HOSPITAL WERE RECOVERED BY THE VICTORY.

BY A.I.GOLDBERG

WITH THE 7TH ARMY IN ALSACE, FEB 8-(AP)-THROWN INTO THE LINE ON CHRISTMAS DAY, THE MEN OF THE 42ND (RAINBOW) DIVISION HAVE PROVED IN A MONTH OF COMBAT THAT THEY ARE WORTHY OF THE HONORS THE OUTFIT WON IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR WHEN GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR WAS ITS CHIEF OF STAFF.

"THEY'RE AS GOOD MEN AS THEIR DADDIES EVER WERE," BOASTS BRIG.GEN. HENNING LINDEN OF MUSKOGEE, OKLA., WHO NOW HOLDS MACARTHUR'S OLD JOB WITH THE DIVISION.

REACTIVATED AT CAMP GRUBER, OKLA., ON JULY 14, 1943, DURING THE ANNUAL REUNION OF RAINBOW VETERANS OF WORLD WAR ONE, THE 42ND HAS INHERITED MANY OTHER CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ORIGINAL OUTFIT IN ADDITION TO ITS ZEST FOR BATTLE. IT HAS ALL THE DASH THAT MARKED THE OLD RAINBOW DIVISION AND IT STILL USES THE DISTINCTIVE CHIN-OUT, HEADS-UP SALUTE WHICH MACARTHUR TAUGHT IT 28 YEARS AGO.

THE RAINBOW DIVISION MADE ITS DEBUT IN BATTLE IN THE PRESENT WAR IN THE SAME GENERAL SECTOR IN WHICH IT SAW ACTION IN THE LAST WAR. THEN IT WAS DESCRIBED AS THE LUNEVILLE-STRASBOURG SECTOR.

WHEN THE NEW RAINBOW FIRST MOVED IN, THEY TOOK UP POSITIONS FROM STRASBOURG TO WISSEMBOURG. WHEN AMERICAN WITHDRAWALS WERE FORCED BY HEAVY ENEMY PRESSURE ABOVE HAGENAU FOREST, THE OUTFIT FILLED THE LINE FROM GAMBSHEIM LORTHWARD. THEY NOW HAVE A BATTLE HISTORY WORTHY OF THE ST.MIHIEL, MEUSE-ARGONNE AND SEDAN TRADITION OF THEIR FATHERS.

AMONG THE LEGENDS WHICH THE NEW RAINBOW DIVISION MAY SPIN ARE THESE:

THE STORY OF CAPT.JAMES NELSON JEAN, SON OF REV.AND MRS.OSCAR JEAN OF ORLEANS, IND., WHO FOUND HIMSELF WITH THESE MEN IN A VILLAGE BEHIND THE GERMAN LINES. THE FOUR FELL IN BEHIND A GERMAN PATROL AND NONCHALANTLY MARCHED TO THE EDGE OF THE VILLAGE AND SAFETY.

OR THE STORY OF THE YOUNG LIEUTENANT WHO, WITH TWO MACHINEGUN CREWS, BROKE UP AN ATTACK AT NEUBORG WHEN THE GERMANS TRIED TO CROSS THE MODER RIVER. HE BRAVED SHELLFIRE AHEAD OF HIS PLATOON'S POSITIONS, REPAIRED BARBED WIRE AND TRAVELLED FROM CREW TO CREW DIRECTING FIRE. THE NEXT DAY HIS JEEP STRUCK A MINE AND HE WAS INJURED FATALLY.

B11 G5

OR THE YARN OF ANOTHER LIEUTENANT WHO WADED INTO A CANAL'S SWOLLEN WATERS TO HELP SMALLER MEN ACROSS, THEN LAY IN A FOXHOLE IN SUB-FREEZING TEMPERATURE DIRECTING THE ACTION. HIS FEET FROZE AND HE WAS ABLE TO GET ABOUT ONLY ON HIS KNEES.

WHEN U.S.TANKS CAME INTO THE AREA, THE LIEUTENANT, FEARING THE ARMORED OUTFITS WOULD FIRE INTO THE ZONE OCCUPIED BY HIS MEN, CRAWLED TO THE LEAD TANK AND PULLED HIMSELF TO HIS FEET TO WRENCH THE MACHINE GUN BARREL ASIDE AS A MEANS OF ATTRACTING THE CREW'S ATTENTION.

THESE ARE ONLY A FEW OF THE FEATS WHICH RAINBOW DIVISION MEN RECOUNT

30.24 - 22831

WITH FIERCE PRIDE.

THE DIVISION'S SEMI-OFFICIAL TUNE IS "MOUNTAIN DEW," A LITTLE DITTY THE YOUNGSTERS DIDN'T REMEMBER UNTIL THE DIVISION BAND PLAYED IT IN TULSA, OKLA., FOR A MASSED FLAGS PARADE IN A JAM-PACKED AUDIENCE--AND BROUGHT DOWN THE HOUSE.

A HANGOVER FROM WORLD WAR I--OR PERHAPS A GUY WHO ELECTED TO STICK AROUND TO SEE HOW THE YOUNGSTERS BEHAVED--IS SGT.JOHN WINTRODE, 46, WHOSE WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN LIVE IN ST.PETERSBURG, FLA. WINTRODE WAS WITH THE RAINBOW DIVISION IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR. TODAY HIS CAPTAIN, MARSHALL ANDREWS OF 813 NORTH HIGHLAND ST., ARLINGTON, VA., DESCRIBES HIM AS:

"THE DAMNDEST, BESTEST FIRST SERGEANT I EVER HAVE SEEN."

ANDREWS, A FORMER WASHINGTON POST CORRESPONDENT ORIGINALLY FROM COLUMBIA, S.C., SERVED WITH THE AIR FORCES IN THE LAST WAR.

THE DIVISION ALSO HAS "WAR BABY" OFFICERS OF THIS WAR. THERE IS LT.EDWARD KENNEDY OF 3511 SOUTH OGDEN, ENGLEWOOD, COLO., A FORMER OPERATOR ON THE ENGLEWOOD PRESS WHICH IS OWNED BY HIS DAD, L.P.KENNEDY. HE WAS ELEVATED FROM PRIVATE FIRST CLASS TO COMMISSIONED RANK IN THE FIELD IN RECOGNITION OF OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE.

MANY OF THE DIVISION'S NEW YOUNG OFFICERS HAVE BROTHERS AND SISTERS IN SERVICE. JAMES WALLACE OF 516 HARRISON ST., DANVILLE, ILL., RECENTLY COMMISSIONED A LIEUTENANT, HAS FOUR BROTHERS IN THE ARMY AND ANOTHER IN THE NAVY, ALL OVERSEAS.

LT.EMMETT SHELTON OF EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, MO., HAS A SISTER IN THE WAVES AND A BROTHER IN THE NAVY IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC. LT.ALVYN WOOD'S WIFE IS A DENTAL ASSISTANT IN THE ARMY AIR IN COLUMBIA, S.C. WOOD PLAYED HALFBACK FOR NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY IN 1936. LT.DAN DENICOLA OF TORONTO, O., HAS A BROTHER IN THE ARMY.

THE DIVISION NOW IS COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.HARRY J.COLLINS.

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON THE SURE RIVER FRONT, FEB. 8-(AP)-IN DOUGHBOY SLANG THOSE AMERICANS HOLDING THE HILL OVER THERE IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE WEREN'T REALLY "HURTING" FOR SUPPLIES, BUT THEIR BOSS ON THIS SIDE SAID THAT THEY HAD BETTER HAVE AMMUNITION AND FOOD, SO THE YOUNG MEN OF THE COW PASTURE AIR FORCE TOOK IT TO THEM.

FLIPPING THEIR FLIMSY CUB PLANES BACK AND FORTH LIKE SO MANY SAUCY BOX KITES THE FIFTH DIVISION ARTILLERY OBSERVERS NOT ONLY PLUNKED DOWN AMMUNITION AND FOOD THROUGH A GANTLET OF GERMAN FIRE BUT EVEN LOBBED IN A RADIO ON A HOME-MADE PARACHUTE AND THEIR COMMANDER, MAJ.CHARLES E.STRUNK, 918 ORLEANS AVE., TOPEKA, KANS., SAID "IF THEY WANT A DRINK OF WHISKY WE'LL FLYING THAT INTO THEM, TOO."

THE UNIT UNDER LT.COL.CLARENCE A.METTE, JR., OF LOS ANGELES, CALIF., STORMED ACROSS THE SURE UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS EARLY YESTERDAY AND QUICKLY WON ITS WAY TO HIGH GROUND A MILE AND A HALF NORTH-NORTHWEST OF ECHTERNACH. IT CLEARED A 500-YARD PATH THROUGH THE FRINGE OF THE SIEGFRIED PILLBOX BELT, BUT BUNKERS ON BOTH FLANKS STILL POURED MACHINE GUN FIRE ACROSS THIS PATH. COMMUNICATION TO THEM WAS LIMITED TO MOVEMENT IN BOATS ACROSS THE RIVER AT NIGHT AND ON UP A STEEP BLUFF UNDER ENEMY GUNS.

MEN UNDER CAPT.ROBERT H.BERTACH, AKRON, OHIO, WERE FIRST ACROSS THE SWOLLEN SURE, WITH MANY SWIMMING THE LAST PART OF THE WAY--METTE HIMSELF WAS ONE OF THESE. THIS GROUP WAS FOLLOWED BY MEN UNDER CAPT. LEON J.ZIMMERMAN, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. THE DOUGHBOYS STOOD SOLID AGAINST THREE COUNTERATTACKS AND EVEN KNOCKED OUT TANKS WITH BAZOOKA GUNS AND TOOK SOME PRISONERS. THE LATTER REMAINED UNEVACUATED AS DID THE WOUNDED. THE CASUALTIES WERE UNDER THE CARE OF CAPT.IRWIN SKRIVANEK, CALDWELL, TEX., AND OTHER MEDICAL PERSONNEL INCLUDING LT. JOHN H.GRANT, DETROIT, MICH.

ALTHOUGH RADIO MESSAGES ASKED EVACUATION OF THE WOUNDED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE THERE WAS NO APPEAL FOR MEDICAL SUPPLIES AND MAJ. HAROLD V.DUNCAN, WACO, TEX., SUMMED IT UP LIKE THIS: "THEY WERE NOT ONLY NOT ASKING FOR MEDICAL SUPPLIES BUT WERE NOT ASKING FOR MUCH OF ANYTHING, NOT EVEN REINFORCEMENTS. THE FACT IS THEY SEEM TO BE SAVING RADIO BATTERIES AND SELDOM TALKED TO US BACK HERE AT HEADQUARTERS EXCEPT TO CALL FOR ARTILLERY FIRE OCCASIONALLY."

BUT THEIR COLONEL WANTED TO BE SURE, SO THE CUBS TOOK IN RIFLE, MACHINEGUN AND BAZOOKA ROUNDS AS WELL AS MINES AND A RADIO. ALL EXCEPT THE RADIO WERE WRAPPED IN BLANKETS AND PLOPPED DOWN FROM TREE-TOP LEVEL INTO MARKED-OFF MUD AREAS.

"I THINK WE HIT IT ON THE NOSE AND ALTHOUGH WE WERE FIRED AT WITH EVERYTHING FROM RIFLES AND MACHINEGUNS THROUGH 20-MM. TO 88-MM. WE WEREN'T HIT,", SAID LT.JOHN X.WALSH, 39 EAST 31ST ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y.

"MAYBE THEY DIDN'T NEED FOOD BUT AFTER WE'D DROPPED ONE BOX OF K RATIONS WE SWUNG BACK ACROSS THE FIELD AND THE DOUGHBOYS ALREADY HAD BROKEN INTO THOSE BOXES AND STARTED EATING," REPORTED LT. ROBERT N.TEDD, MINOVA, N.C. (EDS: UNLISTED IN POSTAL GUIDE).

RIDING IN A CUB PILOTED BY LT.ORMAN DUDLEY DILLS, CANTON, MISS., I WATCHED FROM ABOVE THE RIVER LINE AS LT.JOHN H.STALEY, JR., FREDERICK, MD., PILOTED A PLANE DOWN A NARROW FLAK ALLEY AND SGT.FRED TETO, 184 WEST WASHINGTON, CHICAGO, DROPPED THE PARACHUTE CARRYING THE RADIO.

"OUR MAKESHIFT CHUTE OPENED PERFECTLY AND CAUGHT IN A TREE ON THE EDGE OF A CLEARING, THEN BROKE AWAY AND EASED THE RADIO DOWN SO I DON'T THINK ANYTHING BROKE," TETO REPORTED.

FEB 9 1945

"ALL THEY SHOT AT US THIS TIME WAS RIFLES AND I DON'T THINK THEY EVEN CAME CLOSE," STALEY SAID. "AFTER DROPPING THE RADIO WE DROPPED SPARE BATTERIES, THEN A NOTE TELLING THEM WHERE TO FIND THE RADIO."

TEDD, DILLS, WALSH, STALEY, STRUNK AND LT.EUGENE SORENSON WERE PILOTS PARTICIPATING IN MORE THAN 30 DROPPING MISSIONS.

OBSERVERS WHO DID THE PITCHING OF BUNDLES RANGING FROM 50 TO 80 POUNDS WERE LT.WILLIAM J.HENTHORN, 606 WEST MAPLE AVE., MERCHANTVILLE, N.J., ROBERT M.WEBB, NEODESHA, KANS., PRESSLEY PINER, ARLINGTON, KANS., WARRANT OFFICER H.A.FLUMMERFELT, ELNORA, IND., AND SGT.MARI F.CABLE, 4800 WEST 13TH ST., WICHITA, KANS.

WARSAW, FEB. 8-(AP)-THIS IS THE STORY OF MRS.LUDMILLA SHISHKO, THE ONLY PERSON LEFT OUT OF A FAMILY OF 67 AFTER THE ORDEAL OF WARSAW'S OCCUPATION BY THE GERMANS.

"WE WOMEN OF WARSAW FEEL WE PLAYED JUST AS BIG A PART AS MEN," SHE SAID. "I WOULD LIKE THE WOMEN OF THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN TO KNOW SOME OF THE TERRIBLE DETAILS.

"I HAVE SEEN MOTHERS OF LITTLE CHILDREN PICKED UP IN THE STREETS FOR NO REASON AND SHIPPED OFF TO GERMANY," SHE SAID.

"BUT MONEY WAS THE PASSWORD. IF YOU HAD ENOUGH YOU COULD BUY YOUR WAY OUT FROM THE GERMANS.

"THE GERMANS SEEMED TO TAKE PARTICULAR PRIDE IN PICKING OUT SOME PRETTY BLONDE AND WORKING ON HER. THIS CONSISTED OF ANYTHING FROM STARVING HER TO THREATENING DESTRUCTION OF HER RELATIVES OR CHILDREN. OFTEN IT WORKED, BUT MANY TIMES IT DIDN'T, AND MANY POLISH WOMEN DIED."

WHILE POLISH WOMEN WHO REFUSED TO COLLABORATE--PAID ONLY HALF MEN'S WAGES ALTHOUGH WORKED 10 OR 12 HOURS A DAY--WENT ABOUT IN RAGS, SHE SAID GERMANS DRESSED THEIR OWN WOMEN AND THEIR KEPT POLISH WOMEN IN FINE CLOTHES STOLEN FROM ALL PARTS OF EUROPE.

MRS.SHISHKO SAID HER LIFE BECAME MUCH HARDER IN 1941 WHEN SHE MARRIED A MEMBER OF THE UNDERGROUND MOVEMENT. HER SON, BORN IN 1942, DIED A YEAR LATER OF TUBERCULOSIS.

MANY WOMEN, SHE SAID, LOST THEIR LIVES DISTRIBUTING LEAFLETS FOR THE UNDERGROUND.

"A WOMAN CAUGHT DOING THIS BY THE GESTAPO WAS WORSE THAN DEAD," SHE SAID, "BECAUSE THE GERMANS HAVE VERY SUBTLE WAYS OF TORTURING WOMEN. THIS INCLUDES JUST ABOUT EVERYTHING YOU CAN IMAGINE.

"I'VE SEEN THEM HALT WOMEN IN BROAD DAYLIGHT AND TEAR OFF THEIR CLOTHES, LOOKING FOR HIDDEN LEAFLETS. THEY GOT AMUSEMENT OUT OF IT."

MRS.SHISHKO WAS STOPPED ONLY ONCE BY A GERMAN. SHE WAS CARRYING FORBIDDEN DOCUMENTS IN A SHOPPING BAG CONTAINING HER TINY FLOUR ALLOTMENT. HE ONLY SWORE AT HER FOR GETTING FLOUR ON HIS HANDS AND DID NOT FIND THE DOCUMENTS.

SHE ESCAPED FROM WARSAW

MANILA,FEB.8-(AP)-THE ARMY PASSED OUT THE CHEERING WORD TODAY--MANILA HAS AND WILL CONTINUE TO HAVE WATER.
AS SECTIONS OF THE CITY WERE PUT TO THE TORCH BY JAPANESE DEMOLITION SQUADS, FEARS HAD ARISEN THAT THE METROPOLIS WOULD BE BURNED DOWN.
THE JAPANESE DID SUCCEED IN DESTROYING SOME PUMPING STATIONS BUT THE ARMY REPORTED TODAY THE WATERSHED AND RESERVOIR AREA WERE NOT DAMAGED.
THE JAPANESE MADE PREPARATIONS TO DYNAMITE THE PRINCIPAL DAM BUT APPARENTLY FLED WITHOUT CARRYING OUT THE DEMOLITION UPON THE SUDDEN APPEARANCE OF AMERICAN TROOPS.
THERE IS AN ACUTE FOOD SHORTAGE WHICH HAS NOT YET BEEN EASED. UNTIL THE JAPANESE HAVE BEEN MOPPED UP, THE PROBLEM WILL REMAIN SERIOUS. IT IS BOUND TO ARISE WHEREVER A LARGE CIVILIAN POPULATION CENTER BECOMES A THEATER OF ACTIVE MILITARY OPERATIONS.
THE JAPANESE CUT MANILA OFF FROM OUTSIDE FOOD SUPPLIES EARLY IN DECEMBER WHEN THEY BEGAN TROOP MOVEMENTS NORTHEASTWARD.
(THE NIPPONESE THUS WERE IN RETREAT FROM MANILA WELL BEFORE ANY YANK SOLDIERS HAD LANDED ANYWHERE ON THE ISLAND OF LUZON).
BEFORE THE MAIN BODY OF JAPANESE LEFT MANILA, IT CONFISCATED ALL FOODSTUFFS WHICH COULD BE FOUND IN HOUSE-TO-HOUSE SEARCHES FOR HOARDED STORES.
MANY FILIPINOS MANAGED TO LEAVE THE CITY FOR COUNTRY DISTRICTS DESPITE JAPANESE CONFISCATION OF VEHICLES, INCLUDING BICYCLES AND PUSHCARTS.
BUT A DETERMINED NUMBER OF PEOPLE REMAINED.
RAIN FELL IN MANILA EARLY THIS MORNING, DAMPENING SCATTERED FIRES CAUSED BY INTERMITTEN EXPLOSIONS IN THE SOUTHERN PART LAST NIGHT.

BY LAND, AIR AND RIVER TROOPS WERE CONVERGING ON THE WEST AND NORTH BANKS OF THE IRRAWADDY FOR 60 MILES ABOVE AND 40 MILES BELOW THE ELBOW OF THE STREAM WHERE MANDALAY IS SITUATED.
WHILE THE STAGE WAS BEING SET FOR THE BATTLE OF MANDALAY, FIERCE BUT SMALL-SCALE FIGHTING CONTINUED ON TWO OTHER SECTORS IN BURMA. THE MAIN CLASHES OF THE PAST 24 HOURS WERE ON THE OLD BURMA ROAD ABOVE LASHIO, WHERE THE AMERICAN MARS TASK FORCE AND THE CHINESE 38TH DIVISION ARE BEATING SOUTHWARD.
OPPOSING THE AMERICANS AND THE CHINESE IN THAT AREA WERE REOMMANTS OF JAPANESE DIVISIONS WHICH WERE THROWN OUT OF NORTHEASTERN BURMA AND ORDERED TO DEFEND THE RAIL TERMINAL OF LASHIO. THE AMERICANS BROUGHT THEIR MULE-CARRIED ARTILLERY INTO PLAY IN SUPPORT OF CHINESE INFANTRY CHARGES.

KUNMING, CHINA, FEB 8-(AP)-THE AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND CARRIED 44,000 TONS OF WAR MATERIALS FROM INDIA TO CHINA DURING JANUARY, BRIG. GEN. WILLIAM H. TUNNER ANNOUNCED TODAY. THIS WAS MORE THAN DOUBLE THE TONNAGE CARRIED BY THE OLD BURMA ROAD AT ITS PEAK AND ESTABLISHED A RECORD. CHINA-BOUND PLANES CROSSED "THE HUMP" EVERY TWO AND A HALF MINUTES, 24 HOURS A DAY DURING THE MONTH.
M958AEW

THE PLANES DELIVERED 12,000 TONS IN A SINGLE WEEK--ALMOST AS MUCH AS THE TONNAGE DELIVERED THROUGHOUT DECEMBER, 1943, FOR WHICH THE DIVISION RECEIVED A PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION. LAST MONTH'S TOTAL WAS MORE THAN TWICE THE TONNAGE OF LAST JULY AND THREE TIMES THAT OF JANUARY, 1944.

TUNNER, WHO HAS BEEN IN MILITARY AVIATION FOR 16 YEARS AND DIVISION COMMANDER HERE SINCE SEPT.3, 1944, SAID THAT LOSSES RESULTING FROM ENEMY ACTION HAVE BEEN "ALMOST COMPLETELY ELIMINATED." MANILA,FEB 7 (DELAYED)-(AP)-STARVATION STILL WAS PRESENT IN MANILA TODAY. CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATES, BASED ON REPORTS OF FILIPINO AND CHINESE RESIDENTS, PLACED THE DAILY DEATH TOLL AT SEVERAL HUNDRED FROM THIS CAUSE.
THE AMERICANS WERE GRIMLY OCCUPIED IN BATTLING FLAMES AND JAPANESE SNIPERS AS THEY SOUGHT TO COMPLETE CONTROL OF THE NORTHERN HALF OF THE CITY.
ORDINARY FOOD CHANNELS INTO MANILA HAVE BEEN CUT SINCE DECEMBER, WHEN THE JAPANESE CLAMPED ON AN EMBARGO AND STARTED SEIZING EVERYTHING IN SIGHT. ALL MARKETS ARE CLOSED.
THE ONLY MONEY MOST CIVILIANS HAVE IS THE NOW WORTHLESS JAPANESE OCCUPATION CURRENCY.
TWO INCIDENTS GIVE A MEASURE OF THE CRITICAL SITUATION STILL PREVAILING:
A FILIPINO CARRYING HALF A SACK OF RICE ALONG A STREET HALF A MILE FROM THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP WAS ATTACKED BY 30 STARVING BOYS. THEY SLASHED OPEN THE SACK AND FORCED THE MAN TO SURRENDER HALF THE RICE.
TEN MEN PURSUED A MAN PUSHING A CART CONTAINING TWOSACKS OF RICE. HE FLED ONTO A BRIDGE JUST AS A JAPANESE DEMOLITION CHARGE EXPLODED. MAN, RICE AND CART WERE BLOWN UP.
IN THE MONTHS JUST BEFORE THE AMERICAN ENTRY, FOOD PRICES SOARED TO ABSURD HEIGHTS. THE PRICE OF A 110-POUND SACK OF RICE SKY-ROCKETED FROM EIGHT TO 20,000 PESOS; TOBACCO COST 11 PESOS FOR A SMALL HANDFUL AND SUGAR SOARED TO 25,000 PESOS A SACK. A FILIPINO IMITATION OF SCOTCH WHISKY BROUGHT 25,000 PESOS. THE LAST KNOWN PRICE OF A SINGLE EGG WAS 25 PESOS.

MANILA, P.I., FEB. 8-(AP)-SEARED, TWISTED STEEL AND EMPTY, FIRE-BLACKENED WALLS WERE ALL THAT REMAINED TODAY OF MUCH OF MANILA'S SHOW PLACES AND LEADING BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENTS AFTER THREE DAYS OF JAPANESE DEMOLITION.
EYE-WITNESS ACCOUNTS OF DESTRUCTION SAID EXTENSIVE BUSINESS, ENTERTAINMENT AND RESIDENTIAL AREAS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE PASIG RIVER WERE BADLY HIT BY FIRES AND EXPLOSIONS.
FELIPE BUENCAMINO, FORMER MANILA NEWSPAPERMAN WHO CREPT THROUGH THE WAR RAVAGED CITY, SAID THAT FROM THE OLD OPERA HOUSE ON AVENIDA RIZAL, WHERE INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS SINGERS ENTERTAINED MANILANS IN PRE-WAR DAYS, TO THE POPULAR PLAZA LUNCH, FAVORITE GATHERING PLACE FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS, NOTHING STANDS BUT THE EMPTY STEEL AND CONCRETE FRAMEWORKS OF BUILDINGS.
THE IDEAL, AVENUE, STATE, LIFE AND GRAND THEATERS WERE BURNED DOWN, BUENCAMINO SAID. THE GREAT EASTERN AND MARCO POLO HOTELS WERE DESTROYED BY JAPANESE INCENDIARIES.
ENEMY DEMOLITION SQUADS BLEW UP THE PHILIPPINE NATIONAL BANK, PHILIPPINE THRUST, CHARTERED BANK, BANK OF INDIA, AND HONG KONG-SHANGHAI BANK.
HEACOCK'S, MANILA'S LARGEST DEPARTMENT STORE AND ONE OF THE TALLEST BUILDINGS IN THE CITY, WAS DESTROYED. ITS COLORFUL CRYSTAL ARCADE LOOKS LIKE A GIGANTIC TANGLE OF CROOKED, CHARRED STEEL.
BUENCAMINO SAID THAT PRACTICALLY HALF OF CHINATOWN, ONE OF THE HEAVIEST POPULATED AND OLDEST DISTRICTS OF MANILA WAS LEVELED BY A JAPANESE MINE-LAYING DETACHMENT. MANY CHINESE PERISHED IN THE RAGING FIRE.
ALL DAY YESTERDAY CHINESE POKED THROUGH DEBRIS, SEARCHING FOR THE BODIES OF MISSING RELATIVES AND FRIENDS.

THERE WAS MARKED CONFUSION WITHIN THE CITY. GROUPS OF UNIFORMED FILIPINOS, WEARING GUERILLA ARM BANDS, WANDERED ABOUT. HOMELESS REFUGEES STREAMED OUT OF FIRE-SWEPT SECTORS.
AS SPORADIC SHELLING AND STREET FIGHTING PROGRESSED, ONE OFFICIAL SOURCE ACKNOWLEDGED THAT IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO ASSESS THE SITUATION CORRECTLY.
TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE SAID THE JAPANESE HAVE BEEN "CLEARED" FROM BOTH NORTH MANILA AND ADJACENT QUEZON CITY BUT FIELD REPORTS INDICATED SOME ENEMY POCKETS REMAIN NORTH OF THE PASIG.
IN LUZON'S NUEVA ECIJA PROVINCE, ELEMENTS OF THE 32ND INFANTRY DIVISION HAVE CUT THE BALETE PASS ROAD LEADING TO THE CAGAYAN VALLEY, 24 MILES NORTH OF SAN JOSE, TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE REPORTED. THIS BLOCKS THE ESCAPE ROUTE FOR JAPANESE CAUGHT SOUTH AND EAST.
TEN ENEMY TANKS AND MANY HEAVILY DEFENDED PILLBOXES WERE DESTROYED OR CAPTURED IN THE SAN JOSE AREA.
THE 204-TON BLOW AT CORREGIDOR WAS DEALT TUESDAY. THE SAME DAY, ATTACK PLANES POUNDED FORT MILLS ON NEARBY CABALLO ISLAND. THE DAY BEFORE, PATROL PLANES SANK 28 ENEMY BARGES AND SEVERAL SPEEDBOATS OFF THE EAST COAST OF LUZON.
TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE DID NOT BREAK DOWN THE ENEMY CASUALTY FIGURE OF 48,000 BUT IT LISTED THE AMERICAN FIGURE OF 7,076 AS CONSISTING OF 1,609 KILLED, 191 MISSING AND 5,276 WOUNDED.

QUEBEC, FEB 8-(AP)-FRENCH-SPEAKING QUEBEC'S JEALOUSLY GUARDED PROVINCIAL RIGHTS ARE LIKELY TO PROVIDE A MAIN ISSUE FOR DEBATE IN THE NEW SESSION OF THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE WHICH OPENED YESTERDAY UNDER LEADERSHIP OF THE UNION NATIONALE PREMIER MAURICE DUPLESSIS.

THE PREMIER, WHO WAS VOTED INTO OFFICE LAST AUGUST ON A PLATFORM OF PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY AND OF OPPOSITION TO THE WARTIME POLICIES OF PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING'S LIBERAL DOMINION GOVERNMENT IN OTTAWA, ANNOUNCED IN AN OPENING STATEMENT OF POLICY THAT "IT IS NECESSARY THAT THE PROVINCE BE ABLE TO EXERCISE IN ALL THEIR INTEGRITY THE RIGHTS, PREROGATIVES AND LIBERTIES" RECOGNIZED BY THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICA ACT, WHICH IS CANADA'S COUNTERPART OF THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION.

IN ADDITION THE GOVERNMENT GAVE NOTICE IT INTENDS TO INTRODUCE LEGISLATURE DEALING WITH FAMILY ALLOWANCES, WHICH IS THE SUBJECT OF A NEW FEDERAL LAW NOW BEING PUT INTO EFFECT OVER PREMIER DUPLESSIS' PROTEST.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT IS EXPECTED TO SET UP ITS OWN PROVINCIAL SYSTEM OF FAMILY GRANTS, OR TO ENACT A PROVINCIAL LAW TO WORK IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE FEDERAL LAW BUT ON TERMS REGARDED BY DUPLESSIS AS NOT INFRINGING ON QUEBEC'S PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

THE NEW FEDERAL FAMILY ALLOWANCE LAW PROVIDES THAT PAYMENTS OF FROM $5 TO $8 A MONTH FOR EACH CHILD UNDER 16 BE PAID TO EVERY FAMILY IN THE DOMINION. REGISTRATION OF FAMILIES ALREADY HAS BEGUN IN THE SMALLEST PROVINCE, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, AND IS TO FOLLOW ELSEWHERE SOON WITH FIRST ACTUAL PAYMENTS BEING MADE IN JULY.

IN REPLY TO DUPLESSIS' PROTEST AGAINST THIS AS AN INVASION OF PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY, PRIME MINISTER KING THIS WEEK DECLARED THAT "THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAS EVERY INTENTION OF RESPECTING PROVINCIAL JURISDICTION AND IS SATISFIED THAT THIS LEGISLATION DOES NOT INFRINGE PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY IN ANY WAY."

KING SAID IT WAS REPORTED IN OTTAWA THAT "PREMIER DUPLESSIS' REAL OBJECTION TO THE FAMILY ALLOWANCE PLAN IS THAT THE QUEBEC PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT WILL NOT HAVE CONTROL OF THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE MONEY IN THE PROVINCE."

IN THE QUEBEC GOVERNMENT'S STATEMENT OF POLICY YESTERDAY DUPLESSIS DECLARED:

"THE GOVERNMENT CONSIDERS THAT IT BELONGS NEITHER TO A MAJORITY OF THE PROVINCES, NOR THE OTTAWA GOVERNMENT, TO BRING CHANGES TO THE CANADIAN CONSTITUTION.

"(THE GOVERNMENT) BELIEVES THAT ADMINISTRATIVE AND LEGISLATIVE DECENTRALIZATION IS THE VERY ESSENCE OF THE FEDERATIVE PACT, WHEREAS CENTRALIZATION IS IN THE NATURE OF HITLERISM WHICH IS DEEPLY REPUGNANT TO THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

"THE GOVERNMENT INTENDS TO COOPERATE IN THE GREATNESS AND PROSPERITY OF THE CANADIAN FEDERATION FOUNDED UPON THE RESPECT OF THE FEDERATIVE PACT, ESSENTIAL TO TRUE NATIONAL UNITY."

THIS EMPHATIC REASSERTION OF QUEBEC'S PROVINCIAL RIGHTS HAS SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE TO MANY FRENCH CANADIANS IN THESE DAYS OF CRISIS IN THE DOMINION OVER CONSCRIPTION OF TROOPS FOR OVERSEAS DUTY, STEADFASTLY OPPOSED HERE.

Canadians Advance Five Miles in Offensive, Seize 14 Towns; Americans Close In on Dam; Russians Push Nearer Stettin, Flank Breslau

FEB 10 1945

ALLIES ADVANCE WITHIN 4 MILES OF KLEVE BASTION

First Army Outflanks Giant Schwammenauel Dam Protecting Ruh.

YANKS TAKE HASENFELD

British Smash Into Reichswald, Battle Inside Siegfried Line.

Boston

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP) The Canadian army broadened the front of its big new offensive to almost ten miles today after sweeping up 14 towns in gains of nearly five miles, and drove to within four miles of flaming Kleve, imperiled northern fortress of western Germany's defenses.

The fury of the assault from the west mounted on a 200-mile front as Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian and British forces battered eastward between the Rhine and Maas rivers 27 miles from Wesel, at the northwest corner of the Ruhr valley—last great source of the enemy's war potential.

The U. S. First army 85 miles to the south outflanked the giant Schwammenauel dam, whose pent-up waters could be unloosed to crush any British and American drive on the Ruhr from their springboard positions north and east of Aachen.

Hasenfeld Falls

Striking behind one of the heaviest barrages ever laid down by First army guns, the Americans seized Hasenfeld, less than a mile east of the dam, and brought the structure itself within range of machineguns.

Farther south, the U. S. Third army was hammering at the German defenders of the Eifel mountain stronghold of Pruem from positions three-quarters of a mile northwest of the city. The enemy fought furiously to hold the important communication center.

Less than six miles to the north, Doughboys already eight miles inside the Reich threatened to outflank Pruem by forcing two crossings of the river of the same name. They were within four miles of the main road east out of the city.

In southern Alsace, all enemy resistance was wiped out, an official announcement said, and victory flags flew over the city of Colmar. The only Germans remaining on French soil were in northern Alsace, where they were dug in for nothing more than a defensive stand.

Field Marshal Montgomery threw reinforcements into the mounting battle at the northern hinge of the Western Front, where Canadians and Tommies were slogging through the mud against still relatively light resistance about 360 miles from the Russians on the Eastern Front.

Smash into Reichswald

In the second day of the offensive they already were well into the Reichswald — a forest protecting Kleve from the west—and were hacking into the Siegfried Line after passing through what veteran troopers called "the valley of death."

This valley of death was one their own shells and guns had created — a scene of devastation marked by flaming houses, trees and vehicles, shattered gun positions, and fattened earthworks.

A front dispatch, emphasizing that for security reasons the extent of the eastward push could not be disclosed, declared that it was difficult to see how the enemy could hold back the crushing weight of men and armor which had been thrown into the assault.

Four hundred British bombers and fighterbombers pounded enemy positions ahead of the ground troops, while nearly 1,200 other warplanes bombed communication lines in an attempt to seal off the front from enemy reinforcements trying to come up.

At least six more towns were taken today to add to the eight which were seized in the first day and night of battle.

The strongest resistance was coming from the Reichswald, but even these naturally strong positions were gradually being neutralized by assaults from the north, west and southwest.

It was possible that at some point the attack had carried through the first of three defense belts which make up the Westwall on this front.

A front dispatch timed at 5 p.m., reporting the broadening of the assault lines, said the prisoner count had risen to 1,800.

Canadian and British troops had plunged deeply into the Reichswald—cut by trenches and reinforced to guard the Westwall's communications—and had seized Frasselt, four miles west of Kleve and eight miles north of Goch, a second traffic nerve center.

Both cities were in flames from a terrific bombing Wednesday night.

Rush Through Mine Fields

The northern wing of the attack was moving through mine fields and trenches with which the Germans had extended northward the Westwall defenses that once ended at Kleve. These forces captured the Dutch town of Leuth, a mile south of the Rhine. Flood waters of the Rhine spread over this sector and the attackers were using amphibious tanks.

The railway town of Kranenburg, a mile north of Frasselt, also fell and troops pushed out east on to the main highway to Kleve, capturing the village of Tuthees.

German prisoners, who somehow managed to survive an 11-hour barrage and a tornado of bombs, were badly shaken and one reported the barrage knocked out six of 12 guns in his artillery outfit. Two battalion commanders were among the prisoners.

Enemy movement northward from the Venlo area on the British second army front suggested the Germans were weakening their forces there to try to stem the Canadian drive.

The attack had carried well into the first belt of Siegfried Line defenses, and even in the Reichswald the mop-up was proceeding rapidly. The British on the southern flank were held up by house-to-house fighting in the Dutch village of Bruuk before breaking into the Reichswald.

The Germans, apparently fearing another attack from Holland positions north of Kleve, began flooding the flatlands north of Nijmegen.

Nazis Admit Reverses

The Germans admitted the Canadians had driven breaches in the lines, predicted stronger assaults were coming, and said Allied artillery fire was raking the front as far south as the Aachen area.

To the south, where the First army is threatening to break out into the Cologne plain, the 78th division advanced to within machinegun range of the giant Schwammenauel dam behind one of the heaviest artillery barrages ever fired by that army.

The guns were seeking out the Germans dug in east and north of the dam.

A front dispatch said considerable water was running down from it. The outlets appeared to be blown, but the Germans had not yet tried to destroy it and send a flood rampaging down the Roer valley.

The last resistance was stamped from Schmidt and two other villages between the Americans and the dam.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army, exploiting its wide break through the Siegfried line, pushed two columnes a quarter mile south to within three-fourths of a mile northwest of Pruem.

Other Doughboys, in a mile and a half gain, reached Olzheim, on the Pruem river five miles north of the city. Gains of as much as a half mile were recorded southwest of Pruem, where the swift rivers and mountainous terrain was holding up the advance.

The last remnants of German units west of the Rhine in southern Alsace were being mopped up quickly by the French First army.

The official announcement of the liquidation of the Colmar pocket said the French Second Armored and Ninth Colonial divisions had reached Chalampe, across the Rhine from Neunberg. This is the site of the last escape bridge, which the Germans blew up yesterday.

Canadian Push Nears Kleve; Ruhr Periled; 13 Towns Taken

Paris, Feb. 9 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery's powerful new drive toward the Ruhr tonight was within 4 miles of Kleve, northern terminal of the original Siegfried Line, and had deeply penetrated the West Wall fortifications in the Reichswald.

Since dawn, the Canadian 1st Army had advanced more than 2 miles deeper into northwest Germany and captured six more towns, one of them 3 miles from the Rhine before it branches out to form the Waal and Neder Rhine in Holland. Thirteen places now have been taken.

Most of the villages were in Germany. The nearest to Kleve was Frasselt and the nearest to the Rhine was the Dutch village of Leuth. Tuthees, on the main road from captured Kranenburg to Kleve, was taken, along with Zandpol, Niel and Breedeweg.

Pincers Closing On Ruhr

The Canadian and British tanks and infantry, bringing to life a long-dormant sector, applied pincers on the Ruhr, for far to the south the American 1st and 3d armies were cutting up toward it. In the center the American 9th and British 2d armies were deployed along the Roer River for a frontal blow to the dense industrial area.

The new drive had carried from 4 to 5 miles inside Germany and deep into the Reichswald, 47 square miles of fir forests in which earthen works of the Siegfried Line were overrun.

Yanks And French Gain

In the south and center, the American 1st Army moved within a mile of the head Schwammenauel Dam controlling Roer River flood levels, and the 3d Army drove 8 mights into the Reich and within a mile of Pruem. The French 1st Army stamped out the last organized German resistance south of Strasbourg and won holds on the west bank of the Rhine for more than 90 miles.

The longest Canadian gain of the rainy day was made in the Frasselt area on the road from Kranenburg to Goch, which, like Kleve, was still burning from a massed air attack Wednesday night. Frasselt is 8 miles from Goch, but other Allied units are no more than 5 miles from the town. Between them, Kleve and Goch control twelve important roads.

"Not A Walkover"

The offensive was described officially as going well, but "by no means a walkover," particularly in the north, where mines were profuse. Montgomery hurled more and more reinforcements into the battle.

At places, his lines were within 25 miles of the Ruhr city of Wesel. Farther south, the United States 9th Army is within 12 miles of the Ruhr city of Muenchen Gladbach, in the area where the Ruhr runs west of the Rhine.

Prisoners rose to 1,800. Many still were dazed by the eleven-hour wheel to wheel artillery barrage, which they called devastating.

Terrain Water-Soaked

The swampy terrain was water-soaked. Well-placed German defenses also served to offset in part the Allied advantage in manpower and armor.

The assault front widened to take in most of the area between the Maas and the Waal Rhine rivers. A veteran German division that took the first shock of the new offensive was severely mauled by Canadian and British troops, tanks, flame throwers and cannon.

The Germans were moving up reserves, but Allied planes had interdicted most of the railways and roads behind the front, slowing supply and reinforcement. Enemy troop movements were spotted around Venlo and Geldern. Planes attacked the latter city late today. Bad weather, however, denied the charging Allies tactical air support.

Opposition No Stronger

German opposition was no heavier than yesterday. The possibility of a Nazi counterattack diminished when reports arrived of fresh German flooding north of Nijmegen by opening dikes on the Waal Rhine.

The Siegfried Line in recent months has been extended from Kleve to the Rhine and on toward the North Sea along the Ijssel River.

Kleve was imminently menaced. The new attack front widened to 7 miles. Formidable forest defenses in the Reichswald, considerably weakened by a terrific artillery and air bombardment, were being mopped up swiftly.

[Reuter quoted a radio dispatch today as saying that Allied parachute troops had landed in the Reichswald.]

Like an avalanche, which moves slowly at first, General Eisenhower's offensive along the Western front was gathering power.

Nazis Admit Breaks In Line

German broadcasts said the Canadians had breached Nazi lines in a large-scale offensive. The weight of Allied attacks on other fronts, Berlin said, was also increasing.

The British and Canadian troops of Gen. Henry Crerar's Canadian 1st Army were fighting less than eight miles from the elbow of the Rhine. Infantry, flame throwers and tanks met tough opposition in spots but at no point were the Germans able to stop them.

First Such Role For Canadians

This was the first time that the Canadian 1st Army, heavily bolstered by British troops, had been turned from its left flank anchor role and hurled eastward against Germany.

The Canadians smashed across the flat sodden German border at about the same distance northwest of Duesseldorf and the Ruhr as the American breakthrough toward the Rhine was made southwest of the Ruhr.

360 Miles From Russians

At the point of the Canadian attack, the Allies were within 360 miles of the Russian armies pressing upon Berlin from the east.

There was every indication that the Germans were caught by surprise, at least by the force of the onslaught, which was preceded by an eleven-hour barrage and bombing and strafing attacks by at least 1,500 planes, many of them heavy bombers. The aerial sealing off of the front made it unlikely that the Germans could get reinforcements up quickly.

At Pruem River First Time

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's troops reached the Pruem River for the first time. They captured 1,021 Germans yesterday. They retook Lutzkampen, 2 miles inside Germany, from which the Nazis had pushed them Wednesday.

The 80th Infantry Division advanced in the Siegfried Line to a point 2 miles northwest of Bollendorf in the new 24-mile penetration area of Germany east of Luxembourg. Farther south, the 94th Division repulsed an attack southeast of Sinz, 3½ miles inside Germany near the Moselle.

Patton was having difficulty in reinforcing his new bridgeheads and in advancing swiftly because of the rapid and flooded rivers and the jagged terrain of the Eifel Mountains in which he was attacking.

Positions within 1,000 yards of the Canadian assault wave were blasted; chaos and ruin were inflicted on the whole German railroad system back across the Rhine.

At least 2,000 German railway cars were damaged or destroyed—a terrific toll when added to the wholesale destruction of recent weeks.

CANADIANS GAIN IN RHINE ASSAULT

By NED NORDNESS

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 9—(AP) An avalanche of Allied power is pushing toward the Rhine tonight and it is difficult to see how the Germans can stop it.

Just how far the Canadians and the British have advanced in the sticking ooze of German soil cannot be disclosed for security reasons.

Yet the smash of Gen. H. D. Crerar's troops today put behind them six more villages, including Frasselt. (Frasselt is four miles west of Kleve and eight miles from Goch, the two main communications centers on this front).

The total count of prisoners now exceeds 1,800 and one veteran enemy division which took the first shock of the attack was mauled severely by troops, tanks and artillery. The enemy now is sending reinforcements into the area.

The Reichswald, a forest west of Kleve, has been penetrated and in some areas the attackers may be through the first of three belts in the Siegfried Line.

Over the entire battle area there hangs a pall of misery and devastation, which coupled with today's rain creates an appalling scene.

Houses, vehicles and trees are burning from the blast of yesterday's artillery and bomb barrage. Even hardened troops called this valley before the Reichswald "the valley of death."

Engineers and military police are doing a stupendous job keeping troops, equipment and supplies moving toward the front.

Everything is on the move. Forward troops, engineers and Dutch volunteers are working around the clock to keep roads passable. Good roads are few on this battlefield, and a day and night of rain have created seas of mud.

Indeed, on the north flank, the Canadian forces are fighting from Buffaloes (amphibious tanks) which take them from one objective to another. The only things rising above the flood are the houses. But even though the weather is bad, progress has been good.

I was with troops who captured 225 enemy soldiers, including a major and nine other officers. They left their guns in the Siegfried Line atop a hill and came over and surrendered.

Pointing to their devastated positions, one of them declared: "We could not show our heads out of the bunkers for fear of having them shot off."

COLMAR REJOICES OVER NAZI DEFEAT

Goldberg

COLMAR, France, Feb. 9.—(AP) Colmar was in a holiday mood tonight. Lt. Gen. Jean De Lattre de Tassigny's French First army—which included at least four U. S. Divisions—had broken all organized enemy resistance west of the Rhine in southern Alsace.

Flags fluttered in the sunlight. Excited French troops piled through the city, and De Lattre himself rested in Colmar after his triumphant entry and reception last night.

The only Germans still in any strength in all Alsace were those north of the Moder river, north of Strasbourg, where they were resisting bitterly as the U. S. Seventh army tried to knock them out of Oberhoffen.

There was one small pocket left in southern Alsace. That was just north of the Swiss border on the west bank of the Rhine, where the enemy fought viciously in a puzzling attempt to hold on to a strategically unimportant sliver of France.

Colmar's celebration went on, although heavy German shells fell sporadically in and around the city during the day.

Most of the street signs in this city, long occupied by the enemy, still are in German, but more French army signs are going up. The French tricolor and American and British flags fly from the buildings.

Everyone wanted to know when Gen. De Gaulle would visit the city, as he did at Strasbourg.

The battle of southern Alsace produced another first for Sgt. William Smith, Abingdon, Ill., who was the first to cross into Germany from northern Alsace Nov. 9.

Smith was the first to cross the Rhine-Rhone canal, which formed a strong German defense line, taking his group across under heavy fire.

160 Eskimo Huskies Flown to West Front

PARIS, Feb. 9 (AP).—C-47 transport planes delivered twenty-five dog-team experts, 160 Eskimo huskies and two dozen dog sleds and toboggans to a Belgian air base today for use by Lieutenant General Omar N. Bradley's 12th Army Group, in case heavy snow blankets the western front battlefields again. They would move rations, ammunition and wounded personnel.

The experts, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Norman D. Vaughan, of Boston, came to the European theater direct from search and rescue work in Alaska, northern Canada and Newfoundland.

2 Americans Hide In Haymow Above Nazis For 23 Days

Goldberg

With the 7th Army Feb. 8 [AP—Delayed]—Two American soldiers of an armored infantry battalion were safe today—and eating regularly—after 23 hungry, harrowing days of hiding in a Rhine Valley village barn where German soldiers feasted twelve feet below them.

The men, who were rescued by American occupation of the village, were Staff Sergean' Warren Maue, 26, of Dayton, Ohio, and Pfc. Richard Hartman, 25, of Lancaster, N.Y.

They took refuge in the barn in Herrlisheim January 14 after an American attack was beaten off by a German infantry backed by armor and the men's company was broken up in a strong crossfire. They first sought shelter in a house adjoining the barn, but took to a haymow when they found the house locked.

The first seven days they ate nothing.

"The night of the eighth day was very dark, so I sneaked down and found some corn in a rabbit hutch and some frozen potato peels," Maue said.

"I was able to get down the ladder only every third or fourth night. One night I found a jar of plum wine in a barrel near the house.

"That wine saved our lives."

The Americans lost count of the days. Finally, as American pressure grew, the Germans started to move out. About last Monday, Maue and Hartman heard children's voices in the street.

But they were afraid to look out of the haymow during the day. Last Tuesday they heard American conversation. Maue peeped out cautiously and saw American jeeps. They were saved.

Carried, Though Able To Walk

"Hartman was carried out by the soldiers—I was able to walk," Maue related, but they added, they both were floored — literally — when a helpful sergeant suggested:

"What you fellows need is a good meal."

Maue, normally a 220-pounder, lost 45 pounds, and Hartman, a cook who volunteered to take part in the attack as a medical corpsman, dropped from 145 pounds to less than 100 pounds in the 23 days.

100 Million Words Cleared Since D-Day

Paris, Feb. 9 (AP)—More than 100,000,000 words of news have been cleared through censorship since D-day, supreme headquarters announced today.

SHAEF and British Ministry of Information censors have passed 1,500,000 photographs and about 3,000,000 feet of moving-picture film.

SEA PATROLS HEM IN NAZIS

New Canadian Destroyer With Ships Off Bay of Biscay Ports

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—German garrisons still holding out in French Bay of Biscay ports are being hemmed in from the sea by a three-nation naval patrol, it was disclosed tonight.

The watch is being kept by British, Canadian and Polish warships to prevent enemy attempts to run the gantlet.

Among the patrol ships, it now can be disclosed, is the new Canadian destroyer Iroquois, commanded by Comdr. James C. Hibbard. Landings in Nazi-held areas recently have been made from the Iroquois.

BROOKLYN G. I. SHUNS SOUVENIRS

With Eighty-third Infantry in Belgium, Jan. 21 (Delayed) (A. P.).—There are limits to souvenir collecting—and S/Sergt. Adolph Mascari, of Brooklyn, knows them.

Dolph is one of the steadiest souvenir hounds in his infantry regiment. One night he was awakened in his snug foxhole by a thud on its heavily timbered dirt roof, but he was drowsy and only mildly interested and soon was dreaming again of life back on Flatbush avenue.

When he climbed out of the foxhole the next morning he found an unexploded .88 shell embedded in the logs.

"No souvenir for me—that one" said Sergt. Mascari, and moved off to find a new home.

RUSSIANS FLANK BRESLAU IN NEW

SILESIAN DRIVE

FEB 10 1945

Cut Communication Lines Running Between Kuestrin, Frankfurt.

SURROUND ELBING

Soviet Troops Threaten to Open Doors Into German Saxony.

Hevener

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 10 — (AP) The Red army swept to within 29 miles of Berlin's Baltic port of Stettin yesterday in its swift drive to seal off all northeastern Germany, and the enemy announced that a new "gigantic" Soviet southern offensive had deeply outflanked Breslau by rolling 35 miles west of that Silesian capital.

On the Berlin front the Russians were said by the Germans to have crossed the Oder and cut direct north-south communications between Kuestrin, Frankfurt and Fuerstenberg at points within 35 miles of imperilled Berlin. These three fortresses are Berlin's major shields and the Russians were trying to encircle them.

Reach Liegnitz Outskirts

German broadcasts said that several Russian armies had been hurled into the swelling Silesian drive that sent Soviet spearheads to the edge of Liegnitz, big transit center and manufacturing city of 76,000 astride the direct Berlin-Breslau communication lines.

Breslau's garrison on the upper Oder 35 miles east of Liegnitz was threatened with imminent encirclement, only a 32-mile gap still being left open west of the city. The Russians simultaneously were threatening to break open the door into German Saxony in a wide flanking move through Liegnitz, which is 135 miles southeast of Berlin.

In East Prussia the Russians drove new spearheads to the Baltic coast and surrounded the harbor city of Elbing, between Koenigsberg and Danzig territory, thus dimming further the escape possibilities of the remnants of 200,000 to 250,000 Germans originally trapped in a pocket below Koenigsberg.

While the Germans said the heaviest fighting on the Eastern front was in Pomerania and Silesia, they also gave further details of the grueling struggle along the Oder due east of the capital.

The Russians were disclosed to have built a bridgehead on the river's west bank at Lebus, five miles north of Frankfurt, cutting direct lines between that fortress and Kuestrin.

South of Frankfurt other Soviet units which recently crossed the river were said to have cut lines between there and Fuerstenberg. The Russians also were fighting in the outskirts of Frankfurt's eastern suburb of Damm after whittling down the slender Nazi holdings on the east bank.

One German broadcast also told of a new Soviet penetration to the Oder opposite Schwedt, 36 miles northeast of besieged Kuestrin, and said the Russians apparently intended to try to cross the Oder in that area 45 miles northeast of Berlin.

5,000 Nazis Killed

The Soviet supplemental communique said early today that more than 5,000 Germans had been killed during the day in East Prussia and Pomerania and that 2,600 were captured in East Prussia, including a few remnants of the 311th German Marine battalion at Elbing. The 391st German Infantry regiment was routed at Elbing and its commander, Lieut. Colonel Plauen, taken prisoner, it said.

Moscow dispatches said Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army was laying down one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war on German lines between the Oder and Berlin. The Soviet communique, however, did not mention this sector where the Germans say the Russians have multiple bridgeheads across the river 30 to 43 miles from the capital.

Enemy broadcasts said a terrific battle raged immediately west of Kuestrin, where the Germans were fighting desperately to keep the Russians from encircling that stronghold 16 miles north of Frankfurt. Counterattacks thus far have kept open a corridor to Kuestrin, Berlin said.

Attacking on a 30-mile front in Pomerania, northeast of Berlin, the Russians rolled within ten miles southeast of Stargard, big communications center on the Stettin-Danzig railway and highway, with the capture of Brallentin, 29 miles from Stettin.

The Russians gained up to 11 miles in their swift move to reach Stettin and seal off thousands of German troops in Pomerania in a movement similar to their recent encirclement of 20 to 25 Nazi divisions in East Prussia.

Moscow dispatches said there was a possibility of catching a similar number of divisions in Pomerania, the Polish corridor and Danzig, a 13,500-square-mile territory on the right flank of Zhukov's central salient menacing Berlin.

The Germans said the Russians were only six miles from Stargard—within artillery range—and only 22 miles from Stettin, Pomeranian capital.

Moscow's communique said that Arnswalde, key road junction nine miles southeast of captured Brallentin, had been surrounded. The Russians now are fighting to exterminate its garrison.

At the northeastern end of the Russian front, moving toward the Baltic, Soviet units captured Glambeck in a five mile advance northeast of Reetz, taken Thursday, and at the southwestern end other forces seized Ploenzig in a seven-mile advance northwest of Bernstein.

Reds Seize Doelitz

In an 11-mile advance northwest of Bernstein one Soviet tank column took the junction town of Doelitz, nine miles west of Arnswalde, and 13 miles northwest of Pyritz, where the Germans said the Russians were fighting in the streets.

A Berlin broadcast also announced that the Russians had driven up to the lower Oder river at a new point, opposite Schwedt, west bank town 27 miles southwest of Stettin and 45 miles northeast of Berlin, indicating that the Russians intended to cross the stream in a double flanking movement against the capital and Stettin, site of big ship-building yards.

There were reports that the Soviet Baltic fleet was on the prowl off the German coast, and Berlin announced that the Pomeranian bay above Stettin was being mined, apparently because of the danger of a Russian amphibious operation.

Eight hundred German prisoners were taken in Thursday's operations, for a two-day total of 2,600 in that area.

Moscow did not mention the Silesian sector, but Berlin said that it was "the center of gravity" at present on the Eastern front, and that Marshal Ivan S. Konev was attacking with 'several armies" on a 145-mile front between Glogau, 54 miles northwest of Breslau, and Ratibor, near the Czechoslovakian frontier in the south.

Berlin said that the heaviest fighting was in a triangle between Breslau and Liegnitz, 35 miles to the west, and Glogau, 31 miles north of Liegnitz and 117 miles southeast of Berlin.

Soviet troops were said to have struck nine miles west of Steinau, on the Oder 32 miles northwest of Breslau, and captured Lueben. Ten miles south of Steinau they stormed Parchwitz and rolled on nine miles to the southwest to reach the big industrial city of Liegnitz, 14 miles west of the Oder crossing town of Russian-held Maltsch.

The Breslau garrison's supply and escape corridor now has been narrowed to 32 miles, according to enemy reports which said that the Russians were intent on encircling Breslau during a simultaneous push westward into Saxony.

The Russians had only to close a 32-mile gap between Maltsch, 24 miles northwest of Breslau, and Kurtsch, 12 miles south of the lower Silesian capital, in order to surround the largest German city yet within the grasp of any Allied army in this war.

Breslau, a great communications and industrial prize, has a normal population of 630,000. Most of its civilians were believed to have been evacuated and the Germans have poured in SS troops and thousands of home army recruits in an effort to save it.

In East Prussia the Russians surrounded Elbing, port city of 71,000 on the Friesches Haff, or Baltic lagoon, and also captured Frauenburg on the lagoon 15 miles to the northeast. With these gains Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army now had forged a 33-mile block to prevent the escape of Germans trapped south of Koenigsberg.

Four hundred and 75 miles to the south units of another Soviet Army captured 15 more blocks in the western part of Budapest, Hungarian capital, and took more than 900 prisoners.

Ankara Reports Budapest's Fall

The Ankara radio earlier had broadcast a report that the long siege finally had ended. While this dispatch was premature reports from Moscow indicated that less than one German division still was holding out and predicted their annihilation or capture.

Southwest of Budapest Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine Army was fighting its way back toward Szekesfehervar, 32 miles from the torn Hungarian capital, over ground lost to a huge German counterattack in January.

On a 20-mile front they seized a number of localities, including Sopanya, 10 miles south of Szekesfehervar; Enying, 19 miles southwest of Szekesfehervar, and Siofok, on Lake Balaton 25 miles southwest of Szekesfehervar. All these places previously had been captured by the Russians in December.

Oder Fortifications In Area Shelled

London, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Russians have smashed to within 25 miles Stettin, the port for Berlin, and have exploded a fresh offensive northwest of Breslau, threatening the encirclement of that huge Silesian industrial center, it was reported today.

Marshal Gregory Zhukov unlimbered one of the war's heaviest artillery barrages at fortifications along the Oder, temporarily blocking the direct way to Berlin.

One of the first towns to fall in the new offensive of Marshal Ivan Konev from his Maltsch bridgehead over the Oder was Parchwitz, 30 miles west-northwest of Breslau, the Berlin radio said. The German communiqué said the 1st Ukrainian Army thrusts had carried "almost to the east fringe" of Liegnitz, a rail center of 76,000, a little more than 8 miles southeast of Parchwitz.

Near Nazi Escape Gap

The Russian armies were within 40 miles of closing the escape gap from Breslau, a city of 615,000. The town of Kurtsch, 12 miles south of Breslau, was captured yesterday.

While Moscow had not officially confirmed the launching of the new drive, Moscow dispatches said Konev in heavy fighting was "hitting at Liegnitz, guarding the approaches to Saxony."

Rapid gains toward Stettin were reported in Moscow dispatches since the Soviet commnuiqué announced the capture of Reetz and 100 other towns, the closest 38 miles from the Baltic port.

An Associated Press dispatch placed the distance of the new thrusts at 25 miles from Stettin. A Reuters dispatch said 19.

Zhukov Ahead In Duel

On the Berlin front, Zhukov was outgunning the Germans in the grim duel across the middle Oder, but the Germans declared they had narrowed down or eliminated some of the seven bridgeheads they previously reported thrust across the river.

Moscow still had not officially announced creation of any of these bridgeheads, and correspondents in the Soviet capital said it was unlikely any Soviet announcements would be made until the Russians were sure they had won the battle along this vital zone.

Colonel Ernst von Hammer, military correspondent of the German DNB news agency, reported tonight that "the Red Army has begun its decisive attack on Berlin through Frankfurt-on-Oder," according to Reuter.

Northwest of Kuestrin, where the Germans have reported a bridgehead within 30 miles of Berlin, Moscow correspondents said a particularly heavy curtain of artillery fire was being laid down around Wriezen, a German headquarters 23 miles northeast of Berlin, from Zaekerick and Zellin on the east bank.

Encirclement Declared Broken

Soviet infantrymen with tank support were battling hard to cut between Kuestrin and the Oder just to the west, but the Germans declared an encirclement of the fortress had been broken.

The push toward Stettin threatened to carve a 13,500-square-mile area of Pomerania, the Polish Corridor and Danzig into a huge pocket in which 20 or 30 German divisions might be trapped.

The closest officially announced approach to Stettin, a city of 270,000, was at Sammenthino, 18 miles southeast of Pyritz. Pyritz is 22 miles from Stettin.

Closest To Baltic At Reetz

The deepest drive toward the Baltic was at Reetz, northeast of Sammenthin and 18 miles east of Stargard, one of the chief points guarding the approaches of Stettin.

The Russians were within 13 miles of the Stettin-Stargard-Danzig railway and in this sector were fewer than 60 miles from the Baltic.

The German radio said the fighting in Silesia in the "Breslau-Glogau-Liegnitz triangle has risen to the pitch of a truly gigantic battle."

Aims To Cut Railroad

"The main Soviet drive is directed toward the south, with the aim of cutting the highway and railway line from Liegnitz to Upper Silesia and turning the powerful German bolt line outside Breslau," it said.

The menace to the network of German industries in Saxony and the Sudetenland grew with Konev's steady advance toward the factory town of Strehlen, 21 miles south of Breslau, and Neisse, another manufacturing and railway center 44 miles south-southeast of Breslau.

19 Miles From Neisse

The Russians were officially reported on an arc from 5 to 7 miles north and east of Strehlen and 19 miles from Neisse, in the Grottkau area.

But fresh reports said vanguards were 8 to 11 miles beyond these last-announced positions and were only about 20 miles from the Sudetenland border.

To the southeast, strong armored columns were steadily driving the Germans out of the last bit of southwestern Poland and were reported within 15 miles of Cieszyn (Teschen), gateway to Jablunka Pass.

Potential Anchor

Capture of Stettin, a big shipbuilding center with a prewar population of 270,000, would give the Russians a powerful northern anchor for their Oder river positions stretching southward to Fuerstenberg, where the Oder bends eastward, south of Frankfurt.

As the tempo of the propaganda and military battle increased, one thing emerged as certain—that Zhukov was meeting with bitter resistance in expanding the base of his Oder River salient for a final, all-out assault on the German capital.

Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore, reporting from Moscow, said "it should be emphasized that German resistance is in no way collapsing and that it is extremely fierce up and down the Oder."

"Resistance Not Collapsing"

Gilmore's dispatch said "it should be emphasized that "German resistance is in no way collapsing and that it is extremely fierce up and down the Oder."

German resistance was particularly bitter at Elbing, Poznan and Schneidemuehl, as well as Budapest, he said.

"Koenigsberg Siege Broken"

A morning war summary broadcast from Berlin said Nazi troops had broken the siege of Koenigsburg, capital of East Prussia, in bitter battles that reopened the coastal road. Moscow last night announced the capture of the German stronghold of Kreuzberg, 13 miles south of Koenigsberg, which has been encircled by the Russians for many days.

Berlin also said Nazi troops trapped in Budapest had yesterday "succeeded in advancing their positions."

[The Ankara radio said today that Russian troops had completely cleared the Germans from Budapest.]

HIMMLER READIES HOME FRONT FOR LAST-DITCH STAND

LONDON, Feb. 9—(AP) Heinrich Himmler and his Gestapo held down the lid today on German Reich heaving under increasing invasion blows from east and west.

Reports from continental sources, including Berlin itself, gave a picture of Nazi frantics batting chaos in anticipation of a last-ditch fight within the imperilled capital and beyond, that in the innermost reaches of the country.

Asks Schneidemuehl to Hold

Himmler, emerging as the Nazis' "man of steel," called upon the besieged garrison of Schneidemuehl to hold that strongpoint "for me." This message, broadcast by the German DNB agency, made no mention of Fuehrer Hitler, but another DNB dispatch said that on Himmler's recommendation Hitler had decorated two elite guardsmen for heroism in fighting the Russians.

The fate of Germans who fail to stand fast was illustrated in the announced execution of another mayor, a man named Schroeter, of the little town of Koenigsberg, between Stettin and Berlin. The German radio announced he had been "hanged for leaving his town without receiving evacuation orders."

This was the third such execution announced by Berlin within a fortnight.

The Moscow radio said another execution occurred in Darmstadt, in southwestern Germany, when "Volkssturm battalions ordered to the Eastern front mutinied."

"The mutiny was suppressed and a ringleader shot," it said.

Inside Berlin the Nazis feverishly pressed defense preparations under Himmler's direction.

The German Transocean agency said barricades and firing points were rising everywhere and that tanks rumbled through the streets. Swedish correspondents said the Germans were fearful of parachute attacks, and that the eastern suburbs had been evacuated.

The Moscow radio said Himmler had replaced many high Berlin officials with trusted lieutenants of his own.

A rumor circulating in Copenhagen said German generals had refused to defend Berlin in accordance with orders already issued, the Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen said.

The Paris radio said foreign slave workers who had escaped prowled the capital, attacking Germans from bomb-ruined buildings.

The German radio itself reminded its listeners that "the Russians once temporarily occupied our capital in the time of Frederick the Great."

Transport Services Cease

The Moscow radio quoted Japanese dispatches as saying Berlin bus and subway services had ceased and that food supplies were so scanty further refugees had been forbidden to enter the city.

The Luxembourg radio said all government ministers had left the city but that Nazi party and army headquarters remained.

From Turkey came reports that, even while preparing for an all-out defense of Berlin, Himmler was organizing a German "Maquis" which he would command personally in a last stand in southern Germany and Austria.

The Turkish reports placed the probable final resistance centers in the Black forest, Thuringia, northern Bavaria and the Tyrol and the forested areas of Austria. The German underground organization was said already to total 120,000 men, with a total strength of 700,000 expected.

The Germans' own radio propaganda agencies were operating haphazardly, with long silences between transmissions.

A Danish patriot escaping to Sweden said on the basis of his three weeks underground in Germany he believed the Reich's railways had coal supplies sufficient for only two or three more weeks. He said refugee trains were so packed passengers could not move and at one station he saw 10 children who had frozen to death in the intense cold.

Another Mayor Is Hanged In Germany

London, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Germans announced today the execution of another mayor for fleeing his city before the advancing Red Army.

Mayor Schroeter of Koenigsberg, a small Pomeranian town on the east side of the Oder between Berlin and Stettin, was "hanged for leaving his town without receiving evacuation orders," the Berlin radio said.

The first announcement did not locate Koenigsberg and left the impression that the capital of East Prussia was meant. Later Berlin broadcasts identified the town.

Schroeter was sentenced in court at Schwedt, 30 miles south of Stettin.

Third Such Death

This was the third in a series of Eastern front civilian executions announced by the Germans. Previously the deputy mayor of Breslau was executed and the police president and other officials of Bydgoszcz (Bromberg), the fallen fortress in Poznan province, were executed "for cowardice."

The Paris radio said some foreign slave workers had risen against the Germans even as Heinrich Himmler organized German guerrillas for last-ditch resistance against the Allied invaders.

Withdrawal Forbidden

German authorities were reported to have prohibited further withdrawal of foreign workers from threatened areas in the east on the ground that those already evacuated had created unrest in the rear areas.

Many civilian captives who escaped during the massive daylight bombardment of Berlin by the United States 8th Air Force last Saturday sought shelter in the ruins and "at night they come out of hiding and attack the capital's inhabitants," the Paris station said.

A French Telegraph Agency dispatch from Ankara was quoted as saying that Gestapo Chief Himmler "is putting the finishing touches to an organization of German Maquis which he will command himself."

Mountains And Forests

The broadcast said "the men will be specially trained for fighting in the forests and mountains of Germany" with resistance centers in the Black Forest, Thuringia, northern Bavaria, the mountainous parts of Tyrol and the forest areas of Austria.

The units "now comprise 120,000 men trained in sabotage and harassing tactics, while others still under training will join them soon," said the broadcast, which predicted they would reach a total strength of 700,000.

Refugees Barred, Is Report

The Moscow radio, meanwhile, quoted a Japanese correspondent in Berlin as saying that all subway and bus service in the city had halted and that food supplies were running so low that refugees had been barred from entering.

Stockholm dispatches said Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers reported the Germans had built four zones of defense fortifications east of the capital and were taking special precautions against an airborne assault on the city.

Nazis Demand Germans Give Up All Grains

Drastic Decree Attempts To Meet Developing Food Crisis.

LONDON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The Nazi government commandeered all German grain stocks for bread today as the food crisis increased within the Reich and Heinrich Himmler was reported to have taken over the death-stand defense of Berlin.

A drastic decree broadcast by the German ministry of agriculture ordered peasants to surrender immediately all wheat, barley and rye for bread production, even if their livestock should starve as a result.

Grave Situation

"A grave food and transportation situation has forced the minister of fod and agriculture to issue this decree," said the special announcement on the German radio.

The bin-scraping measure apparently was forced by loss of vast eastern agricultural territories and by demands for feeding hundreds who have streamed into the interior to escape the Russian armies.

The grain decree followed several recent ration reductions. It forbade feeding grain to livestock "except under special permission to be granted in the rarest cases," and ordered "drastic reduction" in the number of hogs.

Himmler Commands

The report that Gestapo Chief Himmler had taken command in Berlin came from the Moscow radio as the Germans acknowledged that the Russians were pouring across the middle Oder and fighting in the "forefield" of the capital's defenses.

A German broadcast, however, indicated Himmler had taken charge of an army group on the eastern front. Reporting the fall of Torun (Thorn) in West Poland, a propaganda ministry official said "this heroic Torun garrison was in a region which was under the command of Himmler personally."

Apparently the army group Himmler was reported commanding was one which was split by Marshal Rokossovsky's breakthrough across East Prussia to the Baltic in the area of Elbing.

Swept By Panic

Moscow also said that "Berlin is swept by a new wave of panic," and said that special Elite guard detachments had been formed to shoot soldiers who tried to surrender.

The Germans broadcast also that preliminaries for an all-out Allied offensive in the west already were "violently shaking" the defenses of that front.

German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, in his weekly article in the magazine Das Reich, wrote that "the German people are undergoing such superhuman suffering" bacause "there is no other way out."

Goebbels, in a gloomy review of the military situation, admitted that territories which had been lost "played a most important part in our war calculations, industrially as well as for food supplies."

Berlin Reporter Sees Big Events Impending

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—A Berlin dispatch to the Swiss newspaper Neue Zuericher Zeitung tonight suggested that important developments were impending in the Nazi capital.

The wireless dispatch, intercepted by London monitors, described chaotic conditions in Berlin and then said "nothing seems to be certain. Maybe the big change, which will overthrow everything and create completely new conditions, will happen tomorrow."

NAZIS EXPLAIN REASON FOR MURDERING TROOPS

LONDON, Feb. 9 — (AP) A German propaganda broadcast in English to Allied troops who are pressing forward along the Western front, declared tonight that brutal acts like those which schocked the world at the outset of the Ardennes breakthrough were justified by the German urge of self-preservation.

"If you have a numerically superior opponent fighting a smaller one" said a German broadcaster who calls himself Hans of Arnhem, "and the smaller one knows that his very existence is at stake, he will — to make up for his inferiority — have to resort to means that appear hard and brutal.

"That is a right which his urge for self-preservation accords him."

The broadcast obviously was calculated to remind Allied troops of the cold-blooded murder of more than 100 U. S. prisoners in a Belgian field last December.

Jet Planes Hit Yank Bombers

FEB 10 1945

19 Big Ships, Three Fighters Downed by Speedy Nazi Craft.

OIL TARGETS BOMBED

Enemy Jets Fly 600 Miles Per Hour, Five Shot Down by Mustangs.

NIGHT

LONDON, Feb. 9—(AP) A mighty force of 1,300 American heavy bombers—guarded by almost 900 fighters—faced the greatest challenge of German jet planes today and escaped with a loss of 19 bombers and three fighters.

The Germans, using new tactics to forestall the American aerial blows, sent up jet-propelled Messerschmitt 262s which flashed in and out of the bomber formations, literally flying rings around the heavy craft.

No Attackers Downed

Baffled gunners aboard the Flying Fortresses and Liberators failed to shoot down any of these attackers, flying at a speed of ten miles a minute, but escorting Mustang pilots knocked down five of the jets.

Eighteen ordinary-type Messerschmitt and Focke Wulf fighters also were blasted from the sky and 41 German planes were destroyed on the ground.

Despite the resistance of the German Luftwaffe, the American armada drove through to a successful completion of its objective, plunging 4,000 tons of explosives on the synthetic oil refinery at Lutzkendorf, factories at Weimar and railway yards at Magdeburg.

The attack by the British-based U. S. Heavyweights was complemented by heavy bombers of the U. S. 15th air force which surged up from Italy and hit oil plants 22 miles west of Vienna.

These daylight raids were preceded by an assault just before dawn by 1,000 RAF heavies which hammered an oil plant at Politz just ahead of the Russians near the Baltic and also a refinery and rail center in the Ruhr.

The U. S. Eighth air force, in announcing the result of the clash with the enemy's jet-propelled fighters, made no comment upon the effectiveness of the German tactics and did not say how many jets participated.

Planes Fired at Will

Some American fliers said, however, that the jets cut in and out of the bombers formations, firing at will from first one flank and hide in clouds after a 15-minute attack by the jets had left the bombthen another. One witness told of a Fortress crippled and forced to er's gunners dizzy.

Bomber crews said the jet planes attacked singly or in pairs, with ME-109s hovering in the distance to guard against American fighter interference.

A spokesman at U. S. Air headquarters said this was the first time the jet planes had probed through the American defenses and attacked the bombers, which usually plod along in formation at about 150 miles an hour.

The bombers' principal target was Lutzkendorf, where a 174-acre synthetic oil plant was bombed visually in clear weather. It was the tenth time American heavies from Britain had raided the plant, which was put out of production for two long periods in 1944 but has been patched up since last November.

Clouds obscured the railway yards at Magdeburg and the bombs were aimed by instrument. Weimar's small-arms plant and truck factory were bombed visually.

American heavy bombers from the U. S. 15th Air Force based in Italy also attacked the Reich during the day, hitting the petroleum plant of Moosbierbaum 22 miles northwest of Vienna.

An Air Force spokesman in Britain said later that "we believe that at the present time all crude oil refineries in Germany are out of production."

He said the Lutzkendorf plant was one of four synthetic factories that were Hitler's sole remaining sources of motor fuel.

1,300 Planes Hit Oil Targets

FEB 10 1945

London, Feb. 9 (AP)—Approximately 1,300 American heavy bombers, escorted by more than 850 fighters, attacked German oil supplies and railways today, adding their weight to what may be a record 24-hour assault.

The main force attacked the synthetic oil plant at Lutzkendorf, a few miles northeast of Leipzig. Other Flying Fortresses and Liberators hit armament and motor transport factories at Weimar, in central Germany, switching yards at Magdeburg and several other undisclosed communications targets.

Jets Attack Bombers

Jet-propelled fighters, flying in pairs and with regular Nazi fighters as escort, made their first concentrated attack on an American bomber formation boring into the Reich.

The jets, traveling from 400 to 600 miles an hour, challenged a Fortress formation over Weimar, where a big motor works was blasted. The jet planes broke through the American fighter screen briefly and charged to within 50 yards before firing.

United States 15th Air Force Liberators and Fortresses from Italy bombed oil targets at Moosbierbaum, 22 miles west of Vienna, through an overcast.

About 1,000 British bombers last night blasted a synthetic oil refinery at Politz 10 miles north of Stettin in an area lying ahead of Soviet troops. British Mosquitos struck sharply at Berlin.

Large Fires Seen

The RAF struck the Politz oil works in two attacks, spaced two hours apart. The refinery is one of the two largest in Germany and specialized in aviation fuel. It virtually was put out of action January 13, the RAF reported, but had been partly rebuilt by impressed labor working around the clock.

Returning crewmen said the bombings were highly concentrated and many large fires and explosions were observed.

British and American tactical air forces based on the continent used improved flying weather to hammer Nazi troops from one end of the front to the other. The United States 9th Air Force's fighters and fighter-bombers flew more than 1,500 sorties while the British topped 1,000 sorties for the first time in daylight.

U.S. Flyers Taken With Russians

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The German radio said tonight that eight American airmen who participated in the attack on Berlin last Saturday had parachuted behind Russian lines and then been captured along with Soviet soldiers on the Oder River front.

Rhine and the Oder rivers by the Anglo-American and Russian offensives. Roughly one-fifth of the so-called German Reich will have been occupied when the Russians reach the Oder line on its full length. The enemy already is feeling the loss of highly-productive areas.

Military and economic experts express doubt that Nazi authorities themselves can yet form a clear picture of their losses in men, materials and resources in recent weeks. Polish districts overrun by the Russians produced considerable agricultural surpluses, especially in grain, potatoes and sugar beets.

Large stocks of potatoes have been left behind by the retreating Germans. Sugar factories in Poland and Silesia were at the height of their season and food factories still were engaged in processing last year's harvest. As a result of this loss it, already has been necessary to reduce German food rations.

Adding to the confusion inside the Reich is the problem of transportation. Where previously the country was divided into carefully balanced transport zones for each foodstuff, there now is but little organization.

Big Three Plan For Occupation of Reich

FEB 10 1945

Conference May Be Shaping Up Preparations In Case Of Immediate Collapse—Longer Range Possibility Also Seen.

By John A. Parris, Jr.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Big Three, realizing the possibility of a sudden collapse of military and civilian resistance in huge areas of Germany under pressure of the joint Allied offensive, are believed whipping plans into shape for occupying the Reich at a moment's notice.

Well-informed quarters here suggested today that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin possibly are preparing two occupation plans, under the first of which specialized forces are being alerted now for emergency duty. The second plan would provide forces for long-term assignment.

There are indications that specialized troops already are being concentrated on the fringes of Germany to take over quickly when all or part of the country collapses. This force includes civil affairs experts and "teams" of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

With Nazi military forces being withdrawn to the south and southeast, British officials said northern Germany might collapse at any time. They based this belief on reports from inside the Reich that many sections of northern Germany already are showing signs of progressive decay.

In any event, the Big Three probably will shape their plans to the extent they will ont be caught napping by any development.

Germany already has been reduced to the heartland between the

SURRENDER TERMS

Ernest G. Fischer

LONDON, Feb. 9—(AP) The Bishop of Birmingham advocated "a new friendliness" toward Germany and abandonment of harsh peace terms today, while the World Trade Union conference received proposals for economic subjugation of the Reich and wholesale transfer of workers and industries elsewhere.

NIGHT

Dr. Ernest William Barnes, 79 year-old church of England scholar who has been bishop of Birmingham since 1924, told the National Peace council that a peace based on maintenance of military force would fail and that he believed hard surrender terms would only hasten a new war.

Cites German Qualities

"The significant people in central Europe when hostilities have ended will still be Germans," the churchman declared. "By reason of their good qualities the Germans became strong; for the same reason they will again become strong, whatever peace terms are enforced."

Two other British churchmen also expressed their views on international affairs today.

The archbishop of Liverpool, Dr. Richard Downey, issued a pastoral letter to his diocese urging elimination of "unintelligent fanatics" and less militarism.

"It is no use preaching peace abroad," he said, "if we are guilty of class hatred and class warfare at home. It is no use constructing elaborate machinery to enforce peace if enmity be in our hearts."

The bishop of Gloucester, Dr. Arthur C. Headlam, reported to his church assembly, said Latvia and Estonia had suffered cruelty and oppression from both Germans and Russians. He called on friends of Russia to "tell that country what a slur they cast on the Allied name by an attempt to destroy these peoples and churches—for that is what is going on."

Hits Churchill's Proposal

The bishop of Birmingham said he found Prime Minister Churchill's proposals for giving Poland a slice of Germany "disquieting."

He also opposed suggestions for making Germany an agricultural country or giving France and Belgium control over the left bank of the Rhine, saying both ideas promised continued use of armed force against Germany, including:

"This promise would lapse within a generation. An American promise would have an even briefer life."

On the other hand, Sir Walter Citrine outlined to the World Trade union conference today a program under which Westphalia, the Ruhr and Rhineland would be placed under international organization similar to the American Tennessee Valley authority and suggested "transfer of large bodies of German workers to accompany transferred heavy industries to countries to which these are assigned."

Citrine, in suggesting the TVA-type organization for German areas, said, "both the Rhine valley and the valley of the Danube, where much the same problems of interstate relationships and conflicting interests exist, would seem to be fitting theaters for development of an international TVA—a Rhine valley authority and a Danube Valley authority."

"We want to see established as speedily as circumstances permit a free trade union movement in Germany," he added. "Just as strongly, we hope to see Germany received back into the fellowship of nations, but both the nation and the workers particularly have a moral liability. Their acceptance of it will be proof that they have learned the lessons of this terrible struggle."

BRITISH BISHOP DENOUNCES HARD

Bishop Assails Proposals For Hard Peace

London, Feb. 9 (AP)—Taking a stand against the imposition of a hard peace on Germany and Japan, the Bishop of Birmingham asserted today that the Germans would become strong again even under a yoke and that harsh terms would only hasten a new war.

The bishop, Dr. Ernest W. Barnes, told a meeting of the National Peace Council that no Christian could approve some of the peace terms which have been "hinted" at, adding that they would "bring undeserved suffering to mil-tions of unimportant Germans powerless to influence their country's policy."

Approval "Disquieting"

"Punishment of so-called war criminals is a matter of little importance," he said. "However, this might be useful as an outlet for popular passion and a Christian might allow that in certain cases it was deserved."

Dr. Barnes said Prime Minister Churchill's approval of territorial changes in Europe, including the grant of a slice of Germany to Poland, was "disquieting." The people, he said, "will still be Germans."

He opposed French and Belgian claims for the annexation or control of territory on the left bank of the Rhine and lashed out at the so-called Morgenthau plan for making Germany into an agricultural country. Such policies, he said, implied a promise to send armies to enforce control.

Sees Quick End Of Promise

"This promise would lapse within a generation," Dr. Barnes added. "An American promise would have an even briefer life."

The bishop added that proper control of German industry would be possible if Britain and America agreed to control their own big business.

"Failing such control," he said, "German industry would be linked up by private agreements with great organizations, at present stronger than governments, which put profits before patriotism and are satisfied when trade is increased by war.

"In this country, though unfortunately not in America, it is already fairly generally accepted that there must ultimately be control of monopolies."

World TVA Plan In Germany Proposed

London, Feb. 9 (AP)—Proposing full control of defeated Germany, Sir Walter Citrine suggested to the World Trade Union Conference today the creation inside the Reich of "an international TVA, including a Rhine Valley Authority and Danube Valley Authority."

Sir Walter warned the labor delegates from more than two score countries that there probably would be no armistice and peace would be "applied practically by the actual occupation of Germany."

"Armistice terms will not be a subject of discussion," he added. "We may have no opportunity beforehand to examine any of the measures the Allied Governments and their military advisers will put into operation in the course of occupying Germany."

Service Of German Workers

As general secretary for the British Trades Union Congress, Sir Walter suggested, nevertheless, that final terms should include the service of German workers in rebuilding ruined cities, monetary reparations, abolition of memorials glorifying military leaders, punishment of war criminals, complete re-creation of a free trade-union movement and establishment of a free press.

Sir Walter suggested that breaking up German industry might involve "the wholesale transfer of large bodies of German workers to accompany the transfer of heavy industries to the countries to which they are assigned."

Consistent With Oaks Proposal

"Both the Rhine Valley and the valley of the Danube would seem to be fitting theaters for developments of an international TVA," he added. "Such developments are not inconsistent with the general aims and methods of the plan formulated at Dumbarton Oaks."

Although declaring it extremely unlikely that the United States or Britain would ask for forced German labor, he said Britain "must reserve her claim in this matter."

"None will deny the right of Russia, France, Belgium, Holland and other Allied countries that have known the horrors of German invasion and occupation to such service as German workers can give in rebuilding ruined cities and all the apparatus of civilized life which the German armed forces set themselves deliberately to destroy," he said.

Control Of Economy

Sir Walter argued for complete Allied control over the entire German economy for years, or even generations if necessary, to secure full reparations and the restitution of all stolen property.

He also urged complete re-education of German children and elimination of "war memorials with street names, tablets and statues proclaiming Germany's military victories and glorifying her military leaders."

Text of Citrine Proposals

By Wireless to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 9—Following is the text of a nine-point program of how to deal with Germany proposed by Sir Walter Citrine today for the consideration of the world-trade union conference:

(1) That Germany must be completely and beyond all question defeated by the Allied armed forces and that there can be no question of Germany's surrender under such conditions. No pretext must be left for Germany to say that she laid down her arms under terms, such as the German militarists manufactured out of the acceptance of President Wilson's fourteen points after the last war.

It is necessary to destroy, once and for all, the myth of Germany's military invincibility. Future generations of German youth shall not grow up in the midst of war memorials with street names, tablets and statues proclaiming German military victories and glorifying her military leaders. German militarism will get no new lease of life from the outcome of this war.

(2) Germany's blood-guilty war leaders and war criminals must be brought to justice. Not only must they pay the full penalty of their crimes but every German man or woman who has taken an active part in the atrocities of which a record exists must be brought to trial and punishment.

Would Seize Stolen Property

(3) Germany must make restitution of all stolen property of every description whether looted from conquered cities, expropriated during military occupation, exacted from municipalities or communes—or plundered from individual citizens. No German, high or low, shall be left in possession of any ill-gotten gains, so far as these can be traced and recovered.

(4) Germany must make reparation to the extent of all that is humanly possible, in services, goods and money; and this obligation must be met even though it involves the continuance of Allied control over the entire German economy for many years, and perhaps for generations.

(5) Germany must be wholly disarmed by the surrender of all munitions; the dissolution of the German general staff and the disbandment of all her armed forces; the closing down of all German war factories; the dispersal of all war-like stores and raw materials used in war manufacture; the dismantling of all industrial establishments in which war production has been carried on, and the outright prohibition of the production and use of aircraft. These are immediate short-term disarmament measures.

Would Demilitarize Reich

(6) Germany must be demilitarized. What President Roosevelt has called "her war-making powers" must be utterly eliminated. All staff colleges and agencies of military instruction must be closed; the wearing of uniforms, except by the police, prohibited to every kind of association, league, club or organization and by such necessary changes in the political, economic, social and territorial structure of the German Reich as will destroy the foundation of the German military system.

(7) Germany must be democratized by the establishment of such political and economic conditions within which the framework of the institutions of free citizenship can be developed under stringent guarantees, including particularly the re-establishment of a free trade union movement, freedom of political and cultural associations and freedom of the press and of public meetings.

(8) German youth must be re-educated in an atmosphere cleansed of the Prussian militarist tradition with its glorification of war and its contemptuous and hostile attitude toward democratic ideals.

(9) Germany, thus transformed, must be reintegrated ultimately with the European community and with the new world order that the United Nations are resolved to establish in the coming peace settlement.

NAZI PLANES BUILT IN 'MORTUARY'

London, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—A Budapest establishment camouflaged as an undertaking parlor has been found to be the entrance to an underground aircraft factory, the Moscow radio said today.

R. A. F. HELPED POLES

London, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—The Polish Telegraph Agency said today that British planes landed in Poland while it was under German occupation, supplying arms and maintaining regular liaison with the Polish underground. Orders from the Polish Government here dissolving the underground home army permitted the disclosure, the agency said.

British View On Civilian Goods

London, Feb. 9 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Aircraft Production, said today that peacetime manufacture would start "very soon" if the speed of the Russian drive was maintained.

This was one of the most optimistic statements yet made by a member of the British Government. Sir Stafford addressed Scottish aircraft workers.

French Ship Is Lost.

Paris, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—The French Navy Ministry announced today the loss of the escort vessel Dent as the result of a collision with a merchant ship while on convoy duty in undisclosed waters. All crew members were saved.

Belgian Cabinet Talks Gaining

Brussels, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—Catholics were understood today to have consented to sit in the same cabinet with communists, thus removing one of the most difficult problems facing Achille Van Acker, the Socialist, who probably will be Belgium's next Premier.

RAF PLANES POUND VERONA RAILYARDS

ROME, Feb. 9—(AP) Railyards at Verona, the crossroads of all-important lines supplying German armies in northern Italy, smoldered today after a massive overnight attack by RAF heavy bombers.

Swarms of American medium bombers and fighter-bombers had spent yesterday blasting new gaps in the battered communications which the Nazis must keep open for supplies or for eventual escapes from Italy.

The Americans were credited with cutting tracks at 55 places and destroying or damaging 34 locomotives, 100 rail cars and 107 other vehicles.

Verona, site of the RAF's follow-up assault, is at the intersection of the Brenner pass route northward through the Alps to Germany and the main east-west line across northern Italy from Milan to Austria and Yugoslavia.

Rising temperatures brought a foretaste of spring to the muddy battlefront. The only important actions were reported from the western coastal sector and from the nearby Serchio river valley.

American Fifth army patrols advanced 300 yards along the coast against relatively light opposition, but in the Serchio valley there was sharp fighting when the Germans attacked in company strength against newly-won Allied positions near the village of Burca, north of Gallicano.

A Fifth army patrol ambushed 30 Germans northwest of Castelnuovo, between the Serchio river and the west coast, and killed or wounded half the enemy party at a cost of four casualties.

Nazi Counterblow Struck In Italy

Rome, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Germans have launched a counterattack in company strength against positions newly regained by the 5th Army in the Serchio Valley north of Gallicano, Allied headquarters announced today.

It began a few hundred yards north of the village of Burca, and the official report said fighting still was in progress.

Clashes were reported in other 5th Army sectors, but on the whole there was no large-scale action on the front.

Patrols Clash In West

On the west coast, Allied patrols drove forward to positions as much as 300 yards ahead of the lines.

Northwest of Castelnuovo a 5th Army patrol ambushed 30 Germans and killed or wounded half of them at a cost of four casualties. Several patrol clashes occurred in the 8th Army sector.

German working parties strengthening defenses on the west bank of the Senio River drew Allied artillery fire.

Streams Still Out Of Banks

Fair weather and higher temperatures prevailed over much of the front, but streams still were out of their banks from thaws in the 5th and 8th Army sectors.

This and German dynamiting of dikes of the Senio River in front of the 8th near the Adriatic, are likely to prove barriers against an immediate Allied offensive or quick pursuit should the Germans choose to withdraw to the Alps.

U.S. FORCES GAIN IN ITALIAN DRIVE

Yank Attack Supported by Tanks, Planes Advances Along Coast.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ABOVE PIETRA SANTA, Italy, Feb. 8—(Delayed)—(AP) Negro troops of the U. S. 92nd division, striking by surprise at dawn today in an attack supported by tanks, artillery and planes, made advances of up to a mile in this Ligurian coastal area, former playground of wealthy Fascists.

Later the Germans made heavy counterattacks in the hills surrounding the Serchio river and regained some ground, but the Doughboys held virtually all of their gains in the coastal area.

American tanks, carrying soldiers on their backs, spearheaded the attack and crossed the Fiume-Fafoce canal about three miles south of Massa.

The tank-riding soldiers were led by Capt. Harold E. Johnson of Roxbury, Mass.

A heavy weapons outfit led by Capt. Roy W. Sorrell of Washington, D. C., backed up the infantry with gunners like Pvt. Will E. Stevens of Savannah, Ga., and Pvt. Carey Dilber of Baltimore giving continued support.

Other troops fighting farther inland met stiffer resistance from enemy mortar and machinegun fire, but word came back tonight that units succeeded in taking a strategic height.

BONOMI ASKS 'BIG 3' TO RELAX TERMS.

ROME, Feb. 9—(AP) Premier Ivanoe Bonomi has telegraphed the "Big Three" conference asking that the Allied armistice terms for Italy be relaxed, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

The Premier's appeal was understood to be similar to one made by Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi to Harry Hopkins when President Roosevelt's adviser visited Rome recently on his way to the "Big Three" meeting.

a revision of the financial clauses in the armistice as well as removal of Allied control over Italy where it did not directly concern military problems.

The Italian government has asserted recently that the nation's economy is unable to bear the strain of the financial burden imposed by the armistice and has asked repeatedly for an end to Allied control of administrative affairs.

Gigli Received By Pope Pius

Vatican City, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—Pope Pius XII today received Beniamino Gigli, opera star recently exonerated by the Italian Musicians Syndicate of collaboration with the Germans and Fascists.

Revolt In Berlin Near, Swedes Are Told

Stockholm, Feb. 10 (AP)—"It is the evening before the revolution in Berlin," the Free German Press Agency said yesterday in reporting what it claimed was an interview in Malmoe with a refugee from Germany.

The story, printed in the newspaper Expressen, said, "There have been no real demonstrations yet, but the situation can change any day, because for the first time Berliners are suffering from hunger, and this has shattered the good humor of even the most reasonable persons."

Women are the most downhearted because of recent developments, the article continued, and predicted that "it will be the women who cause Hitler's downfall. Now and then troops of hungry and shivering women march to the town hall and demand immediate distribution of potatoes, vegetables and coal."

Nazi Reprisals Reported

Stockholm, Feb. 9 (AP)—Nineteen Norwegians were reported executed today on charges of "terrorism" in reprisal for the assassination of Maj. Gen. Carl Martinsen, commander of Quisling SS troops in Norway, who was shot and killed in Oslo yesterday.

First reports said eight were executed after Nazi Puppet Premier Vidkun Quisling refused applications for mercy.

Several hours later the official Quisling telegraph agency reported another eleven were shot after a court-martial convicted them of "assassination attempts and sabotage."

15 MORE HOSTAGES MURDERED IN OSLO

Norwegians Called Members of Patriot Group Sabotaging Foe's Ships, Factories

FEB 10 1945

STOCKHOLM, Saturday, Feb. 10 (AP)—Fifteen more Norwegians were executed Friday on charges of being members of a patriotic organization committing sabotage against German-operated factories, railways and ships.

This brought to thirty-four the number put to death in the last two days during the Germans' newest wave of terror in Norway, the Telegraph Bureau announced.

The nineteen executions Thursday were reported to be in reprisal for the assassination of Maj. Gen. Carl Martinsen, commander of the Quisling Elite Guard troops in Norway, while driving to his office in Oslo.

The German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau said "the atmosphere in Oslo is indescribable, and it is not too much to say that the people are upset."

Explosions Heard

Stockholm, Feb. 9 (AP)—Heavy explosions from the direction of the Danish capital of Copenhagen were heard for an hour this morning by residents of the Swedish island of Ven, an Aftonbladet correspondent said.

Foggy weather prevented observation. The Germans are reported to have moved cruisers and torpedo boats from the Polish port of Gdynia to Copenhagen harbor.

Generals Refuse

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9 (AP)—Aftontidningen said today a rumor was circulating in Copenhagen, Denmark, that German generals had refused to defend Berlin in accordance with orders already issued.

Anti-Plastiras Propaganda Active

Athens, Feb. 9 (AP)—A new campaign of propaganda against the British-backed Government of Premier Nicholas Plastiras became evident today as conferences continued seeking settlement of differences between the Government and the EAM.

Secret newspapers, such as the Communist Rizospastic, have begun to reappear. Last night the EAM radio was heard again. Leaflets also are employed.

The propaganda campaign complaints include delays in collaboration trials, dismissal of hundreds of civil servants pending investigation of their possible participation in the EAM-ELAS revolt, and the size of the wages paid those civil servants retained.

The moderate newspaper Eleutheria today criticized the Government for failing to speed up the trial of persons accused of collaboration with the Germans, such as former Premier Jean Rallis.

The trial of alleged terrorists has been swifter. Two of them were sentenced to death by a military court in Piraeus today.

A communiqué from the peace conference reported only that "during yesterday's discussions several technical questions regarding discrimination of offenses and also details of ELAS disarmament were examined and solved."

AMERICANS MEET GREEKS

Three Discuss Free Exchange of World News in Athens

ATHENS, Feb. 9 (AP)—Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of The New York Herald Tribune; Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, and Ralph McGill, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, met with Greek leaders today for a discussion of free exchange of world news.

With United States Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh, they called on Foreign Minister John Sofianopoulous, and with Press Under-Secretary George Melas they called on the Premier, Gen. Nicholas Plastiras. The Americans also had an audience with Archbishop Damaskinos, the Regent. Tomorrow the three men will receive Greek newspaper editors.

Students Riot in Cairo

Boy, 14, Is Killed; Uprisings Ascribed to a Political Party

CAIRO, Feb. 9 (AP).—The government announced today that a fourteen-year-old boy had been killed, fifty-four policemen injured and hundreds of persons arrested during student riots this week, accounts of which had been banned by censorship since the demonstrations started Tuesday.

The communique said that agents of an Egyptian political party had incited the rioting, although the students demonstrated ostensibly for food and clothing.

CHINESE FORCES LAUNCH ATTACKS IN 3 PROVINCES

CHUNGKING, Feb. 9—(AP) Successful Chinese counterattacks in three provinces were reported by the High command tonight as preparations for a Chinese-Allied offensive against the Japanese were announced by Maj. Gen. Kung Chi-Kuang.

Chinese forces struck back at the invading Japanese in Hunan, Kiangsi and Kwangtung provinces.

They were reported to have recaptured Chihing, 30 miles east of Japanese-occupied Kukong, which lies on the Canton-Hankow railroad in Kwangtung.

Recapture of Chihing severed a supply line to Japanese forces which threatened the important wolfram mining center of Tayu in Kiangsi province after pushing past Chihing to take a U. S. 14th air force base at Namyung.

Counterattacking Chinese also progressed to the southeastern suburbs of Suichwan, American air base recently captured by Japanese, while fighting continued inside Kanhsien, site of another fallen air base 50 miles to the south.

In southern Hunan province the Chinese retook Ichang, about 100 miles south of Hengyang, and pushed beyond it to establish contact with another Chinese force which dislodged Japanese from strongpoints to the east.

A Japanese drive near Yuyang in northern Hunan province was reported intercepted and part of the Japanese force destroyed.

A prediction that American troops could invade the China coast at will was made by Gen. Kung, Chinese army spokesman, in announcing the plan for a Chinese-Allied offensive.

He said Chinese troops would be ready to collaborate fully with Americans in any landing.

Declaring the Japanese had spread their forces too thin along the coast and the interior as well, he asked: "if the Japanese couldn't defend Luzon, how could they possibly defend China, with its far longer coastline?"

Ridiculing Japanese claims of victory on the Asiatic continent, the general said Chinese still held several parts of the 685-mile-long Canton-Hankow railroad and had taken the initiative in some areas.

An American communique reported destruction of 26 Japanese locomotives, damaging of five others and knocking out of several railroad bridges in sweeping attacks by U. S. 14th air force fighter planes around Changsha.

Chinese Advance In 3 Provinces

Chungking, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced tonight that successful counterattacks in three provinces had severed the Kwangtung-Kiangsi highway east of Kukong, reached the southwest suburbs of the fallen United States air base city of Suichwan in Kiangsi, and retaken a rail town in Hunan.

The Kwangtung attack, launched last Saturday, overran Chihing, severing a supply line to a Japanese drive which had swept on into the United States 14th Air Force base at Namyung.

It had threatened Tayu, a great wolfram mining center, which the Chinese said still was in the defenders' hands.

Still Fighting In Kanhsien

To the north in Kiangsi, the Chinese opened a counterattack last Monday in the direction of Suichwan, while to the south some 50 miles away, the high command said, fighting still raged in Kanhsien, site of another abandoned United States airbase.

The other attack, in southern Hunan, also opened last Saturday, resulted in the recapture of Ichang, west of the Canton-Hankow railway about 100 miles south of Hengyang.

Contact was established the next day, with Chinese dislodging the enemy from strong points about 5 miles to the east, the high command said.

Chinese armies are speeding preparations for a counteroffensive against the Japanese in collaboration with Allied forces, Maj. Gen. Kung Khi-Kuang, Chinese army spokesman, declared today.

Ridiculing the idea that the Japanese are winning on the Asiatic continent, Kuang said:

"The time really has come for Japan to accept unconditional surrender."

Japs Lose 25 Locomotives

He asked how Japan expected to defend her holdings in China with its far longer coastline if they could not defend Luzon, and asserted that Americans could land on the China coast at will.

Fourteenth Air Force fighter planes destroyed 25 locomotives, damaged five others and knocked out a number of railway bridges in sweeping attacks upon Japanese communications north, south and east of Changsha, an American communiqué said today.

Two planes were lost in the forays and two enemy aircraft were downed, the bulletin said.

British 14th Army Fighting At Chauk

Calcutta, Feb. 9 (AP)—British 14th Army troops, advancing approximately 55 miles from their last reported positions near Tilin on the Myittha River, now are operating against light Japanese resistance at Chauk, 110 miles southwest of Mandalay, Allied headquarters announced today.

This advance marked the 14th Army's deepest southward penetration in central Burma and constituted a flanking threat to all Japanese communications southward along the Irrawaddy River.

Troops northwest of Chauk across the river now are engaged in mopping up pockets of enemy resistance, it was announced. Enemy commanders evidently are experiencing the same difficulty the Allies faced in 1942 when they found it impossible to man the entire length of the Irrawaddy.

From Seipyu, across the river from Chauk, dirt roads lead 60 miles southward to Minbu, an important west bank town. Prome, key to the Irrawaddy delta, is 150 airline miles south of Chauk and the same distance north of Rangoon.

Chinese Open New Army Headquarters

Chungking, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Central News Agency said today a Chinese Army headquarters was established at Kunming, with Gen. Ho Yin Chin, China's chief of staff, as commander in chief and Gen. Lung Yum, Governor of Yunnan Province, as vice-commander.

Such a step would be looked upon here as an indication of closer cooperation between Chinese and United States military authorities in South China, in preparation for the coming Chinese offensive.

Kunming, capital of Yunnan, is a major base for United States operations.

AMERICANS FIGHT TRAPPED JAPS IN MANILA STREETS

FEB 10 1945

Meet Fierce Resistance in Drive to Eliminate Defenders.

PUSH TOWARD DOCKS

Gen. Griswold Charges Enemy Destruction of City Is Wanton.

MANILA, Saturday, Feb. 10—(AP) American infantrymen, driving down mined streets against pillboxes and mortars firing from the upper stories of office buildings, gained 2,000 yards toward Manila's prized dock area yesterday. It was clear the trapped Japanese defenders would contest every yard of ground.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, describing the enemy's resistance there as a "final stand," said today house-to-house fighting was "of the fiercest."

Fires Still Burning

Enemy-set fires still were burning in three sections of Manila. Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, commander of the 14th corps, told Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson that "a lot of this destruction is wanton and of no military purpose."

Griswold said the Americans were virtually powerless to stop the enemy demolition crews who have turned much of Manila's heart into blackened ruins.

The 37th infantry Yanks driving southwestward from their amphibious crossing of the Pasig river were heading into the flame-swept old intramuros district, a virtual death trap for its concentrated populace.

In the intramuros district the enemy made clear with mortars and entrenchments that the American campaign to clean up the southern half of Manila would be long and bitter.

(NBC reporter George Thomas Folster said the Americans were advancing against heavy opposition from enemy troops in reinforced concrete pillboxes and heavy fire from office buildings.

("The Japs have mounted heavy guns on the second floors of the modern buildings," Folster said. "They are firing down on the American troops practically over open sights, and they are shelling the north bank of the Pasig river in an attempt to impede our progress over the river.

Streets Heavily Mined

("Many of the streets have been heavily mined, and the removal of these mines is being made very difficult because the Japs are keeping covering shellfire over the whole sector.

("Most of the enemy's big guns and mortars appear to be still intact, for they are continuing a heavy, arresting fire over much of the city of Manila."

(Folster said there was no indication how long it would take to complete the battle for Manila, "but the enemy defense is so strong and so determined that it is certain to take considerably more time yet to clean out the Japs.")

The intramuros, or old walled city, is between the Malacanan palace, where the Pasig river was crossed, and the south Manila docks. This closely built commercial-residential district containing great numbers of Filipinos and Chinese was set afire by enemy demolition charges on Thursday.

Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson, in Manila, said three separate fires continued to redden the capital's skies Friday but they seemed to be diminishing.

Five battalions of the 148th and 129th infantry regiments gained 2,000 yards against the holed up Nipponese since crossing the Pasig Thursday morning.

To the south, two Japanese counterattacks near Tagaytay, where the 11th airborne paratroopers landed to begin their lightning drive into south Manila, were "bloodily repulsed."

In bitter fighting on Bataan, 38th division troops reached the town of Moron in a 10-mile advance from the captured Olongapo naval base on Subic bay.

Sixth division Yanks secured crossings on the upper Pampanga river at Rizal and Bongabon in clearing the enemy from the upper section of the central Luzon plain.

Bombers Hit Formosa

In low-level sweeps over Formosa, fighters and medium bombers destroyed three locomotives, 10 railway cars and many highway vehicles, and sank three small freighters and five barges. Communications lines were torn up.

American warplanes made widespread raids, sweeping the China coast and bombing Formosa again. Many fires and explosions were set off at the Heito airdrome on Formosa.

MacArthur said the Manila action was particularly fierce.

"The 37th and 11th divisions are engaged in house to house and street combat," he reported.

The 11th airborne Yanks were last reported in the vicinity of Nichols airfield, on the south fringe of the Philippine capital. Prime objectives of the 37th division, which crossed the Pasig river in amphibious tanks Thursday, was the south Manila dock area.

Yanks Driving For Manila's Dock Area

Manila, Feb. 9 (AP) — United States Infantrymen, splashing across the Pasig River in amphibious tanks, drove toward the prized dock section of Manila today in the face of new enemy demolition charges set off in the old Intramuros district, a death trap for its congested Filipino and Chinese residents.

Unseasonal rain dampened many of the scattered fires set wantonly by the desperate and trapped Japanese defenders, but the Intramuros, or walled city, blazed so fiercely for a time that the heat could be felt blocks away.

[Some fires are still burning but the worst of the flames seem to have burned themselves out, George Thomas Folster reported in an NBC broadcast from Manila.

[He said a regiment of doughboys crossed the Pasig today "and there is hope that the property-destroying phase of the battle for Manila may be nearing a close."]

Crossing Near Palace

The 37th Infantry Division, under Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler of Columbus, Ohio, entered southern Manila by crossing the Pasig near the governmental Malacanan Palace and began to root out the Japanese who had destroyed the four bridges.

[The Tokyo radio said today in a broadcast heard by the Blue Network that Malacanan Palace was in flames and Japanese troops in Manila "are holding a line" from the palace to Manila station.

["Japanese forces have moved or destroyed all important military installations," another broadcast said, "and only minimum forces remain to preserve order."]

Toward Harbor Facilities

The Yanks worked south and southwestward through comparatively open spaces around the gas works, with the harbor facilities their prime immediate objective.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today the 37th was "assisting the 11th Airborne Division in clearing south Manila."

Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing's 11th Airborne, which swept into the suburbs after a parachute invasion to the southwest, was last reported fighting around Nichols Field, on the southern fringe of Manila. Small-scale but stiff resistance slowed this spearhead. There was no indication whether the enemy pocket at the airdrome had been eliminated or bypassed.

Less Artillery Fire

Japanese artillery fire began to taper off yesterday after two days of continuous shelling of American-held north Manila.

MacArthur announced the destruction of more than 200 Nipponese tanks — more than two thirds of the striking power of the Japanese 2d Armored Division—in operations on the central Luzon plain, where the enemy is slowly being driven into the eastern foothills.

The important highway towns of Munoz, Rizal and Lupao have been captured by Yanks of the 6th Division, under Maj. Gen. Edwin D. Patrick, of Ruidoso, N.M., and the 25th, under Maj. Gen. Charles L. Mullins, of Los Angeles. Lupao's capture virtually completed the campaign to secure the left flank on Luzon.

Enemy losses have been very heavy in both personnel and material in this sector, Gen. MacArthur said. He reported 1,242 troops killed at Munoz alone.

American planes poured another heavy bomb load on Corregidor fortress, at the entrance to Manila Bay, starting large fires in defense positions.

In Bataan, the 11th Corps under Major-Gen. Charles P. Hall was last reported probing southward along the east coast of the peninsula after five days of some of the roughest jungle fighting of the Pacific war. Yank forces have sealed off the base of the peninsula and are moving down for the cleanup.

Bougainville Natives' Faith in U. S. Shaken

Guam, Marianas Islands, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—Grave-faced over the problem of explaining to his simple native Catholic congregation why the Americans have not yet driven the Japanese from Bougainville island in the Solomons, Bishop Thomas J. Wade said: "I will have to start from the beginning again to re-establish the mission there."

Bishop Wade, vicar delegate for the armed forces of the United States from New Zealand to the Marianas (excluding New Guinea) formerly was bishop of the northern Solomons. He and his secretary, Father Albert Lebel, recalled in an interview how they used to tell Bougainville natives each month "Americans be here on one more moon," but they never came and eventually the missionaries themselves were taken out by rescue craft.

Forecasting the same problem in rebuilding the natives' faith in Americans in other by-passed areas the Bishop recalled how, while hiding from the Japanese, he overheard the natives saying "Bishop he talk true but maybe he no savvy."

These words meant, the Bishop said, that perhaps Japan, after all, had become stronger than the Bishop's native land. This is the attitude returning missionaries must face, he added.

Giving "strictly my own personal opinion," Bishop Wade said he feared that Catholic priests sent from Japan to such missions may have been more Japanese than Catholic. "I think they were not out for the interests of the Catholic church but for other purposes."

W. H. DONALD FREED FROM MANILA CAMP

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 9—(AP) W. H. Donald, famous adviser to China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, has been liberated from a Manila internment camp after a three-year masquerade during which the Japanese vainly sought how they could kill him, it was disclosed here today.

Donald, an Australian, went to China in 1904 as a correspondent for the old New York Herald. Then he became secretary to Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, first president of the Chinese Republic, and finally the most trusted foreign confidant and counselor of Chiang.

The Japanese long had dubbed him "the evil spirit of China," from their point of view, and had offered rewards for his capture, dead or alive. Once they almost got him by accident when his plane was attacked over China, but he escaped in clouds.

Finally in 1942 the Japanese caught him in the Philippines as he was en route back to China from a visit to New Zealand, but they did not know they had the man they had sought so long.

Allied censorship, in what seemed a futile effort to save his life, forbade any mention of the fact that he was a prisoner, and his relatives in Sydney kept silent and did not try to communicate with him.

A slip of the tongue by Dr. T. V. Soong, now premier of China, disclosed that Donald was held by the Japanese, and the enemy began a long sifting of its prisoners to identify him. Their failure was said to be due to the fact that he gave his correct age, 69, and the Japanese in Manila thought they were seeking a much younger man.

Another factor may have been that Donald, despite his close and long association with China's rulers, spoke almost no Chinese.

And, as he himself once said in an interview in 1937:

"I expect nothing ever to happen according to logic or to Hoyle. Therefore I am never disappointed."

Japs' Hated Foe Unrecognized

Sidney, Australia, Feb. 9 (AP)—W. H. Donald, Australian-born adviser to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and one of Japan's most implacable enemies, has been freed from a Manila internment camp after three perilous years during which recognition by his captors would have meant instant death.

The Japanese had a high price on Donald's head, and the fact that he had fallen into enemy hands in the Philippines was a closely guarded Allied secret.

Even after Dr. T. V. Soong, now Premier of China, inadvertently disclosed that Donald had been captured en route from New Zealand, the Japanese were unable to locate him.

A Japanese investigator at the Manila internment camp questioned Donald, who had given his correct age of 69, and decided he was too old for the man they were hunting.

33 Years In China

The Australian Government helped Donald by clamping a censorship on all references to him and advised his family in Sydney to keep silent about him.

Donald spent more than 33 years in China as a newspaper correspondent, as secretary to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, first president of the Chiviser.

Before the war, Donald tried to stir Australia to the danger of sending scrap iron to Japan when China was fighting for her existence.

He was known to the Japanese as "the Evil Spirit of China."

CARRIER PLANES POUND IWO JIMA

FEB 10 1945

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Forward Area, Feb. 10—(Saturday)—(AP) Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands was hammered Feb. 8 for the 64th consecutive day as U. S. aircraft made wide-ranging attacks on Japanese-held bases from the Kuriles to Yap, Adm Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Army Liberators of the strategic air force bombed Iwo Jima, troublesome Japanese base on the B-29 road to Tokyo. Three enemy interceptors attacked the U. S. flight, knocking down one of the bombers. A Japanese fighter was shot down.

Eleventh Army Air force Liberators bombed Kataoka on Shimushu in the Kuriles in the far northern Japanese archipelago, and Nimitz said all planes returned safely.

Fourth Marine aircraft smashed a bridge on Yap in the Western Carolines while Marine Hellcats and Corsairs bombed and strafed installatione on Rota in the Marianas.

Films of 'Fighting Lady' Are Destined for Tokyo

By The Associated Press.

ABOARD A UNITED STATES CARRIER at Sea, Feb. 5 (Delayed) — Copies of the motion picture "The Fighting Lady," the story of an American aircraft carrier in action, may be dropped over Tokyo so the Japanese can see the march of United States military strength across the Pacific.

Lieut. Comdr. Dwight Long, photography officer while 75 per cent of the picture was being filmed on this carrier, said the suggestion for dropping copies on Tokyo came from Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz after he witnessed the movie.

"When we saw eight Japanese attacking planes falling in flames the admiral commented the Japanese should see the picture some day with bombs and our compliments," Commander Long said.

The action shots were filmed through special Navy gun cameras that operate automatically.

U-Boats Sank 6 Allied Ships Off Nova Scotia

Nazi Snipers' 22-Day Toll Is Revealed at Halifax; Censorship Ban Lifted

FEB 10 1945

HALIFAX, Feb. 9 (AP)—Long-range German submarines, sniping at Allied convoys bound into and out of Canadian ports this winter, torpedoed a Canadian minesweeper and five merchantmen within one period of twenty-two days off the Nova Scotia coast, it was disclosed tonight.

The enemy underseas craft apparently were making a desperate attempt to cut the Allied North Atlantic supply line at its western anchor.

The sinkings included the minesweeper Clayoquot, a Canadian merchant ship, and four vessels of other nationalities. A total of thirty-six men, eight Navy men and the rest merchant seamen, lost their lives in the six sinkings.

The loss of the Clayoquot was announced by the Navy Jan. 31 but details did not become available until a censorship ban was lifted tonight.

It apparently was these sinkings which prompted Defense Minister General A. G. L. McNaughton to declare on Jan. 24 that the North Atlantic was "alive with German submarines" and that "we are having ships sunk day by day."

It can now be disclosed that the underseas raiders have been observed for weeks along the North Atlantic seaboard. They were spotted at different points close to the Nova Scotia coast from Cape Breton to Yarmouth. The first ones were were seen weeks before the initial attack.

Kobe Bombed 6th Day Straight, Tokyo Reports

San Francisco, Feb. 9 (AP)—Kobe was bombed today in the sixth consecutive daily B-29 raid on Japan's sixth-largest city, Tokyo radio reported.

A single Superfortress made today's sortie at 2 A.M., and another B-29 reconnoitered the Tokyo-Yokohama area in daylight for more than an hour, the Japanese reported in a broadcast recorded here.

A strong flight of B-29's from the Marianas started the attacks on Kobe Sunday. Since then Tokyo broadcasts have reported one or more Superforts on daily harassing raids between sunset and dawn.

NORWEGIAN DOCTOR SHOT

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP) The Royal Norwegian Information service said today that Dr. Haakon Saethre, internationally-known neurologist, was one of 19 Norwegians executed in Oslo Thursday night within a few hours after Karl Marthinsen, head of the quisling gestapo, was assassinated.

Wainwright, 176 Other Captives Shifted by Foe to Manchukuo

FEB 9 1945

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The Japanese shifted 177 American prisoners of war, including Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainright, from a prison camp on Formosa to Manchukuo, the War Department announced today.

Wainwright, who became commander in the Philippines after General Douglas MacArthur left for Australia early in 1942, was taken prisoner by the Japanese after the surrender of Corregidor on May 6, 1942.

The transfer to Manchukuo, which may have been a reflection of Japanese fear of an invasion of Formosa, was completed in November, the War Department has been advised. The prisoners were moved from camps on Formosa to Hoten camp, at Mukden, in Manchukuo. The prisoners moved, the department said, had been at Camps 1, 5 and 6, at Taihoku; Camp 3 at Kauchu, Camp 4 at Kagi and Camp 2 at Heito.

The group included seventeen generals besides General Wainwright, 119 Army colonels, six Navy chaplains and thirty-four enlisted men.

The War Department issued the following list, with next of kin:

America Keeps Look Out For Nazi War Criminals

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP) American observers in Spain and Portugal are keeping a sharp lookout these days for fleeing Nazi war criminals, acting Secretary of State Grew disclosed today.

At the same time he called indirectly for definite assurances from neutral countries that they will not harbor Axis ring leaders who escape from Germany.

Britain-Argentina Sign Pact

The subject came up for a thorough airing at Grew's news conference, in connection with reports that Britain and Argentina made a secret agreement last Summer by which the Argentines pledged themselves to shut their doors against Hitler and his ilk.

The agreement was revealed in Buenos Aires after Lord Vansittart had criticized Argentina and other neutrals in a speech in the House of Lords at London three days ago.

The Argentines were reported as saying that this constituted a violation of the agreement; that Britain had promised to refrain from such criticism in return for the assurances. Britain informed the United States of the correspondence. That was the only part Washington had in this particular phase of war criminal precautions.

There is still concern in official quarters here, however, over Argentina's future treatment of German leaders if they should escape there, and Grew was also asked about that. He responded by saying this government has no evidence that Germans are escaping to the Argentine through Spain or Portugal. American representatives in those countries, he added, are on the alert for any indication that prominent Nazis may be trying to get out from under.

Other officials said American representatives in all the countries which have not gone to war with the Axis are no less alerted as the war moves into its closing phase.

U. S. Seeks Promises

If any Axis criminals escape, the greatest hope for recapturing them is placed on the governments of neutral countries and Grew was asked about the attitude of neutrals. This and other Allied governments have been pressing for definite promises not to protect any of the war criminals.

"This government," Grew said, "is not satisfied with the attitude of a number of neutral governments. We would not be satisfied unless we had unequivocal assurances from all neutral governments that they would refuse admittance to their countries to any Nazi war criminals and deport any who might enter their countries illegally."

The reference to Spain dealt only with the possibility of criminals passing through there to Argentina, but Grew was also asked whether he would make a statement of general American attitude toward Spain as a result of the redirection of Britain's Spanish policy. This was disclosed in the fact that Prime Minister Churchill had rejected a bid from Generalissimo Franco for an Anglo-Spanish undertaking against Bolshevism in western Europe.

Grew, however, declined to make any such declaration.

Neutrals' Stand On Asylum Unsatisfactory: Grew

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP) — The United States is "not satisfied with the attitude" of some neutral governments on the question of denying refuge to Axis war criminals.

In a statement which drew unusual force from the fact that the time for the Nazis to flee Germany—if they are ever going to do so—must now be close, Acting Secretary of State Grew declared:

"This Government is not satisfied with the attitude of a number of neutral governments. We would not be satisfied unless we had unequivocal assurances from all neutral governments that they would refuse admittance to their countries to any Axis war criminals and deport any who might enter their countries illegally."

Hull Statement

It was the first official declaration on the subject since last September. At that time Secretary of State Hull said the United States was making a general diplomatic drive to obtain assurances that sanctuary would not be granted by any of the neutrals. He reported that the other governments had reacted in a variety of ways, some definite and some unclear.

Grew's statement today made it certain that this diplomatic campaign, designed to prevent Hitler or any other trapped war criminals from fleeing abroad, is still being pursued by American diplomats.

Questioned On Pact Report

The statement was handed to reporters at Grew's news conference after he was asked whether he was aware of a reported secret agreement between Britain and Argentina mentioned in dispatches from Buenos Aires yesterday.

Those dispatches said that under the reported pact Argentina agreed to take safeguards against Axis leaders hiding out there provided Britain would stop certain criticisms then planned and finally voiced by Lord Vansittart.

U.S. Informed

It was learned here that Britain had informed the United States of this correspondence with Argentina at the time it was exchanged last summer.

Grew was asked what he thought about the present Argentine attitude toward war criminals, and he replied that this Government has no evidence that Germans are escaping to Argentina through Spain or Portugal.

Our representatives in those countries, he said, are on the alert for any indications that prominent Nazis may be trying to flee.

Super-intelligence Agency Reported in Contemplation

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—A copyrighted dispatch to the Chicago Tribune today said President Roosevelt had received a draft of an order together with a proposal to establish a "central intelligence service," charged with co-ordination of post-war intelligence work and superseding existing Federal police agencies.

The paper's Washington bureau, in an article by Walter Trohan, said the "highly confidential and secret" memorandum was given Mr Roosevelt by Brig.-Gen. William J. Donovan, director of the Office of Strategic Services. The office would have no police power.

The Tribune asserted it had "secured exclusively" a copy of the memorandum, and added.

"The Tribune also obtained a copy of an equally secret suggested draft of an order setting up the general intelligence service, which would supersede all existing Federal police and intelligence units, including military intelligence, naval intelligence, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the secret service, the internal revenue agents, and the Federal Communications Commission which monitors all radio airways. The order gives the unit a wholesale grant of power."

Only 15 Copies Made.

Only fifteen copies of the two documents were made, the paper declared, "each plastered with secrecy injunctions." These, according to the story, were sent to officials such as Admiral Leahy, the President's Chief of Staff; Gen. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff; Admiral King, Chief of Naval Operations; Secretary of State Stettinius, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, and Secretary of War Stimson.

The Tribune quoted the Donovan memorandum as saying:

"Once our enemies are defeated the demand will be equally pressing for information that will aid us in solving the problems of peace.

"This will require two things.

"1. That intelligence control be returned to the supervision of the President.

"2. The establishment of a central authority reporting directly to you (the President), with responsibility to frame intelligence objectives and to collect and coordinate the intelligence material required by the executive branch in planning and carrying out the national policy and strategy."

A Permanent Plan.

This would be "a permanent long-range plan," the Tribune quoted the memorandum, "but you may want to consider whether this (or part of it) should be done now, by executive or legislative action.

"The immediate revision and co-ordination of our present intelligence system would effect substantial economies and aid the more efficient and speedy termination of the war.

"Information important to the national defense, being gathered now by certain departments and agencies, is not being used to full advantage in the war. Co-ordination at the strategy level would prevent waste and avoid the present confusion that leads to waste and unnecessary duplication."

The paper said the suggested order draft called for establishing the President a new service, to be headed by a presidential appointee, and to work with an advisory board composed of the Secretaries of War and Navy together with others the President may deem necessary.

The Agency's Functions.

The agency, with an "independent budget," would have seven principal functions, according to the article. These would be: Co-ordination of "all intelligence agencies of the Government," to assure "integration of national intelligence efforts."

Collection of "pertinent information" on foreign nations; evaluation and dissemination of this information; procurement and training of personnel; "subversive operations abroad"; determination of policies "essential to the collection of information"; such other activities as the President may require;

And finally, the agency "shall have no police or law enforcement functions, either at home or abroad."

Under this order, the Tribune said, it would be possible for the director "to determine American foreign policy by weeding out, withhold or coloring information gathered at his direction."

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today 2,374 casualties in the European area.

In all of these cases next of kin have previously been notified and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

U-BOAT ACTIVITY SHOWS INCREASE

German Subs Using New Devices; No Figures on Ship Losses Given.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP) German submarine activity increased slightly in January, but losses of Allied merchant shipping did not change substantially, the monthly Anglo-American statement reported tonight.

The statement, issued under the authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, said U-boats, by making use of new devices, "penetrated further into focal areas of shipping close to shore," but described counter-measures as "encouraging."

No figures on losses were given.

The December statement on submarine and anti-submarine operations said the Germans had introduced new devices, such as an extensible air intake and exhaust which enabled U-boats to remain submerged for long periods and to range into areas denied to them for the past three years.

It described shipping losses as "very small," and the number of U-boats sunk as "satisfactory."

7 Craft Lost in Pacific Are Identified by Navy

4 Skippers Safe, 1 Wounded; Casualties Not Totaled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Navy today identified seven naval craft, announced Jan. 10 as lost in the Pacific area but not named, as the landing ships L. S. T. 750, 460, 738 and 472; the motor-torpedo boat 323; the submarine chaser 744 and the auxiliary Porcupine.

The skipper of the motor-torpedo boat 323, Lieutenant (j. g.) Herbert Stadler, of 236 Wainwright Street, Newark, N. J., was listed as killed in action. Lieutenant Herbert E. Robinson jr., of Denver, skipper of the L. S. T. 460, was listed as missing in action. Lieutenant John H. Blakely, of Little Rock, Ark., skipper of the L. S. T. 472, was reported wounded in action. Skippers of the four other craft were all reported safe.

No announcement was made of total casualties but the Navy said seven men were killed on the submarine chaser 744, sunk as a result of an air attack off Leyte. It was commanded by Lieutenant (j. g.) Donald S. Stroetzel, of Geneseo, N. Y. Officers of the L. S. T. 738 reported that vessel's entire personnel safe.

The L. S. T. 750 was commanded by Lieutenant Ralph W. Long, of 151-70 Nineteenth Avenue, Whitestone, Queens, N. Y.

Nazi Spy Admits Entering U.S. To Obtain War Information

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP) William Curtis Colepaugh's own statement that he and Erich Gimpel, accused as Nazi spies, came to this country to obtain war information for Germany about shipbuilding, airplanes and rockets, was entered against him in their military trial today.

The mission, Colepaugh was quoted as saying, was to last two years—possibly indicating that the German High command expected the war to run into 1947.

Colepaugh, a native of Niantic, Conn., and Gimpel, a German electrical engineer, are accused of entering the United States by submarine the night of last Nov. 29 to commit espionage and sabotage. Their arrest was announced New Year's day.

FBI Agent Allan H. Belmont read to a seven-man commission trying the men a statement he said Colepaugh made regarding his mission to this country.

"Lt. Hamann and two colonels of SS advised Gimpel and me that our mission was to obtain information from periodicals, newspapers, radio and any and all available sources regarding shipbuilding, airplanes, rockets and in short, any war in-rockets and in short, any war information that would be of value to Germany," Colepaugh was quoted as saying. "They wanted us to stress the engineering field."

Colepaugh also was quoted as saying that "the German government and Hitler looked good to me." He said he returned to the United States as a German agent, instead of joining the German army as he hoped to do, because "from what I have seen in Germany, it is necessary that you do what you are told."

Belmont testified he asked Colepaugh whether he thought he did not owe some allegiance to the United States and that Colepaugh replied:

"I do not feel I owe any particular allegiance to the United States."

Belmont said he asked Colepaugh how he would feel fighting American troops, perhaps his friends, had he been taken into the German army. The witness said Colepaugh replied:

"It would have been a little difficult to fight my friends but it would have made no difference to fight the American army."

Gimple, described by Colepaugh as an important individual in security army headquarters at Berlin, told in a statement introduced earlier today of the U-boat trip but he said they left aboard it the names of their contacts here and could not recall them.

Before he left Germany Colepough further was quoted as saying he was told by Lieutenant Hemann that if he were killed his mother would receive 20,000 marks and that if he were wounded he would receive the same compensation as a German soldier.

"The witness said Colepaugh told him he was promised nothing more, nor was he threatened with any penalty if he failed to accomplish his mission," the Army communique said.

Colepaugh related in the statement that before going to Germany he was discharged from the Navy and went to work for the Waltham Watch company, Waltham, Mass., as an engineer, drafstman and designer. He said he then went to work on a farm after being classified 1-A in the draft. He obtained employment in January of 1944 on the Gripsholm and said he decided to leave the ship when it reached Lisbon and "attempt to join the German army."

While in Germany he was questioned by a man named Denker, identified in the Army communique as "apparently a guard." He said Denker asked him questions about the United States "such as the coming election, rationing, and the attitude of the people toward the war."

He said he "was not asked about Naziism, nor did they try to make me a Nazi. I was asked whether I liked Germany, and I was told that I did like Germany."

He said he received spending money but no salary at a school he attended. The school was conducted under rigid rules, particularly with regard to discussion of school activity.

Colepaugh said he was not advised of the penalty for violating the rules, but "it is my opinion from what I have heard in Germany that a violation of this rule would mean death."

Geoffrey B. Knutson, an FBI special agent, identified a radio set and some clothing found in the Beekman place apartment where Colepaugh had lived.

Earl J. Connelley, of Cincinnati, assistant director of the FBI, said Colepaugh was being sought by FBI prior to his apprehension late in December, and that his re-entry through any port in the United States had been blocked. Connelly said the FBI knew that Colepaugh was in Germany and intended to join the German army.

Evidence that Colepaugh and Gimpel distrusted each other before their arrest and that each tried to get custody of the $60,000 given them in Germany mounted on the fourth day of the trial.

In his statement, "Gimpel told how Colepaugh had departed from the Beekman place apartment (where they had lived) with a bag containing the money," and Gimpel said he was "very disappointed in" Colepaugh, the trial communique said.

FBI Agent Connelly testified there was $44,095 in U. S. currency in Gimpel's luggage at his Hotel Pennsylvania room when he was apprehended.

Another agent testified yesterday that Gimpel had in his pockets $10,574 and a packet containing 99 diamonds.

Colepaugh, according to earlier testimony, turned over to the FBI $1900 and apparently had had access to about $3,000.

Statement From Gimpel

New York, Feb. 9 (AP)—A statement in which Erich Gimpel, German-born electrical engineer, said he was asked to come to the United States "to find out about the political situation" was introduced today in the Governors Island espionage trial.

Gimpel, who with American-born William Curtis Colepaugh is charged with entering the country by submarine to commit espionage and sabotage, was quoted as saying he was reluctant at first to make the trip.

"I said I would not do it, as there was no chance to stay in the United States," were the words attributed to him in a fourteen-page statement which he was said to have made to an FBI agent following his and Colepaugh's arrest in New York last December.

Gimpel's purported statement said the trip was suggested in 1944 by officials of a school in The Hague at which he and Colepaugh were students.

Bill Provides Full Recognition Of Italy

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Representative Marcantonio (A.L., N.Y.) today introduced a bill to give Italy full recognition as an ally of the United States.

The legislation proposed that lend-lease aid be extended to the former Axis partner, whose status is now that of a "cobelligerent" with the United Nations.

In introducing his bill Marcantonio told the House the Allied Commission on Italian Affairs had blocked United States efforts to increase the food supply to that country, asserting: "In Italy children are dying for want of food."

NURSES OFFER OWN PROPOSAL

Draft Would Be Contingent on General Service Act.

Washington, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—The American Nurses Association said today that it would accept a nurse's draft "only as a first step in a selective service act for all women."

The association recommended instead a federally financed recruiting program to be at least comparable in scope to those employed in enlisting Wacs and Waves.

Katharine J. Densford, president of the A. N. A., outlined the association's views to the House Military Committee, which is considering President Roosevelt's request for a nurses' draft law.

The A. N. A. believes, she said in a statement prepared for the committee, "that the problem now presented may be dealt with by some federal agency adequately implemented with funds, personnel and authority, and a federally financed recruitment program promptly instituted."...

"The War Manpower Commission has in the past, together with the Red Cross Nursing Service, provided an effective mechanism for the selection of nurses for the armed forces on a voluntary basis and for the stabilization of civilian nursing services, and we think it can do so in the future if properly strengthened."

Calling for a women's selective service act in the event a nurse's draft course is decided upon, Miss Densford added:

"This should be supplemented by a general service act in order that our drastically reduced civilian nursing service may be augmented by help from other groups of women."

O'MAHONEY SCORE MANPOWER DRAFT

Senator Says Compulsory Program Would Endanger War Production.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — (AP) Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) argued today that to scrap the voluntary manpower placement system and install a compulsory program would endanger rather than stimulate war production.

"No new system for handling war problems has worked efficiently from the date of its adoption," he said in a statement. "The War Production board and the Office of Price Administration and the War Manpower commission all had to operate for months before they began to run with anything resembling smoothness. It is difficult to imagine that compulsory manpower controls would be any more successful.

Would Cut Production

"I venture to predict that it would be months before it could work smoothly—and every month's delay would mean loss of production and less aid, not more, to the men in the armed forces."

O'Mahoney is a member of the Senate Military Affairs committee which has been studying for a fortnight the bill empowering the government to force men 18 through 45 into war jobs. Closed hearings, begun this week, are expected to continue at least another week. The testimony from high government officials, including Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, ha been favorable. The first non-governmental witness condemned it.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the week's last witness, suggested that in lieu of passing work-or-jail legislation, Congress strengthen the hand of the War Manpower commission which at present is attempting to place workers in vital plants by voluntary methods. He said the WMC should be given "legal sanctions," such as statutory authority to establish and enforce employment ceilings.

If Congress enacts a limited National Service bill, Johnston urged that the authority to place workers be vested in a civilian agency, such as the Office of War Mobilization or the WMC.

Johnson said the Chamber of Commerce favors solution of manpower difficulties by voluntary means as long as they will work.

"There are some indications—not conclusive—that the system has broken down," he said. "The Army and Navy say it has. From my personal observation as an employer it has not. But they are in a better position to get the overall view."

Johnson said he did not share the fears of some people that there will be a shortage of war plant workers after V-E day. He predicted that cutbacks will aggregate 30 to 40 per cent, with consequent layoffs.

Hearings will be resumed Tuesday with testimony from officials of three farm organizations.

Manufacturer Opposes Bill

J. G. Luhrsen, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives' association, opposed the House-approved legislation today, as Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, did yesterday.

Luhrsen called the bill "slave labor legislation," destructive of morale at the front and at home. He said the men and women in America's factories "are doing a splendid job, not by compulsion but because of the voluntary and enthusiastic cooperative spirit." And he charged "high-up military officers" whom he did not name with "harping upon the consciences of the boys at the front that the American men and women at home must, by force, rather than through their own willingness, perform necessary duties."

Meanwhile "Labor," the weekly publication of the standard railroad brotherhoods, contended that Army and Navy chiefs had "doctored" a report on the manpower situation to show a need for drafting labor.

When first drafted by the staff of the War Manpower commission, the publication declared, the report showed employment in war plants had turned up sharply, that 100,000 more workers were added in December and the first half of January and that on the whole, manpower problems were being solved.

"Labor" said, however, that before the report was made public it was edited to change the emphasis and stress manpower shortages.

Labor-Bill's Foes Increase, Says Chandler

FEB 10 1945

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Senator Chandler (D., Ky.) reported today that opposition to the work-or-jail bill is growing in the Senate Military Committee, which is rounding out its first week of semi-secret hearings on the measure.

Friends of the bill, however, said they are encouraged by the general trend of testimony and the concerted indorsement of the measure by high Government officials.

Sees No Signs Of Stalling

Although no tangible progress has been made in four days, Senator Austin (R., Vt.), an advocate of the legislation, said he saw no signs of stalling within the committee and declared "we're moving as fast as we can."

Nevertheless, Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) expects the hearings to continue at least all next week.

J. G. Luhrsen, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, condemned the bill as "a stepping stone to future slavery."

"Doing A Splendid Job"

He asserted that American workers "have been and still are doing a splendid job, not by compulsion but because of the voluntary and enthusiastic co-operative spirit."

"Labor," he said, "can only be consistent when it fights for the retention of freedom and free labor here at home so that the service men fighting the battle abroad for world freedom may be encouraged to greater assurance that they are not returning to a slave-made nation, but to the same state of freedom as when they left it."

Checking Compliance

Meanwhile, the War Manpower Commission is checking compliance under its program of voluntary hiring controls.

The agency announced today that "employers of all types throughout the country are being checked to determine to what extent they are complying with priority referrals, employment ceilings, manpower utilization and other regulations of WMC."

Disclosure that the survey has been under way since February 1 follows by four days testimony by Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson that WMC's voluntary recruitment program is not providing the manpower needed by critical war plants.

'Doctoring' Of Labor Reports Again Alleged

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—The national weekly Labor, organ of the standard railroad brotherhoods, today said army and navy chiefs "doctored" a report on the manpower situation to show a need for drafting labor.

Recalling its statement of six months ago that "brass hats" had edited a factual War Production Board report on munitions output to "inject more pessimism" into it, and that two top WPB research men resigned as a result, the newspaper asserted:

"This week Labor learned the same kind of 'blue penciling' was administered by army and navy chiefs to a report on the manpower situation by the staff of the Manpower Commission."

Good Increase Claimed

The publication went on to say that when first drafted the report showed that employment in war plants had turned sharply upward, that 100,000 more workers were added in December and the first half of January and, on the whole, manpower problems were being solved.

"However," it added, "under orders issued some time ago by 'Assistant President James F. Byrnes, reports on manpower and production must make the rounds of all agencies concerned, including the Army and Navy, and get their 'okay' before it is issued publicly.

"As a result, when the Manpower Commission's report was finally released in the name of Chairman Paul V. McNutt, considerable editing had occurred to 'change the emphasis,' Labor was informed.

"For Private Profit"

"The revised draft placed stress instead on 'manpower shortages' and played up the claim that production of critical items, because of such shortages, 'falls far short of meeting immediate demands.'

"As revised, the document more nearly fitted in with the determination of the 'brass hats' to inflame the public and Congress into passing legislation drafting labor for private profit.

"Thus, the shocking situation has been reached that no agency of the Government may tell the truth if that interferes with the plans of the military—in this instance, to put over 'forced labor.'"

14 Educators Back Plan for Post-War Draft

Ask Bill Be Enacted Now; Dispute Colleagues Who Seek to Delay Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Leading educators of the nation exhibited today a sharp cleavage of opinion over peace-time military training.

Fourteen college heads wrote to President Roosevelt that universal service should be adopted now because there will be a tendency to "forget it" once the war is over.

Their views were just the opposite of those of twelve college presidents who sent a letter to the White House recently. This group protested that a nation at war is not at its best judgment; that this highly controversial subject should be put off at least until Germany is defeated.

Mr. Roosevelt has recommended compulsory military training in several messages to Congress. Agreeing with him, the fourteen educators in today's missive said:

"A sound plan for post-war universal training will enable the United States to speak with greater authority at the peace table in favor of an international organization to enforce peace.

"Its adoption now will reassure the other peace-loving nations that the United States proposes to co-operate with them in outlawing war and will not again retreat into isolationism."

They took specific issue with the supporting arguments of the other group, saying that "the judgment of the nation is now more sound on this issue than it will be after peace is declared."

"We know too well," they added, "the reaction which occurs after a conflict is over; the general desire to 'forget it.'"

Signers of the letter made public today are: John G. Bowman, chancellor, the University of Pittsburgh; Edwin S. Burdell, director, Cooper Union; Robert C. Clothier, president, Rutgers University; Karl T. Compton, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Thomas S. Gates, chairman of the board, University of Pennsylvania; Ernest M. Hopkins, president, Dartmouth College; Robert L. Johnson, president, Temple University; Stanley King, president, Amherst College, William Mather Lewis, president, Lafayette College; Charles Seymour, president, Yale University; Franklin B. Snyder, president, Northwestern University; John J. Tigert, president, University of Florida; Levering Tyson, president, Muhlenberg College; Blake R. Van Leer, president, Georgia School of Technology.

MRS. OSMENA SAFE IN THE PHILIPPINES

Washington, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—Mrs. Sergio Osmena, wife of the President of the Philippines, and three of their children have reached the safety of American lines in their native islands after a thirty-mile hike over mountainous trails.

Their trek was disclosed today by release of a United States Army Signal Corps radiophoto showing the group at an undisclosed—but safe—place in the Philippines. The Commonwealth office here declined to discuss the adventures of the President's wife and children. A spokesman said details were withheld at the request of the War Department.

Mrs. Osmena and ten of the President's eleven children remained in the Philippines when the Japanese captured the islands and presumably hid in the hills until American troops drove down to Manila. The eleventh child is in this country. The whereabouts of the seven others who remained with their mother has not been disclosed.

COMMODORE BURKE WINS NEW HONORS

FEB 10 1945

Washington, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—The Legion of Merit and the Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit has been awarded to Commodore Arleigh A. ("31-Knot") Burke in recognition of outstanding services in operations against the Japanese.

The Navy said today that Commodore Burke, a captain at the time of the actions, also holds the Navy Cross and the Distinguished Service Medal.

The Commodore, a former destroyer commanding officer, won his nickname for attacking Japanese shipping in the Solomon Islands at his traditionally favorite speed of thirty - one knots, a tremendous pace for a destroyer.

His citation was for his services as commander of a destroyer squadron during the first anti-shipping sweep northwest of the Bismarck Archipelago and the first bombardment of enemy shore installations at Kavieng, New Ireland, and on the Duke of York Island, between February 17 and 23, 1944.

His citation for the Gold Star was for his services as chief of staff to the commander of a carrier task force, Pacific Fleet, between March 27 and October 30, 1944.

Commodore Burke's birthplace and official residence is Boulder, Col.

Army Expected To Retain Hold On Vital Ports

Foreign-Trade Zone Board Asserts They'll Service Overseas Units After War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Port officials believe essential docks and warehouses taken over by the Army will be retained under military control for servicing overseas forces long after the war ends.

Congress was so advised today in the annual report of the Foreign Trade-Zone Board headed by the Secretary of Commerce. The other two members are the Secretaries of War and the Treasury.

The board said port officials seem convinced that if their harbors are to maintain a competitive position after the war, the facilities now being used for military purposes will have to be replaced by new construction.

A foreign-trade zone is a neutral area where goods may be laid down without payment of duties, processed and later shipped out to other parts of the world. There is only one such zone at present, at New York City.

The Foreign Trade-Zone Board also sent to Congress today the annual report of the New York foreign-trade zone for the calendar year 1943.

This report said considerable business was lost because the total amount of warehouse space was reduced by 80 per cent when the zone was moved from the original Staten Island site to its temporary quarters in the Hudson River. However, 1943 operating revenues were $504,710, only 25 per cent less than the $691,000 gross income for the last full year's operation on Staten Island.

The New York report discloses several cases reflecting the shifting trends in world trade resulting from the war. For example, during 1943 more than 5,000,000 pounds of cotton thread, valued at $6,000,000, was shipped from the United Kingdom to the New York zone and redistributed to twenty-six foreign countries, including Latin America, Soviet Russia, and British West Africa.

Another development concerned the purchase by African natives of large quantities of cotton piece goods from Mexican mills. Lack of direct service between Mexican and African ports caused a considerable part of this merchandise to be transshipped at the New York trade-zone.

The board reported that plans for establishing a zone at New Orleans are rapidly taking form, and that San Francisco is ready to establish a zone as soon as war conditions permit.

Harbor officials at Houston, Tex., and San Juan, Puerto Rico, also have applied for permission to establish zones.

Petrillo Loses First Round In Record-Turner Dispute

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—James C. Petrillo's AFL musicians' union today lost the first round in its jurisdictional dispute involving radio network record-turners.

A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner recommended in an interim report that the National Broadcasting Company and Blue Network be required to bargain collectively with the National Association of Broadcasting Engineers and Technicians, an independent union.

Refusal To Bargain Condemned

Howard Myers, the trial examiner, held that the two companies by refusing to bargain with NABET as the exclusive representative of their employés had interfered with the workers' lawful self-organizational rights.

The report said the companies' defense "is bottomed on the claim that to do so (bargain with NABET) would result in reprisals from Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians.

It added, however, that the board and the courts on many occasions have "denied the validity of similar urged defenses to charges of unfair labor practices."

Now Up To NLRB

The board itself must pass on Myers's recommendation.

After certifying the independent union as the bargaining agency some time ago, the AFM intervened, contending it had jurisdiction.

Myers said it is the "plain duty of the respondents in this situation to obey the mandate of the Congress, as expressed in the National Labor Relations Act and to bargain with NABET."

He proposed that the companies post notices that they will not interfere with collective bargaining.

M'KELLAR HITS NOMINATION OF WILLIAMS TO REA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Aubrey Williams' nomination to head the Rural Electrification administration came in for another bludgeoning attack today from Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) who declared Williams turned the NYA into a "Communist organization."

When the Senate dean concluded a table-pounding denunciation of the nomination amid frequent clashes with Senator Ellender (D-La.), Williams received unhearalded support from a farm organization witness who said a good word for the nominee's handling of the National Youth administration.

NYA Program Commended

Walter C. Chapman, Salem, Va., told the Senate Agriculture committee, considering Williams' nomination, that "our NYA program, as I saw it in Virginia, was along the lines of democracy and Americanism."

Chapman added that he was NYA supervisor for 46 Virginia counties and that from his knowledge of Williams the "charges of Communism seem ridiculous."

The witness also said he was a member of the Roanoke County (Va.) Farm bureau and expressed the opinion that the opposition to Williams' nomination by the Parent American Farm Bureau federation was due to President Ed O'Neal's "personal" viewpoint.

With Chapman's testimony, the committee recessed the hearings until next Wednesday when Williams was asked to come back for further questioning.

In pressing the issue of Williams' views on Communism, McKellar read from hearings on a House appropriations sub-committee's investigation of the WPA in 1939. In that year Williams became head of NYA after serving for several years previously as deputy director under Harry Hopkins of WPA.

In gist, these hearings quoted various witnesses as saying Communists were active in the Workers alliance, one time union of the unemployed, and that Williams had addressed the organization and expressed high esteem for its leaders.

Telegram Read

The Senator also put into the record a telegram he said he had received from Dr. Joseph M. Brody, for 30 years pastor of the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian church in Birmingham, Ala. This said Williams was a boyhood member of that church and that the Presbyterian church paid for his college education. It added:

"He denied the divinity of Christ after the church educated him for the ministry. He is utterly unworthy of any place in the government."

Ellender challenged when McKellar declared "NYA was run as a Communist organization."

"You don't mean NYA was Communist?" the Louisianan asked in an incredulous tone.

"I certainly do," snapped back McKellar.

After a hot exchange, in which the two Senators swapped charges of "bias and prejudice," Ellender told McKellar:

"The only trouble is that Williams wanted to continue NYA and you wanted to end it and he beat you two or three times."

ACTION IS DELAYED ON GEORGE BILL

FEB 10 1945

House Committee Adjourns Until Next Week, Stalls Vote on Wallace.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — (AP) An Anti-Wallace coalition seized control in the House Rules committee today and succeeded in temporarily bottling up legislation in which a cabinet post for the former vice president is bound up.

The resulting turmoil left Democratic leaders weighing extraordinary measures to bring the Senate-passed George bill to the floor without Rules Committee blessing. The committee in effect held up action until next Wednesday by adjourning to that date without decision.

The measure would divorce the multi-billion dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation from the Commerce Secretaryship to which President Roosevelt has appointed Wallace.

Tempers flared during a committee public hearing, Rep. Cox, Georgia Democrat, shouting that there has been a "horse trade" between the Senate and President, whereby the Senate would not pass on confirmation until RFC is separated from the Commerce department.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking committee, which unanimously approved the George bill, asked the Rules committeemen: "Are you going to scuttle the orderly procedures of the House," because of the Wallace controversy. He added:

"You can slaughter Wallace if you want to, but that is not the issue here."

With three Democrats—Cox and Reps. Smith, Virginia, and Slaughter, Missouri—propounding questions antagonistic to Wallace's nomination, the lineup in the committee against the former vice president appeared to be 7 to 5 (three Democrats and four Republicans in opposition—five Democrats for).

The Democratic leadership considered bringing the George bill on the House floor, irrespective of the Rules committee stand, by taking advantage of "Wednesday calendar day" next week. This can be done by calling the roll of legislative committees on the floor for direct presentation of bills. The "Wednesday calendar day" has not been used for two years or more.

Senator George (D-Ga), author of the measure divorcing RFC from the Commerce department, has admonished that his bill "goes far enough" in the Wallace controversy.

But Republicans, and some Democrats, are seeking to shelve the bill in the Rules committee or send it to the floor open to amendments which would repeal the President's war power to shift management of government agencies and also take the commerce secretary off the export-import bank.

The anti-Wallace faction assumes the Senate would reject Wallace if forced to vote directly on his confirmation as secretary of a Commerce department embodying powers over the RFC.

Banking Chairman Spence (D-Ky) got a hot response to his request that the rules group allow the George bill clearance for floor consideration under the regular rules of the House.

Cox asked: "Aren't you saying in this (George) bill that Wallace is not big enough for the job?"

Spence shot back: "That's irrelevant and I object."

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) Rules member, then questioned whether the Banking committee "followed usual procedures" in refusing to hold public hearings before unanimously approving the George bill.

Rules Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) cut in: "The Banking committee is not on trial here," and Spence questioned whether the Rules group "is usurping the powers of the House and arrogating to yourself powers not intended for you."

Standard Must Increase

DES MOINES Feb. 9 (AP)—Beardsley Ruml, nationally known as author of the pay-as-you-go Federal Income Tax Plan, declared today that the American standard of living must be from 40 to 50 per cent higher after the war. He also asserted that the nation must have a postwar annual income of $140,000,000,000 or face mass unemployment. National income in 1940 was $77,809,000,000 and 1941 was $95,618,000,000

13,600 WORKERS IDLE IN BRIGGS PLANTS

DETROIT, Feb. 9 (AP) Some 13,600 workers were idle tonight as the result of strikes in plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. and the Square D Co.

The Briggs walkout, involving an estimated 12,500 employes, started Tuesday over a dispute concerning job assignments in the Mack Avenue plant and has spread to four other plants here.

Meanwhile, 1,100 Square D Co. employes, members of the United Electrical Workers (CIO), walked out in what was described as a protest against the method of distribution of a recent War Labor board order granting wage increases to hourly employes and piece workers.

Briggs strikers, member of Local 212, United Automobile Workers (CIO), have voted to return to their jobs Monday on condition that the regional WLB send two representatives to the plant to aid in negotiating the dispute.

Besides the Mack Avenue plant, other Briggs plants affected by the walk out are the Vernor and Outer drive plants and most of the Conner and Milwaukee avenue units.

Briggs manufactures parts of B-29 bombers and B-32 bombers.

$1,013,001,000 Surplus Goods Held by R. F. C.

Amount on Hand Growing Steadily; 70% of Initial Cost Is Realized on Sales

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Surplus goods costing $1,147,397,000 have piled up for disposal by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and of that amount, goods costing $134,396,000 have been sold.

That means the amount of idle goods currently on hand for disposal has now passed a billion dollars—$1,013,001,000. The amount on hand is growing steadily.

Goods already sold brought total prices of $94,644,000, about 70 per cent of the original cost.

These figures—as of Jan. 15—were given today in an R. F. C. report on surplus activities.

The bulk of all goods declared surplus to the R. F. C. so far has been airplanes. The agency also has the job of selling capital and producers' goods such as machinery and plants.

The grand total of declared surpluses include airplanes and aircraft equipment (such as engines, gliders and barrage balloons) costing $796,606,931.

Of that amount, equipment costing $23,499,868 has been sold for $10,245,820.

R. F. C. said it has sold 7,178 surplus military airplanes and has 21,374 others to sell.

Most of the planes declared surplus have been trainer planes. Nearly all which have been sold were trainers. The Army has placed in the "surplus" category around 2,000 fighters and light bombers, something under 200 heavy bombers, a few medium bombers and about 3,000 liaison and observation planes.

Most combat planes are expected to be sold eventually for salvage.

Dewey Seen Gunning For 1948 Election

Republican Reaction To First Post-campaign Speech Varies.

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—Capitol Republicans concluded today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is busting his suspenders to run for President again.

That was the consensus that grew out of Dewey's first post-campaign speech here last night and subsequent hotel room conferences he held with party leaders.

Some of those who talked with the New York governor said they came away with the idea that Dewey is concentrating most of his efforts now on cleaning up the party machinery in New York state in preparation for a race for reelection in 1946. He lost New York in the November presidential contest partly because of defections in the ordinarily strong GOP upstate sector.

Will Be in Pitching

If he wins reelection as governor, most politicians here think Dewey will be in there pitching for the 1948 presidential nomination. He will be backed then by experience gained in the last campaign.

Some of that experience already has cropped out in his dealings with members of Congress.

For instance, he has told Republican senators and House members that he doesn't intend to attempt to dictate the party's policies in Congress. He tried tentatively to offer a generalized program at a conference earlier, but quickly tossed it overboard when he felt the temper of the meeting.

Dewey also has assured legislators that he doesn't plan to make a lot of speeches, but will talk once in a while on major questions. He explained that he feels he has a difficult role to fill as titular head of the party.

If he talked too much, others would think he was trying to hog the stage. If he said nothing at all, his silence would be interpreted as the development of a coolness among party leaders.

Conflicting Reaction

The New York governor's speech here last night produced conflicting reactions among the GOP congressmen and senators, who with their wives, made up the major share of the audience.

As an example, Senator Brewster (R-Me) said he thought he had drawn an excellent GOP document, "putting President Roosevelt on the spot" by his demand for continuous American participation in the political decisions which are reshaping the world to come.

"But two-thirds of his audience there didn't like it," Brewster said. "They wanted to hear the kind of speech Joe Martin made when he took Henry Wallace apart. Dewey's speech wasn't pap to them."

But Senator Austin (R-Vt) thought the Dewey talk was "sound as a nut—good Republican doctrine."

The New York governor had done very well with a difficult assignment, said Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich). He pointed out that Dewey was talking Republican policy matters to congressmen who would resent his telling him how to run their business.

Democrats made out as if they were vastly unimpressed by the whole business. Senator George (D-Ga) thought the speech "sounded like a college declamation." Senator Tydings (D-Md) felt it lacked "oomph."

G. O. P. DIVIDED ON GOV. DEWEY'S FOREIGN POLICY

His Conclusion That People Support Big Three Plans Causes Doubt.

HE FOUND OBJECTIVES SOUND

FEB 10 1945

However, His Demand That U. S. Take Part in International Decisions Is Approved.

Washington, Feb. 9 (A. P.).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's declaration of co-operation with the administration's international objectives provoked both praise and dissent among Republican Congressmen today.

In an address last night the 1944 presidential nominee said that President Roosevelt has the support of both parties and the prayers of the American people in his current meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin.

But he added that "rare" meetings of the Big Three are not enough, and he criticized what he termed "false liberalism" in post-war domestic plans.

In effect, Gov. Dewey told a select crowd of banqueting party members here last night that the quarrel with the administration is one of individualities and methods, not objectives, so far as international relations are concerned.

But on the home front, the 1944 Republican presidential nominee found plenty of grounds for political battling. Specifically he mentioned what he called the administration's tendency to believe "that to cure every ill you pass a law and appropriate a billion dollars."

The New York Governor's demand for immediate American participation in the international decisions which are revamping the map of Europe found almost universal approval among members of Congress.

Other Comments Drew Doubts.

But his further conclusion that the American people are united in the "wholehearted support to decisions to be made" at the Big Three conference by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill of England and Premier Stalin of Russia unearthed some party doubters.

Senator Willis (R.-Ind.), told reporters that he "liked the last half of the speech" (dealing with domestic problems) but was not entirely satisfied with the part dealing with the international questions.

Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.), thought the address, read from prepared manuscript before about 1,200 mildly applauding partisans, was "too highbrow."

"He had a chance to say something the people have wanted to hear from the opposition party, but somehow he didn't," Senator Tobey told a reporter.

But Senator Austin (R.-Vt.), an exponent of all-out international co-operation for peace, glowed with pleasure.

"His speech was sound as a nut and good Republican doctrine," Senator Austin declared.

Hatch Favorably Impressed.

To Senator Hatch (D.-N. M.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who heard it over the radio, Gov. Dewey's demand for immediate American participation in international decisions was encouraging. Senator Hatch and others have plugged for the establishment now of a United Nations council to decide these issues—a point that Gov. Dewey seemed almost to reach, but not quite.

Senator Ball (R.-Minn.), who supported President Roosevelt for a fourth term in preference to Gov. Dewey because of Mr. Roosevelt's views on foreign policy, said:

"I'm glad to hear that he is stressing the early establishment of the organization proposed at Dumbarton Oaks. The sooner it is set up, the better."

Gov. Dewey made that commitment in last night's speech, the first that he has made outside of New York since the close of his unsuccessful campaign for the presidency last November 7.

While the Republican leaders in Washington listened respectfully, the New York Governor said Americans would accept "neither isolationism nor abdication" from world affairs.

He made the point that thus far the Democratic administration had spoken "in pleasant generalities" and had left "our allies to decide the fate of the world."

That cannot go on, Gov. Dewey said as he paused in significant silence.

Asks Realty and Action.

"The time has come for the hard, painstaking labor of translating ideals and generalities into realty and action," he declared. "The (Big Three) conference now in progress is, we hope, a great step to that end.

"From now on, these problems cannot hang in suspense for many months at a time. They cannot be left to rare meetings between the heads of nations."

On the domestic front, he found even more to criticize.

He said that the Democratic administration appeared to have "a cavalier willingness to saddle the people with unlimited debt in the peacetime behind us and in the plans for the peace ahead."

"We have seen a smooth willingness on the part of Government to find pleasant excuses in the name of false liberalism to bring the daily lives of our people under its increasing control," he declared.

He said the returning veterans have a "right to come home without finding the heavy hand of Government telling them where they shall work, at what and for how much."

BRITISH SOLDIERS WHO PARTICIPATED IN OPERATIONS IN GREECE WERE QUOTED AS SAYING THE ELAS FORCES WERE "THE LOUSIEST, DIRTIEST, SCRUFFIEST LOT OF FIGHTERS OUR MEN EVER CAME ACROSS AND COMPARED WITH WHOM THE GERMANS WERE GENTLEMEN."

DECLARING THE STORIES WERE TOLD "BY ORDINARY BRITISH TOMMIES--NOT OFFICERS OR GENERALS," THE REPORT ADDED THAT "WE WERE INFORMED BY THE REGENT THAT, SO FAR AS THEY COULD ESTIMATE, THE NUMBER OF PERSONS MURDERED WAS AT LEAST 10,000."

IT ALSO QUESTIONED THE AMOUNT OF FIGHTING THE ELAS HAD DONE AGAINST THE GERMANS DURING THE NAZI OCCUPATION, ASSERTING THE ORGANIZATION "UNDOUBTEDLY WAS MUCH MORE CONCERNED WITH RETURNING TO ATHENS TO SEIZE POWER THAN WITH FIGHTING GERMANS."

BRITISH SOLDIERS WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN RESENTFUL AT WHAT THEY CONSIDERED "THE INADEQUATE AND UNFAIR MANNER" THE GREEK SITUATION WAS PRESENTED TO THE BRITISH PUBLIC. THE REPORT SAID THAT WHEN THE FULL HISTORY OF "THIS STRUGGLE HAS BEEN WRITTEN THE PEOPLE OF OUR COUNTRY WILL BE PROUD OF THE COURAGE, CHEERFULNESS, RESTRAINT AND STEADFAST BEHAVIOR OF OUR FORCES IN GREECE UNDER CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE GREATEST DIFFICULTY."

THERE HAS BEEN "ALMOST COMPLETE DISLOCATION OF THE INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL LIFE OF THE COUNTRY." THE REPORT SAID IN DESCRIBING THE CO

FEB 10 1945

LONDON, FEB. 9-(AP)-BRITISH AIRMEN ARE USING A NEW TYPE OF ANTI-PERSONNEL BOMB WITH CONSIDERABLE SUCCESS IN SUPPORT OF THE CANADIAN DRIVE ON THE NORTHERN FLANK OF THE WESTERN FRONT, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE DEVICE CONSISTS OF A NUMBER OF SMALL FRAGMENTATION BOMBS IN A SINGLE CASING, WHICH ARE SCATTERED IN ALL DIRECTIONS WHEN THE CASING EXPLODES.

THE BOMB WAS SAID TO BE USEFUL IN BREAKING UP TROOP CONCENTRATIONS WHEN DROPPED BY FIGHTERBOMBERS AT LOW ALTITUDE.

LONDON, FEB. 9-(AP)-THE MOSCOW RADIO SAID TODAY THE GERMANS HAD ORDERED DANISH AUTHORITIES TO MAKE PREPARATIONS TO CARE FOR 10,000 GERMAN WOUNDED, THUS CREATING A SERIOUS SITUATION IN ALREADY CROWDED HOSPITALS IN DENMARK.

THE BROADCAST SAID STREAMS OF WOUNDED FROM THE EASTERN FRONT WERE POURING INTO DENMARK AND THAT THE DANES WERE HARD PUT TO FIND FACILITIES FOR THEM.

LONDON, SATURDAY, FEB. 10-(AP)-FIVE MINUTES LATE FOR A COMMITTEE MEETING WHICH WAS TO DISCUSS ENLARGEMENT OF THE CHURCH, THE MODERATOR OF A PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND SAW THE ROOF BLOWN OFF THE EDIFICE RECENTLY AS HE WAS HURRYING TOWARD IT.

A V-BOMB HAD STRUCK AN ADJOINING BUILDING, KILLING SOME OF THE 14 CHURCH COMMITTEEMEN AND WOUNDING OTHERS. THE MODERATOR ASSISTED IN RESCUE EFFORTS, TURNING THE DAMAGED CHURCH INTO A FIRST AID STATION AND MORTUARY FOR THOSE KILLED AND WOUNDED IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD.

BIG THREE

BY JOHN A. PARRIS JR.

LONDON, FEB. 9-(AP)-THE BIG THREE, REALIZING THE POSSIBILITY OF A SUDDEN COLLAPSE OF MILITARY AND CIVILIAN RESISTANCE IN HUGE AREAS OF GERMANY UNDER PRESSURE OF THE JOINT ALLIED OFFENSIVE, ARE BELIEVED WHIPTING PLANS INTO SHAPE FOR OCCUPYING THE REICH AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE.

WELL-INFORMED QUARTERS HERE SUGGESTED TODAY THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND PREMIER STALIN POSSIBLY ARE PREPARING TWO OCCUPATION PLANS, UNDER THE FIRST OF WHICH SPECIALIZED FORCES ARE BEING ALERTED NOW FOR EMERGENCY DUTY. THE SECOND PLAN WOULD PROVIDE FORCES FOR LONG-TERM ASSIGNMENT.

THERE ARE INDICATIONS THAT SPECIALIZED TROOPS ALREADY ARE BEING CONCENTRATED ON THE FRINGES OF GERMANY TO TAKE OVER QUICKLY WHEN ALL OR PART OF THE COUNTRY COLLAPSES. THIS FORCE INCLUDES CIVIL AFFAIRS EXPERTS AND "TEAMS" OF THE UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION.

WITH NAZI MILITARY FORCES BEING WITHDRAWN TO THE SOUTH AND SOUTHEAST, BRITISH OFFICIALS SAID NORTHERN GERMANY MIGHT COLLAPSE AT ANY TIME. THEY BASED THIS BELIEF ON REPORTS FROM INSIDE THE REICH THAT MANY SECTIONS OF NORTHERN GERMANY ALREADY ARE SHOWING SIGNS OF PROGRESSIVE DECAY.

IN ANY EVENT, THE BIG THREE PROBABLY WILL SHAPE THEIR PLANS TO THE EXTENT THEY WILL NOT BE CAUGHT NAPPING BY ANY DEVELOPMENT.

GERMANY ALREADY HAS BEEN REDUCED TO THE HEARTLAND BETWEEN THE RHINE AND THE ODER RIVERS BY THE ANGLO-AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN OFFENSIVES. ROUGHLY ONE-FIFTH OF THE SO-CALLED GERMAN REICH WILL HAVE BEEN OCCUPIED WHEN THE RUSSIANS REACH THE ODER LINE ON ITS FULL LENGTH. THE ENEMY ALREADY IS FEELING THE LOSS OF HIGHLY-PRODUCTIVE AREAS.

MILITARY AND ECONOMIC EXPERTS EXPRESS DOUBT THAT NAZI AUTHORITIES THEMSELVES CAN YET FORM A CLEAR PICTURE OF THEIR LOSSES IN MEN, MATERIALS AND RESOURCES IN RECENT WEEKS. POLISH DISTRICTS OVERRUN BY THE RUSSIANS PRODUCED CONSIDERABLE AGRICULTURAL SURPLUSES, ESPECIALLY IN GRAIN, POTATOES AND SUGAR BEETS.

LARGE STOCKS OF POTATOES HAVE BEEN LEFT BEHIND BY THE RETREATING GERMANS. SUGAR FACTORIES IN POLAND AND SILESIA WERE AT THE HEIGHT OF THEIR SEASON AND FOOD FACTORIES STILL WERE ENGAGED IN PROCESSING LAST YEAR'S HARVEST. AS A RESULT OF THIS LOSS, IT ALREADY HAS BEEN NECESSARY TO REDUCE GERMAN FOOD RATIONS.

ADDING TO THE CONFUSION INSIDE THE REICH IS THE PROBLEM OF TRANSPORTATION. WHERE PREVIOUSLY THE COUNTRY WAS DIVIDED INTO CAREFULLY BALANCED TRANSPORT ZONES FOR EACH FOODSTUFF, THERE NOW IS BUT LITTLE ORGANIZATION.

BY WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, FEB. 9-(AP)-THE LONDON POLISH GOVERNMENT CLAIMED TODAY THAT POLAND HAD MADE SPECIFIC AS WELL AS GENERAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE CAMPAIGNS OF THE RED ARMY AND THE WESTERN ALLIES AND DEMANDED "JUSTICE AND RESPECT FOR HER RIGHTS."

IN A STATEMENT ISSUED AS A TRIBUTE TO THE RECENTLY DISBANDED HOME ARMY, THE GOVERNMENT URGED THE POLISH NATION "TO KEEP THE STAND IT TOOK IN 1939 WHEN ITS INDEPENDENCE AND RIGHTS WERE THREATENED."

"THE ASHES OF POLISH TOWNS AND VILLAGES AND THE ENDLESS BATTLEFIELDS AND THE NAMELESS GRAVES IN WHICH REST MILLIONS OF MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES FOR THEIR COUNTRY, TESTIFY TO THE FACT THAT NEVER DID THE FAINTEST SHOW OF TREASON NOR THE WAVERING SELFISHNESS OF INTERESTS ARISE AMIDST THE POLISH NATION," THE STATEMENT SAID. "NO POLE EVER DOUBTED THE GREAT PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH THE WHOLE CIVILIZED WORLD WAS FIGHTING BARBARISM.

"THANKS TO THESE TERRIBLE HEROIC EFFORTS, THANKS TO THE SACRIFICES BORNE BY THE HOME COUNTRY AND ITS BRAVE AND PROUD CONDUCT THROUGH FIGHT AND MISERY, POLAND PROUDLY FACES THE WORLD TODAY DEMANDING JUSTICE AND RESPECT FOR HER RIGHTS, AND AS MUCH LOYALTY AND HONESTY IN FULFILLMENT OF THE OBLIGATIONS TOWARD HER JUST AS SHE SHOWED AND STILL IS SHOWING WHEN CALLED UPON TO CARRY OUT HER DUTIES TOWARD THE COMMON CAUSE."

IN ADDITION TO THE POLISH AIR, SEA AND LAND FORCES FIGHTING WITH THE WESTERN ALLIES, THE STATEMENT CITED THE HOME ARMY'S GUERRILLA WARFARE BEHIND THE GERMAN LINES AND INTELLIGENCE WORK FOR THE ALLIES INCLUDING THE FIRST INFORMATION ABOUT BUZZ-BOMBS. IT ADDED:

"TWO POLISH DIVISIONS FOUGHT IN THE BATTLES FOR WILNO; THE 27TH DIVISION HELPED EXPEL THE GERMANS FROM VOLHYNIA; THE ATTACK OF THE THIRD AND NINTH DIVISIONS OF THE HOME ARMY ENABLED SOVIET ARMIES TO ACHIEVE A RAPID FORCING OF THE FORTIFIED LINE OF THE RIVER BUG; THE OPERATION OF UNITS OF THE SECOND, 18TH AND 24TH DIVISIONS OF THE HOME ARMY HELPED ESTABLISH A BRIDGEHEAD ON THE WESTERN BANK OF THE VISTULA IN THE REGIONS OF SANDOMIERZ AND RADOM.

"THE CULMINATING POINT IN THE BATTLES OF THE HOME ARMY WAS THE WARSAW RISING WHICH FOR 63 DAYS TIED UP A LARGE PART OF GERMAN FORCES AND PARALYZED THE COMMUNICATION LINES OF THE GERMAN SECOND ARMY WITH ITS SUPPLY BASES."

THE STATEMENT ASSERTED: "THE WORK AND STRUGGLE OF THE HOME ARMY WAS MADE ALL THE MORE DIFFICULT BY THE FACT THAT AFTER HAVING TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF THEIR AID THE ADVANCING SOVIET ARMIES IMMEDIATELY PROCEEDED TNFGPUUOGOLIDX

THE BRITISH, CRACKING INTO THE REICHSWALD FROM THE NORTHWEST, OVERRAN GALGENSTEEN AND ADVANCED BEYOND IT. THE CANADIANS AFTER A ROUGH FIGHT IN ZYFFLICH ADVANCED WELL TO THE EAST OF IT IN THE DEEPEST NEW PENETRATION OF GERMANY WITHIN FIVE MILES OF KLEVE.

BRITISH AND CANADIANS OF THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY FOUGHT WITH TANKS, FLAMETHROWERS, BAYONETS AND PLANES AND GAINED MORE THAN TWO MILES TODAY ON A FIVE-MILE FRONT INTO THE EDGE OF THE FORTIFIED REICHWALD WOODED AREA AFTER A FLAMING ALL NIGHT BATTLE. THEY MOVED TO WITHIN EIGHT OR TEN MILES OF THE BEND WHERE THE RHINE TURNS PONDEROUSLY WESTWARD TO THE NORTH SEA. A THOUSAND PRISONERS WERE TAKEN IN THE FIRST 24 HOURS OF ATTACK.

KLEVE IS THE NORTHERN TERMINAL OF THE PERMANENT SIEGFRIED LINE DEFENSES. IT LIES 35 MILES NORTHWEST OF DUISBURG, GATEWAY TO THE INDUSTRIAL RUHR--ALWAYS GERMANY'S MAIN ARSENAL BUT OF INCREASED IMPORTANCE NOW THAT THE RUSSIANS HAVE OVERRUN THE INDUSTRIES OF SILESIA AND THE U.S. THIRD ARMY HAS INTERDICTED MUCH OF THE SAARLAND'S PRODUCTION.

IN THE CENTER OF THE WESTERN FRONT, THE AMERICAN THIRD ARMY PUSHED THROUGH AN EIGHT-MILE HOLE IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE TO WITHIN A MILE OF THE IMPORTANT ROAD CENTER OF PRUEM. OLZHEIM ON THE PRUEM RIVER, FIVE MILES NORTH OF PRUEM AND EIGHT INSIDE GERMANY, ALSO WAS TAKEN.

THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY MOVED CLOSER TO THE LAST GERMAN-HELD DAMS ON THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE ROER RIVER THROUGH TWO OTHER BREAKTHROUGHS OF THE WEST WALL.

THE FRENCH FIRST ARMY AND ITS FOUR AMERICAN DIVISIONS WERE ~~REPORTED~~ TO HAVE BROKEN THE LAST ORGANIZED RESISTANCE IN LOWER ALSACE ON THE WEST BANK OF THE RHINE BELOW STRASBOURG. SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID 4,083 PRISONERS WERE TAKEN ON FEB. 6, RAISING TO MORE THAN 16,000 THE NUMBER CAGED IN A SIX DAY PERIOD--MOST OF THEM IN LOWER ALSACE.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE WAS IN GRAND SCALE FORCE AND IT WAS THE FIRST TIME THAT THE FIRST ARMY, HEAVILY BOLSTERED BY BRITISH TROOPS, HAD BEEN TURNED FROM ITS LEFT FLANK ANCHOR ROLE AND HURLED EASTWARD AGAINST THE REICH.

THE CANADIANS SMASHED ACROSS THE FLAT SODDEN GERMAN FRONTIER ROUGHLY AT THE SAME DISTANCE NORTHWEST OF DUESSELDORF AND THE RUHR AS THE AMERICAN BREAKTHROUGH TOWARD THE RHINE SOUTHWEST OF THE RUHR.

AT LEAST IN ITS FIRST STAGE, THE NEW ONSLAUGHT OF GEN. HENRY CRERAR'S TROOPS WAS FOCUSED ALONG A FIVE-MILE STRETCH OF THE NIJMEGEN-KLEVE ROAD SKIRTING THE NORTHERN EDGE OF THE 45-SQUARE-MILE REICHSWALD (CQ) TO THE NIJMEGEN-VENLO ROAD PAST THE SOUTHWESTERN END OF THE FORTIFIED FOREST.

KRANENBERG ON THE NIJMEGEN-KLEVE ROAD, A MILE AND A HALF INSIDE GERMANY AND FIVE MILES FROM KLEVE, WAS CAPTURED IN THE DEEPEST REPORTED PENETRATION. THE TOWN IS EIGHT MILES FROM THE RHINE.

ALONG WITH KRANENBERG, CRERAR'S SHOCK TROOPS OVERRAN WYLER, ZYFFLICH, ERLEHOM, BRUK, DENHEUVEL AND GELGENSTEEG--SOME ON THE DUTCH AND SOME ON THE GERMAN SIDE OF THE BORDER.

RESISTANCE WAS SPOTTY ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THE CANADIAN ATTACK BUT STIFF AROUND BRUK, ON THE EDGE OF THE REICHSWALD FARTHER SOUTH. ENEMY TROOPS TRAINS MOVING UP TO THE PERILED SECTOR WERE UNDER ATTACK BY ALLIED AIR MEN. THE OFFENSIVE WAS POWERED BY A CREEPING ARTILLERY BARRAGE, GUNS FIRING WHEEL TO WHEEL.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY SECTOR HAD BEEN QUIET SINCE OCTOBER AFTER THE ALLIED DEFEAT AT ARNHEM, AND IN THE MONTHS BETWEEN, THE GERMANS HAD DUG INTRICATE MAZES OF TRENCHES AND TANK TRAPS AND LAID EXTENSIVE MINEFIELDS.

CASUALTIES WERE DESCRIBED OFFICIALLY AS LIGHT. EVERY INDICATION WAS THAT THE GERMANS WERE CAUGHT BY SURPRISE, AT LEAST BY THE FORCE OF THE ONSLAUGHT WHICH WAS PRECEDED BY A 11-HOUR BARRAGE AND BOMBING AND STRAFING ATTACKS BY AT LEAST 1,500 PLANES, MANY OF THEM HEAVY BOMBERS.

THE AERIAL SEALING OFF OF THE FRONT MADE IT UNLIKELY THAT THE GERMANS COULD GET REINFORCEMENTS UP QUICKLY TO THE NEW AREA OF PERIL. AT THE POINT OF THE CANADIAN ATTACK, THE ALLIES WERE WITHIN 360 MILES OF THE RUSSIAN ARMIES PRESSING UPON BERLIN FROM THE EAST.

SCATTERED SHOWERS FELL THIS MORNING. BUT THE WEATHER WAS NO WORSE THAN YESTERDAY WHEN THE ATTACK WAS GIVEN AN AIR UMBRELLA WHICH KEPT THE GERMAN AIR FORCE VIRTUALLY GROUNDED. POSITIONS WITHIN 1,000 YARDS OF THE CANADIAN ASSAULT WAVE WERE BLASTED; CHAOS AND RUIN WERE VISITED ON THE WHOLE GERMAN RAIL SYSTEM BACK ACROSS THE RHINE.

AT LEAST 2,000 GERMAN RAILCARS WERE DAMAGED OR DESTROYED--A TERRIFIC TOLL WHEN HEAPED UPON THE WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION OF RECENT WEEKS OF RAIL CUTTING AND TRAIN BUSTING IN THIS WHOLE NORTHERN FRONT.

THE EFFECT ALREADY WAS SO GREAT THAT GERMAN TROOPS SHIFTING FROM ONE SECTOR OF THE FRONT TO ANOTHER IN THE ENEMY'S JUGGLE TO MEET EACH

NEW THREAT WERE KNOWN TO BE HAVING TO USE TRANSIT FACILITIES DEEP IN GERMANY, TRAVELLING MANY TIMES THE NORMAL DISTANCE.

THE GERMAN FLOW OF SUPPLIES NOW IS VIRTUALLY FROZEN ALONG THE WHOLE FRONT WEST OF THE RHINE AND NORTH OF THE MOSELLE RIVER, ALONG WHICH THE AMERICAN THIRD ARMY WAS DRIVING INTO THE REICH. THE FREEZING EXTENDS BACK EVEN WELL EAST OF THE RIVER BARRIER.

LT. GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON'S TROOPS REACHED THE PRUEM RIVER FOR THE FIRST TIME. THEY CAPTURED 1,021 GERMANS YESTERDAY. THEY RETOOK LUTZKAMPEN, TWO MILES INSIDE GERMANY, FROM WHICH THE ENEMY HAD PUSHED THEM WEDNESDAY.

THE 80TH INFANTRY DIVISION ADVANCED IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE TO A POINT TWO MILES NORTHWEST OF BOLLENDORF IN THE NEW 24-MILE PENETRATION AREA OF GERMANY EAST OF LUXEMBOURG. FARTHER SOUTH, THE 94TH DIVISION REPULSED A COUNTERATTACK SOUTHEAST OF SINZ, THREE AND A HALF MILES INSIDE THE REICH NEAR THE MOSELLE.

PATTON WAS HAVING DIFFICULTY IN REINFORCING HIS NEW BRIDGEHEADS AND IN ADVANCING SWIFTLY BECAUSE OF THE RAPID AND FLOODED RIVERS AND THE JAGGED TERRAIN OF THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS IN WHICH HE WAS ATTACKING.

IN NORTHEASTERN ALSACE ABOVE STRASBOURG, THE U.S. 7TH ARMY WAS LASHING FOR THE FIRST TIME IN NEW ATTACKS, BUT THESE WERE ON A LOCAL SCALE.

THE GERMANS WERE EVICTED FROM SOME STRONGPOINTS IN STUBBORNLY DEFENDED OBERHOFFEN, 15 MILES NORTH OF STRASBOURG. HERRLISHEIM AND OFFENDORF, NEAR THE RHINE, WERE FOUND EVACUATED.

FOR CONSIDERABLY MORE THAN A WEEK, EVERY ROAD LEADING TO THE NIJMEGEN SECTOR IN HOLLAND HAD BEEN JAMMED WITH TRUCKS ROLLING UP SUPPLIES AND TROOPS TO THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY. TROOPS WERE BROUGHT FROM OTHER PARTS OF THE FRONT.

THE WHOLE AREA FACING THE CANADIANS WAS SET SEETHING BY THE TREMENDOUS ARTILLERY BARRAGE. THE FOOT TROOPS WENT OVER THE TOP AT 10:30 A.M. THURSDAY. HIGHLANDERS FROM WESTERN CANADA AND FRENCH-SPEAKING CANADIAN FORMATIONS WENT INTO ACTION BEHIND A SKIRL OF BAGPIPES.

JUMPING OFF YESTERDAY MORNING AFTER A HEAVY ARTILLERY AND AIR BARRAGE, ATTACKING BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS GAINED MUCH AS TWO MILES ON A FRONT OF MORE THAN FIVE MILES IN THE FIRST HOUR AND A HALF. BY LAST NIGHT, THEY WERE BATTERING THE OUTER DEFENSES OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

THE NEW ASSAULT, COMING AT A TIME WHEN POWERFUL AMERICAN FORCES WERE BATTLING THROUGH THREE NEW BREAKS IN THE ENEMY'S WESTWALL ON THE CENTER OF THE WESTERN FRONT, APPARENTLY SIGNALLED THE START OF AN ALLIED DRIVE INTENDED TO CARRY TO THE RHINE AND BEYOND--AND PERHAPS INTO THE VITAL INDUSTRIAL RUHR.

SHORTLY BEFORE LAST MIDNIGHT THE GERMAN RADIO BROADCAST THAT "WITHIN THE LAST TWO HOURS EISENHOWER HAS EXTENDED HIS PRELIMINARY OFFENSIVE FARTHER TO THE SOUTH" -- TO THE AREA OF TRIER. TRIER LIES INSIDE GERMANY SOME 20 MILES SOUTHEAST OF WHERE THE U.S. THIRD ARMY NOW IS ATTACKING IN THE DIEKIRCH AREA ACROSS THE LUXEMBOURG BORDER.

THE U.S. FIRST AND THIRD ARMIES ALREADY WERE KNOWN TO BE ATTACKING ON A 70-MILE FRONT INSIDE GERMANY AND THE BERLIN REPORT, AS WELL AS MANY OTHER SIGNS, INDICATED THE ENTIRE ALLIED LINE MIGHT SPRING INTO ACTION.

THE FIRST ARMY WAS ON THE VERGE OF BREAKING OUT ON THE RHINELAND PLAIN BELOW THE ROER RIVER DAM SYSTEM, STILL HOLDING A FLOOD THREAT TO ANY ALLIED FORCES ATTEMPTING TO DRIVE ACROSS THE ROER EAST OF AACHEN.

IN THE SOUTH THE U.S. SEVENTH AND FRENCH FIRST ARMIES WERE VIRTUALLY READY FOR POSSIBLE OPERATIONS BEYOND THE RHINE. ONLY SCATTERED GERMAN POCKETS REMAINED IN THE COLMAR AREA AND THESE APPEARED DOOMED. THEIR LAST RHINE ESCAPE BRIDGE WAS DESTROYED YESTERDAY. NORTH OF STRASBOURG THE GERMANS HAVE EVACUATED THE TOWNS OF HERRLISHEIM AND OFFENDORF.

A39

IN ITS NEW OFFENSIVE THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY WAS ATTACKING THE NORTHERN END OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE, THERE DIVIDED INTO THREE HEAVILY FORTIFIED BELTS.

THE FIRST OPPOSITION WAS DESCRIBED OFFICIALLY AS LIGHT, BUT THERE SEEMED NO DOUBT THE ENEMY WOULD ATTEMPT TO STRIKE BACK WITH INCREASING STRENGTH AS THE ALLIES ADVANCED. ALLIED FLIERS SAID THEY SAW GERMAN REINFORCEMENTS MOVING UP YESTERDAY.

AT THE WESTERN EDGE OF THE REICHSWALD FOREST THE CANADIANS AND BRITISH WERE LESS THAN EIGHT MILES FROM KLEVE AND ABOUT AN EQUAL DISTANCE FROM THE POINT WHERE THE RHINE CURVES INTO HOLLAND TO THE NORTHEAST. KLEVE, LOCATED IN THE NORTHEASTERN EDGE OF THE FOREST, LONG HAS BEEN KNOWN AS THE NORTHERN TERMINUS OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE, BUT THE GERMANS NOW ARE SAID TO HAVE EXTENDED IT BEYOND.

ONCE THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES AT THIS POINT, ALLIED FORCES COULD SWERVE SOUTHWARD ALONG THE WESTERN BANK OF THE RHINE, EFFECTIVELY OUTFLANKING FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S FORCES NOW DRAWN UP ALONG THE ROER RIVER AT THE WESTERN EDGE OF THE FLATLANDS LEADING TO THE RHINE.

THE OFFENSIVE, UNDER THE COMMAND OF LT. GEN. H.D.G. CRERAR, WAS USHERED IN BY A PARALYZING ATTACK WEDNESDAY NIGHT BY A FORCE OF 700 RAF HEAVY BOMBERS ON KLEVE AND GOCH, AT THE LOWER EDGE OF THE REICHSWALD.

ARTILLERY OPENED UP AT 5 A.M. WITH AN EARTH-SHAKING BARRAGE. AT 10:30 A.M. CANADIAN AND BRITISH TROOPS AND TANKS BEGAN STREAMING TOWARD GERMANY FROM POSITIONS SOUTHEAST OF NIJMEGEN, HOLLAND.

GUARDED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ENTIRE SKY ARMADA OF MEDIUMS AND FIGHTERBOMBERS ASSIGNED TO THE U.S. NINTH AIR FORCE, THE ATTACKING TROOPS QUICKLY CRACKED THROUGH MEDIOCRE ENEMY DEFENSES AND BY NIGHTFALL WERE FIGHTING WITHIN THE DARK AND FORMIDABLE REICHSWALD FOREST, INSIDE WHICH THE GERMANS HAVE STRONG CONCRETE DEFENSES.

THE NORTHERN OFFENSIVE AND THE AMERICAN THRUSTS THROUGH THE WESTWALL SOUTHEAST OF AACHEN IN EFFECT WERE NEUTRALIZING THE ADVANTAGE HELD BY THE GERMANS THROUGH CONTROL OF THE ROER RIVER DAM SYSTEM NORTHEAST OF MONSCHAU -- THE FACTOR WHICH, IT HAS NOW BECOME PLAIN, FORESTALLED ANY ATTEMPT TO CROSS THE ROER WHEN THE U.S. NINTH AND FIRST ARMIES REACHED IT EAST OF AACHEN LAST NOVEMBER.

SET UP AS AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE DEFENSES GUARDING THE RHINE APPROACHES, THE DAMS IMPOUND SUFFICIENT WATER TO FLOOD THE ROER ALONG ITS ENTIRE LENGTH TO ROERMOND IN A MATTER OF FOUR HOURS. THE GERMANS THUS COULD TURN THE STREAM AT WILL INTO AN IMPASSABLE BARRIER.

THE U.S. FIRST ARMY ASSAULT NOW THREATENS TO DETOUR AROUND THE ROER RIVER LINE AND THRUST TO THE RHINE SOMEWHERE IN THE VICINITY OF BONN, ALREADY IN SIGHT OF DOUGHBOYS IN HILL POSITIONS NEAR THE CAPTURED WESTWALL BASTION OF SCHMIDT.

THE FALL OF SCHMIDT AND A SIMULTANEOUS FIRST ARMY DRIVE TO A POINT IMMEDIATELY WEST OF GEMUEND TO THE SOUTHEAST FORMED A SEMI-CIRCLE OF STEEL AROUND THE ROER DAMS, ALL NOW RUNNING BRIM FULL.

AT SCHMIDT THE 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION WAS LESS THAN TWO MILES FROM THE SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM, THE LARGEST OF THE SYSTEM AND CAPABLE OF SENDING 170,000,000 TONS OF WATER RUSHING DOWN THE ROER IN AN 18-FOOT TIDE.

A FEW MILES TO THE SOUTH THE NINTH INFANTRY DIVISION ALREADY OCCUPIES THE WEST END OF THE RESERVOIR OF THE URFT DAM, STRATEGICALLY IMPORTANT BECAUSE ITS PENT UP WATERS WOULD LIKELY WASH OUT THE LARGER SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM DOWNSTREAM.

THE ALLIES ON SEVERAL OCCASION[illegible] HAVE TRIED TO KNOCK OUT THE

BY A.I. GOLDBERG

WITH THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY INLALSACE, FRANCE, FEB. 9-(AP)-TWO SOLDIERS OF THE 42ND (RAINBOW) DIVISION CLAIMED A NEW RECORD TODAY FOR HIDING IN HERRLISHEIM -- 31 DAYS.

THEY WERE PVT. EDWARD LABURDA, 18, OF 2724 CORNELL ST., DEARBORN, MICH., AND PFC STANLEY PEMPEK, 25, OF RFD 2, FAIRPOINT, OHIO.

HERRLISHEIM IS A VILLAGE IN THE RHINE VALLEY NEAR THE HAGUENAU FOREST WHICH HAS CHANGED HANDS SEVERAL TIMES IN FIGHTING.

LABURDA AND PEMPEK WERE RESCUED FOUR DAYS AGO AT THE SAME TIME AS SGT. WARREN MAUE, 26, OF DAYTON, OHIO, AND PFC RICHARD HARTMAN, 25, OF LANCASTER, N.Y. THE LATTER PAIR HAD HIDDEN AND PRACTICALLY STARVED FOR 23 DAYS IN A HAYMOW.

LABURDA AND PEMPEK FARED BETTER SO FAR AS FOOD AND LODGING WERE CONCERNED. THEY HAD A CAN OF BEANS AND A CAN OF BISCUITS AT THE START AND LATER FOUND SUCH DELICACIES AS CANNED CHERRIES, STRAWBERRIES AND BREAD.

THE DAY BEFORE THEY GOT OUT THEY FOUND 50 POUNDS OF BACON AND FOUR LOAVES OF BREAD IN AN EMPTY HOUSE.

BUT THEY DID LIVE A HIDE-AND-SEEK LIFE BEHIND THE GERMAN LINES, GAMBLING WITH BEING CAUGHT OR TURNED IN BY UNFRIENDLY CIVILIANS.

HOUSEHOLDERS WERE LOATHE TO LET THEM ENTER THEIR CELLARS TO HIDE, LABURDA SAID. "THEY MADE US UNDERSTAND IN GERMAN THAT IF WE DIDN'T GET OUT WE WOULD CAUSE THEM TO BE KILLED. THEY TRIED TO PUSH US OUT AND WERE CRYING AND WRINGING THEIR HANDS.

"WE WANTED TO STAY UNTIL DARK, BUT THEY WOULDN'T LET US, SO WE RAN DOWN A STREET IN BROAD DAYLIGHT TO ANOTHER HOUSE. THEY CHASED US OUT.

"THEN WE WENT INTO A LITTLE SHED AND HID UNDER SOME HAY. AN OLD LADY SAW US GO IN AND IN ABOUT FIFTEEN MINUTES CAME BACK WITH A GERMAN SOLDIER. HE DIDN'T FIND US AND AFTER HE LEFT WE RAN OUT AND LOOKED FOR FOOD AND A BETTER PLACE TO SLEEP."

AN AMERICAN ARTILLERY BOMBARDMENT UNROOFED A SHED IN WHICH THEY HID AND A SHELL BLEW AWAY PEMPEK'S HAT. THEY FOUND SHELTER IN ANOTHER HOUSE AND WHEN A SHELL DROVE THEM TO THE CELLAR THEY FOUND FIFTEEN QUARTS OF CHERRIES AND PLUMS WHICH THEY TOOK WITH THEM TO A BARN.

ON ANOTHER NIGHT THEY MADE A FORAY, DESPITE THE NEARNESS OF SIX GERMANS IN A HOUSE IN FRONT OF THE BARN, AND FOUND THREE SACKS OF APPLES AND A BAG OF NUTS. THEY WERE UNABLE TO LEAVE THE BARN FOR THE LAST SIX DAYS BECAUSE OF A HEAVY SNOW FALL WHICH WOULD HAVE MADE THEIR TRACKS A GIVEAWAY.

ON FEB. 6 THEY SAW MEN PROWLING THROUGH THE STREET. LABURDA SAID, "I TOLD PEMPEK THEY LOOKED LIKE AMERICANS, BUT COULDN'T BE SURE BECAUSE THE GERMANS SOMETIMES WEAR OUR UNIFORM. THEN I SAW AN OFFICER AND COULD MAKE OUT HIS GOLD BARS. I HOLLERED AND ASKED HIM IF HE WERE AN AMERICAN.

"WHEN HE SAID HE WAS, I RAN OUT TO MEET HIM. I WAS CRYING."

WITH U.S. TROOPS IN LUXEMBOURG, FEB. 9-(AP)-CATCHING IN THE SEIGFRIED PILLBOX LEAGUE IS A GRIM GAME WHERE ONE NEVER FUMBLES MORE THAN ONCE, AS PVT. ISA BARNETT CAN TESTIFY.

THE DARK, STOCKY LAD, WHOSE HOME IS AT 3038 NORTH 16TH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA., STOOD ON TOP OF A BUNKER AND CAUGHT LIVE HAND GRENADES IN A LETHAL DOUBLE PLAY.

BARNETT WAS ON COMBAT PATROL WITH 12 OTHER MEN, ALL NORMALLY HEADQUARTERS PERSONNEL, WHO CROSSED THE OUR RIVER INTO GERMANY, FOUGHT IN AND AROUND A LARGE PILLBOX FOR SIX HOURS, THEN SWAM BACK ACROSS THE RIVER UNDER FIRE. ONE MAN WAS KILLED.

THE CLERKS, COOKS, JEEP DRIVERS AND KITCHEN POLICE, LED BY THE MESS OFFICER, CROSSED BY BOAT JUST AS LIGHT WAS BREAKING AND MADE THEIR WAY INTO GERMANY FOR SEVERAL HUNDRED YARDS.

THEY REACHED THE TOP OF A HEAVY, EARTH-COVERED PILLBOX ON WHICH BARNETT CLIMBED TO A POSITION BESIDE THE STOVE PIPE.

"AFTER I WRENCHED THE RAIN CAP FROM THE PIPE," HE SAID, "I PULLED THE PIN FROM A PHOSPHORUS GRENADE AND SHOVED IT PART WAY DOWN THE PIPE IN POSITION SO THE HANDLE COULD SPRING OUT TO FIRE IT.

"THEN I CALLED TO A COUPLE OF OTHER FELLOWS ABOUT 15 FEET AWAY TO LOOSEN THE PINS OF THE GRENADES AND TOSS THEM TO ME.

"ONE OF THEM PULLED THE PIN OF A FRAGMENTATION GRENADE ABOUT HALF WAY OUT, TOSSED IT TO ME, AND I FLIPPED THE PIN THE REST OF THE WAY OUT AND SHOVED IT INTO THE PIPE.

"THEN I TURNED TO CATCH ANOTHER PHOSPHORUS GRENADE WHICH WAS FIXED THE SAME WAY. I PUSHED THIS DOWN THE PIPE ON TOP OF THE OTHER TWO AND GAVE THEM AN EXTRA SHOVE TO SEND THEM DOWN INTO THE STOVE.

"ABOUT FIVE SECONDS LATER THERE WAS A BIG BOOM UNDER FOOT AND THREE GERMANS WERE LITERALLY BLOWN OUT THROUGH THE DOOR AND INTO OUR TOMMYGUN FIRE."

THIS GAVE THE PATROL CONTROL OF HALF OF THE BIG BOX, BUT A STEEL DOOR BARRED THE WAY TO THE REMAINING PART, WHERE THREE TO FIVE GERMANS WERE HOLED UP.

FROM THIS ROOM A BURST OF TOMMYGUN FIRE CAME THROUGH A NARROW PORTAL, AND RETURN TOMMYGUN FIRE BY PVT. HERBERT BURROUGHS, ASTHABULA, OHIO, STOPPED IT TEMPORARILY.

PVT. LEROY ADAMS, POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., CUT DOWN A THREE-INCH SPRUCE TREE TO CLEAR A FIELD OF FIRE AND SENT A COUPLE OF ROUNDS FROM A BAZOOKA INTO THE STEEL SHIELD PORTAL, BUT THAT DIDN'T FORCE THE GERMANS OUT.

WHILE OTHERS WORKED OUTSIDE, PVTS. HASKELL MARSHALL, CANADIAN, TEX., AND KENNETH GILES, 219 EAST 32ND ST., NEW YORK, AND PFC. EARL COSMAN, CHICOPEE, MASS., WITH THE AID OF A GERMAN-SPEAKING COMPANION WHO LATER WAS WOUNDED, TRIED TO TALK THE GERMANS OUT OF THE INNER ROOM.

"SOME OF THEM APPARENTLY WANTED TO SURRENDER," BARNETT SAID, "AND THERE SEEMED TO BE AN ARGUMENT IN WHICH I AM SURE ONE OR TWO VOICES WERE THOSE OF WOMEN.

"SOMEONE EVEN TRIED TO OPEN THE DOOR FROM THE OTHER SIDE AND WE HEARD THE COMMANDER THREATEN TO SHOOT ANYONE WHO TOUCHED THE DOOR. WE ALSO HEARD HIM CLICK THE BOLT ON A PISTOL OR RIFLE TO BACK HIS THREAT. EVIDENTLY HE CONVINCED THEM BECAUSE THEY DIDN'T COME OUT."

THE TRAPPED GERMANS PHONED BACK FOR HELP, WHICH WASN'T LONG IN COMING.
FROM POSITIONS ALONG A RIDGE, MACHINEGUNS BEGAN RIPPING DOWN ACROSS THE BOX AND RAKING THE RIVER CROSSING, SINKING THE BOAT. THEN CAME HEAVY SHOWERS OF MORTAR FIRE AND INFANTRY BEGAN MOVING IN FROM A TOWN ON TOP OF A BLUFF.
PVT. EUGENE MANN (EDS: ADDRESS UNLISTED) MADE A RUN THROUGH THE FIRE TO THE RIVER, SWAM ACROSS, AND REACHED AN ARTILLERY OBSERVATION POST WHERE CAPT. ROBERT MCDONALD, 93 NORTH FOURTH ST., SPRINGFIELD, ILL., WAS SWEATING IT OUT BECAUSE HE COULDN'T BE SURE WHERE THE AMERICANS WERE AND COULDN'T THROW IN FIRE TO HELP THEM.
"I HAD NEVER SEEN SUCH TERRIFIC AND SUSTAINED FIRE AS THEY WERE PUTTING DOWN ON THOSE BOYS," MCDONALD SAID, "AND I DON'T SEE HOW ANY OF THEM LIVED.
"BUT WITH MANN'S ACCURATE MEMORY AND SKILLFUL DESCRIPTION OF THE GERMAN POSITIONS, WE WERE ABLE TO POUR IT ON. WE KNOCKED OUT ONE MORTAR AND ONE MACHINEGUN AND MANAGED TO KEEP THE INFANTRY FROM SWEEPING DOWN ON THEM."
WITH THE ONLY OFFICER DEAD AND FIVE OTHERS WOUNDED, THE COMBAT PATROL MADE A BREAK AND SWAM BACK ACROSS THE RIVER.

MOSCOW, FEB.9-(AP)-RUSSIAN ARTILLERY ARRAYED ALONG 60 MILES OF THE MIDDLE ODER RIVER TODAY UNLEASHED ONE OF THE WAR'S MOST POWERFUL BARRAGES ON ENEMY CONCENTRATIONS MOVING UP TO THE WEST BANK OF THE RIVER IN AN ATTEMPT TO STAVE OFF THE SOVIET DRIVE ON BERLIN.

THE BITTER FIGHTING, AT SOME POINTS AS CLOSE AS 32 MILES TO THE GERMAN CAPITAL, SHOWED NO SIGNS OF SLACKENING AND THE NAZI PLIGHT WAS MADE MORE CRITICAL BY THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY'S RIGHT FLANK DRIVE TO WITHIN 25 MILES OF STETTIN, BALTIC PORT AT THE MOUTH OF THE ODER.

FROM ZAECKERICK, NORTH OF KUESTRIN, TO FUERSTENBERG, SOUTH OF FRANKFURT, THE TEMPO OF THE BATTLE ROSE.

SOME OBSERVERS SAID THE STRUGGLE FOR CONTROL OF THE ODER MIGHT CONTINUE FOR AT LEAST 10 DAYS BEFORE THE SITUATION BECOMES CLEARLY DEFINED.

WITH THE GERMANS STILL HOLDING BRIDGEHEADS ON THE EAST BANK OF THE RIVER, AND THE RUSSIANS, ACCORDING TO NAZI ANNOUNCEMENTS, WINNING VITAL FOOTHOLDS ON THE WESTERN BANK, THE BATTLE IS A FIERCE TEST OF STAMINA OF THE OPPOSING ARMIES.

UNTIL THE MIDDLE ODER DEFENSES ARE BREACHED ON A SCALE COMPARABLE TO MARSHAL IVAN KONEV'S BREAKTHROUGH IN UPPER SILESIA, THERE IS LITTLE LIKELIHOOD OF MUCH REAL NEWS FROM OFFICIAL RED ARMY CORRESPONDENTS IN THIS CRUCIAL SECTOR. OFFICIAL SOVIET SOURCES ARE USUALLY RETICENT UNTIL A DECISION DEFINITELY HAS BEEN SIGNED.

MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S SLASHING ASSAULT TOWARD THE POMERANIAN COAST APPEARED TO HAVE CAUGHT THE GERMANS AGAIN OFF BALANCE.

A 40-MILE WEDGE OF THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY GROUP BORE DOWN ON THE BAY OF POMERANIA. THE STETTIN, STARGARD AND DANZIG COASTAL RAILWAY WAS IN IMMINENT DANGER OF BEING CUT. LATE DISPATCHES SAID RUSSIAN SELF-PROPELLED GUNS WERE LESS THAN 13 MILES FROM THIS ARTERY.

THREEFOLD STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES LOOMED AHEAD OF THIS BRILLIANT FLANKING DRIVE--THE SEVERANCE OF EASTERN POMERANIA AND THE POLISH CORRIDOR FROM THE REICH, ISOLATION OF STETTIN AND CLEARANCE OF THE LOWER ODER FOR A NORTHERN ENVELOPING MANEUVER AGAINST BERLIN.

YESTERDAY ZHUKOV BAGGED OVER 1,800 PRISONERS IN HIS SEAWARD DRIVE AND IF HIS MOMENTUM IS SUSTAINED HE MIGHT CUT OFF GERMAN FORCES EQUAL TO THE 20 TO 30 DIVISIONS TRAPPED IN EAST PRUSSIA LAST MONTH.

ELBING AND KOENIGSBERG, LIKE POZNAN, IN ZHUKOV'S REAR, WERE UNDER HEAVY BOMBARDMENT, BUT THE ENEMY WAS CLINGING TENACIOUSLY TO SKILLFULLY DEFENDED FORTIFICATIONS.

THE 11TH PARATROOPERS, COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.JOSEPH M.SWING, WERE DRIVING INTO THIS AREA FROM THE SOUTH, AFTER AN AERIAL HOP FROM THEIR BASE ON THE BATANGAS COAST. THEY WERE LAST REPORTED IN A STIFF FIGHT NEAR NICHOLS FIELD.

A206KX

NICHOLS FIELD, EXCLUSIVELY A MILITARY AIRPORT, WAS USED BEFORE THE WAR AS A BASE FOR AMERICAN FIGHTER PLANES AND MEDIUM BOMBERS. IT HAD EXTENSIVE INSTALLATIONS, INCLUDING REPAIR SHOPS, A LARGE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING AND TWO AIRSTRIPS. ABOUT THREE MILES NORTH OF IT, AND STILL APPARENTLY HELD BY THE JAPANESE, IS THE CIVILIAN NEILSON FIELD.

WHILE THE MOPPING UP CONTINUED IN MANILA, THE SIXTH AND 25TH DIVISIONS OF THE FIRST CORPS OF LT.GEN.WALTER KRUEGER'S SIXTH ARMY SCORED NEW ADVANCES IN THE AREA ABOUT 50 MILES NORTH OF THE CAPITAL. CAPTURE THERE OF MUNOZ, RIZAL AND LUPAO CIRTUALLY SECURED THE EASTERN FLANK OF THE LUZON PLAINS AREA. SHARP FIGHTING HAD BEEN REPORTED FOR SEVERAL DAYS, RESULTING IN "VERY HEAVY" JAPANESE LOSSES IN PERSONNEL, GUNS AND ARMOR, SAID FRIDAY'S COMMUNIQUE.

MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED IN HIS SATURDAY COMMUNIQUE THAT AMERICAN P-T BOATS SWEPT THE LUZON COASTLINES, DESTROYING "MANY" SMALL ENEMY CRAFT.

LIBERATORS DROPPED 56 TONS OF BOMBS ON TROOP CONCENTRATIONS ON NORTHERN CEBU ISLAND IN THE CENTRAL PHILIPPINES, STARTING SEVERAL FIRES. SHIPYARDS AT ZAMBOANGA, ON MINDANAO, WERE RAKED BY RECONNAISSANCE PLANES.

A SMALL FREIGHTER AND A PATROL BOAT WERE SUNK BY LONG-RANGE BOMBERS SWEEPING ACROSS THE CHINA SEA TO THE CHINA COASTLINE. A COASTAL VESSEL WAS FORCED AGROUND THERE BY STRAFING. TWO JAPANESE FLOATPLANES WERE SHOT DOWN OFF FRENCH INDO-CHINA.

BORNEO, RECEIVING INCREASING ATTENTION FROM AMERICAN BOMBERS, WAS GIVEN A 60-TON PASTING CONCENTRATED ON SEPINGAN AND MANGGAR AIRDROMES NEAR BALIKPAPAN AND LUBUAN AIRFIELD AT BRUNEIL. TWO PARKED PLANES WERE DESTROYED AND ANOTHER WAS PROBABLY WIPED OUT. A FOURTH FIGHTER WAS PROBABLY SHOT DOWN AT MIRI.

MANILA,FEB.8-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THREE HUNDRED SURVIVORS OF THE ILL-FATED U.S. CRUISER HOUSTON WERE FORCED BY THE JAANESE TO WORK ON LABOR GANGS IN BURMA, IT WAS REVEALED TODAY BY BRITISH AND DUTCH WAR PRISONERS FREED BY U.S. FORCES.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE HOUSTON'S LOSS IN THE BATTLE OF THE JAVA SEA WAS MADE MARCH 14, 1942.

FINAL STATUS OF THE HOUSTON SURVIVORS WAS NOT DISCLOSED BY THE EMACIATED ALLIED PRISONERS WHO ARE RECOVERING IN A U.S. FIELD HOSPITAL IN MANILA.

THE BRITISH AND DUTCH INTERNEES DID FORCED LABOR IN THE JUNGLES OF THAILAND AND SOME OF THEM SURVIVED THE SINKING OF A JAPANESE PRISON SHIP OFF LUZON.

SPEAKING OF THE FORCED LABOR, ONE PATIENT SAID THE WORST TREATED WERE THE INDIAN JAVANESE PLANTATION WORKERS BROUGHT FROM MALAY.

"THEY DIED BY THE SCORES AND THEIR BODIES WERE LEFT FOR THE VULTURES OR THROWN INTO THE RIVER."

ONE OF THE PATIENTS, PVT.WILLIAM CAMPEN, A DUTCH MACHINE-GUNNER, SAID 15,000 DUTCH WERE SHIPPED TO THAILAND IN NOVEMBER OF 1942 TO BUILD A JAPANESE RAILROAD. THE CRUISER HOUSTON CREWMEN WORKED AT THE RAIL LINK'S "END OF THE LINE" IN BURMA.

"OUR FOOD WAS ENOUGH. ENOUGH RICE, THAT IS," CAMPEN SAID.

THEY WERE TRANSFERRED TO SINGAPORE MAY 24, 1944.

"AT EVERY STOP THE MALAY CHILDREN BEGGED FOR FOOD," SAID JOHN ROBSON, 125 ANTI-TANK REGIMENT, ROYAL ARTILLERY. HE IS FROM EAST BOLDON, BURHAM, ENGLAND.

"THE ONLY WAY PEOPLE IN SINGAPORE COULD GET ENOUGH TO EAT WAS TO WORK FOR THE JAPS."

IN JUNE THE PRISONERS EMBARKED ON THE HUKUKO MARU. THE BRITONS SAID SHE WAS TRULY "A HELL SHIP". IN A THREE MONTHS JOURNEY TO MANILA SICKNESS WAS WIDESPREAD.

WHEN THE SHIP STOPPED AT MANILA FOR REPAIRS, 50 OF THE SERIOUSLY ILL PRISONERS WERE TRANSFERRED TO BILIBID PRISON.

IN NOVEMBER OF 1942, LEEDHAM AND LEEGOOD, WITH THOUSANDS OF OTHER WHITES WERE TRANSFERRED TO THAILAND TO BUILD A JAPANESE RAILROAD.

"WE SLEPT IN THE OPEN MUCH OF THE TIME," SAID GUNNER RUPERT WILTON, 25, OF SWALLOW STREET, LONGSIGHT,MANCHESTER. "AFTER CLOTHES WERE WORN OUT THE MEN DRESSED IN RAGS OR WENT NAKED."

THE WORKING DAY BEGAN AT 7 A.M., AND SOMETIMES DID NOT END UNTIL 11 P.M. THE SLAVE WORK CAUSED MANY HUNDREDS OF DEATHS AMONG THE PRISONERS, WILTON SAID. CHOLERA AND TROPICAL ULCERS, CAUSED BY A BAMBOO BUG, RIVALLED DYSENTERY AS MAJOR DISEASES.

THE BRITISH PATIENTS SAID THE WORKERS SABOTAGED THE RAILROAD LINE AS BEST THEY COULD, MIXING CEMENT IN WRONG PROPORTIONS,MAKING WALLS WITH THE CORES OF TREES WHICH WOULD ROT EASILY,AND PLANTING COLONIES OF WHITE ANTS IN THE FOUNDATIONS OF WOOD BRIDGES.

UNDATED DONALD (PRECEDE DAY SYDNEY)
BY RAY CRONIN
CHIEF OF THE FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS MANILA BUREAU

THE WORD FROM AUSTRALIA THAT W.H. DONALD WAS RESCUED BY AMERICAN FORCES WHEN THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP WAS LIBERATED IS PROOF THAT HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE CAN KEEP A SECRET WHERE LIFE AND DEATH ARE INVOLVED.

DONALD, AUSTRALIAN-BORN ADVISER TO CHINA'S GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK, WAS KNOWN BY HUNDREDS OF THE INTERNEES IN THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP. THEY KNEW THAT THE JAPANESE HAD PUT A HIGH PRICE ON HIS HEAD. YET HIS IDENTITY WAS HELD SUCH A CLOSE SECRET THAT NO WHISPER OF HIS PRESENCE EVER REACHED THE NIPPONESE.

THAT HE IS ALIVE TODAY CAN BE ATTRIBUTED MAINLY TO TWO THINGS- FIRST, THE AMAZING CLOAK OF SECRECY THROWN AROUND HIM BY THOSE WHO KNEW HIM WELL; AND SECOND, THE FACT THAT THE JAPANESE SELDOM CHECKED INTERNEE NAMES, BEING INTERESTED MAINLY IN ROLL CALL TOTAL FIGURES.

DURING MY 21 MONTHS IN THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP, PRIOR TO REPATRIATION, I TALKED WITH DONALD MANY TIMES. HE WAS MOST CONGENIAL, BUT NOT TOO TALKATIVE. HE UNDERSTOOD, HOWEVER, THAT EVERY EFFORT WAS BEING MADE BY THOSE WHO KNEW HIM TO KEEP HIS SECRET AND THEREBY SAVE HIS LIFE FOR THE JAPANESE CERTAINLY WOULD HAVE TORTURED AND THEN KILLED HIM IF THEY HAD KNOWN OF HIS PRESENCE.

PRIOR TO THE START OF THE WAR BETWEEN JAPAN AND THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN, DONALD LEFT CHUNGKING WITH A CHINESE SECRETARY, FOR AUSTRALIA TO WRITE HIS MEMOIRS--A RECORD THAT WILL COVER THE INSIDE HISTORY OF CHINA FOR 33 YEARS, DATING FROM HIS DAYS AS SECRETARY TO DR.SUN YAT-SEN THROUGH THE ADMINISTRATION OF CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

THE WAR CAUGHT DONALD AND HIS SECRETARY, A WELL-EDUCATED YOUNG CHINESE WOMAN, IN MANILA, AND THEY WERE INTERNED. FOR A TIME DONALD REMAINED IN THE BACKGROUND, FEARING THE JAPANESE WOULD RECOGNIZE HIM. HE BUILT A PALM LEAF SHACK IN THE REAR OF THE MAIN SANTO TOMAS BUILDING, IN AN AREA CALLED "SHANTY TOWN," AND DURING THE DAY HE COULD BE FOUND THERE DICTATING IN LOW VOICE TO HIS SECRETARY.

GRADUALLY, AS HE BECAME CONVINCED HIS SECRET WAS WELL KEPT, HE CIRCULATED MORE FREELY AND IN THE EARLY EVENING, PRIOR TO ROLL CALL, COULD BE FOUND SEATED ON THE GRASS IN FRONT OF THE EDUCATION BUILDING LISTENING TO PHONOGRAPH MUSIC.

THE FACT THAT DONALD'S NAME ON THE CAMP ROSTER ESCAPED THE JAPANESE IS NOT SURPRISING. SEVERAL TIMES THE JAPANESE MILITARY POLICE CAME TO ME AS CHIEF CENSOR OF THE CAMP AND ORDERED THAT I FIND A CERTAIN INTERNEE FOR THEM. THE BEST WAY OUT WAS TO MAKE THE MILITARY POLICE SPELL THE NAME. THEY NEVER DID SPELL A NAME CORRECTLY. I KNEW WHO THEY WERE LOOKING FOR BUT WOULD SHOW THEM THE ROSTER AND PROVE THAT THE NAME, AS THEY SPELLED IT, WAS NOT REGISTERED.

DONALD, 69 YEARS OLD, WAS IN GOOD HEALTH WHEN I LEFT THE PHILIPPINES IN THE FALL OF 1943. APPARENTLY HE WAS RECEIVING MONEY FROM CHINESE SOURCES OUTSIDE. THEY, TOO, GUARDED HIS SECRET WELL.

AMERICAN ENTRY INTO MANILA IS THE SIGNAL FOR THE "BEGINNING OF OUR CAMPAIGN" ON LUZON AND GEN.TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA, THE JAPANESE COMMANDER, IS "COMPLETELY SATISFIED WITH CURRENT DEVELOPMENTS," A JAPANESE DOMEI NEWS AGENCY BROADCAST SAID TODAY.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY FCC, WAS BASED ON A DOMEI CORRESPONDENT'S REPORT FROM LUZON. THE REPORT QUOTED WHAT IT TERMED RELIABLE SOURCES AS DECLARING THAT YAMASHITA, THE CONQUEROR OF MALAYA AND SINGAPORE, HAD SMILINGLY REMARKED, "NOW THE ENEMY IS IN OUR BOSOM."

THIS MEANT, DOMEI SAID, THAT THE "GENERAL TREND OF DEVELOPMENTS ON THE LUZON FRONT SO FAR HAS BEEN EXACTLY AS HE HAD ENVISAGED AND SUPERBLY PLANNED."

NIGHT LEAD INTELLIGENCE

WASHINGTON,FEB.9-(AP)-THERE WERE INDICATIONS TONIGHT THAT BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM J.DONOVAN'S PROPOSAL THAT THE UNITED STATES SET UP A POSTWAR CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE SYSTEM WOULD ENCOUNTER CRITICAL QUESTIONING IN CONGRESS.

DONOVAN, CHIEF OF THE OFFICE OF STRATEGIC SERVICES, MADE THE SUGGESTION IN A MEMORANDUM TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

SENATOR JOHNSON, (D-COLO), MEMBER OF THE SENATE MILITARY COMMITTEE, SAID THERE WAS NEED FOR STRENGTHENING THE SYSTEM OF OBTAINING FOREIGN INFORMATION, BUT ASSERTED THAT HE WOULD OPPOSE ANY POSSIBILITY OF A "DOMESTIC GESTAPO."

DRAFTED IN REPLY TO A NOTE FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, THE DONOVAN MEMORANDUM PROPOSES A NEW AGENCY, ONE OF WHOSE PURPOSES WOULD BE TO COORDINATE EXISTING INTELLIGENCE ACTIVITIES.

ANOTHER AIM WOULD BE TO COLLECT, EITHER DIRECTLY OR THROUGH EXISTING GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS AND OTHER SOURCES, INFORMATION "CONCERNING THE CAPABILITIES, INTENTIONS AND ACTIVITIES OF FOREIGN NATIONS, WITH PARTICULAR REFERENCE TO THE EFFECTS SUCH MATTERS MAY HAVE UPON THE NATIONAL SECURITY, POLICIES AND INTERESTS OF THE UNITED STATES."

THE ORGANIZATION, DONOVAN MADE A POINT OF NOTING, WOULD HAVE "NO POLICE OR LAW ENFORCEMENT FUNCTIONS, EITHER AT HOME OR ABROAD."

FEB 10 1945

ONE OF ITS FUNCTIONS, HE SAID, WOULD BE THE "FINAL EVALUATION, SYNTHESIS AND DISSEMINATION WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT OF THE INTELLIGENCE REQUIRED TO ENABLE THE GOVERNMENT TO DETERMINE POLICIES WITH RESPECT TO NATIONAL PLANNING AND SECURITY IN PEACE AND WAR, AND THE ADVANCEMENT OF BROAD NATIONAL POLICY."

IN ADDITION, IT WOULD HAVE "SUCH OTHER FUNCTIONS AND DUTIES RELATING TO INTELLIGENCE AS THE PRESIDENT MAY FROM TIME TO TIME DIRECT."

DONOVAN TOLD THE PRESIDENT THAT THE CREATION OF A CENTRAL AUTHORITY, WHICH HE RECOMMENDED BE PLACED WITHIN THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT, "WOULD NOT CONFLICT WITH OR LIMIT NECESSARY INTELLIGENCE FUNCTIONS WITHIN THE ARMY, NAVY, DEPARTMENT OF STATE OR OTHER AGENCIES."

B29 DAMAGE (200)

WASHINGTON,FEB.9-(AP)-SUPERFORTRESSES ARE NICKING THE JAPANESE IN TENDER SPOTS BUT IT IS BECOMING INCREASINGLY EVIDENT THAT THEY HAVEN'T HURT THE NIPS VERY MUCH.

WAR SECRETARY STIMSON ACKNOWLEDGED AS MUCH WITH THE STATEMENT THAT JAPAN'S PRODUCTION CAPACITY HAS NOT YET BEEN "FUNDAMENTALLY WEAKENED" DESPITE THE SPECTACULAR B-29 RAIDS.

TWO OF THE SUPERFORTS' GREATEST ACHIEVEMENTS SINCE THEY MADE THEIR DEBUT OVER BANGKOK EIGHT MONTHS AGO HAVE BEEN THE DESTRUCTION OF THE GREAT FLOATING DRYDOCK AT SINGAPORE AND THE WRECKING OF THE RAMA VI BRIDGE--A VITALLINK ON JAPAN'S INLAND SUPPLY LINES--AT BANGKOK.

BLOWS HAVE BEEN DEALT TO JAPANESE AIRCRAFT AND STEEL PLANTS AT HOME, BUT THERE IS NO SIGN THAT OVERALL PRODUCTION HAS BEEN SERIOUSLY DISRUPTED. BRIG.GEN.HAYWOOD HANSELL, UNTIL RECENTLY COMMANDER OF THE MARIANAS-BASED B-29 FORMATIONS REPORTED IN DECEMBER THAT THE MATSODOKI AIRCRAFT PLANT AT NAGOYA WAS "OUT OF BUSINESS WITH AT LEAST 40 PER CENT OF ITS BUILDINGS DESTROYED."

WITH LIMITED FORCES AND GREAT DISTANCES TO COVER, THE 20TH AIRFORCE'S SHOTS NECESSARILY HAVE BEEN SCATTERED. TOKYO, THE MOST HEAVILY BOMBED B-29 TARGET, HAS BEEN HIT ONLY SEVEN TIMES BY RAIDERS IN FORCE.

POSSIBLY UPWARDS OF 400 B-29S PARTICIPATED IN THE RAIDS AGAINST THE NIPPONESE CAPITAL. WHILE BOMB TONNAGES OF INDIVIDUAL RAIDS ARE NOT DISCLOSED, THE 400 BOMBERS WOULD NOT CARRY IN EXCESS OF 4,000 TONS AND QUITE LIKELY CONSIDERABLY LESS.

BERLIN, THE MOST HEAVILY BOMBED TARGET IN EUROPE, HAS BEEN HIT 16 TIMES BY AMERICAN AIRCRAFT ALONE AND MANY MORE TIMES BY BRITISH BOMBERS. THE 6,435 BOMBERS DROPPED 15,116 TONS OF BOMBS ON THE NAZI CAPITAL.

THE B-29S FROM INDIA, CHINA AND THE MARIANAS ISLANDS, HAVE RANGED MORE THAN 3,500 MILES FROM THEIR BASES--FAR GREATER THAN THE DISTANCES AMERICAN AIR FORCES IN EUROPE HAVE TO COVER.

THEY HAVE STRUCK 51 TIMES, ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS HITTING MORE THAN ONE ENEMY BASE OR CITY SIMULTANEOUSLY. NEXT TO TOKYO, THE FAVORITE TARGETS HAVE BEEN FORMOSA, OMURA, NAGOYA AND BANGKOK.

Nazis Wreck Dam, Too Late to Balk U.S. Drive; Canadians at Edge of Cleve. Reach Rhine; Russians Carve Out New Gains in Germany

FEB 11 1945

CANADIANS SEIZE TWO MORE TOWNS IN KLEVE ASSAULT

Vital Enemy Dam Is Taken After Powerful U.S. Artillery Barrage.

BLOWN UP BY NAZIS

British Forces Near Siegfried Line Bastion, Push into Reichswald.

PARIS, Sunday, Feb. 11—(AP) Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' U. S. First army captured the important Schwammenauel dam on the Roer river yesterday following one of the greatest Allied artillery barrages of the war.

Simultaneously, Canadian First army men scored new gains and took two more towns in their Kleve offensive.

Way Open to Rhineland

Seizure of the Schwammenauel dam, which controls the river's flow, was of paramount importance as the British Second army and the American Ninth now stand poised on the western banks of the Roer for the impending onslaught against the Rhineland.

Hodges' men crossed the dam to reach the opposite banks despite the danger of being blown up by demolition charges set by the Nazis. Earlier in the day the enemy exploded the dam, but U. S. engineers reported the wrecked barrier was not booby-trapped as was expected.

It can now be disclosed that American guns poured 2,000,000 pounds of shells into German positions around the Schwammanuel and other dams during the past six days. Supreme headquarters has announced that this shellfire killed some 200 Nazis, broke up enemy counterattacks and prevented reinforcements from being brought up.

The shattered Schwammanuel dam—one of the biggest along the Roer—was a vital German control point of a river which is the chief barrier before the Allied drive to the Rhine.

As a result of certain enemy demoltions along the Schwammanuel and Heimbach dams—unspecified by Allied headquarters as to their extend and apparently unknown by headquarters spokesmen as to their effect—a certain amount of water is pouring down the Roer. The river overflowed its banks in the Dueren area and was 125 feet wide Friday noon. It then began to recede, however, and dropped four inches by late Friday. Latest reports said it was still receding.

Earlier today Nazi units exploded the gates of the Schwammanuel dam, sending a flood rearing north through the valley in hopes of bolstering their western defenses. In so doing, they tossed away a trump with which they had forestalled since November an Allied smash into the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Canadian First army troops made new gains in their Kleve offensive, capturing two more towns—Heinkont, a mile and a half south of Weiler, and Schottheide, a mile and a half deeper into the Reichwald forest. German resistance in this sector was increasing.

Other Canadian units moved onto high ground south and southwest of the Medieval citadel of Kleve, which the enemy has converted into a Siegfried line bastion.

Allies Use Smokescreens

In this offensive, the Allies have resorted to using smokescreens. They threw one 4,000 yards in length across the banks of the Rhine during the first day of the attacks and followed it up with one twice that length the next day.

Late reports tonight said no important counterattacks had been launched against the Canadians. The Germans have employed some self-propelled guns against troops fighting near the edge of Kleve, but so far no Nazi tanks have been thrown in.

It was not quite clear exactly what happened after men of the U. S. First army's 309th infantry regiment of the 78th division stormed the big Roer dam. What is known however, is that the [illegible] crossed the blown crown of the dam, drove on to the other side and gained complete control of the water barrier.

Had the enemy blown the whole Roer system of seven dams at once, an 18-foot tide would have swept down upon the British Second and U. S. Ninth army positions along the river, creating havoc that would have taken considerable time to repair.

A front dispatch said that the enemy stronghold of Juelich was flooded by a three-foot rise, but that the river already was falling upstream at Dueren and should return to normal in several days.

Even the destruction of the dams themselves, once the Schmannenauel reservoir is emptied, would not produce an additional handicap to the Allies, this account said.

Apparently the Germans were convinced the British and American offensive was about to break out, for they reported strong troop concentrations between the dam and the Canadian front, and in the area of the dam itself.

The Canadians of Gen. H. D. G. Crerar were in the forefront of the assault from the west for the moment, and were less than two miles from the center of Kleve, the northern citadel, and at least halfway through the formidable Reich forest to the southwest.

In gains of two miles on the third day of the offensive, the left wing of the Canadian attack reached the Rhine northwest of Kleve, where a crossing would put the Allies out on the north German plain.

Yanks Peril Pruem

Thirty miles south of Schwammenauel dam, Pruem—another key to the intricate defenses of the Rhineland—was ringed on three sides and under fire as the Third army drove across the Pruem river and were within half a mile of the main escape road to Coblenz.

In northern France, the U. S. Seventh army, spurred by an "on to Germany" battle order, was driving the last Germans from bitterly-defended Oberhoffen, 15 miles north of Strasbourg, and launched three other attacks near the Rhine in the same area.

The destruction of the Roer dam system probably was an even greater blow to the Cologne industrial region, since it obtains part of its electric power from there.

Troops of the 78th division reached the dam, 17 miles southeast of Aachen, early today to find demolitions already in progress.

The Germans first blew a small spillway, the control house of the south gate, and the bridge over the central sluices, to hold back the Doughboys. Then they blew the gates, smashing control machinery so that the gates could not be closed.

By this action, the Germans gained a few more days of time but they lost one of the best cards in their defense system.

By threatening to flood the Roer, the Germans had held that river line with a handful of men for months against far superior forces, allowing Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt to make his great Ardennes bid for victory.

Field Marshal Montgomery's mud-wading British and Canadians on the northern end of the flaming front seized Nuetterden, two and a half miles west of Kleve, and fought on east into the last earthwork defenses two miles from the center of the city.

Forces on the north fought into the Dutch village of Millingen, on the Rhine six miles northwest of Kleve. Here they were more than a mile beyond the point where the Rhine divides into the Waal and Neder Rhine.

Nazi Defenses Smashed

On the south flank of the front, now more than ten miles wide, an attempt by the Germans to form a line and halt the rolling advance was smashed.

The Germans, despite the help of rainy weather and flooding from the Rhine, still were unable to rally for a stand and were having trouble bringing up reinforcements over communication lines smashed by bombs and rockets.

As the roll of prisoners topped 2,500, the Canadians and British bored deeper into the dense Reichswald in the center of the front in what was described as possibly the most rapid progress anywhere on the battlefield.

They had crossed a diagonal highway leading southwest out of Kleve and occupied heights, which would place them possibly five miles from a second highway and railway network at Goch, eight miles south of Kleve.

A front dispatch said the German Seventh paratroop division had been rushed up from Alsace in an attempt to form a line, but was dispersed by heavy artillery fire along the Maas, on the south flank of the drive. Allied troops fighting on that front for the moment were opposed only by mines and artillery fire.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Third army crossed the Pruem river at two more points, making a total of four bridgeheads north of Pruem. The Germans threw in tanks in an effort to check the drive on the vital communications center.

One Third army column in a total advance of 2 miles drove across the stream, slashed across two northern roads and reached a point a mile and three-quarters northeast of Pruem.

Other forces crossed two and a half miles northeast of Pruem. Heavy fighting raged at two other bridgeheads little more than five miles north of the city.

A new threat developed to Pruem as 3d Army troops poured through a nine-mile breach in the Westwall and fought to within a mile and three-quarters of the outskirts from the southwest.

The Germans threw in two counter-attacks against American lines drawn up three-quarters of a mile northwest of the city and were driven back with the loss of four of ten attacking tanks. The Americans then edged a quarter of a mile nearer the city.

It was the heaviest use of tanks yet reported in this sector, and a front dispatch said it indicated the Germans were calling on armor which had been refitted after the mauling in the Ardennes.

Farther to the south, the 3d Army was steadily building up bridgehead strength, where four divisions have crossed into Germany from Luxemburg.

In Alsace, now that the battle for the southern half of the province is ended, attention was swinging once more to the north, where the 7th Army was poised ready to renew its drive on Germany.

Canadians But 2 Miles From Kleve; Nazis Open Roer Dam

FEB 11 1945

Paris, Feb. 10 (AP)—Canadian 1st Army troops plunged within 2 miles of Kleev and almost halfway through the fortified Reischwald today, while to the south Germans dynamited the Schwammenauel Dam, sending flood waters coursing down the Roer River.

German demolitions wrecked the gates of the dam at the Roer's headwaters even as American 1st Army troops reached one side of the big earthen structure, but the retaining wall remained intact.

The flood crest rose to three feet at Dueren on the United States 9th Army line today, then later began receding. But it will be days before the reservoir, impounding 170,000,000 tons of water, drains.

Millingen Entered

Canadian and British troops battled within 2 miles of Kleve after striking through the main concrete belt of the Siegfried Line, and swung their assault arc farther north into the Dutch village of Millingen on the broad lower Rhine just before its splits into its two Dutch mouths.

This push threatened to slice behind the Rhine and the Ruhr.

An advance through and beyond Nuetterden carried closest to Kleve, northern anchor of the original Siegfried Line. A hard thrust southeast through the Reichswald had carried across a diagonal road from Kleve, and won high ground southwest of the bastion town.

New Gains Around Pruem

The Schwammenauel dam is the biggest of a series holding back the Roer River's headwaters. Built of earth around a concrete core, it is 180 feet high and has a drainage area of 258 square miles.

Still farther south United States 3d Army troops fought within three quarters of a mile of the Siegfried prize of Pruem, and made advances of up to a mile today northeast and southwest of the city. The Germans resisted desperately.

Nazis Send More Men

German reinforcements were flung against the Canadian 1st Army's push, which apparently had completely breached the main pillbox line protecting Kleve.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's men seized Nuetterden, 2½ miles from Kleve on the main road to Nijmegen, in a 2-mile push beyond Kranenberg. The town of Mehr, also north of the Reichswald, fell, and Crerar's troops fought into Millingen.

16 Towns Captured

At least 16 towns and 2,500 prisoners have been captured in the Canadian drive, which has gained about 7 miles, but forward troops have now run into elements of at least three veteran German divisions.

The Canadians bored through the Reicheswald itself, and some of the heaviest fighting flared on the southern flank in the lower edges of the forest. Allied progress there was slow.

The 1st Battalion, 309th Regiment of the United States 78th Division reached the Schwammenauel Dam after a half mile advance from the north, with artillery and mortar fire the main resistance.

The troops had no way of knowing whether the huge structure had been wired for demolition.

Three Explosions At Dam

Just after midnight there were three explosions—one at the control house on the south side, another at a spillway bridge, and a third not immediately traced—but the big dam remained intact.

Third Army troops made two new crossings of the Pruem River overnight, and in new advances of up to a mile reached points 2 to 2½ miles northeast of Pruem and 1¾ miles away on the southwest.

Late dispatches from the front said no additional progress had been reported by other 3d Army units that already were within three quarters of a mile of Pruem on the northwest and west.

The Germans counterattacked three times in the Pruem area, twice with tanks, but were beaten back.

20 More Pillboxes Taken

Twenty more pillboxes were cleared in the Habscheid area southwest of Pruem, completing penetration of the main Siegfried belt and widening the breach to 9 miles. Bridgeheads over the Our and Sure rivers in the Dasbourg, Wallendorf and Echternach areas were built up against strong Nazi opposition.

The United States 7th Army cleared long-contested Oberhoffen, southeast of Haguenau. The French 1st Army had liquidated the Colmar pocket, taking 15,000 prisoners.

One field dispatch from the Canadian front said the full extent of gains there could not be disclosed for security reasons.

ROER RIVER VALLEY FLOODED BY NAZIS

Wall of Water Rushes Between American, German Lines.

Gallagher

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 10—(AP) A roaring flood of swift running water, more than 1,200 feet wide, swept down the Roer river valley between the American and German lines today and climaxed the war's cleverest defensive measure on the part of the Germans.

The wall of water which turned the tiny stream into a torrent came from the Schwammenauel and Urft dams. The Germans opened the outlet tunnels last night as they were driven away from the control machinery. Now the tunnels cannot be closed and will continue to discharge water for several days until the dams are empty.

The tunnels are pouring an estimated 1,000,000 cubic feet of water each hour down the valley.

The story of the dams and the part they played on the Western front is one of the most fascinating of the war and only has been partly told so far.

There are seven dams along the Roer's upper reaches but only two that count—the Urft and Schwammenauel. The Urft is a concrete structure built in 1904 and held back 45,000,000 tons of water. The Schwammenauel, a giant earth structure 800 feet thick with a concrete core, held 110,000,000 tons of water.

A young American lieutenant who swam in the Roer as a boy brought the matter of dams under Allied investigation. He remembered the secrecy in which the Schwammenauel dam was built in 1937 under Hitler. He headed a combat team into Aachen and ransacked a power office, finding considerable data on the dam.

When the Allies reached the Roer the Germans had two choices. They could wait until Allied troops crossed the river and then blow up the dams sending an 18-foot wall of water sweeping down the valley which would engulf 25 German towns. This move would have cut off Allied forces on the east bank for days without supplies while the Germans counterattacked and destroyed them. Or the Germans could manipulate the flood gates causing a long series of small floods which would wash out Allied supply lines on a smaller scale but over a longer period.

MONTGOMERY CONFUSES FOE

FEB 11 1945

Nazis Caught By Surprise In Drive East From Nijmegen

By NED NORDNESS

With the Canadian Army in Germany, Feb. 10 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery's winter assault into Germany east from Nijmegen so surprised and confused the enemy that he had not recovered today after three days of battle in which Canadian and British troops have registered convincing gains.

They are gains that the enemy never expected the Allies to make—never expected because a great portion of the area attacked was under water and could only be crossed by boat and because the center of the 7,000-yard front on D-day was so imbedded in mud that even domestic animals kept close to barns.

And to back Nature's barriers was the great dense Reichswald fir forest from whose dark recesses the enemy thought he could blast flat anything that moved across the barren valley separating the two lines.

FEB 11 1945

Reckoned Without Montgomery

But the enemy reckoned without the will Montgomery and without the vast amount of resources the Allies could utilize. And so the enemy was surprised and the Allied troops reached the Reichswald within three hours after the offensive was sprung.

Tonight the German high command apparently still is in the dark as to the strength of the offensive or where it is going. This is partly due to the paralyzed communications which a well-timed aerial program knocked out, but mostly responsible was the timing of the attack.

It Fooled Even The Dutch

Even the Dutch thought the initial attack would be sprung against northern Holland. It is impossible to hide preparations from civilians, and they told one another that the battle must go north through the only high ground in Holland by way of Arnhem to Zuider Zee.

The enemy, always keeping an eye peeled for an Allied venture east from Nijmegen, must have known something of our preparations. The Berlin radio did mention it and announced it was to be an attack into the Reichswald, but an indication the Germans were putting out feelers was the fact that troops were not rushed in to strengthen the battle area. They should have been.

The Reichswald area is the turning point of the Siegfried Line, and once the Allies are past those defenses, the entire Ruhr industrial district is in danger of being overrun.

Belated Cognizance By Nazis

The German military command certainly is taking cognizance of the situation now. Any place it can spare troops it is taking them out of that area for this northern sector. Elements of three divisions already have been identified.

And the enemy has put them on two flanks—for he is not certain where the Allies are heading, and he's taking no chances. It is his intention to guard the nearest important approach to the Rhine and to attempt to halt the Allies edging along the east bank of the Maas, where he's working so feverishly to prepare defenses facing British troops on the west.

Knack Of Doing It Too Late

And the enemy undoubtedly is having worries determining whether this attack may swing

30. 24 — 22871

north to trap his troops in Holland. The enemy doesn't want to be trapped—and he doesn't want to leave north Holland. For there are his headquarters for the wide-spread V-1 and V-2 program.

Everything the Germans have done so far in this campaign has been done too late. He hasn't recovered from the surprise of the unorthodox time of attack and so far has shown no initiative in taking steps to halt it.

It may be that this indecision has decided the timing of the end of the battle in the west.

FRATERNIZING BAN WORRIES AMG MEN

Modification Of Order Regarding Germans Advocated

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Aachen, Germany, Feb. 10 (AP)—Should the Allied command's strict order against fraternization with the enemy stand indefinitely, or should it be modified as early as conditions permit?

This question, more than any other, is being debated among Allied Military Government officials on active duty.

In my talks with AMG officers in the Aachen or Eifel occupied areas almost the first question raised usually has been, "Don't you think the nonfraternization order should be modified?"

"Bound To Break Down"

One whole group of junior officers asked me to listen to their arguments on behalf of some modification of the order's sternness. On another occasion a colonel told me:

"The fellows back home who drafted the order don't know the score. It's bound to break down."

There seems to be a definite difference of opinion between commands higher than the army level and AMG men working under the direction of their respective army commanders.

Both agree that when security is involved there can be no doubt that nonfraternization must be rigidly insisted upon. But the argument begins when life in occupied German towns and villages and the countryside becomes more normal again and when Nazi partisans, in the opinion of AMG specialists based on careful checkups, have been weeded out.

High Command's Viewpoint

The viewpoint of the high command, responsible for the nonfraternization order, as it has been given to me, is that all Germans must share responsibility for Hitlerism was overwhelmingly endorsed by the German people, victories were generally acclaimed; there was no public protest against the inhumanity of the Gestapo against the Jews and later against the peoples of occupied countries.

Moreover, the Germans, according to the high command argument, understand only one language, that of force. They must be reminded that wars do not pay. It is idle to try to convince them by kindness—that was tried vainly after World War I. They must be made to feel the penalty for bringing on two wars.

The high command also believes that the Nazis will go underground, in fact, already have gone underground in the occupied sections. Fraternization, it is contended, involves the constant danger that enlisted men and even some officers will fall prey to insidious Nazi propaganda couched in fine-sounding democratic terms.

Everyone recognizes that when the armies are in movement fraternization may be dangerous from the viewpoint of security. If, for example, an American soldier dates an enemy girl repeatedly, then suddenly fails to keep a date, this is pretty good indication that an army unit is on the move. Conceivably such a girl might work her way through the lines and warn her compatriots.

Mustn't Shake German's Hand

But when AMG personnel week after week and month after month must refuse to enter into any sort of human relation with residents of the occupied area, it becomes increasingly difficult to convince the confused and bewildered Germans that the democratic way of life is better than what they have known.

To the average German nothing is more natural than shaking hands, even with an opponent. AMG personnel must decline a German's proffered hand.

Case Of The German Secretary

AMG officials say they find it embarrassing to be compelled to decline an invitation to spend an evening with some city official, who, although thoroughly certified as non-Nazi, nevertheless is a German citizen and hence falls under the nonfraternization rule. Only rigid official contact is permissible with him.

One AMG officer told me that his German secretary had saved American lives by spotting two Gestapo men still lurking in a bunker after four others had surrendered. Evidently these two planned to overpower the Americans while they were searching the other four for arms.

75% Of Nazi 19th Army Liquidated, Says Devers

With the 6th Army Group, Feb. 10 (AP)—The effectiveness of the German 19th Army has been destroyed and approximately 75 per cent of its personnel has been killed or captured, Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers told correspondents today in reviewing the campaign which eliminated the enemy's Colmar pocket.

More than 15,000 of the German 19th are prisoners today and the figure soon may reach 20,000, he stated.

"We fooled the Germans with the strength of our dispositions in Alsace," the 6th Army Group commander explained. He praised the work of French and American officers who conducted the campaign and lauded the co-operation between French and American units of his command.

Eisenhower Finds Out, But Gets It the Hard Way

Lieutenant Withholds Military Secret From Reporters

PARIS, Feb. 10 (AP).—While waiting for his sedan to be pulled out of a mudhole somewhere in Belgium this week, General Dwight D. Eisenhower sloshed his way to a truck convoy.

"What outfit is this?" he asked Second Lieutenant Walter C. Savage, of Los Angeles.

"That's secret information, sir," Savage replied.

The general agreed, and asked, "Do you know who I am?"

The lieutenant allowed he did.

"Won't you tell me?" the general tried again.

Lieutenant Savage hesitated and looked at newsmen near by.

The five-star general and the young lieutenant walked down the road. The general got the information and the lieutenant got a pat on the back, "Stars and Stripes" related today.

Western Front Push Forecast

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—A full-scale offensive along the whole Western front was predicted today by the German and Russian radios.

Sizing up the Canadian 1st Army offensive at the nothern end of the Siegfried Line, the Berlin radio said "it must be assumed this attack is only the beginning."

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast directed to the German people, said that with the Big Three meeting "it is certain the Allies in the west will soon launch a major offensive."

Berlin said General Eisenhower was employing a thick artificial fog in an attempt to cloak huge troop concentrations southeast of Aachen in a sector now quiet.

In the same broadcast, Berlin suggested that the object of the Canadian offensive may be "to induce von Rundstedt to withdraw troops from other sectors."

ELBING CAPTURED BY SOVIET FORCES

New Spearhead Within 52 Miles Of Baltic Sea

London, Sunday, Feb. 11 (AP)—Russian troops captured the East Prussian port of Elbing and drove a new Pomeranian spearhead to within 52 miles of the Baltic yesterday, while Berlin announced that other powerful southern formations had broken into the suburbs of Liegnitz, big industrial city and road hub guarding the back door to Breslau, lower Silesian capital.

The battle for Berlin's immediate approaches was cloaked in security silence by Moscow, but German broadcasts indicated that the Red Army had broken the last substantial Nazi resistance east of the Oder River and had crossed the stream in great strength at points 30 to 43 miles from Berlin.

25 Miles In Two Days

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army in Silesia was reported to have smashed 25 miles west of the Oder River in two days, penetrating to within 92 miles of Dresden, German Saxony stronghold 90 miles below Berlin, but Moscow's communiqué did not mention this sector either.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's 2nd White Russian Army toppled Elbing, a city of 71,000 and the site of shipbuilding yards and big engineering works, a day after its encirclement had been announced by the Russians. His troops smashed a fanatically resisting garrison which had been bolstered by German marine units, and captured 4,300 prisoners Thursday and Friday, Moscow said.

Used Two Battleships

"Several thousand" Germans were slain at Elbing, second largest city in East Prussia and a factory center for locomotives, submarines and torpedo boats, the midnight Soviet supplemental communiqué said. Four thousand Germans also were killed during the day in the area south of Koenigsberg, it said.

The Germans had used the guns of their last two sizable ships, the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and Luetzow, in an effort to hold Elbing, the base for German counterattacks which tried vainly to break the trap sprung on thousands of Nazi troops to the east. The ships stood off the Baltic coast and pumped shells into Russian positions, the enemy said.

Preussich-Eylau Falls

Elbing's fall released thousands of Russians for a probable assault toward Danzig and also furnished more Soviet striking power to be turned against the remnants of perhaps 200,000 men originally estimated trapped south and southwest of Koenigsberg.

In narrowing this pocket to approximately 750 square miles of East Prussia's 14,283, Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's 3d White Russian Army captured Preussich-Eylau, an eight-way road and rail junction 20 miles south of Koenigsberg. These troops also seized 30 near-by localities on a 15-mile front during the day, gaining up to three miles.

One hundred and thirty miles northeast of Berlin, in Pomerania, the right wing of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army overran 40 localities on a 45-mile front, and all but encircled Deutsch-Krone, large German communications center and fortified city 12 miles northwest of encircled Schneidemuehl.

Only a 6-mile gap remained to be closed by the Russians who seized Klausdorf, 3½ miles northeast of Deutsch-Krone, and Stranz, 4 miles southwest of the junction town. Other points 3 miles south and north of Deutsch-Krone had been captured previously.

Through the six-mile gap between Klausdorf and Stranz the German garrison has a single road open to Maerkisch Friedland, 16 miles to the west and 42 miles east of menaced Stargard, outer bastion of Stettin, Baltic port at the mouth of the Oder which is the target of another Soviet drive aimed at sealing off all Pomerania, the Polish corridor and Danzig.

Maerkisch Friedland itself was threatened by Soviet units that seized Hansfelde, eight miles to the northeast; Klein Nakel, 10 miles on the southeast; and Danzig, 11 miles on the southwest.

Twenty-two miles northeast of Deutsch-Krone other Soviet units captured Knacksee and Gross Born, 10 miles south and southwest of the important communications town of Neustettin. At Gross Born the Russians were 52 miles from the Baltic and only eight miles from a secondary Stettin-Danzig railway line.

Rederitz, 13 miles north of Deutsch-Krone, and Hoffstaedt, 10 miles northwest of that threatened bastion, were among the localities taken on this front after the Russians had by-passed surrounded Schneidemuehl.

The German garrison at Schneidemuehl and also at Poznan, western Poland stronghold 50 miles to the southeast, still was holding out, but Berlin reports indicated that Poznan was on the verge of falling. It is the last big Polish city in German hands.

In Silesia the Russians were reported by Berlin to have driven 25 miles west of Steinau, on the Oder 32 miles northwest of Breslau, to reach Kotzenau, 92 miles from Dresden. Seventeen miles to the southeast they broke into the suburbs of Liegnitz, controlling all direct communications between Berlin, Breslau, and Upper Silesia, and also reached a point five miles south of Liegnitz.

Breslau Outflanked

Breslau, Germany's eighth city of 630,000, already was outflanked with the drive to Liegnitz, and Berlin said it was threatened with imminent encirclement since another Soviet force now has gone over to the attack southwest of Breslau, spearing to within nine miles of the provincial capital. Judging from enemy broadcasts the German garrison now has only a 30-mile gap remaining open west of Breslau. The Czechoslovak border had broken into Bielsko, Polish Silesian junction town only 17 miles from the big mining center of Cieszn (Teschen) on the Moravian frontier, and 31 miles from Moravska Ostrava, the Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia.

In the western part of Budapest the Russians captured several more blocks of buildings and on Friday took 1,300 more prisoners, Moscow said. A total of more than 11,000 prisoners has been taken by the Russians in eleven days, and German strength was reported ebbing fast after a siege that began with street fighting late in December.

A Moscow broadcast last night quoted a report from a Soviet officer who had traveled 300 miles from the Vistula to the Oder river over roads feeding Marshal Zhukov's "Berlin front."

"A great force is moving on the German capital," he said. "I had to pick my way through endless columns of troops and machines heading west. Every tank and gun was marked 'Berlin'".

ELBING IS SEIZED BY RED ARMY IN EAST PRUSSIA

Fall of Baltic Port Opens Way to Danzig, 32 Miles West.

KOENIGSBERG NOOSE TIGHTER

Russians Closing In From All Sides—Big Battles Rage on Oder.

London, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—The Russians captured the Baltic fortress port of Elbing guarding the path to Danzig today, and to the northeast closed on Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia.

Elbing lies thirty-two miles southeast of Danzig itself and is on the right bank of the Vistula River. Marshal Stalin announced its fall in an order of the day.

For days the encircled city had been pounded by heavy guns of Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army. Berlin said Nazi naval units, including the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, were firing at the attacking Russians.

Red Army forces were closing from all directions on Koenigsberg, and Germans said American amphibious tanks made up part of the assault forces.

Gen. Ivan S. Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army has captured Preussich-Eylau, twenty-two miles south of Koenigsberg, Moscow announced in a second order of the day. This further tightened the steel box on some twenty German divisions backed toward the sea in western East Prussia.

Simultaneously tremendous battles for position raged up and down the Oder River front as the First White Russian Army of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov maneuvered for a big push on Berlin.

Zhukov Seen Regrouping.

The Germans have reported the Russians across the middle Oder thirty-five miles due east of Berlin and the slashing of north-south communications between Kuestrin, Frankfurt and Fuerstenberg, key cities in the defense forefield of the German capital.

Marshal Zhukov's troops, according to the enemy, were pressed back further to the Oder from their bridgeheads between Fuerstenberg and Kuestrin, but Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow declared that Marshal Zhukov was engaged in regrouping and sparring for position and that no signs had developed yet of an all-out drive along the shortest route to Berlin.

There were indications that Russian troops along the Oder might be reinforced soon as the enemy garrisons at Koenigsberg, Elbing, Poznan, Schneidemuehl, Arnswalder and Budapest continued losing strength and falling closer within Red Army rings. Russian accounts said the Germans holding out in a section of Budapest were near extermination or capitulation.

The Germans reported that the Russians had thrown in strong forces on the newly active Breslau-Liegnitz-Glogau front and had rolled thirty-five miles west of Breslau in Silesia. In Pomerania the Russians have pushed to within seven miles of Stargard and twenty-five miles southeast of Stettin, the Baltic port for Berlin.

Enemy accounts described the big new drive by Marshal Ivan C. Konev in Silesia as gigantic and said that it had reached the edge of Liegnitz, transportation and industrial center of 76,000 on the direct Berlin-Breslau communications lines. Liegnitz is 135 miles southeast of Berlin.

Moscow dispatches, although not directly confirming the German reports, said early today that Marshal Konev had stepped up his attacks along the Oder and was threatening to split the Germans defending Silesia and the southeastern roads to Berlin.

Breslau's Nazi garrison appeared in imminent danger of complete encirclement. The Russians simultaneously were threatening to break open the door into German Saxony in their drive on Liegnitz.

The Germans said the Russians were fighting in the outskirts of Damm, eastern suburb of Frankfurt.

Enemy broadcasts said a terrific battle was raging immediately west of Kuestrin, where the Russians mounted a threat to encircle the city.

New Penetration Reported

Another German broadcast reported a new penetration by Marshal Zhukov's forces to the Oder, opposite Schwedt, 36 miles northwest of besieged Kuestrin and 45 miles northeast of Berlin.

Berlin said the heaviest fighting was in Pomerania, where the Nazis, aware that the capture of Stettin would set up a solid Berlin assault arc along the Oder to below Frankfurt, were resisting desperately. The Soviet supplemental communiqué said 5,000 Germans were killed yesterday in the area.

REICH VILLAGES HIT ALONG RHINE

Fortified Towns Ripped Apart by Dive-Bombers and Strafers.

LONDON, Sunday, Feb. 11—(AP) Allied night raiders aroused western Germany early today, the Nazi radio reported, after a series of day-long attacks by front-line bombers and fighters which flew 1,500 sorties yesterday against Reich villages along the Rhine.

A small force of 150 American heavy bombers and 130 fighters smashed U-boat pens at Ijmuiden, Holland, and exploded a gasoline dump at Duelmen, southwest of Muenster, Germany, yesterday.

Two Fortresses Lost

Two Flying Fortresses were reported lost and 18 continent-based craft were missing, but a dozen fortified German villages were ripped apart by dive-bombers and strafers.

The U. S. Ninth Air force flew almost 900 sorties and the RAF Second Tactical Air force made 600 trips over the front lines, the pilots concentrating on transport feeding into German positions and hitting 420 pieces of rail equipment and 147 vehicles.

Ijmuiden, one of the most active U-boat bases the Nazis have left on the European coast, has been bombed four times in the past week.

The blows at Duelmen and Ijmuiden followed widespread attacks last night by light bombers of the tactical air forces on the continent against highway convoys and rail traffic and a rocket assault on enemy shipping off the Norwegian coast by RAF coastal command Beaufighters.

The British rocket planes hit and set afire a destroyer, an escort vessel and a minesweeper. Two German fighters were shot down. The operation cost nine Beaufighters.

Planes Hit U-Boat Pens, Fuel Depot

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—A large factory near Liverpool which has been turning out Halifax bombers, will be released to the Dunlop Rubber Company in the near future for nonwar manufacturing, it was announced today.

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—United States Flying Fortresses attacked a German motor fuel depot at Duelmen, southwest of Muenster, today and submarine pens at Ijmuiden on the Netherlands coast. Only 150 heavy bombers and approximately 100 fighters participated in both operations.

Ijmuiden, which has been bombed four times in the past week, is one of the most active submarine bases the Nazis have left on the European coast.

Nazi Convoys Bombed

Road and rail convoys in the Netherlands and western Germany were attacked last night by Continent-based Tactical Air Force light bombers.

Sixty-eight Nazi planes including five jet-powered Messerschmitt-262's were destroyed in daylight yesterday and Allied losses were 26 planes.

German jet planes, escorted by regular fighters, challenged 1,300 American heavy bombers and almost 900 escorting Mustangs and Thunderbolts over the key rail targets of Lutzkendorf, Weimar and Magdeburg.

It marked the first time the ten-mile-a-minute jet craft had penetrated the American fighter screen for a direct attack on the bombers.

23 Nazi Planes Bagged

American fighters shot down 23 German planes and ripped apart 41 others on the ground. Four more Nazi planes were shot down by RAF Spitfire pilots on offensive sweeps over the battle lines and a dive-bombing attack on a V-2 oxygen plant in Holland.

Allied losses for the day were nineteen American bombers and five fighters and two British fighters.

PEACE-TERM WORD HELD DUE

FEB 11 1945

Big 3 May Try To Subvert Goebbels's Assertions

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Big Three, in a move to eliminate Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels's dire interpretations of unconditional surrender, may soon lay down the first specific statement of the price the German people must pay for ten years of Nazi militarism.

This possibility was raised in both British and American quarters today with the prediction that a formal outline of surrender provisions would be timed to coincide with a major military setback for the Germans.

Victory Terms Taken Up

Just when this will be remained uncertain, but its importance was reflected in unofficial reports that the Allied leaders turned their attention to victory terms soon after completing military discussions at their Black Sea conference.

The likelihood that these reports were well-founded was strengthened by indications that the meeting somewhere in the Black Sea area, attended by one of the greatest arrays of diplomatic experts since the Versailles peace parley, already has lasted longer than was originally scheduled. There was some speculation that the announcement awaited a new military development.

Two Points Of Difficulty

In London, it is believed that the difficulty of finding a formula to break Volkssturm resistance of the Aachen patter has centered on two points:

Russia's reported plan to use forced German labor to rebuild cities ruined by German forces, just as the Germans themselves used slave labor from all over Europe in their years of triumph. Neither Britain nor the United States want such forced labor for their own use.

Whether Germany's industrial machine should be dismantled completely, or allowed to continue under Allied control to supply the immediate needs of Europe, or be shifted to other countries as part payment for war damage.

Last Before Victory

On the mildness or harshness of the Big Three's proposals will depend in a large measure on the ability of Nazi propagandists to convince the Germans that they should fight on in the face of overwhelming reverses.

Informed sources here said meager reports seeping from the Big Three meeting place indicated the conference had progressed harmoniously and one explained the length of the meeting by saying it would be the last before victory over Germany.

FEB 11 1945

Declaration Of Peace?

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—A means of ending the war through a declaration of peace if the Germans fail to surrender may be under consideration at the Big Three conference, informed quarters suggested today.

Supporting this possibility was Prime Minister Churchill's statement in a recent House of Commons war review that the Allies would fight the German Army until resistance ceases but at some point may declare the war at an end and treat holdout Nazis as guerrillas.

Various roundabout reports have said that the Germans already are storing food and war equipment in the central German hills for a last-ditch guerrilla stand. Such last resistance groups might face death as outlaws within their own country, for guerrillas normally are not accorded military rights.

Germany's own history in this war provides a precedent for such a procedure. After Polish forces had been thoroughly disorganized in Germany's invasion of Poland those fighting behind German lines were branded as guerrillas.

Paris Denies Big 3 Invited De Gaulle

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—A Reuters dispatch said tonight that it had been officially denied in Paris that Gen. Charles de Gaulle had been invited to take part in the Big Three conference now in session in the Black Sea area.

Earlier tonight, after reporting that the French leader had been invited to attend, the Paris radio quoted the French News Agency as saying it was unable to confirm the report.

The original Paris broadcast treated the story as fact. The French news agency referred to it as a "rumor."

[In Washington, the United States State Department said it had no information one way or another as to whether an invitation had been extended to de Gaulle.]

Caps Long Discussion

The broadcast said the invitation came as President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin completed the "purely military" aspects of their discussions and prepared to take up political questions.

The question of whether de Gaulle would be invited to confer with the United Nations leaders has been discussed in the French press for several weeks, virtually all the commentators insisting that his presence at the meeting of the chiefs of the Allied powers was essential if a permanent peace for Europe were to be evolved.

Now "Big Four"

"The greatest news of the day is the invitation extended to France to participate in the conference of the Big Three, which will thus become the conference of the Big Four," the Paris radio report said.

The Paris broadcast as reported by the FFC said that de Gaulle had accepted the invitation to meet with Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin.

It observed that political problems to be discussed at the meeting would "undoubtedly affect the security and very existence of the French nation."

REICH BLIGHT PLAN CHARGED

Nazi Call To Fight Depicts Occupation Effects

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—German propagandists told their people today that if they failed to fight to a finish they could expect armed occupation of the entire country for a dozen years and occupation of strategic areas until the year 2000.

"Germany knows the price of continued warfare," said the political commentator Hans Haertel, in a domestic broadcast, "but it is preferable to be killed in battle than to commit suicide by capitulation."

While the Allies pressed deeper into Germany on east and west, the broadcaster called anew on the Germans to resist.

Renews Call To Resist

"History has no example for our enemies' plans of hatred," he said. "There will be no German industry, no air force, not even civil aviation. No German pilots may be trained. Submarines will disappear. All able-bodied men will be carried off to Russia, France and other countries for forced labor.

"Germany will be occupied for twelve years and strategic points until the year 2000. No German police force will be permitted."

Called Terror Attack

Meanwhile, the DNB agency complained of what it called "the Allied terror attack on Weimar." American heavy bombers raided the town's war plants Friday. DNB said: "The Goethe and Schiller house and the National Theater were completely destroyed and the well-known Herder Church was largely destroyed."

Reports of internal disturbances inside Germany continued to come from a variety of sources. The Moscow radio said in a German-language broadcast that a detachment of sailors had mutinied at Bremen when ordered to leave their ship and fight alongside land forces. This story was unconfirmed, but the German radio did say that naval forces had been fighting beside land troops at Elbing.

Reports Refugees Rioting

The Moscow radio also said rioting had occurred among German refugees in Berlin when the SS Elite guard commandeered a soup kitchen where the refugees had been eating.

The Paris radio said that a Swede returning from Berlin had reported a state of siege was imminent for the German capital and that police and Nazi party leaders were no longer able to maintain order and safeguard food supplies.

The Berlin correspondent for the Stockholm paper Svenska Dagbladet wrote that the distance from Berlin to the front was "only a short automobile trip" across a territory lined with barricades and mines among which refugees streamed.

Tells Of Defenses

This correspondent, claiming to be the first writer to have seen the German defenses west of the Oder river, wrote:

"We meet gangs of troops felling timber in the surrounding woods on both sides of the road. We meet columns of heavily loaded war trucks headed east and others, empty, going west. We see masses of barricades everywhere along the road."

The correspondent told of seeing volkssturm recruits being trained.

30. 24— 22873

alongside regular army men near the front. He quoted these men as saying: "Berlin may fall, but we will fight on the other side."

The Moscow radio said that Heinrich Himmler's executions of "cowardly" German municipal officials had led several high Nazi functionaries to flee and that rewards had been offered for their capture.

Famine Threat Seen In German Losses Of Food

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—British economic experts estimated tonight that Germany had lost roughly 16,000,000 tons of food supplies as a result of the Russian advances and said that the food situation within the country might be tragic by autumn.

They agreed, however, that Germany probably would be able to stave off famine until after spring.

These experts said that Germany's food situation deteriorated rapidly during the past six weeks because of disorganized transport and the influx of millions of refugees from areas overrun by the Russian armies.

Lost Eighth Of Meat Supply

Germany has lost an eighth of the regular meat supply, a third of sugar, a fourth of the potatoes, a fifth of the milk and cheese and a tenth of the butter, an official of the British Ministry of Economic Warfare estimated.

Last November the Germans said that their reserve food stocks built up from occupied countries were then seriously depleted and that Germany would have to face this winter with her own resources.

During the past week the Germans announced that the sugar ration which had covered a two-month period now must be extended to last three months. They also said that a ten per cent reduction would be made in other rationed foods.

Declaring that Germany's potato crop gradually has been diminishing since the beginning of the war, a British economic warfare spokesman estimated the 1944-45 crop at approximately 38,000,000 tons.

Large stocks were left behind when Soviet armies rolled into Silesia, East Prussia and Poland. The German potato loss was estimated at approximately 9,500,000 tons.

German bread grain stocks for 1944-45 were estimated at 10,000,000 tons, of which Silesia produced ten per cent, East Prussia six per cent and Poland more than 1,000,000 tons. The Germans stand to lose approximately 700,000 tons when Pomerania is cut off.

Silesia Big Sugar Source

The Reich's sugar production was estimated at only 1,500,000 tons. The Soviet occupation of Silesia has deprived Germany of her biggest source of sugar.

Despite the reduction in Germany's total meat supply, the economic warfare official said there was no particular meat shortage now since the Germans are killing off stock and distributing it locally because they are unable to get grain feed for the animals.

"But the Germans are operating on a hand-to-mouth basis by killing off stock without being able to maintain the source," he said.

CHURCHILL'S REBUKE 'LEAKS'

Gist Of Sharp Reply To Franco Proposal Becomes Known

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's knuckle-wrapping rebuke to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's confidential proposal for a western anti-Soviet alliance developed tonight into one of the war's most mysterious "leak" stories.

London papers published last month suggestions that Churchill and Franco had exchanged some sort of letters in November, but the Deputy Prime Minister, Clement Attlee, told Parliament on December 31, "it would be contrary to established usage to make these confidential exchanges public."

"Plain Words To Franco"

A story from Washington on February 8 on the Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin conference quoted unidentified sources on the contents of the letters, and the Times of London, reported similarly today under the caption "Plain Words to Franco."

British Foreign Office representatives declared there had been no official announcement of the contents of either Franco's letter to Churchill or the latter's answer. But it was plain that the contents could have been obtained here only through an official leak or through a plant.

Correspondence Confirmed

Foreign Office spokesmen maintained silence except to confirm that there had been correspondence between the two leaders, and to add that they were not contradicting the general substance of news stories published here and in the United States.

They made it clear the correspondence was of a highly confidential nature, whose official publications could be permitted only if both parties gave consent.

Meanwhile British newspapers and agencies declared Churchill had used "cold and biting" phrases in replying to Franco's proposals, which included an offer to act as mediator for a negotiated peace between Germany and Britain.

Perspective And Pleasure

The British Press Association's diplomatic correspondent said neither the British people nor those of Allied nations likely would have the pleasure of reading Churchill's letter.

"There is no doubt, however, that British authorities would be only too pleased to publish the text of the correspondence—if only for the reason that it would place Mr. Churchill's 'few kind words to Spain' speech in its proper perspective," he added.

The Press Association said Franco had admitted Hitler was on the point of defeat and that Europe consequently was threatened with Sovietization, which made it imperative that Spain and Britain get together to "face the menace." Then Franco was alleged to have proposed a western anti-Soviet bloc.

Copies To Stalin, Roosevelt

"I understand," the press association's diplomatic writer said, "that he wound up by emphasizing it was because of his 'Christian principles' that he made these proposals, and that Spain and Britain should proceed to form the main pillars of a new world security organization."

Churchill's reply was said to have turned down Franco's proposals bluntly, and to have shown that Britain regarded the Franco régime coldly.

Churchill left Franco with no doubt that the general would not be a delegate to the peace conference, and that it was very unlikely that Spain under her present régime would be invited to join the United Nations in a world security organization, it was reported.

Franco was understood further to have been informed that copies of both his letter and the reply were being forwarded to Marshal Stalin and President Roosevelt.

War Moves Laid To Argentina

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—A charge that Argentina was preparing to stir up new armed conflict and a renewed demand for punitive measures against Germany were placed before the World Trade Union Conference today.

Vincente Lombardo Toledano, of Mexico City, president of the Latin American Federation of Labor, declared that a "dangerous infection"—Fascist dictatorship—existed in Argentina and that she was using German funds and technicians to arm.

Calls Conflict Aim

"And the only possible reason to arm," he continued, "is to create armed conflict."

J. B. Carey, American CIO representative, said his organization supported plans for complete economic subjugation of Germany, including the proposal of Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trade Union Congress, for transfer and internationalization of some of Germany's heavy industry and its employés.

These measures, he asserted, are not beyond realization.

The conference of labor union representatives will resume debate Monday on labor's role in world security.

Speaks For Small Nations

Toledano said he represented the smaller countries, and the burden of maintaining world peace must fall on strong nations "able to wage war."

There is a "tremendous difference," he said, between traditional dictatorships of some Latin American countries, which are based on economics, and the political Nazi-type dictatorship which he said prevailed in Argentina.

With the latter he grouped the governments of Spain and Portugal which, he added, labor unions must help "to liberate, too."

Toledano reviewed a resolution adopted by his federation calling for severe punishment of Nazi war criminals and punishment of the German people to make them understand war is unprofitable. He said this represented the views of 4,000,000 workers in seventeen Latin American countries.

M. A. Gazier, the French delegate, said peace conditions should be discussed with the help of French workers and that France was entitled to equality with other United Nations in this respect.

On Germany

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Complete economic subjugation of Germany for years to come was indorsed by the CIO today before the World Trade Union Conference.

J. B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said the organization favors internationalization of a part of the Reich's industrial areas, and believes German labor should be required to rebuild war-wrecked Europe.

He told conference delegates that the CIO supports measures which would completely destroy "every vestige of Nazism and Fascism."

Backs Citrine's Plans

He added that the CIO was in full agreement with the peace proposals enunciated yesterday by Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary for the British Trades Union Congress. Among other proposals, Citrine advocated setting up an international TVA in the Rhine and Danube River valleys.

"We pledge the force and strength of our organization to see that the measures adopted at this conference are obtained," Carey said. "These measures are not beyond realization."

London Taxis Emigrate To Track 20 Miles Off

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—London suffered its worst taxi shortage of the war today as racegoers hired some 300 of the vehicles to take them to a steeplechase at the Windsor race course, nearly 20 miles away.

The distance was the limit for London taxis. Previous wartime steeplechase meetings had been held farther from the capital.

Persons remaining in London simply had to take a bus or subway or walk. All except a few of the taxis waited at the track at least five hours, and on the trip back virtually every cab carried four or more persons, at a minimum rate of $4 each.

In some instances passengers paid as much as $50 for a guaranteed round trip.

Nazi PW Killed In Riot In England

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—One German prisoner of war was killed and four wounded Wednesday by guards quieting a disturbance that followed the escape of seven prisoners from a camp in northwestern England, the British War Office announced today.

A court of inquiry is investigating.

It was reported unofficially there had been numerous disturbances at German prisoner-of-war camps recently as word spread of Nazi setbacks on the Russian front.

BBC Reporter Lost In Raid On Berlin

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Guy Byam, British Broadcasting Company reporter, is missing in action since last Saturday's Flying Fortress attack on Berlin, United States 8th Air Force headquarters announced today.

The plane in which he made the flight was struck by flak over Berlin and two engines were knocked out, and it was last heard from over the North Sea, the announcement said. Byam was a veteran of many combat missions.

UNRRA READY FOR REICH

2,000 Will Go to France Soon to Rush In for Foreigners' Aid

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration said today that 2,000 of its representatives would go to France shortly on stand-by orders for moving into Germany to handle millions of displaced European nationals.

An official explained that, through an agreement between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Director General Herbert H. Lehman, UNRRA would participate in the occupation under Allied military supervision.

"Our units," he said, "will follow just as soon as the troops take over any area."

Special UNRRA personnel, divided into self-contained teams, will go to France for training. Sixty per cent of the personnel will be from the Continent, with the remaining 40 per cent, about 800, American and British.

"A majority of our workers will be French since 2,500,000 French prisoners of war and forced laborers must be returned to France," the official explained.

He added that each team would have a director, deputy director, medical officer, administrative nurse for organizing nursing welfare, an officers' mess and a supply officer.

14 U.S. Flyers Killed In London Fort Crash

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Fourteen American airmen were killed recently when two bomb-laden Flying Fortresses collided near London, it was disclosed today.

Four crew members parachuted safely, the United States Strategic Air Force announcement said.

One of the men who escaped, Sergt. Frederick O. Walsh, 21, of Mobile, Ala., was gunner of a bomber which broke in half after the crash.

Sharp Explosion

"We'd just swung in an arc across London when I looked up and saw another bomber slipping wildly down on us," Walsh said. "There was only time to shout a warning into the interphone before the other plane pancaked on us with a grinding roar. There was a sharp explosion and I lost consciousness.

"When I came to I was lying at the base of the top turret. The whole cockpit was ablaze. I could see the skipper and the copilot slumped in their seats, the bodies burned almost black. I thought of getting out, but I discovered my 'chute was gone.

Plane Nearly Blown In Half

"The plane was blown practically in half by the explosion and the wind was whistling through the opening. My 'chute was dangling in space, held only by a part of the harness which caught on a jagged edge of metal a few feet from me.

"Finally I managed to grab it, pull it on and jump. The 'chute opened only a few feet above the rooftops. I landed with a rough jolt."

The names of the victims and other survivors have not been released.

130,554 French Lost In War, Paper Says

Paris, Feb. 10 (AP)—The newspaper l'Ordre said today that five years of war had cost France 130,554 military and naval personnel killed, wounded or missing, of whom 103,233 were killed while fighting in the army in France, Africa and Italy. These figures excluded prisoners.

At the time of France's fall the Germans said they had captured more than 1,900,000 French troops, including 29,000 officers.

4 More Sentenced In Paris Loot Trial

Paris, Feb. 10 (AP)—Four more enlisted men were sentenced today to from three to ten years imprisonment by a general court-martial trying members of a railway operating battalion on charges of wrongfully disposing of supplies headed for the front. All four had pleaded guilty.

The men are Pfc. Robert W. Lamm, Milwaukee, Wis.; T/5 Cecil L. Thomas, Norman, Okla.; Private Norton T. McNulty, Gary, Ind., and Private Charles R. Rohr, East St. Louis, Ill. Lamm was sentenced to three years, McNulty to ten, and the other two each to five years.

De Gaulle to Preside at Fete

PARIS, Feb. 10 (AP).—General Charles de Gaulle will preside over one of the Fetes du Tet at Paris Feb. 15, marking the advent of spring in French Indo-China, it was announced today. His participation will be part of the widespread official cognizance of the date in order to show "the interest and attachment France feels for Indo-China, still under Japanese oppression," the announcement said.

GERMAN ATTACKS BLOCKED IN ITALY

FEB 11 1945

Yank Artillery Disperses Thrust In West Sector

Rome, Feb. 10 (AP)—German counterattacks have been repulsed at both the eastern and western ends of the weather-bound Italian front, the Allied command reported today.

United States 5th Army artillery dispersed one counterblow, dealt in battalion strength, on the western sector in the Serchio River valley, 19 miles north of Lucca, where the Americans earlier had scored an advance.

Another attack was stopped farther west, near the coast at Stretoia, 18 miles southeast of the big harbor and naval base of La Spezia.

On the eastern end of the front, enemy raiding parties were beaten off by the British 8th Army north of Faenza and the Germans then laid down heavy shell and mortar fire on Allied positions.

Sink Torpedo Boat

The naval command reported that Wednesday night British light coastal craft sank an enemy torpedo boat off the west coast of Istrian peninsula. A large merchant ship also was torpedoed but made port at Parenzo, where it was attacked by RAF Beaufighters and left sinking.

Off Italy's west coast, American and British light coastal craft blew up and sank two enemy coastal vessels in the area of Genoa and the following night sank a German lighter.

Bad weather curbed Allied air operations yesterday, but United States attack bombers last night hit a pier and a small warship in La Spezia harbor and set fire to a fuel dump.

5th Cracks Nazi Counterblows In Two Areas

FEB 11 1945

Rome, Feb. 10 (AP) — German counterattacks have been repulsed in the Serchio Valley and Italian west coastal area, where the 5th Army had made limited advances in the last few days, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Nazis were halted at Stretoia, 3 miles southeast of the important town of Masa and about 20 miles southeast of the naval base of La Spezia.

American artillery in the Serchio Valley cracked another counterattack in battalion strength in the vicinity of Lama, 19 miles north of Lucca.

Patrols Meet Resistance

Headquarters said Allied patrols all along the coastal area had encountered increased Nazi opposition.

In the central sector south of Bologna, Allied guns pounded enemy positions, and mortar duels were reported.

Rising temperatures were turning the snow and ice on most of the front into mud and slush.

Yugoslavia Will Admit 3 Allied Correspondents

Authorization Given After 2 Months of Conferences

ROME, Feb. 10 (AP).—Two Canadian war correspondents and one correspondent of the official French press agency have been permitted to go to Belgrade, Yugoslavia, from Italy, and other correspondents from this theater are expected to go there soon.

Authorization for the correspondents to go to Belgrade followed more than two months of negotiations between Allied headquarters public relations officers and Marshal Josip Broz's (Tito) headquarters, in the course of which a Yugoslav officer came to Rome at Allied invitation to discuss the matter.

The Yugoslavs have shown marked reluctance towards admission of Allied correspondents since November, when a group was flown to Belgrade and some members of the party later filed from Rome stories which Yugoslav censors had trimmed sharply.

Despite the recent announcement that the Department of State at Washington was vigorously supporting efforts to open other Balkan countries to American and British correspondents, public relations officers here said it still was impossible to send reporters from here to Romania or Bulgaria.

TITO NEWS BAN IS DISCLAIMED

Belgrade Reports Arrival Of Allied War Correspondents

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Yugoslav Telegraph Service said a group of Allied war correspondents arrived in Belgrade today and denied that Marshal Tito's régime desired to "conceal from the world what is happening in our country." It said such a report had been printed in the United States

The Federal Communications Commission reported the Yugoslav wireless dispatch, including a statement of the Yugoslav Minister of Information.

"There are in Yugoslavia numerous members of British and United States military missions who move freely in the country and are able to see all that is happening," the minister declared. "Secondly, there have for some time been in our country a Reuters correspondent, Mr. Harrison, and a Tass correspondent, Mr. Morosov." Tass is the official Russian news agency.

Journalists Now In Yugoslavia

The statement added that "as early as January, 1944, we allowed a considerable number of journalists to visit Yugoslavia, and that recently admittance had been granted to five British, Canadian and French journalists—Lambey, of the London Times; Bawden, of the British Ministry of Information; Reyburn, of the Montreal Standard; Western, of the Winnipeg Free Press, and Lapteff of the APF (French Press Agency)."

It did not name the correspondents who arrived today.

The statement added that "as yet we have received no permit allowing our journalists to visit the United States."

Reported Barred As Group

A Rome dispatch to the Associated Press last Sunday said Allied headquarters for the Mediterranean area had been unable to obtain permission for re-entry of American and British correspondents as a group to the Balkan countries except Greece. It added that Harrison, a former correspondent in Belgrade, had been readmitted to Yugoslavia.

Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, said Monday in Washington that the State Department would support American correspondents' applications for entry into the Balkans. He added that the Soviet Government had held that each application for admission to liberated areas must be examined separately.

ROME, MOSCOW KEEP UP FIGHT

FEB 11 1945

Russian Church Accuses Pope Of Protecting Fascists

Moscow, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Russian Orthodox Church charged today that the Vatican sought to shield Nazi Germany from Allied punishment, making the accusation in a document signed by four patriarchs and representatives of four others.

"In view of the present international situation," said the document, addressed to "the people of the world" and published in all Soviet newspapers, "representatives of the Orthodox Church present at the Sobor (church congress) raise their voices against those—the Vatican especially—who try to protect Hitlerite Germany from responsibility for crimes committed by her and ask forgiveness for Fascists who spilled the blood of innocent victims all over Europe."

Must Bless Efforts

It continued that, in the opinion of the signers, those accused of trying to protect Germany wanted to "leave on the earth after the war a Fascist, misanthropical anti-Christian doctrine, together with its supporters."

"The Christian religion must bless the efforts of freedom-loving and peace-loving mankind directed toward organization of such order on earth by which the world will never again experience Fascism and bloody, terrible aggressions like Hitler's," it said.

The church leaders whose signatures appeared on the document were Christopher, patriarch of Alexandria; Alexander, third patriarch of Antiochia; Kallistrat, patriarch of all Georgia, and Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all the Russians.

Another Of Series

Representatives of the patriarchs of Constantinople, Jerusalem, Serbia and Romania, who were unable to attend the congress, also signed.

This was another of recent attacks on Roman Catholic policy emanating from Moscow, including an article in the army newspaper, Red Star, which asserted Pope Pius XII was preparing a peace message contrary to the United Nations' program for postwar reorganization of Europe.

[Osservatore Romano, Vatican City newspaper, described the Red Star article as "a false and calumnious attack," a dispatch from Rome said Saturday. The newspaper put the Red Star article in the same class with a Moscow radio report which said the Vatican exercised notable control over Argentina's economy and collaborated with Nazi agents in the South American country.

RUSSIAN CHURCH HITS AT VATICAN

Says It Would Shield Reich From Responsibility.

Moscow, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—The Russian Orthodox Church today accused the Vatican of trying to help the Nazis and Germany escape punishment after the war. A document signed by four patriarchs and representatives of four others, published by all the Soviet press, declared:

"In view of the present national situation, representatives of the Orthodox Church present at the Sobor (Congress) raise their voices against those—the Vatican especially—who try to protect Hitlerite Germany from responsibility for the crimes committed by her, and ask forgiveness for the Fascists who spilled the blood of innocent victims over all of Europe."

The church document was another illustration of the deep-seated Russian feeling against the Germans. Addressed to "the people of all the world," it appealed for a workable organization to keep the peace after the war and gave its blessing to the Big Three leaders.

Vatican Paper Calls Russ Charges False

FEB 11 1945

Vatican City, Feb. 10 (AP).—Osservatore Romano today described as a "false and calumnious attack" a recent article in the Soviet Army publication Red Star. The Vatican newspaper quoted Red Star as saying Pope Pius XII was preparing a peace message contrary to the Allied program for postwar reorganization of Europe.

The newspaper also denied an article in the publication The Protestant, which as broadcast by the Moscow radio said the Vatican had exercised "notable control on Argentina's enconomy" and collaborated there with Fascist German agents.

"Arbitrary, Calumnious"

These "revelations which pretend to present themselves to world opinion as sensational news are simply to be classed among the frequent arbitrary, false and calumnious attacks to which, unfortunately, a certain propaganda has been abandoning itself for some time," Osservatore said.

"There is no element, however slender or imperceivable, or foundation . . . or any fact or attitude which might give pretext to any inference of the kind" in either article, the newspaper declared.

After "the numerous proofs offered by the Holy See of repeated and untiring effort and incessant charity to lessen the horrors of war," it might have been hoped that "at least some methods of explicit religious hatred would be abandoned.

"On the contrary, the abused technique of inventing with fantastic arguments, of vilifying and wounding, is always alive. Surely not on this basis will it be possible to construct an efficient, lasting order when there are those who stubbornly sacrifice truth to sectarian passions."

Predicts Danish Liberation

MOSCOW, Feb. 10 (AP).—The authoritative Soviet writer I. Yermashev said today, "Denmark soon will be freed" and "the liberation of Norway soon will commence." Writing in "Red Fleet," organ of the Soviet Navy, he said the Germans must be shorn of their hold on the coast of the Baltic, the outlet of which he declared rightly belonged to the Russian people.

BARRICADES RISING ON ROAD TO BERLIN

Stockholm, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—"Masses of barricades" are everywhere along the refugee-clogged highway eastward from Berlin to the Oder River front, now just a short motor trip away, Svenska Dagbladet's Berlin correspondent said today.

"We meet gangs of troops felling timber in the surrounding woods on both sides of the highway," wrote the correspondent, who said he was taken on a conducted tour of defenses against the Russians. "We meet columns of heavily loaded war trucks headed east and others, empty, coming west."

In the forest to the right of the highway the correspondent saw a great motor park which was part of "a huge front depot established in this war zone between Berlin and the Oder." At one point there was "big military practice" in progress, with men in Nazi party uniforms and wearing Volkssturm arm bands "maneuvering side by side with Wehrmacht soldiers," he wrote.

TERROR IN NORWAY

Stockholm, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—A new, widespread wave of arrests of Norwegians, particularly in Telemark Province west of Oslo, in a German-Quisling terror campaign was reported today by the Swedish-Norwegian press service.

About 180 persons were arrested in Telemark by the Gestapo, it said, and arrests also extended to the Swedish border districts. Thirty-four Norwegians have been executed since the ambush slaying Thursday of Major-Gen. Carl Marthinsen, commander of the Quisling police troops in Norway, and there is no indication that reprisals have yet been stopped, the press service added.

Chinese Try To Regain Lost U.S. Plane Base

Chungking, Feb. 10 (AP)—Counterattacking Chinese trying to recapture a lost air base at Suichwan have killed at least 200 Japanese in severe fighting, the Chinese high command said tonight.

The high command admitted formally that a second base at Kanhsien, 50 miles south of Suichman, was lost Tuesday, but said subsequent Japanese attacks northeast of the city were repelled.

Another 300 Japanese were killed in fighting east of the Canton-Hankow railroad town of Chenhsein, north of Canton, the Chinese said.

British Campaign In Burma Pressed

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Ceylon, Feb. 10 (AP)—The British campaign along Burma's west coast has taken a big jump with the capture of the town of Ramree, on the island of the same name, where the Japanese have been resisting bitterly, a communiqué announced today.

To the northwest on the mainland, a squeeze upon bold-out Japanese forces was tightened. West African troops pressing the Japanese south were but 7 miles from British forces holding a road block at Kangaw.

The Japanese have been hammering at both sides of this road block in an attempt to withdraw sizable forces of men and material.

Another squeeze was developing deep inland north of Mandalay.

Allied troops were forcing a crossing of the Shweli River near Myitson, 40 miles northeast of the British bridgehead on the Irrawaddy River's east bank at Thabeikkyin, 65 miles north of Mandalay.

They threatened to strike at the rear of the Japanese, who have been fighting to keep the British from expanding the bridgehead.

The Shweli is the last barrier to the British 36th Division's advance into southern Burma, and once loose they could slash across enemy lines of retreat and supply and take Mandalay from behind.

The communique announced that another bridgehead, about twenty miles to the south, was enlarged in spite of heavy counterattacks with the capture of the village of Kule and high ground northeast of it. Allied planes hammered the Japanese there and at the Shweli crossings.

A front dispatch said the air bombardment on the Shweli front was the heaviest ever laid down in that sector.

Japanese communications in Burma and Thailand were under aerial attack.

Indian Troops Take Town of Ramree

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—The Fifteenth Indian Corps has captured the town of Ramree on Ramree Island off the west coast of Burma, Southeast Asia Command Headquarters announced today.

The town is on the southeast side of the island, invaded by British troops January 21.

MINE FIELDS SLOW AMERICAN DRIVE TO CLEAR MANILA

Three Yank Divisions Fight Bloody Battles in Streets, Buildings.

CROSS PASIG RIVER

Trapped Enemy Forces Fortify Houses in Effort to Hold U.S. Troops.

MANILA, Sunday, Feb. 11.—(AP) Three Yank divisions fought bloody street and building battles in south Manila today with Japanese manning everything, even stonewalls of a church yard, and forcing the Doughboys to pick their way over mine fields outrivalling those laid by the Germans in North Africa.

The First Cavalry division, which entered Manila a week ago yesterday and rescued the Santo Tomas internees, skirted the city's eastern edge and crossed the bridgeless Pasig river in native boats to join the 37th infantry and 11th airborne divisions in the fierce engagement.

Blast Jap Strongholds

Yesterday the motorized First cavalrymen had to throw the full weight of point blank artillery fire, heavy mortars and flame-throwers to break through one enemy strongpoint which held them up for several hours.

The Japanese had drilled holes through stone walls two feet thick around a church yard. Through each aperture, they sprayed 20 mm. rapid fire cannon shells at Yanks moving across open mine fields. One American officer said these mine fields were more densely planted than German mine fields he had observed in North Africa and Italy.

Starting from the new Manila district, just north of Santo Tomas, the First cavalry sped east, turned south and crossed the bridgeless Pasig near San Pedro Makati. There they are a little over two miles from Pasay at which point the 11th airborne division, coming up from the south, is at grips with enemy forces at Nichols airfield.

The First cavalry's crossing was well east of the Malacanan Palace area where the 37th division crossed the Pasig and now is in a bloody, slow fight with Japanese forces using houses as pillboxes and buildings as strongpoints to hold off the Yanks from getting to the prized dock area.

(Arthur Feldman, Blue network war correspondent, said the Japanese are using large land mines. A high ranking officer who took part in the African campaign said these mines eclipsed anything the Germans used.)

End Not in Sight

Front line reports said the end of the fight within Manila still was not in sight.

Japanese demolition groups which laid waste to a square mile area of the business district before cleared ont of north Manila, are battling for every street on the south side.

"Houses and public buildings have been converted by the enemy into pillboxes and fortified strongpoints with artillery emplacements," headquarters said.

The First cavalry's wide encircling movement was made late Friday evening while the 37th bridgehead was under Japanese gunfire. The cavalry advanced units got across the Pasig, whose four big bridges were destroyed by the Japanese, in native boats.

Yesterday morning a light pontoon bridge the Yanks had put across the river collapsed under a heavy load. The bridge had been completed with little enemy interference.

The cavalrymen are moving both south and west from their crossing point against increasing Nipponese fire. The maneuver is designed to close a gap on Japanese contesting the 37th within an angle formed by the Pasig on the north and Manila bay on the west.

The First Cavalry's wide swing extended American control of the metropolitan areas north of the Pasig to points four miles east of the waterfront.

But the Japanese are holding on grimly in sectors south of the river.

The Japanese still have artillery emplaced in the area to aid them in their last stand.

Headquarters said in today's communique that the 37th "is systematically sweeping the city south of Pasig river in the Pandacan and Ermita districts."

The First Cavalry division, the first unit to enter Manila a week ago yesterday, now has joined the 37th in the fight south of the Pasig.

Cross Pasig River

Headquarters disclosed the First Cavalry struck east through New Manila and then south, crossing the Pasig river near San Pedro Makate "to operate in conjunction with the 37th division."

New Manila is a mile north of liberated Santo Tomas internment camp.

In the Manila bay sector, where Tokyo radio has reported the American Navy is preparing an entry, bombers blasted the island fortress of Corregidor and Mariveles on the south tip of Bataan peninsula with 101 tons of explosives.

Despite the bitter slow fight within Manila, where large sectors of non-military structures have been blasted and fired by the enemy, today's communique said the situation is improving.

"The spirit and morale of the civilian population remain at the highest," headquarters said.

"There is ample food and relief agencies are active and efficient. Order is maintained."

The movement of the First Cavalry at Manila tends to curl an arm around the embattled southern sector. In addition to moving close to San Pedro Makati, its patrols were reported operating through the Marikina valley to the east of the city.

A continuing tough fight in the suburban area on the southern edge of Manila was indicated by the communique reporting the 11th airborne division "is clearing Nichols Field." Those Yanks reached Nichols field, at the edge of Pasay, a week ago today.

Northeast of Manila across the central Luzon plain, elements of the 6th Division in Nueva Ecija province are driving along a road leading to the east coast of Luzon Island. The communiqué reported the 6th's entry into Laur, 22 miles from the east coast. Laur is a short distance southeast of Bongabong, whose capture was reported yesterday.

Well to the north of the 6th, the 32d Division was reported steadily advancing along the Villa Verde trail which leads from San Nicolas at the extreme east end of Pangasinan province into the Cagayan Valley.

In addition to the aerial blast at Mariveles on Bataan, attack planes bombed and strafed the south end of the peninsula and sank a small freighter.

Medium bombers and fighters sank another small freighter off Bicol peninsula.

Mined Streets, Mortars Slow Manila Drive

FEB 11 1945

Manila, Feb. 10 (AP)—Mined streets and Japanese mortars firing from the upper floors of office buildings slowed American infantrymen today in their stubbornly resisted drive through the heart of Manila toward dock areas south of the Pasig River.

It was clear the desperate and trapped Japanese would fight long and bitterly in defense of the flame-blackened Intramuros district, through which the Yanks must pass to reach the dock area from their amphibious crossing of the Pasig River.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur in his communiqué today described the fighting as "of the fiercest" and said the enemy was set for a "final stand."

2,000-Yard Gain

While the 11th Airborne Division pressed the southern side of a three-way trap, five battalions of the 148th and 129th Infantry Regiments of the 37th Division gained 2,000 yards from the Pasig as they headed into the strongly defended Intramuros (walled city), a highly congested commercial and residential area.

Reinforced concrete pillboxes and mines were hazards aground; from the second floors of office buildings the Japanese poured down deadly mortar and machine-gun fire.

Shelling Entire Area

[NBC Radio Reporter George Thomas Folster said the Japanese were shelling the entire area, even the north bank of the Pasig, with a "heavy, arresting fire."

[Folster described the enemy defense in the Intramuros section as "so strong and so determined that it is certain to take considerably more time yet to clean out the Japs" from Manila.]

Fires still burned in three sections of Manila yesterday, but seemed to be diminishing.

Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, 14th Corps commander, told Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson that the Japanese have wantonly devastated a considerable part of the heart of Manila with demolition charges.

"A lot of this destruction is wanton and of no military purpose," he said. "It's ridiculous to assume they had stores in all those burned buildings. We are doing all we can to stop it, but we are up against a needle-in-a-haystack job."

The Japanese tried to land a bargeload of reinforcement troops along the Tondo waterfront just north of the Pasig River mouth, but these were wiped out.

Caring for a large number of hungry civilians and liberated internees is not easing the Army's task of clearing Manila. Transportation facilities are still insufficient to handle the large movement of people. The food situation for civilians is acute.

On Bataan, the 38th Division of the 8th Army reached the town of Moron in a 10-mile drive down the west coast. The Yanks on Bataan have seen some of the toughest fighting of the entire Luzon campaign.

Counterattack Repulsed

South of Manila, the Japanese counterattacked twice near Tagaytay against elements of the 11th Airborne Division but were "bloodily repulsed," MacArthur reported.

North of Manila, the 6th Division secured crossings on the upper Pampanga River at Rival and at Bongabong, the farthest eastern penetration of the central Luzon plain. From Bongabong a good mountain road leads to the west coast of Luzon at Baler Bay.

American bombers, striking widespread targets, heavily pounded Formosa communications and shipping. Borneo was hit with 60 tons of bombs. Liberators dropped 56 tons of bombs on troop concentrations on Cebu Island in the central Philippines.

Message Inspires Forces: MacArthur

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Feb. 9 [AP—Delayed]—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today the House of Representatives' message of felicitations on the reconquest of the Philippines "will serve as an unfailing inspiration" for American forces on the road to Tokyo.

Speaker Sam Rayburn had sent a message to MacArthur saying that the House was "grateful for bringing freedom to the Philippine Islands and further glory to the American Army." MacArthur answered today:

"On behalf of all ranks of this command, I express respectful thanks and appreciation for the magnificent tribute expressed through you by the House of Representatives.

"Such a message from this great body, representative of the spirit and conscience of the citizenry of the United States, will serve as an unfailing inspiration to our completion of the task which lies ahead of us, the complete defeat of Japan."

SISTERS MEET IN LUZON

Freed Prisoner Greets Army Nurse at Camp in Manila

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, in Manila, Feb. 9 (AP) (Delayed)—Eva Grace Davis was standing in the chow line today when the public address system called her to report to the main office.

Even before she got there she saw several truckloads of Army nurses arriving in camp. "I knew immediately it meant my sister had returned," she said.

Second Lieut. Dorothy Davis had alreayd found her father, Alfred Davis, and was jubilant. "I can't believe it's true," she repeated.

Mr. Davis, his wife and two daughters were interned when Manila fell. In September, 1943, Mrs. Davis, who now lives at Adelphi College, Garden City, L. I., New York, and Dorothy were repatriated, while Mr. Davis and the other daughter remained.

"From a letter I had an idea that Dorothy was an Army nurse," said Eva Grace, "but I had only a faint hope she would be out here so soon."

Health Outlook Is Called Good for Luzon Internees

Army Surgeon Says Diet Will Cure Beri-Beri

MANILA, Feb. 10 (AP).—Brigadier General Guy Denit, theater surgeon of the Southwest Pacific area, said here today that the health outlook for more than 3,700 liberated civilian internees is fine and that plans were rapidly taking form to handle the sick and wounded.

The general said that beri-beri, the curse of the Santo Tomas camp during more than three years of imprisonment, "can be cured with proper diet of essential foods. Eggs, orange juice and vegetables will build these people back to normal in a short time, and the ill effects of the disease will completely vanish."

Army Nurses Arrive, Internees Jubilant

Santo Tomas Internment Camp, Manila, P.I., Feb. 9 [Delayed—AP]. "It's almost as good as seeing the first American tank," said a jubilant internee today as she watched the first United States Army nurses unload at Santo Tomas.

One hundred tanned, uniformed nurses who were flown in from the States and rear areas of the Southwest Pacific quickly unpacked and went to work relieveing internee nurses, including 65 army nurses captured at Corregidor, who had been working in the camp hospitals.

Lieut. Col. Hola G. Forrest, of Lake Wilson, Minn., who is Southwest Pacific area director of army nurses, headed the first contingent with her assistant, Major Helen Bray, of Washington, D.C.

Bataan Nurse Rejoins Americans

With the 38th Division on Bataan, P.I., Feb. 8 [AP—Delayed]. The first American nurse to be rescued from Bataan rejoined American troops yesterday after nearly three years of alternating freedom and abuse at Japanese hands.

She is Lieut. Margaret Utinski, formerly of San Antonio, Texas, and a resident of Manila for many years preceding the war. She was flown out of Luzon Island soon after she rejoined the Yanks.

She said that she posed as a Lithuanian in a successful attempt to deceive the Japanese but, nevertheless, was repeatedly beaten by the Nipponese.

Lieutenant Utinski said she was first imprisoned after the fall of Bataan. Later, she went into the hills where she aided guerrillas and helped to smuggle war prisoners through to the coast and freedom.

B-29's And Earthquake Batter Tokyo Together

Raid By Superfortresses Believed Heaviest Of War; Temblor Lasts Three Hours

Twenty-first Bomber Command Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 10 (AP)—American Superfortresses and an earthquake hit Tokyo today—the big B-29 bombers in probably their largest raid on the heart of Japan.

The number of planes participating was not disclosed here or in Washington, where the raid was first announced by the 20th Air Force Command.

But the force was large and probably larger than any ever sent previously over Honshu, main island of Japan. It was the fifty-second B-29 mission against the enemy's home islands.

90 Planes, Japs Say

A Japanese communiqué said 90 Superfortresses raided the Tokyo-Yokohama area. Tokyo radio said the raid started at 2.30 P.M. and continued for an hour.

The Japanese capital apparently remained jittery throughout Saturday night. A second alert was sounded at 9.19 P.M. and was caused, a broadcast said, when a single plane of a B-29 formation penetrated the area.

The earthquake, also reported by Tokyo radio, started at 1.50 P.M. and shook Japan from Hokkaido, northernmost of the main islands, south through Honshu, on which Tokyo is situated.

[Seismographs in the United States recorded the quake. As recorded at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., it lasted for nearly three hours.]

'Rare Good Weather'

The Tokyo broadcasts admitted "some damage to ground installations was sustained" in the bombing attack. Earthquake damage was not mentioned.

Pilots of the returning B-29's sent word ahead by radio that they had found "rare good weather" over Tokyo and had observed "excellent results" from the bombing.

It was noted at headquarters here that returning flyers do not make a practice of reporting results while still in flight. The bombardiers apparently have been able to observe "devastating hits" with certainty, an unofficial spokesman said.

Fighter Opposition Light

The targets were described only as industrial objectives in the Tokyo area. At least seven elements of the B-29 force radioed that Japanese fighter opposition was light.

Domei news agency broadcast from Tokyo that the objectives "seemed to be aircraft factories."

The Superfortresses were described as appearing in five formations, centering their attacks on the "northern part of the Kanto district," which embraces both Tokyo and Yokohama.

Tokyo Hit Again By B-29's

Twenty-first Bomber Command Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 10 (AP)—A powerful force of B-29 Superfortresses—probably the largest ever to hit Japan—bombed Tokyo today in "rare good weather."

Pilots radioed that they had enjoyed "excellent results."

Tokyo broadcasts said "approximately 90" Superfortresses striking in five waves in the early afternoon (Japanese time) caused "some damage to ground installations."

Raid Lasts An Hour

Japanese announcers said the giant bombers began the attack at 2.30 P.M. (1.30 A.M. Eastern war time) and continued dropping bombs and incendiaries on the area for an hour.

A Domei broadcast said three Japanese areas were hit and "the enemy's objectives today seemed to be aircraft factories."

The main force flew in against a westerly headwind, bombed the Ota sector, northeast of Tokyo, for about a half hour and then sped away with the benefit of a tail-wind toward the Marianas, it said.

Other Areas Mentioned

Two Superforts penetrated the sector of Hamamatsu, on the coast 135 miles southwest of Tokyo, and a few others dropped explosives and incendiaries at Tate-Yama, 125 miles northwest of the capital, the enemy reported.

Saying that results scored by Japanese air interception units "are still in the process of being checked," Domei declared that "damage caused in Ota was minor, while Tate-Yama and Hamamatsu sustained negligible damage."

The raid, the 52d Superfort attack on Japan, was first announced by the 20th Air Force in Washington. This was the fifth mass B-29 strike at the enemy's home islands in February.

Early Reporting Unusual

Both "good weather" and the report of results from returning planes while still in flight are "very unusual," unofficial headquarters spokesmen said.

Results of such strikes usually are not reported until photographs have been examined after the Superforts have returned to their Marianas bases. Hence the bombardiers are believed to have been "certain of devastating hits" today.

The force making this strike was at least as large as any formation of B-29's ever sent over Honshu, main island of Japan, and probably was larger.

Opposition Believed Light

The precise target was described as an industrial objective in the Tokyo area of Honshu.

Fighter opposition was evidently confused, since at least seven elements of the Superfortress force radioed their home bases, indicating that fighter opposition was light.

Past B-29 strikes were credited here with keeping at home many Japanese fighters which otherwise might have struck our forces in the Philippines.

Japs Report 'Quake On Honshu Island

San Francisco, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Japanese news agency reported an earthquake today on the main Japanese island of Honshu, which includes Tokyo.

The dispatch did not disclose the intensity of the shock, but said that it had extended from Hokkaido, northernmost of the home islands, down through Honshu, with its epicenter in Aomori perfecture, at the northern end of Honshu.

The broadcast said the city of Hachinohe, on eastern Honshu, felt the weights of the quake. Time of the shock was 1.50 P.M. (12.50 A.M., E.W.T.). No other details were given.

Three Recordings In U.S.

The Weston College (Weston, Mass.) seismograph recorded a "severe" earthquake at 1.10.58 A.M. (E.W.T.) which the Rev. Daniel J. Linehan, S.J., seismologist, said probably occurred in the central part of Honshu.

Less than a minute later the first of two tremors were registered on the Fordham University seismograph. The Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, university seismologist, placed the tremors in northern Japan.

As recorded at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., the quake reached its maximum intensity at 1.40 A.M. (E.W.T.) and ended at 4.20 A.M.

3 Jap Planes Meet Iwo Jima's 64th Raid

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Feb. 10 (AP)—Oft-stricken Iwo Jima, in the Volcano Islands, mustered three airborne fighters to meet an army Liberator attack on February 8 (East longitude date) and one of the Liberators was lost, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communiqué today.

One of the Japanese fighters also was destroyed. It was the sixty-fourth straight day of aerial bombardment of the Japanese base on the B-29's road to Tokyo.

AAF Liberators the same day struck Kataoka, on Shimushu in the Kuriles, without loss. Marine Corsairs pounded ground targets on Babelthuap in the Palaus, Yap in the western Carolines, and bombed and strafed Rota in the Marianas.

U.S. Fleet Pilots Score 20 to 1 In Air Combat

Shot Down 2,472 Japanese Land-Based Planes From June 11 to Oct. 30; Lost 123

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Forward Area, Feb. 10 (AP).—A total of 2,472 Japanese planes were destroyed in aerial combat in United States Pacific Fleet carrier operations from June 11 to Oct. 30 as against 123 American planes lost—a ratio of twenty to one. Vice Admiral George D. Murray, commander of Pacific Fleet air forces, announced this today in a press release.

The operations included the first and second battles of the Philippines Sea, air attacks on the Bonin and Volcano Islands, the invasion of Palau and the invasion of Leyte in the Philippines.

In all of these operations American carrier planes were in action against Japanese land-based aircraft.

Admiral Murray attributed the tremendous American superiority to the Navy's excellent pilot training and the sturdiness and the design of American planes.

The figures cover only aerial combat—pilot versus pilot—and not Japanese planes brought down by anti-aircraft fire.

American losses included some aircraft able to return to the vicinity of American bases or even able to return to carriers, but so badly shot up that they had to be junked.

The enemy total included only planes seen crashed or abandoned by the pilot and crew. A "substantial number" of pilots were rescued from the American planes lost, Admiral Murray said.

Despite the great extent of the Navy's pilot training program, "there has been no deterioration of the quality," Admiral Murray said, "and our young men gaining their naval aviators' wings today take their place among the best in the world."

ARGENTINE CROPS DROP

Wheat, Linseed, Barley and Rye Far Below Expectations

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Pampas of Argentina, withered by one of the worst droughts in recent times, yielded disappointing crops of wheat, linseed, barley and rye during the 1944-45 season.

Ministry of Agriculture figures showed a total linseed crop of only 767,500 tons, the lowest since 1918 and not sufficient for domestic requirements. Once a prime export product sold chiefly to the United States, linseed now is being used in Argentina as a substitute fuel oil.

Wheat production dropped 2,550,700 tons from previous estimates to 4,249,300 tons; barley dropped 144,300 tons to a total of 574,300 tons, and more than half the rye fields were destroyed, leaving a crop of only 259,400 tons when 557,200 tons had been anticipated.

Puerto Rico Strike Sweeps Sugar Industry

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Feb. 10 (AP). A strike of members of the General Workers Federation spread through Puerto Rico's sugar industry today.

Federation members in one third of the mills and some fields owned by the Sugar Producers Association struck this morning, following walkouts Thursday at Humacao and Yabucoa in mills owned by Antonio A. Roig, association president.

Local unions decided to strike after negotiations between the General Workers Confederation (CGT) and the association became deadlocked. In a collective bargaining election January 31, 80 per cent of workers favored the CGT.

P. J. Philip Heads Press Group

Ex-Marine Joins Canadian Army

London, Ont., Feb. 10 (A. P.).—Honorably discharged from the United States Marine Corps because of wounds received at Guadalcanal, R. C. Chapin, 23 years old, of Pontiac, Mich., has enlisted in the Canadian Army.

"I want to see more action in this war," he said, "and Canada is supplying me with that opportunity."

Big 3 To Meet Another Week, Report

New York, Feb. 10—The Ankara radio, as heard by NBC, said today the meeting of the Big Three will last at least another week, and possibly longer, in expectation of an early defeat of Germany.

It said reports reaching Ankara were to the effect that the three foreign secretaries would stay on for further discussions if the Big Three parted earlier.

Japs Worried About Russ

San Francisco, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Hochi Shimbun today reflected some concern over the possibility Russia might enter the war against Japan as a result of the present conference between Premier Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

An editorial broadcast by the Tokyo radio warned the people of Japan that "we must be fully prepared to cope with any situation that may arise."

JAPS SAY U.S. SHIPS CONCENTRATE OFF CAVIT

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tokyo radio said today American warships and "other vessels" were concentrated off Cavite province preparing to penetrate Manila Bay and join the attack on Japanese troops trapped in the southern part of Manila by Yank doughboys.

The broadcast, heard by the FCC, quoted a Domei news agency dispatch which reported "daily naval and air bombardments of Corregidor" by the Americans to "facilitate the penetration of Manila bay."

There was no American confirmation of a ship concentration off Cavite nor of naval bombardment of Corregidor, which has been the frequent target of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heavy bombers.

Tokyo Cabinet Also Shaken Up

San Francisco, Feb. 10 (AP)—Japanese Premier Kuniaki Koiso shook up his Cabinet today apparently to quiet rising criticism of the nation's war-production and labor-mobilization programs.

Radio Tokyo broadcasts, recorded by the FCC, told of the Cabinet reshuffle affecting two posts closely linked with the Munitions Ministry in frantic efforts to mobilize manpower for war production.

Hisataka Hirose, Welfare Minister, was replaced by Katsuroky Aikawa, the vice minister.

Harushige Ninomiya, Education Minister, gave way to Count Hideo Kodama, State Minister without portfolio.

Takeo Tanaka, Chief Cabinet Secretary, was replaced by Hirose. The latter automatically became a member of the House of Peers.

CANADA SIGNS AIR PACT

Freedoms Agreement' Proposed at Chicago Is Accepted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—The air freedoms agreement proposed at the International Civil Aviation meeting in Chicago was signed on behalf of Canada today by Canadian Ambassador L. B. Pearson.

The two freedoms involved are the right of transit and the right of non-traffic stops. Canada has not yet signed the pact allowing other nations to pick up and discharge passengers and freight on her territory.

Other countries which have accepted the two freedoms are the Netherlands, Norway and the United States.

Koiso Retains Post In Cabinet Reshuffle

FEB 11 1945

San Francisco, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Japanese Cabinet has been reshuffled in response to continuing criticism, the Domei News Agency reported today, but Premier General Kuniaki Koiso remains at its head.

The dispatch was beamed to occupied Asia and recorded here.

A change in the Cabinet comes on the heels of months-long criticism of Japan's war effort which has increased with each of the continuing Japanese reverses. Koiso has met each protest by partially yielding to his critics while still maintaining the dominant role.

Materials' Flow Slowed

Announcement of the partial Cabinet reshuffle coincided with Tokyo admissions that the United States conquest of the Philippines is interfering with the flow of vital raw materials from the Dutch Indies and other southern areas.

A Tokyo domestic broadcast said interruption of southern supply lines makes it "important that the wealth and materials in China be more and more utilized."

Koiso's Government issued a decree accelerating the mobilization of students into the armed services.

Two Are Dropped

Two men were dropped in the cabinet shift—Education Minister [illegible] and Chief Cabinet Secretary Takeo Tanaka. Hisatada Hirose, Welfare Minister, was made chief cabinet secretary and state minister without portfolio.

Vice Minister Hatsuroku Aikawa succeeded Hirose as Welfare Minister. Count Hideo Kodama, recently made Acting Minister of Education, was elevated to minister.

PRESIDENT'S EYE ON PATTERSON IN BERLIN POST

Army and Navy Journal Says Roosevelt Has Picked Stimson Aid.

AS U. S. MISSION MEMBER

2000 UNRRA Representatives Reported Ready to Shift Over Into Germany.

Washington, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—The Army and Navy Journal said today that President Roosevelt has chosen Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, to be the American member of the Allied mission in post-war Germany. The President made this decision before he left for the Big Three meeting, the unofficial service publication said.

The Journal said that so far as immediate occupation is concerned, the three Powers are agreed that it should be done under the military. The next phase would cover the transition from military to civil government, and the third phase would be "the control of Germany under the Allied mission which will have its headquarters at Berlin," the Journal added:

"In preparation for this phase, the President concerned himself before his departure with the question of the high representative of the United States on this mission. His choice fell on Under-Secretary of War Patterson, who had no desire for the job, which will carry the rank of four-star general, but who as a good soldier was willing to accept it. It is understood that Secretary Stimson was concerned at the prospect of losing his able assistant and protested, but whether the protest will be regarded is yet to be revealed. . . .

Might Break Deadlock.

"Since probably Great Britain would not accept a Russian as chairman of the mission, and Moscow would not accept a Briton, if Mr. Patterson should go to Berlin it would be as the occupant of this post.

"New Dealers would like his successor to be a man of their viewpoint because of the opportunities for Government control of public factories in times of peace, and for the establishment therein of standards of wages and hours. Just who they have in mind is not known. High in the favor of the President is Assistant Secretary of War McCloy, and he might give the vacancy to him, and when Secretary Stimson retires, he would be a likely choice to succeed him."

Be No Question Over His Leadership.

Washington, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—The Army and Navy Journal said today that reports are current that Gen. Douglas MacArthur "might be sidetracked from the command of the armies that will invade Japan."

In an editorial, the unofficial service publication said that "in view of the superb leadership he has furnished, the significant results obtained by purely American forces, and the low number of casualties his men have sustained, it would seem that there would be no question about his continued leadership of the military operations to be conducted in the homeland of that Far Eastern enemy." Then the editorial added:

"However, reports are current that the plans for the invasion which have been approved contemplate his retention for the clean-up job in the Philippines, and the assignment of another officer as the commander of the invading expedition.

"Exactly what the President's final decision on this question will be is not known, but as he fully understands the greatness of Gen. MacArthur's accomplishments . . . it is to be expected that he will confide to him the hard task ahead."

Lend Lease Aid Offered to Reds To Fight Japan

Russia Expected to Agree Soon to Secure U.S. Arms After European War Ends

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP).—A pending lend lease agreement with Russia contains a provision permitting continued shipment of arms to that nation after the European war ends, if Russia intends entering the war against Japan.

Russian signature on the agreement is expected soon.

The clause is similar to those in all lend-lease agreements defining the direct power of the President to continue or terminate shipments whenever he sees fit. But in this case it is being interpreted by officials as having special significance because of the Russo-Japanese situation.

President Roosevelt went to the big three meeting expecting to have some final word from Marshal Stalin as to his plans for fighting Japan. American officials have predicted privately all along that Stalin will enter the war in Asia. The Japanese seem to be of the same view.

A Tokyo newspaper, in an editorial broadcast by the Tokyo radio and heard by the Federal Communications Commission, warned the enemy people that "we must be fully prepared to cope with any situation that may arise."

The problem with respect to lend-lease has been to arrange for a transition period at the end of the European war which would serve the interests of the United States regardless of which course Russia takes. The agreement which is to be signed, probably toward the end of the month, by the United States, Britain, Russia and Canada, covers several points in this respect.

It provides for lend-lease shipment of munitions and essential war materials to continue at full scale through the end of the European war. It provides also for the shipment of a substantial quantity of materials and equipment which will be useful in the war but predominantly useful afterward. The Russians will get these [illegible] lease credit and [illegible] have to pay for the [illegible]

Under [illegible] powers reserved [illegible] the lend-lease m[illegible]ents can be continued [illegible] end of the European [illegible] officials said that the only excuse for such a continuation obviously would be the Russian intention to fight Japan. On the other hand, if the Russians do not plan to go into that war then lend-lease munitions can be discontinued by Presidential decree as soon as the last shot is fired in Europe.

The Russian lend-lease program, which may run around $3,500,000,000 for the twelve months ending June 30, reflects both Russia's immediate military requirements and her long-range post-war reconstruction needs. While the negotiations were in progress the Russians turned in a partial list of their requirements for the immediate post-war years and said that the things they listed, together with those they would report later, probably would amount to around $6,000,000,000.

A Big 3 Solution Of Polish Row Hoped For

FEB 11 1945

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—American officials are urgently hoping that the Big Three will produce a formula for settling the Polish dispute.

The problem represents probably the most severe test of Allied cooperation. It can hardly be solved without some concessions by Russia, without commitments as to Poland's future by the United States and without considerable pressure by the British on some elements of the London-Polish Government.

President Roosevelt is understood to have gone to the Black Sea conference ready to make more far-reaching agreements than Washington would have considered possible a few weeks ago in an effort to satisfy the Russians as well as conciliatory Polish groups on future security questions.

Paper Says There Should

Appeal Disclosed

The complexity of the task facing the Big Three probably has been heightened by the disclosure that the Polish Government in London made an appeal to the President and to Prime Minister Churchill last Sunday to take up with Stalin the handling of officers and men of the underground units by the Russians.

The problem illustrates the complexity of the whole Polish political situation. American diplomats say the Russians are afraid of the pro-exiled Government attitude of the underground army because throughout the war they have maintained loyalty to their Government. The Army is regarded here as heatedly pro-Polish and not pro-Soviet as are members of the Polish administration at Warsaw.

Charge Cited

The charge of the London Government specifically is that in battles around Krakow and some other points, the Rusians accepted the co-operation of the Polish home army, as it was formerly called, but when the battle was won they disarmed the Polish units and arrested the officers as potential troublemakers in liberated Poland.

Two days ago London reported that the exiled Government there ordered dissolution of the home army. Polish sources here said this was done to end the oath of loyalty of these units to the London Government and allow them to look after themselves.

Implication Seen

To some diplomats this carries the interesting implication that the London Government is being forced to admit the practical weakness of its position despite the fact that it is recognized by the United States and Britain as the official Polish Government.

Actually all sides seem agreed that the strongest figure in London and the one on whom most hopes for a peaceful settlement have been based is former Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, leader of the Peasant party. He is not a Communist but evidently he has persuaded Stalin that his is pro rather than anti-Russian.

Blame for Blaze's Flight Taken By Army Air Transport Service

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The Army's Air Transport Command took the blame officially today for giving Colonel Elliott Roosevelt's dog a plane priority higher than a Senator gets, on which the dog flew across the country while three service men on emergency leave with lower priorities were "bumped" off the flight.

The A. T. C. acknowledged in a report to a Senate Military Affairs subcommittee investigation that the dog Blaze's A priority ride was a "serious mistake." "It cannot be justified," Major General Harold L. George, A. T. C. chief, concluded in the 900-word report.

Senator Styles Bridges, Republican, of New Hampshire, recalled that a hitch-hiking legislator gets a C rating and is likely to be "bumped" off by war freight.

General George said Colonel Ray W. Ireland, assistant chief of staff for priorities and traffic at A. T. C. headquarters here, who was formerly traffic manager for United Air Lines, issued the widely discussed A priority for the journey from Washington to Hollywood of the 110-pound bull mastiff, which Colonel Roosevelt, son of the President, had brought over with another dog from England earlier in a B-17 bomber.

Colonel Roosevelt's sister, Mrs John Boettiger, had telephoned from the White House, asking that Blaze be flown to Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt in Hollywood, General George said, adding, however, that "no mention of priority was made in the conversation."

Senator Burnet R. Maybank, Democrat of South Carolina, a member of the subcommittee, said he got the impression from talking to General George that the high priority was issued "just as a sort of a favor."

The general's report corroborated the story of three service men who said they were "bumped" off an Army transport at Memphis Jan. 11 while Blaze stayed on. But the general added that the service men would have had to be unloaded anyway, as they were traveling on C priorities and there was a backlog of B-priority freight at Memphis which had to go west.

"The dog did unquestionably displace an equivalent weight of B priority freight," he said.

The committee found, members said, that the crated weight of Blaze and the other dog totaled 285 pounds. The second dog did not figure in the transcontinental flight.

Colonel Roosevelt's promotion to brigadier general is awaiting Senate confirmation along with those of seventy-seven other colonels, all held up from a list of other promotions because of the Roosevelt dog episode.

Senators' Report

The complete text of the Senate subcommittee's report:

"At the request of the subcommittee appointed by the chairman to inquire into the incident of transporting Colonel Elliott Roosevelt's dog on military aircraft, Major General H. L. George submitted the following statement, delay having been occasioned in its release due to the need for securing information overseas:

"'On or about Nov. 13, 1944, Colonel Elliott Roosevelt departed from a European airfield in a B-17 bomber, under his command, for the United States by way of Iceland. He arrived at Presque Isle Army Airfield, Presque Isle, Me., on Nov. 14, 1944, at approximately 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

"'Colonel Roosevelt made the flight under orders from the 8th Air Force and pursuant to War Department authority. In addition to Colonel Roosevelt, the personnel on the bomber included four officers and five enlisted men. Other than personal baggage, no cargo was carried. The dog Blaze, weighing between 110 to 115 pounds, and a female pup weighing twenty pounds were transported in this bomber.

"'On arrival at the Presque Isle Army Airfield, both dogs were declared by Colonel Roosevelt upon United States Customs Form No. 6063, which is the baggage declaration and entry form.

"'As the bomber was proceeding directly to New York and would arrive there in the late evening of Nov. 14, it was suggested, due to the absence of any facilities for the dogs on arrival in New York, that they be kept at Presque Isle until they could be conveniently transported to Washington. The dogs were taken to the search and rescue kennels at the air base, where, after tests and inspection, a health certificate was issued by the station veterinarian and given to the customs officials.

Dogs Flown to New York

"'On Nov. 23, 1944, a B-25 type airplane, on an operational flight and carrying military personnel, was scheduled to be flown from Presque Isle Airfield to LaGuardia Field, New York, with an intermediate stop at Grenier Field, Manchester, N. H. Both dogs were placed on the airplane, which arrived at LaGuardia Field at about 4:30 in the afternoon of Nov. 23, 1944.

"'Later that afternoon a Marine Corps pilot en route to Washington, with a stop at Newark, N. J., informed operations at LaGuardia that he had room for any service men waiting for a ride to Washington. The marine pilot was informed that there were two service men who were waiting for transportation to Washington and was asked if he had adequate room to also take along the two dogs. He stated that he had plenty of room and would be glad to take the dogs along. He was informed that the dogs belonged to Colonel Elliott Roosevelt and were to be delivered to the White House, which sent a station wagon to the airport and picked up the dogs.

"'It should be pointed out that there is no provision in Army Air Force regulations or those of the 8th Air Force which prohibit the carrying of pets in an operational type aircraft, such as the B-17 bomber which transported these dogs from Europe to the United States.

"'On Jan. 5, 1945, Colonel Ray W. Ireland, assistant chief of staff for priorities and traffic, headquarters Air Transport Command, received a telephone request from Mrs. John Boettiger at the White House that Colonel Roosevelt's dog Blaze be transported from Washington to Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt in Hollywood, Calif. No mention of priority was made in the conversation. Colonel Ireland, however, established an A priority for the dog, and on Jan. 9, 1945, the dog was shipped on a military cargo aircraft which left Washington about noon.

Men Displaced by Freight

"'The flight on which the dog was carried was a scheduled cargo flight and terminated at Dayton, Ohio. The flight west from Dayton, to which the dog was transferred, originated at Newark, N. J., and carried, in addition to cargo, three passengers—two Navy enlisted men and one Army technical sergeant, all of whom were on emergency leaves, traveling on C priorities. At Memphis approximately 3,700 pounds of cargo and the three passengers were offloaded to take on B-priority cargo. A back-log of B-priority freight existed at Memphis and this would have displaced the three passengers even if the dog had not been on board, but the dog did unquestionably displace an equivalent amount in weight of B-priority freight. The Dayton flight terminated at Dallas, Tex., where the dog was transferred to another routine scheduled military cargo flight, which proceeded to Mines Field, Los Angeles, and from there the dog was delivered to Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt.

"'The fundamental basis for the establishment of any priority, whether for passengers or cargo, is that the mission of the passenger or the need for the cargo is of such urgency that transportation by air is necessary and also necessary to the prosecution of the war. Therefore, establishing an A priority for the dog was unauthorized under regulations relating to air priorities. A serious mistake was made and it cannot be justified.'

"In answer to a question from Senator Stewart regarding references in the press to three Army Air Forces officers at Patterson Field (Dayton) bound for Pyote, Tex., on D priorities, who stated that they might have been carried on the flight out of Dayton except for the Roosevelt dog, General George said: 'Investigation discloses that the officers concerned would not have traveled even if the dog had not been carried, as there were both C and D priority passengers ahead of them.'"

25,000 American Soldiers Are Prisoners Of The Army

By Jame

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—About 25,000 American soldiers are in United States Army custody around the world as prisoners for offenses ranging down from murder, rape and desertion.

Their offenses—by army standards—would be felonies under civilian law. In addition, there are probably 20,000 soldiers held as prisoners for minor offenses.

Of those held for major offenses more than 1,800 are in federal penitentiaries, more than 8,500 in disciplinary barracks which are really army penitentiaries, more than 7,700 are in rehabilitation centers and 4,700 are prisoners overseas.

AWOL, Desertion Most Common

The statistics are from Col. Marion Ruston, head of the Army's correction division in an address before the Army and Navy Club.

Absence without leave and desertion are the most frequent offenses and the line between them sometimes is thin.

Courts martial have to decide when a man ducked only to see his family or to have a good time and when he really intended to desert.

Special Centers Set Up

Special centers have been established on the East and West coast to deal with the problem of men who have jumped ship on their first or subsequent scheduled trips abroad.

Colonel Ruston indicated desertion may be a real problem when Germany quits. More than 3,000 American soldiers have been reported absent without leave in France.

There seems to be no simple formula or penalty that can be used in judging different categories of cases, such as absence without leave or refusal to obey an order.

Sentences Vary

In France, American soldiers who stole gasoline needed at the front have received prison sentences. But Private Henry Weber, for refusing to drill at Camp Roberts, California, was sentenced to death. This was later changed to life imprisonment.

The Army has put a lot of effort into its rehabilitation centers. If their superiors think a man can be "salvaged," even though he is under strong sentence, he may be sent to a rehabilitation center.

He is given severe tasks to do. If after going through the grind he convinces his superiors that he is worthy of another chance, he is sent back to duty.

Four Soldiers Leave Europe, 'Discharge Selves' Here

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Four soldiers, who the Army said made their way back from Europe on fraudulent orders and then "discharged themselves" from the Army, were being held today at Fort Jay, Governors Island, on charges of being A.W.O.L.

Two of the men were picked up by military police in Richmond, Va. They were identified by the Army as Privates Carl H. Taylor, of Ashland, Ohio, and Bernard Wilson Tennis, of Hampton, Va.

The other two soldiers were Privates Francis Albert Walker, of Elmira, N.Y., and Ralph Henshaw Keller, of Chestertown, Md. Keller gave himself up to the FBI and miliatry police picked up Walker in Buffalo, N.Y., the Army said.

The Army quoted Keller as saying the four men returned to the United States aboard a troopship having issued themselves fake orders. They talked their way into the Pentagon Building in Washington, the Army said, and obtained blank discharge forms which they used "to separate themselves from the Army."

All four will be returned overseas to their units for trial by court-martial or other disposition, the Army said.

NEW PLANE DE-ICER

Washington, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—A new de-icing system utilizing waste engine heat, has reduced one of flying's greatest hazards, the formation of ice on aircraft.

Developed in the laboratories of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, the system is being used in some new designs of Army combat and transport planes. The Navy plans to build the equipment into its new transports.

Hot air used in the system is provided by engine exhaust gases. In one large plane, hot air is transmitted to the wings, tail surfaces and other components.

The windshields, also a part of the system of ice prevention, are built of double-pane construction. Hot air is circulated between the inner and outer panes.

Electrical energy is employed in one of the methods of propeller de-icing by specially constructed rubber heating pads cemented to the blades.

Bonins, Volcano Isles' Climate Semi-Tropical

By Warren H. Bennett

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Volcanos and Bonins, which lie in the same latitude as Florida, have a semi-tropical climate with an average annual temperature of 72 degrees and a yearly rainfall of 62 inches. January and February are the coolest months; May the wettest.

The land is fertile and abounds with giant ferns, palms and mulberry trees. Sugar cane, pineapples and bananas were grown before the war.

The Volcano Islands, called Kazan Retto by the Japanese, are slightly more than 1,300 miles north and east of the Philippines.

Bonins 100 Miles Long

The Bonins, also known as the Ogasawara Gunto, extend about 100 miles in a north and south line above the Volcano group.

[In Japanese the terms, retto means chain or group; gunto, archipelago; jima and shima, island; and iwo, rock.]

The Volcano group is composed of three islands, of which Iwo is the middle and largest. Iwo Jima, also known as Sulphur Island, is of volcanic origin like all the rest of the Bonins and Valcano group.

A Baby South America

About 5 miles long, Iwo resembles a baby South America with a big bulge like Brazil in the north and a tapering point to the south.

It is barren and rocky, rimmed partially by cliffs and has an extinct volcano crater about 500 feet high at the southern tip. What port the island has is small, and probably artificial for the coastline is fringed by reefs and there is a strong surf offshore.

The Japanese have established three airfields there at Moto, Minami and Suribachi.

Kita Iwo Jima (San Alessandro) and Minami Iwo (San Augustino) are the other two islands in the Volcano group. Both are small, without harbor facilities of any kind, and valueless except as bases for anti-aircraft guns.

Before the war, Kita Iwo and Minami Iwo had a combined population of about 200, but it is reasonable to suppose the Japanese have [illegible]soned them heavily as outp[illegible]

The Bonin chain is composed of the Bailey or Coffin group, the Beechey group, and a number of individual islands, totaling 27 in all.

Volcanic-Born Islands

Volcanic activity abounds in this area and sometimes subterranean disturbances push up islands in the sea and then drop them beneath the surface again almost overnight..

Total land area of the Bonins is only about 40 square miles, most of it on Chichi Jima or Peel Island, the largest in the Beechey group. Chichi boasts the harbor of Omura (Port Lloyd), capital of the Bonins.

Its clear deep harbor is formed by an extinct volcano crater and is surrounded by heavily forested hills ranging up to 800 feet high.

Airbase At Susaki

Chichi is twelve and a half miles in circumference and the Japanese have an airbase at Susaki across the harbor from Omura.

Haha Jima in the Bailey or Coffin group is about 35 miles to the south of Chichi and probably the next most important in the Bonins. Okimura, actually a small cove, is Haha's only possible port.

The island is about a mile and a half long and, like all the Bonins, is steep and precipitous with one peak rising to 1,470 feet.

FILIPINOS WANT MURPHY

Justice, Declining to Return in Civil Post, Wishes to Aid Isles

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—Justice Frank Murphy has been urged to return to the Philippines as Governor General, a post he left in 1936. The urging is being done, it was learned today, by Philippine President Sergio Osmena, Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo and Mrs. Manuel Quezon, widow of President Osmena's predecessor.

Justice Murphy said he would not step down from the Supreme Court bench, but he indicated a desire to do something for the Philippines, perhaps this summer when the court takes a four-months recess.

He declined to say whether there is substance to a report that he will leave soon for the islands, commenting that the report "didn't come from the White House."

Giant Aircraft Carrier To Be Launched Shortly

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Bradford W. Ripley 2d, of Dayton, Ohio, will sponsor the aircraft carrier Midway, to be launched at Newport News, Va., about March 15, the Navy anonunced today.

Mrs. Ripley is the widow of Lieut. Bradford W. Ripley 2d, and a daughter of former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio.

The Midway, third naval vessel so named, is the first of the Navy's new giant 45,000-ton carriers, largest flattops ever built. Named in commemoration of the battle of Midway, the Midway is a sister ship of the Coral Sea, to be launched about April 1 at the New York Navy Yard. The third ship of the class is under construction but has not been named.

U. S. MANILA PAPER OUT

OWI Staff Begins Publication in Press Owned by Guerrillas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Office of War Information announced today publication of a two-page, 10-by-14-inch newspaper in Manila six days after American troops entered the city.

Frederick P. Marquardt, chief of the OWI's Southwest Pacific psychological warfare branch, said in a cable the paper was printed on a small press owned by Philippine guerrillas.

The printers worked while a large fire raged within a block of their building, Mr. Marquardt said. One near-by fire stopped operations for an hour while the printers rushed home to evacuate their families.

Edward Paxton, OWI news man, aided Mr. Marquardt in editing the first editioin of the paper, entitled The Manila Free Philippines.

Ramps Were for Use Against the U. S.

Minneapolis, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—Huge launching ramps which the Americans captured at Cherbourg, France, were intended as platforms for rockets aimed at the United States, Joseph D. Keenan, vice-chairman of the War Production Board, declared here today. Mr. Keenan, who came here for a conference with industrial and labor leaders, disclosed this in a talk to war plant workers.

Telling of the huge concrete installations, he said Gen. Dwight Eisenhower had told him inquiry had shown they were built to assemble, store and fire huge rockets at this country.

Marine Air Unit In South China Sea

Washington, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—The first Marine Corps air unit of the war to be assigned to carrier duty participated in the huge task force strike in the South China Sea last month, the Navy reports.

Flying fast, heavily gunned Corsair fighters, the leathernecks joined Navy Hellcats and Avengers working over airfields and shipping from Camranh Bay to Saigon.

Prior to the attack on the Asiatic mainland, the Marines had flown five other missions, three strikes at Formosa and two over

COLEPAUGH TELLS OF LIFE

Previously Denied Acquittal In Spy Trial

New York, Feb. 1 0(AP)—American-born William Curtis Colepaugh failed today to win a plea for a directed verdict of acquittal on the charge he was a German spy, then told a military commission meeting behind closed doors the story of his life.

The 26-year-old Colepaugh, on trial with German-born Erich Gimpel before a seven-man commission empowered to impose the death penalty upon conviction, talked for three hours. He said his apparance on the stand was voluntary.

Colepaugh's story was that of a military and naval-minded youth who failed to get into the United States Naval Academy, was discharged from the United States Navy, and went to Germany to join the Army.

Recessed Until Monday

What he did after that was untold when the court took a recess until 9 A.M. Monday. There is in evidence against him a statement the FBI said they took from him in which he admitted coming to this country with Gimpel aboard a submarine to get information on ships, airplanes and rockets, for transmission by radio to the German Reich.

The prosecution rested its case at the outset of the fifth day's session. Then Colepaugh's counsel moved to acquit him of the most serious charge of the three against the prisoners. Losing that motion, Colepaugh took the stand.

Colepaugh told of his trip as a member of the crew of the exchange liner Gripsholm a year ago and of his arrival at Lisbon where he told the German consul he wanted to go to Germany to join the German Army. He obtained permission.

"Didn't Enter My Mind"

"How about fighting Americans as a member of the German Army?"

He answered: "It didn't enter my mind."

Q.—Where did you think you would be assigned?

A.—I knew from the papers that the German Army was fighting Americans in Italy, but also that there were Germans fighting the Russians.

"Lurking Denied"

Army-assigned defense counsel said that Colepaugh, accused with Gimpel of slipping behind our defense lines by landing off the Maine coast from a submarine the night of November 29, was not "found lurking" in this country—the language of the Eighty-second Article of War, under which they are being tried.

Colepaugh's counsel said the word "lurking" implied hiding and an attempt to conceal identity, whereas Colepaugh voluntarily made his presence known through a former schoolmate, Edmund F. Mulcahy, a Jamaica (N.Y.) shoe clerk. Mulcahy, it was contended, introduced Colepaugh to two persons under his correct name.

U.S. Rests Case In Spy Trial

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Government rested its case today against two accused Nazi agents and the defense lost a motion for dismissal of a charge that one of them, William C. Colepaugh, had been "found lurking" behind United States defense lines in wartime.

Counsel assighed by the Army for the Connecticut-born Colepaugh argued that the prosecution had not introduced any proof that he sought to conceal his identity after coming to this country with Erich Gimpel, his German-born co-defendant, by submarine late last October.

The specific motion was that Colepaugh be found innocent of violating the 82d Article of War under which he was accused of having been found lurking, under an assumed name, behind the lines of defense of the United States in time of war.

Cite Classmate's Testimony

Colepaugh made his presence known, his counsel argued, to Edmund Mulcahy, a Jamaica (N.Y.) shoe clerk and former classmate, who introduced him to two other persons as "William Colepaugh." Mulcahy has testified for the Government at the trial, which is being held before a military board on Governors Island.

The death penalty would be mandatory if Colepaugh were convicted of violating the 82d Article of War.

Other Cases Cited

Contending that Colepaugh previously had assumed the name "Caldwell," the prosecution argued, the Army's communiqué said, that "the real test was whether the mission had been accomplished" and that "it was not within the privileges of one so accused to voluntarily terminate his status as a spy at such a time as apprehension appeared imminent."

Both sides cited as precedents the execution of Major Andre, British spy in the American Revolution, and Russian spies who were executed after surrendering to the Japanese in the Russo-Japanese war.

Motions Denied

The seven-member trial board denied the dismissal motion without clearing the courtroom and also denied, for the second time, a defense motion that the men be tried separately on grounds that Colepaugh's statements would be prejudicial to Gimpel.

Court recessed after defense counsel, stating that Colepaugh would take the stand, asked time to study yesterday's record.

Senate Is Seen Ready to Vote R.E.C. to Wallace

George Says House Delay on His Bill May Lead to All-Out Confirmation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP).—Reaction against House efforts to amend or delay legislation severing government lending agencies from the Department of Commerce threatened today to alter Senate sentiment on the Henry A. Wallace Cabinet appointment.

Senator Walter F. George, Democrat, of Georgia, said he is beginning to believe that if House opponents either bottle up his bill or load it with veto-inspiring amendments the Senate might vote to confirm the Wallace appointment with all the powers Jesse Jones wielded.

"It would be extremely short-sighted if those who don't want Wallace should make it impossible for the House to pass the bill or should bring out a measure that the President would not sign," Senator George said.

The Senate has agreed to wait until March 1 before voting on Mr. Wallace's nomination as Secretary of Commerce, with the understanding of both sides that the Senate-approved bill by Senator George, which strips the Reconstruction Finance Corporation lending power from the post, would become law before that time. That was the compromise Mr. Wallace's friends put over in an effort to get him confirmed.

Thus far opponents of the former Vice President have succeeded in keeping the measure from the House floor. But there were indications the Democratic leadership hoped to scrape up another vote in the House Rules Committee to break a tie by next Wednesday, when the matter will come up again.

They may get this support by a further compromise which would open the way to a House vote on an amendment that would keep Mr. Wallace, as Secretary of Commerce, off the directing board of the Export-Import Bank.

Senator Claude Pepper, Democrat, of Florida, an advocate of confirmation of the nomination, said he thought Wallace supporters would make no great fuss over such an amendment.

War Prisoners' Care An Issue

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP) — Two Florida Congressmen took issue today with War Secretary Stimson over the question of reported pampering of war prisoners.

Representatives Peterson (D., Fla.) and Sikes (D., Fla.) asserted they could not agree with a statement by Stimson that prisoners are not being accorded special treatment.

The two declared that in Florida, at least, German captives are reported getting food which takes far more ration points than a similar number of civilians are allowed.

Nazi Propaganda, Too

In addition, Sikes contended, "Nazi propaganda is flourishing in the prison camps and nothing is done to curb it."

Peterson said he had written Stimson demanding an explanation and also is pushing for a Congressional investigation.

Sikes said he is taking the matter up direct with Army officials, urging "an end to pampering and a program of re-education of prisoners in Americanism instead of Nazism."

Yanks Are "Propagandized"

"Americans in German prisoner-of-war camps are systematically propagandized," Sikes told the House yesterday. "Yet our Army seems frightened at the very idea of doing anything to dampen the fanatical Nazism of German prisoners in our care, despite the fact that there is not a word in the Geneva Convention which forbids propagandizing prisoners."

Stimson had contended in his statement that the Army was merely observing strictly the tenets of the Geneva Convention regarding handling of prisoners.

Commenting on this, Sikes added:

"Actually, our Government has leaned over backward in interpreting the regulations of the Convention in the light most favorable to the prisoners, despite the fact that no other nation gives a hang for the Geneva Convention."

Cites "Growing Resentment"

"As an indication of this, it is well known that Americans in German prisoners of war camps would barely subsist if it were not for Red Cross food packages which our country sends to them regularly.

"There is a growing resentment in the minds of our people . . . and it doesn't stop at the good food and camp comforts provided for the Germans. They are concerned by what they consider soft treatment, lax administration, and lack of effort to curb the Nazism which flourishes in prisoners of war camps."

not a wartime, proposal."

In an article contributed to The Ave Maria, a Catholic home weekly published at the university, he set forth his views on pending legislation for compulsory peacetime military training.

"It cannot be classified under the head of what we have come to call 'emergency legislation,'" he wrote.

"It has no connection with the Selective Service Act, nor has it any bearing on the policing of defeated Axis countries after the war.

Called Reversal Of Policy

"Basically, it proposes a complete and permanent reversal of the traditional American military policy and principle. Compulsory military training would bring about a fundamental change in the lives of millions of young Americans for generations to come."

"No sensible person can deny that henceforth we must be a military nation," Father O'Donnell said. "We will maintain a larger Army and Navy than ever before. We must not become a militaristic nation, which is a vastly different thing. That is, we do not want to adopt the European system, which would weaken our schools and undermine our family life."

For Voluntary Enlistment

He suggested the encouragement of voluntary enlistments, a more intensive use of universities, colleges and high schools as a training ground for the Army and Navy, and a revival of the National Guard "strengthened and adapted to the mechanism of modern warfare so that it will literally be a guard of the nation."

In concluding his article Father O'Donnell wrote:

"Let all Americans reflect on the implications involved before permitting Congress to rush through legislation that means such a radical departure from our traditional way of life.

"We may need some form of military training in the postwar world, but we do not need compulsory military training now."

GREEN ASSAILS RUSSIAN PLAN

AFL Head Scores Proposal For German "Slave" Labor

Miami, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP)—A Soviet proposal that German labor be forced to rebuild damaged cities in war-torn Europe was assailed today by President William Green of the AFL as being "economically unsound and indefensible."

Green declared the Russian plan, voiced in London at the World Trades Union Congress, which the AFL refused to attend, would make slave labor of Germans, and was "indefensible from a social point of view and contrary to the principles which the United Nations are seeking to establish when the war ends."

Demands "Free" Labor

"Hitler and those responsible for the war must be punished, but the people throughout the world, including labor everywhere, must be made free and must be guaranteed the right to enjoy the blessings and benefits of freedom, liberty and democracy," said the AFL president.

Green wondered "what attitude the representatives of the CIO who are attending the London conference will assume toward the proposal."

He attacked the CIO for attempting, he said, to split the world labor movement "as they divided labor in the United States."

[J. B. Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, attending the World Trades Union conference in London, announced today his organization favors internationalization of a part of the Reich's industrial areas and believes German labor should be required to rebuild war-wrecked Europe.]

"Reasons Proven Sound"

Green said the AFL's refusal to take part in the conference had been vindicated by developments already apparent. The congress opened last Tuesday. He asserted:

"All the reasons which the AFL originally assigned when it declined to respond to the invitation extended to participate . . . have been proven to be sound and unassailable.

"We are more firmly convinced than ever that we are serving the interests of labor best by refusing to participate in the so-called World Trades Union conference."

The CIO group, headed by President R. J. Thomas, of the United Auto Workers, and President Sidney Hillman, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, is demanding a role in international labor movements.

The AFL now is the only American organization in the International Federation of Trades Union.

What CIO Is Seeking

The CIO wants either to gain entry for itself and the Soviet groups (which the AFL maintains are not "free" trade unions) into the IFTU, or form a new world group.

"Evidently differences which have already arisen between the bona fide representatives of the British Trades Union Congress and the Soviet workers and their allies are creating division within the ranks of those in attendance at the conference," said Green.

Jap-American Ouster Urged By Oregonians

FEB 11 1945

Gresham, Ore., Feb. 10 (AP)—One thousand residents of this farming region demanded last night that persons of Japanese ancestry be deported.

The resolution was adopted at a massmeeting called by the Oregon Property Owners' Protective Association after speakers told the throng that Japanese moving to the United States, or born here, are characteristically of dual citizenship to the sixth generation.

Favor Deportation

The resolution asked the Oregon Legislature to memoralize Congress for legislation to deport all persons holding citizenship both in the United States and a foreign country. It also urged deportation of "not wholly loyal" aliens.

Also adopted was a resolution calling for enforcement of the Oregon alien land law. Walter M. Pierce, former Oregon Governor and Congressman, charged it is being violated by alien Japanese who register land in their children's names.

Legion Commander Present

A Hood River delegation included J. B. Edington, commander of the American Legion post that raised a nation-wide issue by erasing names of Japanese-American service men from the county honor roll.

G. R. Frey, member of the Hood River group, said it plans to investigate transfer of titles, organize a program including prohibition against sale of land to Japanese and form a corporation to appraise and purchase all land now held by Japanese.

WILLIAMS FOES PLAN REA BOARD

Washington, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—Senator McKellar (D.-Tenn.), bitter opponent of Aubrey Williams's nomination as rural electrification administrator, said today it might be wise to put REA under an administrative board.

"I would be inclined to support such legislation, if it were brought to the floor," Senator McKellar told reporters. "From the testimony I have heard it has not been handled any too well under a single administrator."

The possibility of such a move appeared to be an ace in the hole for Mr. Williams's opponents within the Senate Agriculture Committee which is considering his nomination.

As the committee now stands, administration checks indicate a probable 11—9 division in favor of Mr. Williams's confirmation with Senators Aiken and Wheeler counted for him. A move to shelve the nomination and report the bill might, however, draw the support of Mr. Aiken and Mr. Wheeler.

MEAT MAY 'DISAPPEAR' IN SUMMER

Present Output Lagging, Bulk Of Supply Diverted To War Stocks

FEB 11 1945

Beer Cut Seen

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Brewers will be allotted twelve per cent less malt for beer between March 1 and August 31 than they got a year ago, the War Food Administration announced today. The reduction probably will result in less beer, officials said.

The reduction is being made, the WFA said, to make more malted grain available for the production of industrial alcohol for war uses.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Meats will virtually disappear from civilian markets by midsummer, Government food officials predicted today. The forecast accompanied new steps to divert the larger portion of current production into war stocks.

Civilian supplies could be expected, however, to reappear when fall marketings of live stock begin their normal increase, it was said.

Three Factors Involved

Three factors are involved: Unexpectedly smaller total meat production; the sharp drop in livestock marketing which normally occurs in spring and summer, and the combination of those factors, which may leave the Government unable to satisfy its wants beforehand and get out of the market ahead of the low supply season.

The war stocks are those the Government buys for the armed forces, for lend-lease, and for civilian consumption in United States territories outside the continental limits of the country.

With live-stock marketing falling below previous expectations, the Agriculture Department cut its forecast of total production this year from 22,750,000,000 pounds to 22,000,000,000. Last year 24,700,000,000 pounds were produced.

Ten-Year Low Mark Seen

It is possible per-capita civilian consumption this year may fall to the lowest level since 1935, when meat supplies dropped after emergency slaughter of drought-stricken cattle on Western plains in 1934 and a reduction of hog numbers by means of the Government's pig-killing program designed to improve farm prices.

Per-capita consumption in 1935 averaged about 116 pounds. Last year it was 147 pounds.

Food officials said this year's average may be between 120 and 132 pounds, depending on length of the war in Europe, foreign-relief requirements and live-stock production trends.

There is little doubt civilian meat supplies will be reduced sharply from the present rather tight condition. Live-stock marketing and slaughter are smallest in spring and summer.

U.S. Trying To Stock Up

The Government is trying to stock up now, reduce its buying later, and permit the bulk of the slim summer slaughter to go to civilians. Whether it will be able to do this is somewhat doubtful.

At present, marketing and slaughter—particularly of hogs—are not sufficient to fill allocations the War Food Administration has made for civilians and for war agencies. In so far as production fails to meet allocations, civilian supplies suffer.

Woolen, Rayon Priority-Item List Rushed

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Having specified a wide range of inexpensive essential cotton garments for increased production, the Government hurried work today on priority lists of woolen and rayon clothing items.

Announcement of these lists in about ten days by the War Production Board will complete the foundation for a program designed to increase the supply of low and medium priced wearing apparel.

Price Roll-Back Slated

As joint sponsor of the program, the Office of Price Administration expects to roll back retail prices of such garments by about six or seven per cent.

WPB last night took the first step to boost output by singling out 41 cotton garments for which manufacturers will receive priority assistance in obtaining fabric. To these items most of the civilian cotton cloth supply will be diverted.

The order is effective March 1. WPB predicted that finished garments will begin to reach the retail market "by early summer."

More Fabric Types

The new regulation sets aside for use in civilian garments 28 types of cotton fabrics, instead of 17 as previously. Among those added are gabardine, twills and interlining flannels.

Proportions of fabrics to be earmarked for inexpensive garments have been increased from a range of 20 to 50 per cent to a range of 50 to 90 per cent.

In the 90 per cent category are some print clothes, carded broadcloth and poplin, dotted swisses and carded chambray of specific constructions.

Further Restrictions

The order also further restricts the use of particular fabrics for many less-essential items, with the intention of channeling additional material to needed garments.

Among the items for which manufacturers will be able to obtain priority aid are:

Women's and girls' dresses, blouses and nightgowns; men's shirts, shorts and handkerchiefs; creepers and rompers; children's pajamas; infants' and children's nightgowns; infants' kimonos, gertrudes and dresses; toddlers' dresses and slips and children's dresses; girls' slips and panties.

Overalls and coveralls; boys' wash suits, shirts, shorts and short [illegible]ong pants; children's sun suits [illegible]adies' handkerchiefs.

13,600 ARE IDLE IN DETROIT PLANTS

Detroit, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—Representatives of the Senate War Investigating Committee charged with determining whether Detroit area factories are using their man power to the fullest extent arrived in Detroit today to find approximately 13,600 workers idle because of strikes.

The workers are employees of the Briggs Manufacturing Company's five plants here and of the Square D Company's Rivard avenue plant. They are respectively members of the C. I. O.'s Automobile Workers and Electrical Workers unions. At the Briggs Mack avenue plant 5,800 workers struck last Tuesday in a dispute over wage rates of fifteen workers in the burr department. Ignoring a regional War Labor Board directive to return to work immediately, the strikers voted to go back on Monday but stipulated the WLB should then have two representatives in the plant to hear grievances. The WLB has made no direct reply to this proposal.

Management said an additional 6,700 workers had to be sent home because the strike in the Mack avenue plant had halted the flow of parts. The affected departments have been producing parts for B-29 bombers, tanks and other war equipment. Nearly 20,000 Briggs workers in other plants not affected by the parts shortage remained at work today, the company said.

A strike of 1,100 workers at the Square D plant began yesterday. It involves differences over the method of distributing a War Labor Board wage increase directive.

OBJECTORS DECRY WEBER SENTENCE

FEB 11 1945

Lapine, Ore., Feb. 10 (A. P.).—Fifty inmates of the conscientious objectors' camp here revealed today that they have asked President Roosevelt to halt the "cruel and unjust" sentence given Private Henry Weber for refusing to drill.

The men released copies of a letter to the President. Originally opposing the death sentence ordered for Weber at Camp Roberts, Cal., it was amended to term the substituted life penalty too severe.

The letter said several men in conscientious objectors' camps refused to bear arms after induction, as did Weber, but that this "does not mean that they could not be conscientious." It expressed belief his position is "the result of confusion on the meaning of the ambiguous clause on conscientious objection."

Camp officials admitted knowledge of the letter. Copies went to the War Department, Senate Investigation Committee and the press.

MAJOR BONG, TOP ACE, WEDS

Marries Teacher; Church Is Packed; Arnold Represented

FEB 11 1945

Superior, Wis., Feb. 10 (AP)—Major Richard Ira Bong, the nation's ace of aces, and his schoolteacher sweetheart, Marjorie Ann Vattendahl, were married tonight in Concordia Lutheran Church in the biggest wedding this northern Wisconsin city has ever seen.

A full hour before they were to repeat their vows, the church was packed.

The first eight rows of pews were reserved for friends of the pair, and shortly before the couple knelt before the Rev. Paul A. Boe, room was made for nine air force officers representing Gen. H. H. Arnold, who was prevented by illness from attending the wedding.

Arnold's Deputies

They were Cols. James Sheridan, J. Philip Newberry and Gerald Johnston; Lieut. Cols. Bailey A. Wright, Don Eddy, Frank Dixon, Millard Frohock and A. L. Revert, and Major Minar Shaw.

Miss Vattendahl wa sattended by Miss Geraldine Bong, sister of the major, maid of honor; another sister, Miss Nelda Bong, bridesmaid, and Miss Beverlee Abrrett, of Superior, a sorority sister.

Capt. Walter M. Markey, of City Island, N.Y., was Major Bong's best man, and other attendants were Sergt. Lowell S. Wattendahl, brother of the bride, and Sergt. Edward Edgette, of Lake Nebagamon, Wis., an old friend.

'Military Secret'

For the ceremony, held against a background of shimmering candles and a gladioli-banked altar, the bride followed the traditional custom of something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue.

New was her wedding gown, old was a battenberg lace handkerchief given by Mrs. Glenn Bryce, grandmother of the bridegroom, borrowed was a sorority pin, and blue was a blue satin garter given by her sorority sisters.

After the single-ring ceremony, Major and Mrs. Bong appeared on a radio program and later attended a reception before leaving on a trip.

The marriage culminates a romance of 15 months that started when Major Bong, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor and numerous other medals for shooting down 40 Japanese planes, met Miss Vattendahl at a church party. Bong was home on a leave after shooting down 21 planes.

LONDON, FEB.10-(AP)-VICENTE LOMBARDO TOLEDANO OF MEXICO CITY, PRESIDENT OF THE LATIN AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, TOLD THE WORLD TRADE UNION CONFERENCE TODAY THAT ARGENTINA WAS ARMING "AND THE ONLY POSSIBLE REASON IS TO CREATE AN ARMED CONFLICT."

HE DESCRIBED THE GOVERNMENTS OF SPAIN, PORTUGAL AND ARGENTINA AS TOTALITARIAN AND CHARGED THAT GERMAN MONEY AND TECHNICIANS WERE BEING USED IN ARGENTINA, WHERE, HE ADDED, "A FASCIST DICTATORSHIP IS A DANGEROUS INFECTION" FOR THE REST OF THE WORLD.

TOLEDANO, REPRESENTING 17 LATIN-AMERICAN NATIONS AT THE CONFERENCE, DECLARED THAT THE ARGENTINE REGIME WAS UNLIKE THE TRADITIONAL DICTATORSHIPS OF SOME SMALLER LATIN-AMERICAN NATIONS, AND THAT IT WAS MORE LIKE THE GERMAN TYPE OF AUTHORITARIANISM.

HE RECALLED THAT THE LATIN-AMERICAN FEDERATION ADOPTED A RESOLUTION CALLING FOR SEVERE PUNISHMENT OF NAZI WAR CRIMINALS, BOTH CIVILIAN AND MILITARY, AND THAT THE FEDERATION HAD ASKED FOR PUNISHMENT OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE SO THAT THEY MIGHT UNDERSTAND WAR WAS NOT A PROFITABLE UNDERTAKING.

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL, "TOO, SHOULD BE LIBERATED," HE ASSERTED.

DESCRIBING HIS OWN NATION AS A SMALL ONE, TOLEDANO CALLED UPON THE STRONGER COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD TO SECURE THE PEACE.

GERMAN AUTHORITIES WORKING UNDER THE AMG AFTER HAVING BEEN FOUND RELIABLE AND DEPENDABLE ARE TRYING TO EXPLAIN THE NECESSITY OF THE NON-FRATERNIZATION TO THE INHABITANTS BY POINTING OUT THAT UNREGENERATE NAZIS MAY TRY TO INGRATIATE THEMSELVES WITH AMG ONLY TO SABOTAGE IT.

THAT GOES VERY WELL AT FIRST, BUT AFTER MONTHS, WHEN PRESUMABLY A GIVEN AREA HAS BEEN PURGED OF NAZIS, THESE GERMANS FIND IT INCREASINGLY DIFFICULT TO PREACH DEMOCRACY TO THEIR CONFUSED FELLOW CITIZENS.

WHEN VON RUNDSTEDT WAS BEATEN BACK THE FIRST ARVY AGAIN ATTACKED TOWARD THE DAMS AND IN THE PAST FEW DAYS REACHED BOTH OF THEM. BUT BOTH HAD SECRET CONCRETE OUTLETS UNDERGROUND LEADING ON THE EAST SIDE INTO THE ROER VALLEY BELOW. DRIVEN FROM THE WEST BANK AND IN DAMGER OF LOSING THE DAMS ENTIRELY THE GERMANS DAMAGED THESE TUNNEL CONTROLS IRREPAIRABLY AND UNLEASHED THE WATER INTO THE VALLEY. THIS FLOODED SOME GERMAN TOWNS AND PUT UP A WATER BARRIER WHICH AT LEAST TEMPORARILY IS AS FORMIDABLE AS THE RHINE.

WITH THE RAINBOW DIVISION IN FRANCE, FEB. 10-(AP)-THERE IS NEW BLOOD TODAY ON THE PROUD INSIGNIA OF THE RAINBOW DIVISION--THE U. S. 42ND DIVISION WHOSE HEROIC ACHIEVEMENTS SPARK THE HISTORY OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR.

IN THE SHORT TIME IT HAS BEEN IN THIS WAR THE 42ND HAS BUMPED UP AGAINST SOME OF THE FINEST TROOPS THE ENEMY HAS, AND IT HAS ACQUITTED ITSELF IN THE TRADITION OF THE BLOODY BATTLES OF THE MARNE, THE MEUSE, THE ARGONNE, AND ST. MIHIEL.

THE DIVISION WENT INTO THE LINE ON CHRISTMAS DAY IN THE RHINE VALLEY FROM STRASBOURG NORTH PAST THE HAGUENAU WOODS.

IN THE GAMBSHEIM POCKET THE GERMANS THREW IN SUCH CRACK OUTFITS AS THE 25TH PANZIER GRENADIERS, NOW REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN RUSHED EASTWARD IN AN ATTEMPT TO STEM THE SOVIET ADVANCE, AND THE 21ST PANZERS, A TOP ARMORED OUTFIT.

THE DIVISION, WHICH LOST MORE THAN 15,000 MEN TO OTHER DIVISIONS BEFORE IT LEFT THE UNITED STATES, REACHED FRANCE WITH REPLACEMENTS THAT INCLUDED ANTI-AIRCRAFT MEN. MILITARY POLICE "AND EVEN SAILORS WHO WERE STILL WEARING SAILOR CAPS AND WHITE PANTS WHEN ASSIGNED TO US," ONE OFFICER SAID.

SEVERAL HUNDRED OF ITS OFFICERS, TRAINED WITH THE DIVISION AFTER IT WAS ACTIVATED AT CAMP GRUBER, ~~MO.~~ OKLA. JULY 14, 1943, WERE ALSO DRAINED OUT TO OTHERS BEFORE IT LEFT THE UNITED STATES.

THE ROLE THE 42ND DIVISION PLAYED IN THE BITTER STAND AT HATTEN WILL BE UNFOLDED WHEN THE FULL STORY OF THAT ACTION CAN BE TOLD. THE GERMANS WERE HELD AT HATTEN WHILE THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY PREPARED TO SHIFT BACK TO THE MODER RIVER LINE.

THE GERMANS LEARNED QUICKLY THAT THE RAINBOW'S MEN WERE IN THE LINE. THEY ANNOUNCED IT ON THEIR RADIO EARLY IN JANUARY.

IT WAS LEARNED LATER THAT THE GERMANS FOLLOWED DISPOSITIONS OF EVERY RAINBOW UNIT AND EACH IN TURN FELT THE HEAVY IMPACT OF THE GERMAN FORCES.

ONE NIGHT THE GERMANS HIT A COMPANY OF RAINBOW MEN AS IT MOVED INTO THE LINE AND WHILE IT WAS STILL IN ITS TRUCKS. THE DOUGHBOYS PILED OUT AND ATTACKED NAZI TANKS WITH RIFLES WHILE THE EMPTIED TRUCKS ROARED BACK TO PICK UP MORE AMMUNITION.

THE GAMBSHEIM POCKET--WHERE THE GERMANS EFFECTED A BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE RHINE, THEN BUILT IT UP STEADILY AND STEALTHILY WITH ARMORED UNITS -- HAD BEEN DISCOUNTED GENERALLY BEFORE THE FIRST OF THE YEAR AS A THREAT TO THE SEVENTH'S FLANK.

EVENTS AFTER CHRISTMAS WHICH FORCED A WITHDRAWAL DOWN THE WISSEMBOURG GAP FROM THE LAUTER RIVER LAID OPEN HOW WELL THE GERMANS HAD SPREAD OUT THEIR STRENGTH AND THE IMPORTANCE OF THE TROOPS THEY HAD PLACED IN THE POCKET.

THE RAINBOW TOOK THE NAZI BLOWS AND HELD. THE LINE WAS SHORTENED LATER TO THE MODER AND STRATEGIC SUPERIORITY WAS AGAIN ACHIEVED, BUT THERE HAD BEEN NO MAJOR BREAKTHROUGH ON THE FLANK OR FROM ABOVE.

THE RAINBOW HAS FOUGHT IN THE GREATEST SNOW AND THE COLDEST WEATHER IN ALSACE IN A HALF CENTURY. IT HAS FOUGHT THROUGH THAWING MARSHES, SWOLLEN RIVERS AND CANALS AND FLOODED FOXHOLES. IT HAS SUFFERED LOSSES AS EVERY DIVISION MUST WHEN FACED WITH THAT KIND OF A TASK.

CANADIANS
BY NED NORDNESS

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 10-(AP)-FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S MUD-WADING TROOPS HAVE CUT THROUGH THE FIRST SIEGFRIED LINE OF DEFENSE AND ARE PRESSING TONIGHT ON THE SECOND LINE WEST OF KLEVE.

THE FORMIDABLE ARTILLERY OF THE BRITISH AND CANADIANS HAS DISRUPTED AND PARALYZED GERMAN COMMUNICATIONS SO THAT THEIR ENTIRE FORWARD POSITION APPEARS TO BE CONFUSED.

FOR THAT REASON, THE FULL EXTENT OF THE ADVANCE OF GEN.H.D.G. CRERAR'S SOLDIERS CANNOT BE DISCLOSED.

ON THE SOUTHERN FLANK, THE ENEMY TRIED TO FORM A LINE WHICH WAS BROKEN BY ARTILLERY FIRE. THE GERMANS HAD BROUGHT UP THEIR SEVENTH PARATROOP DIVISION FROM ALSACE, BUT IT WAS DISPERSED BY ARTILLERY FIRE.

WITHOUT EVER COMING TO GRIPS WITH THESE TOUGH SOLDIERS, THE BRITISH AND CANADIANS WERE ADVANCING WITH THE ONLY OPPOSITION ARISING FROM MINE FIELDS AND ARTILLERY FIRE.

FEB 12 1945

THE ENTIRE OPERATION IS GOING WELL. THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY HAS BROKEN ALMOST ALL THE WAY THROUGH THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF THE REICHS-WALD.

THE FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE IN THIS DENSE FIR FOREST HAS BEEN TORN WIDE OPEN. AN ENEMY POCKET HAS BEEN CRUSHED AGAINST THE RIVER MAAS SOUTH OF NIJMEGEN AND OBLITERATED.

CAPTURE OF TWO MORE TOWNS, SCHOTTHEIDE, THREE MILES WEST OF KLEVE, AND HEIKANT, THREE MILES FARTHER WEST, WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

In the REICHSWALD THE ENEMY DEPENDED UPON THE NATURAL PROTECTION OF HEAVY FOREST TO AID HIM, WHILE IN THE OPEN ON BOTH SIDES HE HAD ESTABLISHED CONCRETE EMPLACEMENTS. ALL FELL BEFORE ALLIED GUNS.

AMONG THE CONCRETE DEFENSES ARE INNOCENT-LOOKING COTTAGES FROM WHICH THE GERMANS SLAUGHTERED A GOOD MANY ALLIED TROOPS BEFORE THE TOMMIES AND CANUCKS LEARNED THAT THE "COTTAGES" HAD FORTRESS-LIKE CONCRETE WALLS.

IN ONE SUCH "COTTAGE, THE GERMANS HELD OUT EASILY AGAINST RIFLE AND MACHINEGUN FIRE SO THE ALLIES USED MORTARS. THE MORTAR SHELLS FAILED EVEN TO SHAKE THE DIRT OFF THE WALLS.

A34

THEN ARTILLERY HAD ITS TURN, BUT THE SHELLS DID LITTLE MORE DAMAGE THAN TENNIS BALLS. FINALLY A BARRAGE OF ARMOR-PIERCING ARTILLERY SHELLS, MORTARS AND TANK FIRE FORCED 14 GERMAN SOLDIERS AND ONE OFFICER TO COME OUT AND SURRENDER.

DESPITE THE RATHER THINLY-HELD ENEMY DEFENSES, MUD HAS BEEN ONE OF THE GREAT HANDICAPS TO THE ADVANCE.

"THIS OFFENSIVE SHOULD GO DOWN IN HISTORY AS A VICTORY FOR THE ENGINEERS AND SUPPLY MEN," A DIVISIONAL COMMANDER SAID. "NEITHER MUD NOR FLOOD HAS STOPPED US BECAUSE THOSE LADS ARE WORKING DAY AND NIGHT TO KEEP US MOVING. AND WE ARE MOVING."

THE DIVISION TAKES ITS PLACE IN AN ARMY WHOSE LOGAN ONCE MORE IS "ON TO GERMANY" AND WHICH IS OPENING UP ON THAT ROUTE WITH ATTACKS

NORTH OF STRASBOURG.

THE 36TH INFANTRY DIVISION OF THE SEVENTH LAUNCHED THREE ATTACKS NEAR THE RHINE SOUTHEAST OF HAGUENAU.

LOUIS PETITOT, FRENCH POLICE COMMISSIONER FOR THE NANCY REGION, SAID BARS HAD BEEN SELLING FOR 60 CENTS A DRINK MADE OF WOOD ALCOHOL AND FLAVORING POWDER. SOLDIERS WERE ORDERED TO LIMIT PURCHASES IN BARS TO BEER AND WINE UNTIL ALL THE POISONOUS STOCK HAS BEEN FOUND.

ROME, FEB. 10-(AP)-FOUR THOUSAND CHEERING ROMAN WOMEN, WAVING FLAGS AND PLACARDS IN A PACKED BIG HALL IN THE HEART OF ROME, HEARD SPEECHES TODAY BY MRS. RITA TOGLIATTI, WIFE OF VICE-PREMIER PALMIRO TOGLIATI, AND OTHER NEW LEFTIST WOMEN IN THE FIRST ALL-FEMININE RALLY SINCE WOMEN WERE GRANTED THE RIGHT TO VOTE.

"IF WOMEN WERE ALREADY IN THE STATE ADMINISTRATION, THINGS WOULD BE GOING BETTER THAN THEY ARE NOW," MRS. TOGLIATTI DECLARED.

SOME OF THE PLACARDS CARRIED BY THE WOMEN SAID: "WE WILL VOTE TO PREVENT OUR DEAR ONES FROM BEING DRAGGED INTO UNJUST WARS IN THE FUTURE."

THIS ARTICLE CALLED FOR RIGID ECONOMIC DISARMAMENT OF THE REICH, "DEPRIVING GERMAN WAR INCENDIARIES OF THEIR MEANS OF PRODUCTION." YERMASHEV ATTACKED FOREIGNERS WHO FAVORED LIGHTER TERMS, ATTRIBUTING SUCH A STAND TO THE WISH TO SAVE GERMAN MARKETS AND "SAVE THE ROOTS OF FASCISM."

"THE FOUNDATIONS OF GERMAN AGGRESSION CONSIST OF ECONOMIC POWER," HE WROTE. "THE MEDIUM THAT FED THE FIFTH COLUMN WAS THE ECONOMIC PENETRATION OF GERMAN CAPITAL INTO NEIGHBORING COUNTRIES AND DISTANT CONTINENTS. IN POLAND IN 1939 THE GERMANS HELD 46 PER CENT OF THE CAPITAL INVESTED IN POLISH HEAVY INDUSTRY. HOW COULD POLAND DEFEND HERSELF AGAINST A STRONG AND FEROCIOUS ENEMY IF LONG BEFORE THE WAR THE ENEMY HAD HIS HANDS ON HER NERVE CENTERS AND THE HEART OF HER DEFENSE. THE SAME APPLIED TO ROMANIA, BULGARIA AND HUNGARY, AND EVEN ITALY. X X X

"AFTER THIS WAR THE GERMANS MUST TREMBLE AT THE THOUGHT OF THE PUNISHMENT INFLICTED ON THEM FOR THEIR MONSTROUS CRIMES. GERMANY MUST BE DISARMED THOROUGHLY AND COMPLETELY. THAT WILL KILL FASCISM."

MOSCOW, FEB.10-(AP)-THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY, SYSTEMATICALLY BROADENING THE BASE OF THE WEDGE AIMED AT BERLIN, TODAY PUSHED WITHIN SEVEN MILES OF STARGARD AND 25 MILES SOUTHEAST OF STETTIN, BALTIC PORT FOR THE GERMAN CAPITAL.

SOVIET DISPATCHES WERE SILENT ON GERMAN REPORTS OF EXPANDING RUSSIAN BRIDGEHEADS ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE ODER IN THE FRANKFURT AND KUESTRIN SECTORS AND ON THE NAZI REPORT THAT MARSHAL IVAN C. THESE DEVELOPMENTS APPEARED POSSIBLE, HOWEVER, AND IT WAS WELL KNOWN THAT MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV PLANS TO STRIKE BOLDLY FOR BERLIN WHEN HE BELIEVES HIS FIRST RUSSIAN ARMY WEDGE IS SUFFICIENTLY WIDE FOR OPERATIONS ON A MAJOR SCALE.

BURMA (640)
BY JOHN GROVER
CALCUTTA, FEB. 10-(AP)-THE MARS TASK FORCE, WHICH INHERITED THE MANTLE OF MERRILL'S MARAUDERS WITH GHOST MARCHES THROUGH BURMA'S MOUNTAINOUS JUNGLES, HAS HIT THE JAPANESE AGAIN AFTER THE MOST STRENUOUS TREK IN THE HISTORY OF THE WAR IN BURMA.
IN A LIGHTNING PINCER ATTACK, THE MARSMEN STORMED AND CAPTURED TWO VILLAGES JUST WEST OF THE BURMA ROAD ABOUT 30 MILES SOUTH OF THE LEDO ROAD AND 75 MILES NORTH OF THE ENEMY BASE AT LASHIO.
THERE WAS ONLY ABOUT A MILE BETWEEN THEM AND THE CHINESE FIGHTING DOWN FROM THE SOUTH, AND JAPANESE FORCES WERE CAUGHT BETWEEN THEM IN THE VILLAGE OF HAN SAK.
OFFICIAL REPORTS DISCLOSE THAT THE MARSMEN ARE MADE UP OF THE 475TH INFANTRY REGIMENT, PARTS OF WHICH SAW ACTION IN THE SIEGE OF MYITKYINA, AND THE 124TH CAVALRY, FIGHTING NOW AS DISMOUNTED INFANTRY.
THE 475TH INCLUDES MANY ORIGINAL MERRILL MARAUDERS. THE 124TH HAS 25 PERCENT OF THE ORIGINAL TEXAS NATIONAL GUARD MEMBERS AND REPLACEMENTS FROM ALMOST EVERY STATE IN THE UNION.
THE SAGA OF THE 475TH BEGAN JAN. 2 WHEN IT WAS RELIEVED BY CHINESE TROOPS AFTER THE FIGHTING AT TONKWA.
FEB 12 1945
THE TROOPS PUSHED OUT THROUGH THE JUNGLES FROM MONGWI, ABOUT 45 MILES AWAY, LEAVING 190 JAPANESE DEAD AS AGAINST 13 AMERICANS KILLED.
THEY RECEIVED FOOD SUPPLIES DROPPED FROM THE AIR ON JAN. 3, AND THAT WAS THE LAST UNTIL THEY REACHED MONGWI, TWO DAYS LATER, AFTER BATTLING SHEER MOUNTAINS OVER 4,000 FEET HIGH.
RAINS MADE THE DESCENT TO MONGWI HAZARDOUS. SIXTEEN MULES SLID OFF THE TRAILS INTO THE GORGES EN ROUTE, BUT 12 WERE LABORIOUSLY

HOISTED BACK.
THE 124TH MARCHED OUT OF BHAMO SEVERAL DAYS LATER AND THEN CUT SHARPLY SOUTHEAST ACROSS THE SHWELI RIVER, FOLLOWING MOUNTAIN TRAILS SO TORTUOUS THAT ON ONE STRETCH THE COLUMN CROSSED THE SAME CREEK 62 TIMES.
COL. WILLIAM F.OSBORNE, LOS ANGELES, CALIF., VETERAN OF BATAAN AND NORTH BURMA, WAS NAMED COMMANDER OF THE 124TH AT MONGWI, WHERE FINAL PLANS WERE LAID FOR THE BURMA ROAD ASSAULT. COL.ERNEST F. EASTERBROOK (EDS: HOME TOWN UNLISTED) WAS COMMANDER OF THE 475TH.
ADVANCE UNITS MOVED OUT JAN. 13 ON THE FINAL PHASE OF THE APPROACH TO THE BURMA ROAD.
THE MARSMEN ACCOMPLISHED THE SEEMINGLY IMPOSSIBLE, MAKING A 22-HOUR FORCED MARCH AT ONE POINT FOLLOWING PHOSOPHORESCENT CLOTH MARKERS AND LINKING HANDS ALONG TREACHEROUS BOGS, CREEKS AND PRECIPICES.
THE OUTFIT TRAVELED 16 MILES OF THE MOST RUGGED TERRAIN IN 35 HOURS WITH ONLY A TWO-HOUR REST, AND REACHED POSITIONS JAN. 17.

FEB 12 1945

B31
STAFF SGT.ERNIE REID, AN EX-MARAUDER, AND STAFF SGT.CHESTER WILSON, LEAD SCOUTS, SCORED FIRST BLOOD WHEN THEY RAN INTO THE JAPANESE IN NAWHKAM. WILSON KILLED THE FIRST JAPANESE AND REID THE SECOND.
IT WAS THE FIRST TIME THE GHOST MARCHERS HAD ENCOUNTERED THE ENEMY IN THE TWO-WEEKS MARCH.
THE BATTLE FOR THE BURMA ROAD POSITIONS GOT UNDER WAY JAN. 19. THE MARSMEN WENT INTO BATTLE WITHOUT EATING, BECAUSE THE TERRAIN PREVENTED FOOD BEING DROPPED BY PLANE.

BETWEEN THEN AND FEB. 7, THE TIRED, UNSHAVEN MARSMEN, SHORT OF WATER, FOUGHT THE JAPANESE TO A STANDSTILL, MAINTAINED POSITIONS ON THE BURMA ROAD, AND KILLED LARGE NUMBERS OF THE ENEMY WHO HAD BEEN RETREATING SOUTHWARD.

FEB 12 1945

PFC ERNEST BARKELEY, DIXONVILLE, PA., WHO WAS WITH THE MARAUDERS LAST YEAR, SAID THIS ACTION WAS "BY FAR THE WORST OF THEM ALL."

LT.COL.GEORGE T.LAUGHLIN, AKRON, OHIO, SAID THE FIGHTING, THOUGH BRIEF, WAS FAR MORE SAVAGE THAN AT MYITKYINA.

DURING THE BITTER THREE-WEEK BATTLE MORE THAN 600 JAPANESE WERE KILLED AND A HANDFUL OF PRISONERS WERE TAKEN. THE ENEMY WITHDRAWAL TO LASHIO WAS SERIOUSLY IMPEDED.
"THE MARS TASK FORCE HAS COVERED THE MOST HAZARDOUS TERRAIN IN BURMA EVER TRAVERSED BY AN AMERICAN UNIT," SAID BRIG.GEN.JOHN P. WILLEY, COMMANDING THE TASK FORCE.
"IT WAS A MAGNIFICENT JOB OF MARCHING OVER RUGGED MOUNTAINS, FOLLOWED BY AN EQUALLY MAGNIFICENT JOB OF FIGHTING. THE MORALE IS UNBELIEVABLY HIGH. THEY DID AND ARE DOING A GRAND JOB, AND I FEEL VERY PROUD TO COMMAND A UNIT OF THIS CALIBER."
PRESENT DISPOSITIONS OF THE MARS FORCE ARE UNDISCLOSED, BUT THE ROAD BLOCKS STILL ARE MAINTAINED AND THE JUNGLE GHOSTS STILL ARE GIVING THE JAPANESE HELL EVERY FOOT OF THE RETREAT PAST THEIR POSITIONS.

THE ARMY HAS THE SHIPPING. IT IS BEING MADE READY NOW, TOGETHER WITH HOSPITAL FACILITIES. THERE ARE AMPLE CLOTHES TO ACCOMMODATE A MAJORITY OF THE INTERNEES. THE JAPANESE ARE TAKING MAXIMUM ADVANTAGE OF THE RUGGED JUNGLE COVERED TERRAIN. THE AMERICANS MADE SOME PROGRESS TODAY IN CLEANING OUT TRENCHES, CAVES, AND PILLBOXES, WHICH HONEYCOMBED THE HILLS FLANKING THE MAIN HIGHWAY ACROSS BATAAN PENINSULA, BUT ALONG THE TWISTING ROAD ITSELF EVEN OUR TANKS HAVE FOUND THE GOING ROUGH.

THE FIELD OF FIRE FOR U.S.GUNS IS LIMITED ALONG STRETCHES TO A MATTER OF YARDS BY BENDS IN THE ROAD. BEHIND EACH BEND ENEMY GUNS ARE WELL DUG IN AND CONCEALED AND THE JAPANESE READY TO LEAP OUT OF THE UNDERBRUSH WITH GRENADES.

DIVISION OFFICERS ESTIMATED THAT 20,000 ROUNDS OF ARTILLERY AMMUNITION WERE POURED INTO THIS FRONT LINE SECTOR IN A WEEK.

AFTER AN AMERICAN BOMBARDMENT AGAINST HILL POSITIONS, DOUGHBOYS RUSHED UP THE SLOPE ONLY TO MEET A MURDEROUS FIRE FROM ENEMY MACHINE GUNS CONCEALED ON THE NEXT SLOPE.

CASUALTIES IN THE MEDICAL CORPS HAVE BEEN HIGH. ONE BATTALION LOST SEVERAL SUCCESSIVE SURGEONS. ONE COMPANY LOST ALL ITS MEDICAL PERSONNEL. CORP.HARRY M.URIAN, (809 ELMWOOD AVE.) SHARON HILL, PA., A LITTER BEARER, SAID A MORTAR SHELL LANDED SQUARELY ON ONE MEDICAL AID STATION, WOUNDING EIGHT MEN AND DESTROYING QUANTITIES OF VITAL BLOOD PLASMA.

SGT.JACK TUGGLE, (345 FRANKLIN ROAD) ATLANTA, GA., TOLD HOW JAPANESE IN A PILLBOX AND INTERCONNECTING TRENCH HAD BEEN STUBBORNLY RESISTING EFFORTS TO DISLODGE THEM. STAFF SGT.ELDON HARROLL (226 PARK AVE) NEW ALBANY, IND., SNATCHED UP ONE FALLEN MAN'S GUN TO CONTINUE FIRING INTO THE ENEMY.

WHEN THE POSITION WAS CLEANED OUT IT CONTAINED 36 DEAD JAPANESE.

IT IS A BLOODY FIGHT.

IN MANILA THE METROPOLITAN SECTION, SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER, IS THE VORTEX OF VIOLENT BLOCK BY BLOCK WARFARE.

AND ALL IN AND AROUND THIS BATTLE OF THE BUILDINGS, FIRES ARE BEING SET OFF BY JAPANESE DEMOLITIONISTS WHO ARE ADDING NEW DESTRUCTION TO THE ALREADY DEEPLY SCARRED CITY.

THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION IS STILL REDUCING THE JAPANESE DEFENSES AROUND NICHOLS AIRFIELD AT THE SOUTHERN EXTREMITY OF MANILA. THE DIVISION HAS BEEN IN COMBAT FOR FOUR DAYS WITH THE JAPANESE WHO ARE IN STRONGLY DEFENDED POSITIONS AROUND THE NORTH SIDE OF THE FIELD.

THE 11TH AIRBORNE IS NOW MOVING ITS ARTILLERY ON THIS NIPPONESE LINE FROM WHICH THE JAPANESE GUNS AND MORTARS CONTINUE TO FIRE STEADILY.

THE BRIGHTEST DEVELOPMENT LAST NIGHT WAS THE CROSSING OF THE PASIG RIVER BY FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION UNITS WHICH ARE NOW ATTACKING FROM THE EAST. THE CAVALRY GOT ACROSS EASILY NEAR THE PHILIPPINE RACING CLUB, SEVERAL THOUSAND YARDS SOUTHEAST OF WHERE THE 37TH DIVISION IS FIGHTING BITTERLY IN THE PACO AND ERMITA DISTRICTS.

THE CAVALRY THREW A BRIDGE OVER THE PASIG AND MOVED ACROSS IN GOOD

TWO REGIMENTS OF THE 37TH DIVISION WENT THROUGH A STIFF DAY OF BATTLE, FEBRUARY 9, AND FIERCE FIGHTING CONTINUED TODAY.

ONE ASSAULT BOAT CROSSING THE PASIG RIVER WITH REINFORCEMENTS NEAR THE PRESIDENT'S PALACE BEACHHEAD TOOK A DIRECT 90 MM. MORTAR HIT AND WAS BLOWN TO BITS.

ELEMENTS OF THE 37TH IN THE BONONDO BETWEEN JONES AND SANTA CRUZ BRIDGES WERE HIT BY JAPANESE ARTILLERY FIRE. ANOTHER REGIMENT WAS UNDER HEAVY MORTAR FIRE AND TOOK SOME CASUALTIES. IN THIS AREA, SIX JAPANESE TRIED A BANZAI CHARGE ON A COMPANY COMMAND POST AND WERE WIPED OUT.

THREE MORE JAPANESE WERE KILLED LAST NIGHT TRYING TO DYNAMITE A MUNICIPAL WATER FILTER SYSTEM.

GREAT SECTIONS OF MINED AREAS IN NEW MANILA AND ROSARIO DISTRICTS MADE THE CAVALRY ADVANCE VERY DIFFICULT.

THE NICOLOSA DISTRICT NEAR THE WATERFRONT IS FLATTENED. THERE AREN'T EVEN ANY BLACK WALLS STANDING. FARTHER UP THE RIVER THE BINONDO AREA IS A BLACKENED GASH OF ROOFLESS WALLS AND RUBBLE.

OVER TO THE EAST, FIRE RAGES IN THE NIGHT LIFE AREA AND THE NATIVE PACO DISTRICT. THERE MUST BE A NUMBER OF CONGESTED BLOCKS BURNING FIERCELY AND,WITH EACH LITTLE ADVANCE, THE FLAMES SET OFF JAPANESE AMMUNITION AND OIL DUMPS. THE FIRES FLARE, FATTEN AND SPREAD.
THE CITY HALL, LEGISLATIVE BUILDING, BAYVIEW HOTEL AND ARMY AND NAVY CLUB STILL STAND. THEY TOO ARE SURROUNDED BY WIDE LAWNS AND HAVE A CHANCE TO SURVIVE UNLESS THE JAPANESE DELIBERATELY PUT THE TORCH TO THEM.

HALIFAX, FEB 10-(AP)-GERMAN SUBMARINES HAVE PROWLED THE NORTH ATLANTIC THIS WINTER IN CONSTANT THREAT TO ALLIED CONVOYS USING CANADIAN PORTS AND IN ONE 22-DAY PERIOD SANK A CANADIAN WARSHIP AND FIVE MERCHANTMEN, LIFTING OF CENSORSHIP DISCLOSED LAST NIGHT.
A SEVENTH VESSEL, A CANADIAN FREIGHTER ENROUTE FROM NEW YORK TO A CANADIAN PORT, WAS TORPEDOED AT ANOTHER TIME.
THE LONG-RANGE SUBMARINES CAUSED TENSION AMONG NAVY MEN BY MYSTERIOUS OPERATIONS ALONG THE NORTH ATLANTIC SEABOARD FOR MANY WEEKS BEFORE THEY ACTUALLY STRUCK. THERE WAS SOME BELIEF THEY MIGHT BE PICKING TARGETS FOR V-WEAPON ATTACKS. THEY WERE SPOTTED AT MANY POINTS CLOSE TO THE NOVA SCOTIA COAST FROM CAPE BRETON TO YARMOUTH.
THE INITIAL ATTACK WAS AGAINST THE CANADIAN FREIGHTER ENROUTE FROM NEW YORK. IT WENT DOWN WITH A LOSS OF AT LEAST 37 LIVES. THREE WEEKS LATER, JUST BEFORE CHRISTMAS, THE MINESWEEPER CLAYOQUOT WHICH HAD SEEN FOUR YEARS OF CONVOY DUTY, WAS SUNK 12 MILES OFF THE NOVA SCOTIA COAST WITH A LOSS OF EIGHT OF HER CREW OF 81.
IN THREE-WEEKS THE RAIDERS ALSO SANK A CANADIAN MERCHANT SHIP AND FOUR OTHER SHIPS WITH A TOTAL LOSS OF 36 MEN.
WHETHER THE SUBMARINE PACK HAS BEEN RUN DOWN WAS NOT DISCLOSED, BUT CENSORSHIP REVEALED THAT VAST PRECAUTIONS WERE TAKEN AGAINST THEM. SCORES OF DEPTH CHARGES WERE DROPPED OVER WIDE AREAS AND THE R.C.A.F. PATROLLED IN CONSTANT VIGIL.
IT WAS SUSPECTED THAT PRIMARY TARGETS OF THE U-BOATS WERE THE SPEEDY, CLOSELY GUARDED TROOP TRANSPORTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, FEB.10--JAPANESE TREATMENT OF INTERNEES IN THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP IN MANILA WOULD HAVE RESULTED IN MASS BURIALS HAD LIBERATION BEEN DELAYED 60 DAYS PAST THE FEB.3 ARRIVAL OF AMERICAN TROOPS, EARL CARROLL, INTERNEE LEADER, SAID TODAY IN A RADIO (MBS) INTERVIEW.

"THE JAPANESE FLATLY REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE THE GENEVA CONVENTION REGARDING THE TREATMENT OF PRISONERS," CARROLL, MANILA INSURANCE MAN AND FIRST CHAIRMAN OF THE INTERNMENT PRISON CAMP COMMITTEE, TOLD HIS INTERVIEWER, ROYAL ARCH GUNNISON, MBS WAR CORRESPONDENT.

CONDITIONS IN THE CAMP GREW STEADILY WORSE AFTER FEB.4, 1944, AND RATIONS WERE CUT TO THE EXTENT THAT NO PRISONER RECEIVED MORE THAN ONE-FIFTH OR ONE-SIXTH OF THE AMOUNT OF FOOD REQUIRED TO KEEP AN AVERAGE PERSON IN HEALTH.

THE INTERNEES WERE FORBIDDEN TO MENTION JAPANESE DISREGARD OF GENEVA CONVENTION RULES, EITHER IN CORRESPONDENCE OR CONVERSATION, CARROLL ADDED.

BERI BERI AFFLICTED THE PRISONERS. THEIR LEGS BEGAN TO SWELL AND "IT WAS ONLY BY A MIRACLE THAT MANY OF THEM WERE ABLE TO CONTINUE WALKING AT ALL," THE CAMP LEADER SAID.

"SIXTY MORE DAYS OF SUCH TREATMENT AND WE WOULD HAVE HAD MASS BURIALS IN THE CAMP."

CARROLL CONDUCTED MOST OF THE NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN THE JAPANESE COMMANDANT AND THE PRISONERS.

"FIRST WORD OF THE LONG HOPED FOR RESCUE CAME TO ME ON JAN.7 WHEN I WAS CALLED BEFORE THE JAP COLONEL AND TOLD THAT THE AMERICANS MIGHT BE IN MANILA ANY DAY," HE SAID.

"THE JAPANESE APPEARED NERVOUS AND EAGER TO QUIT THE CAMP."

WHEN CHEERING INSIDE THE CAMP ANNOUNCED THE ARRIVAL OF THE FIRST AMERICAN TANK AT THE GATE. CARROLL SAID HE WAS CALLED BEFORE THE

JAPANESE COLONEL TO BE INFORMED THAT THE AMERICANS WERE OUTSIDE. A HALF-HOUR LATER THE FIRST TANKS BROKE IN AND THE FIRST QUESTION THE LIBERATORS ASKED WAS, "ARE THERE ANY JAPS HERE."

CARROLL TOLD THE TROOPS THERE WERE ABOUT 75 JAPANESE INSIDE A BARRICADE ON THE UPPER FLOOR OF A THREE-STORY BUILDING.

THE JAPANESE HELD AS HOSTAGES A NUMBER OF OLD MEN AND CHILDREN, BUT WHEN THEIR PLIGHT BECAME OBVIOUSLY HOPELESS THE ENEMY TROOPS ASKED FOR AND RECEIVED SAFE CONDUCT FROM THE CAMP.

CARROLL, WHO IS WELL KNOWN ALONG AMERICA'S PACIFIC COAST, FORMERLY WAS AN INSURANCE COMPANY EXECUTIVE IN HONOLULU.

SAN FRANCISCO, FEB.10-(AP)-ARRIVAL OF RED CROSS SUPPLIES HAS EASED CONDITIONS IN THE SHANGHAI PRISONER OF WAR CAMP, LT. COL.JAMES PATRICK DEVEREUX, HERO OF THE MARINE DEFENSE OF WAKE ISLAND, SAID IN A LETTER RECEIVED HERE.

THE LETTER WAS TO HIS 11-YEAR-OLD SON, PAT, AND IMPLIED A CONSIDERABLE RELAXATION OF JAPANESE RULES GOVERNING CENSORSHIP AS WELL AS RECEIPT OF MAIL AND RED CROSS SUPPLIES.

IN THE LETTER, FIRST RECEIVED FROM DEVEREUX IN 10 MONTHS, THE LEADER OF THE 400 MARINES WHO STOOD OFF A JAPANESE FORCE TEN TIMES THEIR NUMBER BEFORE CAPITULATING DEC.31, 1941, TOLD HIS SON:

"DON'T BE TOO BOASTFUL OF THE MARINES. THEY DO ENOUGH THEMSELVES.

"WE ARE DOING QUITE WELL," THE 41-YEAR-OLD COLONEL WROTE TO THE BOY, "HAVING RECENTLY RECEIVED RED CROSS SUPPLIES CONSISTING OF CLOTHES, MEDICINES AND SUFFICIENT FOOD BOXES FOR SIX PER PRISONER.

"GRANNY SPOKE OF HER 73D BIRTHDAY. WE SHOULD BE TOGETHER FOR HER 75TH. DELIGHTED TO HEAR YOU ARE GETTING ALONG WELL IN YOUR SCHOOL; KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK. X X X DON'T BE TOO BOASTFUL OF THE MARINES. THEY DO ENOUGH THEMSELVES. TRY BEING A BIT MODEST AND DON'T GET INTO TOO MANY FIGHTS. GLAD YOU ARE RIDING. X X X HOPE YOU LEARN THE CAVALRY SCHOOL OF RIDING. X X X

"I AM NOW NO LONGER IN CHARGE OF THE GARDEN, THOUGH WHILE I HAD IT I LEARNED A GREAT DEAL. AMONG OTHER THINGS, I NOW SUPERVISE THE RAISING OF PIGS. WE HAVE 18 LITTLE ONES, BORN LAST MONTH. X X X SO FAR WE HAVE BUTCHERED ABOUT SIX HOGS AND SHOULD HAVE MORE IN THE FALL. THE EXPERIENCE WILL BE OF VALUE WHEN WE HAVE A FARM.

"YOU MIGHT TELL EVERYONE THAT MY HEALTH IS GOOD. DID HAVE A SPELL OF PNEUMONIA, BUT THANKS TO DR.KAHN'S EXCELLENT CARE AND THE NEW SULFANILIMIDE DRUGS I CAME OUT OF IT OK. FIRST REAL ILLNESS I'VE HAD SINCE I WAS YOUR AGE. DO HOPE I'LL BE HOME FOR YOUR NEXT BIRTHDAY; IF NOT, YOU KNOW THAT I'LL BE THINKING OF YOU. X X X"

YOUNG PAT, WHOSE MOTHER DIED SOME TIME AGO, IS LIVING HERE WITH HIS GRANDPARENTS, COL. AND MRS.JOHN P.WELCH. COLONEL WELCH RETURNED SEVERAL MONTHS AGO FROM THE CHINA-BURMA-INDIA THEATER WHERE HE SERVED UNDER GENERAL JOSEPH STILWELL.

NINETY SUPERFORTRESSES RAIDED THE TOKYO-YOKOHAMA AREA OF JAPAN IN DAYLIGHT TODAY, A JAPANESE IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED.

A BROADCAST VERSION OF THE COMMUNIQUE, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, ADMITTED "SOME DAMAGE TO GROUND INSTALLATIONS WAS SUSTAINED."

AN EARLIER DOMEI NEWS AGENCY DISPATCH SAID FIVE FORMATIONS OF

MARIANAS-BASED B-29S WERE OVER THE AREA FOR AN HOUR. BOTH THE COMMUNIQUE AND THE DOMEI REPORT SAID THE ATTACK WAS MADE ON "THE NORTHERN PART OF THE KANTO DISTRICT" WHICH EMBRACES TOKYO AND YOKOHAMA, BUT DID NOT SPECIFY PRECISE TARGETS.

THE RAID, CONFIRMED BY THE U.S. 20TH AIR FORCE, WAS THE 52ND SUPERFORT RAID ON JAPAN.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE OWI, QUOTED FROM AN ARTICLE BY SHAW IN THE BRITISH MAGAZINE "TIME AND TIDE," IN WHICH THE 89-YEAR-OLD PLAYWRIGHT WROTE:

"BY DEMOCRACY, I MEAN A SOCIAL ORDER AIMING AT THE GREATEST AVAILABLE WELFARE FOR THE WHOLE POPULATION, AND NOT FOR A CLASS. I MOST EMPHATICALLY DO NOT MEAN GOVERNMENT BY AN ASSEMBLY.

"I BELIEVE IN GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE, BUT I DO NOT BELIEVE IN LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG ADDITION OF GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE.

"DIVISION OF LABOR IS THE LAW OF NATURA--ALIAS PROVIDENCE--IN THIS MATTER. THE BELIEF THAT THE HUMAN RACE IS DIVIDED INTO MEN AND SUPERMEN IS NOT ANTI-DEMOCRATIC. THE FACT STARES US IN THE FACE ALL THROUGH HISTORY, PAST AND PRESENT.

"IT MUST NOT BE FORGOTTEN THAT THE HUMAN RACE DOES NOT CONSIST OF DEMOCRATS AND ANTI-DEMOCRATS. BOTH OF THESE ARE IN FAVOR OF GOVERNMENT AS SUCH AND DIFFER ONLY AS TO ITS FORM. BUT THE AVERAGE CITIZEN HAS THE MOST INTENSE OBJECTION TO BEING GOVERNED AT ALL AND RALLIES ALWAYS TO THE CRY OF 'LIBERTY,' WHICH IS THE NEGATION OF GOVERNMENT. THEY HAVE NEVER BEEN TAUGHT CIVILIZATION, WHICH SHOULD BE THEIR FIRST INTELLIGENT LESSON AT SCHOOL."

"LONG BEFORE PEARL HARBOR, OUR SPECIALISTS WERE AT WORK ON IMPROVEMENTS TO GUNNERY SIGHTING DEVICES. THE RESULT IS THAT OUR AIRCRAFT GUNS ARE BEING SIGHTED WITH THE BEST APPARATUS IN THE WORLD," GENERAL WOLFE ASSERTED.
ONE OF THE NEWEST SIGHTING DEVICES DESIGNED SPECIFICALLY FOR HAND-HELD GUNS IS PROVING A BOON TO WAIST GUNNERS ON BOMBERS AND IS IN PRODUCTION ON A LARGE SCALE, GEN.WOLFE SAID.

ALTHOUGH DETAILS WERE NOT DISCLOSED, GENERAL WOLFE DECLARED: "I CAN SAY THESE NEW TYPES OF DEVICES WILL TAKE PRACTICALLY ALL CHANCE FOR HUMAN ERROR OUT OF AIMING AIRCRAFT GUNS. THE GUNNER MERELY LINES UP THE TARGET IN HIS SIGHTS AND TRIPS THE FIRING MECHANISM."

EVEN WITH ALL ALLOWANCES PROVIDED FOR IN THE FINAL AIMING FORMULA, THE SIGHT WOULD BE WORTHLESS IF THE GUNNER FIRED A STEADY BURST FROM HIS GUN. THIS IS BECAUSE THE BARREL, ENLARGED FROM THE HEAT OF PROTRACTED FIRING, WOULD CEASE TO EJECT THE PROJECTILE ON A COURSE ESTABLISHED AS TRUE BY THE PRECISION INSTRUMENTS INVOLVED IN THE SIGHTING APPARATUS.

Allies Battling in Kleve Streets, Third Army Smashes into Pruem; Russian Forces Capture Liegnitz

CANADIANS DRIVE 10 MILES THROUGH NAZI WESTWALL

Germans Reported Rushing Reinforcements to Meet Assault.

NAZIS FLOOD ROER

Seventh Army Beats Off Enemy Attacks Near Strasbourg.

FEB 13 1945

PARIS, Feb. 11—(AP) The Canadian First army drove the Germans today from the western section of Kleve and into the southern half of that fortress on the Reich's ramparts in the fourth day of an offensive that has bored 10 miles through the Siegfried Line.

Street fighting raged in a second pillar of the enemy's defenses 115 miles south, where two U. S. Third army divisions were storming the Eifel mountain stronghold of Pruem and threatening to cut it off from its road link to the Rhine.

Nazis Rush Up Troops

The Luxembourg radio said that once more German troops were rushing westward to meet an expected all-out Allied smash, altering the current of reinforcements which for days has been rushing eastward to meet the Russians.

This flow of reinforcements was reflected on the Canadian front, where front dispatches said tough German parachute troops hustled up from Alsace were stiffening the sagging lines. The count of prisoners in this battle rose to 3,500.

The Third army's invasion of the Reich southwest of Pruem was gathering momentum as the borderline Sure river was bridged by pontoons at one point, and men and supplies poured across. Ten crossings now were welded into three bridgeheads on a 25-mile front.

For the moment, the British Second and U. S. First and Ninth armies, massed between Pruem and Kleve, were idle. The flooded Roer river along their front had risen to seven feet above normal north of Aachen and was two miles wide at one place, but reports to Supreme headquarters said the river was believed to have reached its peak.

The flood—loosed when the Germans blew the flood gates of the giant Schwammenauel dam southeast of Aachen—had risen no higher upstream at Dueren and the water in the five-mile long reservoir had dropped 20 feet in 24 hours.

A front dispatch said U. S. First army troops still were fighting atop the big earthen dam. Contrary to reports that it had been captured, they hold one end of the dam and control the other by artillery fire.

In northern Alsace, the U. S. Seventh army beat off a counter-attack in which the Germans struck with tanks northeast of Strasbourg, but the Americans were forced to make a retirement from Drusenheim.

In southern Alsace, where the Germans were driven back into the Reich, a strong enemy patrol tried to return Saturday night across the Rhine northeast of Colmar but was dispersed by artillery fire.

German Towns Ripped

A dispatch from the Kleve battlefront declared that Field Marshal Montgomery's massed artillery was ripping German towns apart on a scale that dwarfed even the fighting in Normandy.

German broadcasts, admitting Canadian gains, insisted the drive was but the prelude to Gen. Eisenhower's all-out offensive from the west.

The Germans apparently counted on the flood to hold their north flank along the Rhine, while they concentrated on a rock-like defense of Kleve, with its valuable network of roads and railways.

But they counted without the ingenuity of amphibious tank-riding Canadians, who brought the assault lines to within a mile and a half north of Kleve with the capture of Donsbruggen. The flood forced dominion troops to evacuate nearby Rindern, captured early in the day.

At the same time, the enemy was being hurled back house-to-house in Kleve in bloody combat at close quarters, losing his grip on the western section and falling back well into the southwest portion.

With the citadel outflanked by forces slashing eastward both north and south of the city, it was difficult to see how Kleve could hold out much longer.

Another fierce battle flared two miles south of Kleve, where the Canadians cut communications between the city and a second road and railway center at Goch, seven miles south.

Battle in Reichswald

The slashing advance of Field Marshal Montgomery's forces thus sheared through the northeast corner of the Reichswald, neutralizing that bunker-studded fir forest as a part of Kleve's defenses.

The front now was an arching one of about 17 miles, stretching from the Rhine on the north to the Maas on the south.

Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt had at last managed to form a defense line on the south flank and a bitter struggle spread through the streets of Gennep, nine miles southwest of Kleve.

The Dutch road junction on the banks of the Maas appeared likely to become another death pocket like one on the river farther north, where an attempted enemy stand was obliterated yesterday.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian First army troops also seized the village of Zelderheide, three miles east of Gennep and six miles west of Goch.

On the north flank, a gain of a mile and a half swept up the villages of Millingen and Keeken, on the Rhine bank five miles northwest of Kleve.

A crossing of the Rhine out to the north German plain here would by-pass the troublesome Neder Rhine, which branches off north from the Waal Rhine a mile and a half northwest of Millingen.

The Germans had not yet chosen to make a stand on this sector, and advancing Allied troops were out of contact with the enemy.

Montgomery, Deep in Mud, Says Drive Is Going Well

By The Associated Press.

ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF CLEVE, Germany, Feb. 11—Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery told correspondents at the front today he was "very pleased" with the progress of the four-day-old Allied offensive into Germany from the Nijmegen salient.

"The battle is going very well," the field marshal said, "but of course all this mud doesn't help, does it?"

Marshal Montgomery was standing ankle deep in the black, oozy mud that spread like a gigantic hog wallow as far as the eye could see.

All around him, as he paused in a shell-splintered crossroads hamlet, massed gun batteries were thundering a crescendo and British and Canadian troops were swarming over the waterlogged countryside.

The field marshal, who drove to the front in his familiar low-slung, green open touring car, appeared in top fettle. After his chat with correspondents he gave only one order. It was: "Get those convoys moving."

Canadians Win Upper Hand in Battle in Cleve

Driving Foe Out in Bitter Clash; Fight in Second Belt of Siegfried Line

WITH CANADIAN 1ST ARMY, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP).—Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces, smashing at the Germans in the fiercest battles of his winter offensive, fought at close quarters with the enemy tonight in Cleve and were slowly driving him out.

On the north along the flooded Rhine plain they were fighting in the second belt of the Siegfried defenses. On the south they were battling in Gennep, on the Maas (Meuse), nine miles southwest of Cleve.

The whole front is aflame as British and Canadian troops under General H. D. G. Crerar press forward through flood waters and mud.

Resistance in Cleve is stiff. Enemy paratroopers, driven from one house only after a bitter struggle, take up positions in the next. These veteran German troops are also in action at Gennep and in the edge of the Reichswald between Gennep and Cleve.

In the Reichswald itself, where the main Siegfried defenses were breached two days ago, the Allies have cut the highway between these two towns.

British troops smashed south from the Reichswald and attacked Hekkens, which is squarely in the middle of the first Siegfried belt. Snipers picked off the attackers as they emerged from the forest.

The Germans mortared and machined-gunned the advancing lines from zigzag trenches, pillboxes and reinforced buildings. British casualties were fairly heavy tonight.

The push on Gennep resulted in the Germans blowing the Niers River bridge at the approaches of this Dutch frontier town, and tonight British artillery opened up on enemy defenses from across the Maas.

GERMANS FLOOD ROER RIVER AREA

By ROBERT EUNSON

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY, Feb. 11—(AP) The Roer River ran as much as seven feet above normal level today and was two miles wide at one point as a result of the Germans' opening of the control valves at the Schwammenauel Dam.

The five-mile long reservoir behind the dam went down 20 feet in 24 hours. The waters flowed north along the U. S. Ninth Army front at from five to seven miles an hour.

A flight in an artillery observation plane showed miles of inundated fields, forests and battered German houses along the whole northern sector of the western front.

North of Aachen near Brachalen, the river has broken over the banks and fills a two-mile wide cut where a railroad embankment helps hold back the water.

The water here apparently is causing the Germans more trouble than the Americans, although the whole area, from the outskirts of Brachalen to the river's bank 150 yards away looked like a lake.

Cruising at 1,000 feet along the river's western bank, we passed over fields pockmarked by shells.

30. 24 — 22897

blown German pillboxes and scarred by old enemy communications trenches between Subterranean forts.

Along both banks the waters seem to be seeping back gradually into the silty black soil. Hence the river banks between the German troops and the Ninth Army are temporarily an impassible barrier.

Dueren and Juelich sectors east of Aachen reveal little more than the usual junk piles of red brick that once were buildings, and shingled roofs broken in by artillery fire.

The river just south of Juelich now is 1,100 feet wide. The water level at Dueren is reported up only three feet so far.

ALLIED ARTILLERY LEVELS NAZI TOWNS

By ROGER D. GREENE

ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF KLEVE, Feb. 11—(AP) Field Marshal Montgomery's massed guns are systematically ripping German towns and villages to tatters on a scale unrivaled in more than five years of war in Europe.

Sloshing along roads axle deep in mud, I traveled by jeep today through the outer defenses of the Siegfried Line to a high forest ridge overlooking Kleve—home of Henry VIII's ugly-duckling wife, Anne of Cleves.

For mile after mile I saw a panorama of destruction that exceeded even the hard-hit villages of Normandy.

"If this is Germany they can have it after we take it," said gunner Bill Milner of Sackville, New Brunswick, as we stood in the debris-choked village of Nuetterden, just outside Kleve.

Milner, who landed in France on D-day, said he never saw such havoc inflicted by artillery in all the long Normandy campaign as has been wrought on German frontier towns in the last four days.

Every house, shop and building in Wyler, Kranenburg and Butterden along the route to Kleve bore gaping holes.

Slate tile roofs which had not been actually blown off by the massed artillery barrage that was the prelude to this offensive showed skeleton ribs to the sky. Window shutters and doors had been torn from their hinges.

At Nuefterden, a British colonel showed me through a big green camouflaged bunker, part of the Siegfried Line, buried under sodded earth. It had a roof of concrete nine feet thick.

"This could have made trouble for us if the Boche had tried to defend it," the colonel said, "but he didn't."

For 15 miles before reaching the front we dodged in and out of endless columns of tanks, trucks and troop carriers moving forward.

North of the main Nijmegen-Kleve road, a series of smokepots lifted a white billowing screen for many miles along the Rhine to hide Allied movements from enemy gunners a few thousand yards away.

North of the road, daredevil Canadian troops in armored amphibious carriers called Buffalos went from island to island rising above the flood waters, storming and capturing enemy strongpoints imperiling the line of advance.

On land British troops in deep mud and picking their way through dense minefields under the eerie glow of artificial moonlight fought their way through the first belt of the Siegfried Line in less than five hours.

RED SPEARHEADS TIGHTEN CORDON AROUND BRESLAU

Strike Within 84 Miles of Dresden, Capital of Saxony.

CUT BERLIN RAILWAY

Soviet Forces Reach Edge of Super-highway Supplying Silesia.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 12 — (AP) The Red army in a 37-mile smash across southern Germany has almost encircled Breslau, has captured the big industrial center of Liegnitz, 35 miles west of that Silesian capital, and driven to within 84 miles of Dresden, Saxony capital, Moscow announced last night.

Expanding their break-through in four days to a 99-mile front, the Russians cut a 37-mile section of the Berlin-Breslau trunk railway and reached the edge of the four-lane Berlin-Breslau superhighway over which German reinforcements have been flowing into Silesia in an effort to prevent a Soviet push into Saxony which would outflank Berlin.

Liegnitz Taken by Reds

Berlin acknowledged the fall of Liegnitz and said Soviet tank spearheads had reached—and were trying to cross—the Bobej river on a 22-mile front between Bunzlau, 65 miles west of imperilled Breslau, and Sprottau, 100 miles southeast of Berlin.

Bunzlau is only 28 miles from the Saxony frontier, 74 miles east of Dresden and 90 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovakian capital.

Moscow said the Russian units nearest to Dresden were at Gremsdorf, 11 miles northeast of Bunzlau, and at Primkenau, 11 miles southeast of Sprottau. Both these captured towns are approximately 8 miles east of the Bober River, but Berlin said the battle already had begun in the thick forests along its east bank.

In capturing Kostenblut, 18 miles southwest of Breslau, the Russians reached the edge of the Berlin-Breslau superhighway, and they also were close to it at many points between there and the Bober River.

Bypass Tank Division

Berlin said that the Russians were moving so swiftly that they already had bypassed one whole German tank division, leaving following units to deal with it. "The battle of Breslau has reached a decisive phase," this broadcast said.

Enemy broadcasts said that Russian forces holding bridgeheads across the Oder 30 to 43 miles from Berlin were not ready to make their final lunge toward the Reich capital. The Soviet command intends first of all to force forward its Silesian and Pomeranian flanks," Berlin said.

Count Communities Taken

The Silesian drive which was threatening to break into Saxony and was folding the German southern flank back against the mountainous Sudeten frontier of Czechoslovakia was announced by Premier Stalin in an order of the day after a month-old offensive which has surged nearly 300 miles west of the Vistula River in Poland.

On the basis of Moscow announcements, the Russians in that time have captured more than 18,500 Polish cities and villages, 500 in Czechoslovakia, and 8,747 in Germany. In the first twelve days of the drive Moscow said the Germans had lost 295,000 men killed and 86,330 captured.

Pomeranian Junction Falls

In a second order of the day Stalin announced the capture of Deutsch-Krone, twelve-way junction city in Pomerania 135 miles northeast of Berlin. Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army also toppled Maerkisch-Friedland, another stronghold 15 miles west of Deutsch-Krone and 43 miles east of threatened Stargard, outer bastion of Stettin at the mouth of the Oder River.

The order disclosed that troops of the 1st Polish Army under Lieut. Gen. Stanislaus Poplawski, which participated in the capture of Warsaw January 17, now were in action alongside Russian forces in Pomerania.

Five important German strongholds besides Liegnitz fell in the swift onrush of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army, which coiled around Breslau on the west and southwest after crossing the Oder River—northwest of that city of 630,000—the largest German city yet within the grasp of any Allied army.

15-Mile Gap Remains

Only a 15-mile escape gap for the Axis garrison in Breslau was left as Konev's mobile units slashed its last direct communications with Berlin and Dresden. Two secondary railways running south of the city were the only supply routes left to the garrison and these were under Soviet artillery fire.

Among the strongholds swept up in the big drive, first announced by Berlin three days ago, were:

Steinau, 32 miles northwest of Breslau.

Lueben, 10 miles west of Steinau.

Neumarkt, 16 miles west of Breslau.

Liegnitz, a thirteen-way road and rail junction controlling Berlin's communications with upper Silesia. It is a big mining and manufacturing center of 76,000.

Haynau, 10 miles northwest of Liegnitz.

Kanth, only 10 miles southwest of Breslau.

Soviet forces which previously had smashed across the Oder River southwest of Breslau hold positions at Kurtsch, 12 miles south of Breslau, and the German Garrison's only escape route or supply corridor is between Kurtsch and Kanth.

At Haynau the Russians were within 2 miles of the Berlin-Breslau autobahn, or superhighway, and Berlin reports indicated that this great military trafficway already had been cut in the smash to Bunzlau on the Bober River 15 miles west of Haynau.

At Kanth, on Breslau's immediate southwestern approaches, other Soviet units were also only 2 miles from the superhighway. The road already had been cut at several places in its course southwest of Breslau to Russian-held Beuthen, on the Polish Silesian frontier.

The size of the swelling Soviet offensive, apparently aimed at outflanking Berlin on the south and cutting between the Reich capital and Czechoslovakia, could be gauged by Stalin's commendation of 55 generals, including 23 commanders of infantry formations and 15 artillery leaders who distinguished themselves in the breakthrough.

Concentrated Armies

One Berlin commentator said the Russians had "suprisingly concentrated a sizable part of their assault armies" in the Steinau area northwest of Breslau for the powerful blow.

With his offensive a month old Konev has driven 280 miles from the Vistula river since Jan. 12 and penetrated 80 miles inside Silesia.

Among the 500 towns and villages captured during the day were Friedemost, three miles southeast of Glogau, Oder river stronghold 54 miles northwest of Breslau; Quaritz, nine miles southwest of Glogau; and Primkenau, 11 miles southeast of the Bober river crossing town of Sprottau.

Fierce fighting raged in the Primkenauer and Bunzlauer forests east of the Bober river, said a Berlin commentator who added: "The task facing our divisions is becoming harder every hour."

Officially, the Russians were placed by Moscow within eight miles of the Bober at Primkenau and within nine miles at captured Gremsdorf, 12 miles south of Primkenau.

South of Katowice in Polish Silesia the Russians drove to within 25 miles of Moravska Ostrava, the Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia, with the capture of Pczczyna and nearby localities, and to within 17 miles of Cieszyn (Teschen), rich mining district, with the seizure of Czechowice, six miles south of Pczczyna and five miles north of the rail city of Bielsko.

Gain in East Prussia

In East Prussia, Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army in hard fighting captured eight more localities west of Preussicheylau, stronghold taken Saturday.

The communique said that in the fighting in that area, 20 miles south of encircled Koenigsberg, huge military stores were captured. These included 4,200 trucks, 1,000 new gun barrels still in their packings, 400 gun carriages, 5,000 barrels for heavy machineguns, 400 tank motors, 500 motorcycles, 50 armored troop carriers and 211 tractors.

The booty also included 200 wagon loads of tank and truck spare parts, 1,000,000 mines, 1,000,000 shells and 980 wagon loads of other supplies.

In capturing the East Prussian port of Elbing on Saturday the Russians said their troops killed 5,000 Germans, captured 2,700, and seized 33 tanks, 35 armored troop carriers, 200 guns, 790 trucks, 40 locomotives, 1,141 railway wagons, two ships, 27 stores of ammunition, equipment and food.

The Germans claimed their troops had recaptured Frauenburg, on the Baltic lagoon coast 17 miles northeast of Elbing. Moscow had reported the capture of Frauenburg on Friday as part of the encirclement operations against the remnants of 20 German divisions caught in the pocket below Koenigsberg.

Thirty localities were taken in the German drive toward the Baltic through Pomerania and the Germans acknowledged that Russian troops had broken into the defenses of encircled Schneidemuehl, 12 miles southeast of captured Deutsch-Krone. Schneidemuehl and Poznan, western Polish stronghold 50 miles to the south, were by-passed two weeks ago by Marshal Zhukov's troops.

GERMANS ARE TOLD TO SABOTAGE RAILS

LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP) An appeal to German railway workers to go on strike and sabotage the Nazi transportation system to help shorten the war was broadcast by the BBC tonight under sponsorship of Allied Supreme headquarters.

Reminding enemy workers of increasing Allied air attacks on German rail targets, the broadcast, on the BBC German language service, declared the railroads were being used to prolong a "lost war" at the cost of "nothing but harm to you, to your families and to your country."

"Inevitably," the appeal said, "you have suffered heavy losses in killed and wounded. By withholding your assistance you will shorten the agony of war for your homeland and aid materially in bringing back peace, order and justice to Germany."

"German railway workers, play your part in saving your homeland by withholding assistance to the criminal war prolongers. You can do so by:

"One: Interfering with the conveyance of supplies and reinforcements to the front. Two: By interfering with the transportation of food and stores, supplies and equipment away from the threatened territories and deeper into the Reich. Three: By interfering with the transportation of evacuees forced to leave their homes against their will."

U. S. PLANES POUND NAZI SUPPLY LINES

Liberators Hammer Motor Fuel Storage Dump At Duelmen.

LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP) A force of 125 U. S. Eighth air force liberators bombed a German motor fuel storage dump at Duelmen southwest of Muenster today, and some 250 Mustang fighters strafed and bombed transportation lines over a wide area of western Ger many.

One fighter plane was lost in these operations.

Nazi Capital Blasted

The British Air ministry announced today that since the American 1,000-bomber raid on Berlin Feb. 2 more than 60 Mosquito bombers have made a series of attacks on the Nazi capital, bringing the total weight of explosives dropped on Berlin and its suburbs by the R.A.F. since the beginning of the war to 46,661 (American) tons.

The Liberators, using "electronic eye" aiming due to a solid undercast, poured nearly 500 tons of bombs on the Duelmen depot, a supply faucet for Nazi armor on the Nijmegen battlefront. Duelmen was hit by 150 Flying Fortresses Saturday.

Swooping low over northwest Germany, the Mustangs left a trail of burning wreckage and destroyed or damaged 80 locomotives, 180 railcars, 35 oil cars, 26 barges, 18 trucks, five armored vehicles, and two oil tanks. They bombed and shot up six small factories, 16 railway stations, switchhouses, and other rail installations.

Shoot Up Trains

The attacks were focused in the Duemmer lake area northeast of Osnabrueck, the Muenster area, and along a line from Paderborn to Kassel. Pilots reported many of the trains shot up were loaded with supplies for the Western front, and were stalled in sidings along main lines. The ground-hugging fighters met severe anti-aircraft fire, especially over the trains, most of which had flak-gun cars.

The continent-based U. S. Ninth air force reported more than 400 sorties today, ranging from north of the Ruhr south to Bonn, Coblenz and Frankfurt, their sweeps hit 12 railyards, scored three direct hits on the big highway bridge over the Rhine near Bonn, and damaged 206 railcars, 13 locomotives, 39 fortified buildings and other targets.

In two days, Allied planes from continental fields have shot up nearly 900 pieces of German rolling stock.

Last night, strong groups of R.A.F. Mosquitos bombed Hannover's railways.

357th Mustang Group Record

A UNITED STATES EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, in England, Feb. 11 (AP)—The "hottest" fighter unit now knocking down German planes is the 357th Mustang Group, which completed a year's combat against the Luftwaffe today with a score of 587½ enemy aircraft destroyed, all but fifty of them in combat.

The leading score still is held by the Fifty-sixth Thunderbolt Group, which has destroyed nearly 850 German planes, but its record covers a two-year period.

2,214 BRITONS KILLED BY V-BOMBS LAST MONTH

LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP) German V-bombs during January killed an average of nearly 19 persons a day in England. They caused casualties totaling 2,214 nearly double the December figure, the British air ministry announced today.

Of the total 585 persons were killed or missing and believed killed and 1,629 were injured. During the month 94 children under 16 were killed and 228 were injured.

Yank Paper, By Mixup, Has Two 'GI Joe' Men-Of-Year

FEB 12 1945

London, Feb. 11 (AP)—Stars and Stripes here finds itself with two men-of-the-year as a result of a mixup in identifying photographs.

The army newspaper published the picture of an anonymous soldier on January 1, and explained that "GI Joe" was its nomination for the man-of-the-year—as a tribute to American soldiers everywhere.

Later, in response to queries, Stars and Stripes identified the soldier as Sergt. Hobert Drew, of Bloomingdale, N.J.

Then the error was discovered. The picture really was that of Sergt. John H. Parks, of Mill Creek, Indiana.

How Error Was Made

The managing editor, Sergt. Peter Lisagor, of Chicago, said today the error arose from Stars and Stripes' original intention of keeping "GI Joe" anonymous.

"We searched thousands of pictures for one which would typify the real man-of-the-year, GI Joe," Lisagor said. "It was the face we were looking for, and it was Parks.' His picture expressed all the miserable conditions and yet the tenacious hope of the doughboy.

"The actual photograph showed our Joe in a tank helmet. We felt the face was the thing, but that tanker helmet would suggest the armored forces only—so the art department retouched to make the anonymous man-of-the-year an infantryman.

"After the GI Joe picture was published we got dozens of letters asking his identity. An assistant picture editor made a mistake in pulling the caption.

"Naturally, we were extremely distressed to learn of the error. But at the same time, I think it points up the fact that GI Joe really is an anonymous person. In that picture was mirrored the guts and misery of thousands of other frontline soldiers whose names it would be as impossible to chronicle as it would be to pay adequate tribute to their bravery.

"After we discovered the error we followed up and learned that the real Hobert Drew was as deserving as any GI we could have chosen. He is now in a United Kingdom base hospital recovering from the third time of being wounded in combat. We are trying now to get pictures and his own story.

Mrs. William Drew, of Bloomingdale, N.J., said today there was no doubt in her mind that her son, 24-year-old Sergeant Drew, a tank driver, was the original man-of-the-year. Mrs. Drew said she had seen the Stars and Stripes photograph in a local newspaper, and "I ought to know my own son."

Dutch Refugee Children Reach Coventry, England

Coventry, England, Feb. 11 (AP)—The first contingent of refugee children from Holland arrived here today waving flags and cheering as their train rolled into the station.

The youngsters, ranging in age from 8 to 15, were selected on the basis of their need for rest and relaxation and their physical capacity for making the trip. The young refugees will be billeted at a hotel until they learn enough about the English to get along in private homes, where they will remain for the duration.

The British expect to care for 20,000 Dutch children by the time all of Holland is liberated.

Dutch Children Reach England

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP).—Two ships brought 500 undernourished children from liberated provinces of Holland today. They will stay three months in English rest camps. Other groups are to be brought to England later.

BENES TO GO HOME SOON

Plans to Set Up Provisional Capital in Slovakia

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia and his Cabinet are expected to leave London by plane within a fortnight to establish a provisional capital in their homeland, probably at Kosice in eastern Slovakia.

Mr. Benes will probably go to Moscow first to complete negotiations regarding the composition of the new Czechoslovak Government, which, for the first time, will contain Communist members. After the Cabinet has left, about forty-Czechoslovak Government employes are expected to start for their homeland. Arrangements also are being made to repatriate all Czechoslovak citizens now in Britain.

U.S. Troops Said to Want Russians in Berlin First

C. I. O.'s Thomas Says They Fear Soft Peace Terms

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP).—R. J. Thomas, vice-president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, said today that American soldiers in France had told him they hoped the Russians reached Berlin first because they feared Great Britain and America might make too soft a peace.

Addressing a meeting at the London Coliseum sponsored by British trade unions, Thomas said: "We want to see Hitler and all his satellites beaten down so badly that they will never dare to raise their heads again.

"If the workers of other countries could come to Britain and see what the Germans have done here with their damned bombs there would be no question whether there should be unconditional surrender."

Foe Says 11 Ships Were Sunk

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—A Berlin broadcast claimed tonight that German torpedo planes had sunk five merchant ships totaling 24,000 tons as well as six destroyers in an Allied convoy on the Murmansk run. The broadcast also said that in the attacks off Barents Island "recently" a light cruiser was hit "so badly it can be claimed as probably sunk."

Musical Course Set For Blind English Boy

A U.S. 8th Air Force Base in Britain, Feb. 11 (AP)—Nine-year-old Jimmy Osborne, a blind boy pianist, is all set for a trip to the United States and a musical education promised him by the airmen of this base.

There is only one obstacle to be cleared, says Capt. John O'Connell, of Holyoke, Mass. The Government will not permit the trip until someone in the United States assumes responsibility for his welfare there.

Officers and men of the base raised more than $3,200 to finance the trip and instruction for the youngster who plays everything from boogie woogie to Bach fugues. He has never had a lesson.

Reds Free 70 Allied Flyers

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP).—Seventy American and British airmen have arrived at Bucharest after having been brought from Yugoslavia by Red Army troops, the Foreign Office said tonight. Most of the Americans had landed in or bailed out over Yugoslavia after raids on Hungary and Austria.

Roosevelt Looked For In France

Paris, Feb. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, it is generally believed here, will visit both Italy and France on his return from the Black Sea conference, and will confer with General de Gaulle on France's aspirations in the postwar world and the attitude of the United States toward them.

Aids of de Gaulle said the French leader has "no expectation" of attending the Big Three conference of Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

It is expected that Roosevelt will do his best to assuage French disappointment over not being taken into the Black Sea meeting, and will tell de Gaulle there never was any intention of depriving France of a full voice in all matters affecting her.

Assurance On Future Talks

One prominent American figure here said there never was any opposition on the part of the United States to admitting de Gaulle to the Black Sea talks.

It also is expected that France will be assured of participation in future talks and that the Big Three powers have no opposition to de Gaulle's declared intention to occupy the Rhineland, although they believe this should be undertaken as part of the general Allied plan for the occupation of Germany.

De Gaulle Honors Devers, Patch

De Gaulle today was in the Alsace town of Saverne, where he decorated Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, 6th Army group commander, as a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, and Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, United States 7th Army commander, as a commander of the legion.

He also conferred the medal of a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and a Croix de Guerre with palms posthumously for Patch's son, Capt. Alexander Patch 3d, who was wounded fatally last October.

De Gaulle went to Saverne on a swing through Alsace which began at Mulhouse and took him through newly liberated Colmar and Strasbourg where he attended mass.

Cardinal Opposes Hasty Allied-French Marriages

Paris, Feb. 11 (AP)—Cardinal Suhard, Archbishop of Paris, instructed priests of the French capital today to discourage "hasty" marriages between Allied soldiers and French girls.

He advised the priests to inform him personally before performing marriages of soldiers and French girls, pointing out that in the last war many such marriages had resulted "unhappily."

A survey made by the Associated Press in 1936 showed that of approximately 10,000 marriages of American soldiers and French girls in World War I, about 8,000 had ended in divorce or separation.

Industry Control Is Aim Of France

Paris, Feb. 11 (AP)—France's industrial reconstruction is being undertaken on the basis of state planning and state control of private enterprise, Robert Lacoste, Minister of Production, indicated today this emergency step might become the permanent system in France.

"The problems raised by the present difficult economic situation are too grave for private industries to solve by themselves," Lacoste said. "Only the state has the powers necessary to tackle a task of such magnitude and it alone must give directives to us."

To accomplish this state control, provisional commissioners responsible to the Minister of Production are being appointed to control every branch of such industries as steel, coal and textiles.

The commissioners will receive instructions from the Government. They are being named after consultations with professional organizations, including private industrialists and labor unions. Mixed committees of employers and workers will advise the commissioners.

Lacoste said France, facing an emergency, could either abolish all regimentation and let each person act according to his own ideas or maintain discipline of all enterprises.

BELGIANS FORM NEW CABINET

Premier Persuades Catholics To Sit With Communists

FEB 12 1945

Brussels, Feb. 11 (AP)—Achille van Acker, Belgian Premier, who served as Labor Minister in the Cabinet of Hubert Pierlot, which was dissolved Wednesday, formed a new National Unity Government tonight and announced he was retaining Paul Henri Spaak as Minister of Foreign Affairs and Deputy Premier.

The new Cabinet contains Socialists, Liberals, Communists and Catholics, who, until yesterday, had been undecided as to whether they would agree to sit in with Communist party representatives.

Other Cabinet Appointees

Van Acker's Cabinet appointments besides Spaak were:

Gaston Eyskens, Catholic party, Finance.

Adolphe van Glabbeke, Liberal party, Interior.

Leon Eile Troclet, Socialist, Labor.

August Buisseret, Liberal, Education.

Edgar de Bruyme, Catholic, Colonies.

Henri Pauwels, Catholic, Minister for War Victims.

Charles du Bus de Warnaffe, Catholic, Justice.

Eugene Lallemand, Communist, Food.

Albert Marteaux, Communist, Health.

Ernest Rongvaux, Socialist, Communications.

Albert Desmal, no party, Economic Affairs.

Hermann Vos, Socialist, Public Works.

Louis Delvaux de Fenffe, Catholic, Agriculture.

Leo Mundeleer, Liberal, National Defense.

Edmond Ronse, Catholic, Information.

Paul Kronacker, Liberal, Minister of Purchases Abroad.

The Pierlot Government originally had nineteen members, but this was reduced to sixteen by resignations. The new Cabinet appointed by van Acker tonight contained eighteen names, including his own as Prime Minister and administrator of coal.

Ticklish Problem Solved

In four days since the resignation of Pierlot, the big, mustached van Acker succeeded in solving the ticklist problem of persuading Catholics to sit in the same Cabinet with Communists.

There were reports that as their price for making this concession the Catholics had made several demands for specific portfolios, including that of Minister of Justice. However, there was no official confirmation obtainable of these reports.

The Catholics got six places in the new body, the Socialists five, the Liberals four and the Communists two. The eighteenth member has no party affiliations.

NAZI ATTACKS IN ITALY FAIL

5th Army Beats Off Limited Counters In Serchio Area

Rome, Feb. 11 (AP)—American 5th Army troops, battling in rain and snow, repulsed several limited-scale enemy counterattacks in the Serchio River valley and western coastal sector of the Italian front today.

One Nazi counterattack was thrown back to the south of the Navro Canal, which is 2½ miles south of the Massa coastal area. Official reports said German artillery was more active there and over 800 shells had fallen on American positions.

On the east side of the Serchio River three German counterattacks, two in company strength, were broken up, and a fourth was dispersed by artillery.

Yank Patrols Active

Despite poor visibility 5th Army patrols elsewhere along the front made several penetrations "deep into enemy positions," Allied headquarters announced.

Patrol clashes marked the 8th Army front. The Germans attacked one 8th Army outpost on the east bank of the Senio River behind a heavy mortar barrage but were driven back.

Rail lines feeding Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's armies were cut in at least 80 places yesterday by Mitchells and Thunderbolts of the United States 12th Air Force. Four cuts were on the Brenner Pass line.

The Thunderbolts also destroyed or damaged 200 vehicles, 35 locomotives and 140 railcars, mostly in the vicinities of Treviso and Udine.

Brazilian Flyers Out

Last night 12th Air Force Havocs continued the onslaught, hitting enemy motor convoys in the Brenner Pass and strafing others between Piacenza and Parma.

The 1st Brazilian Fighter Squadron operating with the 12th Air Force left a concentration of enemy mortar vehicles east of Matua in flames. The Brazilian pilots estimated they had destroyed 80 vehicles and killed 20 pack mules.

Fifth Army headquarters announced that the 316th Engineer Combat Battalion, commanded by Lieut. Col. William C. Holley, of Klamath Falls, Ore., was among the units of the United States 91st Infantry Division in action in Italy since July.

Fighter Group in 3,000th Flight

ROME, Feb. 11 (AP)—The United States Twelfth Air Force's Eighty-sixth Fighter Group, commanded by Col. Earl Bates, of Winnetka, Ill., has flown its 3,000th mission, Mediterranean Allied Air Force headquarters announced today. Lieut. Col. George Lee of Norwood, Mass., deputy commander of the group, has flown 225 missions.

Nazi Censorship Tightened

Stockholm, Feb. 11 (AP)—Nazi censorship noticeably was intensified tonight and Swedish newspaper offices here said their Berlin correspondents were having the greatest difficulty filing dispatches as the Russian threat to Berlin increases.

To Merge Passenger Traffic

Lisbon, Feb. 11 (AP)—Legislation prepared by the cabinet calls for consolidation of all passenger operations by Portuguese railroads and bus lines. The National Assembly will be asked to approve formation of a new over-all company in which the Government, which already operates some lines, will participate.

Helps Free Town, Finds Sister

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (AP).—Sergeant Ivan Uliashenko, of the Red Army, was in a truck which passed a group of 100 Russian women near Elbing, East Prussia, where they had been held as labor slaves, "Pravda" related today. One girl called out. Uliashenko jumped from the truck and embraced her. It was his sister, Alexandra, taken away by the Nazis when they overran an Orel province village in 1941.

Last Hitler Trump Lost, Says Pravda

Moscow, Feb. 11 (AP)—Today's Pravda hailed the initial communiqué of the Big Three conference as "the loss of the last trump by the Hitlerites from a political point of view."

"From a military point of view this declaration means that operations for the final defeat of Hitlerite Germany will develop with growing speed on an even larger scale," the official Communist organ declared.

The newspaper said that German leaders, knowing the war is lost, have tried to break the unity of the Allies and their military coordination aud added that the "Berlin bankrupts have reached a complete fiasco."

Free Press Group in Cairo

Forrest, McGill and Ackerman to Meet Egyptian Premier

CAIRO, Feb. 11 (AP).—Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune, Ralph McGill, editor of "The Atlanta Journal," and Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia School of Journalism, representing the American Society of Newspaper Editors, arrived today from Greece.

They expect to remain in Cairo nearly a week. They probably will meet the Egyptian Premier Monday and are to see the foreign correspondents corps and Egyptian newspaper heads. The group is seeking to lay the basis for free exchange of news among the nations after the war.

RANGOON SUPPLIES BOMBED BY B-29'S

Other Big Planes Join Attack —British 9 Miles From City —Allies in Other Gains

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 11 (AP)—India-based B-29 Superfortresses and Allied bombers of the Eastern Air Command's strategic force blasted at Rangoon in Burma today in a coordinated attack.

The Superfortresses of the United States Twentieth Air Force struck at Japanese military installations. Ammunition, gasoline and oil stocks near the key city were attacked by the other bomber squadrons.

Aground, north of Rangoon, relief forces arrived just in time today for British Commandos who for eight days had blocked a Japanese force ten times their own strength on a road leading south from Kaladan. Elements of the Fifteenth Indian Division at the road block made contact with West African troops pushing south from positions above Kangaw.

Elements of the 15th Indian Division at the road block made contact with West African troops pushing south from positions above Kangaw.

Kill More Than 1,000

The Commandos killed more than 1,000 of the enemy. In desperate day and night attacks the Japanese attempted to crack open the road block as their units to the north were squeezed into a small stretch of road above Kangaw.

So close have the British inside the road block been fighting the Japanese that only grenades, rifles and even fists were used in holding off the scores of enemy assaults, many of which penetrated inside the perimeter of the position.

British and Indian troops of the 15th Corps meanwhile fought to complete the occupation of Ramree Island, a natural springboard for a 20-mile water crossing to the town of Taungup one of the west coast less than 190 miles northwest of Rangoon.

Make Successful Raid

Allied headquarters announced a successful raid on the village of Sabyin north of Taungup by troops crossing to the mainland opposite the town of Ramree. The raiding party withdrew after inflicting casualties.

Capture of Taungup would threaten the supply routes serving thousands of enemy troops fighting in the Arakan district and in the Irrawaddy River valley. Taungup is at the head of the only road linking the west coast of Burma with the important Irrawaddy river port of Prome 70 miles to the east.

On the east bank of the Irra- approximately 40 miles waddy approxim above Mandalay British 14th Army troops captured the village of Thila, north of Singu, yesterday following an air strike, headquarters said.

Bomb Supply Lines

Seventh Bombardment Group Liberators led by Col. Harvey T. Alness, San Antonio, Texas, and Lieut. Col. William B. Keys, of Elwell, Mich., struck Japanese supply lines in Thailand and the southernmost part of Burma today.

A section of the Burma-Thailand railway 125 miles northwest of Bangkok was ripped by explosives, with damage to two viaducts 800 and 300 feet long linked by a 100-foot embankment.

RAF Liberators bombed Khao Hunagang, a railhead for a line crossing the Kra isthmus and linking with the Bangkok-Singapore railway.

SUPERFORTS BLAST RANGOON DEPOT

Jap Supply Dumps Hammered, Meet Weak Fighter Opposition.

TWENTIETH BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, India, Feb. 11—(AP) The Japanese ability to make war in Burma was sharply curtailed today when a substantial force of B-29s had a field day over the main enemy supply dumps just north of Rangoon.

Hundreds of tons of high explosives and incendiaries rained among the oil, ammunition and materiel stores.

Huge fires were started in the dump areas, which are the main supply base for all Japanese operations in Burma. Munitions are sneaked up the Malay peninsula in coasters and country boats or come from Bangkok in the rare intervals when the railroad is operative, but all supplies funnel through Rangoon for distribution northward.

Returning pilots said the Japanese had concentrated heavy anti-aircraft installations to protect their main stores area. The fire was reportedly accurate but the whole force returned to base safely although several were holed.

Results "Good"

In a communique issued by the 20th Airforce Headquarters in Washington, it was announced that "good results" were obtained in the daylight raid. Fighter opposition was described as weak.

(Another communique late last night had told of B-29s from the Marianas islands unloading bombs on the Nakajima aircraft factory at Ota, Japan, with "good" results. Three of the big bombers were lost in that strike 40 miles north and west of Tokyo, while 20 enemy planes were destroyed, 19 probably destroyed, and 27 damaged).

First Lieut. Arthur E. Morrill of Nashua, N. H., a lead bombardier, said he could see fires and continual explosions in the dump area. Oil and ammunition went up in fountains of vari-colored fire as successive elements of Superfortresses went in over the target.

Morrill reported only two enemy fighters were seen on the mission. He said they made timid, long distance passes and evidenced no disposition to close with the big boys.

"Our formation's bombing looked very good," said Maj. Charles J. "Deacon" Miller, Dexter, Mo., pilot of the lead plane, "Deacons' disciples."

The dump area was well camouflaged, Miller reported, but the crews had no difficulty finding the target "because we had been pretty well briefed on it."

Miller's plane was hit several times, as were others in his formation.

Several Planes Hit

Despite the fact that a number of planes were hit, the only "casualty" was a startled bombardier whose chair was hit by a piece of spent flak.

The blasting of the Rangoon dump area takes on added significance in relation to the battle for central and lower Burma. With British forces hammering at the gates of Mandalay, and American Mars Task forces and Chinese troops harrying the retreating enemy in the Lashio area, the loss of stock-piled ammunition and stores will seriously affect the Japanese operations in the theater.

Ammunition is one of the main Japanese weaknesses. In recent weeks, the Japanese have reacted violently to threats to their escape routes north of Lashio, east of Singu, on the Irrawaddy above Mandalay, and near Kangaw in the Kaladan valley.

They have expended huge amounts of artillery ammunition in an effort to blast their way through road blocks. The loss of their ammunition reserves in the Rangoon area today may speed the general withdrawal from Burma.

All bombing was visual, under ideal conditions. The run to Rangoon is just a hop, skip and jump for the long range Superfortresses and they carried maximum bomb loads.

Rescuers Rescued

Downed Pilot Finds Search Party in Jungle, Guides It Back

CALCUTTA, Feb. 11 (AP).—An American rescue party which became lost in the Burma jungle while searching for a missing flyer recently was rescued by the man they were looking for.

Pilot Lieutenant James P. McGuire, of Fitzgerald, Ga., had bailed out over territory where Japanese patrols were active. Hours later while walking along a road toward American positions, McGuire found a tired and ragged group of Americans, including medical officers, who had been searching for him. He guided them back to the road and to American positions.

CHINESE FORCES GAIN IN SUICHWAN AREA

CHUNGKING, Feb. 11—(AP) Chinese troops have made progress in attacks on Japanese positions outside Suichwan and have pressed against enemy lines outside Kanhsien, the Chinese high command said tonight. These two lost airbase cities are in Kiangsi provinces.

(A Japanese communique broadcast by Domei claimed all Allied airfields in the Kanhsien-Suichwan area had been completely reduced with capture of the Sincheng airfield).

U. S. and Chinese Fliers Hit Shantung Port: 46 Planes Destroyed in First Tsingtao Blow

KUNMING, China, Feb. 11 (AP)—United States Fourteenth Air Force Mustangs destroyed or damaged 101 Japanese planes yesterday and wrecked thirteen locomotives in operations that included a surprise dawn strike at the Tsingtao airdrome in Shantung Province, it was announced today.

The Tsingtao attack was carried out by pilots of the Chinese-American Composite Wing, commanded by Col. Alan Bennett. Meeting no opposition, they strafed the airfield, destroying forty-six Japanese planes on the ground and damaging fifty-two.

In Tsingtao harbor they damaged a 150-foot tanker and while homeward bound knocked out ten locomotives along the Shantung railroad. All planes returned.

The Fourteenth Air Force operations in North China were being carried out under what Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault calls "a reorientation of the axis of operations."

YANK ARMOR POURS ACROSS MANILA RIVER

Cavalrymen Sweep Over Neilson Airstrip—Marine Flyers Bomb Japs

Manila, Monday, Feb. 12 (AP)—American troops and armor poured across the Pasig River in increasing numbers yesterday as marine dive-bombers added their attack to the artillery blasting Manila's Japanese defenders, trapped in a wedge between the river and the shores of Manila Bay.

Tank columns of the 1st Cavalry Division, crossing the winding Pasig again, thrust deep into South Manila from the east, swept over Neilson airstrip and turned northward through the Santa Ana district to fashion a vise on Japanese strongly entrenched to the west.

Bomb Jap Position

Seventy-five marine dive bombers attacked a large Japanese position near Fort William McKinley, near Neilson Field.

Infantrymen of the 37th Division were fighting block by block and house by house through the Ermita district, along the bay shore, in the face of fire from heavy guns and mortars mounted on and behind ten-foot thick walls of the medieval Intramuros, or walled city, immediately north.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press correspondent, above Manila in a plane, said American artillery and rocket guns were hitting the enemy positions in the Intramuros with devastating accuracy.

Other American guns were trained on isolated enemy positions in "little Tokyo," prewar Japanese district.

On 3 Sides Of Airfield

Troops of the 11th Airborne Division were fighting around three sides of Nichols Field, at the southern outskirts, and probed northward within a half mile of the American Polo Club.

In the five-day battle around Nichols Field the Americans captured twelve large guns—ten eight-inch cannon and two six-inchers.

Hampson reported that successive waves of fire spread over Corregidor Fortress, at the entrance to Manila Bay, Saturday night, but their cause was not determined. Explosions appeared to be rocking the small island.

American bombers have been systematically pounding Corregidor for many days.

May Have Blasted Stores

It was possible that American bombs had set off enemy ammunition stored in the fortress island.

A small Japanese force bypassed in the initial days of the entry into Manila attempted Saturday to break out across the American-held highway north of the city but was beaten off in a short, sharp fight. Farther north another Japanese band filtered into the Fort Stotsenburg area but was driven back.

Virtual completion of the central Luzon campaign, except for mopping up of scattered pockets, was signalized yesterday as the 6th Division neared the east coast of Luzon for the first time at Dingalan and Baler bays.

Astride Main Highways

Americans now are astride all of the island's main highways north of Manila on a line running southeastward from the initial beachhead at Lingayen Gulf.

The bulk of the enemy's island garrison is bottled up in mountain valleys of northeastern Luzon. Another small force is trapped in the Zambales mountains of the northwest coast, and there is a sizable concentration resisting Yank forces pressing into the Bataan peninsula.

Light American naval craft sank twenty Japanese coastal vessels at San Fernando, in La Union province on Luzon's northwest coast.

Fires Set On Formosa

Formosa was hit again by night-flying patrol bombers which started fires at Takao airdrome and destroyed a number of parked planes. Daytime raids sank a 2,000-ton cargo ship off the Pescadores Islands, west of Formosa, and another of 1,000 tons farther southwest.

Borneo airdromes and shipyards were heavily bombed.

Battle to Last Man

The Japanese today were fighting to the last man, to the last building, in south Manila where even church-yards have been converted into fortresses against hard-hitting Doughboys of three Yank divisions.

The American units—the 37th infantry, the 11th airborne and the First Cavalry—are slugging it out in probably the bloodiest fighting of the Luzon campaign.

The slow U. S. advance is from house to house and over minefields which some veterans say outstrip in size and demolition power those laid by the Germans in North Africa.

The objective is the capital's strategic dock area.

Despite heavy mortar and pillbox fire, the Americans pressed ahead relentlessly in a pincer movement from the north, east and south.

(Radio Tokyo, quoting the Japanese agency Domei, said Nippon sailors have withdrawn from the Cavite naval base on Manila bay and "other areas" and are in the fight in south Manila. Domei did not indicate whether the Cavite base was abandoned.)

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First Cavalry joined the battle from the east during darkness Friday. From north of Santo Tomas, where they freed more than 3,700 internees, the First Cavalry skirted the city's eastern limits, crossed the bridgeless Pasig river in native boats and started a thunderous assault on the dug-in Japanese.

Cavalry Unit Saves Women Held In Asylum By Japs

Manila, Feb. 10 [AP—Delayed]. The dramatic rescue of some 3,700 internees at the Santo Tomas internment camp was repeated on a smaller scale here today when a flying squad of dismounted United States cavalrymen dashed into the Mandaluyong Correctional Institution and Insane Asylum on Manila's outskirts and liberated twelve persons.

The rescued were three American women, an American Catholic Order sister, a Canadian Catholic Order sister and seven Filipinos.

All of them had been held in the institution on Japanese court-martial sentences ranging from two to sixteen years. Most of them had been held in solitary confinement for more than a year.

Americans Rescued

Americans rescued were Mrs. Claire Fuentes, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Margaret Ruan Folsom, Macon, Ga., and Miss Florence Ebersole, Buffalo, N.Y.

The Catholic sisters rescued were Sister St. Louis de Gonzaga, whose family name is Anna Girard, of Claremont, N.H., and Sister Marie des Lis, born Irene Pinsonault, of Napierville, Quebec. Both are sisters of the Immaculate Conception with the mother house in Montreal.

A special 1st Division cavalry unit led by Lieut. Col. Charles C. Young, El Paso, Texas, made the dash into the institution through mined approaches. However, there was no opposition. Filipino guerrilas shot some Japanese during the night and when the Yanks arrived the remaining Japanese had fled.

In Fair Health, Good Spirits

All of the women rescued were in fair health and good spirits.

Until the Japanese caught her, Mrs. Fuentes operated a life-saving smuggling ring which managed to get medicines and food to prisoners of war at Cabanatuan and internes at Santo Tomas. To the prisoners she became known as "High-pockets."

When war came Mrs. Fuentes obtained some illegal Philippine citizenship papers and with the aid of a dark complexion was able to pass as a half-caste.

Soon she organized and directed what she called a regular mail order service for captive Americans.

Always Used Typewriter

"I always used a typewriter when passing notes and never used a name," she said. "I became 'High-pockets' to all those I was helping. Likewise I used code names for key persons inside Cabanatuan and Santo Tomas. One was 'Liver' and another was 'Everlasting'."

Eventually there came a slipup. One of her notes was picked up by the Japanese and one of her Filipino helpers was questioned.

"The next morning, just as I was sitting down to breakfast," she said, "four Japs barged in waving their rifles around. First they asked to look at my typewriter. When they found the type corresponded with that on the note it was all over."

Repeatedly Mistreated

For the next four and a half months she was held in Santiago prison where she was repeatedly questioned, she said, and repeatedly mistreated. She was held in solitary confinement on a meager diet.

Still not knowing the exact charge against her, she was finally taken to Fort William McKinley, where she was court-martialed.

There, Mrs. Fuentes said, Japanese officers sitting on the court heard statements of the investigators, but never gave her an opportunity to defend herself.

Questions Repeated

"When I was led out I was told they thought I was guilty and should be shot, but they were going to give me another court-martial," said Mrs. Fuentes.

At her second hearing five Japanese officers again asked the same questions without waiting for answers.

"Finally," asserted Mrs. Fuentes, "the head man of the court told me to go back to my cell and think about it and they would think about it, too.

"Two days later, long before dawn, they led me to an outside door, forced me to bend over so I couldn't be seen and pushed me into a car.

"They took me to Mandaluyong Institution (from which she was rescued).

Then Told Of Sentence

"Just as I entered the car I was told by a Japanese officer the court-martial sentenced me to twelve years and that the sentence would be doubled if I tried to escape."

The Catholic sisters had been living with Filipino friends. After the Japanese took over Manila they were left "relatively alone." Then one day the Filipino friends and the sisters were arrested on vague charges of anti-Japanese activities.

"They first took us to Fort Santiago, where they questioned us for three and a half months," said Sister Marie. "It was a terrifying experience because we were absolutely innocent, yet the Japs were positive we were spies.

In Solitary Confinement

"Next we were taken to Bilibid prison where we were questioned for another three and a half months. All the time we were held in solitary confinement, lying for weeks on end on the dirty stone floor.

"I was sick for six weeks with dysentery and Sister St. Louis for two weeks, the food was so bad. We are sure we would have died if God had not provided for us."

On August 25, 1944, the sisters were convicted by a Japanese court-martial as spies and sentenced to fifteen years in the Mandaluyong Correctional Institution and Insane Asylum for Women. They were held there until rescued this morn-

U.S. Plane Lost Over Haha Jima

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Monday, Feb. 12 (AP)—Intense anti-aircraft fire downed one Liberator of an army group raiding Haha Jima in the Bonin Islands Saturday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Mitchell bombers made rocket attacks on a medium-sized tanker and a large cargo ship north of Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands early Saturday. Explosions were seen on both ships, obviously carrying supplies to Iwo. Night fighters as well as intense ack-ack fire met the Mitchells.

Results of the army Liberators' strike on Haha Jima were not observed.

Marine planes hit shore installations on Babelthuap in the Palau islands while fighters strafed targets on Rota in the Marianas.

AIRCRAFT PLANT BOMBED IN TOKYO

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 11—(AP) One of Japan's most important aircraft factories was struck by B-29 Superfortresses in yesterday's raid on the Tokyo area and results were "good," the Twenty-First bomber command announced today.

The command disclosed that the raid, made by a large force of bombers, probably cost the Americans four B-29s.

The Nakajima aircraft plant at Ota, about [illegible] northwest of Tokyo, was the new target and one of its main assembly buildings was demolished. Fires were blazing in the well defined square of assembly structures before the strike was half completed, headquarters reported after a careful study of photographs.

Although fighter opposition was "light" 20 Japanese interceptors were announced as destroyed, 19 probably destroyed and 27 damaged.

Two Superforts collided over the target and exploded, breaking in half. No parachutes were seen to drop from the planes. Two other bombers possibly were lost to enemy fire.

The B-29s swept over the target in waves for a half hour, contrasting with four and a half hours similar forces have taken to pass over similar target areas.

The Nakajima company is the oldest privately owned aircraft company of Japan and produces a substantial percentage of all enemy aircraft.

Yesterday's target is an older and bigger edition of the Nakajima Musashina plant in Tokyo's western suburbs which was the first target of B-29s on last Thanksgiving day and which has been hit and materially damaged in a number of subsequent attacks.

An official of the Twenty-first bomber command said one main assembly building had been demolished; a sub-assembly building to the east badly damaged; one-third of the roof area of another large building damaged; another building inside the main factory area damaged by bombs and fire, and the main assembly unit southwest of the power plant damaged.

At least five additional bomb bursts were obscured by smoke in the south section and many others in the east portion.

NORWEGIANS SEIZE SHIPS

Norwegian patriots seized 11 tugboats and a salvage ship from the Germans in Fredrikstad harbor in Oslofjord Thursday and reached a Swedish port Saturday, the British radio said last night in a broadcast recorded by the OWI.

JAPANESE DESCRIBE NEW YANK EQUIPMENT

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An instrument which "enables one to see in the dark" is among the marvels of new American equipment described yesterday by Tokyo radio.

The broadcast quoting a Domei agency dispatch, monitored by the FCC, listed the following new Yank devices:

A combination of an electronic altimeter and an instrument (for planes) which enables one to see in the dark" and called "a typographical indicator."

30. 24 — 22901

A magnetic detector "which is able to tell of the approach of a plane or a truck."

An "S.O.S. transmitter which pilots can use when they are forced from their stricken planes."

Parachutes enabling airmen to drop from very low levels and which are believed to be "chemically treated and equipped with an automatic opener."

JAPS CLAIM 15 B-29s DOWNED IN KANTO RAID

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Japanese radio in an unconfirmed broadcast Sunday claimed 15 American Superfortresses were shot down and "many" others damaged when "approximately" 90 B-29s raided the Kanto district near Tokyo Saturday (Japanese time).

Recorded by the Federal Communication commission, the broadcast said seven Japanese planes were lost in the action.

The 20th air force in Washington said three Superfortresses were lost in the raid and that 66 Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged. The 21st bomber command at Guam said possibly four of the Superforts were lost. The 20th air force identified the targets as the Nakajima aircraft factory at Ota, 440 miles northwest of Tokyo.

Later the Japanese radio, in another unconfirmed broadcast, said a lone B-29 flew over the Kanto area on a reconnaissance flight.

CONGRESS REPORT OF 'BIG THREE' L... S

Connally Predicts Bi-partisan Parley with Foreign Relations Committee.

DETAILS PROMISED

Reports Abroad Hint President May Visit France, Italy on Way Home.

WASHINGTON Feb. 11 — (AP) Senator Connally (D.-Tex) predicted today that President Roosevelt will give Congress a report on "Big Three" decisions on world affairs—but not in a session of all members, closed or public.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations committee told a reporter he had received suggestions that such a summation be given to all legislators. But he expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt would find this course impractical.

Instead, he said he hopes to head a bi-partisan delegation of Foreign Relations Committee members to the White House, when the President returns, to obtain background information on any of the decisions that may be made in Mr. Roosevelt's meeting with Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain and Premier Stalin of Russia.

Start Already Made

Similar discussions of foreign policy have been carried on recently between legislators and the President, outwardly to the satisfaction of Senate Democrats and Republicans who were included. There have been some complaints from House members, however, that they were not invited and future meetings may find some of them present.

Former Senate colleagues of War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes think the latter's presence at the conference means they are to be told more about this meeting of the three world leaders than they have known in the past.

Busy as he is with home front affairs, Byrnes still has maintained his contacts with members of the House and Senate, in both of which he has served. He also may be able to give the legislators a new slant on some domestic problems closely related to the war and the coming peace efforts.

Announcement Expected

Most members of Congress are expecting an announcement at the conclusion of the "Big Three" gathering of a specific date when front-rank diplomats of all of the United Nations will meet to begin breathing life into the international security organization projected at Dumbarton Oaks.

They are looking also for the disclosure of agreements for joint participation of the major Allies in decisions on current European political problems. They think policing plans for a conquered Germany also will have been settled, but perhaps not told immediately to the world.

Legislators express belief, however, that few if any of them will learn about the strategic military decisions made at the conference.

of a full voice in all matters affecting her.

One prominent American figure here said there never was any opposition on the part of the United States to admitting De Gaulle to the Black Sea talks.

It also is expected that France will be assured of participation in future talks and that the "Big Three" powers have no opposition to De Gaulle's declared intention to occupy the Rhineland, although they believe this should be undertaken as part of the general Allied plan for the occupation of Germany.

De Gaulle today was in the Alsace town of Saverne, where he decorated Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Sixth army group commander, as a grand officer of the Legion of Honor, and Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, U. S. Seventh army commander, as a commander of the Legion.

He also conferred the Medal of a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and a Croix de Guerre with palms posthumously for Patch's son, Capt. Alexander III, who was wounded fatally last October.

De Gaulle went to Saverne on a swing through Alsace which began at Mulhouse and took him through newly-liberated Colmar and Strasbourg where he attended mass.

RENEWAL SOUGHT FOR LEND - LEASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — (AP) The Administration lined up its top war executives today to speed congressional renewal of Lend-Lease which they regard as the Allies' first-rank economic weapon.

The secretaries of War and Navy, and the head of the Maritime commission will appear during the week before the House Foreign Affairs committee considering a bill to give another year's life to the Lend-Lease program. It is scheduled to expire June 30 this year.

Chairman Bloom (D.-N. Y.) of the committee said the hearings probably will last another two weeks, after which the group will take up consideration of repeal of the Johnson act forbidding private capital loans to defaulting war-debt nations.

"Lend-Lease is an immediate, war-time weapon," Bloom told a reporter, "but we want to get the Johnson act out of the way so private banking institutions can help in the rehabilitation of Europe. There's no reason why the Government should do it all."

The administration already has urged repeal of the Johnson act. With it on the law books no private banking institution can deal with any of the European nations which failed to keep up war debt payments after the last war. A bill to repeal it is now pending in the Foreign Affairs committee.

The Lend-Lease hearings will take in the full scope of United States aid to embattled and post-war Europe. Members of the committees said they want the story of operations to date of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration, designed to give immediate aid to liberated countries, in addition to the government's plans to help in permanent reconstruction.

The Administration has said repeatedly that Lend-Lease, used to arm our Allies on both the economic and military fronts, will be discarded when the shooting stops.

Connally Looks For Full Report

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Senator Connally (D., Texas) predicted today that President Roosevelt will give Congress a report on "Big Three" decisions on world affairs—but not in a session of all members, closed or public.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee said he had received suggestions that such a summation be given to all legislators. But he expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt would find this course impractical.

Instead, he said he hopes to head a bipartisan delegation of foreign relations members to the White House, when the President returns, to obtain background information on any of the decisions that may be made in Mr. Roosevelt's meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

House Members Want Part

Similar discussions of foreign policy have been carried on recently between legislators and the President, outwardly to the satisfaction of Senate Democrats and Republicans who were included. Meeting Of Diplomats Looked For

Most members of Congress are expecting an announcement at the conclusion of the Big Three gathering of a specific date when front-rank diplomats of all of the United Nations will meet to begin breathing life into the international security organization projected at Dumbarton Oaks.

They are looking also for the disclosure of agreements for joint participation of the major Allies in decisions on current European political problems. They think policing plans for a conquered Germany also will have been settled, but perhaps not told immediately to the world.

SOVIET SAID TO JOIN ALLIES' HIGH STAFF

Closer Liaison for Reich Drive, Effect on Pacific War Seen in Reported Accord

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Washington Post said today that one of the first decisions of the Roosevelt - Churchill - Stalin conference was agreement on Russian representation on the board of combined chiefs of staff.

"The far-reaching importance of this step," the copyrighted story said, "was hailed in both military and diplomatic circles.

"First, it was pointed out, it guarantees close cooperation between the Allied and Russian armies fighting in Germany. The gap between them is being narrowed daily and the need for coordinating both ground and air effort is becoming more pressing.

"Second, it is another indication of Russian interest in the Pacific. If Russia joins the Allies in fighting Japan at the conclusion of the G...man campaign, the closest co...ation will be necessary."

...story said the record of the ...d chiefs of staff, until now ...ng only the United States and Great Britain, "is a refutation of allegations that military allies cannot get on together."

"It is believed that the recent agreement contemplates Russian representation by outstanding men in the Soviet forces and that there will be much freer relations than in the past. It is well known that the activities of Allied army commissions in Russia have been circumscribed and that there has not been the understanding necessary to complete military cooperation.

"From a diplomatic standpoint, the decision was regarded as additional proof that Russia is not the military colossus determined to overrun Europe, as sometimes pictured, but a working member of an Allied front, ready to work with its allies in war or peace."

There was no immediate comment from official sources.

Senator Tom Connally, Democrat of Texas, predicted today that President Roosevelt would give the Congress a report on Big Three decisions on world affairs, but not in a session of all members, closed or public.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee said that he hoped to head a bipartisan delegation of committee members to the White House when the President returns.

War Has Cost U.S. $238,000,000,000

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Since Pearl Harbor the war has cost the United States $238,000,000,000, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, said today.

This is seven times the cost of World War I through June 30, 1919.

Morgenthau spoke from his farm near Fishkill, N.Y., as part of a broadcast program sponsored by the AFL. Recently he spoke in favor of the Bretton Woods monetary agreement on a broadcast produced by the CIO.

Democratic Financing

Today his theme was that the war is being financed democratically. For example:

We are paying about 46 per cent of war costs through taxes, and the number of individual income taxpayers has increased from 4,000,000 to 50,000,000—"never before has a democracy taxed itself on such a broad base."

More people are lending money to the Government, too. Before the war there was only a handful of Government bondholders. During the war 85,000,000 persons have bought Government bonds. Nearly half the total value of series E bonds bought during the war has come from workers through payroll deductions.

Securities Subject To Tax

All securities issued to finance his war have been subject to the Federal income tax. In the last war, all of the securities were either wholly or partially exempt.

The Secretary said this is an important step toward more democratic war finance, "since the privilege of tax exemption—which all receive at the same price—is worth nothing at all to the poorest subscribers but is worth a great deal to those in the high income brackets."

Morgenthau told AFL members they have a dual responsibility: production of war weapons and the continued buying of bonds..

Colepaugh to Testify Today On Training as German Spy

Youth Who Landed from Submarine is Voluntary Witness in Own Defense.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP) William Curtis Colepaugh will give his version tomorrow of events which the government says included Nazi training and a trans-Atlantic trip in a submarine, culminating in his arrest as a German spy.

Trial of Colepaugh, 26, a native of Connecticut, and his alleged confederate German-born Erich Gimpel, before a seven-man military commission empowered to impose the death penalty on conviction, enters its second and probably final week with the prosecution's case in.

Colepaugh, a voluntary witness, related the preliminary circumstances of his involvement with Germans for three hours yesterday.

He took the stand at the secret trial after he unsuccessfully sought a directed verdict of acquittal on the charge he was a German spy.

Spy Background Traced

The first week's testimony, which included statements taken by the FBI from Colepaugh and Gimpel showed:

(1)—That Colepaugh and Gimpel

admitted coming to this country in a U-boat. Colepaugh's statement said the mission was to obtain information from periodicals newspapers and radio regarding shipbuilding, airplanes and rockets. Gimpel said he was asked to find out about the political situation here.

(2)—Colepaugh and Gimpel, who first met last July at a school in the Hague, distrusted each other after arriving here. Colepaugh was portrayed as suspecting and fearing Gimpel and Gimpel was represented as "very disappointed" in Colepaugh.

(3)—This distrust culminated in each trying to get custody of the bulk of the $60,000 given them in Germany. Colepaugh checked suitcases containing it at Grand Central Station; Gimpel retrieved the bags by identifying articles in them after he said he lost his check clips. The FBI said they took $55,000 and 99 diamonds from Gimpel.

Came to U. S. Reluctantly

(4)—Colepaugh and Gimpel came to this country reluctantly. Colepaugh was quoted as saying he admired the German army and wanted to fight in it, that "the German government and Hitler looked good to me" but he undertook the mission because in Germany "you do what you are told."

Gimpel said that as a loyal German he "did what they asked me to."

(5)—Colepaugh was a frequent visitor to the German consulate in Boston in 1940-1941 and often a guest on a German tanker moored there.

(6)—The FBI knew Colepaugh was in Germany and for many months had been watching for his re-entry in the U. S.

After his discharge from the U. S. Navy, he said from the witness stand, he obtained a berth on the exchange ship Gripsholm, left the motorship at Lisbon and set out for Germany.

HOUSES BUILT FOR FRENCH

345 of 5,000 Barracks for Dock Workers Are Ready

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Three hundred and forty barracks, out of 5,000 prefabricated structures to be built to house 150,000 French dock workers, were reported ready for shipment today, a little over a month after they were ordered.

The knock-down structures were being made with "utmost speed" to shelter French workers rebuilding for Allied use waterfront facilities damaged by the Germans, the Foreign Economic Administration and National Housing Agency announced.

The barracks, in units of 20 by 48 feet, are to be produced in the United States at the rate of eighty a day, with the entire 5,000 to be ready for shipment by March 31.

400 Planes Take Troops On Leave

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—An emergency mass flight of 400 transport planes made possible a Christmas furlough for 6,000 soldiers suddenly ordered overseas to help stem the German breakthrough last December.

With the need for military security passed, the War Department told the story today.

Destined For Replacements

The men were destined to be replacements on the Western front. At the last minute, it appeared the pre-embarkation furloughs of the men would have to be canceled, but Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, ordered the furloughs granted even though curtailed.

The problem of getting the men home and back in time for departure overseas then arose.

Planned At Conference

Officers of the Army's Air Transport Command, the First Troop Carrier Command and ground forces went into an all-night huddle, out of which came a plan for getting infantrymen from twelve replacement centers to 30 selected centers in various parts of the country and then to their homes.

The 400 planes flew a total of 13,429,569 passenger miles to do the job—equivalent to the average total passenger miles flown by all domestic commercial airlines in two and one-third days. The planes got the men there and got them back in time to be assembled at Fort George G. Meade on January

Archbishop Spellman Denounces Declaration

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman declared today that a group of religious leaders who criticized the political activities of the Vatican in a declaration addressed to the heads of three Allied governments had done a "dis-service to their country and violated the Golden Rule."

"It is impossible to believe that 1,600 men in this country put their names to a document offering insult to 25,000,000 Americans doing their share in winning the war and saving the country," the Archbishop told a gathering of Boy Scouts in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The declaration, made public yesterday by The Protestant, which describes itself as a nonsectarian publication, was addressed to President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

The more than 1,600 signers, including clergymen and religious leaders, expressed opposition to any attempt to "involve free democratic states in any deal" that included representatives of the Vatican or of Protestant or Jewish religious bodies as principals or mediators.

Story Of 72 Horror-Filled Hours On Raft In Pacific Told

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Two of six enlisted men who survived the sinking of the U.S.S. Monaghan during a typhoon in the Pacific related today a story of 72 horror-filled hours in a stormy sea before their rescue by the U.S.S. Brown.

They are Joseph Charles McCrane, 30, water tender 2/c, of Clementon, N.J., and Robert J. Darden, 28, machinist's mate 2/c, Route 1, Jacksonville, N.C. The other survivors still are undergoing treatment in the Pacific area.

More than 200 officers and men were lost when the destroyer Monaghan capsized during a typhoon in the Philippine Sea in December, the Navy said in making public the stories. The destroyers Spence and Hull were lost in the same storm.

Seven Died Or Vanished

Darden said that thirteen men were on the only life raft that was picked up but seven died or disappeared before the rescue.

McCrane related the storm struck about dawn. At noon the Monaghan began to roll violently to the starboard, and McCrane said he learned the wind driving against the port side "was over 100 knots."

Forty or 50 men were in the aftergun shelter before the final roll. They quit work and hung on, praying. Then the ship rolled onto its side. Someone opened a hatch and the men started scrambling out. McCrane said some who jumped as soon as the ship turned over were pounded "to a pulp against the side."

Ship Filled With Water Sank

He hung on for awhile but finally was thrown into the sea by a wave. Water and oil blew against his face. As he was losing strength someone called to him to grab a raft behind him. He believed the man who called was Joseph Guio, Jr., gunner's mate, third class, Holliday's Cove, W.Va.

The ship filled with water and sank about 12.30. Thirteen men got to the raft and hung onto the sides. The injured were helped onto the raft, including Will Ben Holland, of McInniville, Tenn., who had gashes on his head and feet, and Guio, whose foot partially was torn off. The raft overturned several times before all finally got aboard.

McCrane opened emergency rations and limited them strictly. Sharks began nosing around.

Ship Failed To See Men

The first night a ship passed without seeing the shivering men. McCrane said he put his arms and legs around Guio "because he was naked and suffering from cold," but Guio died a few minutes later and was buried at sea after Doil Carpenter, of Torrance, Cal., said a prayer.

On the following day planes flew over but failed to see the raft. That night, McCrane said, another man died "after he had gone berserk" and Holland died of his injuries. The next day a man went over the side and was lost and two others swam to an unoccupied raft and were not seen again.

Darden told how he saw a mirage—"a pretty white beach with lights." He jumped over the side and started swimming toward it, but it vanished and he managed to get back to the raft.

The morning of the third day two planes flew over the raft, dropped markers and twenty minutes later the Brown drew alongside.

O. P. A. to Help Veterans Start Own Business

Bowles Reveals Revisions of Price and Ration Rules to Make Stocks Available

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP).—Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced tonight a program intended to give returning veterans special aid in starting new businesses.

He said that Office of Price Administration was "well along in the process of amending price and rationing regulations" which affect veterans as business men or potential business men.

The revisions, Mr. Bowles said, are of price regulations restricting the field "to those who were in it before a certain date."

The changes also include "several of our rationing regulations, especially in the case of sugar, fats and oils," he said.

"In formulating these revisions of our regulations we are keeping in close touch with other Federal agencies exercising allocation powers so that all the business needs of a veteran entering a new business may be considered under a uniform government policy," the O P. A. chief said.

The annuncement followed by a few days a request by the American Legion that the O. P. A. remove obstacles in the way of service men entering business. The Legion contended that in a number of instances veterans had been unable to obtain rationed food supplies and other allocated commodities to stock stores they propose to open.

Mr. Bowles also announced that tthe O. P. A. will provide "a special advisory service to veterans in our national, regional and district offices.

The American Legion, meanwhile, announced that the weight of its 20,000 posts and units will be put behind a nation-wide program to stimulate community action for maximum employment.

Asserting that too much emphasis has been placed on industrial jobs, the Legion in a statement said more jobs must be found in the post-war period in sales, service and distribution fields.

"Considering all factors," declared Lawrence J. Fenlon, of Chicago, chairman of the Legion's national employment committee, "it seems evident that we must have a goal of 55,000,000 jobs after victory. That is 9,000,000 more than we were able to scrape together in 1929; 18,000,000 more than we could provide in 1932, and nearly 3,000,000 more than we have today."

Expressing belief that in the post-war period the nation will have 3,500,000 fewer jobs in manufacturing, 2,000,000 less in government and 1,000,000 more in agriculture, the Legion spokesman added:

"Thus, to have maximum employment, the Legion believes we must have 1,000,000 more self-employed and 7,000,000 more employed in service and distribution."

More people can be put into service and distribution, Mr. Fenlon suggested, through selling—"by developing a market for the goods we can produce."

"We are going to have to really sell for the first time in our national life," he said "or we may become a socialist state, with government controlling all production and distribution."

Small Business Groups to Scan Metals Industry

Senate Committee Plans Post-War Aluminum and Magnesium Development

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP).—The Senate Small Business Committee plans to see if 60,000 new small business enterprises can be founded on the nation's expanded aluminum and magnesium industry.

Hearings will be held beginning Feb. 27 on war development and post-war use of industries based on these metals, Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, of Montana, committee chairman, announced. He said ways would be studied for disposing of the government's huge investments so as to stimulate healthy competition, strengthen the existing small business system and insure that new firms would enter the field.

"In addition to the employment goal, the committee will direct its inquiry toward anti-monopoly aims and it will study the small enterprise potentialities believed especially great in the fabrication of aluminum and magnesium products," Mr. Murray added.

The committee said principal producers, fabricators and users of the metals, as well as small enterprisers, will participate in the hearings.

Industrialists invited to participate include: R. S. Reynolds, president, Reynolds Metals Company; Willard H. Dow, president, Dow Chemical Company; G. R. Gibbons, senior vice-president, Aluminum Company of America; J. O. Gallagher, president, Columbia Metals Corporation; C. C. Loomis, president, New England Lime Company; Henry Kaiser, president, Kaiser Company, Inc.; W. S. James, chief engineer, Studebaker Corporation, and president of the Society of Automotive Engineers; A. W. Scarrett, vice-president, International Harvester Company; H. H. Howard, vice-president, Fruehauf Trailer Company; J. J. Pelley, president, Association of American Railroads; John E. P. Morgan, chairman, Management Committee of Aeonautical Chamber of Commerce; J. P. Neiman, president, Aluminum Research Institute, and others.

Various government agencies also will be represented.

Public hydro-electric power will be represented by David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Paul J. Raver, administrator, Bonneville Power Administration.

"This is to be no witch hunt, but the co-operative effort of private industry, big and little, with government to develop the full facts surrounding the light metals industries and the problems of disposing of the government's huge holdings in them," Mr. Murray said.

AFL ADVANCES NEW HOME IDEA

Jobs For 19,000,000 Workers Are Planned

Miami, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—A program to provide jobs for 19,000,000 workers, building 15,000,000 new homes during the first decade after the war, was advanced today by the AFL.

The program was conceived by the American Federation of Labor's special housing committee headed by Harry Bates, head of the bricklayers' union.

It was announced by the executive council, meeting here for midwinter sessions, and William Green, AFL president, said it was being placed in the form of legislation to be introduced immediately in Congress.

Look For Lewis Reply

The sessions were in recess over the week end, and during that time the labor leaders anticipated a reply from John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' boss, to their request that he put in writing his terms for re-entering the Federation. He left the AFL eight years ago.

Green announced later that Lewis's letter had been received, but declined to discuss the contents until the council meeting tomorrow. At Washington, Lewis refused to discuss his reply.

Green expressed the hope that Congress would give the housing legisiation "priority over all other peace-time legislation because it offers the most effective means of preventing postwar economic depression.

"When the war ends, most industries now engaged in war production will be forced to undergo a long and complicated reconversion process before they can resume manufacture of peace-time products and provide jobs for disemployed," Green said.

No Reconversion Needed

"But housing construction needs no reconversion. It can be all set up and ready to go when the last shot is fired provided Congress acts now to establish a clear-cut policy and set up the necessary governmental machinery."

Some of the features of the ten-point program include:

Creation of a five-man national house board to develop policy, but not disrupting present housing agencies.

Reduce interest rates, extend mortization to 32 years, allow a moratorium on payments when a home buyer is unemployed, require fixed construction standards and provide for prevailing wages on all home construction subject to Federal Housing Administration insurance.

500,000 Dwelling Units

Provide 500,000 dwelling units a year in a sweeping slum clearance plan under local authorities.

Federal help to municipalities replanning and rebuilding towns and cities for sounder growth.

Continuation of price control over building materials until supplies match demand and threat of runaway prices ends.

Amend the housing provisions of the "GI Bill of Rights" to give stronger protection to veterans against speculative profiteering and excessive interest charges.

Green Goes On Patrol And . . .

Miami, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—William Green, 73-year-old president of the American Federation of Labor, went on patrol with the Navy yesterday and—yep—became seasick.

Aboard a patrol craft with eleven other members of the AFL's executive council as guests of the Navy, Green was given a brief turn at the wheel after watching the sea slant up at him first from one side, then the other.

Pink-cheeked from the sun, Green joked about it today. The other AFL leaders, including Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters' president, also in his 70s, came through the patrol "duty" okay.

RESEARCH BOARD SET UP TO WORK ON NEW WEAPONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP) Creation of a new board of civilian and military scientists to develop weapons for any future conflict was announced today.

The board to be known as the Research Board for National Security, will serve in the interim between the expiration of the present Office of Scientific Research and Development, a wartime agency, and the establishment by Congress of an independent agency to carry on the work.

Announced By Army, Navy

The announcement was made jointly by Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the National Academy of Sciences. A committee on postwar research has recommended to Congress the establishment of a permanent independent agency.

The new board was set up by Dr. Jewett at the request of the armed services. Twenty civilian scientists, with an equal number from the Army and Navy, will compose its membership.

Explaining why the board was needed, Stimson and Forrestal said in a statement:

"This war emphasizes three facts of supreme importance to national security. The powerful new tactics of defense and offense are developed around new weapons created by scientific and engineering research. (2) The competitive time element in developing those weapons and tactics may be decisive. (3) War is increasingly total war, in which the armed services must be supplemented by active participation of every element of civilian population.

To Insure Preparedness

"To insure continued preparedness along far-sighted technical lines, the research scientists of the country must be called upon to continue in peacetime some substantial portion of those types of contribution to national security which they have made so effectively during the stress of the present war."

The executive committee of the initially announced membership is made up of:

Karl Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, chairman; Roger Adams, University of Illinois Department of Chemistry; A. H. Dochez, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons; Brig. Gen. W. A. Borden, War department special staff and director of new developments division; Rear Admiral J. A. Furor, coordinator of research and development, Navy department.

William And Mary Suspends Paper For Racial Editorial

FEB 12 1945

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 11 (AP)—The College of William and Mary temporarily suspended today publication of its student newspaper, the Flat Hat, pending faculty action on an editorial by 22-year-old Marilyn Kaemmerle, the editor, which suggested the time should come when Negroes should attend the college, "join the same clubs, be our roommates . . . and marry among us."

Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college and formerly a dean at Vanderbilt University, said the faculty would meet Tuesday to consider a course of action.

Editor From Michigan

The college board yesterday expressed "thorough disapproval and condemnation" of the editorial sentiments voiced by the brown-haired, brown-eyed Miss Kaemmerle, a resident of Jackson, Mich.

The board specifically directed, at its meeting in Richmond, that the college administration and faculty "take such corrective and disciplinary action as may be necessary, including the assumption of such control over approving the material in such publications as may be required."

Dr. Pomfret said, "there will be no Flat Hat this week—it has been temporarily suspended."

He indicated the faculty would be more concerned with setting up some editorial supervision of the Flat Hat than with anything else, but said he could not predict the faculty's action for it.

Miss Kaemmerle remained in seclusion today.

Efforts to reach her at her dormitory and sorority house met statements of friends that "she's not in and we don't know where she is or when she will be in."

Students Called "Disgusted"

The undergraduate editor, a senior, said in the editorial she believed that education was the only way to bring equal recognition of Negroes "in our hearts and minds" and added that personal fraternization between the races "cannot and should not be done today, or tomorrow, but perhaps the next day."

The William and Mary student body, which for a number of years has included a number of students from Northern States as well as from the South, had taken no action as a whole on the matter, but a representative of the Newport News (Va.) Daily Press, who talked with some of them, said, "They are disgusted, that's all."

In Michigan, the student editor's father, W. M. Kaemmerle, said he thought at the time he read the editorial that his daughter was "taking a chance" because her college was located in the South.

FEB 12 1945

ROSS ORGANIZED MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF INTO A COMBAT PATROL TO CLEAR THE WAY TO GROUND NEEDED FOR OBSERVATION OF THE ENEMY'S MAGINOT POSITIONS. THE PATROL CAPTURED 26 GERMANS. FROM THE VANTAGE POINTS WON UNDER ROSS' LEADERSHIP, THE ARTILLERY WAS ABLE TO BRING DOWN THE MOST EFFECTIVE FIRE ON THE LINE, HELPING THE DOUGHBOYS BREAK THE FORTIFICATIONS WITH A MINIMUM LOSS.

WITH THE U.S. FIFTH INFANTRY DIVISION IN GERMANY, FEB. 11-(AP)-THE FOXHOLES WERE DEEP AND IRREGULAR ALONG THE NARROW STRIP OF FLAT LAND BETWEEN THE SWOLLEN SURE RIVER, THE HILLS ROSE SHARPLY TO THE FIRST SIEGFRIED PILLBOXES 150 YARDS AWAY, AND AMERICAN DEAD LAY IN OR BESIDE THOSE HOLES TODAY.
THE FOXHOLES WERE DEEP BECAUSE THE MEN HAD TO DIG DEEP OR DIE. SOME DID BOTH.
THEY WERE IRREGULAR IN SHAPE BECAUSE THE MEN HAD TO DIG QUICKLY.
THE STORY OF THE FIFTH INFANTRY DIVISION'S LATEST BATTLE WAS WRITTEN THERE, FROM THOSE RIVER-EDGE FOXHOLES UP INTO THE PILLBOX BELT ATOP A STEEP AND INCREDIBLY SLIPPERY AND MUDDY HILL.
THERE WERE THE DEAD. AND THEIR SURVIVING COMRADES, WHO CAME EARLY AND IN SMALL NUMBERS IN BOATS FEB. 7, DUG IN AND HELD ON THROUGH TWO LONG DAYS AND NIGHTS WITH ONLY AMERICAN ARTILLERY AND FIRE FROM THE WEST BANK OF THE SURE SAVING THEM FROM ANNIHILATION.
THEY HUNG ON WHILE REINFORCEMENTS TRICKLED SLOWLY ACROSS THE RIVER IN BOAS, AND ON

IN BOATS, AND ONLY IN BOATS, BECAUSE BRIDGING WAS IMPOSSIBLE.
NOT UNTIL FRIDAY AND SATURDAY DID THE TRICKLE BECOME A FLOW AND NOT UNTIL LATE YESTERDAY DID THE BRIDGES GO ACROSS.
NOW MEN, TRUCKS, WEAPONS, FOOD AND AMMUNITION ARE ROLLING ACROSS IN MOUNTING VOLUME UPON THE STEEL TREADWAYS RIDING FIRMLY ON THE RUBBER PONTOONS.
ENGINEERS STAND BY, PATCHING AND REINFLATING DAMAGED PONTOONS.
AHEAD OF THEM ON INTO THE WOODED HILLS AND PAST MORE THAN A DOZEN POWERFULLY BUILT PILLBOXES THE DOUGHBOYS WERE FANNING OUT, BROADENING AND CONSOLIDATING THIS FRESH BRIDGEHEAD INTO GERMANY DESPITE THE NAZIS AND NATURE.
THERE WERE 12 CRAMPED, STIFF BODIES OF DOUGHBOYS ALONG 200 YARDS OF THE ROAD WHERE THE PATH LED UP FROM THE BRIDGE TO THE FIRST ROW OF PILLBOXES.
AFTER STRUGGLING UP THE MUDDY HILLSIDE, WHERE THREE LABORIOUS STEPS FORWARD NETTED ONLY ONE STEP IN ADVANCE, AND SEEING THE CALIBER OF THE FORTIFICATIONS COMMANDING THAT NARROW STRIP, IT SEEMED A MINOR MIRACLE THAT CASUALTIES HAD NOT BEEN FAR HIGHER.

THE FIRST BOX HALF-WAY UP THE 500-FOOT HILL WAS A TURRET OF TEN-INCH ARMOR PLATE STEEL HOUSING TWO MACHINEGUNS. IT HAD BEEN HIT 40 TIMES BY THREE-INCH TANK DESTROYER SHELLS AND WAS POCKED LIKE A HONEYCOMB.
FINALLY ONE ROUND SMASHED THROUGH THE EIGHT-INCH WIDE FIRING PORT, KILLING THE GUNNERS AND KNOCKING OUT THE GUNS.
"WE JUST KEPT PLASTERING THOSE BOXES WHEN THE DOUGHS STARTED MOVING UP," SAID LT. FREDERICK MERCE, 433 HIETT AVE., TOLEDO, OHIO, A PLATOON COMMANDER.
"WE EVENTUALLY KNOCKED OUT FIVE, AND EVEN BEFORE WE KNOCKED THEM OUT WE GREATLY REDUCED THEIR FIRING BY HITS IN AND AROUND THE PORTALS."
UP THE HILL IN A SUPPORTING POSITION TO THE FIRST BOX ESAS A TYPICAL STEEL-REINFORCED CONCRETE BUNKER. IT HAD A FOUR-FOOT HOLE RIPPED IN ITS FIRING ROOM BY A 155-MILLIMETER SHELL.
THIS SHELL NOT ONLY SMASHED THROUGH THE THREE-FOOT THICK FRONT WALL, BUT BLASTED A SMALLER HOLE IN THE REAR. FIFTY FEET IN FRONT OF THE BOX WAS A 200-POUND EIGHT-INCH SHELL WHICH HAD DONE NOTHING BUT NICK THE CONCRETE AND BOUNCE BACK.
INSIDE THIS BOX, WHICH HAD BEEN CONVERTED INTO A COMMAND POST FOR MAJ. HERMAN R. SCHELL, LOGANSPORT, IND., CAPT. WILLIAM F. SHAIVLEY, 10319 CURTIS, DETROIT, MICH., WAS CALLING DOWN THAT TIRELESS ARTILLERY ON GERMAN INFANTRY FORMING FOR A COUNTERATTACK IN A DRAW JUST BEYOND FORWARD INFANTRY ON A PLATEAU A HALF MILE AHEAD.
OUTSIDE THE BOX, LT. ROBERT FURMAN, LARSEN, WIS., WAS DIRECTING THE FIRE OF MORTARS WHICH WERE JOINING THEIR BIGGER BROTHERS IN THE BARRAGE. AFTER A FEW MINUTES, INFANTRY REPORTED THE GERMANS HAD CHANGED THEIR MINDS ABOUT COUNTERATTACKING.
ASKED WHETHER THE GERMANS INSIDE THE BOXES FOUGHT AFTER ARTILLERY HAD SMASHED THEIR PORTALS, CAPT. ROBERT H. WILLIAMS, HENDERSON, KY., SAID:
"WE TOOK AS MANY AS 21 PRISONERS OUT OF A SINGLE PILLBOX AND OUR LOSSES WERE LIGHT, SOYOU CAN FIGURE WHAT HAPPENED WHEN WE GOT CLOSE."

WITH THE U.S. THIRD ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 11-(AP)-THE THIRD ARMY'S FOURTH INFANTRY DIVISION WAS DISCLOSED TODAY AS THE OUTFIT WHICH BROKE THROUGH THE MAIN SEIGFRIED BELT WEST OF PRUEM LAST WEEK, AND WITH THE 90TH NOW IS ASSAULTING THE TRANSIT CENTER.

THE VETERAN IVY LEAF PATCH WEARERS WERE ON FAMILIAR GROUND, BECAUSE THEY WERE THE ONES WHO, AS MEMBERS OF THE FIRST ARMY, CUT THROUGH THE WESTWALL LAST SEPTEMBER.

IT WAS COL. C.T. LANHAM'S 22ND INFANTRY REGIMENT WHICH TOOK BRANDSCHEID--A FORTIFIED TOWN WHICH RESISTED CAPTURE LAST FALL--IN TWO HOURS OF FIGHTING AND DROVE ON TOWARD PRUEM.

IT WAS THE FOURTH DIVISION WHICH FIRST BROKE ACROSS THE PRUEM RIVER NORTH OF THIS FORTIFIED CITY, WHERE ITS DOUGHBOYS TONIGHT ARE A MILE AND A HALF NORTHEAST OF PRUEM AND THREATENING TO SEVER ITS MAIN ROAD LINK TO THE RHINE.

JUST SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM THE FOURTH DIVISION REACHED THE RIVER AT THREE NEW PLACES, AND NOW THEY WERE ON OR ACROSS THE STREAM ON A 10-MILE STRETCH WITH PRUEM ROUGHLY IN THE CENTER.

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY, WESTERN FRONT, FEB. 11-(AP)-A RED ARMY SOLDIER HAS BEEN PICKED UP BY U. S. DOUGHBOYS A COUPLE OF MILES BEHIND AMERICAN LINES.

TATTERED, SKINNY AND UNSHAVEN, THE LITTLE MAN, WHO SAID HIS NAME WAS IVAN, IS 32 YEARS OLD. HE WAS FLUSHED OUT OF A FOXHOLE LATE LAST NIGHT AND BROUGHT TO CAPT. HORACE A. SUTTON OF (21 EAST 87TH ST.) NEW YORK, FOR QUESTIONING.

IVAN WEPT WITH JOY WHEN HE WAS TOLD THE RUSSIANS WERE NEAR BERLIN.

A CARPENTER ON A STATE FARM NEAR STALINGRAD WHEN HE WAS DRAFTED IN AUGUST, 1941, IVAN'S STORY WAS THAT THE GERMANS CAPTURED HIM AT KHARKOV AND TOOK HIM TO A PRISON CAMP IN MAY, 1942.

LATER HE WAS AMONG 75 RUSSIAN PRISONERS BROUGHT TO GERONSWEILER TO HELP HARVEST THE CROPS.

THEN CAME THE AMERICAN ADVANCE. GERONSWEILER WAS CAPTURED NOV. 19, 1944, BY THE 410TH U. S. INFANTRY REGIMENT OF THE 102ND DIVISION. SINCE THAT TIME IVAN CLAIMED TO HAVE LIVED IN BARNS, EATING WHEAT KERNELS AND STEALING APPLES FROM NEARBY ORCHARDS FOR FOOD, AND DRINKING SNOW-WATER.

CAPT. SUTTON SAID THERE WAS SOME DOUBT AS TO WHETHER OR NOT IVAN WAS A RUSSIAN PRISONER BUT HE WAS INCLINED TO BELIEVE THE WHOLE STORY. WHEN WORD SPREAD AROUND THE FRONTLINES TODAY THAT A RED ARMY MAN HAD BEEN PICKED UP NEAR GERONSWEILER, THE DOUGHBOYS WHO'VE BEEN FOLLOWING THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE JOKED IN THEIR MUD-CAKED FOXHOLES ALONG THE ROER RIVER AND SAID:

HELSINKI, Feb. 11,(AP)- In a radio speech stressing Finland's "critical" economic situation, Pemier Juho Paasikivi appealed to the Finns today to work in forests as a "national duty" and expressed the hope that the government would not be obliged to resort to forced labor.

Paasikivi emphasized the serious shortage of wood which he described as "Finland's gold" and on which the country must depend for fulfillment of its war reparations.

Paasikivi made no reference to foreign affairs, although he noted that Finland had "succeeded in getting out of the war comparatively easy" in the light of what was happening in other countries.

C.YATES MCDANIEL, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT, SAID ONE ENEMY VANTAGE POINT, THE STONE WALLS OF A CHURCHYARD, HELD UP AN AMERICAN ADVANCE UNTIL IT WAS LEVELED BY ARTILLERY AND MORTAR FIRE AND FLAME-THROWERS.

FROM THE RAGING VORTEX OF THE BATTLE OF BUILDINGS, AP STAFF WRITER FRED HAMPSON REPORTED:

"IT WAS SLOW AND BLOODY AND AMBULANCES WERE CLANGING IN AND OUT OF MANIL'S SEETHING CENTER WITH DISMAL REGULARITY."

MCDANIEL SAID THE STREET FIGHTING HAS TAKEN ITS TOLL IN AMERICAN LIVES BUT HE EMPHASIZED THE MAJOR DESTRUCTION BEING WROUGHT BY LAND MINES AND ENEMY-IGNITED FIRES.

THE JAPANESE HAD MADE NO SERIOUS EFFORT TO FIGHT IT OUT IN NORTHERN MANILA. BUT ON THE CITY'S SOUTH SIDE THEY MADE A GRIM BATTLEGROUND FOR THEIR FIRST REAL STAND ON LUZON.

MACARTHUR SAID THE SPIRIT AND MORALE OF THE CIVILIANS IN THE FIRE BLACKENED CITY IS GOOD; THAT THERE WAS AMPLE FOOD AND THAT RELIEF AGENCIES WERE ACTIVE AND EFFICIENT.

ON OUTER MANILA BAY, WHICH RADIO TOKYO HINTS IS ABOUT TO BE FORCED BY THE U.S. FLEET, BOMBERS SMASHED AT CORREGIDOR ISLAND AND MARIVELES ON BATAAN PENINSULA.

THE SIXTH DIVISION CONTINUED ITS DRIVE TO CUT LUZON IN HALF FAR THE THE NORTHEAST. IT DROVE ALONG A MOUNTAIN ROAD TOWARD THE EAST COAST, ENTERING LAUR, 22 MILES FROM THE SEA.

LT.KRESGE MADE FOUR CALLS ON THE WAY HOME, TELLING THE BASE HE WAS "DITCHING" AND "ABANDONING" THE PLANE.

THE FIRST CALL WAS MADE, HE SAID, WHEN "WE COULDN'T KEEP UP AND COULDN'T FEATHER A PROPELLER; THE SECOND WHEN AN ENGINE RAN AWAY; THE THIRD WHEN AN ENGINE CAUGHT FIRE AND THE FOURTH WHEN A PROPELLER BURNED BECAUSE IT WAS WINDMILLING SO FAST.

A PARACHUTE PACK SAVED LT.HARRY H.KUTNER, 2530 GRAND CONCOURSE, NEW YORK CITY, WHEN THE ONLY ENEMY BULLET TO ENTER HIS PLANE WAS STOPPED BY THE PACK. HE SUFFERED ONLY PRICKED SKIN.

LT.CHARLES S.HOUSER, OF PINA BANK, PA., SAID "NO ONE SAW ANY JAP FIGHTERS MAKE PASSES AT OUR SUPERFORT."

THERE WAS A PASS, HOWEVER. AN INTELLIGENCE OFFICER ASKED CORP.E.R.FARNETH, OF ROUTE TWO, NEW KENSINGTON, PA., IF THE PLANE WAS ATTACKED. THE CORPORAL, TAIL GUNNER ON THE B-29, SAID "YES, ONE JAP FIGHTER CAME IN." THE OFFICER ASKED WHEN IT BROKE AWAY, AND THE GUNNER REPLIED "IT DIDN'T BREAK AWAY. I SHOT IT DOWN."

SAN FRANCISCO,FEB.11--MANY OF THE RECENTLY LIBERATED INTERNEES OF THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP AT MANILA WOULD LIKE THE JOB OF HEADING A PRISON CAMP WHERE JAPANESE ARE HELD, BERT SILEN, FORMER RADIO STATION MANAGER AT MANILA AND FOR THREE YEARS A NIPPONESE CAPTIVE, SAID TODAY IN A BROADCAST FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

SILEN, FORMERLY OF SAN FRANCISCO, RELATED IN AN INTERVIEW WITH PAT FLAHERTY, NBC CORRESPONDENT IN MANILA, HOW THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNEES WERE RECEIVING ONLY FIVE AND ONE-HALF OUNCES OF A RICE A DAY WHEN AMERICAN TROOPS LIBERATED THEM THE NIGHT OF FEB.3.

WHEN THE FOOD SITUATION IN THE CAMP WAS BECOMING ALMOST INTOLERABLE, SILEN SAID, HE RECEIVED A LETTER FROM HIS BROTHER (UNNAMED) WHO IS CONNECTED WITH A CAMP FOR JAPANESE NEAR SAN ANTONIO, TEX. THE BROTHER SAID HE HOPED SILEN WAS BEING FED AS WELL AS THE JAPANESE UNDER HIS CARE IN TEXAS.

REMEMBERING THE HUMILITATION HE AND HIS FRIENDS SUFFERED AT THE HANDS OF THEIR JAPANESE CAPTORS, SILEN SAID THAT ONE JOB MANY OF THE INTERNEES WOULD LIKE MORE THAN ANYTHING IN THE WORLD JUST NOW WOULD BE TO HAVE CHARGE OF CAMP FULL OF JAPANESE.

"WHEN THE TRUE STORY OF SANTO TOMAS BECOMES A MATTER OF RECORD I KNOW THAT EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD WITH AMERICAN BLOOD IN THEIR VEINS WILL DEMAND COMPLETE ANNIHILATION OF THE MOST CRUEL AND INHUMAN RACE OF PEOPLE ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH," SILEN DECLARED.

AS AMERICAN VICTORIES IN THE PACIFIC INCREASED, THE FOOD RATION AT SANTO TOMAS DECREASED, SILEN SAID, AND AMERICAN TROOPS ARRIVED JUST IN TIME, FOR MORE THAN 200 INTERNEES WERE HOSPITALIZED AND THE NUMBER WAS MOUNTING DAILY.

Atlantic Charter.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP) The "Big Three," winding up an eight-day conference around a white draped table in an old play spot of the Czars, announced tonight their formula for the triumphal conclusion of a war and the beginning of organized peace.

Their nine-point program, announced at the end of the fateful day-and-night sessions, projected this nation fully on to center state in European affairs.

That in outline is the record of the meeting concluded yesterday in the one-time summer palace of Czar Nicholas II on the Black Sea at Yalta in the Crimea, a conference that may shape tomorrow's world.

The decisions were announced today in a joint communique from the participants, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Premier Stalin.

Here at home first reaction in Congress and elsewhere was overwhelmingly favorable for the report of the leaders of the three great powers. That report covered these prime resolves:

Final extirpation of Nazism and militarism; elimination or control of all German industry usable for war; no softening of unconditional surrender; and no break in the Allied front.

Peace Plans to Be Mapped

Collaboration in peace plans to be formally drafted at a United Nations conference at San Francisco, April 25; and a settlement (its nature not yet disclosed) of the question of veto power for the great nations on peace council actions.

Joint action to effectuate the Atlantic Charter principle of self-government for liberated peoples, with U. S. participation on a far larger scale than heretofore.

On only one point that had figured strongly in preliminary speculation did the three leaders fail to report agreement on action. That was the question of possible Soviet participation in the war against Japan. Pointedly, Japan went unmentioned in the announcement.

However, by the time of the San Francisco conference, Russia's decision on whether it expects to abrogate or continue its non-aggression pact with Japan should be known. April 13 is the date on which the Soviets have agreed to give Japan the one-year's agreed upon notice if the pact is to be discontinued. Without such notice, it would be effective for another five years.

However, the Japanese war had a high place in strictly British-American conferences at Valletta, Malta, preceding the Crimea session.

The President and his chief military and diplomatic advisors stopped off in Malta and conferred there with Churchill and other British officials.

The emphasis on Japan in the Malta sessions was shown by the personnel of the parties. Prominent in the British group were admirals who likely would have a part in a stepped-up war against the Oriental enemy. Dispatches from Malta said there was an unconfirmed report that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, American leader of the sea war against Japan, was present.

Nine Point Program

The nine points of the "Big Three" communique are:

1. Detailed agreement among the United States, Britain and Russia on military plans against Germany which "will result in shortening the war." As if speaking to the German people over the head of Hitler, the communique warned them that "Nazi Germany is doomed. The German people will only make the cost of their defeat heavier to themselves by attempting to continue a hopeless resistance."

2. A final decision to split Germany into zones of military occupation after victory. The United States, Great Britain and Russia each will occupy a zone, and France will be invited to occupy another. If she accepts, as she is expected to do, the Control commission will be expanded to include French members. Victory is to be followed by destruction of Nazism and militarism and elimination or control of German industry capable of war production.

Reparations Commission Planned

3. A commission will be set up in Moscow to consider the amount of German reparations, and how they should be paid. The communique spoke especially of reparations in kind—presumably labor and goods.

4. A formula for settling the ranking Polish issue was agreed upon. It provides for merging the provisional government now recognized by Russia with certain unnamed "democratic leaders" from within Poland and from exile Poles abroad. It also provides that Churchill and Roosevelt recognize Stalin's insistence on the Curzon Line as Poland's eastern boundary which gives Russia huge chunks of so-called Old Poland including the cities of Vilna and Lwow.

5. Another formula along the same lines was disclosed for Yugoslavia. The "Big Three" said Marshal Tito, who is now running the country from the inside, and Dr. Subasic, the prim minister of the exile government at London, should immediately set up their coalition government as previously agreed on.

6. To provide continuing consultation of the "Big Three" the chiefs of state agreed that their foreign secretaries should meet every three or four months, beginning in London about the middle of the year.

To Meet in San Francisco

7. The "Big Three" also made up their minds on the big issue still unsettled in the Dumbarton Oaks plan for world organization and agreed that the United Nations should hold a full dress conference on this plan in San Francisco beginning April 25. The formula for settling issue which had previously led to disagreement was whether a big power, if accused of aggression, should have a veto power on any action against itself. The formula for settling this dispute will be made known as soon as China and France have been consulted.

8. It was agreed that the "Big Three" powers should join in assisting any of the liberated or former Axis states of Europe in carrying out measures designed to guarantee the peoples' right to choose their own government. This is one of the most far reaching decisions for it means that from now on the United States may have a direct hand in every European settlement pending the proposed creation of the world security organization which will give it an even greater role in world affairs.

9. The "Big Three" summed up by predicting that victory and the Dumbarton Oaks plan together "will provide the greatest opportunity in all history to create a lasting peace," with freedom from fear and want.

The full names of all three of the chiefs of state were fixed to the communique. They appeared in this order: "Winston S. Churchill, Franklin D. Roosevelt, J. Stalin." The document was dated Feb. 11, evidently the day on which it was completed and signed.

Issued at White House

It was issued at the White House by Jonathan Daniels, administrative assistant to the President, who for the last two weeks has been telling newsmen that there was nothing he could say about the meeting except for last Wednesday's formal announcement that it was in progress.

Today as newsmen pushed into his office, Daniels opened the conversation by saying "gentlemen, this is it." He then laid down restrictions on release at 4:30 p. m. and distributed copies of the six page document.

This opened with the statement that for the past eight days the "Big Three" had been meeting in the Crimea, which is a Russian resort area on the Black Sea. There were listed the names of 13 American, 12 British and eight Russian officials, military and civilian, who participated in the talks.

It was the military members of the delegations who did the detailed planning for defeating Germany.

While there was no statement that the Russians were joining the British and American military people as members of the combined chiefs of staff, it was said that all three groups would continue to meet in the future whenever the need arises.

This made it evident that the conference had succeeded in obtaining closer military understanding and confidence among the "Big Three."

It appeared that on many issues each of the leaders had scored a point. The Polish settlement gives Stalin the boundary he had insisted on all along—the Curzon—and appears to give a position of primary importance to the Soviet supported Provisional Government of Poland, in conflict with the exiled government at London recognized by Britain and the United States. Moreover Roosevelt and Churchill said that when the present provisional government is reorganized into a "national unity" regime they will establish diplomatic relations with it.

But it was stated that this national unity regime "shall be pledged to the holding of free and unfettered elections as soon as possible on the basis of universal suffrage and secret ballot," and that "all democratic and anti-Nazi parties shall have the right to take part and to put forward candidates."

Right to Vote Defined

This insistence on the right of people to vote regardless of political affiliation so long as it is not pro-Nazi, was threaded through the communique and evidently represented a point for Roosevelt who went to the conference primarily to seek agreement on practical application of such Atlantic Charter principles.

The right to vote is one of those set forth in the declaration on liberated Europe as being within the joint protective action of the "Big Three."

"The establishment of order in Europe and the rebuilding of national economic life," the declaration said, "must be achieved by processes which will enable the liberated peoples to destroy the last vestiges of Nazism and Fascism and to create democratic institutions of their own choice.

"This is a principle of the Atlantic Charter—the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live—the restoration of sovereign rights and self government to those peoples who have been forcibly deprived of them by the aggressor nations."

The three governments, which will be four if France consents to join them, agreed through Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, that they would "jointly assist" liberated or former Axis satellite peoples to (1) establish internal peace; (2) take emergency relief measures; (3) form interim governments representatives of all "democratic elements" and (4) facilitate the holding of elections.

The bluntest statements of the entire communique concerned Germany. There had been much speculation that the "Big Three" might promise the German people some future conditions which would in effect constitute an appeal to them to end the war. But there was no such promise, only a warning that the longer the surrender is delayed, the worse will be the Germans' plight.

Warn German People

"It is not our purpose to destroy the people of Germany, but only when Nazism and militarism have been extirpated will there be hope for a decent lift for Germans, and a place for them in the comity of nations."

After outlining half a dozen specific measures to break up Nazism and German militarism the "Big Three" reserved the general and unspecific right to "take in harmony such other measures in Germany as may be necessary to the future peace and safety of the world."

There was no specific definition of the compensation to be demanded of Germany but it appeared that many demands previously made by the Allies and particularly Russia will probably contribute to the decisions of the proposed reparations commission.

These include the right to use millions of German Nazis to help rebuild Russia and the right to draw heavily on the resources of German industry for help in rebuilding the areas which Hitler's hordes overran. There is no doubt also that Germany will lose some territory, certainly enough of her eastern areas such as East Prussia and most of all of Silesia to compensate Poland for the loss of territory to Russia.

On this latter point Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin expressed agreement in principle but said "they feel that the opinion of the new Polish Provisional Government of National Unity should be sought in due course on the extent of these accessions and that the final delimitation of the western frontier of Poland should thereafter await the peace conference."

Await Peace Conference

This, incidentally, was the only hint in the lengthy document that the "Big Three" had discussed and evidently tentatively agreed upon the need for a general peace conference to liquidate the boundary and other problems of this war.

The section on United Nations organization to preserve peace after the war was the first one of the political problems listed in the communique—a fact which was regarded as significant since it provides the basis for long-range political, economic and social collaboration among nations large and small.

The implication was that the tough issues of immediate cooperation in liberated Europe, such as over Poland and Yugoslavia, had been resolved against a background of agreement among the "Big Three" that they could attain at least a measure of long range security in the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

The settlement on Yugoslavia appeared to deal chiefly with relatively minor technical problems although there was agreement that the Assembly of National Liberation should include members of the old Yugoslav Parliament "who have not compromised themselves by collaboration with the enemy."

In the main the Yugoslav settlement appears to imply an endorsement by President Roosevelt of the arrangement previously worked out by Churchill and Stalin in their meeting at Moscow last Fall, except that this time the agreement is set up against a three power guarantee to the Yugoslav as well as all other liberated peoples that when conditions permit they will themselves control their government's through free elections.

'NAZIS FACE DOOM,' CONFEREES WARN

Allied Leaders Call for Surrender Now to Lighten Hard Peace Terms.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP) The "Big Three" laid a hard peace on the line for Germany.

They told the German people that the compelling reason for them to surrender now is to lighten, in so far as they still can, the cost of their defeat.

They apparently removed the last faint hope of the Nazi High Command for a peace short of an unconditional surrender.

One of the main Nazi arguments has been a hope that in the closing days of the drive to crush Germany the Allies would strike some obstacle that would break their unity and fatally divide Russia from the Anglo-American and Allied forces.

Here are the plans for Germany as outlined in today's communique on the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference:

The "Big Three" agreed that there shall be the closest coordination of military effort in these last battles against Nazi Germany. Then they turned over the decisions to their staff chiefs who worked out the details.

See War "Shortened"

As a result the three leaders declared that the military cooperation now in prospect "will result in shortening the war," and for the first time it was announced that from now on all three Allied staffs will meet for joint discussion as necessary.

"Nazi Germany is doomed," the leaders declared. "The German people will only make the cost of their defeat heavier to themselves by attempting to continue a hopeless resistance."

After victory, it was agreed, all three powers and France, to be invited as a fourth power, will impose common terms of unconditional surrender but those "will not be made known until the final defeat of Germany has been accomplished."

For purposes of occupation, the Reich will be split up into Russian, British and American zones—and a French zone too, if France joins in—and each zone will head up under a Supreme commander in Berlin. The Supreme commanders will form a "Central Control commission."

The limits of the three zones already have been decided but if France comes in the British, American, Russian and French governments will readjust them to create the French zone.

To Curb Militarism

Beyond that the communique made the most definitive statement yet on what will happen to Germany during the period of occupation "to ensure that Germany will never again be able to disturb the peace of the world."

"We are determined to disarm and disband all German armed forces," the statement said; "break up for all time the German General Staff that has repeatedly contrived the resurgence of German militarism; remove or destroy all German military equipment; eliminate or control all German industry that could be used for military production; bring all war criminals to just and swift punishment and exact reparation in kind for the destruction wrought by the Germans; wipe out the Nazi party, Nazi laws, organizations and institutions; remove all Nazi and militarist influences from public office and from the cultural and economic life of the German people; and take in harmony such other measures in Germany as may be necessary to the future peace and safety of the world.

"It is not our purpose to destroy the people of Germany, but only when Nazism and militarism have been extirpated will there be hope for a decent life for Germans, and a place for them in the comity of nations."

Reparations Mentioned

The "Big Three" tackled one other problem which will arise from the German war. They created a commission to study the question of compensation to the Allied countries by Germany. Significantly perhaps, this commission will work in Moscow where long-standing demands have hardened into something of a Russian policy favoring the use of German industrial resources and machinery and manpower to rebuild much of the Europe they have devastated.

There was nothing in the statements on Germany to indicate whether the "Big Three" hope for a long or a short period of control.

Officials here found a clue, however, in the statement that the Germans would find no place in the family of nations until Nazism and militarism have been wiped out. Few American officials, if any, believe that that can be accomplished in less than a full generation—30 years or more.

Text of Big Three Announcement on the Crimean Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The text of the report on the Big Three conference in the Crimea, released at the White House today, follows:

Marshal of Aviation Khudyakoff;
F. T. Guseff, Ambassador in Great Britain;
A. A. Gromyko, Ambassador in the United States.

The following statement is made by the Prime Minister of Great Britain, the President of the United States of America and the Chairman of the Council of People's Commissars of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on the results of the Crimean conference:

The Defeat of Germany

We have considered and determined the military plans of the three Allied powers for the final defeat of the common enemy. The military staffs of the three Allied nations have met in daily meetings throughout the conference. These meetings have been most satisfactory from every point of view and have resulted in closer coordination of the military effort of the three Allies than ever before. The fullest information has been interchanged. The timing, scope and coordination of new and even more powerful blows to be launched by our armies and air forces into the heart of Germany from the east, west, north and south have been fully agreed and planned in detail.

Our combined military plans will be made known only as we execute them, but we believe that the very close-working partnership among the three staffs attained at this conference will result in shortening the war. Meetings of the three staffs will be continued in the future whenever the need arises.

Nazi Germany is doomed. The German people will only make the cost of their defeat heavier to themselves by attempting to continue a hopeless resistance.

The Occupation and Control of Germany

We have agreed on common policies and plans for enforcing the unconditional surrender terms which we shall impose together on Nazi Germany after German armed resistance has been finally crushed. These terms will not be made known until the final defeat of Germany has been accomplished. Under the agreed plan, the forces of the three powers will each occupy a separate zone of Germany. Coordinated administration and control have been provided for under the plan through a central control commission consisting of the Supreme Commanders of the three powers with headquarters in Berlin. It has been agreed that France should be invited by the three powers, if she should so desire, to take over a zone of occupation and to participate as a fourth member of the control commission. The limits of the French zone will be agreed by the four Governments concerned through their representatives on the European Advisory Commission.

It is our inflexible purpose to destroy German militarism and nazism and to insure that Germany will never again be able to disturb the peace of the world. We are determined to disarm and disband all German armed forces; break up for all time the German General Staff that has repeatedly contrived the resurgence of German militarism; remove or destroy all German military equipment; eliminate or control all German industry that could be used for military production; bring all war criminals to just and swift punishment and exact reparation in kind for the destruction wrought by the Germans; wipe out the Nazi party, Nazi laws, organizations and institutions, remove all Nazi and militarist influences from public office and from the cultural and economic life of the German people; and take in harmony such other measures in Germany as may be necessary to the future peace and safety of the world. It is not our purpose to destroy the people of Germany, but only when nazism and militarism have been extirpated will there be hope for a decent life for Germans, and a place for them in the comity of nations.

Reparation by Germany

We have considered the question of the damage caused by Germany to the Allied Nations in this war and recognized it as just that Germany be obliged to make compensation for this damage in kind to the greatest extent possible. A commission for the compensation of damage will be established. The commission will be instructed to consider the question of the extent and methods for compensating damage caused by Germany to the Allied countries. The commission will work in Moscow.

United Nations Conference

We are resolved upon the earliest possible establishment with our allies of a general international organization to maintain peace and security. We believe that this is essential, both to prevent aggression and to remove the political, economic and social causes of war through the close and continuing collaboration of all peace-loving peoples.

The foundations were laid at Dumbarton Oaks. On the important question of voting procedure, however, agreement was not there reached. The present conference has been able to resolve this difficulty.

We have agreed that a conference of the United Nations should be called to meet at San Francisco, in the United States, on April 25, 1945, to prepare the charter of such an organization, along the lines proposed in the informal conversations at Dumbarton Oaks.

The Government of China and the Provisional Government of France will be immediately consulted and invited to sponsor invitations to the conference jointly with the Governments of the United States, Great Britain and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. As soon as the consultation with China and France has been completed, the text of the proposals on voting procedure will be made public.

Declaration on Liberated Europe

The Premier of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom and the President of the United States of America have consulted with each other in the common interests of the peoples of their countries and those of liberated Europe. They jointly declare their mutual agreement to concert during the temporary period of instability in liberated Europe the policies of their three Governments in assisting the peoples liberated from the domination of Nazi Germany and the peoples of the former Axis satellite states of Europe to solve by democratic means their pressing political and economic problems.

The establishment of order in Europe and the rebuilding of national economic life must be achieved by processes which will enable the liberated peoples to destroy the last vestiges of nazism and fascism and to create democratic institutions of their own choice. This is a principle of the Atlantic Charter—the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live—the restoration of sovereign rights and self-government to those peoples who have been forcibly deprived of them by the aggressor nations.

To foster the conditions in which the liberated peoples may exercise these rights, the three Governments will jointly assist the people in any European liberated state or former Axis satellite state in Europe where in their judgment conditions require (A) to establish conditions of internal peace; (B) to carry out emergency measures for the relief of distressed peoples; (C) to form interim governmental authorities broadly representative of all democratic elements in the population and pledged to the earliest possible establishment through free elections of governments responsive to the will of the people; and (D) to facilitate where necessary the holding of such elections.

The three Governments will consult the other United Nations and provisional authorities or other governments in Europe when matters of direct interest to them are under consideration.

When, in the opinion of the three Governments, conditions in any European liberated state or any former Axis satellite state in Europe make such action necessary, they will immediately consult together on the measures necessary to discharge the joint responsibilities set forth in this declaration.

By this declaration we reaffirm our faith in the principles of the Atlantic Charter, our pledge in the Declaration by the United Nations and our determination to build, in cooperation with other peace-loving nations, world order under law, dedicated to peace, security, freedom and the general well-being of all mankind.

In issuing this declaration, the three powers express the hope that the Provisional Government of the French Republic may be associated with them in the procedure suggested.

Poland

FEB 12 1945

A new situation has been created in Poland as a result of her complete liberation by the Red Army. This calls for the establishment of a Polish Provisional Government which can be more broadly based than was possible before the recent liberation of western Poland. The Provisional Government which is now functioning in Poland should therefore be reorganized on a broader democratic basis with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles abroad. This new government should then be called the Polish Provisional Government of National Unity.

M. Molotoff, Mr. Harriman and Sir A. Clark Kerr are authorized as a commission to consult in the first instance in Moscow with members of the present Provisional Government and with other Polish democratic leaders from within Poland and from abroad, with a view to the reorganization of the present Government along the above lines. This Polish Provisional Government of National Unity shall be pledged to the holding of free and unfettered elections as soon as possible on the basis of universal suffrage and secret ballot. In these elections all democratic and anti-Nazi parties shall have the right to take part and to put forward candidates.

When a Polish Provisional Government of National Unity has been properly formed in conformity with the above the Government of the U.S.S.R., which now maintains diplomatic relations with the present Provisional Government of Poland, and the Government of the United Kingdom and the Government of the United States of America will establish diplomatic relations with the new Polish Provisional Government of National Unity and will exchange Ambassadors, by whose reports the respective Governments will be kept informed about the situation in Poland.

The three heads of Government consider that the eastern frontier of Poland should follow the Curzon Line, with digressions from it in some regions of five to eight kilometers in favor of Poland. They recognize that Poland must receive substantial accessions of territory in the north and west. They feel that the opinion of the new Polish Provisional Government of National Unity should be sought in due course on the extent of these accessions and that the final delimitation of the western frontier of Poland should thereafter await the peace conference.

Yugoslavia

We have agreed to recommend to Marshal Tito and Dr. Subasitch that the agreement between them should be put into effect immediately and that a new Government should be formed on the basis of that agreement. We also recommend that as soon as the new Government has been formed it should declare that:

(1) The anti-Fascist Assembly of National Liberation [AVNOJ] should be extended to include members of the last Yugoslav Parliament [Skupschina] who have not compromised themselves by collaboration with the enemy, thus forming a body to be known as a temporary Parliament; and,

(2) Legislative acts passed by the anti-Fascist Assembly of National Liberation will be subject to subsequent ratification by a Constituent Assembly.

Tito

Subasitch

There was also a general review of other Balkan questions.

Meetings of Foreign Secretaries

Throughout the conference, besides the daily meetings of the heads of Governments and the Foreign Secretaries, separate meetings of the three Foreign Secretaries and their advisers have also been held daily.

These meetings have proved of the utmost value and the conference agreed that permanent machinery should be set up for regular consultation between the three Foreign Secretaries. They will, therefore, meet as often as may be necessary, probably about every three or four months. These meetings will be held in rotation in the three capitals, the first meeting being held in London, after the United Nations' conference on world organization.

Unity for Peace as for War

Our meeting here in the Crimea has reaffirmed our common determination to maintain and strengthen in the peace to come that unity of purpose and of action which has made victory possible and certain for the United Nations in this war. We believe that this is a sacred obligation which our Governments owe to our peoples and to all the peoples of the world.

Only with the continuing and growing cooperation and understanding among our three countries and among all the peace-loving nations can the highest aspiration of humanity be realized—a secure and lasting peace which will, in the words of the Atlantic Charter, "afford assurance that all the men in all the lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want."

Victory in this war and the establishment of the proposed international organization will provide the greatest opportunity in all history to create in the years to come the essential conditions of such a peace.

Supplemental Report on Freed Prisoners

The text of an agreement reached at the Big Three conference concerning prisoners liberated by the Allies' forces invading Germany follows:

A comprehensive agreement was reached at the Crimea conference providing detailed arrangements for the protection, maintenance and repatriation of prisoners of war and civilians of the British Commonwealth, Soviet Union and United States liberated by the Allied forces now invading Germany.

Under these arrangements each Ally will provide food, clothing, medical attention and other needs for the nationals of the others until transport is available for their repatriation. In caring for British subjects and American citizens, the Soviet Government will be assisted by British and American officers. Soviet officers will assist British and American authorities in their task of caring for Soviet citizens liberated by the British and American forces during such time as they are on the Continent of Europe or in the United Kingdom, awaiting transport to take them home.

We are pledged to give every assistance consistent with operational requirements to help to insure that all these prisoners of war and civilians are speedily repatriated.

Congress Applauds Reading Of Big Three Statement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP) The big three statement won bipartisan applause today in Congress. Both Democrats and Republicans said it held out high hope for future peace.

Minority Leader White (Maine) praised its "forthright terms" and told his colleagues "I feel a great work has been done." Majority Leader Barkley (Ky), who also addressed the chamber, said:

"It is a source of great gratification to me, and I am sure to all the peace-loving peoples of the world, that these heads of three great governments have been able to go so far in composing differences growing out of the war and the occupation of liberated territories."

Speak After Reading

The two, both members of the Foreign Relations committe which will pass on treaties ending the war and determining the type of international peace organization to which this nation will become a party, spoke after the communique was read.

Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of House Foreign Affairs committee said "there is a reaffirmation (in the statement) of the Atlantic Charter and if we are falling back again on the Atlantic Charter we've got a pretty good basis to work from."

Referring twice to the "momentous document," Barkley said he was happy in the thought of its release on the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, the great emancipator.

He expressed hope that "whatever details" may ultimately have to be work out will be tackled in "the same spirit" that surrounded the conferences in the Crimea.

"If we can accomplish the objectives set out," he said, "we can go a long way to justify the sacrifices being made on the battlefronts."

Arising after Barkley had concluded his brief speech, the gray-haired Senator White termed what he had heard read "one of the great forward steps" in the movement toward an enduring peace.

"This speaks in forthright terms," he declared. "It clearly states the way. I feel a great work has been done toward making a better and happier world."

Hardly had the session recessed until Thursday before Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.), a foremost foreign policy spokesman for his party, issued a statement saying the joint announcement "is by far the best that has issued from any major conference." He added:

"It reaffirms basic principles of justice to which we are deeply attached; and it undertakes for the first time to implement these principles by direct action.

"It is impossible to pass conclusive judgment on the extent of these commitments pending more details. But the total demilitarization of Germany and the pledge to proceed among our Allied friends on the basis of the Atlantic Charter are greatly encouraging.

"These are among the things I have been talking about. I welcome the early promise of a complete Dumbarton Oaks charter on a proper basis and I deeply hope that the subsequent disclosure of the settlement of the voting veto question will justify our support."

Vandenberg's reference was to the issue whether the great powers shall have a veto in the peace council on action against themselves.

Other Comment

Senator Kilgore (D.-W. Va.): "As I interpret it, we are getting what I have hoped for all the way through, the power of self determination for the smaller nations. Unquestionably, the conference should speed a cleanup of the German situation."

Calling the agreements "in the main highly satisfactory," Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Connally (D-Texas) said that "on the whole, the work of the conference will be very helpful and reassuring."

However, he said he did not desire to comment on the agreement "upon the voting question in the council" without any knowledge "of the details of that point."

At the same time he said he was pleased that "the people of the world are advised that both in war and in peace the Allies are working in a spirit of harmony and unity to accomplish the high objectives of the war and the peace machinery to follow."

Destruction of Germany's military strength, said Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military committee, "is the only thing that will meet demands of the people throughout the world."

"Nobody will be satisfied with anything short of that," he added.

Big-Three Agreement Indorsed By Hoover

FEB 12 1945

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover tonight endorsed the agreement reached by the "Big Three" at Yalta, calling it a "stout foundation on which to rebuild the world."

Speaking at a Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the National Republican Club, Hoover said:

"I believe it comprises a strong foundation on which to rebuild the world. If the agreements, promises and ideals expressed shall be carried out, it will open a great hope to the world. It is fitting it should have been issued to the world on the birthday of Abraham Lincoln."

The former President spoke extemporaneously.

Britons Hail Work Of Big 3, Applaud U.S. Commitment

Chester

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—The new "Crimea Charter" drew immediate favorable reaction in Great Britain tonight on grounds that it firmly pledged the United States to full participation in the redrawing of the political as well as the geographical map of Europe.

This was particularly welcomed in London in the light of the storm stirred both here and abroad by Britain's single-handed intervention in Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia, and by Russia's all-alone recognition of a Soviet-sponsored Polish Government.

A Deep Dip

The feeling expressed in London was that the United States could hardly have been more firmly committed to a part in re-forming Europe than in the section of the Big Three communiqué pledging joint assistance to any liberated or former Axis satellite nation forming "interim governmental authorities."

One of the "joint responsibilities" will be to see that these interim governments represent all democratic elements. The determination of the facts and the backbone of this pledge will require a deep dipping of America's hand into the European cauldron.

A Unanimous Press

The first newspapers to hit London's streets were unanimous in praise of the Big Three communiqué, described as "the most hopeful document produced in the present century" and "a landmark in human history."

The Laborite Daily Herald said the joint statement "contains concrete evidence that 'unity of purpose' was been applied with a real promise of success to specific problems which a month or so ago seemed doomed to insolubility."

"In eight days," said the Daily Mail, "Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin have laid plans to end the greatest of all wars and have adumbrated the peace which is to follow it. They are eight days which will remold the European world."

Outspoken Praise

"We can breathe more freely now," said the Yorkshire Post. "We look forward more eagerly, more gladly and more surely to years of peace."

The London Daily Express said "What was the world expecting from the Big Three? Certainly much less than it has been given in this declaration."

The way the three powers dealt with the touchy Polish question drew outspoken praise.

'Unforgettable Footnote'

"Certainly, on immediate political questions of the war," said the Manchester Guardian, "Russia has shown herself willing to move a long way toward meeting the western Allies' point of view.

"The declaration on liberated Europe . . . should remove the dangers of single-handed action as we have seen them in Greece and other southeastern states. It associates the United States no less than Russia with the political work of political rehabilitation."

The Daily Sketch described the Big Three statement as an "unforgettable footnote to history," and declared "it is a plain statement of determination of all men of good will to remove the scourge of war from the world once and for all."

Comment Reserved By French Officials

Paris, Feb. 12 (AP)—Like average citizens, members of the French Government late tonight heard the decisions of the Big Three conference by radio.

Officials reserved specific comment, but expressed detached disappointment that decisions were made in France's absence. They reiterated Gen. Charles de Gaulle's oft-voiced position that France would not be bound by any decision affecting her interest which was taken without her consultation.

Whether France would participate in the occupation of Germany, or sponsor invitations to the forthcoming United Nations conference, was for the Government to decide.

3D OF EAST POLAND TO GO TO RUSSIA

Recompense May Be Had At Expense Of Germany

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Poland was told bluntly tonight by the world's three great powers that she must accept the sacrifice of about one third of its eastern territory in return for a hope of land acquisition in the west at Germany's expense.

For Poland it would mean the loss of the rich Galician oil fields, sacrifice of Lwow, one of its most important eastern cities, and mass transfer of millions of its population to prevent minority incidents.

A Hand In The Skeins

For Russia it would bring the acquisition of that territory, plus the probable annexation of a large slice of East Prussia lying between Koenigsberg and Lithuania, including a good year-around seaport at Memel.

For the United States it would mean participation through approval in one of the biggest land-swapping deals in the history of modern Europe—and, by that approval, a direct hand in the tangled affairs of the continent.

Poles Bewildered

The immediate reactiion to all this by the Polish Government in exile in London was one of bewilderment.

"The Polish Government," a spokesman said, "finds that the situation is an entirely new one and one which was not foreseen before. Therefore, no statement can be made until after the cabinet meets tomorrow when the Government's attitude in the matter will be decided."

Polish Issue Settlement Prime Political Agreement

By FLORA LEWIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP) The prime political agreement announced by the Big Three today was the formula for settlement of the Polish issue, long a gaping hole in Allied unity.

President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin agreed that Russia should have the territory it claims in eastern Poland up to the Curzon line with certain modifications in Poland's favor "of five to eight kilometers" (up to five miles.)

The Polish government now functioning in that country with the support of Russia is to be reorganized "on a broader democratic basis," and then recognized by the Big Three powers. This means, among other things, the end of the London exile government of Poles, although some of its members may have posts in the new, reorganized regime.

The new government is to be consulted on the charges in Poland's western frontier, which Prime Minister Churchill has said would mean moving five to seven million Germans. Both Britain and the United States have offered to help transfer these Germans.

The areas offered Poland obviously include East Prussia and industrially wealthy upper Silesia. However, final delimitation of the western frontier of Poland should "await the peace conference," the communique said.

To Recognize Regime

The Big Three promised that their countries would recognize a unified Polish government "reorganized on a broader democratic basis," and arranged to work together for its formation out of presently conflicting groups.

The Big Three decision promised to pave the way for three-way action looking toward "free and unfettered elections as soon as possible on the basis of universal suffrage and secret ballot."

Although Russia obtains almost all of the disputed territory in the settlement, it was seen here as a partial compromise in view of the promise to include "Poles abroad" in the proposed "polish provisional government of national unity."

Also the declaration, coupled with other sections of the Big Three communique, pledging cooperation and devotion to the principles of the Atlantic Charter, indicated that Stalin had assured his Allies he would refrain from unilateral attempts to swing special influence in Poland.

Solution of the Polish political problem was not complete in the triumvirate's declaration because the new Polish government remains to be established. However, the communique made it clear that the Big Three would help in that direction and promised recognition to a provisional regime.

The name of Stanislaus Mikolajczk was omitted, as were those of any other Polish leaders, but it is known that the Big Three look to him as the main figure connected with the exiled London government and acceptable to the Lublin group, now in Warsaw.

Mikolajczyk resigned last fall as premier of the exiled government after his proposal for a compromise with Russia was turned down by his cabinet.

The Big Three arranged that Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, American ambassador to Moscow W. Averell Harriman and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr would consult in Moscow with various Polish groups to set up a new government.

Will Hold Conference

The three are to consult with "members of the present provisional government (the Soviet-recognized Lublin group) and with other Polish Democratic leaders from within Poland and abroad."

The qualification "Democratic" may be interpreted to draw the line at certain members of the London government whom both Moscow and Lublin have branded as Fascist.

In the elections which a new government must promise to hold, the communique said "all Democratic and anti-Nazi parties shall have the right to take part and to put forward candidates."

The agreement also provided for an exchange of ambassadors among Poland and the major Allies as soon as a reorganized provisional government takes over. This clause follows the American view that the United States should have representatives on the spot to watch developments. There have been no American representatives in Poland since its liberation.

Settlement of the Polish dispute is considered a major key to the entire problem of Allied relations, because it was the point on which dissension became sorest.

The argument started two years ago when Moscow broke off relations with the exiled government after it had requested a Red Cross investigation of the Katyn forest murders. The Germans had said that Russians had massacred Polish officers there before Germany invaded Russia.

The wound in the Allied diplomatic front deepened after formation of a free Polish committee in Moscow which eventually developed into the provisional government at Lublin.

At different times during the long dispute, first the political and then the territorial question seemed the highest barrier against settlement.

Russia laid claim to eastern Poland up to the Curzon line, a frontier in many parts similar to the border agreed upon by Russia and Germany after the Nazis overran Poland.

The Curzon line was originally drawn up by the Supreme Allied council in December, 1919.

It appears from the Big Three communique that the Poles will lose the city of Lvov.

The Curzon line was never drawn all the way south, because at the time it was set up eastern Galicia was considered a separate problem.

Clearly the city of Vilna will go to Lithuania, now a Soviet Republic although the United States and Britain have never reconized its inclusion in the Soviet Union.

Possible important change in the "five to eight kilometer" modification may be the city of Brest-Litovsk, where Russia made peace with Germany in 1917. Brest-Litovsk is on the east bank of the Bug river, which constitutes the Curzon line at that point.

Big 3 Advices Speed Subasic-Tito Agreement

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—With the blessing of the Big Three, Yugoslavia's exiled Government prepared tonight for an immediate return to Belgrade to set up a single government on the basis of an agreement between Premier Subasic and Marshal Tito.

A spokesman for the Yugoslav Government said announcement of the members of a three-man regency would await further talks in Belgrade, but he indicated there was substantial understanding with Tito on all matters.

The Big Three recommended to Tito and Subasic that their agreement be put in effect immediately, and that the new government be formed at once.

They also recommend that the new government extend membership in the anti-Fascist Council of National Liberation to include members of the Yugoslav Parliament who had not compromised themselves by collaborating with the enemy. This group, it is suggested, would form a temporary Yugoslav Parliament.

The Government spokesman said King Peter would not return to Belgrade until the people of his country indicated by plebescite whether they wanted a continuation of the monarchy.

Tonight's communiqué announcing plans for the Government's return to the Yugoslav capital followed a meeting of Peter with the Crown Council [cabinet]. It said agreement was reached concerning the regency and formation of a single government, with Peter assenting to all plans.

The agreement, possibly speeded up by pointed recommendations of the Big Three, concluded the political tempest in which Peter sought to dismiss Subasic, and withdrew his opposition to the Premier's agreement with the liberation leader only after public denunciation by Tito.

Subashitch Off To Form Unity Rule With Tito

Premier Going to Belgrade; Peter Assents to Plan of Regency Government

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP).—The Yugoslav government of Ivan Subashitch, "dismissed" by King Peter II three weeks ago, announced tonight that it will proceed at once to Belgrade to complete the formation of a unified government.

The announcement said King Peter had assented to the move, which involves the carrying out of an agreement with Marshal Tito.

The communique said an agreement had been reached concerning a regency and the method of forming the government, points on which King Peter previously had disagreed with his ministers.

Peter is not expected to return to Belgrade with his government, since he has agreed to await a plebiscite on the question of a monarchy.

The announcement, however, indicated a final settlement of questions between Peter and Tito.

In the crisis three weeks ago the Subashitch government had prepared to defy the King and go to Belgrade without royal assent.

Marshal Tito's Partisans have pocketed a force of Germans in the area of Nova Kasaba, about seventy-five miles south of Belgrade, the Free Yugoslav radio reported today. The broadcast also said German troops were being mopped up around Mostar after a crushing assault by the Partisans.

Big 3 Promise To Speed Freed Captives Home

Plan for Aid to All Soldiers and Civilians Liberated in Conquest of Germany

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—Speedy repatriation of American, British and Russian war prisoners and civilians liberated in the conquest of Germany was pledged by the Big Three meeting in the Crimea, according to a supplement to the final communique on the conference made public today.

The complete text of the announcement follows:

"A comprehensive agreement was reached at the Crimea conference providing detailed arrangements for the protection, maintenance and repatriation of prisoners of war and civilians of the British Commonwealth, Soviet Union and the United States liberated by the Allied forces now invading Germany.

"Under these arrangements each Ally will provide food, clothing, medical attention and other needs for the nationals of the others until transport is available for their repatriation. In caring for British subjects and American citizens, the Soviet government will be assisted by British and American officers. Soviet officers will assist British and American authorities in their task of caring for Soviet citizens liberated by the British and American forces during such time as they are on the continent of Europe or in the United Kingdom, awaiting transport to take them home.

"We are pledged to give every assistance consistent with operational requirements to help to insure that all these prisoners of war and civilians are speedily repatriated."

...REDS IF THEY FIGHT JAPS

Washington, Feb. 12 — (AP) — A pending Lend Lease agreement with Russia contains a provision permitting continued shipment of arms to the Soviets after the European war ends, if Russia intends enter the war against Japan.

...ussian signature on the agree...t is expected soon.

...e clause is similar to those in ...end-Lease agreements defining ...direct power of the resident to ...nue or terminate shipments ...ever he sees fit. But in this case ... being interpreted by officials ...having special significance be...se of the Russo-Japanese situa...on.

Expects Stalin's Reply

President Roosevelt went to the Big Three meeting expecting to have some final word from Marshal Stalin as to his plans for fighting Japan. American officials have predicted privately all along that Stalin will enter the war in Asia. The Japanese seem to be of the same view.

A Tokyo newspaper, in an editorial broadcast by the Tokyo radio and heard by the Federal Communications Commission, warned the enemy people that "we must be fully prepared to cope with any situation that may arise."

The problem with respect to Lend-Lease has been to arrange for a transition period at the end of the European war which would serve the interests of the United States regardless of which course Russia takes. The agreement which is to be signed, probably toward the end of the month, by the U. S., Britain, Russia and Canada, covers several points in this respect.

It provides for Lend-Lease shipment of munitions and essential war materials to continue at full scale through the end of the European war. It provides also for the shipment of a substantial quantity of materials and equipment which will be useful in the war but predominantly useful afterward. The Russians will get these goods on Lend-Lease credit and eventually will have to pay for them.

President to Decide

Under the flexible powers reserved to the President the Lend-Lease munitions shipments can be continued after the end of the European war but officials said that the only excuse for such a continuation obviously would be the Russian intention to fight Japan. On the other hand if the Russians do not plan to go into that war then Lend-Lease munitions can be discontinued by Presidential decree as soon as the last shot is fired in Europe.

The Russian Lend-Lease program, which may run around $3,500,000,000 for the 12 months ending June 30, reflects both Russia's immediate military requirements and her long range postwar reconstruction needs. While the negotiations were in progress the Russians turned in a partial list of their requirements for the immediate postwar years and said that the things they listed together with those they would report later probably would amount to around $6,000,000,000.

The Lend-Lease protocol now awaiting signature has been serving as a basis of Lend-Lease shipments since last July 1 and there has been no interruption in delivery of either British, Canadian or American materials to the Russians because of the lack of formal schedule.

FDR and Churchill Met at Malta To Map Fin[illegible]ctory Over Japan

VALLETTA, Malta, Feb. 12. —(AP) Plans for stepping up the war against Japan as well as finishing off the conflict in Europe were discussed on this war-torn Mediterranean island by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

They said members of their staffs then flew to their Crimea meeting with Premier Stalin.

This information came from a high-ranking U.S. officer and constituted the only mention of Japan in connection with the "Big Three" meetings.

Meeting here with Roosevelt and Churchill were many of the chief figures upon whom the final clean-up of Japan may rest.

The Prime Minister had with him Adm. Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, First Sea Lord; Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, and Field Marshals Sir [illegible]y Maitland Wilson, Sir Alan [illegible]te, and Sir Harold Alexander.

The President's party included Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall; Adm. Ernest King and many others. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz was reported to have been present, but this was not officially confirmed.

The Prime Minister arrived at this Mediterranean island base before Roosevelt and made his headquarters in a warship during his stay. There was a note of sadness connected with his visit, for 15 persons connected with his party were killed when their plane crashed in the Mediterranean. Bodies of the victims which were found were brought ashore and buried on the island and injured members were treated here.

The President landed on a Malta airdrome which swarmed with planes. He received a thundering ovation from the people as he toured the island. He made a special point of stopping beside a bronze plaque on a palace wall which bore an inscription of the citation he gave to the Maltese people during his previous visit to the island on Dec. 8, 1943.

The Chief Executive was surrounded by a secret service bodyguard during his visit.

Churchill made an extensive tour of the dock area of Valletta harbor during which time he moved about freely without any visible bodyguard.

Roosevelt, Churchill Made Night Flight to Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP) President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill made a night flight from the war battered island of Malta in the Mediterranean to their historic conference with Marshal Stalin.

The White House, in disclosing late today some of the details of the "Big Three" meeting not covered in the official communique, also revealed that Edward J. Flynn, New York Democratic leader, was a guest of Mr. Roosevelt at the meeting but took no part in the deliberations. A White House spokesman said that Mr. Roosevelt invited him "as an old friend" when he learned that Flynn had planned a trip to Moscow.

The White House said it did not know why Flynn went to Moscow.

The conference itself was held at Livadia, former summer home of Tsar Nicholas II, located on the Black Sea about two miles southwest of Yalta.

Talks Began Feb. 4

The actual talks began Feb. 4 and ended Feb. 11. They "proceeded continuously day and night" during that period, the White House said.

Mr. Roosevelt and members of his party arrived at Malta, Feb. 2 and were met by Churchill, Secretary of State Stettinius, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, General George C. Marshall, Admiral Ernest J. King, Maj. Gen. Lawrence S. Kuter, assistant chief of air staff, plans, U. S. Army, who represented the ailing General H. H. Arnold, and other military, political and technical advisers.

Mr. Roosevelt conferred immediately with the army chief of staff and chief of naval operations and met later that day with Churchill. After dinner that evening, he and the Prime Minister left by air and flew to a Russian airport in the Crimea. There they were met by Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs. From there the party drove to Livadia.

Others in the presidential party besides Flynn, the White House said, were Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, Mr. Roosevelt's personal [illegible]ef of staff; War Mobilizer [illegible]nes F. Byrnes; Stephen Early, presidential press secretary; Vice Admirals Ross T. MacIntire and Wilson Brown; Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, presidential aide, and Mrs. John Boettiger, Mr. Roosevelt's daughter.

Churchill also was accompanied by one of his daughters, Mrs. Sarah Oliver, and Miss Kathleen Harriman accompanied her father fr[illegible] Moscow.

None of Big 3 at Head Of Table; It Was Round

Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill Sat at Equal Distances

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—The Big Three and their advisers worked out a course for the world at the Yalta Palace in the Crimea around a great round table draped in white.

Army Signl Corps photographers—no news photographers were permitted to attend—showed the three-power delegations in their places, with Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin seated at mathematically exact distances. Each was separated from the other two by several of their staffs, with all of each nation's delegation seated side by side.

The table, round so that there would be no question as to who sat at the head and who at the foot, apparently was about eight or nine feet in diameter. Nothing was on its white cloth except ash trays, pencil and paper at each place, a few documents and a couple of books.

'Crimea Conference' Name of Big 3 Parley

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP).—The latest meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin will be known officially as the Crimea Conference.

The name was suggested by Stalin at a luncheon, following the principals' first meeting, when he offered a toast to the "success of the Crimea conference."

His proposal was approved unanimously.

Big 3 At Playground Of Czars

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Yalta, scene of the second Big Three conference, is in the Russian Riviera—the southern shore of the Crimea—amid an area studded with bathing resorts, sanatoria and rest homes.

Once the playground of the Russian czars and nobility, the many show places and palaces have been converted to pleasure resorts for Russian workers, soldiers and sailors.

Near Balaklava

Yalta is about 35 miles east of Balaklava, locale of the story of the charge of the Light Brigade in the Crimean War of the last century, and 40 miles east of Sevastopol.

It was near Yalta that the Germans cut to the Black Sea in their Crimean invasion, and drew their iron siege ring around Sevastopol naval base.

Numerous Tartar villages, mosques and monasteries are scattered along this southern coast of the peninsula, sometimes called the "jewel of the Soviet Union." Picturesque ruins, ancient Greek and medieval fortresses nestle among the hollows of the mountain sides and in the fruit and olive groves and vineyards.

Roosevelt Goes 6,000 Miles

Premier Stalin had to travel 850 airline miles from Moscow to reach the resort city of 25,000. Prime Minister Churchill, arriving by air, had to cross Europe and the Black Sea. President Roosevelt had to go the farthest of all—nearly 6,000 miles across the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and the Black Sea. He visited Malta en route.

The meeting will be known officially as the "Crimea Conference."

The name was suggested by Stalin at a luncheon following the principals' first meeting when he offered a toast to the "success of the Crimea Conference."

His proposal was unanimously approved.

Yalta, like the remainder of the Crimea, suffered heavily in this war.

It was recaptured from the Germans April 16, 1944. The Russians redoubled their reconstruction efforts before the conference, and a number of large restored houses provided accommodations for the American and British delegates.

MRS. BOETTIGER ATTENDS PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP) President Roosevelt settled a family problem by taking his daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, with him to this Big Three meeting.

The President fixed everything to suit himself, and his daugther got her wish too.

He has wanted her to be with him much of the time during the past two years, but until now he hadn't taken her along to international conferences.

The Chief Executive has grown to depend more and more upon her for confidential secretarial work since she gave up her Seattle home to return to the White House in 1943.

But Ann Roosevelt Boettiger has been showing signs of restlessness these last few months.

When another Big Three meeting between her father, Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Russia's Premier Joseph Stalin seemed in the offing, the President's daughter recalled pointedly that the group at Tehran included Churchill's daughter, Sarah Churchill Oliver.

On the day of her father's fourth inauguration, January 20, Mrs. Boettiger told various friends that she was "just dying to go back west."

She said it blithely, knowing that within a few days she would be heading east with her father. She would have have her wish to attend a Big Three conference. He would have his to tone down her restlessness.

Hopkins Absent In Big 3 Photos

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Harry Hopkins stayed far in the background when photographs were taken at the Big Three conference in the Crimea.

Photos released with the communiqué on the meeting today showed all others of the American delegation, most of them on several occasions.

But none of the first pictures distributed by the Army Signal Corps included Hopkins. Later one was released showing him with Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and Secretary of State Stettinius at Malta.

GERMANS HEAR TEXT OF BIG-3 AGREEMENT

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP) The text of the communique of the Big Three Crimean conference was beamed to German listeners tonight by practically every Allied radio capable of reaching the Reich.

The microphone barrage was directed from London, New York, Moscow, Paris, Luxembourg, Cairo, and Bari, Italy, as well as from various military transmitters in Europe.

SETTINIUS REACHES MOSCOW FOR VISIT

MOSCOW, Feb. 12—(AP) U. S. Secretary of State Stettinius has arrived in Moscow for a short visit.

An official announcement said: "At the invitation of (Foreign Commissar) Molotov, Mr. Stettinius arrived in Moscow this afternoon by plane from the Crimea. He was accompanied by (W. Averell) Harriman, the American ambassador. His visit will be a brief one."

Russians Seize Nazi Stronghold On Bober River

London, Tuesday, Feb. 13 (AP)—Russian troops swept to within 74 miles of the Saxony capital of Dresden yesterday, capturing the Bober River stronghold of Bunzlau in a swift 15-mile drive in Silesia that slashed one Berlin-Prague highway and threatened to outflank Berlin on the south.

Simultaneously, Moscow announced that the end of the long siege of Budapest was very near. Soviet troops captured the royal palace and ancient fortress on the high bluff on the west bank of the Danube in the Buda section, smashing the core of organized enemy resistance and taking 30,000 more prisoners Sunday and Monday.

Under Siege 47 Days

Final figures for prisoners alone are expected to exceed 100,000, and German dead also will run into the thousands. Budapest, gateway to Vienna and Bratislava on the plains to the west, has been under direct siege 47 days since December 27, when the Russians surrounded the city and broke into its streets.

Fresh Russian gains were made in Pomerania and in the Polish corridor during the day. Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov's 4th Ukraine Army drove to within 20 miles east of Moravaska Ostrava, Czechoslovakia city guarding the northern gateway to the Moravian gap leading to Vienna and Prague, with the capture of Strumien. This represented a seven-mile advance southwest of Pszczyna, taken Sunday.

Berlin said other Soviet units were attacking near Ratibor, 16 miles north of Moravska Ostrava.

Drive Near Coal Center

Petrov's troops operating south of Pszczyna also drove to within 13 miles of Cieszyn (Teschen), big Silesian coal center in southwestern Poland, with the capture of Jasienica, and also toppled the key rail junction of Bielsko (Bielitz), 4 miles to the east.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army reached the Bober River on a 15-mile front from Captured Bunzlau northward, cutting the Breslau-Berlin superhighway and trunk railway at many points.

Berlin said his tank spearheads already had crossed the Bober at two points near unzlau and were rolling on toward the Saxony fronties only 28 miles away.

12-Way Road Hub

At Bunzlau, a 12-way road hub on the Breslau-Leipzig railway, the Russians were 90 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovakian capital; 22 miles from the Sudeten border of that country, and 25 miles from the Neisse River stronghold of Goerlitz.

Sixty-two miles behind Bunzlau the German garrison of Breslau, almost encircled Silesian capital, was fighting desperately to keep the Russians from closing a 15-mile escape gap southwest of the city.

Berlin said that the northern prong of Konev's offensive had raced up to the Bober River in the area of Naumburg, 40 miles northwest of Bunzlau, and 76 miles southeast of Berlin, putting it only 27 miles from a junction with Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's Berlin front army menacing Crossen on the central Oder.

Cut Behind Germans

These mobile columns, operating 12 miles north of the rail center of Sagan, were cutting in behind German forces anchored between the Bober and Oder rivers in an 865-square-mile rectangle formed by Crossen, Zuelichau, Sagan and Glogau, thus turning the flank of the enemy's Berlin front southeast of Frankfurt.

The drives of both Petrov and Konev further endangered thousands of German troops fighting in a salient extending far to the southeast into Slovakia.

German broadcasts indicated that the northern flank of Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army had pushed to within 15 miles of Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port at the mouth of the Oder river in Pomerania. They said the Russians had driven along both sides of the Madue See, a nine-mile-long and two-mile-wide lake lying southeast of Stettin.

Break Into Schneidemuehl

The German high command also announced that Russian siege forces had broken into the center of Schneidemuehl, German rail center and fortress city 90 miles east of Stettin near the Polish frontier. Schneidemuehl has been encircled and besieged since February 1.

Fifty miles south of Schneidemuehl the encircled bastion of Poznan was "ablaze from end to end." Berlin said, as Russian shock troops also broke into the heart of that last big Polish city in German hands.

The Germans reported heavy but localized fighting around Frankfurt and Kuestrin on the Berlin front, saying that Zhukov's forces had not yet built up sufficient west bank strength for the final lunge toward the capital.

Tell Of Frankfurt Shelling

Moscow dispatches said that Soviet artillery was pumping shells into Frankfurt day and night and also disrupting German communication lines behind the city.

The Russians also were threatening to encircle Kuestrin, 16 miles to the north, fighting near the railway bridge which crosses the Oder from Berlin to Kuestrin. Steady German counterattacks thus far have kept open this narrow supply corridor.

During the 15-mile advance from Haynau to Bunzlau, the Russians reached the Bober River on a 15-mile front, capturing Kitlitztreben, 9 miles north of Bunzlau, and Ober Leschen, on the Berlin-Breslau railway 8 miles southeast of the crossing town of Sprottau.

100 Miles Inside Silesia

Konev's troops now were 100 miles inside Silesia on the fifth day of a new offensive sprung across the Oder River at Steinau.

Moscow did not confirm the Berlin report of a penetration to the Naumburg area on the lower Bober. The communiqué put the nearest Russian units in that area at Giesmannsdorf, 6 miles northeast of Sprottau and 23 miles southeast of Naumburg.

Rauschwitz, only one and a half miles south of the Oder River stronghold of Golgau, also was captured, along with 100 localities, the Soviet bulletin said.

Moscow dispatches said the Germans were hurling in reinforcements, some of the captives being from Saxony and the Italian front, but the newspaper Pravda said the offensive had been too well-timed and planned to be stopped.

During Saturday and Sunday the Russians captured 3,000 Germans and also seized 100 airplanes and 200 gliders at an airdrome in Silesia, the bulletin said.

In the offensive toward Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port, the Germans still were uncertain of the position of many Soviet spearheads, Moscow said.

Capital Of Saxony Goal Of New Attack By First Ukrainians

Russians Narrow Breslau Escape Gap to 15 Miles—Zhukov Rushes Bridge-Building Units to Oder Front as He Prepares for Offensive on Berlin

DAY BULLETIN FEB 12 1945

Marshal Ivan Konev, virtually encircling Breslau in Silesia and racing ahead 15 to 27 miles a day, has forced two bridgeheads across the Bober River 75 miles or less from Dresden, German broadcasts said today.

London, Feb. 12—(AP)—The Russians, encircling Breslau except for a 15-mile gap, drove on unchecked across Silesia today and the Germans said Marshal Ivan Konev's tanks had broken into Bunzlau only 74 miles from Dresden, capital of the onetime kingdom of Saxony.

The smash took the First Ukrainian Army forward almost to the Bober River and three-fourth the way across Lower Silesia to within 22 miles of the Czechoslovak frontier.

On the Berlin front, Moscow dispatches said some of the most recent units rushed up to the battle over new communications systems were fresh bridge-building outfits—a clear indication that Marshal Gregory Zhukov might be ready almost any time to open the battle of Berlin.

The two kingpins of Berlin's defense along the Oder, Kuestrin and Frankfurt, were beginning to wear away under incessant day and night artillery pounding, Moscow said.

The fire from the Frankfurt forts was diminishing, while Soviet units crowded close to the railway bridge supplying Kuestrin. The Nazis ran a virtual blockade of the stronghold at night with what may be its last supplies.

Deutsch Krone Falls

To the northeast of Berlin, the Russians had captured the strongpoint of Deutsch Krone and overrun 30 other places in Pomerania.

It is safe to say, however, that almost all connections between Danzig and Stettin have been interrupted and that tank units are close to the Oder near Stettin," said Moscow dispatches.

The fall of Deutsch Krone, 63 miles from the Baltic, virtually settled the fate of the encircled German garrison in the railroad town of Schneidemuehl, 12 miles to the southeast.

The Germans said the Russians had broken into the center of Schneidemuehl.

Below Breslau, the German communique reported a strong new strike on the Upper Oder between Bielsko in Polish Silesia and Ratibor in German Silesia toward the Moravian gateway to Vienna and Prague.

Above Breslau, the Russians had captured Liegnitz, a transportation center 40 miles west and slightly north of Breslau.

Reds Gain 15 Miles

The entry into Bunzlau, 65 miles west of Breslau, represented a 15-mile gain from Haynau, whose capture was announced last night by Marshal Stalin.

While this gain was not confirmed by the Russians, a Moscow dispatch said Soviet artillery already had started shelling the defenses along the Bober River. Bunzlau is close to the east bank of the Bober, a southern tributary of the Oder and an outpost line of the strong Neisse River defense line 25 miles farther west.

The Germans said the Russians already had reached the Bober to the north of Bunzlau.

Konev's advance was so rapid he was splitting the Germans into small groups and Russian tanks and cavalry were cutting behind villages and towns and blocking the retreat toward rich and thickly populated Saxony.

Good Silesian roads and fair weather favored Konev's drive but thaws loosening great masses of ice were less favorable to the Russians farther down the Oder.

The Germans were hastily erecting defenses along the Bober and laying dense minefields from Crossen, at the junction of the Bober and Oder, to Bunzlau.

The deepest fortifications were along the Neisse, but these did not appear to be as formidable as those which had been prepared along the Oder, and which already had been broken.

Almost within Russian grasp were the Silesian cities of Schweidnitz, Striegan, Jauer, Goldberg, among the last of the towns before Konev reaches Czechoslovakia in his southwestward drive.

In his westward and northwestward smash for the Steinau bridgehead, the cities of Sprottau, 21 miles north of Bunzlau on the Oder, Sagan, also on the Sober 12 miles northwest of Sprottau, and Glogau were menaced.

Soviet aviation was striking out ahead of the Soviet columns and raiding German troop centers and supply lines.

While the Russians consolidated their Oder River positions for a frontal assault due east of Berlin, the new Soviet gains to the south increased the peril to the German capital by clamping a hold on a 37-mile section of the Berlin-Breslau trunk railway and threatening momentarily to spill across the four-lane superhighway between the two cities.

Reds Have Achieved Vast Gains In Winter Assault

Moscow, Feb. 12—(AP)—The Red Army's month-old offensive has virtually completed the capture of Poland, seized most of East Prussia and driven to within 32 miles of Berlin.

Since January 12 the Soviet advances have been on this amazing scale:

Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian Army has driven from the Vistula to the Oder, a distance of 285 miles.

Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian Army has progressed from the Vistula bridgehead at Sandomierz almost to the Bober, 265 miles.

In Southernmost Poland, Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukrainian Group advanced 125 miles in Slovakia.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army starting from the Narew bridgehead north of Warsaw, drove 125 miles to the Baltic at Elbing, cutting off East Prussia.

Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army, closing in on East Prussia, drove from near the border of Koenigsberg, a distance of about 75 miles.

REPATRIATION PLANS READY

UNRRA To Shift 12,000,000 Foreigners From Germany

FEB 12 1945

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—The first of 2,000 specialized workers—their number may rise to 10,000—are being concentrated on Germany's borders ready to handle the greatest repatriation problem in history, UNRRA officials said today.

The problem is that of returning home some 12,000,000 European nationals taken into Germany.

Allied military authorities, anticipating early occupation of some German areas or even a sudden Nazi collapse, deputized the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to carry out the repatriation, it was explained.

2 To 3 Years For Repatriation

The first contingents of 2,000 workers now are in France on "stand-by" orders, and 8,000 more eventually may be needed, one UNRRA official said.

So great is the task, he added, that one train every hour would be needed to move all the displaced persons within 18 months. That is impossible, and it may require two or three years to complete the repatriation.

Assembly areas will be established at certain points in occupied Germany, and displaced persons will be brought to them for identification and questioning.

Will Have To Watch Germans

"This is going to be one of the biggest problems of the whole repatriation program," the UNRRA official continued. "Undoubtedly many Germans will try to escape the country as foreigners, using identification papers stolen or taken from the bodies of dead Allied nationals."

If the displaced millions started rushing home as soon as Germany is occupied, he added, "there likely would be chaos and disorder. They would be without food, and there soon might be organized bandit gangs roaming the countryside."

Doctors and nurses at assembly points will examine all persons to prevent spread of diseases.

To Move Into Occupied Areas

Plans are formed, the official said, to move UNRRA workers into forward German areas as soon as military conditions permit. These workers will wear uniforms and be under military control.

As far as feasible, most of the workers will be continentals familiar with conditions inside Europe.

After the repatriation program swings into action, many of the workers required by the UNRRA will be recruited from among the displaced persons themselves.

Feeding and clothing the repatriates will be a military responsibility, but the UNRRA will have to look out for their welfare and make arrangements to move them out of Germany. The UNRRA, while working jointly now with the military, eventually will have the whole task of handling these persons, the official said.

Lack of transport and communications will be a main hindrance to speedy repatriation, he added.

AIRMEN BLOCK NAZI MOVE TO BOLSTER LINES

British, Yanks Brave Bad Weather to Raid Kleve Area

FEB 12 1945

London, Feb. 12—(AP)—A German effort to move men and materiel to bolster Nazi lines sagging under Field Marshal Montgomery's offensive near Kleve was wrecked yesterday by British and American planes braving hazardous flying weather. Aerial attacks destroyed more than 1,300 pieces of enemy equipment.

The Germans trusted to a low cloud cover to aid them in a mass sneak movement but Allied fighters and fighter-bombers operated under or through infrequent breaks in the overcast and broke up the reinforcement attempt.

201 Locomotives Blasted

Most of the action was in a triangle north and east of the Ruhr.

Before the weather closed in entirely late yesterday afternoon, the airmen had destroyed or damaged 201 railway locomotives, 951 freight cars, 139 motor vehicles and 45 barges. More than half of the locomotives were listed as definitely destroyed.

Many of the enemy trains loaded with frontline supplies were hit while standing on sidings waiting to move under cover of darkness.

Only one Nazi plane—a jet propelled ME-262—was encountered in the sweeps and it was shot down by Squadron Leader D. C. Fairbanks, of Ithaca, N. Y., R. A. F. Tempest pilot.

Other air operations were limited by the weather to an attack on an oil depot at Dulmen, southwest of Munster, Germany, by 125 U. S. Liberators.

ganization in which the American Federation of Labor as well as the CIO would be represented.

The chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee said members of the existing International Federation of Trade Unions were unable to agree among themselves and charged the AFL, an IFTU affiliate, with "nursing narrow factional feuds, petty jealousies and anti-Soviet bias."

He spoke at a session of the World Trade Union Congress in which unions from 40 countries are represented. The AFL, which has contended that the WTUC is dominated by Moscow, is not participating.

Plans Outlined

Proposing that the WTUC should create the new world labor organization, Hillman said the current conference should designate a committee to implement its decisions and declarations, call a constitutional convention and prepare and circulate drafts of a constitution among organizations invited to attend the constitutional convention.

"I am certain," he said, "that the new international organization of labor will reserve a place in its councils for the American Federation of Labor."

Debate on Hillman's proposal will be taken up tomorrow.

Notes Labor's Absence

Hillman said that because labor lacked a "powerful international organ" it was not represented at Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods or at the international food and airplane conferences.

In support of his suggestion for immediate action Hillman said the IFTU had delayed action on a similar proposal by its own committee until next September.

A committee, representing some sixteen larger nations and labor organizations, was named to draft resolutions on peace proposals to be submitted to the WTUC. J. B. Carey, of the CIO, was one of the members.

Urges Another In 6 Months

James E. McGuire, of Ottawa, suggested that another international labor conference be held within six months to help prepare peace terms, have labor representatives at the peace conference and see that labor was represented in administrative bodies charged with carrying out the peace.

LONDON, Feb. 12—The Chinese delegation to the World Trade Union conference demanded today that the Emperor of Japan be brought to trial as a war criminal, charging that "he is the real leader of Japanese aggression."

Charging that the Mikado was the head of the Japanese military caste, C. H. Fan, spokesman for the Chinese, added:

"The whole system of Mikado must be routed out."

It was the first time the question of dealing with Japan has been raised at the convention, where Russia is represented by the largest delegation.

REICH WOMEN CONSCRIPTED

Called For Volkssturm Service By Himmler

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Nazis conscripted all German women and girls for the Volkssturm today, and vaguely promised that Hitler might have some plan "to get us out of this situation if we throw in all our national passion and do not despair."

Women were summoned for auxiliary work with the "16 to 60" Volkssturm by a decree from Heinrich Himmler. For the present their duties will be supervising the issuing of supplies and equipment to the home guard, Berlin radio said, but the decree empowered local Gualeiters to assign them to other work and said "further assignments" might be made.

Hitler Keeps Silence

The new call-up of women was accompanied by further belt-tightening on the home front, by propagandists' cries to "hold on," and by Moscow reports of further unrest inside the Reich.

The German news agency DNB declared that Hitler's "silence during these days is very significant," and added: "The hour demands action, not talking. The day will come when we shall be most happy about our steadfastness and celebrate a great triumph.

"But until that day and beyond that day we must throw all our national passion into the scales of fighting and into our work. For what good would the most ingenious plan of the Führer be unless the people were behind him resolutely to carry it out?"

Recalls Moscow Defense

"Remember," said Dr. Rudolf Semmler, "our troops once were 8 kilometers from Moscow and could see the Kremlin . . . The defense by the Russians of Moscow, Leningrad and Stalingrad is a measure of the efforts we have to make in order not to be put to shame by the endurance of the enemy whose main strength was his fanatical will to live. The British took strength from the same source in 1940."

Semmler declared the Germans still had "quantities of raw materials hoarded in safe places inside the Reich."

Moscow broadcasts reported new clashes and unrest inside Berlin and other cities, and said "anti-Hitler people's councils" and "workers' councils" were being formed in cities, with their underground radios calling on workers and civil servants to strike.

Called Too Tired To Revolt

Repatriated Swiss refugees said the German people were too tired and numb to organize a revolutionary movement, but that there was great fear of a foreign workers' revolt.

Swedish travelers reaching Stockholm described Berlin's atmosphere as tense and expectant, and said the capital was being converted more and more into a fortress.

In the heart of the city, bombed heavily nine days ago, fires still burned in the ruins, and there was no gas or running water in that area, they said. A heavy toll of life in that raid was reported by refugees reaching Switzerland.

In another ration cut, the German radio announced that one bar of soap and one package of ersatz laundry crystals must last from February 5 until April 1.

Conscription Ordered For All Reich Women

London, Feb. 12—(AP)—Every woman and girl in Germany was made liable for auxiliary service with the Volkssturm (peoples army) under a decree broadcast by DNB, thus bringing the entire German nation within the grip of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, commander of the home army.

The German had jibed at conscription of w[illegible] Britain [illegible] prided thems[illegible] "volunteer[illegible]

Party."

The Berlin radio also announced the innovation of "marriage by telegraph," reporting that this was designed "particularly to help men of the Atlantic strongpoints who have no other means of communications."

Under this plan, Nazi soldiers trapped in Atlantic ports can be married in absentia by merely signing a declaration of intentions in the presence of their commanding officer.

Rosenman Is in London With 6 Other Officials

Release of Relief Supplies May Be Under Discussion

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP).—Justice Samuel Rosenman, President Roosevelt's special assistant, arrived in London today accompanied by representatives of the State, War and Treasury Departments and the Foreign Economic Administration.

Roseman may be here in connection with American-British arrangements to release to European countries huge stores of foodstuffs and clothing held in Britain for use in case the Germans disrupted supply lines.

He was accompanied by Rupert Emerson and Daggett Howard, of the Foreign Economic Administration; William Taylor, of the Treasury Department; Lieutenant Colonel James Davis of the Civil Affairs Department of the War Department; Livingston Merchant, chief of the War Areas Division of the War Department, and Dudley Phelps, assistant chief of the Division of Financial and Monetary Affairs of the State Department.

4 English Presbyterian Leaders V-Bomb Victims

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Four officials of the Presbyterian Church in England were killed by a V-bomb which crashed in front of a church hall recently.

They were the Rev. W. T. Emslie, general secretary; W. H. Wright, financial secretary; the Rev. T. W. Douglas James, foreign missions secretary, and W. T. Stubbs, assistant general secretary.

An investigation is in progress to determine if there were other deaths. A conference of Presbyterian ministers and laymen from all parts of England was in progress.

The church moderator, the Rt. Rev. A. P. Harcus, escaped because he reached the hall a few minutes late. Just as he approached a good part of the building was blown to fragments.

Invalid Sends Dolls To Air-Raid Victims

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—A gift of 36 dolls from an invalid American woman has been distributed at her request to British children injured in air raids.

The dolls were given by Miss Margaret Gleason, of Berkeley, Cal., who described herself as a shut-in invalid. She made all the dolls' clothing.

The Ministry of Health said it had selected 36 children between the ages of 2 and 14, all of whom had been blinded, injured or crippled. In six cases the parents of the children lost their lives and in four others the mothers were killed.

Government Crisis In Romania Hinted

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Premier General Nicolae Radescu, in a surprise broadcast from Bucharest which indicated a Romanian Government crisis, declared today that a "certain press has violently attacked the Government" and that mass demonstrations were interfering with his attempts to maintain order.

Radescu formed a government last December after Moscow had accused the previous régime of failing to act against Fascists in the country.

Although Radescu did not identify groups agitating against his régime, he declared "insinuations against men in high positions, accusing them of being Nazis or Hitlerites and of sabotaging the armistice convention," were without basis.

Pope Denies Backing "Soft" Peace For Nazis

London, Feb. 12(AP)—The Vatican radio, quoting the Vatican City newspaper, Osservatore Romano, denied today recent Russian assertions that Pope Pius XII favored a "soft" peace and said allegations of friendliness between the Axis and the Vatican were "pure inventions."

Commenting on an article in the Red Army newspaper, Red Star, by Soviet writer Carl Gofman, the Vatican City publication said he made it clear that the Soviet Union would not tolerate any influence of Vatican policy regarding Germany, Austria, Hungary and Poland.

Atlantic Air Mastery Seen

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Giving credit to bush pilots, barnstormers and skywriters as pioneers of the RAF Transport Command's ocean ferry, the Air Ministry today told how the Atlantic had been mastered in flying land-based planes nonstop across the ocean—boosting the number brought over from 26 in 1940 to 1,336 in 1943.

In giving some details of operations that hitherto had been secret, the ministry released an official account of what it called a wartime miracle in a booklet entitled "Atlantic Bridge." It proclaimed that "the Atlantic air has been mastered; its history is only just beginning."

Americans Given Credit

Americans played an important role in the inauguration of this ferry service that began November 11, 1940, when seven two-engined Hudsons landed at a British airfield after flying direct from Newfoundland. The "bridge" now has two spans, across the North Atlantic and across the South Atlantic, using airfields blasted from the volcanic rock, hewn from the jungle and leveled from sand dunes.

Tribute is paid especially to Jack Durham, described as a "weedy-looking Texan who always wore a ten-gallon hat and high-heeled boots" and flew planes from Nassau in the Bahamas to Africa "like shelling peas."

"Magnificent Career" Ended

"In four months," wrote an RAF staff officer, "he delivered eleven aircraft, and on the twelfth trip he lost both motors in mid-Atlantic and there ended the magnificent career of the best delivery pilot I have ever had the pleasure of meeting."

Terminating at the great RAF base at Prestwick, Scotland, now are air routes from Reykjavik in Iceland, Goose in Labrador, Gander in Newfoundland, Dorval near Montreal, Bermuda, Natal in Brazil and Cairo, among other places ranging from the equator to the Arctic circle.

Besides delivering new flying boats and four-engined and twin-engined bombers, the transport command also ferries freight, passengers and official mail. Among its stranger cargoes was $30,000 worth of radium, which put the plane's compass out by 14 degrees.

New World Labor Union Urged

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Sidney Hillman, declaring that peace settlements are being made which demand labor's participation, proposed today the immediate establishment of a new world labor or-

TWIN DRIVES TAKE NAZI FORTRESSES 115 MILES APART

FEB 12 1945

Canadian First Army Drives Ahead Toward Ruhr Industrial Basin.

U. S. THIRD TAKES PRUEM

Patton's Men Now Control Highway Hub Near Breached Siegfried Line.

PARIS, Feb. 12—(AP) Kleve and Pruem—fortresses of western Germany's front line of defense—fell today before the onslaught of two Allied armies striking 115 miles apart in the forefront of an expected big push from the west.

The Canadian First army engulfed devastated Kleve, northern anchor linking the Westwall with the Rhine, then pressed on two miles southeast within 22 miles of Wesel, in the northwest corner of the Ruhr industrial basin, last great source of German war power.

This city of 20,000 was the first major prize taken in the Canadian-British five-day old offensive. Its capture threatened to turn the Allies loose around the north flank for a slashing drive behind enemy forces defending the Rhine plain.

Pruem Captured

Pruem, a stronghold in the Eifel mountains 115 miles south of Kleve, was captured with surprisingly ease by the U. S. Third army, which thereby seized control of the entire highway network east of its 10-mile breach in the Siegfried Line.

Only a few isolated snipers along the Pruem river still contested American control of this highway hub with a peacetime population of 10,000. Heavy fire east of the river showed that the enemy meant to contest any attempt to plunge deeper into the mountains toward the Rhine.

Both Kleve and Pruem stood firm when the Allies were rampaging through western Europe last Fall. British and American forces got no closer to Kleve than the edge of the Reichswald—now largely overrun—and the U. S. First army was stopped west of Pruem.

The hard-hitting Third army also was challenging the enemy hold on the Westwall southwest of Pruem along the German-Luxembourg border. It threw pontoon bridges across the Our and Sure rivers at several points and sent tanks and tank destroyers across in a mounting drive.

The path ahead of the Americans was mountainous, and the Germans showed more alarm at the Canadian drive on the Rhine plain. A front dispatch said the enemy had brought up armored units to bolster their sagging lines southeast of Kleve and that four Panther tanks were knocked out.

Germans Alarmed

One enemy broadcast admitted Field Marshal Montgomery was breaking through the Kleve defenses and another expressed fear that General Eisenhower was massing tanks for a Rhine breakthrough.

Other German accounts said a large-scale offensive was impending farther south in the Aachen area, where the British Second and U. S. Ninth armies are deployed on the flooded Roer 14 miles from the Ruhr city of Muenchen-Gladbach.

The powerful U. S. First Army on the upper Roer likewise was idle as rains poured down on that front, adding to the flood of the river.

The crest of the flood caused by enemy dynamiting of the Roer dam floodgates had been reached without too much damage to Allied positions, and Schwammenauel reservoir's water level had dropped 46 feet.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian First army, without waiting for final mop-up of holdouts in Kleve, swung on southeast and captured Hau, two miles below the city.

Railway Cut

By nightfall they had cut the railway leading to Goch, a second important communications center seven miles south of Kleve, and were possibly less than three miles from Goch.

A front dispatch said the southern half of the Reich forest, which ends two and a half miles north of Goch, had been virtually cleared and that the enemy had fallen back to the east.

One column was closing on Goch from the north and another from the northwest.

Behind the vanguards, mop-up squads ranged through the devastation of Kleve, rooting snipers from cellars and garrets.

Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt's newly-formed line on the south likewise appeared to be buckling.

British and Canadian troops captured the Maas river town of Gennep, nine miles southwest of Kleve, and to the east broke across the Niers river and reached Kessel within four miles of Goch.

The Germans had massed mortars and artillery along the Niers and all day yesterday batted down British attempts to bridge the stream.

The Dutch border town of Gennep was captured and the Niers River to the east was crossed. Vanguards passed a road through the shell splintered Reichswald a mile north of Kessel, which lies four miles northwest of the West Wall road center of Goch. The prisoner bag rose to 4,000, most of them teen-age youths or infirm men.

Fighting in the Rhine elbow between the medieval fortress ruins of Kleve and the river was described as almost an amphibious operation because of the extensive thaw and flooding of the German and Dutch flatlands. A vast array of amphibious equipment including buffaloes and ducks kept the offensive on the move within 22 miles of Wesel, northern gateway into the prized Ruhr industrial valley.

Maas Defenses Breached

(The Germans said "the enemy is breaking through our Maas River defenses" near Kleve and that preparations were proceeding for "an impending large scale offensive in the Aachen-Venlo area.")

Supreme Headquarters said the flood peak on the Roer apparently had been reached and that water could be expected to subside during the next few days to something approaching normal. Most flooding was downstream from Dueren where the ground is flat. Upstream from Dueren, the river is rushing madly and deep, barely contained within its banks.

The U. S. Fifth Army which reached the great dam mopped up the West and North sides of the Roer to Heimbach, 13 miles deep in Germany.

The Germans apparently were giving up Preum which was under Third Army frontal and flanking pressure from the northeast and southwest. Resistance was scattered. The town controls a network of roads over which Field Marshal Von Rundstedt fed his offensive in the Ardennes Bulge.

Across new Sure River invasion bridgeheads, the Third Army extended its hold north of Echternach to an area two miles deep and five wide.

The U. S. Seventh Army in Alsace virtually cleared Oberhoffen, eastern anchor of the German Moder River line and were striving to push the Wehrmacht back from Drusenheim, between the Haguenau Forest and the Rhine. The French Army farther south was credited with destroying 75 per cent of the German 19th Army in cleaning up the Colmar salient.

Showers Hamper Fliers

Scattered showers along the whole front handicapped air support and kept the ground sodden.

The Germans threw their Seventh Parachute Division into the Kleve battle in the north but still lacked strength to stop Crerar's drive which threatened to turn the whole German flank west of the Rhine.

Scottish troops as well as English and Canadians were taking part in the onslaught, directed by the cautious Field Marshal Montgomery. The kilted laddies took Gennep.

In general, the pace of the attack was slower. Nazi artillery was more active. German self propelled guns; the "hunting panthers," and snipers made going difficult in the Reichswald.

A British officer said hardly a habitable house was left in Kleve, birthplace of Anne of Cleves, ugly-duckling wife of Henry VIII. Bombings had cut off supplies and reinforcements to the enemy for two days. The officer quoted prisoners as saying their air force was grounded because of oil depot bombings, especially at Emmerich on the Rhine, seven miles beyond Kleve.

The German parachute troops, shifted from Alsace, fought with violent fanaticism to stem the Canadian Army thrust toward the Rhine in strength.

Yanks Enter Pruem, Clear Half Of Town; Roer Front Flooded

FEB 12 1945

U. S. Ninth, British Second Immobilized Along River, Swollen When Nazi Open Big Dam — Third Extends Hold on Echternach Area

Paris, Feb. 12—(AP)—Canadian First Army troops pushed beyond the devastated Siegfried Line anchor city of Kleve today, leaving groups behind to mop up the last nests of snipers in basements and garrets of the ruins.

In the center of the front, the U. S. Fourth Division cleared half of the major road junction of Pruem behind the widely breached Siegfried Line. This fortified traffic center is eight miles inside Germany and 45 from the Rhine city of Koblenz, American occupation headquarters after the last war.

Between the focal points of battle, floods loosed by the German breaching of the Schwammenauel Dam flood gates immobilized the U. S. Ninth and British Second Army lined up along the Roer which was a rampaging river two miles wide at one point. Water sank 46 feet from the top of the dam and deflated the five mile long reservoir flooding the Roer Valley.

The British and Canadian troops of Gen. Henry Crerar's command won control of three fourths of the Reichswald thickets of fir trees and crossed in force the Spoy Canal linking Kleve to the Rhine, four miles north.

Officer Denies Theft Of Supplies In France

Paris, Feb. 12 (AP)—Lieut. Norris E. Loop, of Pratt, Kan., denied before a general court-martial today that he ever participated in, or even knew about, any thefts from army supply trains en route to the battle-front.

Loop, the third American officer accused in railway battalion cases involving diversion of Government supplies into the black market, went on trial today and flatly denied testimony of several enlisted men who claimed he had shared the contents of a looted box of post exchange rations.

The defendant told the court he never had seen any soldiers looting trains and was positive there had been no thieving of supplies by men in his battalion.

Loop, 47, is charged specifically with wrongfully receiving and converting to his own use one box of rations containing 20 cartons of cigarettes, plus chocolate bars and other items. The general charge against defendants in the series of black-market cases is conspiracy to defraud the United States by wrongful disposition of Government property and neglect of duty.

Truck Held Up Near Paris, Thieves Get $440,000

Paris, Feb. 12 (AP)—Twelve men held up a truck on the outskirts of Paris yesterday and fled with $440,000, receipts from the Enghien race Course. Ten of the men were masked and two were in the uniform of American MP's.

Giraud Greets De Gaulle On Alsace-Lorraine Trip

Demonstrates Reconciliation With Ex-Political Rival

METZ, Feb. 12 (AP)—General Charles de Gaulle demonstrated complete reconciliation with General Henri Giraud over the week end by parading side by side here with his erstwhile political rival during a two-day trip through reconquered Alsace-Lorraine.

Giraud, pre-war military governor of Metz, made the trip from his home in Dijon to welcome De Gaulle.

Apparently alluding to his absence from the "Big Three" conference, De Gaulle said at a reception that it "was a queer peace that is being prepared for us," but that it would be peace, obviously preferable to war.

De Gaulle and Giraud sat opposite each other and chatted amiably.

Allies Ask Swiss Aid

FEB 13 1945

Bern, Feb. 12 (AP)—Lauchlin Currie, head of the United States delegation of an Allied economic mission, asked Switzerland today for every aid "consistent with her neutrality," but made it clear that the United Nations had high hopes that the Swiss would help in a search "for enemy and looted property concealed outside Germany."

The statement touched upon the most delicate subject of the deliberations in progress between American, British and French delegates and the Swiss Government, because the secrecy of banking transactions is well guarded by Swiss law.

Bretton Woods Resolution

Currie told a press conference to which British and American correspondents were summoned along with Swiss reporters for the first time during the war, that the search for hidden Axis property was in line with the Bretton Woods resolution covering everything from monetary deposits and stock holdings to art treasures.

The Allied mission seeks also to halt the traffic of coal, iron and other materials from Germany to Italy through Switzerland and will ask that Switzerland halt exports of machine tools and other supplies to the Reich.

French Seek Supplies

In addition, the French, supported by the Americans and British, seek to arrange shipment of Swiss supplies to France.

In turn, Switzerland's food, fodder and raw-material requirements which the Allies may be able to fill, as well as her transportation needs, will be considered.

The Swiss, who previously had halted exports of armaments and ammunition to Germany, obviously have done everything possible to welcome the Allied mission and create an atmosphere of cordiality.

A German trade delegation is staying at the same hotel as Currie, but its members have been pretty much ignored for the last two days.

Germans Are Too Numb To Revolt, Refugees Say

Kreuzlingen, Switzerland, Feb. 12 (AP) — Swiss refugees repatriated from Germany said today that the German people were too tired and numb to organize a revolutionary movement, but there was fear in the Reich of a revolt of foreign workers.

A group of 140 returned from Berlin, Elbing and Koenigsberg. They said that until the latest bombings food services still were functioning in Berlin, but that the heavy air attacks took a heavy toll of civilians in the center of the city, many of whom were unable to enter shelters jammed with military personnel. German authorities are preparing to defend Berlin, but thus far civilians have not been evacuated, they reported.

92D DIVISION YIELDS GAINS

Negro Troops In Ligurian Area Repulsed With Heavy Loss

With the U.S. 5th Army, Italy, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 92d Negro Division has given up all the gains it made in an assault in the Liguarian coastal sector last Thursday and retreated roughly to its original positions after suffering severe losses in men and tanks.

Stiffening his defenses after being caught by surprise in a dawn drive Thursday, the enemy counterattacked with concentrated mortar and artillery aid.

After four days, the Germans forced regiments of the 92nd Division to yield the gains of as much as a mile they had chalked up on a five-mile-wide front.

Fall Back Across River

They fell back to the south shore of Fiume la Foce, a small stream south of Massa in the west coastal area, which the infantry, riding on tanks, had crossed and left thousands of yards behind when they jumped off Thursday.

Farther inland, the American forces withdrew to a general line 1,000 yards south of Strettoia, a road town a mile and a half east of the coastal highway in the area which the original attack had penetrated.

"Casualties and tank losses were relatively high," an official description of the action said today, "and no net gains in terrain were made."

End Of Division's First Attack

The withdrawal marked the end of the 92d's first full attack as a division since it entered the war several months ago. The assault had "kicked off" at 6 A.M. Thursday along the lone of the Fiume LaFoce some 3½ miles south of the enemy stronghold of Massa to Strettoia and Monte Canale, a tremendous peak dominating the entire coastal terrain.

Backed up by 5,000 rounds of artillery fire and fighter-bomber slashes at German observation posts, the attack rolled forward against only moderate resistance.

Tanks carrying infantry crossed a sandbar 1,000 yards offshore and by 9 A.M. Lieut. Wejar Bundara, of Baltimore, Lieut. Melvin W. Walker, of Covington, Ky., and Capt. Harold E. Johnson, of Roxbury, Mass., had forced 800 yards north of the waterway. The armor ran into a dense mine field, however, and several tanks were knocked out.

Halted By Mortar Fire

At the same time, other regiments pushed close to Monte Canale and Strettoia. On Friday the American ran into anti-personnel mine fields and mortar fire at Strettoia, and the Canale area suffered considerable casualties from several small counterattacks.

In the coastal sector, the infantry and armored task force made small gains but lost additional tanks from artillery fire.

Saturday the enemy stepped up the counterattacks, and by Saturday night the American withdrawal had begun.

NEW NAZI ATTACK DRIVES 5TH BACK

ROME, Feb. 12. — (AP) Sharp German counterattacks and the concentrated blasting of enemy artillery have driven American Fifth Army troops back from positions threatening Massa near the west coast of Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

Both the scale and the purpose of last week's thrust in that sector by Negro doughboys of the 92nd Division continued to be obscure. The attacking troops, who pushed within two and a half miles of Massa before meeting Nazi counterattacks, now are dug in about a half-mile south of Strettoia, a village three miles southeast of Massa.

Due south of Massa other Negro troops repelled several Nazi counterattacks about a mile north of a little stream, Fiume La Foce, and then withdrew to its south bank under heavy enemy fire.

Patrols and raiding parties in the mountains south of Bologna were hampered by intermittent rain and snow, while rain and sleet also fell in the Eighth Army sector along the east side of the Senio river in the Po Valley.

The Nazi continued their destruction of the high retaining banks of the Senio, which normally contain spring flood waters. This will create a wide water barrier when melting mountain snows send the Senio to the flood stage, probably next month.

It was announced that approximately 1,500 tons of supplies, 95 per cent of which was food supplied by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, had been sent to Yugoslavia so far this month.

Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's envoy to the Vatican, announced 6,000,000 pounds of clothing food, and medical supplies had been distributed in Italy's worst-devastated provinces, sent by American Relief for Italy, and that another 3,000,000 pounds were enroute.

Americans Make Slight Withdrawal In West Italy

Rome, Feb. 12 — (AP) — American Fifth Army troops who drove to within two and one half miles of Massa in the Italian west coast area have withdrawn slightly in the face of repeated enemy counter-attacks and heavy German artillery and mortar fire, Allied Headquarters announced today.

The Americans consolidated their positions about a half-mile south of Strettoia, which is three miles southeast of Massa, headquarters said.

Due south of Massa, Negro troops of the Ninety-Second Division repelled several counter-attacks about a mile north of the little stream, Fiume la Foce, and then withdrew to its south banks under heavy enemy fire.

Further inland, the Germans were reported making a determined effort to regain control of the Lama di Sotto ridge on the east side of the Serichio Valley.

From the Eighth Army front came reports that the Germans continued to dynamite Senio River flood banks so that a wide area adjoining the river will become inundated when the Spring floods start.

Action on this front was still limited to patrol clashes and artillery dueling.

YUGOSLAVS RECEIVE FOOD

1,500 Tons of Supplies, Most of It Sent by UNRRA, Dispatched

ROME, Feb. 12 (AP)—Approximately 1,500 tons of supplies, 95 per cent of which was food supplied by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, have been sent to Yugoslavia so far this month, it was announced today.

The first advance party of UNRRA personnel under Alan Hall, acting chief in Yugoslavia, has reached its destination to begin cooperating with local authorities in the distribution.

"Many people are dying of starvation, and thousands are without shelter and adequate clothing," Mr. Hall reported. "Preliminary reports show that the majority of children in hospitals are suffering wounds inflicted by booby traps and mines."

New York General Promoted

ROME, Feb. 12 (AP)—Maj. Gen. James Millikin Bevans of Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., has been named deputy for administration of the United States Air Forces in the Mediterranean. A regular Army officer nearly 44 years, General Bevans came to Italy from Washington and succeeds Maj. Gen. Idwal H. Edwards, who returned to the United States.

ITALIAN NAVY AIDED ALLIES AGAINST AXIS

ROME, Feb. 12 — (AP) The Italian Navy carried out nearly 4,000 missions in the Atlantic and the Mediterranean from September, 1943, when the fleet went over to the Allies, to the end of 1944, Navy Undersecretary Carlo Bassano said today in a Rome newspaper interview.

He said torpedo boats escorted more than 6,500 ships totalling about 70,000,000 tons.

PACT GIVES ELAS 2 WEEKS TO DISARM

Leftists to Oversee Collection —Plebiscite on King, Vote on Greek Regime Reported Set

BOTH SIDES PRAISE ACCORD

Eam Leader Explains Excesses as Due to Collaborators, Promises Investigation

ATHENS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Elas forces have agreed to stack their arms within fourteen days, it was announced today, under terms of the pact reached by the Left Wing Eam [National Liberation Front] and the Government of Premier Nicholas Plastiras.

Under the peace agreement, signed early today after weeks of negotiation, the arms of the Elas, fighting force of the Eam, will be turned over to Elas guards in thirty-seven localities within Elas territory. The Elas will remain custodian of the arms for the Greek Government.

The agreement stipulates the minimum of arms to be accounted for, including at least 41,500 rifles, 1,000 light machine guns, 163 mortars, sub-machine guns, heavy machine guns, thirty-two pieces of assorted artillery and fifteen radios.

A National Guard call-up by age groups will go into effect in each area as that body takes over for the Government. This appeared to indicate that Elas members in appropriate age groups would be mustered as national guards.

An official announcement said "agreement was reached on all points under discussion without exception."

The EAM, in a separate statement to the press, disclosed it had made no demand to be permitted to participate in the Greek Government, though adding that it would "continue to exist."

[The British radio said that its Athens correspondent had reported that the agreement provided for a plebiscite on the monarchy and a general election this year. The broadcast was recorded by the Office of War Information.

[A British broadcast from Athens, heard by the Columbia Broadcasting System, quoted Harold Macmillan, British Resident Minister in the Mediterranean, as having said that he considered the agreement "a fair and honorable settlement," whose results would be fruitful for Greece.]

ANNOUNCEMENT OF PACT

The communiqué on the agreement:

The conference between representatives of the Greek Government and the Eam delegation which was convened on the initiative of his beatitude, Archbishop Damaskinos, Regent, has been brought to a conclusion.

At 4:30 A. M., Feb. 12, agreement was reached on all points under discussion without exception.

As it was late, it was not possible for a detailed statement to be signed and representatives of either side were satisfied with the signing of a brief protocol.

In a subsequent statement to the press, its first since the civil war began, the Eam said through its secretary general, Dimitrius Partsalides, that the agreement would "contribute to the pacification of the country because it will enable the economic rehabilitation necessary to Greece in its present plight.

"The Eam will continue to exist after the agreement," he added, "with the view of securing the people's rights."

Mr. Partsalides said that the Eam had asked for a general amnesty "because the differentiation between various types of crimes (political and criminal) are difficult and dangers may arise." He added that the Eam agreed that there had been cases where Eam supporters took the law into their hands, but declared that "such things are inevitable when collaborators are circulating freely."

Concerning the executions of certain prominent persons not identified with collaboration, Mr. Partsalides asserted that "nobody can justify these crimes, but as soon as we can get back we shall investigate the matter, as we feel sure they were committed by anarchists and reactionaries."

Questioned about the presence of Germans and Bulgarians in the Eam-Elas ranks, he said, "if there have been a few, we cannot be blamed, because they served on ideological grounds."

EAM And Greek Regime Reach Complete Accord

Left-Wing Leaders and Plastiras Government Conclude Agreement "on All Points Under Discussion" After 10-Hour Debate

Athens, Feb. 12—(AP)—Negotiations between Left-Wing EAM (National Liberation Front) leaders and the government of Premier Gen. Nicholas Plastiras were successfully concluded today with the signing of an agreement expected to bring peace to this troubled land.

A brief announcement said that the conferees, who have been trying to reconcile their differences for several weeks, finally reached agreement "on all points under discussion" at 4:30 A. M.

A 10-hour session preceded the final signing of the accord, which was limited to a brief protocol because of the hour, the announcement said.

The protocol specified that a detailed statement embodying all points of the agreement would be signed at 2 P. M. (9 A. M. E. W. T.)

It was presumed that a fuller announcement would be issued later concerning the terms of the agreement.

(A Reuters dispatch said the terms included surrender of arms by the Elas—armed militia of the Eam—to Greek troops under British supervision. The dispatch said martial law would be terminated, but that certain restrictions on the right of assembly and the freedom of the press would be retained).

The communique announcing the agreement said:

"The conference between representatives of the Greek Government and the EAM delegation which was convened on the initiative of His Beatitude Archbishop Damaskinos, regent, has been brought to a conclusion.

"At 4:30 A. M., February 12, agreement was reached on all points under discussion without exception.

"As it was late it was not possible for a detailed statement to be signed and representatives of either side were satisfied with the signing of a brief protocol."

Present at the signing were Harold MacMillian, British resident minister in the Mediterranean, and Reginald Leeper, British ambassador to Greece.

A truce has been in effect between ELAS and British-supported Greek Government forces since January 15.

It was understood that the agreement provided for a plebiscite and elections to be held this year, distinguished between political and common crimes and specified amnesty for ELAS members accused of political crimes.

The question of EAM participation in the present government was reported to have been discussed, but it was not expected to be the subject of a statement.

New Nazi Infiltration Ruse—Wearing Blackface

With the U.S. 5th Army in Italy, Feb. 12 (AP)—The latest Nazi stunt on the 5th Army front is a "minstrel show" infiltration.

A few days ago outposts of the 92d Negro Division killed a four-man enemy patrol trying to work into their positions. Each enemy was clad in full American uniform, armed with a GI carbine. That has happened before—but this time something new had been added:

All four were wearing blackface.

Japs Beaten Back East Of Namyung

Chungking, Feb. 12 (AP)—Chinese troops have repulsed a Japanese attack 11 miles east of the fallen Kwangtung province airbase city of Namyung, the Chinese high command announced tonight. Namyung is east of the Canton-Hankow railroad.

The Chinese reported scattered fighting in Hunan province. A Chinese column inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy [illegible] of a mountain across the Siang River from Changsha, the high command said.

Japanese troops driving from the southern shore of Tung Ting lake toward Yiyang, 55 miles northwest of Changsha, were repulsed. The Chinese raided Japanese positions east of Paoching, an enemy stronghold 63 miles west of Henyang, killed a number of the enemy and took three prisoners.

Chinese Mark Lunar New Year

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 12 (AP)—Bathhouses were crowded today as Free China, despite official discouragement, celebrated the lunar New Year's eve. Barbershops also did a thriving business, with many giving women permanent waves regardless of an official interdict against this form of hairdress. Thousands of firecrackers sounded and gifts, also banned, were exchanged by many persons.

WEART IN NEW POSITIONS

Takes Two Posts Under General Wedemeyer in China

KUNMING, China, Feb. 12 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Douglas Lafayette Weart of Chicago has been appointed commander of American rear echelon headquarters troops at Kunming and Deputy Chief of Staff for Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China and Chief of Staff for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

General Weart succeeds Maj. Gen. Gilbert Cheves, who has been holding both posts in addition to his command of the American Service of Supply troops. General Weart served in France with the First Division in the first World War. He is an engineering specialist who turned to administration and in his previous assignment was Chief of Staff of the Caribbean Defense Command with headquarters at Panama.

YANKS CLOSING IN ON JAPS IN MANILA

Three American Divisions Join Forces to Hem in Suicide Garrison.

MANILA, Tuesday, Feb. 13—(AP)—Three Yank divisions linked forces Monday in a solid line which hemmed a furiously fighting Japanese suicide garrison against the shell-wrecked bay front of Manila south of the Pasig river.

The enemy's only possible means of escape would be across the bay to Corregidor and Bataan, which bombers—all types battered with a record weight of nearly 1,000 tons of explosives in a 48-hour period ending Sunday night.

The hazards of such a flight were emphasized in today's communique which reported American fighter planes sank 35 barges, loaded with 2,500 Japanese, off the shores of Bataan peninsula Sunday.

It appeared more likely the Nipponese, in South Manila would stand and die in the rubble-strewn area they hold, already compressed to less than five square miles.

Japs Resist Fiercely

There they were carrying out a carefully calculated plan to set the price of the city's capture as high in lives and property as possible. They fought behind thick walls. They used every known type of mine and explosive. They still poured artillery shells on vital pontoon bridges over the Pasig across which the Americans were bringing tanks and guns.

Some Japanese shells yesterday fell around the water reservoir northeast of Manila as the enemy attempted to do what a demolition squad tried and failed—cut off the Manila water supply.

The American bombers, attack and fighter planes which spilled destruction on the Japanese at Corregidor and Bataan made 500 sorti in the 48-hour period.

Bataan Bombarded

More than 700 tons of explosives, dropped by bombers "of all categories," thundered among hapless Japanese on the south end of Bataan peninsula where Americans and Filipinos scanned the skies in vain for a friendly plane prior to surrendering in the Spring of 1942.

More than 200 tons hit the rocky island fortress of Corregidor where Japanese guns have been silent for more than a week after sustained aerial poundings.

Within Manila, where three hard-fighting American divisions were overrunning networks of pillboxes and seizing big enemy guns, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today the extinction of the enemy was near but that the twin aims of conserving the lives of the doughboys and the city property slowed the process.

"Practically the entire city was mined and defended," headquarters said.

To the northeast of Manila, armored units of the Sixth division, driving east across Nueva Ecija province, reached the east coast of Luzon—the first Yank penetration to that shore—at Dingalan Bay.

Foe Now "Encircled"

In south Manila, the Japanese are "now closely encircled" and are being "compressed into extinction," today's communique announced.

The South Manila trap being closed on the Japanese extends three miles along the bay from the mouth of the Pasig river to Pasay. It varies from a mile to a mile and a half in its extent from the bay eastward.

The trap is bounded on the west by the bay. On the north is the Pasig river. On the east, are the Santa Ana and Paco districts, which the Americans hold. On the south is Pasay and the Nichols Field area to which the Yanks have penetrated.

The junctures reported today tend to compress the Japanese toward the walled city and dock area at the mouth of the Pasig river.

JAPS IN MANILA SQUEEZED INTO NARROW TRAP

Three U. S. Divisions Gain in Drive Toward Dock Area

Manila, Feb. 12—(AP)—Manila's bitterly-resisting Japanese defenders were trapped in a narrowing triangle between Manila Bay and the winding Pasig River today as increasing numbers of American troops and armor poured in for the kill, aided by artillery and Marine divebombers.

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First Cavalry Division columns thrust deep into South Manila from the East yesterday after fording the Pasig again, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

They swept over the Nielson airstrip and through the Santa Ana district southeast of the flame-blackened business district, fashioning a firm vise on the entrenched enemy defense garrison in the ninth day of the bloody battle for the capital.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's Thirty-seventh Infantry Division, meanwhile, fought through the residential Ermita district, along the South Manila Bay shore, in the face of withering artillery fire from Japanese heavy guns and mortars mounted on or behind 10-foot thick walls of the old Intramuros (Walled City) immediately north.

Enemy Positions Shelled

American artillery shells and rockets raked the enemy positions with deadly accuracy.

Airborne Eleventh Division Yanks under Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing were battling around Nichols Field, at the southern outskirts, and sent units northward to within a half mile of the American Polo Club.

In five days of fighting around Nichols Field the Americans captured 12 large guns—10 eight inch cannon and two six-inchers.

Seventy-five Marine divebombers added their weight to the artillery pounding the desperate enemy. They tore devastatingly into a stubborn Japanese position near Fort William McKinley, at the southern edge of the capital.

Sheets of flame spread over Corregidor, historic fortress at the entrance to Manila Bay, Saturday night indicating American bombs might have set off ammunition. U. S. bombers have hit the island regularly for several weeks in softening up Manila Bay defenses.

Luzon Plain Cleared

With the Central Luzon campaign at a virtual end except for mopping up of scattered pockets, armored units of the Sixth Division under Maj. Gen. Edwin D. Patrick were fast approaching the Pacific coast of Luzon over a mountain road from Bongabon to Baler Bay. Fighter planes were in close support.

The Americans now are astride all of Luzon's main highways north of Manila on a line running southeastward from Lingayen Gulf. The bulk of the Japanese garrison on Luzon is bottled up in mountain valleys in the northeast. Smaller elements are trapped on the west coast in the Zambales Mountains and on Bataan Peninsula, where some of the toughest fighting of the campaign is in progress.

American P-T boats reported a bag of 20 Japanese coastal vessels in the vicinity of San Fernando, north of Lingayen Gulf.

U. S. bombers by night set fires and destroyed a number of parked planes at Takao Airdrome on Formosa, and by day sank two cargo ships offshore.

Manggar Airdrome and a shipyard on Northern Borneo were among other aerial targets.

U.S. Planes Raid Outpost Islands

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Tuesday, Feb. 13 (AP)—Army, navy and marine planes heavily bombed and strafed Japanese outposts islands Sunday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The targets included Marcus Island, Iwo Jima in the Volcano Islands, Truk in the Carolines and Babelthaup in the Palaus.

The Marcus raid was carried out by army planes, as was the Iwo strike. Five enemy planes took to the air in the Iwo Jima sector.

Five enemy planes took to the air in the Iwo sector, where enemy airfields were hit. Results of the Marcus raid were not observed.

Navy search planes staged the raid on by-passed Truk. Pilots reported two Japanese planes were seen aloft there.

At Babelthuap the Marine fliers sank a barge and set nine others ablaze.

Attacks were also made on targets on Arakabesan in the same group, on Rota in the Marianas and Yap in the western Carolines, the communiqué said.

B-29's 'Hid Ground' at Ota

A B-29 BASE IN THE MARIANAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Maj. Boris M. Zubko of Bound Brook, N. J., flight leader, reported after the Superfortress raid Saturday on the industrial city of Ota, near Tokyo, that he "couldn't see the ground for the B-29's." The mission was Major Zubko's seventh over Japan.

Superfortresses Switch Attack Against Iwo Jima

FEB 12 1945

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—American Superfortresses, apparently well on the way toward the day-after-day aerial hammering promised the Japanese, struck their newest blow today at the island outpost of Iwo Jima.

The operation, third major effort by the 20th Air Force in as many days, came in the midst of a flurry of enemy radio plaints that the B-29's in small force were making tentative pokes at home island points.

No Fighter Opposition

In a night communiqué the 20th Air Force headquarters here announced that the daylight attack on Iwo Jima obtained good results against meager anti-aircraft fire and no fighter plane opposition. All the Superfortresses involved returned to their bases in the Marianas.

Another Japanese radio broadcast pointed up enemy fears that a real cascade of fire and demolition from the skies is not far off. That report told of the establishment of a new air attack warning system for Tokyo and near-by areas.

The first announcement gave no details of the strike at Iwo Jima, 750 miles northwest of the Superfortress Saipan base. It was a daylight operation. The island, strategic point for interception and warning when the Superbombers hit at the main Japanese islands, have been heavily hammered for many weeks.

Series Of Alarms

The Tokyo radio had a whole series of raid warnings to pass on to the Japanese people, leading off with announcement that a "small number of enemy planes" had penetrated the Tokyo-Yokahama area. Then announcers reported successively on planes entering the Shizouka and Keihin areas, an alert at Yokoshuka Naval Station, raiders over southwestern Keihin and eastern Kanto.

Japs Dismantle Plants

Aerial reconnaissance during the last three days shows that some of the largest aircraft plants in the Japanese home islands are being at least partially dismantled.

Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad, chief of staff of the 20th Air Force, said that at least some of these plants are installations not yet attacked by B-29's.

It has been known for some time that the Japanese were transferring some heavy industries to Manchuria, but this is the first indication that home island aircraft plants are being moved.

IWO JIMA HIT BY SUPERFORTS FOR THIRD DAY

Big Bombers Also Raid Ota, Near Tokyo, and Northern Rangoon

By The Associated Press

Superfortresses, blasting Japan in ever-increasing strength, struck the island of Iwo Jima today in the third attack in as many days on different targets.

Hitting the enemy hard from Saipan, Guam and India bases, the B29S also bombed the important Nakajima aircraft plant at Ota, about 40 miles northwest of Tokyo, and supply dumps north of Rangoon.

The sky dreadnaughts of the Twentieth Bomber Command, India, had a field day blasting the Rangoon supply dumps yesterday, dealing a hard blow to the enemy's ability to make war in Burma.

All Japanese supplies funnel through Rangoon for distribution northward. Munitions are sneaked up the Malay Peninsula in coasters and country boats or come from Bangkok when the railroad is in operation.

Fires, Explosions Seen

First Lieut. Arthur E. Marrill of Nashua, N. H., a lead bombardier, said he could see fires and continual explosions of oil and ammunition in fountains of vari-colored fire.

Only two enemy fighters were seen, Morrill reported, and they made timid, long-distance passes at the big boys.

"Our formation's bombing looked very good," said Maj. Charles J. "Deacon" Miller, Dexter, Mo., pilot of the lead plane, "Deacon's Disciples."

The whole B-29 flight returned to base safely although several were holed by concentrated heavy anti-aircraft fire.

The daylight raid today on Iwo Jima, carried out by the Twenty-first Bomber Command, Saipan, struck military installations which B-29s have been hitting regularly.

Details of this attack were not immediately determined and will be announced when operational reports are received.

Ota Hit Saturday

The Twenty-first Bomber Command at Guam announced the raid on Ota (Saturday), where one of Japan's most important aircraft factories was struck with "good" results.

This raid probably cost the Americans four B-29s, the command disclosed, while 20 Japanese interceptors were deestroyed, 19 planes probably destroyed and 27 damaged.

Two Superfortresses collided over the target and exploded, breaking in half. No parachutes were seen to drop from the planes. Two other bombers possibly were lost to enemy fire.

This was the first attack on the Nakajima plant, oldest privately owned aircraft company of Japan. It produces a substantial percentage of all enemy aircraft.

New Raid Reported

A series of air raid warnings that a "small number of enemy planes" had penetrated the Tokyo-Yokohama area interrupted Tokyo radio broadcasts between 7 and 7:30 P. M. today.

The Japanese Domei News Agency, in another report broadcast earlier by the Federal Communications Commission, said one reconnoitering American Superfortress was shot down in the Tokyo area Monday.

FCC said the raid warnings interrupted a Tokyo domestic news program. The announcer successively reported enemy planes entering the Shizuoka and Keihin areas, an alert in the Yokoshuka Naval Station, planes over Southwestern Keihin and Eastern Kanto and, finally, the lifting of the alerts.

Domei's report said the B-29 was shot down in the sea east of Tokyo. The report lacked American confirmation.

Peru In "State Of Belligerency"

Lima, Peru, Feb. 12 (AP)—Peru considers herself in an "actual state of belligerency" with Germany and Japan, it was announced today. Peru severed diplomatic relations with the Axis in January, 1942.

Russ Effort To End War Impresses Diplomat

Mexico City, Feb. 12 (AP)—Luis Quintanilla, who returned yesterday from Moscow, where he was Ambassador for two years, commented today that "the Russian people and Government are doing something almost unbelievable to end the war as soon as possible."

Quintanilla was succeeded in Moscow by Narciso Bassols.

Now All They Need Is Wings For Cars

BOGOTA—(AP) Straight sections of road under Colombia's new highway construction program will be prepared as emergency aviation landing fields, if needed because so much of the country is either mountainous or jungle.

The plans call for marking such stretches of road, moving overhead wires away from the sides and instructing motorists to be on the lookout for planes landing. The fields will be marked on both highway and airway maps.

Declares Filipinos 95 Per Cent Loyal

San Francisco, Feb. 12—In a radio broadcast from Manila today Bert Silen, NBC correspondent, who was imprisoned in the Santo Tomas internment camp for more than three years, said at least 95 per cent of the Filipino people remained loyal to the United States during the long Japanese occupation.

In the burning of Manila, Silen saw an expression of Japanese frustration at not being able to convert Filipinos to their slogan of "Asia for the Asiatics."

Every GI in the city, Silen said, echoes Gen. Douglas MacArthur's sentiment—"On to Tokyo."

O.K. Bretton Woods Plan, Congress Urged

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt urged Congress today to accept the Bretton Woods agreement lest the world drift again toward "the maelstrom of panic and economic warfare."

In a special message he gave Congress a many-sided plan of economic co-operation with other nations—because political co-operation, he said, won't be enough.

The President replied to criticism of certain parts of the agreement reached by delegates of 44 nations at Bretton Woods, N.H., with this assertion:

"It would be a tragedy if differences of opinion on minor details should lead us to sacrifice the basic agreement achieved on the major problems."

The Imperfect Cornerstone

He asked approval of the $8,800,000,000 "international monetary fund" and the $9,100,000,000 "international bank for reconstruction and development." He said they are the "cornerstone" for international economic co-operation, though not "perfect in every detail."

Senator Wagner (D., N.Y.) said he and Senator Tobey (R., N.H.) will introduce a bill Thursday for United States membership in the "fund" and the "bank." They are the leading Democrat and leading Republican on the Senate Banking Committee.

The President's message also was warmly received by Representative Spence (D., Ky.), chairman of the House Banking Committee, which will hold hearings on Bretton Woods legislation before the Senate committee takes it up.

Refers To Bankers

Mr. Roosevelt's statement on "differences of opinion" no doubt referred mainly to the American Bankers Association.

A week ago, that organization published a report strongly indorsing the principles of co-operation worked out at Bretton Woods, and favoring the world bank. But the association disapproved of the fund and thought its functions ought to be incorporated in the bank.

The President said he expects to submit to Congress shortly these additional proposals for economic co-operation:

Establishment of the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations; broadening and strengthening the Trade Agreements Act of 1934; international agreement for reducing barriers, controlling cartels, orderly marketing of world surpluses of certain commodities; a revision of the Export-Import Bank; an international oil agreement, and proposals in the field of international aviation, shipping, and radio and wire communications.

Must Take The Lead

"It is time for the United States to take the lead in establishing the principle of economic co-operation as the foundation for expanding world trade. We propose to do this, not by setting up a super-government, but by international negotiation and agreement. . . .

Mr. Roosevelt said a good deal has been done in that line during the last ten years, but the trouble was—our present enemies were at the same time devoting all their efforts to the very opposite of international collaboration.

"When victory is won we must be ready to go forward rapidly on a wide front," the President said. "We all know very well that this will be a long and complicated business."

End To Chaos

The international monetary fund, he said, "will put an end to monetary chaos." He described the fund as an institution to preserve stability and order in the exchange rates between different moneys, and summarized it thus:

"In a nutshell, the fund agreement spells the difference between a world caught again in the maelstrom of panic and economic warfare culminating in war—as in the 1930's—or a world in which the members strive for a better life through mutual trust, co-operation and assistance. The choice is ours."

Currency stabilization would have as its purpose the promotion of world trade, and Mr. Roosevelt declared, "to expand the trade circle, to make it richer, more competitive, more varied, is a fundamental contribution to everybody's wealth and welfare."

Industries To Rebuild

With respect to the international bank, the President said the Allied armies and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration—while they can give emergency relief—are not designed for the construction of big public works, factories, power plants, transportation systems in the war-shattered nations.

"That job must be done otherwise and it must be started soon," he said. The international bank would make or guarantee loans for specific projects. The President said that unless private countries can find such a method of financing, they can't restore their economics and "in desperation will be forced into various forms of economic warfare.

Roosevelt Message on Bretton Woods

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—President Roosevelt's message to Congress on the Bretton Woods money and banking proposals follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

In my budget message of Jan. 9 I called attention to the need for immediate action on the Bretton Woods proposals for an international monetary fund and an international bank for reconstruction and development. It is my purpose in this message to indicate the importance of these international organizations in our plans for a peaceful and prosperous world.

As we dedicate our total efforts to the task of winning this war we must never lose sight of the fact that victory is not only an end in itself but, in a large sense, victory offers us the means of achieving the goal of lasting peace and a better way of life. Victory does not insure the achievement of these larger goals—it merely offers us the opportunity—the chance—to seek their attainment. Whether we will have the courage and vision to avail ourselves of this tremendous opportunity—purchased at so great a cost—is yet to be determined. On our shoulders rests the heavy responsibility for making this momentous decision. I have said before, and I repeat again: this generation has a rendezvous with destiny.

If we are to measure up to the task of peace with the same stature as we have measured up to the task of war, we must see that the institutions of peace rest firmly on the solid foundations of international political and economic co-operation. The cornerstone for international political co-operation is the Dumbarton Oaks proposal for a permanent United Nations. International political relations will be friendly and constructive, however, only if solutions are found to the difficult economic problems we face today. The cornerstone for international economic co-operation is the Bretton Woods proposal for an international monetary fund and an international bank for reconstruction and development.

Unity of Purpose

These proposals for an international fund and international bank are concrete evidence that the economic objectives of the United States agree with those of the United Nations. They illustrate our unity of purpose and interest in the economic field. What we need and what they need correspond—expanded production, employment, exchange and consumption—in other words, more goods other words, more goods produced, more jobs, more trade, and a higher standard of living for us all. To the people of the United States this means real peace-time employment for those who will be returning from the war and for those at home whose war-time work has ended. It also means orders and profits to our industries and fair prices to our farmers. We shall need prosperous markets in the world to insure our own prosperity, and we shall need the goods the world can sell us. For all these purposes, as well as for a peace that will endure, we need the partnership of the United Nations.

30. 24 — 22927

The first problem in time which we must cope with is that of saving life, and getting resources and people back into production. In many of the liberated countries economic life has all but stopped. Transportation systems are in ruins and therefore coal and raw materials cannot be brought to factories. Many factories themselves are shattered, power plants smashed, transmission systems broken, bridges blown up or bombed, ports clogged with sunken wrecks, and great rich areas of farm land inundated by the sea. People are tired and sick and hungry. But they are eager to go to work again, and to create again with their own hands and under their own leaders the necessary physical basis of their lives.

U. N. R. R. A. Scope Limited

Emergency relief is under way behind the armies under the authority of local governments, backed up first by the Allied military command and after that by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. Our participation in the U. N. R. R. A. has been approved by Congress. But neither U. N. R. R. A. nor the armies are designed for the construction or reconstruction of large-scale public works or factories or power plants or transportation systems. That job must be done otherwise, and it must be started soon.

The main job of restoration is not one of relief. It is one of reconstruction which must largely be done by local people and their governments. They will provide the labor, the local money and most of the materials. The same is true for all the many plans for the improvement of transportation, agriculture, industry and housing that are essential to the development of the economically backward areas of the world. But some of the things required for all these projects, both of reconstruction and development, will have to come from overseas. It is at this point that our highly developed economy can play a role important to the rest of the world and very profitable to the United States. Inquiries for numerous materials and for all kinds of equipment and machinery in connection with such projects are already being directed to our industries, and many more will come. This business will be welcome just as soon as the more urgent production for the war itself ends.

The main problem will be for these countries to obtain the means of payment. In the long run we can be paid for what we sell abroad chiefly in goods and services. But at the moment many of the countries who want to be our customers are prostrate. Other countries have devoted their economies so completely to the war that they do not have the resources for reconstruction and development. Unless a means of financing is found, such countries will be unable to restore their economies and, in desperation, will be forced to carry forward and intensify existing systems of discriminatory trade practices, restrictive exchange controls, competitive depreciation of currencies and other forms of economic warfare. That would destroy all our good hopes. We must move promptly to prevent its happening, and we must move on several fronts, including finance and trade.

Plan for World Bank

The United States should act promptly upon the plan for the international bank, which will make or guarantee sound loans for the foreign currency requirements of important reconstruction and development projects in member countries. One of its most important functions will be to facilitate and make secure wide private participation in such loans. The articles of agreement constituting the charter of the bank have been worked out with great care by an international conference of experts and give adequate protection to all interests. I recommend to the Congress that we accept the plan, subscribed the capital allotted to us, and participate whole-heartedly in the bank's work.

This measure, with others I shall later suggest, should go far to take care on our part of the lending requirements of the post-war years. They should help the countries concerned to get production started, to get over the first crisis of disorganization and fear, to begin the work of reconstruction and development; and they should help our farmers and our industries to get over the crisis of reconversion by making a large volume of export business possible in the post-war years. As confidence returns private investors will participate more and more in foreign lending and investment without any government assistance. But to get over the first crisis, in the situation that confronts us, loans and guaranties by agencies of government will be essential.

We all know, however, that a prosperous world economy must be built on more than foreign investment. Exchange rates must be stabilized and the channels of trade opened up throughout the world. A large foreign trade after victory will generate production and therefore wealth. It will also make possible the servicing of foreign investments.

Almost no one in the modern world produces what he eats and wears and lives in. It is only by the division of labor among people and among geographic areas with all their varied resources and by the increased all-around production which specialization makes possible, that any modern country can sustain its present population. It is through exchange and trade that efficient production in large units becomes possible. To expand the trading circle, to make it richer, more competitive, more varied, is a fundamental contribution to everybody's wealth and welfare.

Expanded World Trade

It is time for the United States to take the lead in establishing the principle of economic cooperation as the foundation for expanded world trade. We propose to do this, not by setting up a super-government, but by international negotiation and agreement, directed to the improvement of the monetary institutions of the world and of the laws that govern trade. We have done a good deal in those directions in the last ten years under the trade agreements act of 1934 and through the stabilization fund operated by our Treasury. But our present enemies were powerful in those years, too, and they devoted all their efforts not to international collaboration, but to autarchy and economic warfare. When victory is won we must be ready to go forward rapidly on a wide front. We all know very well that this will be a long and complicated business.

A good start has been made. The United Nations monetary conference at Bretton Woods has taken a long step forward on a matter of great practical importance to us all. The conference submitted a plan to create an international monetary fund which will put an end to monetary chaos. The fund is a financial institution to preserve stability and order in the exchange rates between different moneys. It does not create a single money for the world; neither we nor any one else is ready to do that. There will still be a different money in each country, but with the fund in operation the value of each currency in international trade will remain comparatively stable. Changes in the value of foreign currencies will be made only after careful consideration by the fund of the factors involved. Furthermore, and equally important, the fund agreement establishes a code of agreed principles for the conduct of exchange and currency affairs. In a nutshell, the fund agreement spells the difference between a world caught again in the maelstrom of panic and economic warfare culminating in war—as in the 1930's—or a world in which the members strive for a better life through mutual trust, co-operation and assistance. The choice is ours.

I therefore recommend prompt action by the Congress to provide the subscription of the United States to the international monetary fund and the legislation necessary for our membership in the fund.

Proposals Not Perfect

The international fund and bank together represent one of the most sound and useful proposals for international collaboration now before us. On the other hand, I do not want to leave with you the impression that these proposals for the fund and bank are perfect in every detail. It may well be that the experience of future years will show us how they can be improved. I do wish to make it clear, however, that these articles of agreement are the product of the best minds that forty-four nations could muster. These men, who represented nations from all parts of the globe, nations in all stages of economic development, nations with different political and economic philosophies, have reached an accord which is presented to you for your consideration and approval. It would be a tragedy if differences of opinion on minor details should lead us to sacrifice the basic agreement achieved on the major problems.

Nor do I want to leave with you the impression that the fund and the bank are all that we will need to solve the economic problems which will face the United Nations when the war is over. There are other problems which we will be called upon to solve. It is my expectation that other proposals will shortly be ready to submit to you for your consideration. These will include the establishment of the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations, broadening and strengthening of the trade agreements act of 1934, international agreement for the reduction of trade barriers, the control of cartels and the orderly marketing of world surpluses of certain commodities, a revision of the Export-Import Bank and an international oil agreement, as well as proposals in the field of civil aviation, shipping and radio wire communications. It will also be necessary, of course, to repeal the Johnson act.

In this message I have recommended for your consideration the Bretton Woods agreements and suggested other measures which will have to be dealt with in the near future.

They are all parts of a consistent whole. That whole is our hope for a secure and fruitful world, a world in which plain people in all countries can work at tasks which they do well, exchange in peace the products of their labor, and work out their several destinies in security and peace; a world in which governments, as their major contribution to the common welfare, are highly and effectively resolved to work together in practical affairs, and to guide all their actions by the knowledge that any policy or act that the effects abroad must be considered in the light of those effects.

This point in history at which we stand is full of promise and of danger. The world will either move toward unity and widely shared prosperity or it will move apart into necessarily competing economic blocs. We have a chance, we citizens of the United States, to use our influence in favor of a more united and cooperating world. Whether we do so will determine, as far as it is in our power, the kind of lives our grandchildren can live.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

The White House, Feb. 12, 1945.

SENATE CONFIRMS ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT

President's Son Made Brigadier General by Vote of 53 to 11.

FEB 13 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP) The Senate voted 53 to 11 today to confirm Elliott Roosevelt's promotion to brigadier general after the young Air Force colonel and his dog rode out a storm of Republican criticism.

The 34-year-old son of the President was called a military "amateur" by Senator Bushfield (R-S.D.) in a warm debate in which "Blaze," young Roosevelt's bull mastiff, also was taken for a senatorial ride.

When the skies cleared after two roll call votes—the other a motion to shelve the nomination by sending it back to the Military committee having been rejected, 49 to 14—the promotions of 77 other colonels to one-star generals were confirmed by voice vote.

Bushfield raised the question of favoritism in his opposition to young Roosevelt's elevation, asserting "we have something like 9,600 active colonels, any one of whom is ready for promotion."

Saying he was voicing the "silent protest" of these officers who could not speak for themselves, he added that they felt keenly about "the advancement of youngsters who are wholly amateurs at the military game except for the period of the war."

One of the 77 other confirmations was a posthumous one of Col. William H. Eaton. Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Military committee, read a letter from War Secretary Stimson saying Eaton had been killed in a plane crash in France Feb. 6.

Replying to criticism from Bushfield, Reed (R-Kans.) and others, Thomas told the Senate that because Roosevelt "happens to be the son of the President should not be a liability to a man serving his country."

Dog Incident Discussed

He and Lucas (D-Ill.) replied heatedly to the charge made by Bushfield that the shipment of "Blaze" to Hollywood under a top "A" air travel priority constituted conduct unbecoming an officer.

The Air Transport Command reported Saturday that Col. Ray Ireland had accepted responsibility for the movement of "Blaze" by Army transport on an "A" priority while three service men were removed from it at Memphis.

Thomas read a long list of citations for young Roosevelt for what he called "heroic achievements." He brought out that six other men have risen from the rank of captain or lower to that of brigadier general during the present war although only two of them, according to Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) lacked previous military experience.

Soviet Spokesman Awaits Allied West Front Blows

Washington Embassy Bulletin Predicts German Disaster

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—A Soviet military spokesman said today it must be assumed that the Anglo-American allies now "will back the Red Army's offensive with mighty blows against the common enemy."

Writing in the Soviet Embassy Information Bulletin, Colonel M. Tolchenov declares that, "so far, the operations conducted by our allies in the west have not prevented the Germans from transferring a number of divisions to the Soviet-German front."

"Disaster is bearing down upon Germany with terrific speed," the article said. "The Red Army's victories have opened up for the United Nations real prospects for the utter defeat of the common enemy. This task must be carried out in the interests of all peace-loving nations, who are vitally interested in securing the complete liquidation of the hotbed of piratical aggression in Europe."

Check on Americans in Bulgaria

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—The State Department said today its representatives at Sofia are now ready to handle inquiries about the welfare of American citizens believed to be living in Bulgaria.

HINT IS GIVEN COLEPAUGH TOLD FBI OF MISSION

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 — (AP) Testimony at the military trial today of William Curtis Colepaugh and Erich Gimpel, accused as Nazi agents, indicated that Colepaugh sought out an FBI agent after he arrived in the United States.

Completing direct testimony in his fight for life, the Connecticut-born Colepaugh said that last Dec. 23 he visited Edmund Mulcahy, a former classmate at Admiral Farragut Academy, and told Mulcahy he was in trouble.

Colepaugh said Mulcahy told him he thought he knew a man who was an FBI agent.

This was as far as the testimony was disclosed in the official Army communique of the closed proceedings at Governors Island.

Colepaugh had testified earlier in the day, his second on the stand, that he and Gimpel, a German radio engineer, came to this country by submarine from Kiel and landed on the coast of Maine. The FBI said the date was Nov. 29.

Colepaugh pictured himself as disillusioned with conditions in Germany and as regarding his mission here as a chance to get away from it all.

"I felt pretty good about being back in the United States," he said, adding that he crossed up Gimpel and lied to him about the desirability of a certain house at Long Beach on Long Island because "I didn't want to locate Gimpel where he could build and operate a radio."

"Did you, up to this time, do anything to further your missions?" his Army-assigned counsel asked him.

"No sir, I didn't intend to go on with it, so there wasn't any use," he replied.

Told Friend of Trip

Colepaugh said that after telling Mulcahy on Dec. 23 of his submarine trip he returned to New York. The next night, he said he went to Mulcahy's Richmond Hill, N. Y., home for the holiday.

The Army communique said the testimony here concerned discussions Colepaugh said he had with Mulcahy prior to Colepaugh's "first contact with the FBI"—an indication that he saw agents more than once.

"The witness testified that he and Mulcahy discussed the seriousness of Colepaugh's position," the communique said.

An FBI agent testified previously that Gimpel was arrested at a midtown news stand, but how the FBI got the tip never was disclosed.

Calm on Stand

Colepaugh, who evidenced no nervousness as he testified, said he went to Berlin a year ago to join the Germany army but realized when he got to Saarbrucken that his picture of rosy conditions in Germany was a mistake.

"The taxes were high and the average worker had nothing for his work," he said. "I knew then I had left far more than even the middle-class German could ever have, behind me in the United States."

He said he was told Count Felix von Luckner, the German World War I raider, was in a concentration camp and knew again "that things were not so good."

SAY NAZIS RUN WILD IN ARIZONA STREETS

Senator McFarland and a Jurist Also Assert Prisoners Flaunt Swastika

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Chairman Elbert D. Thomas said today that the Senate Military Affairs Committee would inquire into complaints from Arizona of German prisoners of war roaming the streets and of others carrying the swastika.

Mr. Thomas acted after Senator McFarland, Democrat, of Arizona, read to the Senate a letter from Judge Harvard C. Speakman of Phoenix, asserting that the people of that area were "sore and disgusted."

Mr. McFarland, who demanded the investigation, also read a resolution by the Phoenix Central Labor Council denouncing as "fantastic and highly improbable" an Army report on the escape of twenty-five prisoners Dec. 24 from the Papago Park Camp.

The resolution said that newspapers reported that Col. William A. Holden, camp commander, had said that a 200-foot tunnel bored through rock was the means through which the prisoners escaped.

The council said that its members who helped construct the camp and were familiar with the formation of rock in the area "branded this stateemnt as fantastic and highly improbable."

Judge Speakman's letter said that escapes of German prisoners "are not escapes, the Germans just walk off from the job." He added:

"They roam the neighborhoods, steal from the people in the vicinity and pilfer houses where there is no one at home. They seem to do so at will."

He referred to the display of the swastika in Chandler, Ariz., by a truck load of German prisoners.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 12 (AP)—The public relations office of the Papago Park Camp has announced that a prisoner was undergoing military punishment for displaying a swastika from a camp truck last week.

SANTA MARIA, Calif., Feb. 12 (AP)—A German prisoner of war was found hanged Friday morning in the prisoner camp at Lamont, Camp Cooke public relations officers announced today. The discovery was made at the time of the morning prisoner count, said the statement, which did not identify the prisoner.

Seek German Prisoners To Replace Farm Labor

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—The War Department was asked today to bring 100,000 more German prisoners of war from Europe to relieve the farm labor shortage in this country.

The proposal was placed before Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, and Maj. Gen. Archer L. Lerch, provost marshal general, at a conference with Arkansas Congressmen.

No prisoners have been brought to this country since November, 1944, because of the expectation of an early end of the European war, Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas told a reporter.

He said that he and other Arkansans "strongly urged" that thousands of Germans in United States custody abroad be brought to the United States as "the only possible means to secure more labor for our farmers."

Supreme Court To Review Army Rule in Hawaii

Agrees to Study 2 Cases Involving Convictions Under Martial Law There

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—The Supreme Court today agreed to study two cases involving the declaration of martial law and suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in Hawaii after Pearl Harbor. President Roosevelt last October restored full authority of the civil government in the islands.

Harry E. White, Honolulu stock broker, asked the Supreme Court to determine if a military tribunal had authority to try him—a civilian—on a charge of embezzling a customer's funds in violation of a municipal law. The military court sentenced him to five years' imprisonment.

Lloyd C. Duncan, civilian Navy Yard worker in Hawaii, protested to the Supreme Court his trial before a military court on a charge of assaulting two marine sentries. The military court sentenced him to six months' imprisonment. He said the military trial took place after civil government had been restored.

In another case growing out of the Pacific war, the Supreme Court refused to reconsider a recent decision that the Army had a right to remove Japanese from the west coast as a defense measure. A rehearing was asked by counsel for Fred Toyosaburo Korematsu, who brought the appeal which resulted in the decision. Korematsu, born in California of parents who were citizens of Japan, was held for a time in a war relocation center in Utah.

The Supreme Court affirmed 7 to 2 a ruling that an insurance company was not entitled to a Wisconsin license because it had not set up a reserve in accordance with state law. The court, however, left open a question whether the Wisconsin statute concerned in the case violates the commerce clause of the Constitution. The decision was given on an appeal by the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, an Illinois corporation, from a ruling by the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court refused to review the conviction in Kings County Court, New York, of Ralph Aronson and Hyman Brecker on robbery charges. They were convicted in the apartment-house robbery of Louis Yagoda in Brooklyn on Oct. 29, 1941. Aronson was sentenced to thirty to sixty years' imprisonment, Brecker to forty to sixty years.

The Supreme Court referred to a bar committee for study a question whether Hulon Capshaw, New York City lawyer, should be disbarred from the high tribunal. The court last October refused Capshaw a review of action by the New York State Court of Appeals in affirming his disbarment in the courts of that state. Capshaw contended he was improperly accused of having been influenced, while serving as a city magistrate, to protect the "Hines-Schultz mob in the policy racket."

Supreme Court Halts Refund To Gas Users

Refuses by 4-to-5 Vote to Allow $25,708 Payment to 4 Iowa Communities

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP).—A 5-to-4 Supreme Court decision today halted the $25,708 refund to gas consumers in four Iowa communities, but left them opportunity to sue for it in state courts.

The ruling was protested by Justice Hugo L. Black as defeating the purpose of Congress in passing the natural gas act "to prevent ultimate consumers of gas from excessive prices."

The court set aside an order of the Seventh United States Circuit Court which had directed that the money should go to the city treasurers of Muscatine, Greenfield, Knoxville and Pella, Iowa. It had rejected claims of Central States Electric Co. to the fund, but left it free to seek adjustment with the cities. Central appealed.

The court lacked jurisdiction to settle the question of consumers' rights, the majority opinion said. It directed that the money be paid to Central unless other claimants bring suit in the proper court within a reasonable time.

The sum accumulated during litigation over an order directing a reduction in wholesale rates by Natural Gas Pipeline Co., which served Central. The order was made final after three years in court.

Justice Black, with Justices Frank Murphy and Wiley B. Rutledge concurring, noted that during the three years the Iowa consumers were deprived of the right to get a rate cut through their local regulatory agencies because the Federal order was stayed during that period.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Owen J. Roberts with Justices Stanley F. Reed, Felix Frankfurter, Harlan F. Stone and Robert H. Jackson concurring, agreed that the gas act is intended to protect the ultimate consumer. However, it was left to the states to regulate intrastate distribution and sale, it pointed out.

Justice William O. Douglas wrote a separate dissenting opinion.

The court agreed to review appeals of two civilians sentenced by military courts in Hawaii. The cases arose after declaration of martial law and suspension of habeas corpus following the Pearl Harbor attack. Civil authority since has been restored.

The appeals are those of Harry E. White, Honolulu stock broker, given a five-year sentence on a charge of embezzling funds in violation of a municipal law, and Lloyd C. Duncan, navy yard worker, sentenced to six months on a charge of assaulting two sentries. Duncan said the trial was held after civil authority was restored.

The court affirmed 7 to 2 Wisconsin's refusal to license the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. based on requirements with which the company disagreed. However, the court's decision gave the firm opportunity to seek a ruling on a question which had not come before the Wisconsin courts. The company contended the state law violated the commerce clause of the Federal Constitution. This argument was raised after the appeal was filed because the United States Supreme Court had newly ruled that the fire insurance business is interstate commerce.

American Soldiers Set Up Radios In Philippines During Occupation

Fort Devens, Mass., Jan. 27—(Delayed)—(AP)—How a small band of American soldiers and Filipino guerrillas set up radio stations to report Jap shipping movements to the U. S. Navy during two years in the enemy-occupied islands was told here today by a young Army Air Forces captain just back to the United States.

He is Capt. Truman Heminway of Sherburne, Vt., a 28-year-old former aerial photographer who was given a direct commission as a lieutenant from the rank of private first class, when he helped organize guerilla warfare, along with a dozen other Americans, shortly after the surrender of the islands.

Being processed at the overseas reception station here before starting a 21-day furlough at his Vermont home with the girl he married in the Philippines and their two children, the tall, blonde captain guardedly described conditions in the island under Jap occupation and how they set about organizing resistance.

Clark Field, big air base north of Manila just recaptured by the Sixth Army, was where Heminway's small band of fellow fliers started for their adventure, fleeing a month after the Nips first invaded the islands. Enroute to Mindanao they were bombed and landed on Mindoro, there they lived in the hills for six months following the fall of Corregidor.

Taken To Leyte

When loyal Filipinos told them it was safe, they came down from the hills and were taken by native boats to the island of Leyte. There they split up into two groups to organize guerilla warfare and to establish radio outposts to spy on and report shipping.

Captain Heminway said "we had some radio equipment to start with and we had several expert Filipino operators. Later we received more equipment and some supplies from Navy subs which slipped furtively through Jap lines to bring us supplies and orders."

From his outpost on the coast of Surigao Strait, Heminway reported every Jap shipping movement to the Navy for nearly a year and a half before the Japs forced him to flee.

"That was my closest escape in two years of adventure," he said.

"I was fairly comfortably fixed, with my two Filipino operators keeping the station operating all day while I did the decoding. We didn't worry much about the Japs because we knew the natives would warn us in plenty of time.

"This time, however, they were somewhat lax and we didn't receive notice that the Japs were coming until late. We were tipped off at 10 A. M., packed our belongings and pulled out for Dinagat Island just across the strait. Later we learned the Japs came and destroyed everything we were unable to take with us."

The surveillance on of Jap shipping was kept up by the Vermont captain, his native-born wife and the Filipino radiomen frim Dinagat Island until men of the Sixth Rangers battalion, commanded by Lieut. Col. Henry Mucci landed on October 14, 1944—two days before the Sixth Army's full-scale invasion—and contacted them.

SERVICE COURTS 'OVER SEVERE,' SAYS FULTON

Washington, Feb. 12—(AP)—Fighting men overseas are concerned with the frequency of court martial verdicts assessing the death penalty, Representative Fulton, (R.-Pa.), asserted today.

"The boys over there keep commenting on the number of very severe penalties being handed out by service courts," Fulton said.

Just back from serving as a deck lieutenant on a carrier off the Philippines, Fulton has been airing many views that he said members of the armed forces asked him to express when he returned to take his seat in Congress.

His recent suggestion that wives and families of service men be permitted to join their husbands abroad is his own idea, however, Fulton said.

"A lot of the court martial sentences seem over-severe, especially when compared with civilian penalties," Fulton told reporters.

"After all if a man refuses to be drafted or just ignores the draft call he gets only from three to five years in jail."

Commenting on the case of Pvt. Henry Weber, convicted of refusing to obey an order to drill at Camp Roberts, Calif., Fulton said the death penalty in the case was "entirely too harsh" and that later action commuting the penalty to life imprisonment left a sentence "still too severe."

Military courts should consider the "extremely hard going on the fighting fronts which causes a lot of the men overseas to do things they ordinarily wouldn't think of doing," Fulton said.

"I don't mean the men shouldn't be punished if they do wrong," he added. "But all the circumstances should be considered and penalties should be no more severe than those administered by civilian courts."

LEWIS, GREEN ARE SILENT ON MERGER TERMS

FEB 12 1945

Miami, Fla., Feb. 12—(AP)—The AFL was given John L. Lewis' reply today to its request for his terms for reaffiliation of the United Mine Workers.

Both Lewis and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor remained silent on details of the Mine Workers' conditions for returning to the parent organization they left more than eight years ago, pending a meeting of the executive council.

The council was prepared to accept th terms as understood by Green in verbal discussions with Lewis—that the miners would come back as they are constituted today, with a sizeable miscellaneous group of unions in his catch-all District 50, leaving jurisdictional problems to be worked out by the council.

It was known that Lewis wanted to use every possible tribunal within the AFL to arbitrate these differences, since control of the council by interests unfriendly to Lewis might mean loss of some fast-growing units in District 50, such as the Chemical Workers Union.

Many observers feel that in the future the chemical workers might conceivably eclipse the mine workers themselves in numerical strength, as science develops more and more mass outlets for chemical products.

Would Complete Cycle

The return of Lewis to the federation would complete a hectic cycle in American labor.

The stoic mine leader was largely responsible for Green's election to the presidency of the federation on the death of Samuel Gompers more than 20 years ago. Green had been a member of the UMWA—in fact still holds a card in a local headed by his brother

But they fell apart in 1935 over Lewis' insistence that big industries such as steel and automobiles should be organized on an industry-wide basis, as opposed to the federation's traditional craft lines. In November of that year Lewis and ten others formed the Committee for Industrial Organization (CIO).

Little more than a year lapsed before the federation suspended and expelled the CIO. Great organizational strides in the CIO were made within the next few years, but then Lewis fell out with President Roosevelt. The miners' chief bet his CIO leadership on Republican Wendell Willkie in 1940. He lost and gave it up.

He was succeeded in the presidency of the CIO by another miner, Philip Murray. They struggled along in armed truce for awhile and finally, in September, 1942, the UMWA formally dropped out of the CIO and Murray was expelled from the miners' rolls.

Lewis and the federation were again thrown together recently by (1) the CIO's political action, which the AFL frowns on, and Lewis differed with on candidates; (2) the CIO's attempt to join with the British and Soviet trade groups to form a new international labor movement, which both both Lewis and the AFL fear will be Russian-dominated.

'WORK-JAIL' FOES MEET NEW SETBACK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP) A movement within the Senate Military committee to drop the "work-or-jail" bill in favor of legislation strengthening the War Manpower commission bumped up against White House opposition today.

Jonathan Daniels, acting presidential press secretary, issued a statement saying published reports that the latter course would be acceptable to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion were "without foundation in fact."

"The director (James F. Byrnes) holds firmly to the belief that manpower legislation should recognize that there is an obligation for men eligible for the draft who are not called into the armed service to render their war service wherever most needed," Daniels added.

Senate committee members favoring a bill with "teeth" hailed the statement as strengthening their hands.

The House measure would give Selective Service authority to direct men from 18 to 45 to take specific jobs in war work. Those who disregarded orders would be subject to the jail or fines under the Selective Service act.

U. S. Reported Planning 2 Dams in GrandCanyon

Los Angeles Paper Says They Will Be Size of Boulder Dam

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12 (AP).—"The Herald-Express" said today it had learned from a reliable source that preliminary surveys have been completed by the Bureau of Reclamation looking to construction of two huge dams in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in Arizona.

The newspaper said it understood the dams would be about as large as the Boulder Dam in Nevada, their cost running into several hundred million dollars.

One site, said the newspaper, would be in Bridge Canyon, the other farther east. Creating tremendous lakes in the wild, scenic canyon, the dams would have a three-fold purpose: 1—Checking the flow of slit into Meade Lake, which is backed up by Boulder Dam; 2—Construction of giant hydro-electric plants to augment the power resources of the Southwest and, 3—Reclamation of thousands of acres of Arizona desert lands that cannot be served now with water from Boulder Dam sources.

"The Herald-Express" also said that involved in the reclamation project is the construction of an aqueduct from the Grand Canyon to lands in couth central Arizona and the throwing open to homesteading areas in the Salt River Valley.

1944 Incomes To Individuals Up 14 Billions

FEB 12 1945

Payments From All Sources Nearly 157 Billions; U.S. Taxes Over 42 Billions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Income payments to individuals reached a new high during the calendar year 1944, amounting to $156,777,000,000, compared to $143,134,000,000 in 1943 and $82,587,000,000 in 1929, the Department of Commerce announced today.

Income payments to individuals and national income are not the same, department officials explained, defining national income as the earnings accruing to indivaduals for their participation in the productive process, and income payments as including all income actually received by individuals from business and government, whether earned or not.

At the same time the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the Treasury Department announced that the total Federal tax collections from all sources during 1944 were $42,125,986,550.68 as against $31,924,530,316.98 during 1943.

Total taxes in New York State rose from $5,901,303,640.53 in 1943 to $8,075,862,835.09 in 1944; in New Jersey from $1,103,878,074.31 in 1943 to $1,449,559,749.05, and in Connecticut from $741,989,978.14 to $903,053,896.89.

Income payments last December aggregated $14,388,000,000, the highest monthly total on record, and more than $1,000,000,000 in excess of the November total, which was $13,253,000,000. After allowing for the usual year-end disbursements of dividends and interest and other reasonal influences, the Commerce Department's index of total income payments advanced from 237.5 in November to 238.6 in December, with the years 1935-'39 calculated as 100.

Among the factors contributing to the December advance in the index was a rise in military payments, such as pay of the armed forces stationed in this country and overseas, mustering-out pay and dependency allowances. Military payments were said to be the most important factor in the rise in the yearly total since, while these payments constituted only 8 per cent of the total income payments in 1943, they accounted for 44 per cent of the advance in total from 1943 to 1944.

In the Bureau of Internal Revenue statement it was revealed that for 1944 corporation income taxes were: Normal and surtaxes, $5,133,235,619.02, and excess profits taxes, $11,665,317,694.37, or a total of $16,798,553,313.39.

Individual income taxes were: Normal and surtaxes, $7,489,220,384.57, with the 20 per cent withholding tax on wages and salaries taking $9,842,349,391.94 for a total of $17,331,569,776.51. The total for all income taxes, individual and corporation, was $34,130,123,089.90, compared with with $25,326,635,548.17 in 1943. Miscellaneous internal revenue taxes brought the government $6,210,697,689.89 while employment taxes added another $1,785,165,770.89.

Airline Route Hearings To Begin Today By CAB

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Hearing of applications for airline routes across the North Pacific will open tomorrow before Civil Aeronautics Board examiners. This will be one of a series of hearings on international route applications, the board already having evidence concerning North and South Atlantic and Latin American proposals.

Eleven applications for North Pacific service have been filed. The applicants are Pan American Airways, the only company which operated across the Pacific and to Alaska before the war; United Airlines, Northwest Airlines and Western Airlines; Pennsylvania Central Airlines, Hawaiian Airlines, Alaska Airlines, Prairie Airways, United Nations Airships, Olsen Steamship Company and Arthur G. Woodley.

W. A. Brophy Appointed

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated William A. Brophy, of New Mexico, to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs succeeding John Collier, resigned.

Brophy has served as Chief of the Puerto Rico section of the Interior Department's Division of Territories and Island Possessions since 1943.

AMERICANS BIG SPENDERS

Their Annual Outlay Continues To Increase

FEB 12 1945

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—For the sixth year, Americans increased their spending at retail stores in 1944.

The Commerce Department today said 1944 retail sales were $69,275,000,000—a new record and nine per cent more than the $63,680,000,000 spent in 1943.

December sales were estimated at $7,450,000,000, the highest of any month on record, and eleven per cent above December, 1943. Even so, December sales were not as much above November sales as usual, and the department said this was because early shopping has shifted the seasonal pattern to some extent.

Two Factors Cited

Two factors were important in the 1944 gain, said the department:

Sales of durable goods started up again after two years of decline. "A large part of this increase was due to price rises. Particularly noticeable was the substantial rise of prices of furniture and home furnishings."

Quantity Greater

Retail prices in general continued to rise. The increase was moderate, however. The Commerce Department retail index rose about three per cent from the 1943 average, less than in any one of the three preceding years.

The department estimated that the actual quantity of goods sold by retailers was somewhat greater in 1944. Retail inventories decreased during the year.

Among major groups of retail stores, eating and drinking places registered the largest gain over 1943—sixteen per cent.

Filling stations increased their sales six per cent, a reversal of the downward movement of the two preceding years. The quantity of gasoline sold was larger than in 1943.

Students at William and Mary Reject Censor for College Paper

FEB 12 1945

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Feb. 12 (AP).—Students of the College of William and Mary today protested censorship of college publications which they said was offered as an alternative to suspension of publication as a result of an editorial in "The Flat Hat," college weekly, suggesting the time would come when Negroes should attend the school, fraternize and "marry among us."

Again and again it was stated from the floor at a student meeting that the question was not one of approval of the editorial, which many students have stated did not express their views, but a question of whether students wanted a censored publication.

Presented by Harvey Chappel, a student from Clarksville, Va., the students adopted by rising vote the following resolution:

"Being firm believers in the sacred principles of freedom of the press as laid down by our honored alumnus, Thomas Jefferson, we the students of the College of William and Mary in Virginia, meeting in organized assembly, do hereby protest the infringement of this doctrine. With this ideal in mind, the entire student body of this college rises, with one purpose in mind, that of perpetuating the principles of freedom of the press on this campus.

"We do, therefore, propose adoption of a policy which will insure free and uncensored student publications."

Miss Marilyn Kaemmerle, twenty-two-year-old student editor who wrote the editorial in "The Flat Hat," did not attend the meeting. She said in an interview today that she would "rather forget" about it but that she is sticking by the views she expressed.

Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, attended today's student meeting and said the students would have no difficulty getting a hearing from the board. He added that the board has an executive committee for the purpose of quick action. The president told the meeting that under Virginia law the board has the final word in administration.

It was the point of view of the board, Dr. Pomfret said, that the editorial raised a furor; that the college is supported by and is part of the state, and that when it aroused the community great harm is done.

In Michigan, the undergraduate editor's father, W. H. Kaemmerle, a store comptroller, said that he thought at the time he read the editorial his daughter was "taking a chance" because the college is in the South, and added:

"Marilyn can take care of herself. She is a reliable and bright girl."

The college board of trustees, meeting Saturday in Richmond, expressed "thorough disapproval and condemnation" and directed the college administration and faculty to take corrective and disciplinary action.

LONDON, FEB 12--MARSHAL IVAN KONI[illegible]IRTUALLY ENCIRCLING BRESLAU IN SILESIA AND RACING AHEAD 15 TO 27 [illegible]S A DAY, HAS FORCED TWO BRIDGEHEADS ACROSS THE BOBER RIBER 75 MILES OR LESS FROM DRESDEN, GERMAN BROADCASTS SAID TODAY.

THE GERMANS SAID KONEV'S TANKS HAD BROKEN INTO BUNZLAU ON THE BOBER, WHILE TO THE NORTH THEY HAD SMASHED THROUGH GERMAN DEFENSES SOME 12 MILES NORTH OF SAGAN. THIS POINT IS ABOUT 90 MILES SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN AND ONLY 30 MILES SOUTH OF MARSHAL GREGORY ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY WHICH THE GERMANS SAID HAD CROSSED THE ODER SOUTH OF FUERSTENBERG.

ZHUKOV THE GERMANS SAID, HAD MADE A SPURT TO WITHIN 15 MILES OF STETTIN, BERLIN'S BALTIC PORT. THE GERMANS SAID ZHUKOV'S RIGHT WING HAD PENETRATED TO BOTH SIDES OF MADUE SEE, A LAKE NORTH OF PYRITZ, WHERE THEY WERE MENACING THE REAR OF STARGARD, A STRONGPOINT OF STETTIN'S EASTERN DEFENSES.

THE BREAKTHROUGH AT SAGAN MENACED THE RAIL CENTER OF SORAU EIGHT MILES TO THE NORHHWEST AND INDICATED THAT KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN SPEARHEADS HAD EMERGED IN THE REAR OF GERMAN FORCES DUG IN ON THE ODER'S SOUTHERN BANK SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN.

SAGAN IS 27 MILES WEST OF THE FARTHEST POINT WHICH MOSCOW HAS REPORTED AS REACHED.

THE BREAKTHROUGH HERE THREATENED TO ROLL UP THE SOUTHERN FLANK OF BERLIN'S DEFENSES, WHILE THE SPEARHEAD POINTED AT STETTIN THREATENED THE NORTHERN FLANK.

KONEV'S BIG DRIVE AND THE CAPTURE YESTERDAY OF DEUTSCH-KRONE, NAZI CITADEL AND 12-WAY ROAD HUB IN POMERANIA, BY UNITS OF MARSHAL GREGORY K. ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY, PROMPTED THE MOSCOW RADIO TO DECLARE EARLY TODAY THAT HITLER'S WAR MACHINE HAS BEEN SMASHED AND CANNOT STAND UP TO THE CONTINUOUS, WIDENING SOVIET PRESSURE.

THAT PRESSURE, STEPPED UP BY THE RUSSIANS DURING THE WEEK-END, BROUGHT OTHER IMPORTANT GAINS AT THE NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN ANCHORS OF THE 800-MILE EASTERN FRONT.

A SWISS RADIO REPORT TODAY SAID SOVIET TROOPS HAD SWEPT TO THE OUTER DEFENSE AREA OF DANZIG AFTER CAPTURING ELBING. TO THE SOUTH IN POLISH SILESIA THE RUSSIANS, BY OFFICIAL MOSCOW ACCOUNT, DROVE TO WITHIN 25 MILES OF MORAVSKA OSTRAVA, THE PITTSBURGH OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA.

KONEV'S GREAT SILESIAN OFFENSIVE, MEANWHILE, WAS FOLDING THE GERMAN SOUTHERN FLANK BACK AGAINST THE MOUNTAINOUS SUDETEN FRONTIER OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND THREATENING TO CUT COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN THAT OCCUPIED COUNTRY AND BERLIN.

THE BERLIN RADIO SAID THE MONTH-OLD OFFENSIVE, WHICH HAS CARRIED 300 MILES FROM THE VISTULA RIVER, WAS MOVING SWIFTLY TOWARD DRESDEN AND HAD REACHED THE BOBER RIVER ON A 22-MILE FRONT BETWEEN BUNZLAU, 65 MILES WEST OF BRESLAU, AND SPROTTAU, 100 MILES SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN.

MOSCOW SAID THE NEAREST RUSSIAN APPROACHES TO DRESDEN WERE AT GREMSDORF, 11 MILES NORTHEAST OF BUNZLAU, AND AT PRIMKENAU, 11 MILES SOUTHEAST OF SPROTTAU. BOTH THE CAPTURED TOWNS ARE ABOUT EIGHT MILES EAST OF THE BOBER RIVER.

THE RAPID-DRIVING RUSSIANS ALSO CAPTURED KOSTENBLUT, 18 MILES SOUTHWEST OF BRESLAU, REACHING THE EDGE OF THE BERLIN-BRESLAU SUPER-HIGHWAY, THE MOSCOW COMMUNIQUE DISCLOSED. THEY WERE DRIVING CLOSE TO THE HIGHWAY AT MANY OTHER POINTS BETWEEN THERE AND THE BOBER RIVER.

AN INDICATION OF THE VAST DIMENSIONS OF THE SOVIET SWEEP CUTTING BETWEEN CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND BERLIN, WAS STALIN'S COMMENDATION YESTERDAY OF 55 GENERALS, INCLUDING 23 COMMANDERS OF INFANTRY FORMATIONS AND 15 ARTILLERY LEADERS, WHO DISTINGUISHED THEMSELVES IN THE BREAKTHROUGH.

AMONG THE 500 TOWNS AND VILLAGES CAPTURED YESTERDAY IN THE DRIVE, ACCORDING TO THE MOSCOW COMMUNIQUE, WERE FRIEDEMOST, THREE MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE ODER RIVER STRONGHOLD OF GLOGAU, WHICH IS 54 MILES NORTHWEST OF BRESLAU, AND QUARITZ, NINE MILES SOUTHWEST OF GLOGAU.

IN POMERANIA, THE RUSSIANS YESTERDAY CAPTURED 30 MORE LOCALITIES IN THEIR SWEEP TOWARD THE BALTIC AND STETTIN, PORT FOR BERLIN. THE GERMANS ANNOUNCED THAT RUSSIAN UNITS HAD BROKEN INTO THE DEFENSES OF ENCIRCLED SCHNEIDEMUEHL, 12 MILES SOUTHEAST OF CAPTURED DEUTSCH-KRONE.

MOSCOW SAID THE GERMANS HAD LOST 12,000 MEN IN PRISONERS ALONE DURING THE LAST WEEK IN THEIR DEFENSE OF BUDAPEST. THE RUSSIANS YESTERDAY CAPTURED 45 MORE BLOCKS IN THE CITY. IT WAS THE 47TH DAY OF THE SIEGE OF THE HUNGARIAN CAPITAL.

BRX London Brief Reaction (Postcript) xxx for all

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION WAS DRAWN IN LONDON TO THE FACT THAT A NEW POLISH SETTLEMENT--A COMPROMISE OF RUSSIAN AND BRITISH VIEWS--COMMANDED MORE SPACE IN THE SO-CALLED "CRIMEA CHARTER" THAN ANY OTHER SINGLE SUBJECT.

INITIAL REACTION HELD THE BIG THREE SOLUTION OF THE POLISH TANGLE WAS "REALISTIC" IN THAT IT RECOGNIZED THE SO-CALLED LUBLIN GOVERNMENT SPONSORED BY THE SOVIET UNION BUT AGREED THAT THIS GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE BROADENED TO INCLUDE OTHER POLISH LEADERS--PERHAPS SOME FROM AMONG THE POLISH EXILES IN LONDON.

THE AGREEMENT REACHED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND MARSHAL STALIN SOUNDED THE DEATH KNELL OF THE LONDON EXILE GOVERNMENT. THE POSITION TAKEN HERE, WAS THAT THE LONDON POLISH GOVERNMENT NO LONGER REPRESENTS THE POLES WHO ARE INSIDE POLAND, AND HENCE MUST BE DISSOLVED.

BRITAIN HAS FAVORED RUSSIAN ACQUISITION OF POLISH TERRITORY UP TO THE CURZON LINE, AND THE CRIMEA DECISION HAS PLEDGED ALL THREE BIG POWERS TO THIS WITH THE EXCEPTION OF BOUNDARIES WHICH WILL RUN A FEW MILES EITHER WAY.

AT THE SAME TIME, THE BIG THREE APPARENTLY FAILED TO AGREE ON JUST HOW LARGE A SLICE SHOULD BE TAKEN OUT OF GERMANY AND GIVEN TO POLAND, AS IT WAS DECIDED TO LET THIS ISSUE REST UNTIL THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

BOTH BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES AGREED TO RECOGNIZE A NEW PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT, TO BE FORMED AFTER A THREE-NATION CONFERENCE IN MOSCOW.

A COPY OF THE BIG THREE STATEMENT WAS GIVEN TO THE POLISH EXILE GOVERNMENT HERE BUT THAT GROUP HAD NO IMMEDIATE COMMENT.

NOR WAS THERE ANY IMMEDIATE REACTION FROM THE ROYAL YUGOSLAV GOVERNMENT TO THE ANGLO-AMERICAN-SOVIET DECREE WHICH APPARENTLY LEFT YOUNG KING PETER IN AN AWKWARD SPOT. PETER ANNOUNCED ONLY TONIGHT THAT HE HAD ASSENTED TO DR.IVAN SUBASIC GOING TO YUGOSLAVIA AT ONCE TO TRY TO WORK OUT THE YOUNG MONARCH'S DIFFICULTIES WITH MARSHAL TITO.

IN ENDORSING THE TITO-SUBASIC AGREEMENT THE BIG THREE SIMPLY AGREED TO A REGENCY FOR THE BALKAN NATION AND TOOK LITTLE COGNIZANCE OF PETER'S OBJECTIONS. IN DIRECT EFFECT IT WAS A COMPLETE VICTORY FOR MARSHAL TITO.

THE FEELING EXPRESSED IN LONDON WAS THAT THE UNITED STATES COULD HARDLY HAVE BEEN MORE FIRMLY COMMITTED TO A PART IN RE-FORMING EUROPE THAN IN THE SECTION OF THE BIG THREE COMMUNIQUE PLEDGING JOINT ASSISTANCE TO ANY LIBERATED OR FORMER AXIS SATELLITE NATION IN FORMING "INTERIM GOVERNMENTAL AUTHORITIES."

ONE OF THE "JOINT RESPONSIBILITIES" WILL BE TO SEE THAT THESE INTERIM GOVERNMENTS REPRESENT ALL DEMOCRATIC ELEMENTS. THE DETERMINATION OF THE FACTS AND THE BACKONG OF THIS PLEDGE WILL REQUIRE A DEEP DIPPING OF AMERICA'S HAND INTO THE EUROPEAN CAULDRON.

LONDON, TUESDAY, FEB. 13-(AP)-THE DATE WHICH THE ALLIED LEADERS HAVE SET FOR THE NEXT UNITED NATIONS MEETING IN SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 25, BECAME AN INTERNATIONAL DATE OF MYSTERY ~~TONIGHT~~ TODAY WITH LONDON SPECULATING ON ITS MEANING.

"IT IS THE LATEST DATE ON WHICH RUSSIA CAN GIVE NOTICE TO END THE STATE OF NEUTRALITY IN THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN," THE DAILY EXPRESS SAID.

"DOES IT MEAN THE LEADERS DECIDED ON THE FACTS BEFORE THEM THAT THE WAR AGAINST GERMANY MUST BE OVER BY APRIL 25?" ASKED THE DAILY MAIL.

"AT SAN FRANCISCO THE RUSSIANS WILL SIT DOWN FOR THE FIRST TIME WITH THE CHINESE," COMMENTED THE DAILY HERALD.

ALL NEWSPAPERS HERE GAVE THE HIGHEST EDITORIAL PRAISE FOR THOROUGHNESS, THE EXTENT OF PROBLEMS DEALT WITH, AND COMPREHENSIVENESS OF CONCLUSIONS. EDITORS WHO PUBLISHED PRELIMINARY EDITORIALS, IN THEIR EARLY EDITIONS, REWROTE THEM FOR LATER EDITIONS BUILDING UP THEIR ESTIMATION OF THE RESULTS OF THE MOMENTOUS SESSION.

BY ALEX H.SINGLETON

LONDON, FEB. 12-(AP)-JUST AS AT THE TEHRAN CONFERENCE, IT WAS ASSUMED HERE TONIGHT THAT THE BIG THREE PARLEY AT YALTA HAD REACHED MANY MORE DECISIONS THAN THOSE DISCLOSED IN THE JOINT ANGLO-AMERICAN-SOVIET COMMUNIQUE.

FOR EXAMPLE, IT WAS BELIEVED MAJOR-POWER DECISIONS REGARDING THE POLICING OF THE PEACE WOULD NOT BE MADE PUBLIC UNTIL AFTER GERMANY HAS BEEN DEFEATED. SUCH MATTERS UNDOUBTEDLY WILL FALL UNDER JURISDICTION OF THE PROMISED PERIODIC MEETINGS OF THE AMERICAN, BRITISH AND RUSSIAN FOREIGN MINISTERDB

NOER THE UNITED NATIONS

FEB 12 1945

JURISDICTION OF THE PROMISED PERIODIC MEETINGS OF THE AMERICAN, BRITISH AND RUSSIAN FOREIGN MINISTERS AFTER THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE ON WORLD ORGANIZATION.

THIS CONFERENCE, IT WAS ASSUMED, WOULD IN ALL PROBABILITY LAY THE GROUNDWORK FOR THE ANTICIPATED WORLD SECURITY LEAGUE.

IT WAS GENERALLY BELIEVED IN LONDON THAT SUCH A LEAGUE WOULD, AT THE OUTSET, BE CONFINED TO THE UNITED NATIONS. THAT WOULD RESTRICT BOTH NEUTRAL AND ENEMY COUNTRIES TO A PROBATIONARY STATUS UNTIL SUCH A TIME WHEN THEY WOULD BE WILLING AND ABLE TO INDICATE A DESIRE TO ASSUME ACTIVE ROLES TOWARD HELPING TO PRESERVE THE PEACE.

IN THIS RESPECT HOWEVER, IT WAS REGARDED AS PRACTICALWY CERTAIN THAT THE UNITED STATES WOULD REBEL AGAINST THE ADMISSION OF ARGENTINA UNTIL THE PRESENT POLICIES AND REGIME OF THE SOUTH AMERICAN NATION HAVE BEEN ALTERED. RUSSIA, IT WAS FELT, WOULD TAKE A SIMILAR ATTITUDE TOWARD THE INCLUSION OF SPAIN.

IF THE SITUATION DEVELOPS ALONG THOSE LINES, AS SOME DIPLOMATS HERE BELIEVE IT WILL, THEN THE PLACING OF CERTAIN NEUTRAL NATIONS ON INTERNATIONAL PROBATION FOR AN INDEFINITE PERIOD WOULD SERVE AS A WARNING TO THE WORLD THAT COLLECTIVE SECURITY FOR PRESERVING THE PEACE DEMANDS COMMON RESPONSIBILITY AND SACRIFICES FROM ALL COUNTRIES.

IF SOME DECISION ALONG THOSE LINES ACTUALLY WAS MADE AT THE YALTA CONFERENCE IT WAS CONSIDERED IT MIGHT BE AIMED PRIMARILY AT SPAIN AND ARGENTINA, LEAVING THE STATUS OF AT LEAST FIVE OTHER NEUTRALS--TURKEY, SWEDEN, PORTUGAL, SWITZERLAND AND EIRE--HANGING IN THE AIR.

IT WAS CONSIDERED PROBABLE HERE THAT SUCH A DECISION BY THE BIG THREE WOULD RESULT IN GIVING A WIDE BERTH TO THOSE SEVEN NATIONS, PLUS FINLAND, ITALY AND HITLER'S BALKAN SATELLITES, WHEN THE DAY ARRIVES FOR BALANCING UP THE BOOKS OF WAR.

HOWEVER, IN THIS RESPECT IT CAN BE POINTED OUT THAT ARTICLE EIGHT OF THE BIG THREE COMMUNIQUE, DEALING WITH LIBERATED EUROPE, STATES

THAT THE THREE LEADERS "WILL JOINTLY ASSIST THE PEOPLE OF ANY EUROPEAN STATE OR FORMER AXIS SATELLITE TO ACHIEVE THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT WHENEVER THE RIGHT IS THREATENED BY INTERNAL DISORDERS OR ECONOMIC DISTRESS OR THE LACK OF ADEQUATE INTERIM GOVERNMENTAL MACHINERY."

FEB 12 1945

LONDON, FEB. 12--(AP)--A BIG-THREE DECISION BARRING NEUTRAL NATIONS FROM THE PEACE TABLE AND IN EFFECT PLACING SOME OF THEM ON INTERNATIONAL PROBATION FOR AN INDEFINITE PERIOD WAS ANTICIPATED IN LONDON DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS TONIGHT.

IT WAS BELIEVED SUCH A STEP WOULD SERVE AS A WARNING TO THE WORLD THAT COLLECTIVE SECURITY DEMANDS COMMON RESPONSIBILITY AND SACRIFICES BY ALL COUNTRIES.

THE DECISION MOSTLY WOULD BE REGARDED AS A FORERUNNER TO A REVISION OF THE POSITION OF NEUTRALS IN THE RULES OF INTERNATIONAL WARFARE AND WOULD APPEAR TO BE AIMED CHIEFLY AT SPAIN AND ARGENTINA. THE POSITION OF AT LEAST FIVE OTHER COUNTRIES--EIRE, SWITZERLAND, SWEDEN, PORTUGAL AND TURKEY--WOULD BE LEFT UP IN THE AIR.

IT IS PROBABLE THAT SUCH AN ACTION BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND PREMIER MARSHAL STALIN WOULD MEAN THAT ALONG WITH FINLAND, ITALY AND HITLER'S BALKAN SATELLITES MOST OF THE SEVEN WOULD BE GIVEN THE COLD SHOULDER WHEN THE TIME COMES FOR ATTEMPTING TO BALANCE THE BOOKS OF WAR. THERE IS LITTLE DISPOSITION IN LONDON TO BELIEVE THAT ITALY'S BEHIND-THE-SCENES BID FOR FULL ALLIED STATUS WILL BE GRANTED.

WHILE TH S TREATMENT MAY BE APPLIED FOR THEIR WARTIME ATTITUDE-- FEB 12 1945
INDIFFERENCE, HOSTILITY OR FORCED TRADE WITH THE ENEMY--IT SHOULD BE EMPHASIZED THAT THE BIG POWERS DO NOT PLAN TO BREAK EITHER DIPLOMATIC OR ECONOMIC RELATIONS WITH THE NEUTRALS.

BRITAIN ALREADY HAS MADE ITS POSITION PLAIN, RICHARD LAW, UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS, TOLD THE HOUSE OF COMMONS ON NOV. 15:

"SO FAR AS THE GOVERNMENT ARE CONCERNED, THEY SEE NO REASON WHY ANY COUNTRY WHICH HAS NOT MADE A POSITIVE CONTRIBUTION TO THE UNITED NATIONS WAR EFFORT SHOULD BE REPRESENTED AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE OR AT ANY DISCUSSIONS ON PEACE SETTLEMENTS." FEB 12 1945

THE QUESTION WHICH PROVOKED LAW'S STATEMENT DEALT SPECIFICALLY WITH SPAIN YET HE ANSWERED IN GENERAL TERMS. HIS VIEWS ARE REGARDED IN DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES AS REFLECTING THOSE OF THE UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA.

THE CHIEF UNCERTAINTY, HOWEVER, HAS CENTERED AROUND THE RANG

30.24 — 22935

OF HIS DECLARATION AND THE DEFINITION OF "POSITIVE CONTRIBUTION."

TURKEY BROKE OFF ECONOMIC AND DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH GERMANY.

PORTUGAL PROVIDED THE ALLIES WITH AIR BASES IN THE AZORES.

SWITZERLAND AND SWEDEN CUT THEIR SUPPLY SHIPMENTS TO THE NAZIS.

AND EIRE, ALTHOUGH NEUTRAL, HAS MANY OF HER SONS FIGHTING UNDER BRITAIN'S BANNERS AS WELL AS MANY WORKERS IN HER NEIGHBOR'S WAR FACTORIES.

THE THREE BIG POWERS ARE EXPECTED TO MEASURE THESE STEPS TOGETHER WITH THE NEUTRALS' GEOGRAPHICAL AND MILITARY SITUATION AT THE TIME WHEN THE AXIS WAS STRONG AND THE ALLIES WERE WEAK. OTHER FACTORS WHICH WOULD BE TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION INCLUDE THE NEUTRALS' ATTITUDE TOWARD WAR CRIMINALS WHO SEEK SANCTUARY WITHIN THEIR BORDERS, THEIR TREATMENT OF INTERNEES AND THEIR AID IN MERCY SHIPMENTS TO PRISONERS OF WAR.

FEB 12 1945

ALTHOUGH THERE IS LITTLE LIKELIHOOD THAT THESE CONTRIBUTIONS--WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE CASE OF TURKEY--WILL WIN THE NEUTRALS PEACE TABLE SEATS, THESE FACTORS ARE EXPECTED TO PROVE OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE IN DETERMINING THE NEUTRALS' QUALIFICATIONS FOR ULTIMATE ENTRANCE INTO THE ENVISIONED WORLD SECURITY LEAGUE.

IT GENERALLY BELIEVED HERE THAT THE LEAGUE AT THE OUTSET WILL BE CONFINED TO THE UNITED NATIONS, LEAVING BOTH NEUTRAL AND ENEMY COUNTRIES ON PROBATION UNTIL THE TIME COMES WHEN THOSE COUNTRIES ARE WILLING AND ABLE TO SHOW A READINESS TO TAKE AN ACTIVE part in preserving the peace.

But it is regarded as equally certain that the Unites States will take the lead against the admission of Argentina and Russia against Spain until thepresent policies and regimes of both countries have been changed.

Justice Samuel Rosenman, Roosevelt's special assistant, arrived in London today possibly in connection with American-British arrangements. to release to European countries huges stores of food stuffs and clothing held in Britain for use in case the Germans disrupted supply lines.

FEB 12 1945

He was accompanied by Rupert Emerson and Daggett Howard of the foreign economic administration, William Taylor of the Treasury Dept., Lt. Col. James Davis of the Civil affairs department of the War Dept., Livingston Merchant, chief of the war areas division of the war deptartment, and Dudley Phelps, assistant chief of the division of financial and monetary affairs of the State Dept.

LONDON, FEB. 12--(AP).

The anonymity of "guts and misery" among American front-line soldiers was offered today by Stars and Stripes in explanation for the error in photo identification which gave the army newspaper two men-of-the year

The picture of an anonymous soldier first was published Jan. 1 with the explanation by the paper that it's nomination for man-of-the-year was "G.I. Joe", a tributeto American soldiers everywhere.

IN RESPONSE TO READERS QUERIES, THE PICTURE WAS RE-PUBLISHED JAN. 8 AND IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF SGT. HOBERT DREW OF BOOMINGDALE, N. J. THEN IT WAS DISCOVERED AN ASSISTANT PICTURE EDITOR MADE AN ERROR IN PUTTING THE CAPTION AND THAT THE PUBLISHED PICTURE REALLY WAS THAT OF SGT. JOHN H. PARKS OF MILL CREEK, IND.

FE 12 1945

(SGT. PARKS, 25, HAS BEEN MISSING IN GERMANY SINCE LAST DEC. 23, HIS MOTHER, MRS. ELLA HARNESS, DISCLOSED YESTERDAY IN MILL CREEK, IND)

"WE SEARCHED THOUSANDS OF PICTURES," EXPLAINED SGT. PETER LISAGOR OF CHICAGO, MANAGING EDITOR OF STARS AND STRIPES, "FOR ONE WHICH WOULD TYPIFY THE REAL MAN OF THE YEAR, GI JOE. IT WAS THE FACE WE WERE LOOKING FOR AND IT WAS PARKS'. HIS PICTURE EXPRESSED ALL THE MISERABLE CONDITIONS AND YET THE TENACIOUS HOPE OF THE DOUGHBOY.

"THE ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH SHOWED OUR JOE IN A TANK HELMET. WE FELT... THAT TANKER HELMET WOULD SUGGEST THE ARMORED FORCES ONLY--SO THE ART DEPARTMENT RETOUCHED TO MAKE THE ANONYMOUS MAN-OF-THE-YEAR AN IN-FANTRYMAN.

"NATURALLY, WE WERE EXTREMELY DISTRESSED TO LEARN OF THE ERROR. BUT AT THE SAME TIME, I THINK IT POINTS UP THE FACT THAT GI JOE REALLY IS AN ANONYMOUS PERSON. IN THAT PICTURE WAS MIRRORED THE GUTS AND MISERY OF THOUSANDS OF OTHER FRONTLINE SOLDIERS WHOSE NAMES IT WOULD BE AS IMPOSSIBLE TO CHRONICLE AS IT WOULD BE TO PAY ADEQUATE TRIBUTE TO THEIR BRAVERY.....THE REAL HOBART DREW AS AS DESERVING AS ANY GI XXXXX WE COULD FIND. HE IS NOW IN A UNITED KINGDOM BASE HOSPITAL RECOVERING FROM THE THIRD TIME OF BEING WOUNDED IN COMBAT.....

FEB 12 1945

"I HAVE NO IDEA WHAT PARKS' RECORD WOULD DISCLOSE, BUT I'M SURE IT SHOWS EQUAL HEROISM, JUST AS THERE ARE 10,000 OTHERS WHO MIGHT HAVE BEEN GI JOE."

ANOTHER COLUMN WAS FIVE MILES NORTH OF GOCH AFTER FIGHTING INTO HAU, ON THE MAIN KLEVE-GOCH HIGHWAY.

HERE THEY WERE 22 MILES FROM WESEL AND IN POSITION TO SMASH ALONG THE RHINE, ROLL UP THE POWERFUL WESTERN DEFENSES, AND BREAK INTO THE RUHR, GERMANY'S LARGEST REMAINING INDUSTRIAL AREA.

ON THE FIFTH DAY OF THE OFFENSIVE, THE ENTIRE FRONT HAD BEEN PUSHED FORWARD ROUGHLY 10 MILES, AND WAS THAT DEEP INTO GERMANY AT THE APEX. THE PRISONER TOLL ROSE TO MORE THAN 4,000.

THE GERMANS STILL HAD YET TO PUT UP A FIGHT ON THE NORTH FLANK, WHERE THEY HAD RELIED UPON THE RHINE, FLOODING OVER ITS LOW BANKS, TO HOLD BACK THE ASSAULT.

BUT THE CANADIANS, HOPPING FROM ISLAND TO ISLAND THAT ROSE ABOVE THE FLOOD, SEIZED A CLUSTER OF SIX GERMAN VILLAGES TODAY, INCLUDING BRIENEN, THREE MILES NORTH OF KLEVE.

FEB 12 1945

THEY HAD SWUNG ACROSS THE SPOY CANAL, WHICH RUNS FROM KLEVE TO THE RHINE AND PROVIDES ANOTHER HURDLE FOR ANY PUSH ALONG THE RHINE VALLEY.

AS THE U.S.FIRST ARMY 85 MILES TO THE SOUTHEAST WAITED FOR THE ROER TO SUBSIDE, PATROLS TRIED TO CROSS THE ROER NORTHEAST OF SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM LAST NIGHT BUT WITHDREW IN THE FACE OF CONSIDERABLE ARTILLERY FIRE.

PATROLS WHO CROSSED THE DAM ITSELF SAID THE GERMANS HAD PILLBOXES AND OTHER DEFENSIVE INSTALLATIONS AT THE SOUTH END OF THE DAM AND THESE WERE COVERED BY 88-MILLIMETER ARTILLERY FARTHER BACK.

HEAVY RAINS FELL ALONG THE FIRST ARMY FRONT, HALTING GROUND ACTIVITY.

LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY TROOPS 30 MILES TO THE SOUTH CRACKED INTO PRUEM YESTERDAY AND WITHIN A FEW HOURS CLEARED HALF OF IT.

A3

PRUEM, A TOWN OF 3,000 WHOSE STRATEGIC HIGHWAYS AND RAILROADS WERE PROTECTED ON THE APPROACHES BY DEEP FORTIFICATIONS AND MOUNTAIN RIDGES, HAD BEEN HEAVILY BATTERED BY ARTILLERY.

IT WAS THROUGH PRUEM THAT VON RUNSTEDT FUNNELED HIS ARMIES FOR THE ARDENNES BREAKTHROUGH, AND IT STOOD LIKE A ROCK WHEN THE U.S. FIRST ARMY LAST SEPTEMBER SLASHED THROUGH THE WESTWALL NORTH OF IT.

THIRD ARMY FORCES SWINGING DOWN 11 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM CAPTURED HARSPELT AND ENTERED SEVENING, NEAR THE NORTHERNMOST OF THREE OUR AND SURE RIVER BRIDGEHEADS, WHICH THE THIRD HAS FORGED FROM LUXEMBOURG SPRINGBOARDS FARTHER SOUTH.

A FRONT DISPATCH SAID THAT TWO OF THESE BRIDGEHEADS, FROM 20 TO 25 MILES SOUTH OF PRUEM, NOW WERE NEARLY FIVE MILES WIDE AND TWO MILES DEEP AND LACKED ONLY A QUARTER OF A MILE OF BEING MERGED. THE CAPTURE OF BOLLENDORF INDICATED THAT THIS JUNCTION WAS NEAR.

OF THE THREE, THE SOUTHERNMOUT IN THE ECHTERNACH AREA SEEMED THE MOST MENACING TO THE ENEMY, FOR THE SURE RIVER HAD BEEN BRIDGED HERE AT LAST, AND HEAVY EQUIPMENT WAS FLOWING ACROSS TO BACK UP THE HARD-PRESSED FOOT SOLDIERS DIGGING INTO THE MOUNTAINOUS SECTOR OF THE WESTW)).

THE FIFTH INFANTRY DIVISION HERE WAS BROUGHT UNDER ARTILLERY FIRE FROM THE SIEGFRIED LINE. IT WAS DISCLOSED THAT PART OF THE 76TH DIVISION ALSO WAS FIGHTING HERE.

FARTHER SOUTH IN THE SAAR BASIN, FIGHTING FLARED AS DOUGHBOYS KNOCKED THE GERMANS OUT OF ANOTHER BLOCK OF BUILDINGS IN SAARLAUTERN, MOST OF WHICH NOW IS IN AMERICAN HANDS.

...Y ACTIVITY ON THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY FRONT IN NORTHERN ALSACE WAS AT OBERHOFFEN, 15 MILES NORTH OF STRASBOURG, WHERE THE 36TH INFANTRY WAS COMPELLED TO YIELD SOME GROUND TO A COUNTERATTACK IN THE NORTHWESTERN FACTORY SECTION OF THE TOWN.

FEB 12 1945

IN SOUTHERN ALSACE, SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID, THE MARKET DAM THREE MILES NORTH OF BASEL, SWITZERLAND, WAS DAMAGED BY AN EXPLOSION APPARENTLY SET OFF BY THE GERMANS.

EARLIER REPORTS ERRONEOUSLY REPORTED THAT THE KEMBS DAM, FOUR MILES FARTHER NORTH, HAD BEEN BLOWN UP.

THIRD LEAD WESTERN FRONT

PARIS, FEB. 12-(AP)-THE WESTERN GERMAN FORTRESSES OF KLEVE AND PRUEM--115 MILES APART--FELL TODAY TO THE ONSLAUGHT OF THE CANADIAN FIRST AND U.S. THIRD ARMIES.

A FRONT DISPATCH DISCLOSED THE CAPTURE OF PRUEM, EIFEL MOUNTAIN STRONGHOLD, BY THE THIRD ARMY SHORTLY AFTER IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT THE CANADIANS HAD SEIZED THE NORTHERN ANCHOR AT KLEVE.

MOPPING UP WAS IN PROGRESS IN BOTH PLACES.

KLEVE, A CITY OF 20,000, LIES 12 MILES EAST OF NIJMEGEN, STARTING POINT OF THE CANADIAN OFFENSIVE. LIKE PRUEM, IT WAS REDUCED TO SMOKING RUINS BY INTENSIVE PREPARATORY BOMBARDMENT. BVP.

IN BETWEEN, ROER RIVER FLOODS CREATED BY GERMAN BREACHING OF HEADWATER DAMS KEPT THE U.S.FIRST AND THIRD AND THE BRITISH SECOND ARMIES IMMOBILE. THE RESERVOIRS BEHIND THE OPENED DAMS STILL WERE DRAINING BUT THE ROER, TWO MILES WIDE AT ONE PLACE, DID NOT APPEAR TO BE RISING FURTHER THAN THE SEVEN FOOT STAGE ALREADY REACHED AT SOME POINTS.

THE CANADIAN, BRITISH AND SCOTCH BULGE WAS ENLARGED ON BOTH THE NORTH AND SOUTH ENDS OF THE KLEVE SECTOR, AND ALLIED LINES ENCOMPASSED MORE THAN THREE FOURTHS OF THE REICHS FOREST. THE ALLIES WERE BEYOND THE MAIN DEFENSES OF THE ORIGINAL SIEGFRIED LINE IN THE NORTH.

THE CANADIANS CLEANED THE LOW RHINE LANDS UP TO A RAILROAD CONNECTING KLEVE WITH THE RIVER AND FORCED THE SPOY CANAL, LEADING FOUR MILES NORTH OF KLEVE TO THE RHINE.

AT POINTS BELOW KLEVE, THE ALLIES WERE WITHIN 22 MILES OF WESEL ON THE RHINE, NEAREST CITY OF THE GREAT RUHR INDUSTRIAL VALLEY.

THE CANADIANS BYPASSED OR CAPTURED RINDERN, WASSERBURG, WARDHSN AND BRIENEN.

FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S MEN MOVED ON BEYOND KLEVE, EVEN BEFORE IT FINALLY WAS CAPTURED.

TO THE SOUTH, PATROLS REACHED KESSEL, A ROAD CROSSING FOUR MILES NORTHWEST OF GOCH, SECOND MOST IMPORTANT TOWN IN THE REGION UNDER ATTACK. THE TOWN OF HAU ON THE MAIN KLEVE-GOCH HIGHWAY, FIVE AND A HALF MILES NORTH OF GOCH, ALSO WAS REACHED. AT THIS POINT, THE ALLIES WERE EIGHT MILES INSIDE GERMANY.

WITH THE CAPTURE OF MORE THAN 4,000 PRISONERS, THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY TOTAL SINCE D-DAY REACHED 123,520. THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, ALSO FIGHTING UNDER MONTGOMERY'S STANDARD, HAS TAKEN 101,878.

NOWHERE ALONG THE WINDENING 17-MILE KLEVE FRONT WERE THE GERMANS ABLE TO HOLD THE CRUSHING WEIGHT OF THE ALLIED ASSAULT, HOWEVER. A FRONT DISPATCH SAID THE DEFENSE STRATEGY APPEARED TO BE CONFUSED AND LACKING IN COORDINATION.

NEWLY CAPTURED PRISONERS LOOKED HAGGARD AND MENTALLY FLOGGED BY THE MASSES OF SHELLS AND BOMBS SPRAYED AMONG THEM. MANY WERE GRAY HAIRED BURGHERS OF 40 TO 55 YEARS. THEY WERE EXHAUSTED. SOME OF THE CRACK PARACHUTE TROOPERS WHO SURRENDERED SAID THEY WERE TOO DAZED AND BEATEN TO GO ANOTHER STEP. THEY ADDED THAT THEY FELT THE WAR WAS NEARLY OVER ANYWAY WITH THE RUSSIANS WITHIN 31 MILES OF BERLIN. THE CANADIANS AT KLEVE WERE 305 MILES AWAY.

THE GERMANS STILL WERE TRYING TO BRING UP "BITS AND PIECES" OF REINFORCEMENTS FROM NEARBY SECTORS. THESE WERE SUFFERING AS BAD IF NOT WORSE CASUALTIES FROM ALLIED WARPLANES AS THE MEN IN COMBAT.

ALLIED BARRAGES WERE SO HEAVY AND INCESSANT THAT THE RUMBLE LIKE THUNDER COULD BE HEARD 20 MILES AWAY AND PROBABLY ALSO IN THE EDGE OF THE RUHR.

TROOPS OF THE THIRD ARMY INVADING THE SAARLAND CAPTURED ANOTHER BLOCK OF BUILDINGS ACROSS THE SAAR RIVER FROM SAARLAUTERN IN A LIMITED ATTACK.

THE 90TH DIVISION ADVANCED A HALF MILE TO REACH TWO POINTS SIX AND FOUR MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM. THE 90TH BEAT OFF A COUNTERATTACKING DESTROYING THREE TANKS AND A SELF-PROPELLED GUN.

HASPELT, A MILE INSIDE GERMANY JUST OPPOSITE THE NORTHERN TIP OF LUXEMBOURG, WAS TAKEN BY A UNIT WHICH MOVED ON TO SEVENIG.

THE ECHTERNACH BRIDGEHEAD WAS WIDENED AT BOTH ENDS. BOLLENDORF WAS ENTERED. TROOPS OF THE FIFTH DIVISION REACHED BOTH SIDES OF ERNAZEN, TWO MILES NORTH OF ECHTERNACH.

THE CANADIANS AT KLEVE SAID THAT VETERAN GERMAN PARACHUTE TROOPS, MOVED FROM ALSACE, WERE STIFFENING THE SAGGING NAZI LINES. THE CANADIANS BAG OF PRISONERS IN THIS BATTLE, MOUNTING IN FEROCITY IN KLEVE'S STREETS, ROSE TO 3,500 YESTERDAY.

FEB 12 1945

AT PRUEM THE THIRD ARMY'S INVASION OF THE REICH GATHERED MOMENTUM AS THE BORDER LINE SURE RIVER WAS BRIDGED BY PONTOONS AT ONE POINT, ENABLING MEN AND SUPPLIES TO BOLSTER THREE BRIDGEHEADS WELDED FROM 10 CROSSINGS ON A 25-MILE FRONT.

MEANWHILE, THE BRITISH SECOND AND THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES, POISED BETWEEN PRUEM AND KLEVE, WERE IDLE, PERHAPS AWAITING A RECESSION OF THE FLOODED ROER RIVER ALONG THEIR FRONT. THE STREAM HAD RISEN TO SEVEN FEET ABOVE NORMAL NORTH OF AACHEN AND WAS TWO MILES WIDE AT ONE PLACE, BUT REPORTS TO SUPREME ALLIED HEADQUARTERS SAID THE PEAK IN THE FLOOD WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN REACHED.

THE GERMANS HAD LOOSED THE FLOOD BY BLOWING UP THE FLOODGATES OF THE GIANT SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM SOUTHEAST OF AACHEN. THE DAM NOW IS HELD BY TROOPS OF THE U.S. FIRST ARMY AT ONE END AND CONTROLLED AT THE OTHER BY ARTILLERY FIRE.

THE GERMANS APPARENTLY COUNTED ON THE FLOOD TO HOLD THEIR NORTH FLANK ALONG THE RHINE WHILE THEY CONCENTRATED ON A STUBBORN DEFENSE OF KLEVE.

ADMITTING CANADIAN GAINS, GERMAN BROADCASTS INSISTED THE DRIVE WAS BUT THE PRELUDE TO AN ALL-OUT OFFENSIVE FROM THE WEST.

KLEVE WAS OUTFLANKED BY FORCES BATTLING EASTWARD BOTH NORTH AND SOUTH OF THE CITY, MAKING THE SITUATION VIRTUALLY IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE NAZI DEFENDERS.

THE FIERCE RESISTANCE OFFERED IN PRUEM INDICATED THAT THE GERMANS WERE NOT DISPOSED TO GIVE UP THIS CITY EASILY, DESPITE THE THREAT OF AN OUTFLANKING MOVE NORTHEAST OF THE TOWN IN ADDITION TO THE FRONTAL ASSAULT BY THIRD ARMY DOUGHBOYS.

IN NORTHERN ALSACE, U. S. SEVENTH ARMY TROOPS BEAT OFF A TANK-SUPPORTED COUNTERATTACK NORTHEAST OF STRASBOURG BUT WERE FORCED TO RETIRE FROM DRUSENHEIM.

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 12-(AP)-THE LEGENDARY RUSSIAN METHOD OF CROSSING A RIVER--BY MARCHING ACROSS ON THE SHOULDERS OF COMRADES PATIENTLY STANDING UNDER WATER--WAS EMULATED TO SOME DEGREE BY HEROIC SCOTTISH TROOPS ON THIS BLAZING NORTHERN FRONT.

VANGUARDS OF A FAMOUS SCOTTISH DIVISION STORMED DOWN ON THE NIERS RIVER TOWN OF GENNEP, THREE MILES FROM THE WESTERN EDGE OF THE REICHSWALD, AND SAW A VITAL BRIDGE BLOWN UP ALMOST IN THEIR FACES.

THE UNDAUNTED SCOTS FELL BACK A QUARTER OF A MILE TO A NARROWER POINT OF THE RIVER. THEY HAD NO BOATS OR RAFTS. SOME COULDN'T SWIM, BUT THEY HAD ORDERS.

"ALL RIGHT, LADS," CAME THE COMMAND, "IN YE GO--AND DON'T BE STOPPIN' TO FISH!"

WADING UP TO THEIR CHINS, THE SCOTS STOICALLY FORDED THE ICY STREAM WITHOUT A SINGLE MISHAP. UNDERSIZED MEMBERS OF THE OUTFIT WERE CARRIED ACROSS ON THE SHOULDERS OF TALLER COMRADES.

BY THIS TIME, THE GERMAN GARRISON AT GENNEP, THINKING THE DESTRUCTION OF THE BRIDGE HAD DISCOURAGED THE ATTACKERS, SETTLED DOWN FOR A NIGHT'S SLEEP.

THE SCOTS WEREN'T SLEEPING. THEY WERE ON THE SOUTH BANK, SOAKED TO THE SKIN AND SHIVERING IN A WIND-WHIPPED SLEET STORM.

THEY SLIPPED THROUGH THE DARKNESS INTO THE WESTERN SIDE OF TOWN AND CAUGHT THE GERMANS NAPPING.

SUCH HAVOC DWARFS THAT OF NORMANDY AND HOLLAND, WHEN THE GERMANS WERE FIGHTING ON OTHER PEOPLES' PROPERTY.

AS TROOPS MOPPED UP THE PERSISTENT SNIPERS FROM THE HEAPS OF RUBBLE THAT ONCE HOUSED A POPULATION OF MORE THAN 20,000, THE INFANTRY PRESSED ON SOUTHEAST.

IT WAS THE 76TH'S 417TH REGIMENT WHICH WAS THE FIRST TO CROSS FROM LUXEMBOURG INTO GERMANY AND GAIN A FIRM FOOTHOLD ON THE EAST BANK OF THE SURE RIVER IN THE AREA OF ECHTERNACH.

A NEW ENGLAND RESERVE DIVISION IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR, THE 76TH WAS REACTIVATED IN JUNE OF 1942 AT FORT MEADE, S.D.

IT PROVIDED MANY OFFICERS AND MEN FOR OTHER DIVISIONS IN THE AFRICAN AND NORMANDY INVASIONS AND WAS HEADED OVERSEAS AT THE TIME FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT STRUCK IN THE ARDENNES.

ITS MOVEMENT THEN WAS SPEEDED THROUGH BRITAIN AND IT TOOK OVER ITS FRONT POSITIONS IN THE AREA OF ECHTERNACH, 18 MILES NORTHEAST OF THE CITY OF LUXEMBOURG, ON JAN.24.

MUCH OF ITS TRAINING WAS IN WINTER WARFARE IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN AND MICHIGAN.

WHILE THERE, IT ADOPTED THE CHIPPEWA INDIAN WARCRY OF "ONAWAY," WHICH BECAME ITS NICKNAME.

INSTEAD, THE GERMANS OPENED UP WITH BURP GUNS. LT.ALLEN T. SULLIVAN, ELIZABETH, N.J., AND CAPT.ORA L.NELSON, BATTLE CREEK, MICH., KILLED TWO OF THE FOE, LEAVING TEN IN SIGHT.

AGAIN DRAKE SHOUTED AT THE GERMANS TO QUIT SHOOTING, ADDING: "I'M COMING UP THERE SO DON'T TRY ANY MONKEY BUSINESS." WHEN HE REACHED THE TOP OF THE HILL AND LOOKED DOWN THE OPPOSITE SLOPE, HE SAW 50 MORE GERMANS.

"WE TRIED TO REMAIN CALM, OUTWARDLY AT LEAST," DRAKE SAID, "WE COULDN'T COMPETE WITH THEM IN FIRE POWER, OF COURSE, SO WE DECIDED TO TALK OUR WAY OUT."

A GERMAN SERGEANT TOOK DRAKE TO HIS COMMANDER AND ANNOUNCED: "I HAVE AN AMERICAN PRISONER." BEFORE THE CAPTAIN COULD REPLY, DRAKE DECLARED BOLDLY:

"LIKE HELL I'M A PRISONER. I CAME HERE TO OBTAIN YOUR SURRENDER. WE OUTNUMBER YOU THREE TO ONE."

THE NAZI OFFICER HESITATED A FEW SECONDS AND THEN SAID:

"I CANNOT SURRENDER."

"OKAY, IF THAT'S THE WAY YOU FEEL ABOUT IT," DRAKE SAID, "I ASSUME YOU'LL GIVE ME FIVE MINUTES TO RETURN TO MY TROOPS."

THE CAPTAIN, APPARENTLY CONFUSED BY DRAKE'S FAST TALK, SAID:
"ALL RIGHT, BUT ONLY FIVE MINUTES."
DRAKE SAID THE TRIP BACK TO HIS COMPANIONS REQUIRED SLIGHTLY LESS THAN A SINGLE MINUTE. BEFORE THE GERMANS REALIZED WHAT WAS HAPPENING, THE AMERICANS MADE A RUN FOR IT AND GOT AWAY. SEVERAL HOURS LATER WHILE DRAKE WAS SITTING AT A COMMAND POST, A GROUP OF GERMAN PRISONERS WERE BROUGHT INSIDE. ONE WAS THE CAPTAIN TO WHOM DRAKE HAD TALKED.
WITH A SLIGHT TRACE OF A SMILE, HE SAID TO DRAKE:
"I CAUGHT HOLY HELL FROM THE REGIMENTAL COMMANDER FOR LETTING YOU GO."

"I BET EVERY MAN UP THERE IN THOSE MUDDY HOLES PRAYED AT LEAST ONCE EACH DAY AND SOME MUST HAVE AVERAGED A PRAYER AN HOUR. I'D HEARD BEFORE THAT MEN REACT THAT WAY IN SUCH PLACES, BUT NOW I KNOW."
PVT. DONALD LOWELL OF 1700 CENTER AVENUE, GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., HEARD THIS SUMMATION BY HIS SERGEANT, OF 5 PROSPECT PLACE, NEW YORK CITY, AND SILENTLY PULLED A SOGGY POCKET TESTAMENT FROM HIS MUDDY BATTLE JACKET.
ONLY A WEEK AGO HE AND ALL THE 417TH REGIMENT WERE NEWCOMERS TO WAR. TODAY HE AND HIS SURVIVING COMPANIONS HAD COME THROUGH A HARROWING INITIATION AND WERE FILLED WITH A STRANGE MIXTURE OF PRIDE, HUMILITY, THANKFULNESS AND RELIEF.
OVOBUDNSHOUL

PRIDE, HUMILITY, THANKFULNESS AND RELIEF.
BUT THOSE EMOTIONS COULDN'T BE DESCRIBED BY THE MEMBERS OF THIS COMPANY WHEN THEY WERE LED BACK BY THEIR COMMANDER, LT. RICHARD BLUHM, 165 WEST CHURCH STREET, FAIRPORT, N.Y. THEY CAME STUMBLING DOWN THE SLIMY SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN WHICH THEY AND OTHER COMPANIES OF THE FIRST BATTALION WON IN THE DARKNESS SIX DAYS AGO AND HELD ALMOST WITHOUT HELP FOR SEVERAL DAYS.
ALL YOU COULD SEE IN THOSE DIRTY, WHISKERED FACES WAS THE BITTER AND COMPLETE FATIGUE OF MEN WHO HAD LIVED IN CONTINUOUS DANGER WITH LITTLE FOOD AND LESS SLEEP FOR NEARLY A WEEK.
"WE CAME ACROSS THE SAUER NORTH OF ECHTERNACH AT 1 A.M. FEB.7 AND WERE CAUGHT IN CROSSFIRE JUST ON THIS SIDE," BLUHM SAID, "AND FROM THEN ON ACROSS A QUARTER OF A MILE OF FLAT GROUND TO THE FOOT OF THE MOUNTAIN WE CAUGHT HELL FROM SMALL ARMS, MORTARS, 88'S AND MINES.
"ONCE WE GOT ON THE HILLSIDE, THE FIRE LESSENED, BUT IT TOOK US THREE HOURS JUST TO CLIMB THAT STEEP MUDBANK, SLIPPING BACK ONE STEP EVERY TIME WE TOOK A STEP FORWARD. BUT WE REACHED OUR OBJECTIVE ON THE FLAT HILLTOP AND WE HUNG ON."
WHAT THE LIEUTENANT DID NOT SAY AND, IN FACT, DIDN'T KNOW WAS THAT HIS COMPANY AND OTHERS OF THE FIRST BATTALION UNDER LT. COL. CLARENCE A.METTE, JR., OF LOS ANGELES, WERE THE ONLY ONES IN ALL THE SAUER AND OUR RIVER CROSSING POINTS TO REACH THEIR INITIAL OBJECTIVES IN FULL STRENGTH ON THE FIRST DAY--AN ACCOMPLISHMENT ANY NEW OUTFIT COULD BE PROUD OF.

B69
ONCE ON THE TABLE-LIKE HILLTOP A MILE AND A HALF INSIDE GERMANY AND WELL INTO THE SIEGFRIED LINE POSITIONS, THE FIRST BATTALION FOUND ITSELF OUT ON A LIMB WITH GERMANS ON THREE SIDES AND BY-PASSED PILLBOXES IN THE REAR SWEEPING THE APPROACHES SO THAT REINFORCEMENTS AND SUPPLIES COULD NOT START IN ANY VOLUME UNTIL FEB.10.

"IT FELT KIND OF LONELY UP THERE AND WE WERE GETTING PRETTY SHORT OF AMMUNITION AND FOOD WHEN CUB PLANES STARTED DROPPING STUFF TO US ON FEB.9," SAID STAFF SGT KENNETH WILLIAMS OF BINGHAMPTON, N.Y.
"WE HALF A K-RATION PER MEAL AND LIVED ON WATER FROM THE FOXHOLES OR WHAT WE CAUGHT IN OUR BLANKETS," SAID LT.ROBERT SEITER, A PLATOON LEADER FROM LIMA, OHIO.
THERE WAS SCARCELY AN HOUR WHEN THE ISOLATED FORCE WAS NOT BEING SLASHED AT BY SNIPERS, BURP GUNNERS, MORTARS AND 88'S, BUT, FOR SOME REASON, THE GERMANS NEVER ATTACKED IN STRENGTH AND MADE ONLY ONE EFFORT TO DISLODGE METTE'S MEN.
SGT. HARRY SALIS, 44 EATON STREET, BUFFALO, N.Y., SAID "WHATEVER YOU WRITE, BE SURE AND SAY ALL OUR MEDICS WERE WONDERFUL AND ONE NAMED ARVIN (PFC. RICHARD ARVIN OF YORK, PA.) SAVED PLENTY OF LIVES FOR US, RUNNING AROUND UNDER SNIPER FIRE TO TAKE CARE OF OUR WOUNDED."
THE 417TH'S SECOND BATTALION CAME ACROSS THE FLATS FEB.8 TO FIGHT ITS WAY THROUGH PILLBOXES PASSED BY THE FIRST AND TO CLEAN OUT THE RIVER BANK, AND TODAY IT MOVED OUT UNDER DIRECTION OF MAJ. CLAUDE BARR, SPARTANBURG, S.C., DEEPER INTO THE SIEGFRIED POSITIONS.
CAPT. HOMER SCHMIDT, OPERATIONS OFFICER FROM PRESTON, MD., SUMMED UP THE REACTION OF COMMANDERS TO THE WHOLE REGIMENT'S PERFORMANCE:
"THEY COULDN'T HAVE GIVEN US A MUCH ROUGHER JOB AND I DON'T SEE HOW ANY VETERANS ANYWHERE COULD HAVE DONE AS WELL AS THESE GREEN MEN. THEY WERE MAGNIFICENT."

A LITTLE LATER, SHEA CRAWLED UP THE HILL WHILE RIFLE AND MACHINE GUN BULLETS WHINED AROUND HIM. HE SEIZED THE RADIO AND MADE HIS WAY BACK TO SAFETY.

SHEA, WHO LATER WON A FIELD COMMISSION, WAS AWARDED THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL FOR KNOCKING OUT THREE GERMAN MACHINE GUN NESTS, KILLING THREE NAZIS AND TAKING SEVEN PRISONERS.

GREEK SEPARATE (400)

BY STEPHEN BARBER

ATHENS, FEB. 12-(AP)-SINATOS, SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY IN GREECE AND SPOKESMAN FOR THE LEFTWING EAM, SAID TONIGHT HE WAS WELL PLEASED WITH THE AGREEMENT SIGNED WITH THE GOVERNMENT "AND I BELIEVE THE WHOLE GREEK PEOPLE WILL BE PLEASED EXCEPT THOSE WHO HAVE AN INTEREST IN THE CONTINUANCE OF STRIFE FOR THEIR OWN PARTY BENEFITS."

SPEAKING AT HIS FIRST FULL-DRESS PRESS CONFERENCE, THE EAM LEADER SAID OF HIS ORGANIZATION'S FUTURE PROGRAM, "OUR POLICY ALWAYS HAS BEEN TO INSURE POPULAR LIBERTY AND DEMOCRATIC EVOLUTION. FOR THIS WE WILL CONTINUE TO STRUGGLE."

"IN SUCH A CONFLICT AS THIS," HE SAID, REFERRING TO THE CIVIL WAR, "THE FRUITS WILL BE OBVIOUS LATER ON. IT WAS A CONFLICT BETWEEN OPPOSING CURRENTS--ONE THE POPULAR MOVEMENT WHICH SEEKS A NEW AND BETTER FUTURE AND THE OTHER THE OLD WORLD WHICH CONSIDERS POWER IN ..R COUNTRY A GOD-GIVEN SOMETHING NEVER TO CHANGE. IT WAS THESE TWO ..URRENTS WHICH CLASHED."

HE EMPHASIZED THAT IN HIS VIEW THE CLASH DID NOT ORIGINATE FROM THE LEFT. HE DENIED THAT THE EAM-ELAS ATTEMPTED A COUP D'ETAT DEC. 3 AND SAID THE TROUBLE AROSE FROM FORMER PREMIER GEORGE PAPANDREOU'S ORDER OF THAT DAY PROHIBITING A DEMONSTRATION.

"ON OUR PART THIS CONFLICT WAS NOT ORGANIZED," HE SAID. "THE DEMONSTRATION WAS UNARMED," HE SAID. "PAPANDREOU ATTACKED WITH RIFLES. WE HAD NO FEWER THAN 100 DEAD AND WOUNDED. THE NEXT DAY THE PEOPLE WENT TO THE FUNERAL OF THOSE DEAD AND PAPANDREOU AGAIN ATTACK WITH RIFLES. THUS THE CONFLICT BEGAN."

THE STRUGGLE COST 10,000 CASUALTIES, SIANTOS (CO) ESTIMATED, IN ELAS TROOPS AND CIVILIANS ON THE ELAS SIDE OF THE LINES. HE SAID THE ELAS MUSTERED ONLY 3,000 AT THE BEGINNING OF THE FIGHTING.

SIANTOS CONTENDED THAT "THE EAM-ELAS NEVER GAVE DIRECTIVES THAT HOSTAGES BE ILL-TREATED OR KILLED. IF EXECUTIONS TOOK PLACE THEY MUST HAVE BEEN COMMITTED BY IRRESPONSIBLE PEOPLE AGAINST WHOM WE OURSELVES STAND."

FEB 12 1945

SIANTOS SAID THAT SINCE THE ALLIES DECIDED IT WAS USEFUL FOR THE BRITISH ARMY TO BE IN GREECE, IT MUST BE SO.

"THE FACT THAT BRITISH SOLDIERS HAD A CONFLICT WITH THE ELAS WAS AN UNFORTUNATE MISUNDERSTANDING WHICH IS NOW PAST AND WILL BE FORGOTTEN," THE COMMUNIST LEADER ADDED.

AT THE FORTHCOMING ELECTIONS THE COMMUNIST PARTY INTENDS TO STAND WITHIN THE EAM COALITION TO WHICH SIANTOS SAID HE EXPECTED OTHER LEFTWING PARTIES ALSO WOULD ADHERE.

MOSCOW, FEB. 12-(AP)-NATIONWIDE APPROVAL OF THE DECISIONS REACHED AT THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE MAY BE EXPECTED FROM THE SOVIET UNION--WITHOUT WAITING FOR OFFICIAL COMMENT--BECAUSE IN THE EYES OF RUSSIAN CITIZENS THEY FALL CONSISTENTLY IN LINE WITH SOVIET FOREIGN AND MILITARY POLICIES.

OF UPPERMOST INTEREST TO RUSSIANS WAS THE AGREEMENT FOR THE FINAL DEFEAT OF GERMANY, ESPECIALLY THE PORTION WHICH SAID, "THE TIMING, SCOPE AND COORDINATION OF NEW AND EVEN MORE POWERFUL BLOWS TO BE LAUNCHED BY OUR ARMIES AND AIR FORCES INTO THE HEART OF GERMANY FROM THE EAST, WEST, NORTH AND SOUTH HAVE BEEN FULLY AGREED AND PLANNED IN DETAIL."

THAT THE CRIMEA AGREEMENT INCLUDED ALL FOUR DIRECTIONS FOR THE COMING BLOWS ON GERMANY--IT BEING REMEMBERED THAT THE TEHERAN CONFERENCE SAID NOTHING ABOUT THE NORTH--WAS OF CONSIDERABLE INTEREST TO THE RUSSIANS.

THE MAIN HOPE WAS THE PROMISE IN THE COMMUNIQUE THAT THE DECISIONS REACHED AT CRIMEA "WILL RESULT IN SHORTENING THE WAR."

FEB 12 1945

THE SECTION DEALING WITH THE OCCUPATION OF GERMANY WAS OF IMMENSE SATISFACTION TO THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE, WHO NEVER HAVE OBJECTED TO THE THREE POWERS OCCUPYING SEPARATE ZONES. THE RUSSIANS LOOK MOST FAVORABLY ON FRANCE JOINING IN THE OCCUPATION AND PARTICIPATING AS A FOURTH MEMBER OF THE CONTROL COMMISSION. SOVIETS FEEL THAT GENERAL ARLES DE GAULLE'S VISIT TO MOSCOW HAD SOME INFLUENCE ON THIS.

IT ALSO WAS CONSIDERED FLATTERING THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL CAME TO RUSSIAN SOIL FOR THE MEETING. THEY PARTICULARLY APPLAUDED ROOSEVELT FOR THE PERSONAL EFFORT INVOLVED IN HIS LONG JOURNEY, THE LAST LEG OF IT BY PLANE.

MOSCOW, FEB. 12-(AP)-MARSHAL IVAN C. KONEV'S DRIVE NORTHWEST OF BRESLAU DREW FRESH GERMAN DIVISIONS FROM OTHER SECTORS FOR THE DEFENSE OF SAXONY TODAY AND STRETCHED TAUGHT THE LIFELINES OF THE REICH BETWEEN BERLIN AND MUNICH.

THE GERMANS SAID RUSSIAN TANKS AND MOBILE INFANTRY WERE TRYING TO CROSS A WATERLINE BETWEEN THE ODER RIVER AND SAXONY -- WHICH, IF TRUE, MIGHT BE THE BOBER RIVER WEST OF CAPTURED HAYNAU -- BUT THE SOVIET HIGH COMMAND MADE NO ADMISSION OF SUCH OPERATIONS.

DISPATCHES SAID, HOWEVER, THAT RED ARMY UNITS WERE PRESSING ON FROM HAYNAU TOWARD BUNZLAU, ON THE BOBER 16 MILES TO THE WEST AND ON THE MAIN HAYNAU - DRESDEN HIGHWAY.

GERMAN TROOPS FROM SAXONY AND ITALY WERE IN THE LATEST GROUPS OF CAPTIVES TAKEN IN THE SNOWY, WOODED COUNTRY AS THE NAZIS SOUGHT TO STEM KONEV'S MASSIVE DRIVE.

THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND THIS MORNING WAS TRYING TO PLUG GAPS IN THE ODER RIVER FRONT, NOW OVER 500 MILES LONG, AND THE EFFORT WAS STRAINING THE NAZI RESERVES TO THE LIMIT.

KONEV EARLY TODAY HAD EXPANDED THE WIDTH OF HIS SILESIAN BREAK-THROUGH TO MORE THAN 100 MILES AND GONE WESTWARD TO A DEPTH OF 50 MILES.

IN HIS DRIVES ACROSS THE MAIN RAILWAYS FROM BERLIN AND THE BIG AUTO HIGHWAY HAVE CUT OFF SILESIA FROM THE CAPITAL AND THE REST OF GERMANY. RED ARMY DOMINATION OF THE ENTIRE SILESIAN AREA IS A FACT.

(FELDMAN SAID AMERICAN CASUALTIES WERE BEING FLOWN FROM MANILA, PUT ON TRANSPORT PLANES AT A FIELD IN THE REAR AND THEN TAKEN TO HOSPITALS IN SAFE AREAS.)

THERE WAS NO RETURN FIRE MONDAY FROM "LITTLE TOKYO"--THE LAST SIZABLE POCKET OF JAPANESE RESISTANCE ON THE WATERFRONT NORTH OF THE PASIG RIVER. THE AMERICANS THUS VIRTUALLY COMPLETED CONTROL OF THE CITY NORTH OF THE RIVER.

BUT THE 200 YARD WIDTH OF THE PASIG WAS NOT ENOUGH OF A BARRIER TO PREVENT JAPANESE ARTILLERY FROM POUNDING THE NORTH SIDE.

THE BRUNT OF THE VICIOUS CLOSE QUARTER FIGHTING BETWEEN HOUSES AND IN NARROW STREETS IS BEING BORNE BY THE 37TH INFANTRY.

MACARTHUR REPORTED THAT "FIGHTING HAS BEEN EXTRAORDINARILY FIERCE."

AT NICHOLS FIELD, VIRTUALLY SURROUNDED BY THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION, 111 ENEMY PILLBOXES HAVE BEEN DESTROYED AND LARGE QUANTITIES OF EQUIPMENT CAPTURED, INCLUDING 75 ARTILLERY PIECES.

THE 37TH INFANTRY AND FIRST CAVALRY DIVISIONS EFFECTED THEIR JUNCTION SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER NEAR THE PACO RAILROAD STATION. ANOTHER COLUMN OF FIRST CAVALRYMEN JOINED THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION JUST NORTH OF THE AMERICAN POLO CLUB.

THUS THE AMERICANS PUT THE SQUEEZE ON THE DESPERATE JAPANESE DEFENDERS TRAPPED HOPELESSLY BETWEEN THE UNITED YANK FORCES, MANILA BAY AND THE WINDING PASIG RIVER AT THE NORTH.

GENERAL MACARTHUR EXULTED:

"THE ENEMY REMNANT NOW IS CLOSELY ENCLOSED AND IS GRADUALLY BEING COMPRESSED INTO EXTINCTION."

MACARTHUR SAID EVERY CARE WAS BEING TAKEN TO KEEP AMERICAN CASUALTIES AT A MINIMUM AND TO PRESERVE PROPERTY IN SHELL-WRECKED AND FLAME-BLACKENED MANILA "AS WE GRADUALLY EXTERMINATE THE TRAPPED GARRISON."

HE SAID THE ENTIRE CITY WAS MINED AND DEFENDED "SO THAT THE PROCESS OF CLEARING IT IS SOMEWHAT SLOWED BY THE ELIMINATION OF COSTLY ASSAULT METHODS TO THE SAFER PROCESS OF MINE-SWEEPING, ENVELOPMENT AND INFILTRATION."

ARMORED UNITS OF THE SIXTH DIVISION REACHED THE PACIFIC COAST OF LUZON FOR THE FIRST TIME AS THEY ROLLED TO THE COAST OF DINGALEN BAY OVER A MOUNTAIN ROAD FROM BONGABON ON THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAIN.

LIBERATOR BOMBERS POURED A RECORD LOAD OF MORE THAN 200 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON CORREGIDOR FORTRESS AT THE MOUTH OF MANILA BAY, DESTROYING KEY ANTI-AIRCRAFT POSITIONS AND FOUR COASTAL GUNS.

SOUTHERN BATAAN, IMMEDIATELY NORTH OF CORREGIDOR, WAS HEAVILY POUNDED BY BOMBERS OF ALL CLASSES IN WHAT MACARTHUR TERMED "SATURATION ATTACKS," WHICH CAUSED WIDESPREAD DAMAGE TO INSTALLATIONS. MORE THAN 700 TONS OF BOMBS HAVE BEEN POURED ON BATAAN IN RECENT RAIDS.

PATROL BOMBERS SANK 35 LOADED BARGES OFF BATAAN, DESTROYING AN ESTIMATED 2,500 TROOPS ABOARD, DURING THESE OPERATIONS.

LIGHT BOMBERS IN SUPPORT OF GROUND OPERATIONS DESTROYED THREE ENEMY GUN POSITIONS, 40 MOTOR VEHICLES AND LEFT NUMEROUS FIRES.

HEAVY BOMBERS HIT FORMOSA AGAIN, SETTING NUMEROUS PARKED PLANES AFIRE AT HEITO AIRDROME ON THE SOUTHWEST COAST. THIRTEEN ENEMY AIRCRAFT WERE SHOT DOWN OVER FORMOSA AND NEARBY BATEN ISLAND.

A SMALL FREIGHTER WAS SUNK AND A NAVAL ESCORT DAMAGED IN SHIPPING AROUND FORMOSA AND THE PESCADORES ISLANDS TO THE WEST. AIR PATROLS DAMAGED A SMALL FREIGHTER OFF THE FRENCH INDO-CHINA COAST AND PROBABLY SANK A DESTROYER-TRANSPORT TO THE EAST. AN ENEMY FIGHTER WAS SHOT DOWN NORTH OF CAMRANH BAY, INDO CHINA.

OTHER WIDESPREAD AIR RAIDS SWEPT THE CENTRAL PHILIPPINES, CELEBES, THE MOLUCCA GROUP AND ISLANDS NORTH OF NEW GUINEA. MICA MINES IN THE BANGAI ISLANDS WERE A NEW TARGET.

-ARTILLERY FURTHER BATTERED THIS FIRE-REDUCED SHELL OF A CITY TODAY AS THE TRAPPED JAPANESE GARRISON EVEN USED A HOSPITAL TO MOUNT FIVE-INCH NAVAL GUNS.

THEY ALSO PLACED GUNS AND MORTARS IN CHURCHES, HOMES AND HOTELS IN THEIR DESPERATE FIGHT TO DELAY THE AMERICAN SQUEEZE SLOWLY CRUSHING THEM IN A BLOODY TRIANGLE BETWEEN MANILA BAY AND THE PASIG RIVER.

"THERE IS NOTHING WE CAN DO BUT BLOW THEM OUT WITH ARTILLERY," DECLARED COL. LAWRENCE WHITE, KANSAS CITY, MO., COMMANDER OF THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION'S 146TH REGIMENT.

HE ADDED: "THIS IS A FULLSCALE ARTILLERY BATTLE AND YOU KNOW WHAT THAT DOES TO A CITY."

THERE DIDN'T SEEM TO BE MUCH MORE IT COULD DO TO ONCE PROUD MANILA, WITH IT'S BUSINESS AND SOME OTHER SECTIONS ALREADY BURNED AND BLASTED WITH RUINS.

FIRES STILL BURNED A WEEK AFTER THE DOOMED JAPANESE STARTED DEMOLITION IN THE BUSINESS DISTRICT, BEFORE BEING PUSHED SOUTH ACROSS THE PASIG.

FEW OF THE REMAINING LARGER BUILDINGS WERE EXPECTED TO ESCAPE DAMAGE FROM THE FLAMES OR ARTILLERY FIRE.

THE JAPANESE MOUNTED THE NAVAL GUNS ON THE SECOND AND THIRD FLOORS OF THE PHILIPPINE GENERAL HOSPITAL.

WITH THESE AND 75 MM GUNS, MORTARS AND MACHINE GUNS THEY POUNDED THE POSITIONS HELD IN THE STREET-BY-STREET ADVANCE SOUTH AND WEST BY THE 37TH DOUGHBOYS AND FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION.

THE 37TH, ON THE TENTH DAY OF THE BATTLE FOR MANILA, WAS FIGHTING THROUGH THE STREETS OF THE RESIDENTIAL ERMITA DISTRICT. THEY FACED ENEMY ARTILLERY FIRE FROM GUNS PLACED IN THE THICK WALLS OF THE OLD INTRAMUROS (WALLED CITY).

ELEMENTS OF THE FIRST CAVALRY HAD PUSHED ACROSS NEILSON AIRFIELD AND THROUGH THE SANTA ANA DISTRICT.

THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION, PRESSING INTO THE CITY ALONG THE BAY FROM THE SOUTH, WAS STILL ENGAGED IN HEAVY FIGHTING AROUND NICHOLS FIELD.

SOME OF THE HARDEST FIGHTING SUNDAY WAS AROUND THE ERMITA CEMETERY, ABOUT A MILE AND A HALF FROM THE HIGH COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENT ON THE WATERFRONT.

THIS HEAVILY MINED AREA HAD TO BE CLEARED BY THE AMERICANS UNDER WITHERING ENEMY MACHINE GUN AND ARTILLERY FIRE, INCLUDING THE FIVE-INCH SHELLS FROM THE HOSPITAL.

THE 129TH REGIMENT OF THE 37TH CAPTURED STUBBORNLY DEFENDED PROVISOR ISLAND IN THE PASIG, FROM WHICH ENEMY MORTAR FIRE HAD DAMAGED ONE OF THREE AMERICAN PONTOON BRIDGES ACROSS THE RIVER. AMERICAN ARTILLERY ALSO HAD SILENCED JAPANESE GUNS ON "LITTLE TOKYO", THE PREWAR JAPANESE SECTION OF DELTA ISLAND, NEAR THE MOUTH OF THE PASIG.

BITTER FIGHTING CONTINUED ON THE BATAAN PENINSULA AND IN THE ZAMBALES MOUNTAINS, WEST OF CLARK FIELD.

ARMORED UNITS OF THE SIXTH DIVISION WERE APPROACHING THE PACIFIC SIDE OF CENTRAL LUZON. THEIR ADVANCE HAD COMPLETED THE SEVERANCE OF ALL NORTH-SOUTH HIGHWAYS ON THE ISLAND.

MANILA, FEB 12 (AP)-THE BITTER, CUNNING AND BLOODY FIGHT FOR MANILA, AGAINST THE BACKDROP OF A BLACKENED AND STILL BURNING CITY, PLOUGHED SLOWLY AHEAD TODAY, HOUSE BY HOUSE AND STREET BY STREET.

THE QUEEN CITY OF THE PHILIPPINES BURNED FOR THE EIGHTH CONSECUTIVE NIGHT LAST NIGHT. DOWNTOWN MANILA, SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER, IS A SCENE OF DESOLATION.

HUNDREDS OF JAPANESE DEAD HAVE BEEN COUNTED IN THE STREETS. MANY MORE HUNDREDS PROBABLY ARE BURIED BENEATH THE DEBRIS WHICH THEY HAVE PULLED DOWN AND ARE CONTINUING TO PULL DOWN WITH THEM.

FIGHTING OF THIS BITTERNESS IS NOT BEING DONE WITHOUT COST TO US OR THE FILIPINOS WHOSE CITY HAS BEEN TURNED INTO A BATTLE ZONE. IN THE EMBATTLED SOUTHERN SECTION, THE 37TH INFANTRY AND FIRST (DISMOUNTED) CAVALRY DIVISIONS ARE SLOWLY SQUEEZING THE ENEMY BETWEEN THE RIVER AND THE BAY FRONT.

PROBABLY THE TOUGHEST FIGHT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON WAS AROUND THE ERMITA CEMETERY, ABOUT A MILE AND A HALF FROM THE HIGH COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENCE ON THE WATERFRONT.

THE OPEN SPACE AROUND THE CEMETERY WAS DENSELY MINED WITH DEPTH CHARGES, LIGHT PLASTIC MINES AND EVEN AERIAL BOMBS. THAT SPACE HAD TO BE CLEARED UNDER FIRE OF MACHINE GUNS, MORTARS, 75 MILLIMETER GUNS MOUNTED IN MARKET BUILDINGS AND FIVE-INCH NAVAL RIFLES POSITIONED ON THE SECOND AND THIRD FLOORS OF THE PHILIPPINE GENERAL HOSPITAL.

ENGINEERS LABORING WELL BEHIND THIS "FRONT"--A TERM THAT MEANS LITTLE IN A FIGHT LIKE THIS--HAD THEIR WORK CUT OUT FOR THEM TOO FOR ONE OF THREE PONTOON BRIDGES ACROSS THE PASIG HAD TWICE BEEN HIT BY ENEMY ARTILLERY FIRE.

ON THE BRIGHTER SIDE, THE 129TH REGIMENT OF THE 37TH DIVISION CLEANED OUT THE STUBBORNLY RESISTING PROVISOR ISLAND IN THE PASIG, FROM WHICH THE ENEMY HAD BEEN LOBBING MORTAR MISSILES INTO OUR BRIDGEHEAD SECTOR. THE ISLAND IS ABOUT OPPOSITE THE MALACAN PALACE.

THIS MORNING FOR THE FIRST TIME THERE WAS NO REPLY TO THE PINPOINTED GUNNING OF "LITTLE TOKYO," THE PREWAR JAPANESE SECTION OF DELTA ISLAND, NEAR THE MOUTH OF THE PASIG.

BUT ALL OF THE JAPANESE GUNS HAD NOT YET BEEN SILENCED, NOR ALL ENEMY POCKETS WIPED OUT. SOLDIERS OF THE 14TH ARMY CORPS HAVE LEARNED A GREAT DEAL ABOUT STREET FIGHTING IN THESE EIGHT FIRE-STRICKEN DAYS. THEY MAY LEARN MMORE BEFORE THIS GRUELLING JOB IS COMPLETED.

MMANILA BATTLE SCENE (350)
BY FRED HAMPSON
MANILA, P.I., FEB 11-(DELAYED)-(AP)-BATTLE STREET SCENES:

A ROOSTER WAS PERCHED ATOP A SMALL BUILDING NOT FAR FROM THE JOCKEY CLUB. THERE WAS THE WHISTLE OF A JAPANESE MORTAR SHELL. CPL. SUMNER PLATTEN (11 ZAMORA COURT) JAMAICA PLAINS, MASS., HIT THE DIRT. PLATTEN LOOKED UP IN TIME TO GET A FACE FULL OF ROOSTER FEATHERS.

THE STREETS WERE CROWDED NEAR THE BLOWN SANTA CRUZ BRIDGE WHEN A JAPANESE SHELL FROM THE WATERFRONT HIT. THE CROWD SCATTERED AND THE SHELL EXPLODED. A FILIPINO WOMAN SPRAWLED AMID THE DEBRIS, HER BUNDLE OF BELONGINGS BESIDE HER. AT HER FEET LAY A TINY BABY SHE HAD BEEN CARRYING. IT WAS DEAD AND ITS BODY WAS BURNING.

JUST ACROSS THE JONES BRIDGE A SHELL BURST. A DOZEN BODIES SLUMPED ABOUT THE STREET. AN OLD FILIPINO STRUGGLED TOWARD THE BRIDGE, CARRYING HIS WIFE. HE APPROACHED A MILITARY POLICEMAN. "A DOCTOR, SAIR," HE BESEECHED. THE MP LOOKED AT THE WOMAN AND SAID: "SIT DOWN THERE," MOTIONING TOWARD THE CURB. THE MP MUTTERED TO HIS COMPANION: "A BURIAL DETAIL IS COMING. LET THEM TELL HIM. I HAVEN'T GOT THE HEART."

A SOLDIER IN A COURTYARD BIVOUAC HEARD A MORTAR SHELL SCREAMING TOWARD HIM. HE LEAPED AGAINST A TREE SO HARD HE CUT HIS LEG. THE SHELL BURST BUT HE WAS UNTOUCHED. "IF I HAD STAYED WHERE I HAD BEEN," HE SAID, "I WOULD HAVE BEEN KILLED." A COMPANION POINTED TO THE GROUND. A HOT, JAGGED HALF POUND MORTAR FRAGMENT LAY ON GRASS EXACTLY WHERE HE HAD BEEN STANDING.

THE MOST CASUAL PEOPLE UNDER SHELL FIRE ARE THE FILIPINO WOMEN. FILIPINO MEN ARE SECOND. THE AMERICAN SOLDIER IS BATTLEWISE AND THEREFORE CAREFUL.

IN THE DRIVEWAY OF A HOME BEING USED AS A CASUALTY STATION LAY EIGHT OCCUPIED STRETCHERS AWAITING ATTENTION. FIVE WERE FILIPINO WOMEN, TWO WERE FILIPINO MEN AND ONE WAS AN AMERICAN SOLDIER.

BUT HABIT IS STRONG AND LIFE MUST GO. SHOPPING STALLS AT THE EDGE OF BURNED OUT DOWNTOWN MANILA ARE REOPENING WITH WHAT MEAGER STOCK CAN BE SALVAGED. BARGAINING, BUYING AND SELLING GOES ON. THE GIRLS TALK TO THE SOLDIERS. THE BARBERS TRIM HAIR. AN OLD MAN SWEEPS RUBBLE OFF HIS SHOP SIDEWALK. ALL THE WHILE THE BUILDINGS TREMBLE TO ARTILLERY PERCUSSION AND SHELLS WHINE OVERHEAD. MACHINE GUNS CHATTER. THE CITY SHUDDERS TO DEMOLITION BLASTS AND THE FIRES BURN ON.

AT A REGIMENTAL COMMAND POST IN DOWNTOWN MANILA, P.I., FEB 11-(AP)-(DELAYED)-COL. LAWRENCE WHITE OF KANSAS CITY, MO., REGIMENTAL COMMANDER OF THE 148TH INFANTRY, 37TH DIVISION, SAID AT THIS SHELL BATTERED COMMAND POST TODAY: "I CAN SEE LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING MANY OF MANILA'S FAMOUS BUILDINGS.

"THE JAPANESE ARE PUTTING GUNS RIGHT IN CHURCHES AND HOMES AND HOTELS AND ALL WE CAN DO IS BLOW THEM OUT WITH ARTILLERY AS WE DISCOVER THEM. WE ARE NOT GOING TO SEND UNSUPPORTED INFANTRY AGAINST GUNS.

"WE TOOK ONE CHURCH YESTERDAY AND FOUND TWO MACHINE GUNS BENEATH THE ALTAR. SNIPERS ARE IN EVERY BUILDING AND THAT MEANS WE MUST USE MACHINE GUNS AND MORTARS. WE'VE FOUND SEVEN, 8 OR 10 INCH ROCKET TYPE GUNS ON THE TOP OF TALLER BUILDINGS. THIS IS A FULL SCALE ARTILLERY BATTLE AND YOU KNOW WHAT THAT DOES TO A CITY."

COLONEL WHITE SAID THAT THE JAPANESE SHELLING OF THE AMERICAN HELD PORTIONS OF MANILA SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER FOR THE LAST TWO DAYS WAS "THE HEAVIEST I EVER SAW. IT'S EASING UP A BIG NOW."

AMERICANS HAVE CAPTURED OR SILENCED TWENTY-THREE 20 MM GUNS, THIRTEEN 40 MM MORTARS, SEVERAL 90 MM MORTARS, 17 HEAVY MACHINE GUNS, 49 LIGHT MACHINE GUNS, SEVEN ROCKET GUNS AND TWO TANKETTES. THEY ALSO CAPTURED TWO 75 MM DUAL PURPOSE GUNS AND THINK THEY HAVE SILENCED 30 OTHERS.

AMERICAN TROOPS HAD TO FIGHT TWO DAYS TO TAKE THE PACO RAILROAD STATION. THEY USED FLAME THROWERS, BAZOOKAS AND KILLED ABOUT 200 JAPANESE. THE STATION WAS DESTROYED.

UP TO NOON TODAY THIS REGIMENT ALONE KILLED AND COUNTED 574 JAPANESE SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER AND MAYBA TWICE THAT MANY MORE. THE REGIMENT DIDN'T ACCOMPLISH THIS WITHOUT LOSSES. COLONEL WHITE SAID THE JAPANESE WERE INFLILTRATING AMERICAN LINES IN CIVILIAN CLOTHING TO SPOT THE LOCATION OF OUR TROOPS.

BY BESSIE HACKETT

SANTO TOMAS, MANILA, FEB.10-(DELAYED)-(AP)-IF YOU WANT TO VISUALIZE WHAT LIFE HAS BEEN LIKE IN THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP FOR SOME 1,400 WOMEN, DO THESE THINGS:

THROW OUT ALL MODERN HOUSEHOLD CONVENIENCES, SUCH AS WASHING MACHINES, REFRIGERATORS, SHINY POTS AND PANS AND MECHANICAL GADETS. EMPTY PANTRY SHELVES OF ALL FOOD.

STRIP BEDROOMS OF ALL SOFT BEDS AND CLOSETS AND ALL BEAUTY AIDS.

IN OTHER WORDS, REMOVE VIRTUALLY EVERYTHING FROM THE HOME UNTIL IT IS NOTHING BUT A SHELL.

THE WOMEN OF SANTO TOMAS WERE ALLOWED A SPACE THE LENGTH OF THEIR BEDS AND ABOUT 40 INCHES WIDE IN WHICH TO STORE ALL PERSONAL BELONGINGS IN ADDITION TO A COT OR A BED. SO PRECIOUS WAS THIS SPACE THAT MANY PERSONAL SQUABBLES RESULTED OVER TERRITORIAL RIGHTS.

DURING THE EARLY DAYS OF INTERNMENT A WOMAN WAS GIVEN A BAR OF SOAP, THREE BY FIVE INCHES IN SIZE, ONCE A MONTH FOR ALL LAUNDRY AND TOILET PURPOSES. MORE RECENTLY WE EACH RECEIVED THREE OUNCES OF SOAP EVERY FEW MONTHS.

THE LAUNDRY WAS DONE BY ALL WOMEN AT THREE LONG TROUGHS--IN COLD WATER, OF COURSE. THERE WERE COMMUNITY CLOTHES LINES BUT FOR SAFETY IT WAS BEST TO FIND ONE'S OWN ROPE OR STRING FOR A PERSONAL LINE.

BEAUTY CARE WAS CONSTANTLY A PROBLEM. AT FIRST THE WOMEN TRIED TO LAY IN SMALL SUPPLIES OF COLD CREAM BUT FOOD AND MEDICINES SOON BECAME MUCH MORE IMPORTANT. SOME WOMEN FOUND A FAIR SUBSTITUTE FOR COLD CREAM IN A CONCOCTION OF VEGETABLE LARD, LIME JUICE AND A FEW DROPS OF PERFUME. THIS WAS IN 1942. TWO YEARS LATER FOUND THE WOMEN USING COLD CREAM, WHICH ARRIVED IN RED CROSS PACKAGES, AS COOKING LARD.

THE WOMEN MADE A MAKESHIFT SHAMPOO IN THE EARLY DAYS BY MIXING SCRAPS OF LAUNDRY SOAP WITH A LITTLE PRECIOUS COCONUT OIL. THE HUNDREDS OF WOMEN TOOK TURNS WASHIN THEIR HAIR AT AN ELEVATED BATHTUB RIGGED WITH FOUR SHOWERS. WHILE IT LASTED THEY USED VINEGAR OR LEMON AS A RINSE. OCCASIONALLY WE GOT A FEW NATIVE LIMES AND HAD TO CHOOSE BETWEEN THE JUICE FOR A RINSE OR AS A DRINK FOR VITAMINS.

ONCE A HUNDRED PIGEONS NESTED IN THE SANTO TOMAS TOWER. SOON THEY BEGAN DISAPPEARING. SO DID THE CATS WHICH SOME SHANTY DWELLERS HAD AS PETS.

SOME INTERNEES SET UP A LITTLE BUTCHER SHOP AGREEING TO KILL AND SKIN CATS IN RETURN FOR ONE HIND QUARTER.

FOR FOOD, THE WOMEN MIXED MUCH FLOUR AND SALT, A LITTLE SODA AND A LITTLE VINEGAR, THEN DUMPED THE MIXTURE INTO OLD TIN CANS LINED WITH BANANA LEAVES AND SET IT INTO IMPROVISED OVENS TO BAKE. IT WAS RATHER COARSE, BUT RESEMBLED BREAD.

FOOD WAS SO SCARCE EVERYBODY STOOD IN LINE FOR DISCARDED VEGETABLE PEELINGS FROM THE KITCHEN AND SALVAGED SCRAPS OF ROTTEN SWEET POTATOES, ALL OF WHICH WERE DUMPED INTO A POT WITH A FEW GREENS, GARLIC, ONION AND ANYTHING ELSE AVAILABLE.

IN THE EARLY DAYS WE MANAGED TO GET SPOOLS OF LIGHT STRING. WHEN CLOTHES STARTED WEARING OUT, WOMEN BEGAN KNITTING SUBSTITUTES OUT OF THE STRING. SOME WOMEN BECAME RATHER PROUD OF MATCHING LINGERIE FROM COLORED STRING.

A HOUSECOAT BECAME A NECESSITY IN SANTO TOMAS, AND MANY AN EVENING GOWN, ONCE SEEN IN MANILA NIGHT CLUBS, BECAME A FAMILIAR SIGHT HANGING AT THE SHOWER SHED.

FOR SHOES THE WOMEN WORE NATIVE CLOGS. RAINY DAYS THEY WORE WAIST-LENGTH RAIN CAPES MADE OF DRIED PALM LEAVES, AND COOLIE-TYPE RAIN HATS FROM THE SAME MATERIAL.

THROUGHOUT ALL 37 MONTHS SANTO TOMAS WOMEN RELIED ALMOST ENTIRELY ON THEIR INGENUITY TO KEEP THEMSELVES, THEIR FAMILIES AND HUMBLE SHANTIES IN BEST POSSIBLE SHAPE.

THE LETTER POINTED TO RECENT RUPTURE OF RELATIONS BETWEEN GUATEMALA AND THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT AS ONE RESULT OF THE JUNTA'S ACTIVITIES.

GUATEMALAN AMBASSADOR GUILLERMO TORIELLO WAS HOST TO A GROUP OF SPANISH REPUBLICANS LAST NIGHT AND TOLD THEM: "WE WANT YOU TO FORGET YOUR PARTY DIFFERENCES SO THAT GUATEMALA'S STEP MAY BE FOLLOWED BY OTHER AMERICAN COUNTRIES."

INDALECIO PRIETO, ORGANIZER OF THE JUNTA, ISSUED A CALL MEANWHILE TO FELLOW MEMBERS OF THE BADLY SPLIT SPANISH SOCIALIST PARTY TO RETURN TO HIS FOLD.

WHETHER THE INVITATION INCLUDED DR.JUAN NEGRIN, LAST PREMIER OF THE REPUBLIC, WITH WHOM HE IS PARTICULARLY AT OUTS, WAS NOT SPECIFIED.

SPANISH REFUGEES GENERALLY EXPRESSED SKEPTICISM AT REPORTS THAT DR.NEGRIN REACHED AN UNDERSTANDING IN PARIS WITH MIGUEL MAURA, WHO HAS SAID HE WANTS TO SET UP HIS OWN GOVERNMENT IN SPAIN. THEY ARE MORE INCLINED TO BELIEVE THAT NEGRIN, EXPECTED HERE SOON, WILL JOIN FORCES WITH MARTINEZ BARRIO.

49 Day Battle for Budapest Cost Nazis 49,000 Killed, 110,000 Captured.

NAZI DEFENSE BROKEN

Germans Suffered Heavily in Trying to Defend Hungarian Capital.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 14—(AP) The Russians yesterday completed the conquest of ruined Budapest after 49 days of street fighting that cost the enemy 49,000 men killed and 110,000 captured, while in German Silesia another Red army forced the Bober river defenses and thrust within 68 miles of Dresden.

The Budapest victory, greatest single disaster to German arms since Stalingrad two years ago, was announced by Premier Stalin.

Moscow's regular nightly communique and an early-morning supplement stressed that while the Germans inside the city were losing 1,000 men killed each day, vain counter-offensives from the northwest and southwest, personally directed by Adolf Hitler, cost the Nazis additionally "hundreds of tanks and tens of thousands of their officers and men."

The communique also announced ten-mile advances by the First Ukraine army of Marshal Ivan S. Konev in two spearheads through Silesia that broke the Bober river defense lines at several points, seized 150 German towns, and reached the Queis river line.

With the capture of Klitschdorf on the east bank of the Queis, the Russians were but 68 miles from Dresden, panicky capital of historic Saxony.

Near Prison Camps

The fighting advance covered much of a forested district near Sagan where camps for American and British prisoners of war are known to have been, but Moscow mentioned no rescues and it was probable the prisoners previously had been removed by the Germans.

The communique was silent concerning operations on the front directly east of imperilled Berlin, where the Germans said the Russians had made gains of a mile and a quarter, but it announced five and six-mile advances in the continued cleanup of the Polish corridor some six miles south of Chojnice and the slaughter of 2,000 Germans in Tuesday's fighting there.

Budapest's fall, with its staggering loss in manpower to the Germans and a list of captured equipment that included such items as 269 tanks, 1,257 cannon and 46 stores of food and ammunition, was credited by Premier Stalin to Marshals Rodion Y. Malinovsky and Feodor Tolbukhin of the Second and Third Ukraine armies, which cooperated in the long operation.

The order described Budapest as "a strategically-important German defense center on the road to Vienna." It was the seventeenth European capital lost by the Germans to the Allies.

Direct attack on the Hungarian capital began last Nov. 12 after the fall of Monor, to the southeast. Encirclement was completed and Russian troops drove into the suburbs on Dec. 27.

49 Day Battle

Then for 49 flaming days and nights the Soviets fought through the streets of the great twin city astride the Danube, advancing block by block, house by house and even room by room against a stubborn garrison that rejected a surrender ultimatum by shooting the Russians who delivered it.

The bag of prisoners was the greatest in any city since Stalingrad, when the entire German Sixth army of 330,000 men was surrendered Feb. 2, 1943, after a six-month battle in which the besieged Russians turned the tables on the Germans.

The Nazis tried to make Budapest a Stalingrad in reverse with a relieving counteroffensive launched from the northwest Jan. 2, but it failed with a sacrifice estimated by the Russians at 16,000 dead Germans and more than 800 smashed tanks. These figures were in addition to the enemy losses inside Budapest.

Tuesday night 324 of Moscow's saluting cannon fired 24 rounds each in the greatest victory celebration since Warsaw fell Jan. 17.

The Germans acknowledged the loss of Budapest, saying it had been "evacuated"—a patent misuse of the world—and sought to soften the blow with radio statements that the garrison had accomplished its mission by "pinning down enemy armies and inflicting the highest possible losses on them."

The Russian roll of prisoners taken was headed by Col. Gen. Pfeffer Wildenbruch, German commandant, and his staff.

While Budapest was collapsing under the Soviet hammer blows, some 300 miles distant another Red army, the First Ukraine group under Marshal Ivan S. Konev, was sweeping like a sickle across southeastern Germany through the defenses before Dresden and the southern flank of Berlin.

One of Konev's columns was within 70 miles of Dresden, and according to Berlin another was across the Bober river about 20 miles from a junction with Marshal G. K. Zhukov's First White Russian army on the center of the front in Germany.

The Moscow communique announced Konev had captured Beuthen, industrial town on the west bank of the Oder and had encircled Glogau, traffic center on the Oder 55 miles northwest of Breslau and was fighting to annihilate its garrison. The Russians in that area captured 345 German planes on the ground.

Breslau in Danger

The German radio declared Glogau was encircled and said that Breslau itself was in danger of the same fate.

Konev's men also drove west and north in the Silesian forest area south of Sagan and Sprottau for 10-mile gains at several points. Among towns captured there were Lorenzdorf on the Queis river 10 miles northwest of fallen Bunzlau, and Neuhammer, also on the Queis 11 miles southeast of Sagan.

Lorenzdorf is but 70 miles northeast of Dresden and it was likely that the Russians already had sprung from it across to the west bank of the Queis river barrier.

The Russians did not confirm a German DNB agency broadcast placing Konev's northern spearhead north of Sagan and only 20 miles from a junction with the southern wing of Zhukov's central forces.

The Russians did announce, however, the capture of [illegible]dorf, 6 miles due east of Sag[illegible]ad 3 1-2 miles northwest of Si[illegible]tau, and capture of Rueckersdo[illegible] and Grossenbohrau, nine and 13 miles northeast of Sagan. This resulted in virtual encirclement of Sprottau.

(A Swedish press dispatch reported to the U. S. Office of War Information said the industrial evacuation of Dresden already had begun and the Saxon towns of Kamenz, Bautzen and Loebau had been "completely evacuated." Kamenz is 17 miles northeast of Dresden, Loebau 34 miles east and Bautzen 44 miles east.

(The British radio said the Russians were believed to be within 100 kilometers — 62 miles — of Dresden.)

The German radio also lifted slightly its blackout concerning the Berlin front, saying the Russians had made a mile and a quarter penetration of [illegible]zi lines northwest of Kuestrin in "a fierce attack by two divisions."

Dresden Is 70 Miles Away; Germans Flee Budapest

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Russian troops smashing the Germans' Bober River line have sliced to within 70 miles of Dresden, and farther north are hammering toward Sommerfeld, only 17 miles from a junction with Marshal Gregory K. Zukov's army fighting before Berlin, German broadcasts declared today.

Budapest, Hungarian capital and former "Jewel of the Danube," fell today to two Russian armies which took 110,000 captives in a month and a half of bitter sieze fighting, Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Frees Two Ukrainian Armies

Fall of Budapest (population, 1,217,000) freed the 2d and 3d Ukrainian armies of Marshals Rodion Malinovsky and Feodor Tolbukin for drives on Vienna and Prague, in concert with the 1st Ukrainian Army in Silesia sweeping toward central Germany and along the Czechoslovak border.

A Berlin broadcast earlier said Budapest was evacuated by its decimated German-Hungarian garrison, which attacked at dawn and broke through Soviet siege lines "to continue the fight in the open field."

But Stalin declared that he Red Army men today "completed the routing" of the encircled enemy, and that more than 110,000 defenders, headed by the German commander, Colonel General Peter Wildenbruch, and his staff, were captured, along with large stores of arms and booty.

Headed For Sommerfeld

A DNB broadcast said troops of Marshal Ivan Konev north of Sagan on the Bober River were beating toward Sommerfeld, 17 miles below the Oder River's southern bank, where Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army is fighting. Sommerfeld is 70 miles southeast of Berlin.

This thrust of Konev's magnified the flanking threat to the German capital from the south, and was putting the Red Army in position for a possible drive behind the Germans massed on the Oder River line near Berlin.

The German high command communiqué said Konev's troops farther south had burst over the Bober and reached the Queis River sector, 5 to 10 miles beyond.

The Queis is 5 miles west of the Bober at Bunzlau, captured by the Russians, and spreads 10 miles from the Bober farther north before joining it just south of Sagan, 27 miles northwest of Bunzlau. Southwest of Bunzlau the Queis flows within 62 miles of Dresden.

Point Not Specified

Although the German command did not specify where the Queis was reached, it appeared Konev's fast-wheeling 1st Ukrainian Army now was only 70 miles from Dresden.

Dresden is almost halfway from the eastern tip of Silesia to the Rhine. Bunzlau is 74 miles from that important Nazi arsenal city.

DNB declared the Russians had crossed the Bober above Sagan, establishing a "small" bridgehead. The Soviet attacked toward Sommerfeld, it added, but asserted German forces were repulsing all the thrusts pointed in that direction.

Orders Victory Salute

Stalin in announcing capture of Budapest, termed the city a "strategically important German defense center on the road to Vienna," and ordered a victory salute of 24 salvoes from 324 guns.

Stalin did not announce the toll of Germans killed in the defense.

Broke Out, Nazis Say

The German broadcast said the garrison compressed into a small zone inside the encircled city "successfully broke out of Budapest to continue the fight in the open field."

But so powerful and complete was the Russian encirclement that it appeared doubtful here that the German remnants and their Hungarian satellites could have fought to safety.

Budapest is the seventeenth capital taken by the Allies since June 4, when Rome fell.

Once "Jewel Of Danube"

Bloody street fighting has raged for weeks in the city, with its defenders supplied by air.

Moscow last night declared the core of organized resistance had been broken with seizure of the Royal Palace and ancient fortress on the west bank of the Danube in Buda. Pest, the half of the city on the east bank, was cleared January 19.

Berlin asserted the dawn breakout attack caught the Russians by surprise.

"The deepest Russian ring of encirclement" was smashed, the German broadcast said.

Another German broadcast said Zhukov's forces in Pomerania, northeast of Berlin, were being held 6 or 7 miles from Stargard, 20 miles southeast of the port of Stettin.

New E. Prussia Attack

In East Prussia, the German communiqué said, the Russians attacked anew with tank support at Frauenberg on each side of the military highway between Elbing and Koenigsberg but "without being able to score an attempted breakthrough."

No news was given of Zhukov's front along the Oder, 30 to 40 miles east of Berlin.

Giessmannsdorf, 15 miles to the north of captured Buzlau, was taken.

Niesse Believed Fortified

Moscow announcements contained no hint that the Germans had massed strength sufficient even to delay Konev at the Bober. Some 25 miles ahead, however, lies the Niesse River, by some reports almost as strongly fortified as the Oder. The Niesse, like the Bober, is a tributary of the Oder.

An even greater flanking threat to Berlin than this thrust toward Dresden was a column that the Germans declared Marshal Konev had sent into the Naumburg district, 40 miles northwest of fallen Bunzlau and 76 miles southeast of the German capital.

A forcing of the Bober and Niesse rivers from the Naumburg region would place Russian forces around the southern flank of massed Germans who have been holding up Marshal Zhukov's forces along the Oder east of Berlin.

Konev's westward thrust across northern Silesia put the German garrison at Breslau in ever-increasing peril. A 15-mile escape route remained open to the southwest but, on the basis of past Nazi battle procedure, it seemed unlikely the Germans would avail themselves of it, electing rather to fight and die inside the city.

WAR CRIMINAL SEIZED

FEB 14 1945

Soviet troops have captured the former Governor of Warsaw, Gustav Fischer, who was responsible for the liquidation of the Warsaw ghetto, the British radio said today, quoting reports from Moscow. CBS recorded the broadcast.

Berlin Mayor Reported Executed For Cowardice

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Moscow radio quoted Stockholm reports tonight that the Mayor of Berlin, Ludwig Steeg, had been shot to death for cowardice.

"One report says that he tried to leave Berlin, but was recognized, arrested and executed," the broadcast said.

Nazi Views Liegnitz Loss As Worst Blow

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Red Army's smashing Silesian drive and the fall of Liegnitz, brought one of the most pessimistic broadcasts of the war today from Lieut. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, commentator for the German high command.

Dittmar broadcast a report in which he said the fight had been carried to "the very heart of Germany" and confessed, "we are being struck very hard."

"The loss of Leignitz clearly shows the full magnitude of the threat looming from the Oder," he said. "To eliminate this danger is the most urgent task of the Wehrmacht at the moment. If it had not been for the Liegnitz breakthrough, the situation in the east could have been optimistic on the whole."

EMPIRE TROOPS DRIVING BEYOND CAPTURED KLEVE

FEB 14 1945

U.S. Third Army Expanding New Break in Westwall South of Pruem.

BATTLE IN MUD

British Planes Blast Nazi Lines in Support of Montgomery's Men.

PARIS, Feb. 13—(AP) Widening their breach in the Siegfried Line between the Maas (Meuse) river and the Rhine, British and Canadian troops today drove beyond Kleve, emerged from the eastern edge of the Reichswald and, south of the forest, established a bridgehead over the Niers river.

Approximately 1,000 British planes slashed at Nazi forces confronting Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops on this northern sector of the Western front.

More than 100 miles to the south, the U. S. Third Army sent elements of three divisions pouring through a new break in Hitler's Westwall south of Pruem, while other Doughboys drove the last Germans from the soil of Luxembourg.

Canadian "water rats" in the northern sector, entered Greithausen, less than a mile from the Rhine and 300 airline miles from Berlin, in what was described as the heaviest fighting of the six-day old British-Canadian offensive against enemy forces now swelled to seven divisions at the expense of other Western front sectors.

The day's heaviest fighting took place in the muddy terrain east of Kleve, where the Nazis battled fiercely to keep the British from pushing beyond the Siegfried Line's second belt of fortifications.

South of Kleve British troops won a bridgehead over the Niers river some 2,000 yards east of the captured stronghold of Gennep and were reported steadily enlarging it tonight. An armored patrol fought into Hommersum, three miles southeast of Gennep. The entire area was heavily sown with mines.

Support from Air

For almost the first time since Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery opened his powerful offensive last week, Allied tactical planes were able to give the attacking troops extensive support.

With the flooded Roer river still forming a menacing obstacle to any operations by three Allied armies drawn up along its banks, the double-barreled assault by Montgomery's forces in the north and Patton's at the center carried the entire weight of Gen. Eisenhower's offensive in the west.

The Germans, realizing that Montgomery's assault bore a deadly threat to the Rhineland, moved reinforcements to the muddy battlefront around Kleve from various sectors, including Alsace, northern Holland and the Ardennes—weakening their already thinly-spread lines.

The German 84th infantry division, which was badly cut up in absorbing the initial onslaught of the Canadian First army, has been bolstered by all or parts of the Second, Sixth and Seventh parachute divisions, the 116th Panzer, the 15th Panzer grenadier and the 180th infantry. The 116th Panzer and the 15th Panzer grenadier divisions participated in the battle of the Ardennes.

Despite the Nazis' intensive resistance, the British Empire offensive had advanced from 10 to 12 miles, pushed through the main Siegfried defenses and the dense timberland of the Reichswald, cleared the important communications center of Kleve and captured well over 5,000 prisoners.

A field dispatch from Ned Nordness of the Associated Press said tonight that the "hard core of enemy armored resistance" had been broken and that British troops were pouring out the eastern edge of the German forest.

"Enemy opposition which had stopped us cold in this sector the past 18 hours suddenly broke before the devilish assault of Scottish and British troops, and (Nazi) parachute troopers and panzers alike gave way before the resumed advance, which was making good gains tonight," correspondent Nordness reported.

The German radio spoke of an impending full-scale Allied assault from the west.

"From hour to hour we expect the full-scale Allied offensive to roll into the Rhine plain," the German army radio said today. "Stupendous forces massed west of Dueren and Juslich are to carry our enemies to the Rhine. Twelve pioneer (engineer) battalions are along, and huge quantities of bridge construction equipment as well as fresh and reconditioned infantry forces are awaiting the signal to strike."

While Patton's Fifth and 80th Divisions were consolidating their new breach in the Siegfried defenses south of Pruem, other Third army troops cleared Vianden—driving the last Nazi troops from Luxembourg. The Fourth infantry division completed mopping up Pruem after repulsing two strong German counterattacks with heavy losses.

With the clearing of Vianden, the Allies held a continuous 145-mile front inside Germany, stretching from the Kleve area to near Saarbruecken.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army front was dormant along the flooded Roer and at the big dams around the stream's headwaters. In a field dispatch Edward D. Ball of the Associated Press emphasized that Hodges' forces had not yet actually captured any of the highly-strategic dams, though they have what is officially called "domination" of two of them.

The whole southern end of the front also was relatively quiet, with only patrol activity and artillery exchanges. The explosion of a delayed action bomb left by the Germans in Colmar caused a number of casualties.

British In Kleve Area Advance; Fighting Hard

FEB 14 1945

Paris, Feb. 13 (AP)—British Empire troops made "steady progress" east and south of captured Kleve today in the heaviest fighting of the new offensive, while Canadians to the north entered Greithausen, less than a mile from the flooded Rhine and 20 from the Ruhr city of Wesel.

The American 3d Army in the center tore a new hole through the Siegfried Line opposite the Luxembourg frontier when the 5th and 80th divisions joined their Echternach-Wallendorf bridgeheads into single salient 2 miles deep and 10 wide. The West Wall is thin and close to the frontier in that sector.

No further progress was reported beyond captured Pruem, where the 3d Army was within 45 miles of Coblenz and the Rhine.

Nazis Send In Tanks

The Germans committed seven first-rate divisions, including tanks, to the Kleve battle.

Allied lines for the first time were thrust within 300 miles of Berlin on the west at Greithausen, 2 miles across the Rhine from the industrial town of Emmerich. The Russians on the east front are 31 miles from Berlin.

Gen. Henry Crerar's Canadian Army beat down numerous counter-attacks from the Rhine to below the Reichswald in a great mudpie created by breaches in the Rhine dikes, rain and a continuing thaw. The battle close to the Rhine, indeed, was amphibious because the lowlands were one to four feet under water.

Planes Aid Allies

Almost for the first time since the offensive started, the air forces were able to supply close ground support to ground troops, despite clouds. Some 500 tactical sorties were flown before noon.

In Alsace, the 36th (Texas) Division of the United States 7th Army once more ejected the Germans from Oberhoffen, 15 miles north of Strasbourg. A terrific explosion in newly-won Colmar, below Strasbourg, did considerable damage. It was believed to have been caused by a German time bomb.

Roer River floods loosed by German demolitions on the headwater dams held up the American 1st and 9th and the British 2d armies.

Roer Floods Still A Barrier

The loss of Pruem and its arterial highways to Coblenz; Cologne, 53 miles northeast, and Saarbruecken, 72 miles south, weakened the whole German defense system in the Eifel Mountains, where 10 miles have been gashed from the Siegfried Line.

Continuing floods on the Roer River kept the American 1st and 9th and the British 2d armies quiet along the crucial 50-mile sector where the Germans trumpeted repeatedly that General Eisenhower was massing men and tanks for a drive to the Rhine.

"From hour to hour we expect the full-scale Allied offensive to roll into the Rhine plain," the German Army radio said today. "Stupendous forces massed west of Dueren and Juelich are to carry our enemies to the Rhine. Twelve pioneer battalions are along and huge quantities of bridge construction equipment, as well as fresh and reconditioned infantry forces, are awaiting the signal to strike."

Already 78 combat divisions, totaling more than 1,000,000 troops, have been identified on the Western front. Of these 52 are American divisions.

Luxembourg Cleared

The last of Luxembourg was cleared with the capture of Vianden by the 3d Army, giving General Eisenhower a continuous 145-mile front inside Germany from Karken to near Saarbruecken.

The Canadians, 1 Scots powering Fie Montgomery's offensi north had advanced clea the formidable Reic thick masses of fir trees o eastern edge. Weather was Rains and inundations from the Rhine tended to slow the pace of Marshal Montgomery's divisions rolling up the Germans west of the Rhine.

Prisoners passed 5,000; enemy dead were piling up fast on the water-logged battlefield. The Germans for the first time committed tanks.

The German Forces

A dispatch from the Kleve front said the Germans had tripled their defense forces in that area and were now employing seven divisions. These were the 2d, 6th and 7th Parachute; the 116th Panzer, the 15th Panzer Grenadier and the 84th and 180th Infantry. Of these, the 84th Infantry was mauled severely in the opening rushes of Montgomery's offensive. The 6th Parachute Division came from Holland, the 7th from Alsace and other reinforcements from various parts of the Western front.

The Germans counterattacked all the way from Kleve to south of the Reichswald and suffered heavy casualties, but failed to stop the slow but steady advances of the Allies.

Resistance Near Kessel

British troops on the Canadian south flank thrusting down the highway to Goch from captured Gennep hit a wall of German resistance near Kessel, 4 miles from Goch, a devastated center of eleven highways and railroads. Some Allied units, however, were reported to be less than 3 miles from Goch.

Mile after mile of the northern front was under water.

Last Two Roer Dams Reached

Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's 1st Army front 115 miles south of Kleve was static along the flooded Roer and at the dams on the headwaters. The Americans reached the last two dams, the Heimbach and Ober Maubach, on the Roer headwaters.

"We still have only what is officially called 'domination' of two of the dams, but have physical possession of none of them," Associated Press Correspondent E. D. Ball reported from 1st Army headquarters, "this despite inaccurate and misleading statements from supreme headquarters and other sources."

Pruem Mopup Completed

Brig. Gen. Harold W. Blakeley's 4th (Ivy) Division completed the mopup of Pruem, a strongly fortified position behind the Siegfried Line on the 3d Army front in the center. Two infantry counterattacks were repelled with heavy losses northeast of the fortress.

The 5th (Red Diamond) and 80th (Blue Ridge) Divisions joined forces across the Sure River in Germany, expanding the Echternach-Wallendorf bridgehead to a depth of 2 miles and a length of 10.

The new 76th Division of New England reserves captured Echternach-Brueck, just across the Sure from the Luxembourg town of Echternach.

Nazi Artillery Still Firing

Nazi artillery fire from the Siegfried Line into the new invasion areas remained moderate to heavy. The Germans were trying unsuccessfully to knock out bridges carrying men and supplies across the swollen stream.

In the industrial Saarland to the south, ten more houses across the Saar River from Saarlautern were cleared by the 3d Army.

Slapped, He Shot Nazis, GI Says

By Robert Eunson

With the 35th Division, Feb. 13 (AP)—Pfc. Joseph ("Tex") Kelsoe, of Avery, Texas, said today that when a Nazi officer questioning him slapped him across the face he overpowered his guard, killed the officer and a soldier at the door and escaped.

"Tex" was captured with a ten-man patrol behind German lines when he crawled into a Nazi communications trench. He remembered being led out between two Germans and into a shell-battered house.

Cigarettes Taken Away

He was kept in an unfurnished room for a night and a day without food and water, he said. When he tried to light a cigarette, a guard took the package from him.

About dark the second night a German officer in a spotless black uniform started the interrogation. Kelsoe said he refused to give any information except his name, rank and serial number. This, he said, infuriated the Nazi officer. The German backhanded him across the face and knocked him down.

Declaring he would have the Texan shot, the officer turned Kelsoe over to a guard who had appropriated the American's rifle. Kelsoe said he went for the guard and got his rifle back in a knock-down and drag-out fight that left the German on the floor with his head bashed in.

Face To Face Again

Rounding the corner of the house, he came face to face with the black-uniformed officer and got him "looking right down the barrel," he said. Then he killed the guard of the house and probably several other Germans on the way out of the small town.

"I was scared," he said, "and I wasn't going to let anyone stop me."

The Germans chased him through the muddy fields, throwing machine gun and mortar fire about wildly. Kelsoe reached his own lines just as daylight broke, and learned that all but two of his comrades of the ten-man patrol had been accounted for.

MACARTHUR SAYS END IS NEAR FOR JAPS IN MANILA

FEB 14 1945

Capture of Cavite Naval Base Puts Americans on Shore of Manila.

CORREGIDOR BOMBED

Enemy Casualties 68,000 Compared to American Losses of 9,683.

MANILA, Wednesday, Feb. 14—(AP) Capture of the Cavite naval base and Nichols airfield were announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who said the end of Japan's trapped Manila garrison was "in sight."

MacArthur reported enemy casualties of more than 68,000 for the five weeks of the Luzon campaign as compared with American casualties of 9,683, including 2,102 killed.

Capture of the Cavite naval base put the Yanks on the shores of Manila bay for the first time.

The 11th airborne division in taking Cavite seized ten enemy seaplanes and a battery of three-inch guns intact.

First cavalry division units also reached Manila bay just below the embattled downtown sector as they speared through the Pasay district from the direction of captured Neilson airfield.

MacArthur said the 37th infantry division was "closing in" on the Japanese holed up in the thick-walled intramuros district, near the bay just south of the Pasig river mouth, and "the end of the enemy's trapped garrison is in sight."

Mopping Up

Meanwhile, north of Manila, troops of the Sixth division secured an abandoned airfield at Baier, on the east coast of Luzon. Extensive mopping up of enemy pockets in the central Luzon plain was reported, and a counterattack south of Baguio was turned back.

Corregidor Fortress was kept under American bombsights. Another 150 tons of explosives fell on the island bastion in a quick follow-up to the more than 200 tons dropped the previous 48 hours in company with 700 tons of Bataan.

Hits were scored on four heavy gun batteries on Corregidor. Attack bombers raked southern Bataan and sank six fuel and ammunition barges.

MacArthur announced enemy casualties of more than 68,000 for the five weeks of the Luzon campaign, as against American casualties of 2,102 killed, 192 missing and 7,389 wounded—a total of 9,683.

Off Bataan peninsula, fighter planes sank six enemy barges laden with fuel and ammunition and on the peninsula poured strafing bullets into Nipponese concentrations.

In air operations in the southern Philippines, Mitchell bombers destroyed or damaged four small Japanese vessels at the waterfront of Zamboanga on Mindanao island and blew up a fuel tank. The Padao airdrome near Davao on the same island was cratered.

North of the Philippines at Formosa, American raiding aircraft wrecked parked planes at Heito airdrome, smashed motor transport and rolling stock. One enemy bomber was shot down.

Hit Cargo Ship

Other planes ranged to the vicinity of Amoy, China, heavily damaging a 2,000-ton cargo ship. Off the French Indo-China coast, a cargo ship of similar size and three smaller ones were sunk or damaged. A Japanese float plane escorting this convoy was shot down off Saigon.

Many fires were set in the town of Tondanu on Dutch Celebes.

Rabaul, New Britain, enemy stronghold long since by-passed, was dealt a 125-ton bombing blow by heavy, medium and fighter bombers over a two-day period.

Within Manila, the Japanese suicide garrison appeared bent on exacting as high a price in lives and property as possible before being exterminated.

(Arthur Feldman, Blue Network correspondent, said Manila for the time being is "paralyzed" by the heavy destruction wrought. He reported the devastation is comparable to that around St. Paul's cathedral in London, made familiar to Americans through pictures of scenes there.

(He said the rubble of Manila long will be remembered by the Filipinos and other peoples as contradicting all the professed credoes of Japan of "Asia for the Asiatics, oc-prosperity and things like that.") finish off the enemy g now confined to less than square miles.

Corregidor Is Hammered.

Across Manila Bay, American bombers dropped more than 100 tons of bombs on the southern end of Bataan Peninsula and over 200 tons on Corregidor fortress in a forty-eight hour period up to Sunday night.

The hazard of any flight across the bay was reflected in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique reporting that American fighter planes sank thirty-five barges, loaded with 2,500 enemy troops, off Bataan on Sunday.

MacArthur, describing the Manila fight as "extraordinarily fierce," said the desperate enemy penned up near the South Manila docks "now is closely enclosed and is gradually being compressed into extinction."

Using Slower Methods

He said every care was being taken to keep American casualties at a minimum and preserve city property. For that reason, the Yanks were not using costly assault methods but rather the slower but safer processes of mine-sweeping, envelopment and infiltration.

Manila Japs Being Crushed

FEB 14 1945

3 U. S. Divisions Tighten on Last Pocket—Yanks Cut Luzon in Two.

Manila, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Jap suicide troops, cornered in south Manila by a junction of three American divisions, were being compressed and liquidated today as their only possible havens, Corregidor and Bataan, smoldered from a record 1,000-ton saturation bombing.

The final phase of the battle for the capital was mounting as the Thirty-seventh Infantry, First Cavalry and Eleventh Airborne divisions made contact to pin the Japs against Manila Bay south of the Pasig River.

While Sixth Division armored units far to the north roiled to the east coast to cut Luzon in two, the three American divisions in Manila's shell-wrecked downtown area braved rockets, heavy artillery, machine-gun fire and mined streets in their drive to

Associated Press Correspondent C. Yates McDaniel reported that the Jap defenders "have never had any hope of escaping from their self-laid trap."

"Their's is not a last-minute fight of desperation, but apparently a carefully calculated plan to set the price of the capture of Manila as high in lives and property as their destructive ingenuity can raise it."

The Japs have turned buildings with the thickest walls into fortresses and have strewn the path of the Americans with almost every known type of mine and explosive trap. A large enemy gun even fired a few rounds from the tower of the City Hall before it was knocked out.

Rockets, some 8 to 10 inches in caliber, are the latest missiles hurled from the enemy pocket.

The "Little Tokyo" district, last sizable pocket of resistance on the waterfront north of the Pasig, offered no return fire yesterday. Thus the Americans virtually completed control of North Manila.

Key anti-aircraft positions and four coastal guns on Corregidor were knocked out in the 200-ton bombing.

Sixth Division armored units of Maj. Gen. Edwin D. Patrick reached Luzon's Pacific coast at Dingalan Bay over a mountain road from Bongabon on the central Luzon plain, seizing quantities of enemy supplies and equipment.

This cut Luzon from coast to coast on a line southwestward from Lingayen Gulf. The bulk of the island's Japanese are believed to be in the northeastern corner.

Bataan Nurses Start for Home

MANILA, Feb. 12 (AP)—A broad-winged Curtiss Commando transport plane swooped low over war-torn Manila today and made a precarious landing on a deserted street in the northeast section of the city. A few hours later the plane roared away carrying sixty-four Army nurses who had worked with the Americans on Bataan and Corregidor and were subsequently held in Santo Tomas internment ca The nurses were the first Sa Tomas internees to start home

Rail Yards Attacked Vienna ...d Graz

FEB 14 1945

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Operating for the first time in five days, heavy bombers of the United States 15th Air Force from Italy smashed at rail yards in Vienna and Graz, in Austria, and Maribor, in Yugoslavia, today.

The Italian port of Pola, at the head of the Adriatic, also was attacked and United States 12th Air Force B-25's hit the Brenner Pass rail line in two waves at San Michele, Lavis, Dogna and Chiusaforte.

German air d warnings meanwhile indica allied fighters and bombers were engaged in wide sweeps behind the Western front.

Spectacular Operation

In one of the most spectacular operations in weeks, RAF Mosquitos yesterday bounced delayed action bombs off the side of a 3,000-foot cliff among German ships packed in the narrow fjord off Midgulen, Norway. Many bombs were seen to burst among the ships.

RAF Mosquito bombers attacked the important rail center of Stuttgart and other targets in western Germany during the night, the Air Ministry announced today.

Citrine Answers Hillman Plaint

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Sir Walter Citrine, secretary of the British Trade Union Congress and president of the International Federation of Trade Unions, recommended to the World Trade Unions Conference today that a provisional committee be formed immediately to implement the conference's proposals.

Citrine's recommendation was in reply to a proposal by Sidney Hillman, CIO representative, to create a new world labor organization on the ground that the IFTU functioned too slowly to meet labor's demands for participation in the peace settlement.

Speaks For BTUC

Citrine emphasized that he was speaking for the British Trade Union Congress rather than for the IFTU. He suggested that the provisional committee would serve as an interim authority for the world TUC, with the power to make recommendations to governments.

V. V. Kuznetsov, representing 27,500,000 Russian workers, supported Hillman's proposal, and it also had the backing of the French delegation.

Kuznetsov said in an address that, despite political differences among nations, labor unions could organize internationally, and he suggested the organization of a standing committee or secretariat as an urgent necessity.

Place For AFL

Hillman had proposed that the conference create an all-inclusive world labor organization to replace the IFTU. It would include the Soviet Union and would reserve a place for the American Federation of Labor, which is not represented here.

E. Thornton, of Australia, also supported the proposal, saying "we must make unity of world trade unions a reality." Further support came from R. Rabinovitz of the General Federation of Jewish Labor of Palestine, and J. S. Annam, of the Gold Coast Railway Civil Servants and Technical Workers Union.

QUERY FOR CHURCHILL

London, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—J. H. Martin, Laborite, asked in the House of Commons today for an official inquiry into the mysterious leakage of Prime Minister Churchill's confidential rebuke to Francisco Franco's proposal for a Western anti-Soviet alliance.

Mr. Martin formally addressed a question to the absent Prime Minister, asking how and why the substance of his letter to the Spanish leader could be published in the United States while still denied to Parliament.

"Did this have the consent and approval of his Majesty's Government?" he asked. "If not, what action has been taken in the matter? What further action does the Government propose to take in future to prevent continuance of episodes injurious to the authority and prestige of Parliament?"

Lord Moyne's Nephew, Viscount Elveden, Killed

Son Is Heir to Earldom and Guinness Fortune

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP).—Viscount Elveden, son and heir of the Earl and Countess of Iveagh, has been killed in action. He was thirty-two years old.

The heir to the earldom and to the Guinness brewery fortune is seven-year-old Arthur Francis Benjamin Guinness, the viscount's son.

The viscount, who had served in the British army from the beginning of the war, was the nephew of Lord Moyne, who recently was assassinated in Cairo.

Grandson of Brewery Head

Viscount Elveden, Arthur Onslow Edward Guinness, was the son of the second Earl of Iveagh and Lady Elizabeth Hare. He attended Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge. His father was Rupert Guinness, eldest son of the head of the great Dublin brewery business.

Col. Astor Backs Freedom of News

London, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Col. J. J. Astor, chairman of the London Times, told the Empire Press Union today that one of its first duties after the war would be to insure freedom in gathering news from every country in the world.

He said the union, of which he is president, must aim for "the fastest possible transmission at the lowest possible rates." The union is made up of newspapers throughou British Emp

NEGRO WAC UNIT REACHES ENGLAND

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 13—(AP) A contingent of negro WACS—24 officers and 677 enlisted women—has arrived in England on the way to serve in the European theater postal service.

The first negro WACS to reach England, the contingent was given a rousing welcome. An Army band played as Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, only negro general in the U. S. Army, met the WACS at the disembarkation port. They came to Birmingham by train.

Maj. Charity Adams of Columbia, S. C., daughter of the secretary of education of the African Episcopal church, already was on hand. The contingent's commander, she flew over in advance to prepare for the women's stay in Britain.

This group is the first Army postal unit to be composed entirely of WACS. They will be stationed somewhere on the continent, handling Army postal and directory service for the entire theater.

Capt. Abie Noel Campbell of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., is the battalion's executive officer.

The contingent's arrival boosted the total number of WACS now on duty in the European theater to about 7,500.

Soldiers Plan to Reward Blind English Pianist,

Raise $3,000 to Send Him to U. S. for Musical Studies

A UNITED STATES AIR BASE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 13 (AP).—Jimmy Osborne, blind nine-year-old pianist who entertains airmen with everything from Bach to boogie woogie although he never has had a lesson, may get a free trip to the United States soon for a musical education.

A story that soldiers and officers here had raised $3,200 to send Jimmy to America if they could find a responsible family to vouch for his welfare has brought a number of inquiries. Captain John O'Connell, Holyoke, Mass., special service officer at the base, said the names of those offering to take Jimmy would be turned over to the American Embassy in London for investigation. If the embassy approves, he will be flown to the United States.

INSTITUTE OFFERS TO AID BLIND BOY

WATERTOWN, Mass., Feb. 13—(AP) The 100-year-old Perkins Institution for the Blind today offered its world-famed resources to further the piano-playing career of a nine-year-old blind English boy in whose interests the men of an air base in England have raised $3,200.

Dr. Gabriel Farrell, director of the school, said:

"We are very much interested in Jimmy Osborne. We have the facilities here that probably can't be found elsewhere in the country. We have the faculty. We can help Jimmy not only in his musical career but in all other phases of education.

"We can take him through grammar school and high school and then send him to the New England conservatory of music or some other place."

Dr. Farrell said he had not communicated with the air base officials.

The boy was "adopted" after he entertained the base with everything from boogie woogie to the classics, although he never took a lesson. The soldiers are ready to send him to this country when arrangements can be completed for his care.

OFFICER GETS 20 YEARS FOR THEFT

Loop Convicted Of Looting In France By Court-Martial

Paris, Feb. 13 (AP)—First Lieutenant Norris E. Loop, 47, former locomotive engineer, was sentenced to 20 years at hard labor and dismissed from the service today upon conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States, wrongful diversion of army supplies and neglect of duty.

Loop, whose home is in Pratt, Kan., was an officer of the 716th Railway Battalion and is the third officer of that unit to be court-martialed as a result of the supply-line black-market scandal. One other was been convicted and one has been acquitted. A fourth officer is expected to be tried tomorrow.

'Mutual Inaction'

"Mutual inaction against pillaging" was stressed as a serious factor of the conspiracy with which Loop and the other officers were charged. The prosecution has contended that their failure to prevent looting of supply trains by American soldiers, as well as their receiving pilfered supplies, resulted in diversion of these supplies from the front "during a critical period of combat."

On the witness stand, Loop vigorously denied testimony of prosecution witnesses that he received stolen cigarettes and post-exchange items and did nothing to prevent the enlisted men from looting the trains.

Held A Good Officer

Seven enlisted men called by the defense testified they saw no looting going on in their battalion and asserted Loop was a good officer and a competent railroad man.

Enlisted Men Sentenced

Three more enlisted men of the same railway operating battalion, the 716th, were sentenced to from three to four years in prison after pleading guilty to wrongful disposition of Government property.

They were T/5 John W. Peters, three years; T/5 Carl C. Orr, four years, and Pfc. Russell J. Watson, three years.

Seven enlisted men said they never saw any looting of supply trains by members of the 716th Railway Operating Battalion nor any pilfered cigarettes or post-exchange rations in billets occupied by the men.

Tells Of Incident

Under cross-examination the witnesses said there seldom was any temptation to pilfer trains for food or tobacco since C and K rations were issued trainmen going on long trips and there were mess halls at convenient stations.

Sergt. Frederick W. Butterfield, a conductor on a supply train, said Loop on one occasion rushed sandwiches by jeep from a mess hall to the crew of a train stalled between stations. Under questioning by a member of the court, Butterfield said he never had heard of any officer of the 716th Railway Operating Battalion permitting men to take rations off supply trains.

Three more enlisted men were sentenced to three to four years in prison today after pleading guilty. They were T/5 John W. Peters, Detroit; T/5 Carl C. Orr, Anna, Ill., and Pfc. Russell J. Watson, Danville, Ill.

Defense witnesses said he had an excellent reputation, was a good officer and a competent railroad

France in Puritanic Mood, Campaigns Against Alcohol

Paris, Feb. 13 (AP)—France, with the exuberance of liberation long past, appears to be heading toward Puritanic sobriety.

Straws in the wind are the Government's anti-alcohol campaign, closing of Paris night clubs, suppression of legalized prostitution in the department of Savoie—an isolated but perhaps significant action—and the overhauling of juvenile delinquency courts.

A glass of milk may be more symbolic of the national temper in postwar France than a glass of Burgundy.

New Industry—Juices

The Government announced a campaign to popularize fruit juices as a substitute for alcoholic beverages.

It is also foreseen that France will insist upon retention of rationing, which allows laborers one liter of wine daily and other workers have a liter, and lowering the percentage of alcohol.

Widespread appearance of "modern bars" where wine sales are forbidden and other less glamorous drinks are served are expected to be another result, leading to creation of a new industry for manufacture of fruit juices.

Commenting on this possibility, the official French News Agency said such drinks were "launched on a grand scale in the United States during prohibition," and retained their popularity after repeal.

The anti-alcoholic campaign is directed by the Public Health Minister, Francois Billoux, with the backing of a national committee of doctors.

Prostitution has been suppressed since last October 24 by Prefect Andre Monnier in his department of Savoie, the newspaper L'Aube announced recently, along with imposition of stringent regulations concerning wine sales to minors.

"May the Government sanction and follow that example," the newspaper said editorially.

With her birthrate falling seriously and with 3,000,000 persons either killed or deported to Germany, France must nourish her youth carefully, and to this end is setting up modernized juvenile-delinquency courts.

One Reason—Morale

The closing of Paris night clubs resulted from lack of coal and electricity, and also because of official decision that such gayety was out of place in wartime. Although the closing presumably is temporary, it is linked with the present sobermindedness throughout France.

One reason for the closing was the effect on morale of French 1st Army soldiers who came to Paris on leave and saw large numbers of Parisian youths of military age drinking and dancing in crowded cafés.

NAZI RETREAT IN ITALY SEEN

Senio's Banks Dynamited And Large Mine Fields Laid

Rome, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Allied command's official reports indicated today the establishment of a number of conditions under which an enemy withdrawal from northern Italy could be undertaken in the next few weeks with a minimum of interference by the American 5th and British 8th armies.

Concrete signs that any such withdrawal is imminent were lacking, however.

Fifth Army headquarters said the enemy was laying down smoke screens south of Bologna, "possibly to shield movement, digging parties and the laying of mines."

Water Barrier Formed

On the 8th Army front the Germans in the last week dynamited gaps in the Senio River's banks, forming a water barrier behind which a withdrawal easily could be effected.

Along the Tyrrhenian coast as well as in other sectors the Nazis have sown elaborate mine fields—another form of barrier effective against close pursuit in event of a withdrawal. The Allied command acknowledged that a number of tanks were lost in these mine fields in the recent four-day American attack in that area.

If and when the Germans decide to take their armies behind the Alps, it is unlikely that they will attempt a mass retreat on which the Allies' overwhelmingly superior air forces could pounce.

Piecemeal Withdrawal Likely

The Germans have demonstrated great skill in such evacuations—quietly removing their main bodies of troops unit by unit over a period of days or weeks, leaving behind a thin crust of well-armed rear guards who from well-prepared positions are able to fight delaying actions against much stronger pursuing forces.

With such tactics it is possible and probable that a large-scale removal of German armies in Italy could begin weeks before its effects on fighting along the present Italian battlefront are really apparent. The Russians already have reported that some Nazis they are fighting on the Eastern front recently came from Italy.

front was repulsed, 15th army group headquarters disclosed today.

Official dispatches earlier had tended to discount as minor this attack of the Negro division, which was launched last Thursday. It was the 92nd's first full attack as a division.

A special report from Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters said "No net gains in terrain were made," and the division was compelled to relinquish the hold it had secured north of the Cinquale canal and at Strettoia and fall back virtually to its original positions.

The Negro doughboys had penetrated as much as a mile on a five-mile front to within two and a half miles of Massa before the Germans recovered from surprise and drove the Americans back in four days of fighting.

The 92d was deployed yesterday near the south shore of the Fiume la Foce, a small stream south of Massa, and action on its sector was limited to patrolling. In the Serchio Valley about fifteen to twenty miles inland, however, the enemy continued to launch small-scale counter-attacks against American positions.

South of Bologna the Germans laid down smoke screens, apparently to shield parties digging strong points and laying mines.

Fog hung low over most of the th Army front. The only important action there was a strong emy raid, which compelled 8th rmy troops to withdraw from an tpost on the east bank of the do River.

The weather grounded heavy mbers of the United States 15th Air Force and only 400 missions were flown by the Allied Tactical Air Forces. Four enemy aircraft were destroyed and three Allied planes were missing. The enemy losses were accounted for by B-25 gunners who fought an engagement with fifteen enemy fighters over Legnano.

cerning the attack of the Negro division, which official dispatches earlier had tended to discount as minor action, said:

"Casualties and tank losses were relatively high and no net gains in terrain were made."

Had Gained A Mile

German counterattacks supported by concentrated artillery and mortar fire repulsed the Negro doughboys after they had gained as much as a mile on a five-mile front.

The 92d's first full attack as a division was launched last Thursday and penetrated to within 2½ miles of Massa before the enemy recovered and drove the Americans back in four days of fighting.

Close To Starting Point

Action in the sector yesterday was limited to patrolling after the 92d had fallen back virtualy to the starting point of its attack, near the south shore of the Fiume la Force, a small stream south of Massa.

In the Serchio Valley about 15 to 20 miles inland, however, the enemy continued to launch small scale counterattacks against American positions.

Air action was restricted yesterday but B-25 gunners over Legnango had an engagement with fifteen enemy fighters and knocked down at least four.

Sweden Urged To Aid Norway

Stockholm, Feb. 13 (AP)—Public appeals from a Swedish bishop and a political mass meeting called upon the Swedish Government today to prepare to take all steps possible, even military if necessary, in order to assist Norwegians against the Nazis.

These expressions, apparently fired by last week's Nazi terror wave in which 34 patriots were executed in Oslo, were the first recent outbursts of public opinion urging intervention in Norway.

BRITISH SEIZE MORE IN DRIVE AT MANDALAY

KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 13 (AP)—British Fourteenth Army Troops, consolidating a bridgehead on the east bank of the Irrawaddy River, forty miles above Mandalay in Burma, have captured Singu but are meeting some opposition in the southern outskirts, Allied headquarters announced today.

West of Mandalay other Fourteenth Army units seized Sulegon after a seven-hour battle.

Chinese First Army troops in North Burma cleared the Burma Road southward to within sixty-one miles of Lashio.

Off the Burma coast Fifteenth Indian Corps troops had several clashes with small parties of Japanese attempting to escape from Ramree Island.

To the northwest on the mainland other Indian units cleared Japanese resistance southeast of Kangaw.

British Take Singue

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 13 (AP)—British 14th Army troops driving down from the north along the Irrawaddy have captured Singue, 40 miles from Mandalay, an Allied communiqué announced today.

However, resistance is being met in the southern outskirts of the base, the communiqué said. To the west of the city, in the peninsula formed by the confluence of the Chinwin and Irrawaddy Rivers, British troops seized a village after a sharp seven-hour battle.

In North Burma Chinese 1st Army troops have cleared the Burma road southward to within 61 miles of the key city of Lashio.

Sergeants Heroes In Burma Action

By John Grover

Calcutta, Feb. 13 (AP)—Two sergeants star in tales of heroism filtering from the Burma jungles, where the American Mars task force has been operating on the Lashio-Loiwing road.

One such story is that of Sergt. James L. Speck, of McKinney, Texas, whose platoon was pinned down by dug-in Japanese using automatic weapons while attempting to claw its way up a steep hill west of the road.

Speck crawled around the Japanese machine-gun nest and neutralized it with grenades, killing two Japanese. Another machine gun covering the first opened up on him from ten feet away, but he flipped a grenade, silenced it and killed a third Japanese.

Got Sixth Jap

Still another enemy machine gun 30 yards away uphill began spitting fire. Speck wormed his way up, threw another grenade and killed two more. As he heaved the grenade a Japanese rifleman 5 yards away fired on him from a slit trench but missed. Speck got him with his carbine—his sixth kill.

But this was only the beginning. The Texan took time out to crawl to three wounded Americans who were exposed to Japanese fire. He rolled them down hill to places of safety, administered first aid and had them removed to the rear. Another American in charge of an ammunition pack train was wounded just then, and Speck aided him too.

Led Another Assault

Crawling back again, the sergeant reorganized his platoon, issued new ammunition and led a ground-hugging grenade assault on a Japanese command post, which was liquidated with all personnel.

Sergt. Rim Hill, of Champaign, Ill., former University of Illinois student, fired on by a Japanese machine gun, dived in a foxhole and landed on top of a Japanese soldier. The Japanese tried to stab him with a samurai sword.

Jap Used Grenade

Unable to reach his bayonet, Hill grabbed the sword with his right hand. The Japanese dropped the weapon and began pounding a percussion-type grenade on Hill's head, apparently determined to die along with his American adversary by blowing both of them to bits.

Just a split second before the explosion was due, Hill clawed the grenade from the Japanese soldier's hand and threw it out of the foxhole. He finished off the Japanese with the enemy's own sword.

Chinese Regain Hunan Positions

Chung King, Feb. 13 (AP)—Chinese columns have delivered successful attacks against the Japanese in the mountainous regions through which the Canton-Hankow railroad cut to cross the border between the Hunan and Kwangtung provinces, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

A communiqué said Chinese forces "completely recaptured enemy positions" in the area between Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton on the railroad, and Ichang, west of the railroad and about 100 miles south of Hengyang.

It also said the Chinese dealt heavy blows against the Japanese in fighting northeast of the railroad town of Chenhsien, 80 miles south of Hengyang, where the Japanese apparently are determined to eliminate potential Chinese threats to their positions along the rail line.

This fighting is centered near Tzeching, 25 miles northeast of Chenhsien, where, the Chinese command said, more than 400 Japanese were killed in the 24 hours beginning February 7. Battles in this region are continuing.

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 13 (AP)—Chinese troops, counter-attacking in a mountainous region where the Canton-Hankow railway cuts through Hunan Province to the Kwangtung border, have "completely recaptured enemy positions" in the six-mile area between Pingshek and Ichang, the High Command announced tonight.

Pingshek is a rail town 165 miles north of Canton and 100 miles south of Hengyang. Ichang is a neighboring town west of the railway.

The High Command also announced that the Chinese dealt heavy blows against the enemy twenty-five miles northeast of the rail town of Chenhsien, eighty miles south of Hengyang.

More than 400 Japanese were killed in twenty-four hours and fighting that began Feb. 7 is continuing.

SUPPLY BASE IN KUNMING

New Headquarters Will Provide Better Gear for Chinese

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 13 (AP)—A new Services of Supply Headquarters designed to provide better food, clothing and equipment for Chinese forces was opened today in Kunming.

It is headed by Maj. Gen. Gilbert Cheves, commanding general of the American Services of Supply in the China Theatre, but is directly under Gen. Ho Ying-chin, Chief of the Chinese General Staff. Col. Mason H. Lucas of Lawton, Okla., is the Headquarters Chief of Staff.

General Cheves declared that the new Chinese Services of Supply could do more good work for the Chinese Army than anything developed since the war started.

903,206 Captives

[By the Associated Press]

General Eisenhower's armies in western Europe have captured 903,206 German prisoners, of which 568,529 were taken by four American armies.

The total is equivalent to 90 German divisions as they are now constituted and greater than the number of troops the enemy is believed to have now on the entire Western front.

Battlefront dispatches gave these latest estimates by armies today:

U.S. 1st	245,691
U.S. 3d	171,663
U.S. 9th	61,708
U.S. 7th	89,467

REPORT NAVY MAN CHIEF IN PACIFIC

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 — (AP) Morgan Beatty, NBC news analyst, said tonight in a broadcast from Washington "the supreme command for the next phase of the war in the Pacific will be placed in the hands of the U. S. Navy and Admirals Nimitz and Halsey are prominently mentioned in this connection.

NBC, in distributing the dispatch, pointed out that rumor in the capital had been that the army and Gen. Douglas MacArthur would take over.

Beatty, whose broadcast was passed by censorship, said the reasons the navy would hold top command in the Pacific included:

"The Japanese invariably challenge our advances with their navy and the opening of the next chapter in the Pacific war will find our navy in the driver's seat, anticipating another, perhaps a final test of strength with the Japanese fleet.

"Also, the problems involved in landing an American assault force on Japanese territory, perhaps the Jap homeland, are navy problems. The navy is responsible for getting the ground forces ashore. Not until the army commander is satisfied that he can stick does he assume command. Finally, the supply job for the longest over-water invasion yet attempted, is primarily a navy job.

JAP WAR PLANTS ARE BEING MOVED

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aircraft factories and other vital war plants are being moved from Japan to Manchuria, Tokyo radio said today with a hint that the transfers were the result of damaging American air raids of the past and the promise of more to come.

The broadcast, heard by the FCC, said that Rokuzo Takabe, director of the Manchukuoan (Manchurian) general affairs bureau, had mentioned the transfer in outlining a general plan for the "readjustment of the Japan-Manchukuo industrial structure."

Kernel of "the plan," said the broadcast, is the "construction of new factories in Manchukuo and removal of plants from Japan."

"The plan is already under way with remarkable efficiency," the broadcaster added.

FDR Wrote Declarations On Liberated Countries

Byrnes Declares U.S. Will Prevent Spheres of Influence Rivalry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — (AP) In a dramatic first-hand account of the Crimean conference, James F. Byrnes declared tonight that American participation in the affairs of Europe is designed to prevent Russian-British rivalry for spheres of influence.

Byrnes, just back from the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference gave the account to newsmen as the White House announced a bi-partisan slate of American delegates chosen to attend the United Nations parley at San Francisco April 25 to draft a plan for enforcing world peace.

Byrnes, War Mobilization director, said another aim of American participation in European affairs, is to deter outbreaks of violence in liberated countries.

President Roosevelt himself, Byrnes disclosed, wrote the declaration on liberated areas by which this country agrees to share with the other two powers responsibility for restoring order and independence to the war ravaged small nations.

The Mobilization Chief expressed his conviction that the Crimean agreements had gone a long way toward guaranteeing an Atlantic Charter settlement for the small countries of Europe and a lasting peace for the world.

The military decisions of the conference, he said, mean that our military leaders are planning for a war involving "more men than ever before in this conflict."

Assure Eventual Victory

"They do not minimize the possibility of civilian collapse in Germany, but we cannot count on that," he added, explaining his belief that the decisions reached in the Crimea assure eventual victory though not an immediate one.

In describing the role played by the President with "great skill, tact, patience and humor," Byrnes said that he served by informal agreement as chairman of the conference and that he proposed at least two of the specific agreements covered in yesterday's communique summing up accomplishments.

1—The Declaration on liberated areas by which the United States agreed to serve on commissions which may be necessary in one or more countries to restore order and assure the people of eventual free choice of their own governments.

2—The formula for settling the Dumbarton Oaks controversy over whether a great power should vote on a charge of aggression against itself. Byrnes did not say what this formula is nor how it reconciles the previously opposing positions taken by the United States and Russia.

Immediately after his news conference at the White House broke up President Roosevelt through his press office announced the names of nine persons invited to be delegates to the San Francisco conference.

Secretary of State Stettinius will head the delegation. Other members chosen are former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who also will serve as senior advisor, chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) a member of the committee, Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the House Foreign Affairs committee, Representative Eaton (R-NJ), Commander Harold Stassen, former Republican governor of Minnesota, and Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard college.

Senator Vandenberg declined tonight to say immediately whether he would serve on the delegation.

The appointment of Hull raised the possibility that he might become chairman of the conference. President Roosevelt, when Hull resigned as secretary, expressed the hope that he might have such position when the conference was called.

Byrnes dealt with many aspects of the Crimean agreements and said that more than once President Roosevelt by using tact and good humor brought about decisions of the Big Three. "And we did have decisions," he emphasized. The conclusions on military questions, Byrnes reported, promise greater cooperation "than has ever before existed" among the Allies and they mean that "if Hitler had relied for success upon a division among the powers he is doomed as never before."

"I was tremendously impressed," Byrnes added, "by the comradeship and genuine affection shown by the President, Stalin and Churchill."

He said that the settlement provided for the Three Power dispute over Poland was a specific application of the general system agreed upon for big power handling of problems which may arise from now on in the liberated countries of Europe. In these countries, it was stated, the war has left chaos and disorder which, without such an agreement, would lead to factional bids for support of either Russia or Britain.

Polish Case a Compromise

Byrnes said the Polish case represents a compromise but that "whenever you have three powers in a situation like this there must be a reconciliation." He laid great stress on the creation of a commission consisting of Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia, U. S. Ambassador Harriman and British Ambassador Clark Kerr at Moscow to consult members the various political groups in Poland and try to convert the present Warsaw government into a government of national unity to administer the country until free elections can be held.

Asked whether this means that the present provisional regime at Warsaw is to be considered a government by the United States, Byrnes replied, without going into the technicalities of recognition, that "of course it's a government. We may be opposed to it but it's there".

He was told that the Polish exile government at London had said today that it could not accept the Big Three formula. "How many of them are there?" he replied.

Asked whether the Baltic states were discussed, Byrnes said that all sorts of questions were taken up but that those specific states were not talked about in any meeting at which he was present. The United States has not recognized Russia's absorption of Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia.

All the decisions taken at the conference have not been made public, Byrnes said.

On the Curzon Line settlement of Poland's eastern boundary, by which Poland loses a little more than one third of her pre-war territory, he said that the Russians made a strong case for acquiring this area. He said that Clemenceau of France and Lord Curzon of Britain established the line in discussions on winding up the First World war and that it came down to a question whether Stalin would ask less for Russia than Clemenceau and Curzon had been willing to grant.

Repeatedly Byrnes emphasized the importance of American participation in European settlements. He cited the cases of Greece, Poland and Yugoslavia as examples of nations where there should be or could have been concerted action by the great powers to avert spheres of influence politics and internal violence.

"There was a great danger," he said, "that one group or another inside a country would likely get in touch with the British or the Soviet government and solicit support for its own struggle for power.

"Now the fact that the three powers have agreed to step in jointly in an emergency will be a deterrent to all factions and they will know they cannot play one against another."

Asked whether the President had a plan for making a personal report to the country on the conference, Byrnes said he knew of none but "my hope is that when he returns he may make a radio broadcast or address Congress."

Meantime the Crimean plan for tomorrow's world encountered some criticism.

There appeared to be wide acceptance of the Big-Three pledge to continue Anglo-American-Soviet unity after the war and to call the United Nations conference at San Francisco April 25 to breathe life into the Dumbarton Oaks security plan. Proposals for smashing Germany, for breaking up her notorious general staff as well as the Nazi gang, and for hobbling her war-making powers also drew much praise.

But some of the sections having to do with relations between the great victorious powers and their smaller Allies — particularly the plan for settling the Polish controversy—were in for rough weather.

Comment and reaction showed the wide extremes of praise and citicism. Acting Secretary of State Grew called the plan "one of the greatest steps" yet taken toward lasting peace, but Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis) thundered in the House that it is a "stab in the back for Poland" and a "second Munich."

In London the Polish exile government bitterly rejected the formula applied to its country and accused the Big Three of violating "the letter and spirit of the Atlantic charter and the right of every nation to defend its own interest."

Vodka, Red Peppers Drink of Authority

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP) "How's the Vodka?" was the first question put today to War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes on his arrival from the Big Three meeting.

"It's new corn," Byrnes replied with a smile.

He added they have a brand of Vodka called "pepper" which contains red pepper.

"And boys, that has authority," Byrnes said. "When they toast in that it has strong language."

Big 3 In Agreement On 9-Point Master Plan

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes returned today from the Crimean Conference. He apparently is the first of the American delegation at the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting to come home. The White House announced his return.

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Big Three are in agreement today on a nine-point master plan to hasten victory over Germany, guarantee the sovereignty of Europe's liberated peoples and lay the foundations of a secure peace.

The pattern of the peace—the Dumbarton Oaks proposal for the world security organization—is to be placed before a United Nations conference to be called at San Francisco April 25.

Those are the over-all results of President Roosevelt's eight-day meeting at an old czarist palace in the Crimea with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

Renewed Hope For Peace

By their own word it offers the world renewed hope after Germany's unconditional surrender for generations of international security, in which men "may live out their lives in freedom from want and fear."

The Big Three announcement was hailed at the Capitol by both Republicans and Democrats.

It commits the United States to a new and active role in the settlement of European political affairs. To consider these problems as they arise, British, Russian and American foreign secretaries are to meet every three or four months, beginning after the San Francisco conference.

Stettinius In Moscow

On his way home from the Crimea, Secretary of State Stettinius has gone to Moscow for a brief visit. The whereabouts of Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt were not disclosed. Presumably Stalin has returned to his duties as Soviet commander in chief and the other two are homeward bound.

The Crimean agreement pledges the greatest alliance of military and political power in history to support the ideal of a peace based on the Atlantic Charter.

But it provides also for the growth of France as a fourth great power in Europe and recognizes, through the agreement on Dumbarton Oaks, the potential power of China in the Orient.

The announcement was released at 4.30 P.M. yesterday.

All the conclusions were not made public. The solution for the split between the United States and Russia over the issues of a great power "veto" on charges involving itself in the world security organization is to be given out only after France and China are consulted.

The plans for joint military action to "shorten the war" against Germany also are unrevealed, and there is no mention whatever of the war against Japan.

Summary Of Decisions

The decisions which were reported fall into categories which may be summed up thus:

MILITARY PLANS—British, American and Russian high commands planned together for the first time in detail "the timing, scope and co-ordination of new and even more powerful blows" to crush the enemy. The staffs will continue to meet when necessary. "The German people," it was said, "will only make the cost of their defeat heavier to themselves by attempting to continue a hopeless resistance."

OCCUPATION, CONTROL — France was asked to make a fourth power in the control of postwar Germany with the promise that the country would be split into four occupation zones, instead of three, and ruled by a control commission of the four supreme commanders in Berlin. In addition to having their armies disarmed and demobilized and Nazism and militarism wiped out, the Germans will have all their real or potential war industries eliminated or controlled.

Said the Allied leaders: "It is not our purpose to destroy the people of Germany, but only when Nazism and militarism have been extirpated will there be hope for a decent life for Germans, and a place for them in the comity of nations."

REPARATIONS—A commission will be established at Moscow to study reparations "in kind" by Germany to the Allied countries. This probably means using German labor and German machinery, wealth and raw materials to rebuild devastated Europe.

GENERAL POLICY — Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin agreed—and expressed the hope that France would join them—on a plan for jointly helping the liberated and former statellite peoples of Europe to regain full political independence with a guarantee of free, secret elections as soon as possible. They said they would help establish internal peace in disturbed countries, relieve distress, form interim governments pending elections and facilitate the holding of elections. As a reassurance to the smaller nations, the Big Three promised to consult them on matters of mutual concern.

Plans In Poland

POLAND—Russia is to get the eastern part of prewar Poland, which is to be compensated by German lands to the west. The Soviet-sponsored Polish provisional regime now in control of the country will be converted into a "national unity" government by including "democratic leaders" from within Poland and from the exiled Poles in London. This leaves the exile government at London out in the cold. Britain and the United States, which now recognize it, promised to recognize the new national unity administration, but even that will be provisional until the Polish people have a chance to hold elections.

YUGOSLAVIA—Marshal Tito, now in control within the country, and Dr. Subasic, chief of the exile Government at London, are being told to get their projected coalition administration set up at Belgrade without delay. Members of the old Parliament who are not enemy collaborationists will be included in the new national liberation assembly to form a temporary Parliament.

Foreign Ministers Meetings

FOREIGN MINISTERS — American, British and Russian foreign ministers will meet every three or four months to discuss current problems, the first gathering to be held in London following the United Nations conference at San Francisco in April and May.

DUMBARTON OAKS—The plan for a world security organization should be set up as quickly as possible, hence the conference of United Nations at San Francisco. China and France are being asked to join in sponsoring the invitations to this meeting. Big Three agreement on the council voting issue cleared the way for the conference.

ATLANTIC CHARTER—In declaring the "sacred obligation" of their governments to remain united in peace as in war, the Big Three in effect reaffirmed the principles of the Atlantic Charter promising "all men" freedom from fear and want.

WORLD SECURITY DELEGATES NAMED

FEB 14 1945

Stettinius to Head Group, Hull to Be Senior Advisor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP) President Roosevelt today named eight American delegates, including two Republican legislators, Cordell Hull and a woman educator, to the United Nations conference on world security at San Francisco April 25.

The delegation will be headed by Secretary of State Edward Stettinius.

Hull, former secretary of state, also will serve as senior adviser to the Americans as they sit down with representatives of other nations to draft formally the plan for a peace-enforcing agency.

A White House announcement said that besides Hull, the following have been asked to serve on the delegation:

Senator Connally (D-Tex), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee; Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich)' Rep. Bloom (D-NY), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee; Rep. Eaton (R-NJ); Navy Commander Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1948, and Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard College in New York.

Cordell Hull's appointment was underlined with the release at the State department of a cable of greetings from participants of the Crimea conference, sent to him by Secretary of State Stettinius.

Stettinius said that Roosevelt, Stalin, Churchill, Molotov and Eden had asked him to tell Hull that "we have missed you at this conference and send to you our affectionate greetings. We wish for you a speedy recovery in order that all of us may have the benefit of association with you again."

Grew Silent On Purpose Of April 25 Meeting

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Grew told reporters today to put their own interpretation on the choice of a locale and date for the approaching United Nations conference.

The Big Three announcement yesterday said the meeting to draw up a charter for a world security organization will be held in San Francisco beginning April 25.

The date is regarded here as particularly significant because April 25 would be Russia's last chance to tel Japan she wants to call off their non-aggression pact. Otherwise the treaty automatically runs another five years.

Ratified April 25

Signed in Moscow April 13, 1941, and ratified April 25, the treaty's article on duration says:

"The present pact comes into force from the day of its ratification by both contracting parties and remains valid for five years. In case neither of the contracting parties denounces the pact one year before expiration of the term, it will be considered automatically prolonged for the next five years."

Earlier there had been some confusion whether the notification deadline falls on the anniversary of the day of signing or the day of ratification. The text shows it is the latter, April 25.

Problem Delays Meeting

The United Nations meeting, originally planned last year, had been delayed until the top Allied leaders could work out the crucial problem of the voting procedure.

When the Dumbarton Oaks proposals were drawn up in August, the Russians held out for the right of big powers to veto any international action against themselves. Britain, the United States and China disagreed.

May Follow British Plan

The British proposed a compromise which was turned down at the time and the point was left unsettled. Speculation here was that the Big Three worked out their solution along the lines of the British suggestion.

It divided consideration of quarrels involving major powers into two parts. In the first stage, while the council was deciding whether peace was threatened, who was the aggressor and whether anything should be done, the veto would be out.

But when the last question came up — whether international force should be called out to stop the dispute—Russia, Britain, the United States, China or France could quash an affirmative vote even if they were accused of breaking the peace.

Would Prevent Major War

The idea behind this was that if the major powers get to the point of wanting to send their armies against one another, that would mean another world war and the failure of peace machinery.

At the same time, up to the final test, it would place a strong country in the same position of submitting to decisions of others as it would a little country called on the carpet for menacing the safety of its neighbors.

The communiqué said France and China would be consulted on the precise answer worked out at the Crimean conference.

Grew Amends Big 3 Charter

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Grew today called the Crimean Charter "one of the greatest steps forward" yet taken on the road to victory and establishment of an enduring peace.

Grew told a news conference he hopes France and China will concur soon on the solution to the Dumbarton Oaks voting question arrived at by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin.

He added that as soon as those two countries are heard from invitations will be issued to the April 25 United Nations conference in San Francisco.

Grew also told newsmen that, perhaps as a result of the Big Three meeting, arrangements have been made to release a limited amount of shipping to UNRRA so civilian supplies can be sent to Italy, Czechoslovakia and Poland. He said some shipments might begin before the end of this month.

What Wasn't Revealed

FEB 14 1945

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP) — The Big Three kept mum on answers to some major questions.

The Roosevelt - Stalin - Churchill communiqué revealed that they had decided on some of these points. They were just silent on the others.

They include:

1. Possible Russian entrance into the war against Japan.
2. Voting procedure in the 11-member security council of the proposed world peace organization.
3. Plans for crushing new blows into Germany from the "east, west, north and south."

"Surrender Terms"

4. "Unconditional surrender terms which we shall impose together on Nazi Germany."
5. The future of the Baltic states. Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have been incorporated into the Soviet Union, but the United States and Great Britain never recognized that action.
6. Boundary settlements other than the Russo-Polish frontier, set at the Curzon line. This line is indefinite in the South, where it requires specific definition.
7. Tentative conclusions about the future of old League of Nations mandates and Italian colonies.

Mrs. Boettiger F.D.R. Aide

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Anna Roosevelt Boettiger's presence at the Big Three meeting emphasized her role as one of President Roosevelt's chief confidants.

In a photograph taken aboard a United States warship at Malta en route to the Crimea Mrs. Boettiger was shown chatting with the President. She wore a tailored suit, open-throat blouse and beret. Mr. Roosevelt was wearing unfamiliar headgear—a tweed cap.

A good sailor like her father Mrs. Boettiger became the first member of the Chief Executive's family to attend a Big Three gathering. Her brothers have been to Roosevelt-Churchill meetings.

Most of Press Backs Decisions Taken at Yalta

See Peace Milestone Won by Give and Take; A Few

Call Stalin Real Victor

By The Associated Press

Following is editorial comment from the nation's leading newspapers on decisions reached by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at the recent Crimea Conference held at Yalta:

"New York Times"—The alliance of the Big Three stands firm. Progress has been made. The hope of further gains is high. This conference marks a milestone on the road to victory and peace.

"New York Sun"—Clear, concise and informative, the joint report on the conference is by long odds the best that has come out of any conference since President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill met at sea to formulate the Atlantic Charter.

"New York World-Telegram"—The Big Three agreement at Yalta was an attempted post-war settlement, a compromise in which Stalin dictated most of the terms and the Atlantic Charter pledges—other than German disarmament—came off a bad second.

"Washington Evening Star"—The Yalta statement must sound like the crack of doom in the ears of the Nazis and the Prussian militarists.

"Philadelphia Inquirer"—The Big Three appear hearteningly to have reached general agreement on the great issues of victory and security against war. The appeal to the German people over the heads of their criminal leaders promises greater hope of an earlier collapse than an ultimatum.

"Philadelphia Evening Bulletin"—From Yalta can date the foundations, laid deep and truly, of an international order of peace and security. The three powers, by refusing to yield on unconditional surrender have shattered enemy hopes of salvaging anything from the war.

"Detroit News"—The completeness of the agreement on political questions has left in ruins the last hope of the Nazis for a rift between the Allies and a possible separate peace. The guaranteeing of democratic decisions by elections, where necessary, under joint Big Three auspices, in large measure should deprive of their explosive quality current controversies over provisional governments in Italy, Belgium and elsewhere.

"Chicago Tribune"—No American in his right mind can fail to hope that the decisions and agreements reached at Yalta produce a stable and peaceful Europe. In Poland Stalin got ratification by his present Allies of virtually the same partition for which he bargained with Hitler in 1939. The Allies announce their intention of intervening in the affairs of these (liberated) countries. There is no specific reaffirmation of the Four Freedoms in the Yalta communique.

"Boston Globe"—As a program for constructive effect this communique is superb.

"Cleveland Plain Dealer"—The patchwork arrangements which Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin devised during the eight days they conferred mark something of a retreat from the high position the Allies assumed when the war was young and military aid was urgently needed. The customary generalities in which the communique was phrased contain enough specific information to let the world know that little progress was made toward settling Europe's political difficulties.

"Cincinnati Times Star"—Whatever final judgment may be pronounced upon it by time and experience, the Crimean Conference must be rated as the most tangible of all the meetings of the Allied great powers since the war began. The declaration of Tehran included a few high-sounding but barren paragraphs. The joint communique issued Monday is made up of weighted words.

"Cincinnati Enquirer"—We are immensely gratified by the work taken up and accomplished. If this spirit persists this war may accomplish something the last great conflict so tragically failed to achieve.

"St. Louis Globe-Democrat"—The conference leave not a glint of sunshine to brighten Hitler's darkest hours.

"St. Louis Post-Dispatch"—On the fact that the Big Three could agree rests the hope that this time the world will not miss its opportunity to create peace and security for future generations.

"Los Angeles Times"—The association of China and France with the nations issuing invitations to the conference (United Nations) is an important step and may possibly be quite significant. It may indicate: (1) That Stalin is no longer worried about possible irritation in Japan if Russia meets with the Chiang Kai-shek government as he was at the time of the Dumbarton Oaks; and (2) That Stalin has or professes no interest in the Chinese Communists. If Stalin has made up his mind to break with Japan these inferences are explicable; they are not readily so otherwise.

"Baltimore Sun"—The essential signposts for the immediate future have been erected and the more distant goals are now discernible.

"Baltimore Evening Sun"—More important than any agreement on particular questions at the Crimean Conference is the over-all fact that the conferees managed the negotiations in such a way as to bring Russia, Britain and the United States closer together.

Exile Government Charges Boundary Ruling Violates Atlantic Charter

FEB 14 1945

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Polish Government in London, bitterly denouncing the Big Three, announced tonight that it was refusing to accept the decisions regarding Poland made at the Crimean conference and accused President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin of violating the Atlantic Charter.

A 500-word statement from Premier Tomasz Arciszewski of the London Polish Government, issued 24 hours after the British Foreign Office had released the text of the Big Three Polish agreement, said the big powers' intention to create a provisional government of national unity for Poland "can only legalize Soviet interference in Polish internal affairs."

Free Vote Held Impossible

"As long as the territory of Poland will remain under the sole occupation of Soviet troops, a government of that kind will not safeguard the Polish nation, even in the presence of British and American diplomats, the unfettered right of free expression," the statement declared.

It reiterated its claim as the "sole legal and generally recognized Government of Poland" and said it was ready to co-operate in creation of a Government of Poland truly representative of the will of the Polish people."

The London Poles complained that the Big Three conference reached its decision not only without participation and authorization of the London Government, but also without its knowledge.

Decision Not Recognized

"The method adopted in the case of Poland was a contradiction of the elementary principles binding the Allies and constitutes a violation of the letter and spirit of the Atlantic Charter and the right of every nation to defend its own interests," the statement declared.

"The Polish Government declares that the decisions of the three-power conference cannot be recognized by the Polish Government and cannot bind the Polish nation."

The Polish Government here said that before the Big Three conference began it handed Britain and the United States a memorandum "in which hope was expressed that these governments would not be a party to any decision regarding the Allied Polish state without consultation and without consent of the Polish Government."

Calls It Fifth Partition

"At the same time," it added, "the Polish Government declared itself willing to seek a solution to the dispute initiated by Soviet Russia through normal international procedure and with due respect for the rights of the two parties concerned"

The London Poles said their Government would regard severance of the eastern half of Poland through imposition of the Polish-Soviet frontier along the Curzon Line as "a fifth partition of Poland, now accomplished by her allies."

Diplomatic quarters here regarded the Polish statement as killing the last hope of a chance of any of the members of the present London Government participating in the new regime proposed by the Big Three.

The Polish action, in effect, relegated the London Government to the status of a political society, with the certainty that it would no long continue to have the recognition of the major powers.

Mikolajczyk Again To Fore

With this clear-cut answer by the London Poles, it seemed certain that the Big Three would proceed immediately to assist the formation of a broadened Lublin provisional Government.

The possibility grew that peasant-born Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, the former Premier, might fly to Moscow shortly for discussions with the Allied Commission authorized by the Big Three to form a new Polish provisional Government of national unity.

Mikolajczyk is considered one of the most likely choices for Premier in the new provisional Government. After his resignation from the London Government, the Lublin Poles offered him the Premiership of their regime.

Additional points in his favor now include his agreement with the Big Three on the Polish frontier settlement and his leadership of Poland's powerful Peasant party, which is not represented in the Arciszewski Cabinet. Mikolajczyk is highly regarded by Churchill and is on good terms with Stalin.

No Drawn-Out Wrangling

There will be no drawn-out wrangling in view of the Big Three's determination to install a new government and hold free and unfettered elections as soon as possible.

The London Evening Star suggested that if the Poles themselves would emulate the three major powers in their approach the problem "will be solved."

FEB 14 1945

Exiled Regime Sees Soviet Interference in Poland Legalized by Accord.

ECHOED IN WASHINGTON

Representative O'Konski Assails Pact in House as Stab in the Back for Freedom.

London, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—The Polish Government in London tonight refused to accept the decisions of the Big Three and accused them of violating "the letter and spirit of the Atlantic Charter and the right of every nation to defend its own interest."

The London Poles bitterly denounced the Polish decision of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin, giving their answer just twenty-four hours after the British Foreign Office handed the Polish Ambassador in London the text of that decision.

The intention of the three Powers to create a Polish Provisional Government of National Unity "can only legalize Soviet interference in Polish internal affairs," a 500-word statement from Socialist Premier Tomasz Arciszewski of the London group declared.

"As long as territory of Poland will remain under the sole occupation of Soviet troops, a Government of that kind will not safeguard the Polish nation, even in the presence of British and American diplomats, in the unfettered right of free expression," it said.

Reiterate Claim to Legality.

The London Poles reiterated their claim as "the sole legal and generally recognized government of Poland."

Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former premier of the London government, was reported to be planning to fly soon to Moscow to take part in discussions concerning the new Polish provisional government envisioned by the Big Three.

The statement declared that the London Government would regard severance of the eastern half of Poland through imposition of a Polish-Soviet frontier following the Curzon Line "as a fifth partition of Poland now accomplished by her allies."

It maintained that the three-Power conference reached its decisions not only without participation and authorization of the London government but without its knowledge, and that the decisions "cannot bind the Polish nation."

Ambassador To Poles Will Remain In D.C.

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Official Washington still had a wait-and-see attitude today toward the working out of the Big Three formula for the Polish governmental dispute.

This was indicated by authoritative word that Arthur Bliss Lane, American Ambassador to Poland, will remain in Washington pending developments.

Lane was accredited to the Polish Government in exile in London last September but he never left Washington. The official explanation was that he was having consultations.

The Crimean conference provided for dissolution of the exiled Government in London and reorganization of the Soviet-recognized provisional Government in Warsaw, probably including some London Poles.

HOUSE HEARS BIG 3 SCORED

Congressman Of Polish Descent Sees 'Second Munich'

Washington, Feb., 13 (AP)—A Polish-descended congressman, Representative O'Konski (R., Wis.) arose twice in the House today to denounce the Big Three Crimean conference as a "second Munich" which sells "Poland down the river."

O'Konski raised the only voice of protest in a congressional atmosphere filled with praise for the agreements concluded by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin in their Crimean conference.

"I am a descendant of a Polish family," O'Konski shouted, "and I hope no one will accuse me of being a Nazi sympathizer because I disagree with the Crimean Conference."

"Charter Torn To Bits"

Speaking from hastily scrawled notes, O'Konski punctuated his bitter words with finger-jabs at attentive members.

"The Atlantic Charter has been torn to bits and thrown into the Black Sea," he declared.

He fired all of his criticism at that section of the Crimean agreements which calls for a realignment of the Polish border.

"The sixth partitioning of Poland is a definite renunciation of the Atlantic Charter," he cried.

"What Pole was ever consulted when these three men met on the Black Sea? What European was consulted? Stalin isn't a European. Churchill isn't a European. Roosevelt isn't a European. . . .

"Punished For Patriotism"

"Poland is being sold down the river. She is being punished for her patriotism. That is her reward for fighting the Nazis."

O'Konski took the floor this morning to interrupt a round of laudatory speeches on the Crimean conference and call it a "stab in the back" for Poland. He came back this afternoon and renewed his denunciation.

When he finished speaking the members on the floor applauded briefly.

Freshman Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, a California Democrat and a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, began the flurry of oratory by heralding the conference as "the foundation of the world of tomorrow."

Britons Hail U.S. Pledge To Take Hand In Europe

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—The new "Crimea Charter" was welcomed in Britain today as a pledge of full participation by the United States in the reshaping of Europe's political and geographical future.

The feeling in London was that the United States could hardly have been more firmly committed to a part in the postwar reformation of Europe than by the clauses pledging joint assistance to any liberated or former Axis satellite nation in forming "interim governmental authorities."

Part of this joint assistance will be to determine that these interim governments represent all democratic elements. America must necessarily dip her hand deeply into Europe's cauldron to back this pledge.

This promise of United States participation was welcomed especially in London because of the storm stirred here and abroad by Britain's lone intervention in Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia, and Russia's independenet recognition of a Polish Government which was nurtu[illegible] in the Soviet [illegible] garde[illegible] [illegible]uon.

Praise Almost Unanimous

Press comment in London virtually was unanimous in praise of the charter, which was described as the "most hopeful document that has been produced in the present century" and "a landmark in human history."

It was believed that major power decisions on policing of the peace would not be publicized until after Germany's defeat.

The conference, it was believed, would lay the groundwork for the anticipated World Security League, confined to the United Nations.

This would place both neutral and enemy countries on probation until such time when they would be willing and able to assume active roles toward preserving world peace.

Argentina, Spain To Be Kept Out

It seemed certain that the United States would oppose the admission of Argentina until the present policies and regimes of the South American country have been revised. Russia was expected to take a similar attitude toward Spain.

If future security policies actually were laid at Yalta, it was considered that Spain and Argentina might be the primary targets for probationary action among the neutrals, leaving the status of Turkey, Sweden, Portugal, Switzerland and Eire in doubt.

British Press Hails Big 3 Decisions

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Announcement of the decisions reached by the Big Three at Yalta brought the following comment from London newspapers today:

The Times—"The march of military events invest the whole proceedings with immediate authority over the whole future of Europe. . . . A remarkable harmony of policy has been obtained over a wide and most controversial range. The world will seize at once upon the hope which it offers that the greatest of all stumbling blocks to inter-Allied understanding is rolled away by the unanimity reached between the three great powers on the future of Poland."

"Nothing Shirked"

Daily Telegraph—"Nothing has been shirked. No difficulties have been ignored. In the long communiqué there are no loose ends."

Daily Express—"It is a design for living—now, at this moment, in the future and, if the ideals of man achieve fruition, for many a long day ahead. Throughout there is evidence of give and take, on a friendly spirit, of a united will to shape the future. What does this mean? That the futures of the three great nations will become daily more interwoven."

Daily Herald—"It is safe to say already that many great anxieties have been met and relieved. The greatest of these was the fear that as victory neared the three major Allies were drifting apart. . . . Britain, America and Russia have now found their way out of the difficulties which threatened gravely to divide them. As a whole, the Crimean agreement should be well received."

Daily Mail—"The Crimea conference is a landmark in human history. Never has been held in so short a time a meeting of such tremendous scope coming to such momentous decisions."

Daily Sketch—"The decisions which they reached as the Allied leaders are worthy of the cause of the United Nations. Than this there can be no higher tribute."

British Staff Chiefs Home From Crimea

London, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—The three British chiefs of staff—Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, Field Marshal Sir Alan Brooke and Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal—have returned from the Big Three Crimean conference, the British Ministry of Information announced today.

The announcement gave no hint as to the present whereabouts of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

PRESS OF RUSSIA IS ELATED OVER YALTA OUTCOME

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 13 — (AP) The Soviet Union's official press described the Crimea conference today in glowing terms, and the impression in Moscow was that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin all were highly pleased with its results.

Pravda, the official Communist party organ, set the keynote of Soviet reaction to the Big Three conference with the declaration that the parley "has proved that the alliance of the Three Big powers possesses not only an historic yesterday, victorious today, but also a great tomorrow."

The government newspaper Izvestia hailed the conference as "the biggest political event of current times—an event which will enter in history as a new example of coordinated solutions of complicated questions in the interest of peace and democracy."

Russians will expect a considerable increase in the blows against Germany from the west, south and north as a result of the parley. This is the thing they have been clamoring for since the start of their winter offensive a month ago.

The Russian people remember that Marshal Stalin came back from the Teheran conference with assurance that there would be blows on Germany from the east, west and south—and there were. Of considerable interest to the Russians is the fact that the Crimea announcement added the north to the earlier three directions.

The conference again proved "the stability of the Allies' military alliance," Izvestia declared, and added:

"Hitlerite Germany is doomed. The hour of its collapse has arrived. Its resistance is hopeless. Such was the first and happiest conclusion of the conference."

Frank Talks

A deep and firm impression prevails in Moscow that Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin left better friends this time than ever before, and that although much was left to the future, they accomplished great things at Yalta and are themselves highly pleased with their work.

Some persons in the Allied camps were described as "elated" over the results. Not the slightest sign of friction developed at any time during the meetings, it was said, and the three men saw things through by talking frankly. Stalin especially was said to have never talked more frankly.

Special Publication

Pravda, which ordinarily does not publish on Tuesdays, came out today in honor of the Big Three meeting.

"The conference will go down in history as an example of real democratic co-operation," the paper said, adding that plans were adopted for the defeat of Germany "on a closer and more intimate basis of co-operation than ever before."

The editorial sought to assure the Russian people that the conference not only decided Hitler's defeat but "elaborated conditions which will make it impossible for a repetition of German military aggression."

Izvestia said that the Big Three "deliberated and discussed a large number of questions, any one of which could be regarded as a test of the political wisdom and far-sightedness of a statesman." The conference provided a "unanimous solution" of many questions, the paper said.

The unity which forms the basis of the military friendship of the three nations will permit the Allies "to solve problems tremendous in scope and significance for the future of all mankind," Izvestia declared, adding that strengthening this unity during peacetime has been accepted as "a holy pledge" by the governments concerned.

Soviet factory workers and miners held spontaneous meetings following announcement of the conference over the radio in triumphant terms with playing of martial music.

STETTINIUS SAYS VISIT TO MOSCOW WAS SIGHTSEEING

MOSCOW, Feb. 13. — (AP) U. S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius indicated today that his visit to Moscow was not so much for business as to gratify his long-held desire to see Russia and obtain first-hand information on the wartime character of the country.

Stettinius arrived Monday with U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, who, he said, had done much to persuade him to make the quick trip through the Soviet Union on the invitation of Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

The secretary and his party are staying with Harriman at the ambassador's Moscow residence, Spasso house.

Stettinius plans to atend a performance of the Russian ballet and a busy schedule has been arranged for his visit, which may last two or three days.

Enroute to the capital, the secretary told correspondents, he saw much of Russia which has been damaged by the war and received a graphic impression of how the Soviet Union has suffered at the hands of the Nazi invaders.

He said he hoped to call at the Kremlin before his visit ends, but his stay largely will be a "tourist visit."

The Soviet news agency Tass quoted Stettinius as stating on his arrival:

"I am delighted to be in Moscow. I have always looked forward to this moment. One of the proud accomplishments of my life has been to have served the Soviet Union through lend-lease in association with Ambasador Harriman during the past three or four years. I am very proud to be your guest."

Stettinius Attends Ballet In Moscow With Dignitaries

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Moscow, Feb. 13 (AP)—Big Ed Stettinius, looking like the world's happiest salesman of goodwill, turned up at the Moscow Ballet tonight with a 3,000-ruble bouquet for its blond star and received an ovation from the packed house led by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov.

[At the diplomatic exchange rate 3,000 reubles would be approximately $240.]

The United States Secretary of State occupied the gold-leafed imperial box of the capital's famous Bolshoi Theater for the four-act performance of Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake, in which flaxen-haired Marina Semenova was the prima ballerina.

U.S. And Soviet Anthems

Flanked by Molotov and Vice Commissar Andrei J. Vishinsky, the white-haired American statesman was greeted by continued applause, which was quieted only by the playing of the United States and Soviet anthems.

Just to make the evening perfect from an Allied point of view, the final liberation of Budapest was announced from the stage after the first act. The reverberation of Moscow's hundreds of guns saluting the victory was heard within the theater.

American and Soviet flags hung from Stettinius's box, and a Russian newsreel camera ground a record of his visit to what, after decades, has become a shrine of the art of the dance—a shrine which, incidentally, Prime Minister Churchill, General de Gaulle and many other Allied notables have visited during the last year.

The audience was sprinkled with officers of the Red Army as well as members of the American Embassy staff, Allied and neutral diplomatic missions and Foreign Commissariat personnel.

Edward J. Flynn, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee who is a guest at the American Embassy along with Stettinius, also was a guest in the imperial box. Others included Kath[illegible]en Harriman, daughter of the [illegible]ited States Ambassador Averell [illegible]rriman; Mrs. George K. Ken[illegible], wife of the United States Min[illegible]r, and Maj. Gen. S. P. Spalding, chief of the supply division of the United States military mission.

Maxim Litvinov, former Ambassador to the United States, shared the duties o fhost with Molotov and Vishinsky.

Wore Wrinkled Suit

Stettinius wore a rather wrinkled gray business suit. Molotov likewise was in civilian garb, but the other Soviet officials wore the gray uniform with gold-braided trimmings of the Foreign Commissariat.

Stettinius' bouquet for Ballerina Semenova included lilacs and foxgloves, but no roses. The bill of 3,000 rubles is only nominal for such a luxury at this season.

Stettinius had indicated earlier today that his visit to the Soviet capital was not so much for business as to gratify his long-held desire to see Russia and obtain first-hand information on its wartime character.

Stettinius Moscow Visit Adds To Reds Rejoicing

Moscow, Feb. 13 (AP)—Announcement of decisions by the Big Three were given added significance for the Russian people today with the presence of United States Secretary of State Stettinius in Moscow on a brief official visit.

Fresh from the Crimean conference, Stettinius's plane landed here as the capital still buzzed with news of the doings of Premier Stalin, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

In one of the first editorial comments in the Soviet press on the conference, the Communist party organ Pravda declared: "The Crimean conference has proven that the alliance of the three big powers possesses not only a historical yesterday, a victorious today, but also a great tomorrow. The conference will go down in history as an example of real democratic co-operation."

Evidence Of Alliance

A communiqué said that Stettinius, who was accompanied by United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, had come at the invitation of Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and would Vyacheslav Molotov stay several days. His visit was taken as new evidence of the ties binding Russia to the Allies.

Others in the Stettinius party included H. Freeman Matthews, director of the United States State Department's Office of European Affairs; Alger Hiss, deputy director of the department's Office of Special Political Affairs; Wilder Foots, assistant to Stettinius, and Major Terence L. Tyson, military aide to Stettinius.

En route to Moscow, Mr. Stettinius saw a great deal of Russia damaged by the war and received a graphic impression of how the Soviet Union had suffered at the hands of the invading Nazis.

FLYNN'S MISSION STILL A MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP) Edward J. Flynn's mission to Moscow is still a mystery.

Presence of the former Democratic National chairman at the Big Three's Crimea conference was disclosed yesterday at the White House. A spokesman said President Roosevelt invited him to the meeting "as an old friend" when he learned that Flynn planned a trip to Moscow. The White House said it did not know the purpose of the Moscow trip.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, just returned from the Crimea, likewise told a news conference today he does not know Flynn's mission. "He did not tell me," Byrnes said, "and I did not ask him."

In New York, Flynn's law partner, Monroe Goldwater, said he had not known of Flynn's plan to go to Moscow and had believed he was going to Mexico. The reason for the Russian trip is "a complete mystery" to him, Goldwater said.

CHURCHILL WEARS LAMBSKIN SHAPKA

Moscow, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill's latest headgear—a black lambskin shapka—has two advantages. In addition to keeping one's head warm, it protects the top of one's ears. The wearer may even pull it down over his ears, but this is not good form.

Pictures from the Crimean Conference showed the Prime Minister in the black headgear, of a type long worn by Moscow merchants and professional men. Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov often wears the same kind of hat.

Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin Each Had Own Palace at Yalta

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 13—(AP) President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill each had a palace at the Crimean resort of Yalta during the "Big Three" conference.

The President's—where the business sessions were held—was the Livadia palace, one-time residence of Tsar Nicholas II.

Churchill's palace was at Alupkathe, an Elizabethan gothic style built by English architects between 1830 and 1837 for Prince Voronotsov, who once served as Ambassador to Britain. This palace descends to the "lion terrace," which means just that—a yard full of stone lions, which particularly pleased the prime minister.

Stalin's palace formerly belong to Prince Yusupov, the man credited with doing away with Rasputin. This palace was between the other two along the coast.

Stalin and Churchill daily journeyed the few miles to Roosevelt's palace for their regular meetings. All three, however, visited one another and each gave a special dinner before the conference ended.

All three palaces have a splendid view of the sea. Roosevelt was particularly pleased with his and spent his leisure time resting at vantage points where he could look out over the Black Sea toward Turkey.

President's FBI Guard Embarrassed In Malta

New York, Feb. 13—FBI men who traveled with President Roosevelt on a tour of Malta before the Chief Executive left for the Big Three conference seized a man only to discover that he was a member of the Malta Board of Governors, Grant Parr, of the National Broadcasting Company, said today from Malta.

FRANCE TO BUILD BIG SEA AND AIR BASE IN AFRICA

PARIS, Feb. 13—(AP) Construction of a huge naval and air base at Dakar in West Africa was voted by the cabinet of the deGaulle government today, a move which it announced would eventually contribute to "collective security."

The Dakar project was adopted on reports of the war, Navy, air and colonial ministers shortly after Gen. deGaulle announced he had been informed last night by the American, British and Russian ambassadors of the decisions reached at the Big Three Crimean conference.

There was no specific comment from the government on the results of the meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Marshal Stalin, but an official spokesman observed that it was a step forward for France to be given a share in the occupation of Germany and a place at the United Nations conference to open April 25 at San Francisco.

"We are confronted with a fait accompli," he added, "on a subject in which we are most essentially interested—the settlement of the future of Germany."

The governmental announcement of the plan for Dakar said the naval and air base was aimed at guaranteeing communications of the empire as well as contributing to collective security. The emphasis it placed on the latter led to speculation that France intends to make Dakar an international base and perhaps put it at the disposal of the United Nations security council.

Dakar, at the westernmost point of Africa, now has a large American naval base, established as a result of the agreement between Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark and Admiral Darlan after the North African invasion. In the hands of an aggressor nation it would be a threat to both North and South America.

French Plan Base At Dakar

Paris, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Government announced today that the Council of Ministers had approved a plan to build a huge naval-air base at Dakar to protect the French empire lifelines and as a contribution to "collective security."

The plan, approved at a session in which Gen. de Gaulle reported he was notified last night by American, British and Russian ambassadors of decisions reached at the Crimea conference, reminded the major powers that France still holds a trump card for conferences yet to come.

Comment Reserved

The Government has reserved specific comment on the Crimea conference's decisions. Members repeated de Gaulle's position that France would not be bound by decisions affecting her interest which were taken without her consultation.

The first editorial reaction to the Yalta conference reflected a tone of noncommittal reservation.

"A country whose rapid recovery and whose courage in adversity have won admiration of the world should no longer be a poor relation," said the newspaper Liberation Soir, adding that the French resented the nation's exclusion from Yalta.

"Resuming Her Place"

The editorial said, however, that France seemed to be resuming her place and that "in world affairs, in the organization of the peace and the application of the Atlantic Charter, she will also have a word to say."

An official spokesman said it was an advance for France to have a share in the occupation of Germany and a place among the Big Five sponsoring the April 25 conference at San Francisco, but declined to comment further.

"We are confronted with a fait accompli," said an official, "on a subject in which we are most essentially interested—the settlement of the future Germany."

Chinese Acclaim Big Three Accord

Chungking, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Chinese circles today acclaimed the Big Three decisions as a happy augury for a future accord on Far Eastern questions and the eventual entry of Russia into the war against Japan.

It was obvious that the Chinese were greatly impressed by the unity of purpose emerging from the conference, especially on the Polish question, which it had been feared might prove a snag. China was expected to follow the lead of the United States and Britain in recognizing a provisional Polish government.

NAZIS PREDICT GUERRILLA WAR

Call On Germans To Resist Plans Made By "Big 3"

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Nazi leaders summoned the German nation today to "resist to the last breath Yalta's Magna Charta for the pauperization and misery of Europe," and a German Foreign Office spokesman declared "millions of us will wage guerrilla warfare; every man before he dies will try to take five or ten enemies with him to the grave."

The spokesman, Dr. Paul Schmidt, was quoted by the German radio as making this pronouncement to foreign correspondents, saying that he thought the Allied "Big Three" communiqué was "excellent, for it helps German leaders to maintain and strengthen war morale."

Contending that "there have been worse situations in the history of war than the one in which Germany is today," Schmidt said "eighty million people know how to defend themselves. We have gathered experience in smaller countries. Millions of Germans will pay back murder with murder."

In Same Boat, People Told

Ignoring that part of the "Big Three" declaration which pledged "not to destroy the German people" and which promised hope of "a decent life" after the destruction of nazism, Propaganda Minister Goebbels's orators sought to persuade all the people they were in the same boat with the Nazis.

After weeks of stiffening the Germans against an anticipated "surrender now" call, the propagandists may have been caught off balance by the Crimean conference results. They denounced "Bolshevik terror and Jewish revenge whose terms will be made public only after we have laid down our arms."

"We will never lay down our arms," shouted a DNB commentator, "and this document will help us keep up our fighting morale because it shows that the individual German could never be worse off than if we capitulated now."

Termed "Political Murder"

The general theme of German radio and press comment on the Crimean meeting was that the United Nations intended to exterminate all Germans and to make the Soviet Union the chief agent of what was termed "the greatest political murder conspiracy of all time."

Marshal Stalin was painted as a monster whose intention was "the dismemberment and extirpation of Germany and the domination of Europe." Thus, the Nazis harped on one of their oldest strains, the "Red menace."

Emphasize Moscow Role

They emphasized the Yalta declaration provision and the Allied commission to fix war damage would have its seat at Moscow.

"Moscow will thereby become a great slave center where the fate of millions of Germans will be decided," declared DNB.

A spokesman of the German Foreign Office was quoted as claiming that Stalin had imposed his will on President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in the Polish and Yugoslav questions and saying, "this is an unlimited triumph for Stalin in all spheres because a decisive influence on European affairs has been conceded to him.

"Stalin has become the governor of the three big powers on the Continent and the Red Army is the chosen instrument to maintain order, guarantee peace, protect morale and the bearer of world culture. There is nothing more grotesque and only fools would put down such principles."

Mania "Molded Into Program"

"The mania to destroy Germany that inspires the enemies of Europe has now been molded into a program," DNB said. "It assumed official shape recently at Yalta in the Crimea in a statement signed by the three chief war criminals, Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin, a statement unmistakably inspired by a truly Jewish Biblical hatred."

It concluded its distorted review of the Yalta declaration with an appeal to the Germans to stand firm and an assertion that the German people "will dig their toes into home soil and, weapon in hand, will shatter this most diabolical plan of all times."

'Hate-Program,' Germans Say

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Polish Government in London tonight refused to accept the decisions of the Big Three and accused them of violating "the letter and spirit of the Atlantic Charter and the right of every nation to defend its own interest."

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Nazi radios poured out a strong blast today to the German people against the Big Three agreement, terming it "the hate program of Yalta" and "a crime on mankind and humanity."

The first home-consumption reaction to the Crimean plan—which Berlin blamed directly on "the Jew, the wandering Jew"—was withheld until long after most Germans had gone to work this morning. Once started, however, the DNB home service pulled out all stops.

"Spreading Like An Alarm"

The Berlin propagandists, who had been busy for a week preparing the German people against any "surrender-now" ultimatum, apparently were a bit taken back.

"The words of the Yalta plan are spreading through Germany like an alarm," said a Nazi commentator. "Never—this is our sacred oath in this hour in which the enemy has dropped his mask and in which we Germans now see the devilish grimace of the Jew—never will this murder plan be practiced on our people."

The Germans ignored that part of the Crimea plan which declared: "It is not our purpose to destroy the people of Germany."

Berlin Version

This was the version broadcast by Berlin:

"Germany should be smashed with brutal force, details of the statement announce. It will be split up, German industry will be robbed, so-called 'courts' will be set up to continue mass slaughter of German men, women and children. Those Germans who live to see the 'days of judgment' will be pressed into slave labor for the foreign tyrants . . ."

The broadcasts asserted that the "source of this plan . . . has to be looked for in the ranks of international jewry."

"Reason For Unity"

It added:

"Only because of this can we understand the unity between Washington, London and Moscow, because the driving power behind Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt is the Jew, the Wandering Jew who, for the last few thousands of years, has brought so much misery and sorrow to the world."

Virtually every Allied radio capable of reaching the Reich had beamed the text of the conference communiqué to German listeners last night.

REICH TO LOSE ECONOMIC ROLE

Yalta Charter Gives Nation a Bleak Future.

Singleton

London, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Germany was confronted today with a bleak future as an economic Power in the post-war world under the Big Three's Crimea Charter. The terms obviously would strip the Reich of much of its heavy industry and probably would commit a big part of the country's labor to help rebuild Europe.

The document disclosed the intention of the United States, Britain and Soviet Russia to "eliminate or control all German industry that could be used for military production"—a far-reaching step in this machine age of quick conversion from civilian to war production.

This condition likely would apply to Germany's aircraft and automotive industries—both of which can be shifted speedily to mass production of war machines, including weapons such as robot bombs.

Chemical Industries.

Similarly, it is hardly possible that the Germans will be permitted to retain the chemical industries, in the fear that they might turn to new and perhaps more deadly methods of warfare.

The huge toll of Allied shipping taken by German U-boats in the early years of the war make it certain that the Allies, at least, will exercise tight control over the Reich's ship building facilities and perhaps will temporarily bar the Germans from the sea altogether.

The determination of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Marshal Stalin to exact "reparation in kind for the destruction wrought by the Germans" probably will mean that the country will lose other industries beyond those in the military category.

Machinery May Be Moved.

While it is likely that some unbombed German industries will be kept functioning under Allied control to meet Europe's civilian needs, much machinery may be transplanted to liberated countries eventually to replace equipment looted or destroyed by the Nazis.

Just how far reparation "in kind" will go remains uncertain, but in their years of triumph the Nazis impressed millions of Europeans in slave labor battalions. Russia already has indicated that she plans to use forced German labor to help rebuild her cities and towns, and it is likely that several other overrun countries will do likewise.

the sizeable Baltic Fleet.

Also in the list could be a drive by Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery's Twenty-first Army Group northward through the Netherlands, perhaps looking to the right toward Bremen, on the Weser River, or further north toward vital Wilhelmshaven.

This would leave three other possibilities, all of which have drawn speculation at one time or another. One could be a landing in Norway, where the Germans have been shrinking into a smaller ring in the south after bleeding off troops urgently needed on other active fronts.

New Nerve War Aimed at Reich

FEB 14 1945

Crimea Reference to Blows From North Driven Home in Broadcasts.

Chester

London, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—The German nation, pounded from the east, west and south, had a new psychological weapon aimed at its heart tonight—the first officially uttered threat of new Allied blows from the north.

Experienced London observers had no doubt that the threat would be carried out. Proof enough seemed to rest in the fact that the Big Three Crimean communique—obviously a carefully-worded document—included the word "North," whereas the statement issued after the Teheran Conference spoke only of the other points of the compass.

The only questions were which of six possible avenues would be followed and when. The consensus, however, was that the blow would come soon.

The Nazis tried their best to keep the new threat from the German people. Neither press dispatches nor the German home radio service mentioned this passage of the Crimean communique issued by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin. But it was pounded home by dozens of Allied broadcasts beamed directly into the Reich.

What's Possible.

The most obvious avenue of attack from the north would be by air and the Big Three left room for this interpretation. Almost equally obvious would be a continued sweep by the Red Army along the Balt[illegible] coast, perhaps accompanied by sea attacks by Another could be a landing on the west coast of Denmark and a drive southward into Schleswig-Holstein and on toward Hamburg.

Anglo-U. S. Invasion Possible.

The most daring of all would be another Anglo-American amphibious landing on Germany's northwest coast aimed at the Hanseatic ports. Such an operation could be made at less cost now than before Germany had had to divert all her available man power to the threatened eastern and western fronts.

The Crimean communique stated flatly that "powerful blows to be launched by our armies and air forces into the heart of Germany from the east, west, north and south, have been fully agreed and planned in detail."

Where and when?

The Big Three added only that "combined military plans will be made known as we execute them."

TOKYO 'EXPLAINS' YALTA CONFERENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13—(AP) The decisions reached at the Crimea conference of the "Big Three" are "nothing by an indication of an absolute Anglo-American submission to the overwhelming influence of the Soviet Union," said a Tokyo radio broadcast today which quoted what it termed well informed circles. The broadcast was recorded by the Blue Network.

"The United States and Britain," the broadcast continued, "have been obliged to recognize the dominance of the Soviet Union in the so-called disposal of Germany."

Selection of San Francisco as the site of the world security organization conference, the enemy broadcast commented, "may give the casual observer the impression that the war effort of the United States has been recognized. But in reality the problem of the establishment of the so-called peace structure is not concerned with peace but with the disposal of Europe. The Soviet Union has forced this in a most realistic manner."

"Russian domination" of the conference, said the broadcast especially indicates that Britain "is tobogganing toward a downfall."

Japs See Big 3 Victory For Russia

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—A Tokyo radio commentator today asserted that Russia was the "winner" of the Big Three conference and declared "well-informed Tokyo quarters" saw "humiliation" for both the United States and England in the Crimean communiqué.

"We can indeed pity Great Britain, who is heading toward a tragic end," the commentator concluded.

LEASE-LEND NEED TO BE CONTINUED FOR PACIFIC WAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — (AP) Assistant Navy Secretary H. Struve Hensel told a House committee today it would be "tragic" to discontinue Lend-Lease when the fighting ends in Europe.

The need for mutual aid among the Allies will be "greatly accelerated in the Pacific" after Germany's collapse, he said. Strategic plans already are being formulated, based on the principle of Lend-Lease exchange of war materials.

Hensel testified before the House Foreign Affairs committee considering a one-year extension of the Lend-Lease act which otherwise will expire next June 30.

"Not to extend the Lend-Lease act would require a reversal of the whole principle of military and naval operations based upon the concept of mutual aid," he said.

Hensel said that through Lend-Lease the French navy has been trained and equipped to guard vital Allied shipping lanes in the Mediterranean.

"Now the French are assuming the operation of bases established by us in the Mediterranean area," he said.

FRENCH BUILDING NAVY WITH U. S. AID

Washington, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Lend-lease is equipping and training French naval forces policing Allied sealanes in the Mediterranean.

H. Struve Hensel, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, reporting this to a congressional committee today, added that not only have escort vessels gone to the French through lend-lease "but their remaining combatant vessels have been repaired and refitted in our yards."

Mr. Hensel appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which is considering a one-year extension of the lease-lend act, which expires June 30. The French now, he said in a statement, "are assuming the operation of bases established by us in the Mediterranean area."

"Moreover, under lend-lease, he added, "members of their forces have been and are being trained in technics, a knowledge of which is necessary in order to operate these bases, to handle the equipment on the escort craft we have furnished them, and to operate the patrol planes that we have supplied them—all to the end that they may police the sea lanes that have been assigned to them and perform necessary escort duty.

"Although we may not like to emphasize it, the fact remains that where an escort craft leased to the French goes down with all hands it is that many American lives saved."

Mr. Hensel said all planning for future military operations "is based upon the principle of mutual aid," adding: "Not to extend the lend-lease act would require a reversal of the whole principle of military and naval operations based upon the concept of mutual aid."

Escort Carrier, Mine Sweeper Lost In Philippine Fighting

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Navy disclosed tonight the loss of the Ommaney Bay and its brief gallant career that made the escort aircraft carrier a scourge to the Japanese.

Both the Ommaney Bay and the Long, a mine sweeper, were sunk by enemy action in the Philippine area, the brief communiqué said.

The Ommaney Bay had carved herself a record since she went into action last September. She supported three invasions and was in the naval battle of Leyte.

Without Combat Loss

Up until the final action, heavy destruction was achieved without loss in combat of a pilot or aircrewman of the vessel's air complement, know as Composite Squadron 75, the Navy said.

The next of kin of casualties in the sinkings have been informed, the Navy said, but the number was not disclosed. Both commanders were saved.

The Ommaney Bay was the tenth United States aircraft carrier and the fifth of the "baby flattops" class sunk in this war. The two losses brought the total of warships sunk to 209.

The little carrier established a superb record during the year since she was commissioned. From her deck flew Composite Squadron 75 under the leadership of Lieut Com. Allen W. Smith, of Atlanta and Jacksonville.

Sank Jap Heavy Cruiser

Her Wildcats and Avengers sank a Japanese heavy cruiser and a troop transport, damaged four cruisers and four destroyers, probably damaged three battleships, shot down 16 Jap planes, destroyed other planes on the ground, wiped out troops with bombs, bullets and rockets and damaged scores of enemy ground installations, vehicles and ammunition and supply dumps.

No details of the action in which the ships were lost was given. The Navy said merely that next of kin of casualties had been notified. The carrier would have a normal complement of 500 officers and men, a navy officer said, and the mine sweeper would carry about 120 personnel.

Commanders Named

The Ommaney Bay was commanded by Capt. Howard Leyland Young, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., whose wife lives at Corando, Cal.

The Long was commanded by Lieut. Stanley Kaplan, 30, a native of Elmira, N.Y.

The Ommaney Bay and her squadron of flyers supported the invasion of the Palau Islands in September and later fought at Leyte and Mindoro and took part in the fight in which escort carriers stood off a Jap battleship force aimed at the Leyte beachhead.

The little carrier was launched at the Kaiser shipyards at Vancouver, Wash., December 23, 1943, and commissioned on February 11, 1944. She displaces 10,902 tons

CONSUL AT MANILA ASSAILED IN HOUSE

Coffee Demands Spaniard Be Held Persona Non Grata

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Representative Coffee (D., Wash.) charged in the House today that Jose Del Castano, Spanish consul to Mainla, "has on his hands the blood of thousands of Americans," and demanded that the State Department declare the consul persona non grata.

Branding Del Castano "a Fascist" and "a murderer," Coffee said such action would "clear the wa yfor the American military authorities to arrest and hold (him) for a speedy trial."

Listed Axis Foes

Coffee said that when the Japanest occupied Manila, each foreign consul was requested to prepare a list of Americans considered "most dangerous to the Axis."

"The only diplomat who consented," Coffee said, "was Jose del Castano.

"Need I describe the tragic fate of every American named on del Castano's list who was subsequently caught by the same Japs whose 'exceptional human values' had the admiration of del Castano's Falange?"

Coffee said the United States Government knew the facts "in great detail."

didn't want her to know what I had done," he said. "That was one reason why I waited so long, trying to decide how to go to the authorities"

Gimpel, Nazi Spy Suspect, Doesn't Testify in Trial

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 — (AP) Erich Gimpel, accused with William Curtis Colepaugh as a Nazi spy and once described by Colepaugh as an important person in security army headquarters in Berlin, failed to testify today as both sides rested in their military trial.

Behind the censored communiques of the closed trial there was a hint that German agents were active in this country, or trying to enter it.

"Why did you turn in Gimpel?" A commission member asked Colepaugh, who had insisted he landed off the Maine coast from a submarine "with a guilty conscience" and wanted to give himself up to get away from the Nazis.

"Not because it was Gimpel," he replied. "I had no grudge against Gimpel. I had to turn him in because of the dirty racket just being started and I wanted to break it. I wanted to help my native country."

There was no explanation of the reference to " the dirty racket" and no indication whether it referred to a spy plot, but there was a reference earlier today to "other agents."

Asked why he had shown no hurry to give himself up, why he didn't give the alarm that a U-boat was offshore and why he went to night clubs in New York, Colepaugh, a native of Niantic, Conn., said "Gimpel wasn't active so there was no hurry."

"But the other agents were active. You just wanted to have a good time, didn't you?"

"Yes."

There has been on indication that others besides Gimpel and Colepaugh came ashore from the submarine An FBI agent did quote Gimpel earlier as saying he left aboard the U-boat a typed list of his contacts in this country

Today's testimony disclosed that Colepaugh never contacted his mother when he arrived in New York

FULL SCALE ARMS OUTPUT IS URGED AFTER NAZIS FALL

FEB 14 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — (AP) Some high officials are urging that America's $5,000,000,000-a-month munitions capacity be kept in full war harness after Germany collapses.

They want Pacific war strategy to be broadened to make use of the production capacity thus released to hasten Japan's downfall.

The proposal, reliably reported tonight to have influential civilian backing in the government, implies a deliberate review of war plans to step up the scope and speed of planned operations against Japan.

If carried out fully, it would mean shifting from all-out warfare in Europe to full-scale fighting in the Pacific without loss of the production momentum which the government has been at pains to build up in recent months.

Also, it would leave few vestiges of the V-E day reconversion plan of last fall—which envisaged munitions cutbacks as deep as 40 per cent and a return to civilian manufacture at 1939 levels while the Japanese war continued.

Elimination of such a "guns and butter" stage of reconversion would be well repaid, proponents hold, if sustained high-level production would result in shortening the war.

Some acceleration in planning of the kind now proposed, already has taken place.

One example was the Navy's recent decision to ask funds for an additional 500,000-ton warship building program after mid-year.

Another is a decision to keep aircraft manufacture at a high rate for an indefinite period after German collapse. Hopes have been raised that the B-17 and B-24 bombers, the workhorses of Europe, may be used against Japan along with the B-29 Superfortresses and B-32 dominators designed for that purpose. This indicates that war planners believe it feasible to establish bases much closer to the heart of the Japanese empire than those from which the 20th air force's B-29s are now striking.

LONG HEARINGS DUE ON MONETARY PLAN

Washington, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Congressional leaders moved quickly, but cautiously, today to comply with President Roosevelt's request for expansion of the Bretton Woods world monetary plan.

Legislation embodying the two major agreements worked out last July by representatives of forty-four nations meeting in the New Hampshire hills is expected to be introduced this week in both Senate and House. But prolonged hearings, lasting perhaps a month, are in sight and storm clouds already are gathering.

Few members of Congress are familiar with the Bretton Woods agreements but influential House Republicans indicated in advance their suspicions about the plans mapped to expedite global recovery and stabilize world currency. Some felt, they said, that the program might develop "into a world WPA with Uncle Sam footing the bill."

Ledo Road Called GI's Monument

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Ledo road—built to carry supplies to China—was described to the House today as "Gen. Joe Stilwell's vision, Gen. Lewis A. Pick's job and the GI's monument."

Representative Mansfield (D., Mont.), who visited the China-Burma-India theater last November and December as a personal observer for President Roosevelt, said in a prepared statement that before another two months have passed the Allies will be transporting from India to China a minimum of 13,000 tons of oil and 12,000 tons of supplies each month over the Ledo road.

Describes Dangers

"And I think that before 1945 is out," he added, "we will be shipping supplies into China over the hump and the road at the rate of 100,000 tons a month. In the China theater that amount will be worth four times as much as on a use basis as it would in any other theater."

Describing the dangers and difficulties pursuant to building the road, Mansfield said that its undertaking has no parallel in military history.

He also told of the pipeline now under construction which will parallel the Ledo road from Assam to its junction with the Burma road and then follow the latter into Kumming, China.

The line will deliver approximately 8,000 barrels of fuel every 24 hours, Mansfield said.

'Area' Labor Bill Backed

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—A growing disposition was evidenced in the Senate Military Committee today to apply only to a few critical areas whatever manpower control legislation may be enacted.

Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.), said that a proposed substitute he is drafting for a House-approved work-or-jail bill is based on the theory that each area largely must solve its manpower problems.

He proposes to give statutory authority to labor-management committees and reshuffle labor in the area through War Manpower Commission controls.

Similarly, Senator Maybank (D., S.C.), who supports the principle of work-or-jail legislation, said he thinks there is a "good prospect" that a bill can be framed which which "critical areas only would be subject to compulsion."

Some Irregular Dealing Found In Smokes

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission said today "a number of undesirable practices" have developed in the tobacco industry in connection with the cigarette shortage.

These practices didn't cause the shortage, the commission said, but were the results of it.

Investigating the scarcity at the request of Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), the Federal agency reported that it is directly traceable to the volume of cigarettes going to the armed services and the Allies, and is magnified by an increased civilian demand.

No Large Hidden Stocks

The report said the scarcity was not caused by an illegal arrangement within the industry. No large hidden stocks were uncovered in the investigation, and the commission said it isn't likely that anybody will try to accumulate such stocks.

As for the "undesirable practices," the commission said they include:

1. Inequitable "rationing" by some manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. But the commission criticized this only mildly, saying the informal rationing plans were better than no plans at all because some degree of order was maintained in marketing.

2. Some wholesalers are using "tie-in" sale practices—that is, selling other tobacco products to retail stores as a condition to the sale of cigarettes. The commission said it will take separate action on the complaints of retailers about such methods.

3. Citizens haunted by the fear of being without cigarettes are buying more than they need immediately—that is, "hoarding." The commission said this practice, which all retailers protest, is at the same time a result of the shortage and a contributing factor toward making it worse.

No Increase Seen

The commission said there is little prospect of much increase in production in 1945. The armed forces will probably take a larger proportion than ever. Therefore the only help for the situation is "a more equitable distribution of the available domestic supply."

Of cigarette manufacturers, the commission said there can be no doubt that some of them, "for a variety of reasons, including friendship and good business, favored those customers who had been loyal in times of adversity, or who had co-operated with them or assisted them.

But the commission made special note of the fact that "no manufacturer has been found to have capitalized on the situation by manipulating rationing for competitive advantage or with undue trade-restrictive results."

New York-Asia Air Service Via Alaska Is Asked

Port Authority Foresees 38,000 Traveling Route Yearly in Each Direction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP).—The Port of New York Authority urged today direct air service between New York, Alaska and the Orient without intermediate stops in the United States.

John W. Moore, the authority's air-transport traffic manager, told Civil Aeronautics Board examiners such direct service would have to be provided to prevent loss of considerable New York-Orient air traffic to Canadian flag air lines.

Mr. Moore appeared at the opening of hearing on applications of eleven companies to provide air service between the United States, Alaska and East Asia.

Predicting that 38,000 persons a year will travel the route in each direction in the early post-war period if adequate direct service is provided, Mr. Moore said about one-fourth of this number would originate in the Port of New York area. In addition to that average of twenty-six passengers a day, he estimated that three passengers a day would board planes in New York for Alaska.

These figures, he added, do not include the "substantial interchange traffic of passengers from Europe, South America and the Caribbean who would prefer a through route to East Asia by way of the Port of New York."

Mr. Moore presented evidence which he said, indicates that more than 40 per cent of this country's international mail and about half the value of its trade with East Asia originate in the Port of New York district.

He said the direct route—by way of Canada, Alaska, Japan, China and Manila—would be 1,600 miles shorter than the existing route by way of Pacific Coast ports and Hawaii and 460 miles shorter than the route via Seattle and Alaska.

The authority, Mr. Moore said, is not supporting the application of any one carrier.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce took a similar position, asking only that it be provided with adequate service. The chamber's brief said Los Angeles is the principal Pacific Coast port city, that the metropolitan area has the largest concentration of population west of Chicago, that Los Angeles County leads all other Pacific Coast areas in industrial and agricultural production, and that the city and county lead all other Pacific Coast areas in the generation of rail, water and air traffic.

Representative Mike Mansfield, Democrat, of Montana, told the examiners that Great Falls, Mont., would be an ideal terminal for United States-Orient air traffic. He said this is indicated by the establishment there of such a terminal by the Army Air Transport Command.

Head Of Nurses Group Opposes Draft Law

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Miss Katharine Densford, head of the American Nurses Association, told the House Military Committee today she believes the armed services' needs for nurses can be met without a draft law.

Strengthening of the existing voluntary machinery, Miss Densford testified as the committee resumed hearings on nurse-draft proposals, would suffice if the War Manpower Commission, or some other agency, is given "proper authority."

Should the voluntary method fail, she added, draft legislation should be enacted but should provide for the needs of not only the Army and the Navy but also of the veterans' administration, civilian health and nursing education.

Miss Densford expressed belief full utilization has not been made of Negro nurses or of registered male nurses.

Through its secretary, Anna D. Wolf, the National League of Nursing Education approved the drafting of nurses as "the first step in a national selective service act for women and a national service act for the civilian population."

6 Balk At Hearings On Poll Tax

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—Southern congressional leaders said today they will refuse to testify at a hearing scheduled here Friday on voting conditions in states requiring a poll tax.

Six committee chairmen said they plan to ignore subpœnas served yesterday ordering them to appear at the hearing, arranged by the Southern Electoral Reform League.

The session is part of the league's campaign to unseat congressmen elected from poll-tax states. It contends such a levy is unconstitutional.

Labeled "Publicity Stunt"

Some of the Southerners sharply criticized the attempt to make them witnesses, labeling it "a publicity stunt" and "an impractical scheme." Also, some declared that as Congressmen they are immune from any such call.

The six, and the committees which they head, included: Senators Bilbo (D., Miss.), District; Byrd (D., Va.), Rules; Connally (D., Texas), Foreign Relations, and McKellar (D., Tenn.), Postoffice and Post Roads. Representatives Rankin (D., Miss.), Veterans, and Smith (D., Va.), Investigation of executive agencies.

Moss A. Plunkett, of Roanoke, Va., league president, said that Speaker Rayburn (D., Texas) also was subpoenaed. Rayburn was not immediately available for comment, but it was learned that he probably would follow a House precedent under which such summonses are ignored.

The league announced last fall it would contest the election of Congressmen from the poll-tax states.

UAW Suspends Local Officers On Fund-Misuse Charges

New York, Feb. 13 (AP)—All officers of the executive board of Local 669, United Automobile Workers (CIO), which represents 22,000 workers in seven Paterson (N.J.) plants of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, were suspended yesterday by unanimous action of the international executive board.

Harold I. Cammer, attorney for the international board, announced the action in a statement released [illegible] after a nine-hour hearing yesterday. He said the hearing "disclosed many delinquencies and irregularities as well as improper application of funds of the local union running over a considerable period of time and involving large sums of money."

Supervision Slated

The statement said the board had directed that the international supervise the local's affairs until they are "satisfactorily adjusted."

On receipt of the investigators' report, the statement said, "the international board contemplated the institution of charges against and the trial of persons shown by the investigation to have violated the constitution of the union, to have misappropriated funds of the local union, or to have failed to have turned over funds owing to the international union."

Charles Kerrigan, regional UAW director, declared after the hearing that not all the officers are involved in the delinquencies disclosed and that the suspensions were made to facilitate further investigation.

At local headquarters in Paterson, John Tamsen, acting president of the local since early last month, said he had tried "to co-operate as much as possible" in the investigation and that he "realized that we had a 'situation' on hand."

William Albrecht, chairman of the united rank and file committee of the local, said in a statement last night that the workers at Wright's are "'solidly behind their international union and have confidence in its program."

Girl Aids to Nazis Sentenced

Two Get Prison Terms for Helping Owosso Prisoners Escape

BAY CITY, Mich., Feb. 13 (AP).—Federal Judge Frank A. Picard imposed prison terms today on two girls convicted of conspiring to aid the escape of two German prisoners of war from a work detachment at Owosso. Kitty Marie Case, twenty-one years old, was sentenced to a year and three months; Shirley Jean Druce, eighteen, to a year and one day.

Testimony at the girls' trial disclosed a series of illicit dates with prisoners assgined to work in an Owosso canning factory preceded their act in aiding Gottfried Hobel and Erlt Classen, Nazi prisoners, to escape last July 20. They were recaptured the following day.

QUITS INDIAN POST

Washington, Feb. 13 (A. P.).—Indian Commissioner Collier, frequently target of congressional criticism, has resigned and William A. Brophy of Albuquerque, N. M., has been named to take his place.

Mr. Collier's resignation from the post he has held since April, 1933, was announced yesterday by Interior Secretary Ickes simultaneously with President Roosevelt's nomination of Mr. Brophy.

Mr. Brophy is now chief of the Puerto Rican section of the Interior Department's division of territories and island possessions, a position in which he was appointed in 1943. He was born in New York city in 1903, was graduated from the University of Colorado law school and then opened a law office in Albuquerque.

COAST PLANE CRASH KILLS 24 NAVY MEN

Twin Engine Land Plane Dives into San Francisco Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13—(AP) Twenty-four Navy men died today as a twin-engine land plane dived into San Francisco bay 12 minutes after it had taken off from the Oakland airport on an eastbound flight.

There were 21 passengers and a crew of three on the transport plane.

Late in the day, after the wreckage of the shattered ship had been lifted from the shallow water, the Navy said six bodies had been recovered. The fuselage broke off just behind the wing as the plane hit the water with a crash that jarred houses in Alemeda's fashionable south shore residential district.

The plane was operated by the Naval Air Transport service. The Navy did not disclose its eastern destination.

Residents of the neighborhood said they heard the big ship flying very low. Then the engines cut out, and within a moment or two the plane hit the bay waters at the foot of Chestnut street with a tremendous crash.

As is customary, the names of those aboard were withheld until relatives were advised.

STUDENTS ASK BOARD PARLEY

Censorship Held First Issue In William And Mary Case

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 13 (AP)—An invitation to the board of visitors of the College of William and Mary to discuss at an open forum the question of continued publication of the Flat Hat, college weekly newspaper, without faculty supervision has been extended by the student body.

The request for the meeting followed action of the board Sunday in directing the faculty investigate circumstances regarding the publication of an editorial in the Flat Hat on race relations in the future, written by its 22-year-old undergraduate editor, Miss Marilyn Kaemmerle, in which she suggested that Negroes be admitted to the college, "join the same clubs, pin the same classmates and marry among us."

Action Of Board Of Visitors

The faculty was directed by the board of visitors to "take such corrective and disciplinary action as may be necessary."

A meeting of the college officials was held this afternoon to consider the question of editorial supervision of the college publication, which has been temporarily suspended on order of Dr. John E. Pomfret, president, and also a protest against censorship lodged by the students following a mass meeting Monday.

No announcement was made early tonight of what decisions the faculty had reached.

Invitation From Students

The invitation for an open meeting to discuss the editorial future of the Flat Hat and the question of censorship in general was forwarded to J. Gordon Bohannon, of Petersburg, rector of the college board of visitors, in a letter signed by W. L. Williams, of Norfolk, president of the student body.

The invitation accompanied the formal protest of the student body over the board's action Sunday, directing the college administration to take steps toward assuming control over material in college publications.

Censorship Held Issue

"Since the principle involved in this protest is of fundamental importance," the letter stated, "we feel that your presence is essential for the immediate clarification of the issue at hand, and for the establishment of more harmonious relations."

A copy of the protest and letter was given Dr. Pomfret for consideration and comment by faculty members at its meeting.

Interest remained high on the campus today, but indignation appeared to be subsiding. Students reiterate they were not interested in the editorial or its sentiments as much as the threat of censorship.

AFL DELAYS LEWIS DECISION

Council Wires Miners' Head As To Readmission

Miami, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—The AFL executive council today again put off a final decision on readmission of John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers, striving meanwhile to agree on the mine leader's future role in the organization.

President William Green said he would wire Lewis tonight informing him of obstacles encountered in today's discussions and he hoped for an answer and settlement of the question before the council leaves here Thursday night or Friday.

Thus the gift which the AFL had at its disposal to hand to Lewis on his sixty-fifth birthday today became instead a sort of Valentine greeting.

Seeks Council Place

Green declined to say what the difficulty was, but it was learned that Lewis had asked for a place or at least representation on the all-powerful executive council of fifteen members who run the AFL between annual conventions.

While the council members were reportedly willing to make this concession to their former colleague, whom they tossed out in 1937, they could not guarantee it. The council consists of the three international officers and twelve vice presidents. The latter are elected by convention.

Lewis could be appointed to a vacancy between conventions, but there is no vacancy at present. His election to a vice presidency, which most of the council members probably could sway if they combined to do so, could not be guaranteed.

Lewis knows this and may readily accept by return telegram the qualification imposed by the council.

The council decided a[illegible] jurisdictional conflict today between the machinists and the operating engineers, and created another major problem for itself.

It upheld a report of a special committee which gave the engineers the right to repair machinery used on construction jobs, if it breaks down and the operator can fix it.

If the operator is unable to make the repairs and another must be called in, he must be a member of the machinists' union, the council held. It limited such work to construction sites only.

Harvey Brown, head of the machinists and a member of the council, described the decision as "unsatisfactory," however, and said he would report to his own executive council meeting in Washington next week.

Brown has been empowered to call a special convention of the union, now the largest in the Federation as a result of its membership in war plants, for next summer in the event he disapproved of the council's decision. The convention would consider the question of leaving the Federation, as it did briefly two years ago.

NIGHT LEAD AERIAL
BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, FEB. 13-(AP)-A WARNING THAT ENEMY PLANES WERE OVER THE REICH WAS SOUNDED BY THE GERMAN RADIO TONIGHT AT CONCLUSION OF A DAY IN WHICH ALLIED CONTINENT-BASED TACTICAL AIRFORCES FLEW MORE THAN 2,500 SORTIES AGAINST UNUSUALLY HEAVY GERMAN AERIAL OPPOSITION.

ALLIED AIRMEN DOWNED THREE ENEMY PLANES, BUT LOST 23.

A LONG SERIES OF GERMAN "ACHTUNG" WARNINGS INDICATED SEVERAL FORCES OF ALLIED BOMBERS WERE RANGING OVER GERMANY TONIGHT, SOME APPARENTLY IN SUPPORT OF THE RUSSIAN DRIVE.

ONE GERMAN WARNING SAID RAIDERS WERE OVER THE DRESDEN AREA. BERLIN WAS NOT MENTIONED IN THE NAZI BROADCASTS, BUT TELEPHONE SERVICE BETWEEN STOCKHOLM AND BERLIN WAS INTERRUPTED FOR AN HOUR. IN SWEDEN THIS WAS TAKEN AS AN INDICATION THAT THE GERMAN CAPITAL ALSO WAS A TARGET.

BAD WEATHER LIMITED HEAVY BOMBER BLOWS AGAINST THE GERMANS TO ATTACKS ON THREE RAILYARDS BY THE 15TH AIRFORCE BASED IN ITALY, BUT DESPITE THE CLOUDY SKIES, BRITISH MITCHELLS AND BOSTONS POUNDED COMMUNICATIONS LINKS AT WEEZE, UDEM, XANTEN AND CEVELAER AHEAD OF THE CANADIAN ARMY ON THE NORTHERN SECTOR OF THE WESTERN FRONT.

AT LEAST 900 BRITISH SECOND TACTICAL AIRFORCE FIGHTER-BOMBERS ATTACKED ENEMY POSITIONS EAST OF THE REICHSWALD IN THE SAME SECTOR AND HIT TROOP CONCENTRATIONS AND TRANSPORT TARGETS.

NINTH AIRFORCE FIGHTER-BOMBERS FLEW 789 SORTIES AND HAMMERED RAIL AND MOTOR TRANSPORT IN THE DUESSELDORF, BONN, EUSKIRCHEN, ECHTERNACH AND KAISERSLAUTERN AREAS, DESTROYING OR DAMAGING 663 RAILROAD CARS, 37 LOCOMOTIVES, 256 MOTOR VEHICLES. MEDIUM AND LIGHTWEIGHT BOMBERS OF THE NINTH HIT RAIL BRIDGES AT EUSKIRCHEN AND SINZIG AND OTHER TARGETS.

FIGHTER-BOMBERS OF THE U.S. FIRST TACTICAL AIRFORCE FLEW 508 SORTIES AGAINST NINE RAILWAYS EAST OF THE RHINE ON THE SIXTH ARMY GROUP FRONT.

THE LUFTWAFFE MADE ITS STRONGEST BID OF THE MONTH IN CHALLENGING THE ALLIED FORMATIONS, SOME INTERCEPTING GROUPS COMPRISING AS MANY AS 24 ENEMY CRAFT.

FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS OF THE 15TH AIRFORCE, OPERATING FOR THE FIRST TIME IN FIVE DAYS, STRUCK FREIGHTYARDS AT VIENNA AND GRAZ IN AUSTRIA AND AT MARIBOR IN YUGOSLAVIA.

SECOND LEAD BUDAPEST FEB 14 1945

LONDON, FEB. 13-(AP)-BUDAPEST, HUNGARIAN CAPITAL AND FORMER "JEWEL OF THE DANUBE" FELL TODAY TO TWO RUSSIAN ARMIES WHICH TOOK 110,000 CAPTIVES IN A MONTH AND A HALF OF BITTER SIEGE FIGHTING, MARSHAL STALIN ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

FALL OF BUDAPEST (POP. 1,217,000) FREED THE SECOND AND THIRD UKRAINIAN ARMIES OF MARSHALS RODION MALINOVSKY AND FEODOR TOLBUKIN FOR DRIVES ON VIENNA AND PRAGUEN IN CONCERT WITH THE FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMY IN SILESIA SWEEPING TOWARD CENTRAL GERMANY AND ALONG THE CZECHOSLOVAK BORDER.

IT IS THE 17TH CAPITAL TAKEN BY THE ALLIES SINCE ROME FELL JUNE 4.

A164

A BERLIN BROADCAST EARLIER SAID BUDAPEST WAS EVACUATED BY ITS DECIMATED GERMAN-HUNGARIAN GARRISON WHICH ATTACKED AT DAWN AND BROKE THROUGH SOVIET SIEGE LINES "TO CONTINUE THE FIGHT IN THE OPEN FIELD."

BUT STALIN DECLARED THAT THE RED ARMY MEN TODAY "COMPLETED THE ROUTING" OF THE ENCIRCLED ENEMY, AND THAT MORE THAN 110,000 DEFENDERS HEADED BY THE GERMAN COMMANDER, COL.-GENPETER WILDENBRUCH AND HIS

STAFF, WERE CAPTURED, ALONG WITH LARGE STORES OF ARMS A

HEADED BY THE GERMAN COMMANDER, COL.-GEN.PETER WILDENBRUCH AND HIS STAFF, WERE CAPTURED, ALONG WITH LARGE STORES OF ARMS AND BOOTY.

STALIN TERMED BUDAPEST A "STRATEGICALLY IMPORTANT GERMAN DEFENSE CENTER ON THE ROAD TO VIENNA," AND ORDERED A VICTORY SALUTE OF 24 SALVOES FROM 324 GUNS.

A165

FOR WEEKS BLOODY STREET FIGHTING HAS RAGED IN BUDAPEST, WITH THE GERMANS SUPPLIED BY AIR AS THEY SLOWLY WERE THROTTLED. MOSCOW LAST NIGHT ANNOUNCED SEIZURE OF THE ROYAL PALACE AND ANCIENT FORTRESS ON THE WEST BANK OF THE DANUBE IN BUDA. PEST, THE OTHER HALF OF THE CITY ON THE EAST BANK, WAS CLEARED JAN. 19.

STALIN DID NOT ANNOUNCE THE TOLL OF GERMANS KILLED IN THE DEFENSE.

BERLIN ASSERTED THE DAWN BREAKOUT ATTACK CAUGHT THE RUSSIANS BY SURPRISE.

FEB 14 1945

"THE DEEPEST RUSSIAN RING OF ENCIRCLEMENT" WAS SMASHED, THE GERMAN BROADCASTS SAID.

BUDAPEST WAS CONSIDERED SO IMPORTANT IN THE NAZI SCHEME OF WAR THAT GERMAN TROOPS FOUGHT STREET BY STREET TO DEFEND IT. ALTHOUGH THE RED ARMY REACHED ITS OUTSKIRTS FROM THE SOUTHEAST IN THE FIRST WEEK OF NOVEMBER, IT WAS NOT UNTIL DEC.27 THAT TROOPS BROKE INTO THE CITY FROM THE SOUTHWEST AFTER ENCIRCLING IT.

BUDAPEST IS IMPORTANT NOT ONLY AS A POLITICAL AND INDUSTRIAL CENTER BUT AS THE GUARDIAN TO A GREAT PLAINS AREA WHICH FORMS A NATURAL GATEWAY TO VIENNA, 130 MILES TO THE NORTHWEST.

ONCE A GAY AND FASHIONABLE SPA, RIVALING VIENNA AS A CULTURAL AND TOURIST CENTER, WAR TURNED THE BEAUTIFUL CITY INTO A NAZI ARSENAL. TO ITS MILLS--LARGEST IN ALL EUROPE--AND ITS ELECTRICAL, CHEMICAL, SHIPBUILDING AND TEXTILE WORKS, THE NAZIS ADDED AIRCRAFT PLANTS AND MACHINE FACTORIES.

A STEADY STREAM OF WAR SUPPLIES MOVED ACROSS THE BROAD DANUBE RIVER WHICH SPLITS THE CITY.

STANDING AT THE CROSSROADS OF EUROPE, BUDAPEST IS THE JUNCTION OF 14 MAIN RAILWAYS AND THE HUB OF ARTERIAL HIGHWAYS TOWARD AUSTRIA, GERMANY, ROMANIA AND YUGOSLAVIA.

ALTHOUGH IT DATES BACK TO ROMAN TIMES AND IT HAS BEEN PILLAGED BY MANY INVADING CONQUERORS, IN SPIRIT AND ARCHITECTURE THE CAPITAL IS MODERN.

ITS WIDE, ACACIA-BORDERED BOULEVARDS, PARKS, FASHIONABLE HOTELS, COLORFUL FESTIVALS AND SPARKLING NIGHT LIFE DREW THOUSANDS OF PRE-WAR VISITORS.

BUDA, CONTAINING THE ROYAL PALACE, IS THE GOVERNMENTAL CENTER, WHILE PEST IS THE INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL NUCLEUS.

TOGETHER, THE TWO SECTIONS OCCUPY 80 SQUARE MILES.

THE TWO CITIES WERE UNITED IN 1873 UNDER THE OFFICIAL NAME OF BUDAPEST. THEY WERE CONNECTED BY SIX BRIDGES, INCLUDING TWO OF THE LARGEST SUSPENSION SPANS IN ALL EUROPE.

CITRINE RECOMMENDED TO THE WTUC THAT A PROVISIONAL COMMITTEE BE FORMED IMMEDIATELY TO IMPLEMENT THE CONFERENCE'S PROPOSALS AND SERVE AS AN INTERIM AUTHORITY FOR THE ORGANIZATION WITH POWER TO MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS TO GOVERNMENTS.

IN CALLING FOR THE CREATION OF A NEW WORLD LABOR ORGANIZATION, HILLMAN, CIO REPRESENTATIVE, SAID YESTERDAY THAT THE INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION FUNCTIONED TOO SLOWLY TO MEET LABOR'S DEMANDS FOR PARTICIPATION IN THE PEACE SETTLEMENTS.

THE RUSSIANS AND THE CIO ARE NOT MEMBERS OF THE INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION, BUT THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR IS AFFILIATED WITH THAT ORGANIZATION. HILLMAN SAID HE FELT SURE A NEW WORLD LABOR ORGANIZATION WOULD LEAVE A PLACE FOR THE AFL WHICH IS NOT REPRESENTED AT THE CURRENT CONFERENCE HERE.

SWINGING SOUTHEAST OF BATTERED KLEVE WITHOUT WAITING FOR A FINAL MOP-UP, CRERAR'S FORCES CAPTURED HAU, TWO MILES BELOW KLEVE AND WITHIN 22 MILES OF WESEL, MEDIEVAL TOWN OF APPROXIMATELY 25,000 POPULATION AND AN IMPORTANT HIGHWAY AND RAIL CENTER IN THE NORTHWEST CORNER OF THE RUHR INDUSTRIAL BASIN.

LATE FRONT DISPATCHES INDICATED SOME UNITS WERE POSSIBLY LESS THAN THREE MILES FROM GOCH, A KEY COMMUNICATIONS STRONGHOLD SEVEN MILES SOUTH OF KLEVE, AFTER CUTTING THE RAILWAY LEADING TO GOCH.

THE SOUTHERN HALF OF THE REICHSWALD, WHICH ENDS TWO AND A HALF MILES NORTH OF GOCH, WAS VIRTUALLY CLEARED AND THE GERMANS WERE FALLING BACK TO THE EAST.

NINE MILES SOUTHWEST OF KLEVE BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS CAPTURED THE MAAS RIVER TOWN OF GENNEP. TO THE EAST THEY HAD SMASHED ACROSS THE NIERS RIVER AND REACHED KESSEL, WITHIN FOUR MILES OF GOCH.

BY SEIZING THE HIGHWAY HUB OF PRUEM THE U.S. THIRD ARMY GAINED CONTROL OF THE ENTIRE HIGHWAY NETWORK EAST OF THE 10-MILE BREACH THE DOUGHBOYS HAVE CARVED IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE. HEAVY ENEMY FIRE EAST OF THE PRUEM RIVER INDICATED THE NAZIS PLANNED STIFF RESISTANCE AGAINST A PLUNGE DEEPER INTO THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS TOWARD THE RHINE.

SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S FORCES WERE CHALLENGING THE GERMAN HOLD ON THE SIEGFRIED LINE ALONG THE GERMAN-LUXEMBOURG BORDER. THEY SENT TANKS AND TANK DESTROYERS ACROSS THE OUR AND SURE RIVERS AT SEVERAL POINTS OVER QUICKLY-PLACED PONTOON BRIDGES.

A15

PATTON'S TROOPS CAPTURED HARSPELT, 11 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM, AND ENTERED SEVENING, NEAR THE NORTHERNMOST OF THREE OUR AND SURE RIVER BRIDGEHEADS. FRONT REPORTS SAID TWO OF THE BRIDGEHEADS, FROM 20 TO 25 MILES SOUTH OF PRUEM, WERE ALMOST FIVE MILES WIDE, TWO MILES DEEP AND LACKED ONLY A QUARTER OF A MILE OF BEING MERGED.

ENEMY BROADCASTS REFLECTED FEARS THAT THE ALLIES WERE MASSING FORCES FOR A RHINE BREAKTHROUGH. ONE GERMAN ACCOUNT SAID A LARGE SCALE OFFENSIVE WAS IMPENDING IN THE AACHEN AREA, WHERE THE BRITISH SECOND AND U.S. NINTH ARMIES WERE LINED UP ALONG THE FLOODED ROER RIVER 14 MILES FROM THE RUHR CITY OF MUENCHEN-GLADBACH.

THERE WAS NO REPORT OF IMPORTANT ALLIED ACTIVITY ON THAT SECTOR, AS WELL AS TO THE U.S. FIRST ARMY FRONT ON THE UPPER ROER, WHERE RAINS ADDED TO THE FLOOD WATERS.

THE CREST OF THE FLOOD CAUSED BY THE ENEMY DYNAMITING OF THE ROER DAM FLOODGATES HAD BEEN REACHED WITHOUT CAUSING GREAT DAMAGE TO ALLIED POSITIONS. THE WATER LEVEL IN THE SCHWAMMENAUEL RESERVOIR, GREATEST IN THE ROER RIVER SYSTEM, HAD DROPPED 46 FEET.

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 13-(AP)-BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS IN FIELD MARSHAL SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY'S NORTHERN OFFENSIVE BROKE THE HARD CORE OF THE ENEMY'S ARMORED RESISTANCE TODAY AND POURED OUT OF THE EASTERN EDGE OF THE FORMIDABLE REICHSWALD.

ENEMY OPPOSITION WHICH HAD STOPPED THEM COLD IN THIS SECTOR FOR THE PAST 18 HOURS SUDDENLY BROKE BEFORE AN ASSAULT BY SCOTTISH AND BRITISH TROOPS AND PARATROOPS. NAZI PARATROOPERS AND PANZER UNITS BOTH GAVE WAY BEFORE THE RESUMED ADVANCE WHICH WAS MAKING GOOD GAINS TONIGHT.

KEEPING STRIDE WITH THE TRIUMPHANT INFANTRY AND ARMOR ON THE EAST SIDE OF THE REICHSWALD, OTHER ALLIED FORCES ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE FOREST ENLARGED THEIR MAAS (MEUSE) BRIDGEHEADS AT GENNEP AND ARE EXPANDING THEIR GAINS.

ONE PATROL STOLE INTO HOMMERSUM AND CAME BACK WITH 60 PRISONERS, BRINGING THE DAY'S TOTAL CAPTURED ON THIS NORTHERN FRONT TO 5,000.

INFANTRY SUPPORTED BY ARMOR IS PUSHING DOWN THE KLEVE ROAD TOWARD UDEM, WHILE OTHER TROOPS HOLD FIRMLY TO KLEVE ITSELF. THE CANADIANS ARE MAINTAINING A FIRM LINE FROM THAT CITY TO THE RHINE.

TYPHOONS VISITED THE ENEMY DEFENSES EAST OF THE REICHSWALD TODAY AND, IN SAVAGE ATTACKS JUST A FEW YARDS AHEAD OF THE TOMMIES, LOOSED DESTRUCTION ON THE BATTERED GERMANS. EVIDENTLY WEARIED AND UNDOUBTEDLY CONVINCED THEY COULD NOT ROCK OUR STRONG FORCES, THE GERMANS WERE ORDERED BACK TO A MORE EASILY DEFENDED SECTOR.

GERMAN FORCES CONFRONTING MONTGOMERY'S HAVE BEEN TREBLED, BUT IT IS PROBABLE THEY WILL NOT BE EXPENDED RECKLESSLY BECAUSE THERE ARE FEW REPLACEMENTS FOR THEM.

THE ENEMY IS DUMPING SHELLS AND MORTARS INTO KLEVE FROM ACROSS THE RHINE AND FROM POINTS CLOSER TO THE CITY ON THE RIVER'S EAST BANK.

IN A BOILING ENGAGEMENT DURING WHICH SESSENHEIM, STATTMATTEN AND SEVERAL OTHER VILLAGES CHANGED HANDS SEVERAL TIMES, TWO PLATOONS WERE CUT OFF IN SESSENHEIM.

THOMPSON WENT INTO THE TOWN WITH A RESCUE MISSION LED BY SGT. WILLIAM E. RUH (NO STREET ADDRESS) OF OSHKOSH, WIS.

"WHEN WE MADE OUR GETAWAY," RUH SAID, "A HALF DOZEN MEN AT THE END OF THE SQUAD TURNED OFF TO THE RIGHT FIGHTING A REAR GUARD ACTION. THOMPSON WAS WITH THEM. I DIDN'T SEE THEM AGAIN."

LT. SIMEON LEIBER OF 217 PINE STREET, MONROE, LA., WHO WAS COMMANDING IN THE FIELD IN THAT ENGAGEMENT, SAID HE SENT 50 MEN WITH THREE TANKS INTO THE ATTACK AND THE MISSION WAS SUCCESSFUL, GETTING 20 MEN OUT.

LILLIE AND HIS WIFE, CHILDHOOD SWEETHEARTS IN COOPERSVILLE, WERE MARRIED SHORTLY AFTER SHE JOINED THE STAFF OF ST.MARY'S HOSPITAL IN GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. HE WAS INDUCTED IN 1941. SHE JOINED THE NURSE CORPS IN APRIL, 1943, WENT TO NORTH AFRICA IN SEPTEMBER OF THAT YEAR, RECEIVED LEAVE AT HOME IN JANUARY, 1944, AND RETURNED TO ENGLAND A YEAR AGO.

SHE LANDED ON D-DAY PLUS SIX IN NORTHERN FRANCE AND HAS SERVED WITH THE 51ST FIELD HOSPITAL WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY.

CPL.LILLIE ENTERED AN ARMORED OUTFIT AFTER INDUCTION, THEN TRAINED AS A FLYING CADET AND LATER WAS TRANSFERRED TO THE RAINBOW DIVISION AT CAMP GRUBER, OKLA., LAST SPRING.

THEY HAD NOT SEEN ONE ANOTHER SINCE A BRIEF MEETING A YEAR AGO IN JANUARY. EARLY LAST MONTH MRS.LILLIE MANAGED TO GET LEAVE BUT COULD NOT SEE HER HUSBAND, WHO WAS STATIONED AT AN ADVANCED POSITION. HE WAS UNABLE TO GET BACK TO SEE HER BEFORE HER LEAVE EXPIRED.

LAST WEEK CAPT.BORDEN TENNANT, 1505 NORTH BOULEVARD, HOUSTON, TEX., CPL.LILLIE'S SUPERIOR OFFICER, SET MACHINERY IN MOTION TO BRING THE COUPLE TOGETHER. THE PAPERS HAD JUST BEEN SIGNED MONDAY NIGHT WHEN WORD CAME FROM THE REAR ECHELON THAT LT.LILLIE WAS ON HER WAY ON ANOTHER LEAVE.

TENNANT CALLED LILLIE AND ANNOUNCED LUGUBRIOUSLY THAT THE SCHEDULED FURLOUGH WOULD HAVE TO BE CANCELLED. LILLIE'S DISAPPOINTMENT WAS APPARENT THEN CAPT.TENNANT ADDED THE POSTSCRIPT:

"WHAT WOULD YOU SAY IF I TOLD YOU YOUR WIFE WOULD BE HERE SHORTLY?"

TENNANT SAID LILLIE DIDN'T UTTER A WORD. HE JUST THREW HIS RIFLE UP TO THE CEILING.

TENNANT ARRANGED TO HAVE LILLIE RELIEVED FROM DUTY AND FOUND QUARTERS IN THE CITY HALL FOR THE COUPLE.

THE POLISH QUESTION APPEARED TO HAVE BEEN BROUGHT CLOSER TO A SOLUTION THAN AT ANY TIME SINCE IT BECAME ACUTE. ROOSEVELT, CHURCHILL AND STALIN ARE UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE AGREED THAT THE POLISH PROBLEM WBULD NOT INTERFERE AND WOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO INTERFERE WITH UNITY IN WINNING THE WAR OR IN WINNING THE PEACE.

TO PUT IT FRANKLY, THEY ARE GOING TO SEE THAT A PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF NATIONAL UNITY IS FORMED--BUT ALONG THE DEMOCRATIC LINES THEY WANT.

FEB 14 1945

THE FIELD APPARENTLY IS WIDE OPEN TO ALL POLES EXCEPT THOSE REGARDED AS ANTI-DEMOCRATIC, PRINCIPALLY THE "SANACJA" CLIQUE--FOLLOWERS OF THE LATE MARSHAL PILSUDSKI AND THE LATE COL.JSEF BECK.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT THE PRESENT RECOGNITION OF THE LONDON POLISH GOVERNMENT BY THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN WILL BE WITHDRAWN QUICKLY WHEN A PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF NATIONAL UNITY--ONE WHICH SATISFIES EACH OF THE BIG THREE--IS FORMED.

THE SECTION OF THE BIG THREE COMMUNIQUE DEALING WITH THE OCCUPATION OF GERMANY WAS OF IMMENSE SATISFACTION TO THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE, WHO HAVE NEVER OBJECTED TO THE THREE POWERS OCCUPYING SEPARATE ZONES IN GERMANY. THE RUSSIANS LOOK FAVORABLY UPON FRANCE JOINING IN THE OCCUPATION.

NO ONE COULD BE MORE PLEASED THAN THE RUSSIANS OVER TGE CRIMEA COMMUNIQUE'S ARTICLE DEALING WITH THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION TO MAINTAIN PEACE AND SECURITY. THE RUSSIANS HAVE STUMPED FOR SUCH A THING FOR YEARS, AND THE SOVIET PRESS AND SPEAKERS HAVE NEVER QUIT THIS THEME. THE RUSSIAN VIEW LONG HAS BEEN THAT THE LACK OF SUCH AN ORGANIZATION CONTRIBUTED LARGELY TO WAR.

EJAPEW

STETTINIUS DECLINED TO DISCUSS THE CRIMEAN CONFERENCE, BUT THE RESULTS WERE EXPECTED TO BE SAVORED PLEASANTLY BY THE SOVIET PUBLIC.

THE TOTAL ERADICATION OF NAZISM LONG HAS BEEN AN AIM OF THE RUSSIANS AS A MEANS OF PRESERVING PEACE. Add Moscow Big 3 (Gilmore) xx Nazis.

THE DECISION ON REPARATIONS ALSO WAS PLEASING TO THE AVERAGE RUSSIAN. THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT "GERMANY WILL BE OBLIGED TO MAKE COMPENSATION FOR DAMAGE IN KIND TO THE GREATEST EXTENT POSSIBLE" IS CHEERING NEWS TO PEOPLE WHO HAVE SEEN THEIR CITIES WRECKED, HOMES SMASHED, FAMILIES LIQUIDATED AND CHILDREN AND WOMEN TORTURED ALONG WITH THEIR SOLDIERS.

THE RUSSIANS ALSO REACT FAVORABLY TO THE PLAN FOR FORMATION OF AN ORGANIZATION TO MAINTAIN PEACE AND SECURITY, A PLAN LONG SPONSORED IN THE RUSSIAN PRESS AND AMONG ITS PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

THE DECISIONS REGARDING POLAND--THE AGREEMENT SUGGESTS THE FINAL SETTLEMENT OF THAT COUNTRY'S WESTERN BOUNDARIES SHOULD AWAIT PEACE--ARE NOT INCONSISTENT WITH RUSSIAN PRONOUNCEMENTS.

PERHAPS THE MAIN HOPE IN THE AGREEMENT WAS THE PROMISE THAT IT "WILL RESULT IN SHORTENING THE WAR."

THE PLAN FOR OCCUPATION OF GERMANY ALSO MET APPROVAL BECAUSE THE RUSSIANS NEVER HAVE OBJECTED TO THE THREE POWERS OCCUPYING SEPARATE ZONES AND LOOKED MOST FAVORABLY ON FRANCE JOINING THE OCCUPATION FORCES AS A FOURTH MEMBER OF THE CONTROL COMMISSION.

THE RUSSIANS PARTICULARLY APPLAUDED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT FOR THE PERSONAL EFFORT INVOLVED IN HIS LONG JOURNEY, THE LAST LEG OF IT BY AIR.

PRAVDA'S EDITORIAL DECLARED THAT THE CONFERENCE NOT ONLY DECIDED HITLER'S DEFEAT, BUT "ELABORATED ON THE CONDITIONS WHICH WILL MAKE IMPOSSIBLE A REPETITION OF GERMAN MILITARY AGGRESSION."

IZVESTIA, THE GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER, HAILED THE CONFERENCE AS "THE BIGGEST POLITICAL EVENT OF CURRENT TIMES--AN EVENT WHICH WILL ENTER IN HISTORY AS A NEW EXAMPLE OF COORDINATED SOLUTIONS OF COMPLICATED QUESTIONS IN THE INTEREST OF PEACE AND DEMOCRACY."

ROOSEVELT, STALIN AND CHURCHILL "DELIBERATED AND DISCUSSED A LARGE NUMBER OF QUESTIONS, ANY OF WHICH COULD BE REGARDED AS A TEST OF THE POLITICAL WISDOM AND FAR SIGHTEDNESS OF A STATESMAN," SAID IZVESTIA. IT ADDED THAT THE CONFERENCE AGAIN HAD PROVED THE "STABILITY OF THE ALLIES' MILITARY ALLIANCE."

"HITLERITE GERMANY IS DOOMED, THE HOUR OF ITS COLLAPSE HAS ARRIVED, ITS RESISTANCE IS HOPELESS," IZVESTIA SAID.

STRENGTHENING OF UNITY IN THE PERIOD OF PEACE, THE PAPER ADDED, IS ACCEPTED AS A "HOLY PLEDGE" BY THE THREE GOVERNMENTS, AND THE PEOPLE OF SOVIET RUSSIA ARE "FIRMLY CONVINCED" THE CRIMEAN DECISIONS WILL BE REALIZED IN FULL.

FACTORIES AND MINES THROUGHOUT SOVIET RUSSIA HELD SPONTANEOUS MEETINGS LAST NIGHT AND EARLY THIS MORNING FOLLOWING RADIO ANNOUNCEMENTS OF THE CONFERENCE.

IMPROMPTU SPEAKERS MADE SUCH REMARKS AS THESE: "WE'LL BE IN BERLIN SOON," AND "THIS MEANS THE END OF HITLER."

MOSCOW, FEB.13-(AP)-MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV HURLED HIS FIRST WHITE UKRAINIAN ARMY TOWARD DRESDEN TODAY IN AN EVER-INCREASING THREAT TO GERMANY'S MAIN NORTH-SOUTH COMMUNICATION LINES.

FROM THE SECTOR OF CAPTURED BUNZLAU ON THE BOBER RIVER, HIS ARTILLERY HAS BEGUN POUNDING SIGERSDORF, EIGHT MILES ALONG THE DIRECT HIGHWAY TO GORLITZ, ENEMY STRONGHOLD ON THE NEISSE RIVER.

(THIS SUGGESTED A POSSIBLE CROSSING OF THE BOBER, BUT THE DISPATCH DID NOT SAY FLATLY THAT THIS HAD BEEN ACCOMPLISHED. BERLIN, HOWEVER, HAS REPORTED TWO CROSSINGS IN THE BUNZLAU AREA.)

ALONG THE NEISSE THE GERMANS WERE REPORTED FRANTICALLY DIGGING IN. SOVIET BOMBERS, PACING THE GROUND ATTACK, WERE BLASTING TRUCKS AND TRAINS BRINGING UP RESERVES.

KONEV'S PUSH APPEARED STILL CARRYING TREMENDOUS MOMENTUM. MINDFUL THAT HE HAS GOT THE ENEMY ON THE RUN, THE SOVIET MARSHAL KEPT RAMMING HOME THE ATTACK TOWARD SAXONY AND HURRYING TO GET AT THE NUMEROUS RAILWAYS RUNNING NORTH AND SOUTH THROUGH THE REICH.

BY PRESSING THE ATTACK WESTWARD WITH SUCH SWIFTNESS KONEV ALREADY HAS WON A TREMENDOUS POSITIONAL VICTORY OVER THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND.

HE FIRST FEINTED NORTHWESTWARD FRUM THE STEINAU BRIDGEHEAD OVER THE ODER, BUT QUICKLY SWITCHED THE CENTER OF GRAVITY DIRECTLY WESTWARD TOWARD SAXONY. BY WITHDRAWING NORTHWESTWARD FOR AN EXPECTED ALL-OUT PUSH TOWARD BERLIN THE GERMANS GOT THEMSELVES OUT OF POSITION IN THE CENTER.

IN ALL PROBABILITY THE NAXI HIGH COMMAND EVENTUALLY WILL BE ABLE TO SLOW DOWN THE KONEV THRUST AT CENTRAL GERMANY. THE INDICATIONS ARE THAT THE ENEMY HOPES TO MAKE THIS STAND ON THE NEISSE, BUT THERE IS CONSIDERABLE DOUBT HERE THAT THE GERMANS CAN LONG DELAY THE GREAT WEIGHT OF KONEV'S ARMY.

CAIRO, FEB. 13-(AP)-GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, DELEGATES AND OBSERVERS REPRESENTING A MAJOR PORTION OF THE ARABIC WORLD ARE GATHERED IN CAIRO AND WILL BEGIN CONFERENCES TOMORROW DESIGNED TO WELD THE INDIVIDUAL ARAB NATIONS INTO A SINGLE POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC UNIT.

DELEGATIONS WERE SENT BY SEVEN GOVERNMENTS--EGYPT, SAUDI ARABIA, IRAQ, LEBANON, SYRIA, TRANSJORDANIA AND THE YEMEN, ALL INDEPENDENT STATES. IN ADDITION, PALESTINE, WHICH IS UNDER A BRITISH MANDATE, HAS A DELEGATE PRESENT TO REPRESENT THE COUNTRY'S ARABIC POPULATION.

UNOFFICIAL OBSERVERS FROM OTHER NATIONS AS FAR AWAY AS SPANISH MOROCCO ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND.

THE BLUEPRINT FOR A PAN-ARAB FEDERATION ALREADY HAS BEEN DRAWN. LAST OCT. 8 DELEGATES MET AT ALEXANDRIA AND DRAFTED A PROTOCOL, THE MAJOR POINTS OF WHICH WERE AGREEMENT TO FOLLOW A SINGLE CONCERTED FOREIGN POLICY AND TO ABOLISH AS FAR AS POSSIBLE ARTIFICIAL ECONOMIC BARRIERS AS WELL AS CUSTOMS AND IMMIGRATION RESTRICTIONS BETWEEN THE ARAB COUNTRIES.

RESOLUTIONS RELATING TO THE INDEPENDENCE OF LEBANON AND SYRIA WERE PASSED AND THE CONFERENCE RECORDED ITS UNALTERABLE OPPOSITION TO CREATION OF A JEWISH STATE IN PALESTINE.

MANILA, P.I.,FEB .8-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THREE YEARS AGO I WAS BEGINNING TO DIE BY THE SLOW DEATH METHODS OF A TEMPORARILY VICTORIOUS, BRUTAL JAPANESE ARMY.

NOW THAT I AM BEGINNING TO LIVE AGAIN AS A CIVILIZED CITIZEN AND A CIVILIZED HUMAN I CANNOT UNDERSTAND HOW WE WHO WENT THROUGH THOSE EXPERIENCES MANAGED TO LAST.

I RECEIVED 389 DAYS OF UNADULTERATED "MIS-

TREATMENT" IN A JAPANESE PRISON CELL FOR MY PRE-WAR EDITORIAL EFFORTS TO WARN THE READING PUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES OF THE DANGERS OF JAPAN'S PLATFORM OF RULE OR RUINA ASIA.

THE JAPANESE ENTERED MANILA JAN.2, 1942 AND THE FOLLOWING MORNING SWAGGERING GENDARMES BROKE INTO MY HOUSE AND ARRESTED ME.

I WAS TAKEN FIRST TO A BUILDING IN THE FORMER UNIVERSITY OF THE PHILIPPINES FOR THREE MONTHS OF "PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION."

THAT MEANT A SERIES OF BAITING INTERROGATION PERIODS OF GRUFF, INSOLENT JAPANESE ASKING ENDLESS QUESTIONS, MANY OF THEM IRRELEVANT, IN AN ATTEMPT TO TRAP ME OR WEAR ME DOWN INTO MAKING IMPROPER STATES.

A70KX (WEST OUT)

THEN I WAS THROWN INTO A THICK STONE BUILDING WITHIN THE WALLED CITY, WHICH HAD SERVED SUCCESSIVELY AS MILITARY HEADQUARTERS FOR SPANISH AND AMERICAN FORCES. NOW IT WAS THE HEADQUARTERS FOR THE INFAMOUS JAP GENDARMARIE.

NONE OF THE 15 OTHER MEN NOR MYSELF HAD BEEN CONVICTED OF ANY CRIME OR GIVEN ANY IMPARTIAL HEARING WHEN TAKEN TO THE PRISON. THEY WERE CHINESE, ANTI-FRANCO SPANISH, ANTI-VICHY FRENCH AND ANOTHER EDITOR WHO WAS BRITISH.

WE WERE THROWN INTO A BARREN CELL APPROXIMATELY 12 BY 13 FEET WHICH WAS MORE LIKE A BOX STALL FOR A COW THAN A DETENTION PLACE FOR HUMANS.

THERE WAS NO FURNITURE AND NO BEDDING---ONLY TWO HOLES IN THE FLOOR, ONE FOR AN OVERTURNED BOX WHICH SERVED AS A MAKESHIFT LAVATORY AND THE OTHER FOR THE OVERWORKED LITTLE WATER PIPELINE.

ON ENTERING WE WERE FORCED TO SIT DOWN ON THE FLOOR AND THERE WE SAT DAY AFTER DAY, SOME A FEW WEEKS OR A FEW MONTHS. I WAS THERE FOR APPROXIMATELY 13 MONTHS.

OUR FOOD WAS WORSE THAN ANY FORCED ON A SHARECROPPER BY A DROUGHT-- ONE SERVING OF RICE DAILY, AN OCCASIONAL SMATTERING OF SWEET POTATOE TOP, STALE FISH OR POOR SCRAPS.

MY FAMILY TRIED REPEATEDLY TO SEND ME FOOD AND LITTLE NECESSITIES, BUT THEY WERE STERNLY REFUSED. I LIVED UNDER BESTIAL CONDITIONS WITH NO CHANCE TO SHAVE OR BATHE AND, MORE IMPORTANT, WITHOUT WORD CONCERNING THE WELFARE OF MY FAMILY.

A71KX (WEST OUT)

IN 1943 I WAS RELEASED AFTER REPEATED REFUSING JAP DEMANDS TO COLLABORATE BY PUBLISHING A NEWSPAPER UNDER THEM.

A SORRY PARADE OF GENDARMIE VICTIMS HAD GONE ON WHILE I WAS THERE AND I WAS NEVER SURE WHAT MY FATE WOULD BE BUT I WAS TAKEN TO SANTO TOMAS WHERE I WAS REUNITED HAPPILY WITH MY FAMILY. SLOWLY MY HEALTH RETURNED AS I WAS ABLE TO WORK IN THE GARDEN AND LIVE IN A SHANTY WITH MY FAMILY AND THE FEEL OF FRIENDS AROUND ME.

I WAS READY THEN FOR THE LAST PHASE OF THE JAP PROGRAM--SYSTEMATIC STARVATION OF CIVILIAN INTERNEES. BUT AMERICAN FORCES WON THE RACE TO RESCUE US AND, STILL UNBELIEVING, WE TESTED OUR MINDS AND HEARTS AS UMAN BEINGS AGAIN. WE LOST WEIGMT BWO WE NEVER LOST HOPE. OUR FAITH HAS BEEN JUSTIFIED.

8,000 Planes Blast Germany's Industry

Night Raiders Follow Up Heavy Day Attacks —U.S. Airmen Concentrate on Dresden— Communications, Fuel Targets Lashed.

FEB 15 1945

By Charles Chamberlain

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 15. (AP)—Reports from Stockholm said a Berlin air raid alarm interrupted telephone communication between the Nazi capital and Scandinavia last night and the German radio warning system indicated that Allied bombers were over three sections of the Reich.

Night Attacks

The night attacks would carry the air campaign into a second consecutive day, for the 24-hour period which ended last night, approximately 8,000 planes, of which more than 3,000 were heavy bombers, spread destruction throughout Germany.

They blasted at least 10 industrial centers and delivered a tremendous blow to Dresden, eastern gateway to the heart of beleaguered Nazidom, which the German "Achtung" warning system indicated was under attack again last night.

The warnings broadcast through Germany said one Allied bomber formation was over Saxony, of which Dresden is the capital; one was over Brandenburg, the province which includes Berlin, and a third over Heligoland heading for Northwestern Germany and Schleswig-Holstein.

At Vital Communications

Yesterday's round-the-clock aerial bombardment, one of the greatest of the war, was aimed at the vital communications and fuel targets of Dresden, Chemnitz, Magdeburg and Bohlen—all south of Berlin and within 120 miles of the Nazi capital—and at Nuernberg, Bonn, Dortmund and Vienna and Maribor in Yugoslavia.

The tactical airforces based on the continent also had a big day, striking at enemy emplacements and formations along the western front.

Bomber formation losses from these operations had not been announced last night, but the tactical airforces reported loss of 23 planes, most of them downed by anti-aircraft fire.

The Dresden attack was in direct and coordinated support of Russian troops advancing westward through Silesia.

In 12-Hour Period

In a 12-hour period some 4,000 tons of explosives were rained on Dresden by American and British planes. It was suggested unofficially in London that Air Marshal Charles Portal, British air staff chief who returned from Yalta yesterday, brought instructions from the Big Three to step-up other blows in support of the Red Armies whenever possible.

Dresden was caught in a tornado of explosives as a force of 2,250 U. S. heavy bombers and fighters ranged over Germany in widespread raids, delivering their main attack on this refugee-packed capital of Saxony.

The American air strikes came in the wake of blows by 1,400 RAF bombers during the night. Of these, 800 bombed Dresden twice in attacks three hours apart. The British dumped perhaps 2,200 tons of bombs on the city, and it still was burning when American planes arrived later in the day.

Center on Dresden

A division of about 450 American Flying Fortresses centered on Dresden, which was enveloped by fire and smoke probably visible to Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian Army units now only 60-odd miles or so away.

Italy-based Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the U. S. 15th Air Force blasted oil and rail targets in Vienna and freight yards at Maribor, Yugoslavia, today for the second successive day.

The German radio flashed air raid alarms constantly during the day. Warnings came after the Britain-based American force was en route home, indicating that RAF bombers also were striking a daylight blow.

While one American Fortress division was concentrating on Dresden, 450 more fortresses attacked transportation and industrial targets at Chemnitz, 35 miles southwest of Dresden, and 400 Liberators hit targets at Magdeburg, 70 miles west of Berlin.

Some 50 Liberators flew to Wesel, 19 miles ahead of Canadian First army on the western front, and made direct hits on a six-span bridge across the Rhine.

Visual Runs

The bombers got visual runs over rgets at Dresden, but clouds cov- d Chemnitz and Magdeburg.

FEB 15 1945

...rts indicated that there ...German air force opposi- ...on, permitting most of the 900 escorting Mustangs and Thunderbolts to make far-flung strafing sweeps.

Dresden, with a prewar population of 640,000, now is of vital importance to the German defense system against the Russians. Road and rail lines to eastern and southern Germany, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Breslau and Leipzig run through Dresden.

Chemnitz, a machine-tool center of 30 miles from the border of Czechoslovakia, has four railway yards capable of handling 3,500 cars daily and repair shops employing 6,000 men. Often-bombed Magdeburg is in the center of Germany's synthetic oil producing zone.

U. S. Ninth Air Force planes based on the continent flew 580 sorties before noon. Medium and light bombers in 375 of these concentrated on the communications centers of Geldern, Kevelaer and Xanten, which form a triangle some 30 miles southeast of Nijmegen.

The bombing of the Vienna area, where heavy damage was caused in a raid of more than 500 big bombers yesterday, was done both visually and by target finding instruments today. Mustangs and Lightnings escorted the bombers.

Liberators also bombed the railyards at Klagenfurt, Austria. B-25s and Thunderbolts of the 12th Air Force flew through bad weather and hammered bridges and other targets along the Brenner pass rail line. Thunderbolts attacked the important Travisio route in northeastern Italy.

Yanks Follow Up Night Raids on Saxon Capital

By the Associated Press. JAMESON

LONDON, Feb. 14.—More than 2,250 American bombers and fighters today struck Germany in widespread attacks, delivering a main blow at Dresden, which already was burning from a night assault by 800 heavy RAF bombers.

Dresden is only 68 miles or less from advancing Russian troops, and is a nerve center of Nazi defenses in Central Germany. The day and night air blows were in direct and co-ordinated support of Marshal Ivan Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army.

The RAF bombed Dresden twice in attacks three hours apart.

Part of the American force, consisting of more than 1,350 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 900 fighters, also bombed transportation and industrial targets at Chemnitz, 35 miles southwest of Dresden, and at Magdeburg, 70 miles west of Berlin.

A fourth formation was assigned to knock out an important Rhine bridge at Wesel, 19 miles ahead of the Canadian 1st Army on the western front.

Announcing the night operations, the British Air Ministry declared:

"As the center of a railway network and a great industrial town it (Dresden) has become of the greatest value for conducting any defense the Germans may organize against Marshal Konev's armies."

Altogether the RAF dispatched 1,400 aircraft to Germany during the night. Other targets were a synthetic oil plant at Bohlen, south of Leipzig, objectives at Magdeburg, 75 miles southwest of Berlin, and the railroad towns of Nuernberg, Bonn and Dortmund. All the night operations were at a cost of 16 bombers missing.

The British blow against Dresden, Germany's seventh city, was the first major attack ever made there. A striking feature was the lack of antiaircraft fire.

When the first wave hit about 10 p.m. clouds obscured the target. When the second arrived three hours later the sky was clear. The crews said fires could be seen for 200 miles.

Dresden is 90 miles south of Berlin, and is overflowing with refugees fleeing ahead of the Russians. Some German government offices also are said to have been shifted there.

Together American and British tactical forces on the continent yesterday flew more than 2,100 sorties against battle area targets and Nazi supply lines. The pilots reported meeting the stiffest anti-aircraft opposition to these battle line attacks since the German Ardennes offensive was checked.

Their combined claims for the day included 109 locomotives, 307 railcars and 278 motor vehicles wrecked and 48 rail cuts.

The United States 9th Air Force, which lost 11 aircraft, claimed two Nazis shot down and three more damaged.

SOVIET UKRAINE TROOPS LUNGING ACROSS SILESIA

FEB 15 1945

Seven Cities Captured and 4,000 Nazis Killed in Two Pronged Drive.

BRESLAU SURROUNDED

Holdout Fortress of Schneidemuehl Liquidated by Soviet Army.

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 15—(AP) The Russian First Ukraine army, lunging across Silesia 13 miles in a day, seized seven German city - strongholds yesterday and killed more than 4,000 Germans in a two-pronged drive towards Berlin and Dresden with the aid of RAF and American bombers that smashed Dresden, Chemnitz and other centers in the path of the advance.

Some 45 miles behind the Soviet spearheads, in an irregular sac of bypass territory, the Silesian capital city of Breslau was surrounded, the German radio said, in a battle that was approaching a climax.

NIGHT

In Pomerania the First White Russian army liquidated the holdout fortress of Schneidemuehl, 15 miles behind the lines, killing more than 7,000 Germans and capturing 5,000 after a two weeks siege. The tremendous booty taken at that strategic Berlin-Danzig rail junction included 203 German airplanes.

The Schneidemuehl garrison, despairing of rescue, wrecked itself in vain efforts to break out, a supplement to the Moscow communique said early today.

In Budapest, which fell Tuesday, the Russians picked up another 12,700 prisoners, mostly abandoned wounded, raising the list of captured in that one city to nearly 123,000. The final toll will be higher, as Moscow said a fragment of the garrison escaped only to be surrounded again west of the Hungarian capital.

The day's successes, announced in two orders of the day by Premier Stalin and the regular nightly Moscow communique, also credited the First Ukraine army of Marshal Ivan S. Konev with bagging 2,100 prisoners and taking more than 200 population centers in Silesia.

Dresden lay 68 miles or less ahead of the southern arm of Konev's drive, by Russian account, while the Germans said the northern arm had reached within 71 miles of Berlin.

In between lay an ill-defined pocket or pockets of by-passed towns, including surrounded Glogau and the Silesian capital, Breslau, which the Germans Wednesday night said had also been encircled.

Importance of the drive through Silesia was pointed up by Russian announcement that another 200 German planes had been captured, making 545 in two days.

Can See Glare of Burning City

Up ahead to the west the Russians could see in the skies the red glare of fires set in Dresden by 4,000 tons of British and American bombs, apparently the first fruits of the Crimea conference. Chemnitz, 34 miles farther west, also was hard hit.

The BBC quoted a Soviet military observer as saying the Allies were working together "with precision and according to a definite plan."

Konev's men held the spotlight, however. Moscow news dispatches said they had crossed the Queis river defense line in their drive towards Dresden while the Swiss radio quoted German accounts as saying the northern wing had reached Sommerfeld, only 71 miles southeast of Berlin. The German DNB agency itself broadcast that Konev had broken into Sorau, 84 miles southeast of Berlin.

By Russian official account Konev's nearest approach to Berlin was 84 miles, with capture of Freystadt, 75 miles northwest of besieged Breslau.

Other cities taken in this northwestward sweep included Neuzalz, six miles northeast of Freystadt; Neustadtel, seven miles southeast; and Sprottau, 13 miles south.

The southwestern wing swept over Goldberg, Jauer and Striegau, from 45 to 28 miles southwest of Breslau and a score of miles from the Czechoslovak border.

The German radio conceded that Konev's forces were 'inevitably tearing gaps in our lines" and said the People's Army and "Alarm Units" had been thrown into the struggle to keep lines of retreat open.

A Moscow news analyst, Nikolai Akimov, declared that Konev's drive was of such great importance that "it is difficult as yet to foresee all its consequences." He predicted that the Germans would have to throw in "several dozen" more divisions to fill Konev's 100-mile gap in their defenses and that this inevitably would weaken the other enemy fronts "on the eve of new and more powerful blows planned by the Allies."

Part of Allied Plan

The R.A.F. and U.S.A.A.F. raids on Dresden apparently were part of the Allied plan of closer cooperation as the eastern and western fronts draw nearer.

In 12 hours Dresden was struck by 4,000 tons of bombs, and it was suggested unofficially in London that R.A.F. Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of the air staff, just returned from the Yalta meeting of the Big Three, carried orders to support the Red army advance whenever possible.

On the other eastern front sectors obscure battles raged.

Big Battle Rages On Oder

A delayed dispatch to Moscow from the central front east of Berlin said that a big battle was in progress as the Germans steadily buttressed their Kuestrin and Frankfurt-on-Oder defenses against Marshal Zhukov's blows. This dispatch, without date, said three days of snow had turned roads into a mess and that Soviet troops were mud-caked from head to foot.

It told of successive German counterattacks which the Russians met by pulling back their tanks and sending infantry and artillery ahead through the mud.

The same dispatch said the Germans on that front were using a new fighter plane, the Focke-Wulfe 109A-8, with indifferent success.

Slugging Away at Stettin

German radio commentators insisted that fighting around Frankfurt and Kuestrin was "only of a local character" but said the Russians were slugging away at the approaches to Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port, against strong German defense.

The German commentators also said fighting in East Prussia had died down somewhat, although Russian dispatches said Koenigsberg's defenses appeared to be cracking.

The Russians confirmed German accounts of a continuing Soviet drive northward in the Polish corridor and just inside the German border some 60 miles southwest of Danzig in an apparent outflanking movement.

Fifty towns fell to the Russians there Wednesday, including one only 12 miles south of the communications center of Chojnice, while the Germans lost 1,000 men killed and 500 captured and had 19 tanks knocked out.

FEB 15 1945

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Red Army troops have crashed through the Germans' Queis River line less than 68 miles from Dresden, a Moscow dispatch said today, and Berlin declared armored units to the north had broken into Sorau, junction city 83 miles southeast of Berlin.

Marshal Ivan Konev's forces hitting westward "in a sensational threat to split Germany asunder south of Berlin" were approaching the Upper Neisse River, which runs about 50 miles from Dresden, a direct Moscow dispatch declared.

The German high command said Marshal Konev's armor, beating northward toward a junction with other Red Army men along the Oder east of Berlin, had broken into Sorau, 8 miles northwest of Sagan and across the Bober River. Sorau is 5 miles inside Berlin's province of Brandenburg.

Sommerfeld Reported Reached.

The Swiss radio quoted German sources as saying Marshal Konev already had lunged to Sommerfeld, 13 miles northwest of Sorau, and within 17 miles of a junction of Marshal Gregory Zhukov's troops on the Oder.

Berlin broadcasts said Marshal Konev "inevitably is tearing gaps in our lines, and that Volkssturm and "alarm units" were being thrown into the fight to keep open retreat lines to the west.

They also reported Marshal Zhukov was "massing strong forces" on the Frankfurt-Fuerstenberg front along the Oder for an assault on Berlin.

Moscow dispatches said the Konev forces were 18 miles or less from the frontier of Saxony, of which Dresden is the capital.

Reds 90 Miles from Prague.

Marshal Konev's lower wing was only about 90 miles from Prague, Czechoslovak capital. The conquest of Budapest, whose siege cost the enemy 159,000 troops captured or killed, freed strong Russian forces for new tasks. Premier Stalin significantly described the Hungarian capital as a bastion on the route to Vienna.

Moscow dispatches spoke of the Germans' "growing debacle in Silesia" under the Konev blows, and said his vanguards nearing Saxony were "still meeting poorly armed mobs of the volkssturm sprinkled with some police and SS detachments."

"The decision, attributed to Hitler, to hold besieged strong-points on the Oder such as Breslau and Glogau doomed to annihilation army divisions which otherwise might be reformed and used again to establish a basic defense zone," said Associated Press Correspondent Daniel de Luce in Moscow.

Moscow still had no official comment on German reports that Marshal Zhukov had thrown bridgeheads over the Oder within 30 to 40 miles of Berlin.

Drive on Other Cities.

Some of Marshal Zhukov's columns were driving on Chojnice, in the Polish Corridor 62 miles southwest of Danzig, and on Neustettin in Pomerania 35 miles west of Chojnice.

Marshal Konev cracked the Nazis' Queis River line after a similar rapid thrust over the Bober River yesterday in gains of up to 10 miles.

Towns which fell yesterday included Klitschdorf, 68 miles northeast of Dresden.

Both Klitschdorf and Neuhammer, another newly captured town, are situated on the east bank of the Queis River which, like the small Tschirne River about 6 miles to the west, flows north and joins the Bober in the vicinity of Sagan.

The speed of the Konev advance—25 miles in two days—indicated there was little to give him pause short of the Niesse River, 20 miles beyond the Queis. The Niesse generally is rated as second only to the Oder in Eastern German's defenses.

Called Important Center.

A new Russian attempt to drive into Austria was portended in Premier Stalin's order of the day yesterday announcing the capture of Budapest.

The order was directed jointly to Marshals Rodion Y. Malinovsky and Feodor Tolbukhin of the 2nd and 3d Ukraine Armies. Their forces have long been well west of Budapest on a 250-mile battle line stretching generally northeast into Slovakia.

Leipzig Outbreak Reported

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—A captured German soldier was quoted in a Moscow broadcast today as reporting that a large-scale peace demonstration occurred last week in Leipzig, and that the demonstrators were dispersed by Nazi flyers using tear gas.

NO CIVILIAN GOODS

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP) Manufacture of civilian goods in Germany "has now completely ceased," the German DNB news agency reported in a broadcast tonight.

"Even everyday necessities cannot be produced anymore," the radio report stated. "Everybody should use old reserves, and materials available now must last until the war is over."

Canadian Forces Nearing Goch, Virtually Turn German Flank

Big Traffic Center Is By-passed, With Capture of Two Villages

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 14.—The Canadian 1st Army today charged behind massed guns and flamethrowers to within a mile and a half of Goch, 11-way German traffic center between the Rhine and Meuse, and outflanked it on the northeast by capturing Hasselt and Bedburg.

The Canadians, Scots and Britons of Gen. Henry Crerar's army advanced 2 miles or more, leaving behind all the 45-square-mile Reichswald after breaking the core of resistance offered by seven strongly armored German divisions. They virtually turned the northern end of the Siegfried Line.

Northeast of Kleve, Canadian infantry closed up firmly to the line of the Oude Rhine, a tributary of the main river, and sent a strong raiding force from captured Kellen almost to the Rhine ferry crossing facing the industrial center of Emmerich.

Defenses Threatened.

Tanks, huge sky fleets and Parachute troops powered the assault steadily rolling up the soggy German positions between the Rhine and the Meuse and threatening defenses on the Cologne plain between the flooded Roer and the great Rhineland cities.

The Germans were pushed at least 3 miles east of Kleve to positions a dozen miles inside the Reich. They appeared to be falling back to a new line between Goch, 8 miles south of Kleve, and Calcar, close to the Rhine 7 miles southeast of Kleve and 15 miles from the Ruhr railroad of Wesel.

More than 100 miles to the south, the American 3d Army gained up to a half mile in muddy, tortuous terrain through fresh breaches in the Siegfried Line opposite Northern Luxembourg. Systematic blasting by tank destroyers and self-propelled guns carved avenues through the thickest part of the West Wall and a slackening of German artillery indicated the Germans were pulling back to new positions south of Pruem.

Breach Is Expanded.

The breach was expanded to 4,000 yards in depth and almost 11 miles in width by the 5th, 76th and 80th Divisions.

Other fronts were quiet. Gen. Eisenhower had committed only a small fraction of his strength to the offensive.

Clearing weather over the entire front tended to slow ground operations with increased thaws and flooding, but it permitted great Allied air fleets to attack the enemy. Nearly 4,500 bombers and fighters pummeled the Germans in the six hours ended at dawn.

Canadian Highlanders occupied Kellen, 2 miles northeast of the ruins of Kleve, and Ontario Highlanders cleared Griethausen, close to the Rhine. Scots from Ontario raiding halfway from Kellen to the Emmerich ferry encountered stiff opposition. German flooding north of Kleve increased.

The Germans yesterday still were near enough to Kleve to shell it heavily.

South and southeast of the cleared Reichswald the Germans pulled back to the line of the Niers River, which already has been crossed and bridged by the Allies.

Germans Hurled Back.

East of Kleve, Germans of three parachute divisions were thrown back and the sting was taken from their counterattacks, Associated Press correspondent Roger D. Greene reported.

The total of prisoners in the six day Canadian offensive rose to 5,300.

The village of Hasselt, 3 miles east of Kleve and 4 miles northwest of Calcar, was taken in a mile advance. Troops who captured Bedburg advanced more than a mile beyond it on the road to Udem.

The Germans blew more dykes on the Rhine north of Kleve, sending fresh torrents into the flooded region. Allied engineers countered by dynamiting other dykes which swamped the enemy.

CANADIANS GAIN NEW BRIDGEHEAD AT RIERS RIVER

Powerful Wedge Slowly Turning Flank of Northern End of Siegfried Line.

FOUR COUNTERDRIVES

Almost 8,000 Allied Warplanes Batter German Defense Installations.

PARIS, Feb. 14—(AP) While almost 8,000 Allied warplanes battered German installations from the Siegfried line to the Russian front today, British and Canadian forces lunged nearer Hitler's industrially vital Ruhr valley against resistance that began to slacken after a week of steady pressure.

The Canadians advanced all along the front of their powerful wedge which is inflexibly turning the flank of German divisions holding the northern end of the Siegfried line and the Rhine plain.

They pushed to points northeast of Kleve, four miles southeast of Kleve, cleared the Kleve forest three miles north of Goch and established a second bridgehead over the Niers river, west of Kessel.

Four Counterattacks

The German command hurled at least four counterattacks against the Canadian units driving eastward, but they were officially described as generally lighter than previous counterthrusts and all were repulsed, some with the aid of Allied planes.

Allied vanguards, muddy and tired from their terrific effort of the past week, stood and cheered as wave upon wave of fighters and fighterbombers tore into the attacking Nazis and magnificently-aimed artillery sent sheets of steel through the enemy's ranks.

Under this terrible assault the German infantry and armor broke, and tonight apparently was pulling back into prepared positions under dogged pressure by Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery's men.

For once the weather was against the Germans. Brilliant springlike sunshine flooded the battle zone as the enemy launched his counterattacks, enabling Allied planes to take to the air in the greatest numbers since the Canadians opened their push west of Kleve last week.

One Allied column was fighting forward within a mile and a half of the heavily-fortified road center of Goch, eight miles south of Kleve. Goch already was outflanked by the capture of Bedburg and Hasselt, twin towns east of Kleve. Another road center, Calcar, was the objective of other British troops who neared Moyland, three miles to the northwest. Moyland is 18 miles from the important Ruhr valley city of Wesel.

Outflanking Nazis

As a result of these advances and the cleaning-out of the Reichswald forest, Montgomery's forces were through the main belt of the original Siegfried line and threatened to turn the northern flank of the Westwall. Once they reach the Rhine to the east they will be in position to sweep southward and roll up German defenses between the Rhine and the Meuse.

On the southern flank of the offensive front, Scottish troops pushed steadily down a road toward Afferden on the east bank of the Maas. A field dispatch said that both bridgeheads over the Niers river in the vicinity of Bennep and Viller had been expanded in heavy fighting. One was more than a half-mile deep.

Allied troops were within a few hundred yards of Kessel, road hub at the southern edge of the Reichswald, and its capture was believed near. The Kleve state forest, at the eastern edge of the Reichswald, was almost cleared. Three of the enemy's strongest counter-attacks were made in this vicinity, just southeast of the captured village of Bedburg.

Despite flooded fields which forced them to use amphibious tanks and other vehicles, Canadian forces pushing eastward from Kleve entered Beyen, more than halfway to the Rhine, but withdrew later. Many roads east of Kleve were inundated, and the Nazis continued to open dikes and flood gates to hamper the Allied advance.

The U. S. Third army—the only other major unit of Gen. Eisenhower's massive forces now participating in the attack from the west—scored gains up to a mile in expanding its Wallendorf-Echternach bridgehead south of captured Pruem.

Doughboys of the Fifth division pushed halfway through the village of Ernzen, two miles north of Echternach, and reached a point beyond Ferschweiler, three-quarters of a mile from the Pruem river. A field dispatch said German artillery fire had decreased markedly in that sector, indicating that the enemy was pulling back to new positions.

On the First Army front, just to the north, Lt. Gen. Courtney M Hodges' forces used mortars and artillery to break up German preparations for a strong attack in the Hellenrath sector. The Nazis were observed hurriedly digging defenses on the east side of the flooded Roer river three miles east of Hurtgen. The First army captured only 22 prisoners in the past 24 hours.

Allied headquarters reported that the Roer, along which the American First and Ninth and the British Second armies are standing, had receded four inches from its highest point by late Tuesday, but still was five to six feet above normal as a result of the enemy's breaching of dams at its headwaters. The river's present average depth is between 11 and 12 feet.

Taking advantage of the bright weather, the Ninth Tactical Airforce flew more than 200 sorties and blasted targets from Dusseldorf to Coblenz, including Nazi headquarters at Bad Ems, five miles east of Coblenz, which was set ablaze. Some 2,000 Allied planes flew in direct support of the British and Canadian drive in the north.

Air activity alone enlivened the Seventh Army front, with Allied planes renewing their attacks on German-held towns. Drusenheim, in the path of the 36th Division, was heavily bombed.

'Gag' Scares Germans

Americans' Razor-Tipped Guns Bring Quick Surrender

IN GERMANY (AP).—One "secret weapon" which a group of doughboys invented as a gag turned out to be quite effective.

In the battle for Brest they found a cache of German straight-edged razors. Led by Staff Sergeant Elmer F. Coverdale, of Milford, Del., and Sergeant Obie C. Peadon, Pensacola, Fla., several infantrymen tied the razors to their rifles and called themselves "The Razor Squad."

In the subsequent street fighting many terror-stricken Germans surrendered at the sight of rifles tipped with sharp-slashing razors.

"It was just a gag for us," said Coverdale. "But the Jerries could not figure out what kind of troops they were up against."

Gen. W. E. Dean Named To Command 71st Division

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE UNITED STATES 7th ARMY, Feb. 14.—Brig. Gen. William F. Dean, 45, Salt Lake City, Utah, is the new commanding general of the 44th Infantry Division now in the line in Alsace. He succeeds Maj. Gen. Robert Spragins, who led the division at Cherbourg.

Gen. Spragins, whose home is at Huntsville, Ala., was evacuated because of ill health. He formerly commanded the 71st Division.

It also was disclosed that Maj. Gen. W. W. Eagles, former commander of the 71st Division, recently was wounded severely in action.

Announcement was made that the 6th Corps, originally organized in Italy June 14, 1944, now is a part of the 7th Army. Brig. Gen. Carl Baehr, one-time West Point football player, has been commanding the corps' artillery since Anzio.

GERMANS RELYING ON MYSTIC FAITH

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY, Feb. 14—(AP) Mystical faith rather than secret weapons now keeps up the morale of German soldiers, testimony of prisoners increasingly shows.

Only a few weeks ago, captured Germans still boasted of astounding weapons which the German general staff would throw into the balance and thus assure victory. They told of German reserves, a strategy of surprise attacks. They referred to a new air force in the making and to new gasoline substitutes.

This kind of talk is giving way to irrational explanations for belief in victory. Such conceptions as manifest destiny, divine providence, faith in Hitler, and belief in miracles are an integral part of their talk.

They remind questioners of the dark days of Frederick the Great who came out on top despite overwhelming odds, and recall episodes in the careers of other German leaders.

It is the 21-and 22-year-old lads who speak this way. For instance, a 21-year-old SS man, declared that "since 1940, I believe in miracles. Those early German victories cannot be explained rationally."

A 22-year-old sergeant said, "it is Germany's destiny to be the leader in Europe. You need merely go back in German history to prove it."

POLES IN EXILE LEADER TO MEET REPORTERS TODAY

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP) Premier Tomasz Arciszewski, having bitterly denounced the big three's Polish decision, has arranged to meet American and British newspaper correspondents tomorrow to explain further his government's waning cause.

The 68-year-old leader of the Polish government in exile is expected to elaborate at the press conference on the reasons for his government's rejection of the Crimea conference proposals.

London Poles called on Polish armed forces under their command to remain calm and continue the fight alongside soldiers of the United States, Britain, Canada and France, "to whom they are tied by bloodshed in common battle."

No reference to Russia or the Crimean decisions was made in the statement, issued by the exiled government's ministry of information.

"The esteem and friendship for Poland which has grown up during the service, full of sacrifice, which Polish forces have given among the free people of the west are still in possession of the Polish Republic," the statement added.

Thousands of Polish troops are in Italy, France, Scotland and England and all are directly under the Polish administration here. The future status of these forces became a matter of conjecture, since it is generally agreed that Arciszewski's government will not retain recognition in London and Washington long.

Sources close to the exiled regime said its cabinet had not considered what step Arciszewski would take when Britain and the United States withdraw recognition in favor of a new provisional government.

"One thing is certain," one of them declared. "This government will continue to carry out its duties as long as it can."

Urges Troops to Carry On.

London, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—The London Polish Government in Exile, which repudiated the Big Three plan for Poland, called today on its armed forces to remain calm and carry on the fight alongside the soldiers of Britain, Canada, the United States and France, "to whom they are tied by bloodshed in common battle."

The statement made no reference to Soviet Russia.

Premier Tomaz Arciszeski's regime declared last night that the Big Three's intention to create a Polish provisional government of national unity "can noly legalize Soviet interference in Polish internal affairs."

London Poles said the Arciszewski Government would regard severance of territory in eastern Poland through placing of the Polish-Russian frontier along the Curzon line as "a fifth partition of Poland, now accomplished by her allies."

NAZIS FAN HATRED AS DEFENSE DEVICE

'Kill, Murder and Poison' Foe, They Urge People—Himmler Picks Unknown Aides

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Nazi propagandists exhorted the German people today to "cast overboard our last scruples" and "kill, murder and poison" their enemies.

Charging that the Crimean declaration expressed the Allies' aim "not only to cut off Germany's head and limbs, but to exterminate us," Radio Commentator Joseph Saal declared: "Our last scruples must be cast overboard and all-out fanatical resistance must be the laconic reply to the pact of our enemies."

The exhortation to murder came from Paul Schmidt, German Foreign Office spokesman, as quoted by the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet in a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent. Schmidt, the dispatch said, also contended at a press conference that the Big Three declaration released Germany "from all moral scruples."

Food Situation Worsens

As the propagandists fanned the hate campaign, there were increased reports of troubles within the refugee-ridden Reich. The Nazi Government acknowledged that the food situation had deteriorated, making new demands upon farmers to "supply bread for soldiers and workers of this battle."

The Moscow radio reported food riots in Berlin, with "armed patrols guarding food stores." The same source, in a German-language broadcast, quoted German prisoners as saying Elite Guard troops had dispersed peace rioters in Leipzig.

Moscow also claimed information that the Nazis were feverishly transforming Bavaria in southern Germany for a last-ditch defense, "constructing subterranean hangars and hiding stocks of arms and food brought from all parts of the country."

Unknown Put in Command

Nazi Home Front Commander

Heinrich Himmler has put the "politically reliable" but unknown former commander of the Twenty-fourth Armored Division, Lieut. Gen. Ritter von Hauenschild, in command of the defense of Berlin and Brandenburg Province, the British radio said.

The broadcast, recorded by the Office of War Information, said command of the approaches to Berlin was shared by four persons: Himmler, who commands the Central Army Group; Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, commander of the Berlin Volkssturm; Lieut. Gen. Emil Remer, commander of German forces in the Kuestrin sector, and General von Hauenschild. At the time of the attack against Adolf Hitler last July 20, Remer, then a major, was credited with having foiled an attempt to take over the Berlin government.

Three high Nazi officials in Baden have been sentenced to death by a special German court, reportedly for saying "the war is lost," the Paris radio said in a broadcast heard by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The report said "the Storm Troop leader of Baden and Alsace, the Minister of the Interior in Baden, Dr. Karl Pflaumer, and the Minister of Public Education in Baden" had been sentenced because "they had entered into a dispute with Gauleiter Walter Wagner and had accused him of public corruption in service."

"Besides," said the broadcast, "they had dared to say 'the war is lost.'"

The two other Baden officials were Walther Kohler, head of the province, and Karl Gaertner, Educational Minister, according to the National Broadcasting System.

Swedish press dispatches reported that a large-scale "compulsory evacuation" of eastern Saxony was under way and that Nazi party officials were fleeing Prague in fear of Czechoslovak revenge.

Nazis. He decided to go ahead and take the consequences. For that his commander kept him under arrest for ten days and threatened him with confinement in a concentration camp.

When the Ninety-fourth Infantry Division increased its pressure the commander ordered the priest to take a machine pistol and fight. The priest took the pistol and walked up to the front lines. He kept right on walking—into the American lines.

Today, over a loudspeaker, his voice rumbled two miles deep into the German lines. The slim, bespectacled priest said:

"As your comrade and chaplain I want to say a few words. When I was captured I was received here with open arms.

"I want to implore you now, my comrades, to cease these unholy doings, this murder. Put your weapons away; come over to us here, because it is senseless to continue fighting.

"First, there is the enormous superiority of the Americans in weapons, tanks and airplanes as well as personnel.

"Secondly, why do we fight at all? Do you really believe that Adolf Hitler and those officers close to him can give you the promised peace? No, never, comrades. Because a man ridden by the devil can never bring peace to our fatherland. Innocent blood has flowed because of this man who is a partner of the devil."

The priest said in an interview that 178 priests had been drafted from Cardinal Innitzer's diocese. With Sgt. Richard Ury of San Mateo, Calif., and Lieut. Alois Liethen of Appleton, Wis., translating, he declared most men of his unit believed the war would be over soon and continued to fight only because of officers' threats.

Marshall Visits Fifth Army At Front, Praises Teamwork

By SID FEDER

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 14—(AP) Gen. George C. Marshall told Fifth Army soldiers during a tour of the Italian front today that by holding a large German army in Italy they had prevented it from bolstering Nazi forces on the eastern and western fronts.

It is estimated the Nazis have 27 divisions in Italy.

In a surprise visit enroute home from the Crimean conference, the U. S. Army Chief of Staff made a three-day tour of the Fifth Army sector, Marshall was overseas for the first time since his new five-star insignia as a General of the Army.

He made one stop at the place the GI's have been calling "Death Valley" since the Germans threw some 1,500 rounds of ammunition into it last December. It still is under perfect observation from the enemy-held hills.

Later the same afternoon he climbed a muddy trail to a forward observation post from which he could see virtually the entire eastern sector of the Fifth Army front.

He brought from the Big Three meeting a general picture of the final blows to be made against Germany for the officers and enlisted men here all the way from the rear echelons to the front.

As he concluded his tour, during which he made some 15 stops, Marshall declared "such a spirit of common purpose, such teamwork, make certain the destruction of German military power."

Marshall was accompanied by Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of U. S. Army Forces of the Mediterranean theater; Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the Allied 15th Army group, and Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., commander of the Fifth Army.

His statements obviously pepped up the troops, many of whom have been overseas battling the axis more than three years.

At conclusion of his tour, which marks his first visit to the Italian front since last June, Marshall issued a prepared statement saying that what he saw was "very reassuring."

"The difficulties of a mountainous country with few roads and winter conditions are very real," the statement said. "The strength of the enemy's defensive positions in such country equally is apparent.

"Under these conditions our U. S. troops and those of our Allies have done a splendid job and made a great contribution to the war. A large German force has been held in Italy and prevented from bolstering the enemy's hard-pressed troops on the eastern and western fronts.

"The infantry has borne the greatest burden of the struggle but has been strongly supported by the perfect cooperation of the air, artillery and other arms of the service. The supply of troops has been made possible by the really magnificent work of the engineers in the mountains.

"The strategical air force in Italy has struck an unending series of blows against enemy production centers and communications despite usual inclemency of the weather.

"Probably the most impressive phase of the operations in Italy is the degree of cooperation and unity evidenced by the Allied composition of the forces. The guard of honor which met me at Gen. Clark's headquarters was composed of military representatives of 12 nationalities in the Fifth and Eighth armies and paraded as one body commanded by one officer."

Germans Probe Actively At Allied Lines in Italy

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 14.—The entire Italian front subsided into minor patrol clashes and artillery duels today, with the Germans probing more actively at Allied lines.

A Brazilian platoon with artillery support raided an enemy-held hill a mile east of Gaggio, 29 miles southwest of Bologna, and engaged the Nazi defenders in a sharp clash, Allied headquarters announced.

South of Bologna an enemy patrol was driven from Montecalderaro and a small party was captured near Frassinet. In the Tyrrhenian coastal sector, American tanks made a demonstration which drew enemy fire in the vicinity of Gallicano.

Similar activity was reported in the 8th Army sector. A German combat patrol was repulsed with losses in an attack on an Allied outpost on the east side of the Senio River north of the Bologna-Faenza highway.

Brazilians Attack Hill Near Gaggio

ROME, Feb. 14. (AP)—Brazilian troops in platoon strength and supported by artillery attacked a German-held hill near Gaggio, 29 miles southwest of Bologna, and engaged the Nazis in a stiff fight, Allied headquarters announced today without giving details of the engagement.

Otherwise the Italian front had subsided to minor patrol clashes and artillery duels. South of Bologna, an enemy patrol was driven from Monte Calderaro. Another small Nazi group was ambushed and captured near Frassinet.

Near the west coast, where an attack by the U. S. 92nd Division failed to gain ground last weekend, American tanks made a demonstration in the vicinity of Gallicano and drew prompt and heavy enemy fire. Similar small actions were reported from the mud-bound Eighth Army front along the Senio River in the Po Valley.

More than 500 U. S. heavy bombers with fighter escort flew from Italy and attacked railyards in the Vienna and Graz areas in Austria and at Maribor in Yugoslavia yesterday. In all, Allied planes flew some 2,400 sorties during the day, losing 15 craft.

Amnesty Marks End Of Greek Martial Law

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Simultaneous with lifting of martial law in Greece British Minister of State Richard K. Law announced in Commons today that general amnesty would be granted for "all political crimes" committed since beginning of the Greek revolt.

Even critics of British policy in Greece applauded.

The British Foreign Office released the preamble to the agreement signed in Athens by the Greek government and the EAM. It specified that one chief characteristic of the pact must be "respect for liberties which the Atlantic Charter and the decisions therein proclaimed."

Stettinius Leaves Moscow By Plane

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius left Moscow by air Wednesday, a broadcast from the Soviet capital heard in London tonight reported.

A guard of honor lined the path to the secretary's plane at the central airdrome and he was accompanied to the field by officials of the Soviet foreign ministry and U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

PAPER SHORTAGE

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP) Der Angriff, Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' own newspaper, will publish its last edition next Saturday, the Berlin radio announced today, leaving the Berliner Nachtausgabe the only afternoon paper in the Nazi capital.

Growing restrictions on the German press, the broadcast said, have cut publication of the Berlin Illustrierte and Illustrierter Beobachter to a very limited number of copies, most of which will be sent abroad.

Nazis Credit New Type U-Boat With Torpedoings

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—The German communique said today that U-boats equipped with air masts had sunk eight ships totaling 51,000 tons in waters near the British coast and on "the Seven Seas."

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill announced several months ago that the Germans were fitting their submarines with an air intake like a periscope which permitted the U-boats to remain submerged for longer periods.

TOLEDANO CALLS A. F. L. DISRUPTIVE

London, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—V. L. Toledano, criticizing the American Federation of Labor for refusing to participate in the world trade union conference, declared today that the A. F. of L. was "the most disruptive force on the American continent." Senor Toledano, president of the Latin-American Federation of Labor, questioned whether any new world labor organization would be successful if the A. F. of L. became a member.

"They have told us that if the Soviets come in one door, they would go out the other door," the Mexican labor leader said. Apparently seeking some sort of a showdown, Senor Toledano suggested that "this congress make public an invitation to the A. F. of L. to join us."

Senor Toledano favored a plan by Sidney Hillman of the C. I. O. for a new world organization, and said that the present organization was a product of the last war and "we must forge a new weapon—a new weapon for the working classes of the world."

Says Japs Won't Reject Peace

Tokyo Commentator Asserts the American Plan of World Domination Is Clear.

London, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—A Tokyo radio commentator told the world today that it is Japan's policy not to reject any hand that offers peace.

The commentator made his assertion during a discussion of the decisions announced by the Big Three at the Crimea conference.

"The American plan of world domination is clearly recognizable," the broadcaster said. "The only way to re-establish peace in the world is by a just policy as outlined by Foreign Minister Shigemitsu.

"Shigemitsu's principle is not to reject any hand that offers peace."

Nazi radio propagandists adopting the line followed by Tokyo radio yesterday, told the German people today that Stalin had "won" the Crimea conference at Yalta.

"The conference was a resounding triumph for Moscow," declared a DNB broadcast. "Great Britain and the United States have consented to recognize the Lublin committee. The Balkans are to remain the uncontested zone of influence of Moscow."

The broadcast asked the German home front to fight back "with fanatical willpower. Ninety millions of Germans cannot be simply exterminated."

Canadian Navy Head Denies Big Increase In U-Boat Activity

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Feb. 14.—Navy Minister Angus MacDonald said at a press conference yesterday that it was "certainly not" true to say ships were being torpedoed day by day in the Atlantic.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, defense minister, said in a Grey North by-election campaign speech January 24 that "today the North Atlantic is, as it hasn't been for months past, alive with German submarines. We are having ships torpedoed day by day."

A reported recalled this statement and asked: "Is this true?"

"No, certainly not," Mr. MacDonald replied.

He said U-boat activity in 1944 was "very much less" than in 1943. However, U-boat sinkings in the last few months have been greater than in preceding months.

No comment was forthcoming immediately from Gen. McNaughton.

Meanwhile, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative national leader, said in a statement that Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King should replace Gen. McNaugton immediately and "bring to the office a man whose policy will command the confidence of our fighting men and the people at home in Canada."

This, he said, was the only course Mr. King could follow in the light of the result of the Grey North by-election in which Gen. McNaughton was defeated. Mr. Bracken described the defeat as a "clear and unequivocal reply" to the "King-McNaughton policy of a limited draft" of men for service overseas.

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, a special adviser to the President, left by a special plane today for Italy and was expected to confer with his chief there.

The President is expected to inspect war ruins in Italy and return to various spots he visited in that country as a young man.

It is quite conceivable that after a stay in Italy the President will come to France, where arrangements to receive him have been made both by the French government and by Allied Supreme headquarters.

High-ranking administration officials and army officers have been summoned to be prepared to meet the President. Judging from this the President may intend to make inquiry into the problem of the relief of the French civilian population. It is reported that White House directives for more of this relief have not been fulfilled.

One of the war's greatest scandals may come out in this connection if Mr. Roosevelt visits France.

He is expected to take advantage of his sojourn to persuade General de Gaulle to forget the blow to France's pride in her exclusion from the Yalta meeting of the Big Three. The President could depict all the benefits for France in wholehearted, enthusiastic cooperation within the proposed United Nations organization.

All arrangements of the President's tour are subject to change. While there are no indications that the President is ill, there is no doubt that the Crimea conference has been a hard strain on him

Roosevelt May Visit Pope In Trip to Italy, France

Churchill and Eden Receive Ovation from Throngs in Athens.

By EDWARD KENNEDY AND JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, Feb. 14 — (AP) President Roosevelt is expected to visit Italy and call on Pope Pius, and perhaps come to France during his current visit abroad, it was reported ... today.

Meanwhile, both French and American authorities here are standing by for news from Italy, where Mr. Roosevelt is reported preparing to receive a group of White House correspondents flown from Washington for a press conference on the Big Three meeting. (This reference apparently was to certain White House reporters, including an Associated Press representative. There has been no Washington announcement of their trip pending formal clearance from abroad).

In Washington, Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information said he assumed that the scandal mentioned by Kennedy was the failure to ship as much civilian supplies into France as planned before the invasion.

"However, this government made no promise that I know of," Davis said. "The estimates on shipment planned following D-day was our guess rather than any pledge of performance."

In this respect, Mr. Davis said, the French situation differed from Italy where there were actual promises of greater food shipments which the Allies found it impossible to make good.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(AP) President Roosevelt's reported plan to visit Italy stirred speculation today that he may be exploring the possibility of establishing friendly relations between the Kremlin and the Vatican.

Would Close Great Gap

Such an approchment, which is not considered out of the question among diplomats here, would close, at least formally, the last great gap in the ranks of those forces destined to wield powerful influence in Europe and the world after defeat of Germany and Japan.

Certainly it was evident, even under the restrictions of censorship, that a visit by the President to Italy would offer an opportunity for an extraordinary meeting with Pope Pius, and Kennedy, in fact, said it was expected that he would call on the head of the Roman Catholic church.

Now that the Big Three powers have agreed on a program of joint action for liberated Europe and control policies for Germany, possibly the greatest remaining uncertainty in European affairs is the relationship between the Kremlin and the Vatican.

The headquarters of Communist Russia and the Roman Catholic church have not had diplomatic or political relations since the revolution gave Russia Communism and set it at odds with most of the world. The Communists' militant atheism put them into conflict with religious movements and leaders all over the world and their specific split with Catholicism has been deep and wide.

It has been a factor in many world issues and recently it has been reflected in a long-distance exchange of arguments, through the Moscow and Vatican City press, over the respective Russian and Catholic approaches to the defeat of Germany and establishment of peace in Europe.

It doubtless has also been a great though often submerged factor in more specific European political problems. Poland, where the Russians are demanding a pro-Soviet government as one guarantee of their security in future, is a Catholic country.

Report of Roosevelt Visit to Marseille Lacks Confirmation

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 14.—The newspaper France Libre published an unconfirmed report today that a plane carrying President Roosevelt from the Crimean conference had landed a few hours at the Marignane Airport outside Marseille.

The French news agency and Allied news sources with correspondents at Marseille said they had no confirmation.

NEW DECLARATION ON ITALY LIKELY

ROME, Feb. 14—(AP) Britain and the United States were reliably reported today to be preparing to issue another joint declaration regarding Italy—a statement which, informants said, will promise greater economic aid and lift some of the control of administrative affairs without granting Italy full Allied status.

The declaration, expected to be announced soon in Washington and London, was reported to have been agreed upon after the British steadfastly refused the suggestion of some American officials that the present armistice be scrapped for a new accord in which the Allies would lethin military rights necessary for prosecution of the war in Italy.

The new pronouncement, it was reported, will hold Italy to its "armistice" status, although some of the terms of the armistice will be relaxed. The secret clauses of the surrender document signed by Marshal Pietro Badoglio in September, 1943, however, will remain known to only a few men.

Why these clauses never were made public is a mystery to most observers. Last summer President Roosevelt said there was no objection to their publication and both governments of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi have declared that for their part they were willing to have them known.

In a recent statement United States Undersecretary of state Joseph C. Grew cited military reasons as responsible for the decision not to publish the terms at this time. Those who want them made public, however, say it is difficult to understand what compelling military reasons there are for secrecy.

Two U. S. Army Schools To Be Opened in France

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 14.—The United States Army indicated today it expects the war to continue awhile when it announced opening of two schools. One is to train sharpshooters and the other is to turn out second lieutenants.

The sharpshooter school will train thousands of riflemen and the officers' school is expected to turn out 1,000 second lieutenant platoon leaders per month in a streamlined 12-week course, with the first graduation slated for the latter part of May.

The new officers' school will have a capacity of 4,000 men per month. It will be staffed with instructors brought from Fort Benning, Ga.

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—The City Council decided today to change the name of the Avenue de Tokyo on the Seine's right bank to the Avenue de New York.

3 More Yanks Sentenced

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—Three more enlisted men were sentenced to from three to four years in prison yesterday after pleading guilty to wrongful disposition of United States Government property in the railway battalion black market cases.

Chief Rabbi of Rome Resigns To Be a Catholic

Takes Pope's Name in Gratitude for Pontiff's Aid to Jews

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—Israele Zolli, Chief Rabbi of Rome, and his wife were baptized into the Roman Catholic Church today at the Church of St. Mary of the Angels, after he had resigned his post and declined the presidency of the Rabbinical College.

He is taking the name Eugenio Maria in honor of Pope Pius XII (Eugenio Pacelli) for the aid he gave Jews in Rome during the German occupation. She is taking the name Emme Maria.

The two announced that they would be confirmed and take communion within a few days, along with a daughter who is betrothed to a Catholic.

Is a Noted Scholar

A noted scholar, who served as chief rabbi of Trieste for thirty years, the seventy-three-year-old Rabbi Zolli went into hiding in Rome when the Germans took over control of Italy. During that period, with a price of 300,000 lire on his head, he found refuge twice with Catholic families "who had never heard of me, and they treated me like their father." He repeatedly expressed his gratitude to the Vatican for its labors on behalf of Nazi-persecuted Jews in Italy. Long acquainted with Pope Pius, the former rabbi was the only Jew ever appointed to work in the Vatican on exegesis of the Old Testament.

Vatican Denies Attack On Big Three Decisions

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14.—The Vatican Secretariat of State today described as without foundation reports published abroad quoting authoritative Holy See quarters as expressing fears that the Big Three Crimean decisions would sow the seed of future war. (The reports were not carried by the Associated Press).

There was no direct comment on the Crimean conference from the Vatican.

Soviet Press Says Security Red Objective

Hails San Francisco Conference as Important Step to Peace.

DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Feb. 14. (AP)—The Russian press, describing postwar international security as the main objective of Soviet foreign policy, looked forward today to the United Nations conference in San Francisco on April 25 as an important step toward that goal.

Soviet newspapers did not publish the declaration of the London Poles against the Polish settlement reached by the Big Three at the Crimean conference. In recent months Russian publications have called the leadership of the London Polish government "anti-Soviet" and "reactionary."

Three Objectives

The government newspaper Izvestia attributed these three objectives to "the broad masses of the Hungarian people" now that Budapest has been completely liberated: the creation of a democratic army for war on the Nazis, eradication of "Fascistic feudal reaction" within Hungary by agricultural reform, and the "just fulfillment of the armistice terms."

Izvestia said people's courst had been widely established in liberated Hungarian territory "for the trial and punishment of Fascist criminals."

Committees of peasants have been formed to distribute estates of more than 143 acres on behalf of an "army of 5,000,000 landless or nearly landless farmers," it said.

Quotes Communique

Quoting from the Crimean conference communique regarding Allied readiness to assist former Axis satellites to reach a democratic solution of their political and economic problems, Izvestia said:

"Hungary must get rid of the past. The Hungarian provisional government is going in the direction of democratization of the country and is closely linked with the new foreign political line and mobilization of the country for liberative war."

The choice of San Francisco for the United Nations conference appeared to meet widespread Russian approval. Soviet delegates expected to find it convenient to reach by ship from Vladivostok or by plane over the Alaska route.

U. S. Secretary of State Stettinius' visit to Moscow was front page news in Russian newspapers, which stressed the applause he received when he attended the ballet last night at the Bolshoi theatre. A detailed chronicle of the round of official functions in Stettinius' honor left no doubt of the warmth of the Soviet welcome.

Five Soviet Air Officials Die

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Soviet Commissariat for the aviation industry announced today the deaths "on duty" of Major Generals Vasily Dubov and Piotr Feodorov, Colonels Alexander Komarov and Dmitri Timofeiev and the assistant department chief of the commissariat, Yakov Girich. It was assumed the five were killed in an airplane crash.

SAYS YALTA MARKS HUNGARIAN COURSE

Moscow, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—The Crimea conference has charted the future course for Hungary, the Government newspaper Izvestia said today.

Citing the planned assistance of former Axis satellites in a democratic solution of political problems, the newspaper said that "the Hungarian Provisional Government is going in the direction of democratization of the country, and is closely linked with the new foreign political line and the mobilization of the country for a liberative war."

With Budapest freed, Izvestia said, the Hungarian people now have three major objectives: the creation of a democratic army for war on the Nazis; eradication of "Fascistic feudal reaction" by agricultural reform, and the "just fulfillment of the armistice terms."

Committees of peasants have been formed to distribute estates of more than 143 acres, on behalf of an "army of 3,000,000 landless or nearly landless farmers," it said.

Swedish Intervention In Norway Proposed

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 14. — Public appeals from a Swedish bishop and a political mass meeting called on the Swedish government yesterday to prepare to take all steps possible, even military if necessary, in order to assist Norwegians against the Nazis.

These expressions, apparently fired by last week's Nazi terror wave in which 34 patriots were executed in Oslo, were the first recent outbursts of public opinion urging intervention in Norway.

Churchill, Eden In Athens; Get Big Reception

Thousands Applaud In Outdoor Ceremonies —Briton Speaks

ATHENS, Feb. 14 (AP)—British Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arrived in Athens by plane late today and received a stirring ovation from thousands of Athenians at a ceremony in Constitution Square.

Churchill, in a short speech full of enthusiasm and optimism, told the assemblage, "these are great days. These are days when darkness rolls away and the future lies before your country."

He emphasized the long friendship between Britain and Greece and expressed hope for the unity and prosperity of the Greek people.

Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, also was in Churchill's party.

Hold Conference

After the speeches Churchill and Eden held a 45-minute conference with Greece's Premier Nicholas Plastiras and Foreign Minister John Sofianopoleus. British and diplomatic advisers were present.

Later Plastiras held an informal reception at his offices in the old palace and tonight the Greek regent, Archbishop Damaskinoy, tendered a banquet to the visitors.

Churchill was reported greatly touched by the warmth of the welcome accorded him and to have promised Plastiras he would make every personal effort to assist Greece in her rehabilitation.

Special editions of Athens afternoon newspapers had carried the story that the two British statesmen were expected to visit the Greek capital and make a public appearance at the tomb of the unknown soldier in Constitution Square.

Urge Populace

The papers urged the populace to be present and a vast crowd assembled in the square two hours before Churchill and Eden arrived.

The crowd cheered as aircraft circled over the city in the cloudless Spring sky, and broke into new roars later as an automobile procession brought the distinguished visitors to the square.

Churchill rode in an open car with Archbishop Damaskinos, the Greek regent, preceded by British armored cars, Lt. Gen. R. M. Scobie in his own yellow limousine and other cars carrying British and Greek officials.

The regent, first to speak, said, "This is a great day for Greece. Mr. Churchill's presence proves the interest of his mighty country for Greece. It is a happy event because it coincides with the signing of peace in Greece and the three power conference in the Black sea. Greeks remember warmly Mr. Churchill's first visit to bring peace to this country and therefore receive him with much joy."

Thanks Him

"On behalf of the Greek people I want to thank him," the regent concluded. "I thank him and wish success in all his efforts. Long live Churchill. Long live Britain. Long live the United Nations."

Churchill then spoke, after prolonged cheering and cries of "Zito Churchill."

The British prime minister said, "These are great days. These are days when darkness rolls away and the future lies before your country. There has been much misunderstanding and ignorance of our common cause and misrepresentation of the issues fought out here in Athens."

"Speaking as an Englishman," Churchill continued, "I am very proud of the part the British Army played in protecting this immortal city from violence and anarchy.

"Our two countries long have marched along the dusty road together in friendship and loyalty. The freedom, prosperity and happiness of the Greek people are dear to all nations of the British Commonwealth and Empire. We who have been associated with you in every struggle for Greek victory will march with you until the end of the dark valleys. We will march with you until we reach the broad highlands of justice and peace."

CHINESE WIDEN GAP IN CANTON RAILWAY

Recapture Pingshek to Hold 16 Miles of Line to Hankow, but Lose in Kiangsi

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Japanese hold on the Canton-Hankow railroad has been broken with the recapture by Chinese forces of the town of Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, the Chinese High Command announced today.

Chinese troops are in possession of a sixteen-mile section of the railway extending north from Pingshek, the announcement said.

The Japanese recently claimed their forces occupied the entire length of the railroad. Repair of sections of the track torn up by the Chinese would have given the enemy rail communication from Korea and Manchuria to Canton and Hong Kong.

The High Command also claimed that the Chinese had achieved control of a ten-mile stretch of the highway running northwest from Lokchong, a railroad town 150 miles north of Canton.

Fighting continued west and northwest of Tzehing, twenty-five miles northeast of the railroad town of Chenhsien, eighty miles south of Hengyang, as well as at a point north of Yungyun, the immediate objective of the Japanese column moving southeastward from Kukong, 125 miles north of Canton, the Chinese reported. Yungyun is a highway center east of the railroad and about 100 miles northeast of Canton.

The High Command acknowledged that the Japanese had expanded their holdings in Kiangsi Province with a slash eastward from Yungsin, 125 miles east of Hengyang. It said that on Feb. 7 the Japanese drove from Yungsin toward Taiho, thirty-five miles away, but were repulsed Saturday after reaching a point twelve miles from their objective.

The Chinese communiqué contained no information to support a Japanese claim that columns of their forces from Kanhsien in Kiangsi and Namyung in Kwantung had effected a junction. This, if true, would mean that the Japanese had encircled a large area east of the railroad.

CHINESE VICTORY

Chungking, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—Counter-attacking Chinese forces have recaptured Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, and now control a sixteen-mile section of the vital Canton-Hankow railroad, the High Command claimed today. The Chinese-held section of the rail line extends northward from Pingshek.

CHINA COMMUNISTS REJECT 4 OFFERS

Gen. Chou Returns to Yenan With New Proposals—Hurley Aids in Negotiations

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 14 (AP)—China's Communists and the Chungking Government, whose long-standing differences have been declared a hindrance to China's war effort, have been negotiating for two weeks with the assistance of the United States Ambassador, Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, Information Minister Wang Shih-chieh disclosed today.

The Communists, after the two weeks of discussion, rejected a four-point settlement offered by the Chungking Government. Then the Government made new proposals which the Communist delegate, Gen. Chou En-lai, has taken back to Yenan, Mr. Wang declared.

The Government made a number of "important concessions" in the negotiations, according to Mr. Wang, who was one of the negotiators. Among them, he said, were these:

(1) A readiness to recognize the Chinese Communist party as a lawful political party.

(2) Inclusion of a high-ranking Communist official in the national military council.

(3) Inclusion of Communist representatives and representatives of other political parties in the Executive Yuan, with a view of forming a sort of wartime cabinet.

(4) Establishment of a committee of three to consider a reorganization of the Communist army and the question of their supplies, with Government and Communist representatives on the committee having equal status and with possibly an American army officer presiding.

"The Communists considered these proposals unacceptable," Mr. Wang said, "and rejected them, although they brought forth a proposal to convene a conference of all political parties."

The Chungking government, "in compliance with the general idea of this request," has offered to convoke a conference of the Kuomintang [Government party], the Chinese Communist party and other parties, as well as some nonpartisan independent leaders, to consider interim measures of military and political unification pending the convoking of a national congress, Mr. Wang said.

"As to the final outcome," the Minister continued, "I shall make no forecast. In the course of the negotiations we appreciated the disinterested but friendly efforts of United States Ambassador Hurley in bringing the two sides together and in helping to create a better atmosphere for negotiations."

Chinese Communists Reject Chungking's Settlement Offer

Government Sends New Proposals to Yenan by Returning Delegate

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Feb. 14.—Gen. Chou En-lai, Communist delegate, has rejected the Chungking government's proposals for a settlement of the Communist question and has returned to Yenan, Information Minister Wang Shih-chieh announced today.

Wang disclosed, however, that the government had made new proposals which Chou is taking back to Yenan with him.

Concessions Made.

Wang, one of the government's representatives in the two-week negotiations with the Communists, said the government had made a number of "important concessions," including these:

A readiness to recognize the Chinese Communists as a lawful political party.

Inclusion of a high Communist official in the National Military Council.

Inclusion of Communist representatives and representatives of other political parties in the executive Yuan, with the view of forming a sort of wartime cabinet.

Establishment of a committee of three to consider reorganization of the Communist army and the question of that army's supplies, with possibly an American Army officer presiding.

"However, the Communists considered these proposals unacceptable and rejected them, though they brought forth a proposal to convene a conference of all political parties," Wang said. "It is in compliance with the general idea of this request that the government has again consented to convening a conference of the Kuomintang (the government party), the Chinese Communist party and other parties as well as some nonpartisan independent leaders to consider interim measures of military and political unification pending a convocation of a national congress."

The information minister added: "In the course of the negotiations we appreciated the disinterested but friendly efforts of the United States Ambassador, Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, in keeping the two sides together and in helping create a better atmosphere for the negotiations."

BRITISH AFRICAN UNITS IN BURMA

KANDY, Ceylon, Feb. 14 — (AP) East African units of the British 14th army, operating approximately 105 miles southwest of Mandalay, have captured the Burmese town of Seilpyu on the Irrawaddy river and seized large stores of Japanese equipment, the southeast Asia command announced today.

In northern Burma Chinese first army troops consolidated positions on the Burma road above Lashio yesterday, strengthening the defenses of the new overland supply link.

The headquarters communique said five Allied planes were missing from widespread air attacks including a low-level strike by heavy bombers which wrecked a main bridge and its by-pass on the Burma-Thailand railway.

Allies Capture Town On Irrawaddy River

KANDY, Ceylon, Feb. 14.—East African troops have captured Seilpyu on the Irrawaddy River about 105 miles southwest of Mandalay, seizing large stores of Japanese equipment, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

In Northern Burma, Chinese 1st Army troops consolidated positions on the Burma road above Lashio yesterday, strengthening defenses of the new overland supply link.

Five Allied planes were reported missing in forays which included the destruction of a main bridge and its by-pass on the Burma-Thailand Railway, the Allied communique said.

China Accepts

CHUNGKING, Feb. [illegible]—China has accepted an invitation to be one of the sponsors of the United Nations conference opening at San Francisco on April 25 and has agreed on voting procedure in the peace security organization it is to set up, Information Minister Wang Shih-chieh announced today.

Likely to Oppose Jewish State

CAIRO, Feb. 14 (AP).—Palestine, which is under British mandate, has sent a delegate to represent Drafting of the Alexandria Protocol, with its resolutions relating to independence for Lebanon and Syria and unalterable opposition to creation of a Jewish state in Palestine, into a formal instrument of policy was expected to be the main action.

Manila Knockout Blow Loosed as Cavite and 2 Airfields Are Seized

End of Trapped Japs Near, MacArthur Says; Enemy Losses Heavy

By the Associated Press

MANILA, Feb. 14.—American troops, advancing among ruins strewn with bodies of the enemy, loosed the decisive blow for Manila today at Japanese cornered in an area of 3 square miles near the Pasig River's mouth after other doughboys on the southern outskirts seized Cavite naval base and two airfields.

"The end of the enemy's trapped garrison is in sight," Gen. MacArthur announced on the 12th day since his columns entered the city.

Doomed to be added to the more than 68,000 enemy casualties on Luzon Island in five weeks, the Japanese survivors within Manila are massed behind thick walls of the centuries-old Intramuros, within government buildings and among docks.

Japs Cleared From Cavite.

Cavite, on the south shore of Manila Bay, fell yesterday. The last Rising Sun warrior was killed at Nichols Airfield near the city's southern outskirts, ending five bitter days of struggle. Nielson Airfield, on the southeast, was cleared of the foe.

Most of the enemy's big guns within Manila have been silenced. Thousands of Japanese have died here, adding heavily to casualties which during the fifth week of the Luzon campaign exceeded 20,000.

Every Yank knows the last Japanese will fight as long as there is one man left with a gun. Enemy troops man the thick walls and fill the narrow streets of the Intramuros (Walled City), built by the Spanish who founded Manila in 1571.

Thirty-seventh Division infantrymen of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, using flame thrower, rifle and bayonet, moved on the Intramuros after a slow push through streets and alleyways, over and around wrecked houses, churches, hospitals and cemeteries. Many Japanese yet to be added to the casualty lists are buried in the debris.

Nichols Field Captured.

The 1st Cavalry Division of Maj. Gen. Vern D. Mudge, which crossed the Pasig on the eastern edge of Manila and skirted the devastated battle pit of the 37th, plunged all the way west to Manila Bay yesterday through suburban Pasay.

Below Pasay, the 11th Air-borne Division of Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing snuffed out all enemy resistance at Nichols Airfield. Other elements captured Cavite. That naval base, which the Americans destroyed prior to abandoning Manila without a fight late in December, 1941, yielded 10 enemy seaplanes and a battery of 3-inch guns. They were seized intact.

American casualties for the fifth week rose from 7,076 to 9,683. The totals consisted of 2,102 killed—an increase of slightly over 500 in a week—192 missing and 7,389 wounded.

Out in Manila Bay, Japan's silenced fortress of Corregidor was blasted with 150 more tons of bombs Monday, today's communique disclosed. This followed a 200-ton bombing during a 48-hour period ending Sunday night. Corregidor bars fleet usage of Cavite.

Planes Strafe Bataan.

Other planes strafed enemy troops on Bataan Peninsula, where 700 tons of explosives were unloaded over last week end.

In Central Luzon, where a drive to the east coast at Dingalan Bay cut the island in half, Maj. Gen. Edwin D. Patrick's 6th Division has reached Baler Bay, 20 miles north of Dingalan, and occupied an abandoned airfield.

On the west side of the island near Lingayen Gulf, the Yanks at hard-won Rosario beat off a night raid by the enemy. Farther down the west coast, the 40th Division of Maj. Gen. Rapp Brush, which secured big Clark Air Center, still is mopping up enemy remnants in the mountain range which flanks that base.

Air blows reported today included the damaging of a 2,000-ton enemy cargo ship off Amoy, China; the sinking or damaging of four ships along the French-Indo China coast, the downing of a float plane off Saigon and destruction of rolling stock on Formosa.

Smoke billowed from Fort Santiago, Gen. MacArthur's peacetime headquarters in Manila, which the Japanese turned into a headquarters for gendarmerie inquisition.

Several men crawled through the fire and battle from the fort to American lines. They were in such condition they could not tell the story of the people of all nationalities who until recently were known to have been held in the fort.

Throughout the day refugees, both Filipinos and neutrals, streamed through battle-wasted areas south of the Pasig to American bridgeheads. The story they told of their existence, and of the death of families and friends, was not a pretty one.

The wife of a well-known automobile agency official said her husband, a neutral, survived seven days in the midst of battle, only to be shot by a Japanese as he was leaving his shattered home to seek safety across the river.

Civilians in Manila Slaughtered by Japs

American Infantry Pushing Forward Inexorably in Bitter Fighting.

By C. YATES M'DANIEL

MANILA, Thursday, Feb. 15—(AP) Fighting for each street intersection, American infantrymen pushed forward inexorably with caution Wednesday toward the South Manila Bay front while enraged Japanese killed civilians in cold blood and dynamite and fired sections of the city so well known to tourists.

The enemy demolition fires blackened the skies as the Yanks tightened a circle on doomed Nipponese weakened but still fighting in an area between Pasig river mouth and the bay front.

Explosions and flames swept over the bayside stretch from the port area south to the Pasay residential sector.

The devastation, threatening to match that wrought on Manila's ravaged Escolta business district on the north side of the Pasig, perhaps portends the beginning of the end of Japanese ability to resist in Manila.

There was a marked falling off of Japanese artillery fire, due in large part to the fact that American guns throughout Tuesday and Wednesday bore down with concentrated deadliness upon a system of connecting fortresses in the old walled city, Intramuros, and adjacent dock area where a tiring enemy has been battling day and night for well over a week.

Thirty-seventh infantrymen fought Wednesday through to the University of Philippines campus a half mile from the high commissioner's residence on the bay front.

Until Japanese are destroyed in the General hospital, which they have converted into one of their strongest positions, the Yanks cannot safely hold the university area.

At nightfall yesterday, the [illegible] nese in the hospital were still ing back although the Am[illegible] were pouring fire into the[illegible] from three sides.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press correspondent with Maj. Gen. Oscar Griswold's 14th army corps, said:

"Generally speaking, the Japanese in South Manila now are crowded into a sector about 5,000 yards long from the Pasig river south to Harrison Field and 2,000 yards inland from the bay front.

"It is not a large area and the Japanese there have taken a terrific beating but it still is a dirty house-to-house fight with American tanks being called in for point blank fire in every block."

Yanks on historic Bataan peninsula won 11 miles of the bay's eastern arm by driving down the peninsula shore to Abucay.

Out in the bay, Corrigidor, barring entry of American warships, was battered by 107 more tons of explosives aimed by bombardiers of Liberators at its coastal batteries.

The Japanese, who have wantonly shot down civilians in the streets and even fired into their houses in South Manila, are still believed to have many Filipinos and other nationals with them inside the Intramuros, thus forcing caution on the attacking Americans.

("We do not hold the lives of civilians in low esteem," Arthur Feldman, Blue network correspondent said, in a broadcast from Manila today saying the Nipponese would make their last stand in the walled city. Feldman pointed out the walls are 40 foot thick at the base and wide enough at the top to serve as a road for a jeep.)

Front line reports increasingly depicted a story of horrors as the enraged Nipponese in South Manila turned ruthlessly against unarmed Filipinos.

(George Thomas Folster, NEC war correspondent in a broadcast today reported "wanton mass murder by the Japs of men, women and children who were burned or machineguned"—burned if they remained in the houses the enemy fired; killed if they emerged.

(He said some civilians were bayoneted or hacked to death with sabers).

The Japanese, committed to die-and-destroy tactics, were fighting stubbornly from entrenchments along the once-magnificent Taft avenue, which parallels the Manila Bay shore, dimming earlier hopes o fa speedy purge of the enemy.

Cleans Out Japs

On Bataan, the 11th Corps has cleaned the last Japanese from the base of the peninsula and has advanced 11 miles southward to capture Abucay, the eastern anchor of MacArthur's first defense line during the futile holding fight of 1942.

To the north, 40th division Yanks captured a "great quantity" of supplies in the Zambales mountains after inflicting heavy casualties on enemy pockets.

On the eastern side of the Central Luzon plain the sixth, 25th and 32nd Divisions were probing deep into the southern Caraballo mountains. There additional large stores of enemy equipmen, including four tanks, were found abandoned.

American warplanes closely supported all ground operations. They bombed widespread targets on Luzon, including artillery positions at Fort William McKinley south of Manila.

Fighter patrols raided Japanese communications o nFormosa, destroying locomotives and freight cars. The French Indo-China coast was hit by a reconnaissance plane which shot down an enemy fighter.

Japanese Raced Down Manila Streets Firing Machine Gun Bursts in Doors

MANILA, Feb. 13.—(AP) Tony Streegan said today that Japanese troops went up and down streets in Manila, opening doors and firing machine gun bursts in each house.

"I saw several civilians running from a burning house. They were shot down by Japanese machine guns," he said.

Streegan, an American who lived in Manila, spent two years in Santo Tomas before he was given a medical discharge. He and his family were living in the Paco district south of the Pasig river when the Americans arrived.

Fearful of being trapped by the Japanese he and his family ran for the river.

"Machine guns opened up on us and many of our party were killed," he said. "We got away by running through backyards and climbing fences until we met rescuing Americans."

The Streegans are again in Santo Tomas but this time it's a haven.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14—(AP) Japanese atrocities in Manila "undoubtedly will go down in history as a darker chapter than the rape of Nanking," CBS Correspondent John Adams reported from Luzon today.

Adams, who interviewed Maj Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commander of the 37th Infantry Division, said the general "was bitter in his denunciation of the Japs' ruthless destruction of the Philippine capital and the atrocities committed against the Filipino and Chinese civilians who have been trapped in south Manila."

Army photographers are documenting some of the atrocity incidents, Adams said. He related:

"At one intersection in south Manila they found the bodies of 26 civilians, of which nine were babies. It appeared that all had been bayoneted, and many of them had their hands tied behind their backs.

"It is the same story in other parts of the city. It will be a long time before the Filipinos will forget this final phase of Japanese coprosperity."

Adams quoted Beightler as saying the battle for the Intramuros (walled city) near the south Manila docks was the toughest scrap of the Pacific campaign.

Nimitz Reveals Guam Is New Headquarters

By the Associated Press.

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 14.—Marine and Army patrols—sometimes armed with guns and sometimes with loudspeakers—are clearing out the last few hundred Japanese from this island, which Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today as his advance headquarters.

Admiral Nimitz said several weeks ago he had moved from Pearl Harbor to a "forward area" to keep up with the war marching westwardly toward Japan.

Guam, long mentioned as the site of the new headquarters, also is the base of Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May's 21st Bomber Command, which dispatches Super Fortresses from the Marianas Islands to the Japanese homeland.

At this headquarters "you can get a sniper bullet from almost any area of the island," said Col. Shelton C. Zern, operations officer for the island commandant, Marine Maj. Gen. Henry Larsen.

Such fire, however, usually comes only during darkness or in unpopulated jungle areas.

IWO JIMA BOMBED

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Thursday, Feb. 15—(AP) Daily bombing of Iwo Jima, in the Volcano islands 750 miles south of Tokyo, went into the 69th day Tuesday as Army Liberators hit the tiny island with unobserved results, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Haha Jima in the Bonin group immediately north was bombed the same day, while Marine fighters hit the Palaus and attacked Yap in the western Carolines through intense antiaircraft fire. Two buildings were destroyed on Yap.

Airplane Scrap Become Watch Bands

PELELIU—(AP) Pieces of 117 Japanese planes which littered the captured airstrip here have been so popular that the scrap piles have been stripped clean.

Watch bands made of Japanese metal command a high price and small instrument panels bearing Japanese inscriptions are particulary valuable.

DRAGON FLY TACTICS

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC—(AP) Even the dragon flies learn tactics from Marine airmen, S-Sgt. Robert C. Peverly of San Diego says, telling of one which drove other insects from a food supply by buzzing them like a fighter plane going after a bomber.

Johnson to Leave Australia

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 14 (AP).—Nelson T. Johnson, American Minister to Australia, announced his resignation today and said he expected to leave Australia in April. It is not known here who will succeed him.

Venezuela Drafts War Declaration

Caracas, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—The Foreign Office announced last night Venezuela's intention of adhering to the United Nations pact and the newspaper El Nacional published the communique today under the headline "Venezuela will declare war." The brief bulletin said the Government was taking the necessary steps.

Puerto Rican Plebiscite Is Opposed by Tugwell

Governor Against It Unless It Is Authorized by Congress

SAN JUAN, P. R., Feb. 14 (AP).—Governor Rexford G. Tugwell said in a message to the Legislature last night that he opposes a plebiscite on the political status of Puerto Rico unless it is "authorized and defined" by Congress

"If Puerto Rico wants to separate herself from the United States I see no reason—except the danger to her own people—why she should not be allowed to do so," he said. "But no noisy faction ought to force it on the people of Puerto Rico."

Tugwell said the island, with its present population, could not exist alone. He added that "the United States, for its part, needs a secure arrangement for military and naval bases in the central Caribbean."

Four Share Berlin Command.

Heinrich Himmler, Nazi home front commander, has put the "politically reliable," but unknown, former commander of the Twenty-fourth Armored Division, Lieut.-Gen. Ritter von Hauenschild, in command of the defense of Berlin and Brandenburg province, the British radio said today. The broadcast, recorded here by the OWI, said that command of the approaches to Berlin is shared by four persons: (1) Himmler himself, who commands the central army group; (2) Propaganda Minister Goebbels, commander of the Berlin Volkssturm; (3) Lieut.-Gen. Remer, commander of German forces in the Kuestrin sector. (At the time of the attack against Adolf Hitler last July 20, Gen. Remer, then a major, was credited with having foiled an attempt to take over the Berlin Government); (4) Gen. von Hauenschild, in command of the defense of Berlin and Brandenburg.

U. S., Russia Compromise On Security

Substantial Concessions Made on Dumbarton Oaks Voting Procedure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Crimean compromise on Dumbarton Oaks voting procedure represented substantial concessions by both Russia and the United States along lines originally put forward by Britain, diplomats learned today.

Russia accepted the principle that a great power might be accused of real or threatened aggression before the World Security Council of which the five greatest postwar powers will all be permanent members.

Under Agreed Rule

The total council membership now planned is 11, of which six would be smaller nations. Under the voting rules agreed to, any combination of six members could agree to bring up any subject, including a charge of aggression, before the council. On this point Russia had originally held out for a system of unanimous agreement among the Big Five. Thus any accused great power would have a veto.

Russia, however, agreed at Yalta that a great power could be accused. The United States receded on an allied point involving the next step in dealing with a power accused of aggression—that is the decision on whether to apply sanctions, military or other forms of collective action against it. On this point Russia obtained agreement to a voting procedure which would require unanimous agreement of the five permanent powers. Thus any one of the powers would always be assured of an opportunity to veto the use of force in any form against itself.

Clears Way for Meet

Settlement of the voting issue, which had been left undecided by the Dumbarton Oaks conference here, cleared the way for calling the San Francisco United Nations conference April 25.

A compromise along these lines was originally propose dby the British delegation at Dumbarton Oaks but was considered unacceptable by the American and Russian delegations. However, when President Roosevelt went to the Crimea he took with him a draft of a proposal for the compromise and himself put it up to Stalin and Churchill.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, who attended the conference, told newsmen yesterday he believed the President's draft was accepted without change, but elsewhere it was learned that certain technical changes were made though the substance remained unaltered.

PEACE CONFERENCE NOW HELD LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 — (AP) Indications mounted today that the big three have definitely decided to hold a grandiose general peace conference when all the fighting is done.

This represents a change from earlier official views, especially among American authorities, that World War II would wind up with a series of piece-meal settlements unlike the long, formal peace of Paris and Versailles.

Doubtless, the conference will await the defeat of Japan. Officials hope that an international security organization will be set up by then.

The peace agency could handle many of the problems facing the Allies. It now appears, however, that the new map of the world will be drawn up in a separate, special meeting which will probably result in a treaty.

Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill referred to a peace conference in their communique on Poland. They said the extent of German territory awarded Poland would be reviewed at such a meeting.

War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, giving a first-hand report on the Big Three meeting, said "It is to be expected that there will be a peace conference."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP).—The death sentence once imposed on Private Henry Weber for refusing to drill has now been cut down to five years at hard labor. This was disclosed today by Major General Myron C. Cramer, Army judge advocate general, in a letter to Elbert D. Thomas, Democrat, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Military Committee.

Thomas became interested in the case after the death sentence was pronounced at Camp Roberts, California. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, demanded an investigation, telling the Senate: "Whoever sentenced that boy to hanging ought to be discharged from the Army."

Weber had been quoted as asking for a non-combat assignment, on the ground that as a member of the Socialist Labor party he was opposed to killing human beings. His superior officer charged him specifically with refusing to join his squad for training, a court-martial offense in war time.

Weber was convicted. The trial court itself, however, rescinded the death penalty and decreed life at hard labor. General Cramer wrote to Senator Thomas:

"The record was then returned to the reviewing authority," Cramer wrote, "who reduced the period of confinement to twenty years, and forwarded the record of trial to the office of the judge advocate general in Washington in accordance with regular procedure. The record was examined by a board of review in my office which determined that the evidence was legally sufficient to support the sentence. The case was then submitted to me as judge advocate general.

"I concurred in the holding of the board of review and recommended to the reviewing authority a reduction in the term of confinement to five years, in order to equalize the sentence in accordance with War Department policy.

"This recommendation has been acted on by the reviewing authority, who has issued a general court-martial order promulgating Weber's sentence to dishonorable discharge, total forfeitures and confinement at hard labor for five years."

"On a previous occasion," General Cramer wrote, "he was tried by a special court martial for a similar offense and sentenced to confinement at hard labor for six months. After his release, he persisted in his refusal to submit to military discipline and the present trial resulted.

"In time of war deliberate disobedience of an officer cannot be justified. The success of the Army and the security of the Navy is dependent upon instant and unhesitating obedience by every officer and enlisted man to superior authority."

Weber's Term Cut to 5 Years; Got Death in Refusal to Drill

Subs Sink 31 Jap Ships To Make Total of 1,020

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—United States submarines operating in Far Eastern waters have sunk 31 more enemy vessels, including a converted light cruiser, a converted gunboat and an escort vessel.

Large Haul

This haul of Japanese shipping announced today by the Navy, was one of the largest ever reported in a single communique. Presumably it covered a period of several months.

Non-combatant vessels claimed included 14 medium cargo vessels, a small transport, seven small cargo vessels, two medium tankers, a small cargo transport, a medium cargo transport, a large cargo transport and a small tanker.

The communique's figures boosted to 1,020 the total of Japanese vessels of all types which have fallen prey to American submarines.

The total includes 107 combatant and 913 non-combatant ships sunk.

266,000 BY-PASSED JAPANESE ON ISLES

Washington, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—Estimates of Japanese troops virtually isolated on Pacific islands run up to 266,000, a naval spokesman said today. Many have supplies on hand for extended resistance.

On some smaller islands, however, the Japanese were described as "dying on the vine" for lack of outside help. The information has been gathered by continuous air reconnaissance and through natives and prisoners. There is evidence that some effort is made to move supplies by submarine and in some instances the Japanese maintain contact by aircraft.

The by-passed enemies will have to be taken care of some time, officials feel, but there is no great haste, because they do not constitute a serious danger. So long as they remain on the islands, however, they must be watched, since clever maneuvering might make possible a Japanese air strike from the rear of the American forces, using landing strips on some islands. The areas covered by the estimates do not include the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines.

STIMSON URGES LEND-LEASE GO ON

Washington, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—Secretary of War Stimson said today that it would be a "disastrous mistake" to abandon the lend-lease program now with the Allied "net of steel" closing around the foe.

Mr. Stimson appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee which is considering a one-year extension in the lend-lease program which expires June 30. He said lend-lease has equipped in whole or in part the equivalent of 4,760,000 Allied troops at a cost of only 16 per cent of our munitions production.

"We are at the crisis of the war, but not yet at its finish," he asserted. "It would be a disastrous mistake not to continue in full effect the lend-lease act. Its extension should be adopted without delay."

Saying that lend-lease has been a "most potent factor" in welding Allied unity, he added that Allied grand strategy is following a "harmonious course" largely through its operations.

"Today we are reaping the benefits of lend-lease," he said. "The net of steel is drawn around Germany. . . . The net of conquest has already begun to be drawn around Japan. . . .

"We—together with the British and Russians—have just begun the assault on the great nation-wide fortress of Germany. . . . In the Pacific . . . we have not yet even engaged the main forces of her (Japan's) armies in their homeland. . . .

"We are at that stage of war when every ounce of our force must be thrown at the enemy."

NATIONAL DEBT CUT FAR DISTANT

Washington, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—Congressional fiscal leaders bit their lips today as they conceded that the national debtt limit will have to be boosted to $300,000,000,000 soon.

But they foresaw a chance to start whittling it down not later than two years after the war, provided, as one of them put it, "the people wake up."

Confronted with legislation to add another $40,000,000,000 stretch to the present debt limit of $260,000,000,000, the chairman and the ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee joined in demanding sharp curtailment of all Government spending.

30.24 - 22985

The debt now stands at $234,000,000,000. A month before Pearl Harbor it was $55,000,000,000.

Rear Admiral Beatty Cited

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatty Jr. has been awarded the Navy Cross by President Roosevelt for his heroism as commanding officer of the Columbia in the Solomon Islands area. Admiral Beatty was a captain at the time of the action for which he was cited, which occurred in 1943. Against a Japanese task force of superior fire power, the citation said, he fought his ship with superb skill in a victorious engagement which resulted in the sinking of five enemy warships and the damaging of four. Directed the anti-aircraft fire of the Columbia in a barrage which assisted in shooting down seventeen Japanese planes.

Byrnes Says Vodka Is Like New Corn

Washington, Feb. 14 (A. P.).—"How's the vodka?" was the first question put late yesterday to James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, on his arrival from the Big Three meeting.

"It's like new corn," he replied, and added that the Russians had a brand of vodka called "pepper" which contains red pepper.

"And boys, that has authority," said Mr. Byrnes. "When they toast in that it has strong language."

mortar fire on three Jap 75-mm guns firing point-blank at the invading American forces; then added to his laurels by rescuing a wounded buddy, at great peril to himself, during a Jap hand grenade attack.

Bogart's Diary

"I was a platoon sergeant in a with the third wave on Leyte, the rifle company. When we went in Japs were hitting us with everything they had from the ground and air. Several landing barges close to mine were bombed and sunk by Jap planes. Luckily, I escaped, but then we ran into more trouble on the beachhead.

"Three 75's were our biggest immediate worry,' the Connecticut doughboy related in an interview at Letterman General hospital, San Francisco. "They were firing point-blank at us and were not only menacing our tanks, but our infantry on the beachhead. I knew my best bet would be to get our mortars into the tank trap, where we could direct a fire at the big guns with good cover.

"It was a rough job bringing those mortars up under machine-gun and mortar fire, but we finally made it. Then we began to tee off on the Jap 75's. We picked the crews off one oat a time with battery fire. I was doing the observing and shouting fire orders from the top of the tank trap. It was wasn't easy, sticking your head up over that trench, with bullets flying at you from all directions, but somebody had to do it, and I was the platoon sergeant."

Guns Silenced

In less than five minutes, the three Jap 75's were silenced.

The Connecticut infantryman a few days later rescued a buddy, a technical sergeant from Kansas, who had been wounded by a hand grenade.

"The 11th day on Leyte, my outfit had to repel a Jap hand grenade assault while we were storming an enemy position on a hill," he releated. "I was about 25 yards from the sergeant when he was hit. He yelled for aid and then disappeared over the crest of the hill.

"How I got to him without being hit myself is still a mystery to me. Hand grenades were popping all over the place and enemy machine-gun fire was clipping the grasstops. However, I got him back over the hill, gave him sulpha tablets and first aid, and dragged him back about 200 yards to an aid station."

Not long after he had taken charge of the platoon, Sgt. Bogart himself was wounded by a Jap rifleman.

The Bronze Star winner received his training at the infantry replacement training center, Camp Wheeler, Ga. Three of his four years in the Army have been spent overseas. He planned to go back into combat after his arm has healed completely, but first wanted to spend a furlough with his father, Walter Bogart, 110 Sylvan street, Bridgeport.

Bridgeport Sergeant Silences Jap Guns, Saves Wounded Buddy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 — (AP) The fighting 24th Infantry Division can claim many heroes in its brilliant battle record in the Southwest Pacific, and one of its doughboys who helped bring fame to the division was Tech. Sgt. John Bogart, of 110 Sylvan street, Bridgeport, Conn., winner of the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement in action against the enemy.

Sgt. Bogart distinguished himself his first day on Leyte by directing

AUCTIONEER SAYS BUSINESS RUINED BY SENATE PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP) Auctioneer Jacob Goldberg today accused the Senate war investigating committee of "wrecking" his business and costing the government money thereby.

The outburst, at a shouting, uproarious session, came near the close of a hearing in which Goldberg heatedly denounced a 23-year-old story that he once offered another auctioneer a $25,000 bribe.

After four hours of testimony, Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) suspended until further notice the inquiry into Goldberg's surplus auction sales for the defense plant corp.

His voice raised to a high pitch, the 55-year-old Goldberg, president of Surplus Liquidators, Inc., shouted:

"You've wrecked my business, why don't you indict me, put me in prison, if you think I've done anything wrong."

Earlier he asserted, "that's a lie" when Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) read from a War department report of May 27, 1922 quoting another auctioneer as having said Goldberg tried to bribe him.

The report, signed by General H. L. Rogers, then quartermaster general, and addressed to the assistant secretary of war, said that the Goldberg Wrecking Co., Kansas City, Mo., had been disbarred from bidding for surplus goods.

Rogers' report said disbarment was on the ground that Goldberg had attempted to bribe Charles S. Gerth, government auctioneer at Kansas City, "to recommend acceptance of a bid of $110,000" for camp Funston, Kansas.

In the report, however, Rogers recommended reinstatement of the firm, on the ground of a conflict in testimony over whether Goldberg offered Gerth $35,000 prior to a public auction of the camp properties.

ARMY HEADS PLEA FOR NURSE DRAFT

FEB 15 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 — (AP) The army turned on its heaviest persuasive powers today in a drive for prompt enactment of legislation to draft women nurses for military service.

Secretary of War Stimson, by letter, and undersecretary Robert P. Patterson, in fighting person, hammered before the House Military committee the urgency of a draft law at once.

Patterson, a surprise witness as the committee neared the end of public hearings, tossed at the group new casualty figures showing 400,000 soldiers wounded and needing nursing care.

And then, apparently suspecting committee apathy toward the legislation requested by President Roosevelt on January 6, he asserted bluntly:

"Gentlemen, we pledged, when we declared war, our entire resources. We inducted millions of men and sent them overseas. We called on them to face the hardest ordeals and they are entitled to the best nursing care . . . The view of those responsible for military operations is the end of the fighting in Europe is not in sight, and that our forces there face a great deal of hard fighting."

Secretary Stimson, who said "we are at the crisis of the war but not yet at its finish," in advocating extension of lend lease before the House Foreign committee, sent a letter to chairman May (D-Ky) of the Military committee. It recalled the President's January 6 message and said:

"As the President so aptly stated the fact—'The need is too pressing to await the further outcome of efforts at recruitment.'"

MORGENTHAU HAILS WORLD FUND PACTS

Bretton Woods Shows We Have Ended Isolationism, He Says in St. Louis Speech

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau asserted in an address here tonight that the Bretton Woods international monetary agreements stood before the world "as a symbol of the end of economic isolationism in the United States."

Speaking to the local Chamber of Commerce, he said that America was emerging from this war in a position of world leadership and that its willingness to take a clear and firm position on the problem of international economic cooperation was "the first step in meeting the greatest challenge of all history—the challenge of a lasting peace."

While the Bretton Woods agreements among forty-four nations for creation of an international monetary fund and an international bank for reconstruction admittedly did not represent perfection, Mr. Morgenthau said, they did represent "a concrete avenue toward international cooperation on the economic front."

The underlying cause of failure to stabilize currencies after the last war was the view of each country that it was a problem of exclusive concern to each, the Secretary said, and added that the resultant instability must certainly be counted as a contributory cause of the great depression, and the first phase of the present war.

Draft-Dodger Arrest Pleases Patriotic 4-F

But Short, Flat-Footed Man Is Dejected Again When Authorities Reject Him

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14 (AP).—Red-haired George Lee Williams, twenty-one years old, was elated when police arrested him to be held for the F. B. I. in California, which said he had failed to report for induction into the armed forces.

"That's swell," he grinned, when they told him to come along to jail and the F. B. I. would see that he went into the Army.

His happiness was so great that he made the mistake of telling the police his story:

On the day Pearl Harbor was bombed Williams left for a recruiting station.

"For two days," he said, "I stood in line, first for the Army, then for the Navy. They wouldn't take me."

He registered with a Kansas City draft board and was rejected twice at the Fort Leavenworth, Kan., induction center for having third-degree flat feet. Also, he is only 4 feet 11 inches tall.

He wrote to President Roosevelt, and he showed the officers his rejection by the Adjustant General's Office.

The closest he got to the Army was playing U. S. O. shows in camps in California, where he changed his name to Robert Lee Williams and registered with a Los Angeles draft board. They didn't call him then, but when they did get around to his name they couldn't find him.

The board ordered Williams released when they learned the true story.

Two Nazi Prisoners Escape From Virginia Sawmill

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 14.—Two German prisoners of war escaped from the Weissiger saw log project at Mannboro, Amelia County, Monday night, the Richmond office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported yesterday.

There is a possibility the prisoners may have jumped on a train after walking away from the camp, the FBI report said.

The two were listed as Heinz Perau, aged 34, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weight 145 pounds; blue eyes, blond hair and fair complexion, and Nikolaus Port, 37, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weight, 150 pounds; blue eyes, gray hair and ruddy complexion.

Neither prisoner can speak English and both were wearing prisoner of war clothing.

NIMITZ SON WINS NAVY DECORATION

NEW LONDON, Feb. 14 — (AP) Twenty-three submariners, among them Comdr. Chester W. Nimitz, Jr., son of Admiral Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, received awards today at the submarine base for accomplishments in submarine warfare against the enemy, presumably the Japanese.

The 30-year-old Commander Nimitz was merely identified as the commanding officer of a submarine. The announcement of the award contained no information of his deeds as a submarine skipper. He received the Navy cross. His home is in Wellsfleet, Mass.

One New Londoner, a native of this city, was among the 23 officers and men decorated.. He is Edward Kupidlowski, chief electrician's mate son of Mrs. Stella Sloan of Poquonoc Bridge. He was presented a commendation ribbon.

The presentations were made by Rear Adm. Charles W. Styer, commander of submarines, Atlantic fleet.

STUDENTS SUSPEND PAPER IN DISPUTE

William and Mary Group Acts as Supervision Is Ordered After Racial Article

By The Associated Press.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Feb. 14—Students of William and Mary College voted today to suspend publication of the college weekly after President John E. Pomfret stated there would be faculty supervision of the paper and termination of the editorial services of the student who wrote that the time would come when Negroes should attend the college and "marry among us."

The student body, by a standing vote, decided to cease publication of the weekly, The Flat Hat, rather than have the paper "subject to advisory supervision" by a faculty committee.

A spokesman for the students said they preferred to have no paper than a faculty "censored" one. Dr. Pomfret, in his statement, said it was not proposed to set up a "censorship."

The college president said the author of the controversial editorial, Miss Marilyn Kaemmerle, 22, of Jackson, Mich., "cannot continue as editor."

Miss Kaemmerle later said that she had nothing to say except "the matter is now out of my hands."

William L. Williams of Norfolk, president of the student body, read to the students a letter from a minority faculty group. This group stated its opposition to supervision of the publication and expressed the belief that the subject of race relations was a proper one for discussion by students through their paper. Names of the minority group were not disclosed.

Dr. Pomfret said that the board of visitors and the faculty of the college had concurred in his view that supervision should be established over student publications.

"Freedom of expression has its responsibilities as well as its privileges," he said, "and it is incumbent upon the college to prevent the abuse of this freedom. This is one of the canons of responsible journalism."

TWO NAZI SPIES ARE SENTENCED TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Colepaugh and Gimpel Found Guilty by Seven Man Army Commission.

CALM AT SENTENCE

Convictions to Be Reviewed —'Received Fair Trial' Says Gimpel.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP) William Curtis Colepaugh, an American whom the prosecution called "a double-crossing traitor," and Erich Gimpel, his German accomplice, were convicted today as Nazi spies and sentenced to die by hanging.

Without displaying emotion, Gimpel—and then Colepaugh — stood before a seven man military commission and heard Col. Clinton J. Harrold, its president, say:

"This commission, by a secret written ballot, finds you guilty upon all three counts, and you are hereby sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead."

Still silent and showing no signs of faltering, Colepaugh and Gimpel were led by their guards from the courtroom and taken back to the 138-year-old Castle Williams, Governors Island guard house.

The charges against them were: They violated the law of war by secretly landing behind our defense lines from a submarine; they acted as spies in violation of the 82nd article of war and they conspired to commit espionage and sabotage.

The verdict meant that the 26-year-old Colepaugh, a native of Niantic, Conn., had tried in vain to throw off the traitor label.

He testified he went to Berlin a year ago to join the German army and was made an agent against his wishes. He said he became disillusioned with conditions in the Reich and saw in the assignment an opportunity to get away.

The closely-censored communiques of the closed trial indicated that he finally contacted the FBI—nearly a month after their landing last Nov. 29 off Hancock, Maine — and "turned in" Gimpel. Gimpel, 35, was described by Colepaugh as an important person in army security headquarters in Berlin.

Subject to Review

Before the sentences can be carried out they will be subject to review, first by Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the second service command, and then by the Board of Review of the Judge Advocate General's office at Washington.

FEB 15 1945

It took the commission less than three hours to reach its verdict, but whether it was unanimous was not known. Five votes—two thirds of the commission—were necessary to convict.

The trial was the second of its kind in this war. In the summer of 1942, a commission sitting in Washington convicted eight Nazi saboteurs who landed by submarine on the coast of Long Island and Florida.

Six were electrocuted, one was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor and another to 30 years' imprisonment.

Colepaugh and Gimpel heard the verdict about 4:15 p.m. (EWT)

The court had summoned the prosecution and Army-assigned counsel for the defense at 2:30 p.m. and asked if they had anything further to say. None did.

The commission members were asked if they had any questions. None did.

The court was cleared and closed again. It reconvened at 4:13. Col. Harrold said the commission had reached a verdict and called in the defendants.

It was over quickly. Gimpel was the first to leave the room, as he had been first to enter and leave every day. Colepaugh followed.

Gimpel Says Trial Fair

After court was adjourned, Gimpel's counsel informed the commission that Gimpel desired to say he felt he had received a fair trial and was impressed by the conduct of the proceedings.

Unlike Colepaugh, Gimpel did not take the stand during the eight day trial.

Occasionally he had smiled or conferred with his counsel as Colepaugh told this story:

He was ordered to come to the United States as "front man" for Gimpel; he "felt pretty good at being back in the United States" and had to turn in Gimpel because "I wanted to help my native country;" he lied to Gimpel about the desirability of a house on Long Island because "I didn't want to locate Gimpel where he could build and operate a radio."

Story "A Pack of Lies"

The prosecution called Colepaugh's story "brazen" and a pack of lies.

The evidence showed that Colepaugh and Gimpel distrusted each other and maneuvered to get control of the $60,000 given them in Germany for their two-year mission. FBI agents found $44,095 in Gimpel's briefcase and $10,574 and 99 diamonds in his pockets.

There was in evidence against Gimpel a statement taken by the FBI in which he said he was asked to find out about the political situation in this country. He said he was reluctant to do so, and though he was not a Nazi member he was "a good enough German to be loyal to my country" and to do "what they asked me to."

The FBI said it had known for many months that Colepaugh was in Germany and had ordered a watch for his re-entry in this country.

Counsel for both Colepaugh and Gimpel conceded in their summations that the first charge against them had been proved—that they violated the law of war by coming behind American lines secretly.

Colepaugh's counsel said the question was whether Colepaugh did so as an agent of the German Reich and with the intent to serve it.

Gimpel's counsel argued that inasmuch as the place where they came ashore, Frenchmen's Bay, Maine, was in the First Service Command, this commission — appointed by the Second Service Command—had no authority to try them.

The trial ended with no explanation of cryptic references in the testimony to the activity of "other agents."

Colepaugh spoke of a "dirty racket just being started."

Whether he meant a spy plot was not disclosed.

POLISH AMERICANS PROTEST

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 — (AP) The national committee of Americans of Polish descent, claiming to represent Polish organizations throughout the nation, telegraphed to all U. S. Senators today a protest against the decisions affecting Poland made at the Crimea conference.

Terming the decisions a "new rape on the body of Poland," the committee appealed to the Senators to oppose United States participation in the proposed "fifth partition" of the country.

JAPANESE ASSAILS CRIMEA RESULTS

ChiefPropagandistHopesNazis Will Fight All the Harder— Scores Deal on Poland

Sadao Iguchi, spokesman for the Japanese Board of Information, yesterday denounced the Allied agreement reached at Yalta as an expression of "international power politics" and restated an old Japanese propaganda argument that Japan alone sought true world peace in a system that would invite the "collaboration" of all nations, according to a Domei Agency wireless transmission directed to North America.

As recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, the Domei dispatch, using its own English translation of the statement quoted Iguchi as concluding:

"Future world peace and security cannot be found by driving hard bargains for personal gains at a cost to others but by just and honest statesmanship that is guided by the principles adhered to by Japan, which Foreign Minister Shigemitsu has explained as excluding none but inviting the collaboration of all."

Hopes Germans Won't Quit

Iguchi, according to Domei, "said that all the grandiose schemes which the three powers claim to have agreed upon are meaningless while the war continues—and the end is not yet in sight." Voicing faith that the German people would not be swayed by Allied statements from what he said was their belief in ultimate victory Iguchi commented:

"If there is any effect, it will be that the German people will be stimulated even more in their intense determination to fight with supreme vigor."

Although Japanese propaganda broadcasts for consumption at home as well as abroad have termed the Yalta agreement a victory for the Soviet Union, Iguchi devoted himself chiefly to attacking the United States and Britain and insisting that the conference had failed to achieve unity. Said Domei:

"He pointed to the realistic international politics in the anti-Axis camp, which reveals divergent aims. The purposes for which each member is fighting lead us to the conclusion that developments that are yet to unfold, whether in the military or political field, will sooner or later disprove the high claims of the Crimean conference."

Domei supplied a directed quotation from Iguchi's attack on the United States and Britain, thus:

"For all their professions of noble idealism and fair play the United States and Britain have at last definitely exposed their true and faithless nature."

Iguchi added that "they have sold Poland down the river in one of the most shameful acts in the game of power politics the modern world has known."

He Warns Small Nations

"Iguchi said that the fate of this small country is a living example of the continuing menace under which all small nations must live as mere pawns on a chessboard in international power politics," Domei continued.

On the subject of the United States, Iguchi was reported by the Japanese agency to have insisted that "America's sinister ambitions to possess the largest Army, Navy and Air Force are well known, not only to us, but even to those now supposedly allied with America."

"He added that this trend in American world policy will in itself be the foremost contributing factor in the eventual failure of the Dumbarton Oaks scheme — a failure probably more tragic than that of the old League of Nations," Domei said.

The Japanese home radio showed considerable concern over the selection of San Francisco as the site for the international security conference opening April 25.

Japan Will Not Reject Hand Offering Peace,

Tokyo Radio Says

Another Broadcast Says Nazis Will Not Give Up Before April 25 Parley

By the Associated Press.

A Tokyo radio commentator told the world in a broadcast heard in London today that it is Japan's policy "not to reject any hand which offers peace."

The commentator made his assertion during a discussion of the decisions announced by the Big Three at the Yalta conference.

"The American plan of world domination is clearly recognizable," the broadcaster said. "The only way to re-establish peace in the world is by a just policy as outlined by Foreign Minister Shigemitsu.

"Shigemitsu's principle is not to reject any hand which offers peace."

Early End of War Scouted.

In another broadcast, Domei, Japanese news agency, said America, Britain and Russia "are indulging in preposterous assumptions" that the European war will terminate before April 25, date set for the world security conference in San Francisco.

FEB 15 1945

"It is not possible that the German people, who are fighting to decide the rise or fall of a people, will submit to unconditional surrender so easily," the Domei broadcast said.

Still another Tokyo broadcast quoted "informed circles" in the Japanese capital as saying the San Francisco conference "is the result of the fact that American activities among anti-Axis nations have been temporarily recognized." It added:

"Britain, who was so intent on settling matters (at Yalta) concerning Europe * * * was powerless, and was able only to recognize and accept the will voiced by America and the Soviet Union. The recent joint communique has pointed out the sorry position that Britain now holds."

Stalin Called Winner.

Nazi radio propagandists adopting the line followed by the Tokyo radio, told the German people that Premier Stalin had "won" the Crimea conference.

"The conference was a resounding triumph for Moscow," declared a DNB broadcast. "Great Britain and the United States have consented to recognize the Lublin Committee. The Balkans are to remain the uncontested zone of influence of Moscow."

The broadcaster asked the German home front to fight back "with fanatical willpower" and disregard the "threats" of the Big Three. He asserted:

"Ninety millions of Germans cannot be simply exterminated."

Guerrilla War Promised.

A German foreign office spokesman said "Millions of us will wage guerrilla warfare; every German before he dies will try to take five or 10 enemies with him to the grave."

The spokesman, Dr. Paul Schmidt, was quoted by the German radio as telling foreign correspondents he thought the Big Three communique was "excellent, for it helps German leaders to maintain and strengthen war morale."

Contending that "there have been worse situations in the history of war than the one in which Germany is today," Dr. Schmidt said the German people "know how to defend themselves. We have gathered experience in smaller countries. Millions of Germans will pay back murder with murder."

THREE HIGH NAZIS SENTENCED TO DIE

By Associated Press.

Three high Nazi officials in Baden have been sentenced to death by a special German court, reportedly for saying that "the war is lost," the Paris radio said today in a broadcast heard here by the Columbia listening post. A series of civilian executions has been announced by the Germans in eastern front areas.

The Paris report said that "the SA (storm troop) leader of the province of Baden and Alsace, the Minister of the Interior in Baden, Dr. Karl Pflaumer, and the Minister of Public Education in Baden" were sentenced because "they had entered into a dispute with Gauleiter Walter Wagner and had accused him of public corruption in service."

"Besides," said the broadcast, "they had dared to say 'the war is lost.'" Burgomaster Schroeter of the small Pomeranian town of Koenigsberg has been hanged for leaving his town without evacuation orders; the deputy burgomaster of Breslau and the police president and other officials of Bydgoszcz were executed for "cowardice," the Germans have announced.

The National Broadcasting Company reported the names of the other two Baden officials as Walther Kohler, head of the province, and Karl Gaertner, educational minister.

KOREA AND FORMOSA RAIDED, TOKYO SAYS

Two Superfortresses "raided" an undisclosed area in Korea yesterday, the Tokyo radio said after Domei had reported that lighter bombers and fighters had carried out heavy daylight attacks on southern Formosa on Monday and Tuesday.

Quoting an announcement by Japanese army headquarters in Korea, the Tokyo broadcast said that the B-29 sorties had been carried out between 10:15 A. M. and noon, according to the Federal Communications Commission.

R. A. F. Drops Bombs in Clouds 1,000 Yards Ahead of Troops

The Royal Air Force has developed a new method of tactical bombing which permits "attacks by medium bombers through total cloud only 1,000 yards ahead of our front-line troops," the British radio announced yesterday.

"Such an attack was made a few days ago between the Maas and the Rhine," said the broadcast, recorded by the Columbia Broadcasting System. "Men of the Canadian 1st Army saw the bombs go right on a town which they captured shortly afterward.

"Blind bombing by instruments is not new, but blind bombing in the immediate battle area is. How it's done can't, of course, be revealed."

Another British broadcast, monitored by the National Broadcasting Company, gave additional details of the perfection of R. A. F. bombing technique. It quoted a commentary by Squadron Leader John Strachey as saying:

"The R. A. F. Bomber Command has developed a technique by means of which, for the first time, night bombing has come to compare in precision with daylight pin-point attacks. This brilliant and daring technique relies on instrumental navigation of the aircraft until it reaches the target, and outlining the target with brilliant, slow-dropping flares which disclose every slight detail.

"A great fleet of heavy bombers will go three-quarters of the way across Europe on instruments without the navigator ever glancing at the ground for guidance. Yet the final marking of the precise target, such as the oil plants of Magdeburg, is so exact that pilots can see not only the plant but every detail, its chimney, its powerhouses, its oil distilleries, all outlined in the brilliant light of slowly dropping flares.

"Then the heavies pile their bombs on the pin-point of light which is the burning marker lying in the heart of the plant. It's this combination of blind navigation on portation of supplies is so pressing that they cannot afford to operate their trains only at night.

Loss of Two Brothers to Bring Sgt. Stavros Pappas to U. S.

FEB 15 1945

The War Department announced yesterday that Sgt. Stavros Pappas, sole surviving son of Mrs. Despina Pappas of 45 Pinehurst Avenue, had been ordered returned from his overseas assignment because his two brothers had been lost in the war. The order was in accord with the department's policy that the sole surviving son of a family that had lost two or more sons in service should be retained in or returned to the continental limits of the country for permanent assignment.

Sergeant Pappas' brother, Sgt. Basil Pappas, was killed in action on Jan. 2. Another brother, First Sgt. Constantine A. Pappas, was reported missing in action on Dec. 23. Sgt. Stavros Pappas was born on Feb. 27, 1919, in New York City and was inducted into the Army on Sept. 9, 1942.

Mystery of Flynn's Trip To Moscow Still Unsolved

By the Associated Press.

Edward J. Flynn's mission to Moscow is still a mystery. WV STAR

Presence of the former Democratic national chairman at the Big Three's Crimea conference was disclosed yesterday at the White House. A spokesman said President Roosevelt invited him to the meeting "as an old friend" when he learned that Mr. Flynn planned a trip to Moscow. The White House said it did not know the purpose of the Moscow trip.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, just returned from the Crimea, likewise told a news conference yesterday he does not know Mr. Flynn's mission. "He did not tell me," Mr. Byrnes said, "and I did not ask him."

In New York Mr. Flynn's law partner, Monroe Goldwater, said he had not known of Mr. Flynn's plan to go to Moscow and had believed he was going to Mexico. The reason for the Russian trip is "a complete mystery" to him, Mr. Goldwater said.

Gen. von Hauenschild Put At Head of Berlin Defenses

By the Associated Press.

Heinrich Himmler, commander of the Nazi home front, has put the "politically reliable" but little known former commander of the 24th Armored Division, Lt. Gen. Ritter von Hauenschild, in command of the defense of Berlin and Brandenburg Province, the British radio said today.

The broadcast, recorded by OWI, said command of the approaches to Berlin is now shared by four persons: (1) Himmler, who commands the central army group; (2) Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, commander of the Berlin Volkssturm; (3) Lt. Gen. Remer, commander of German forces in the Kuestrin sector.

At the time of the attack against Adolf Hitler last July 20, Remer, then a major, was credited with having foiled an attempt to take over the Berlin government; (4) Von Hauenschild, in command of the defense of Berlin and Brandenburg.

LONDON, FEB. 14-(AP)-A COMMITTEE OF 11 HEADED BY AMERICAN, BRITISH AND RUSSIAN DELEGATES--SIDNEY HILLMAN, SIR WALTER CITRINE AND MAJ. GEN.TARASOV--WAS NAMED BY THE WORLD TRADE UNION CONFEDERATION TODAY TO DETERMINE WHETHER IT SHOULD UNDERTAKE CREATION OF A NEW WORLD LABOR ORGANIZATION.

THE ALTERNATIVE TO SETTING UP THE NEW ORGANIZATION WOULD BE ADOPTION OF AN INTERIM AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE PRESENT CONFERENCE.

HILLMAN URGED A NEW WORLD ORGANIZATION ON THE GROUND THAT THE INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF TRADE UNIONS IS UNPREPARED TO REPRESENT LABOR IN THE PEACE SETTLEMENTS AND TO COPE WITH POSTWAR PROBLEMS.

CITRINE, PRESIDENT OF THE IFTU, ARGUED THAT THAT UNION HAD STOOD THE TEST OF 25 YEARS, AND HE OPPOSED CREATION OF A NEW ORGANIZATION AT THIS TIME. HE URGED INSTEAD THAT AN INTERIM AUTHORITY BE EMPOWERED TO MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE ALLIED GOVERNMENTS.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE NAMED TODAY ARE S.A.DANGE OF THE ALL-INDIA TRADES UNION CONGRESS, E.THORNTON OF AUSTRALIA, H.T. LIU OF CHINA, J.KOSINA OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA, BENOIT FRANCHON OF FRANCE, BRIAN GOODWIN OF NORTHERN RHODESIA, V.L.TOLEDANO OF THE LATIN AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR AND P. IVER SCHEVENELS OF THE INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF TRADES UNIONS.

R.J.THOMAS, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED AUTOMOBILE WORKERS (CIO) AND HILLMAN'S ALTERNATE ON THE COMMITTEE, SAID THE AMERICAN DELEGATION WAS "WELL SATISFIED" WITH THE COMPSOTION OF THE COMMITTEE AND THAT A REPORT FROM IT WAS EXPECTED TOMORROW.

TOLEDANO EARLIER TOLD THE DELEGATES THAT THE AFL (WHICH IS NOT REPRESENTED IN THE CURRENT CONFERENCES) SHOULD BE INVITED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE NEW WORLD ORGANIZATION. IN AN INTERVIEW FOLLOWING HIS STATEMENT, TOLEDANO EXPLAINED HE WANTED THIS CONFERENCE TO INVITE THE AFL INTO THE WORLD ORGANIZATION "IN ORDER TO PLACE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEIR REFUSAL WHERE IT BELONGS."

RESPONSIBLE HEADS OF THE AFL, TOLEDANO SAID IN HIS ADDRESS, ALREADY HAVE MADE THE STATEMENT, "IF THE SOVIETS COME IN ONE DOOR, WE GO OUT THE OTHER."

EXCEPT FOR HOLDING ACTIONS AND REDUCTION OF BUDAPEST THESE ARMIES HAVE BEEN MOSTLY MARKING TIME SINCE THE MAIN RUSSIAN DRIVE TOWARD BERLIN OPENED IN THE NORTH MORE THAN A MONTH AGO.

FEB 15 1945

BEFORE THE GERMANS LAUNCHED A COUNTERATTACK IN EARLY JANUARY AND REGAINED SOME GROUND IN AN ATTEMPT TO RELIEVE THE BUDAPEST GARRISON, THE RUSSIAN FORCES HAD REACHED THE VICINITY OF KOMAROM, DANUBE VALLEY CITY 90 MILES FROM VIENNA. THEY ALSO WERE LESS THAN 50 MILES FROM AUSTRIA BELOW LAKE BALATON IN THE SOUTHWESTERN CORNER OF HUNGARY.

THE CONQUEST OF BUDAPEST IN 49 DAYS OF STREET FIGHTING COST THE GERMANS 49,000 MEN KILLED AND 110,000 CAPTURED, MOSCOW ANNOUNCED. IT WAS THE GREATEST SINGLE DISASTER TO GERMAN ARMS SINCE THE BATTLE OF STALINGRAD TWO YEARS AGO.

MOSCOW ANNOUNCEMENTS STRESSED THAT THE VAIN COUNTERATTACKS TOWARD BUDAPEST FROM THE NORTHWEST AND SOUTHWEST COST THE GERMANS ADDITIONAL HUNDREDS OF TANKS AND TENS OF THOUSANDS OF THEIR OFFICERS

AND [illegible]

THE ROLL OF GERMAN PRISONERS CAPTURED IN BUDAPEST WAS HEADED BY THE ENEMY COMMANDANT, COL.GEN.PFEFFER-WILDENBRUCH. IT WAS THIS OFFICER WHO IN 1938 COMMANDED THE GERMAN POLICE TROOPS WHICH TOOK OVER THE SUDETENLAND OF CZECHOSLOVALKA AFTER MUNICH -- THE FIRST NAZI SEIZURE OF ANOTHER NATION'S TERRITORY.

SOME DIRECT SUPPLY LINES TO GERMAN FORCES IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA, HUNGARY AND YUGOSLAVIA ALREADY HAVE BEEN CUT AND OTHERS ARE BEING IMMINENTLY MENACED BY MARSHAL KONEV'S WESTWARD THRUST ACROSS NORTHERN SILESIA.

FEB 15 1945

KONEV'S ADVANCE YESTERDAY SWEPT UP 150 GERMAN COMMUNITIES. IN ADDITION TO ADVANCING TO, AND POSSIBLY CROSSING, THE QUEIS RIVER, HIS TROOPS WERE MOPPING UP THE APPROACHES TO SAGAN.

CAMPS FOR AMERICAN AND BRITISH PRISONERS OF WAR ARE KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN LOCATED NEAR SAGAN, BUT MOSCOW MENTIONED NO RESCUES AND IT WAS PROBABLE THE PRISONERS HAD BEEN REMOVED TO OTHER SITES.

THE RUSSIANS APPROACHED WITHIN SIX MILES OF SAGAN BY CAPTURING JOHNSDORF, DUE EAST.

OTHER TOWNS THAT FELL INCLUDED RUECKERSDORF AND GROSSENBOHRAU, NINE AND 13 MILES NORTHEAST. THESE GAINS AND THE ADVANCE TO NEUHAMMER, 11 MILES SOUTHEAST OF SAGAN, RESULTED IN THE VIRTUAL ENCIRCLEMENT OF SPROTTAU, 10 MILES EAST AND SLIGHTLY SOUTH OF SAGAN.

KONEV'S RIGHT FLANK, DRIVING UP THE WEST SIDE OF THE ODER RIVER, ENCIRCLED GLOGAU, TRAFFIC CENTER ON THE RIVER 55 MILES NORTHWEST OF BRESLAU, AND CAPTURED BEUTHEN, ASTRIDE THE STREAM 18 MILES BEYOND.

THE GERMANS ADMITTED THAT GLOGAU WAS CUT OFF AND INDICATED THAT

30.24. 22989

BRESLAU ITSELF WAS IN DANGER OF THE SAME FATE. AT LAST REPORT, THE BRESLAU GARRISON HAD ONLY A 15-MILE-WIDE ESCAPE CORRIDOR.

BY GERMAN ACCOUNT, KONEV ALREADY HAS SENT ONE SPEARHEAD NORTH OF SAGAN TO WITHIN 20 MILES OF A JUNCTION WITH THE SOUTHERN WING OF MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S FORCES BATTERING THE KUESTRIN-FRANKFORT-FUERSTENBERG LINE EAST OF BERLIN.

THE RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE WAS SILENT ON OPERATIONS ON ZHUKOV'S FRONT, BOTH DIRECTLY BEFORE BERLIN AND IN THE THRUST TOWARD STETTIN TO THE NORTHEAST, BUT IT ANNOUNCED FIVE AND SIX-MILE GAINS IN THE CONTINUED CLEANUP OF THE POLISH CORRIDOR.

BUT THE BRITISH PRESS HAD LITTLE PATIENCE WITH THOSE VIEWS.

THE PATRIOTIC SENTIMENTS OF THE ARCISZEWSKI ADMINISTRATION IN LONDON ARE ACKNOWLEDGED BUT, LIKE ALL EMIGRE ORGANIZATIONS, THEY HAVE TO RECOGNIZE THAT EVENTS HAVE PASSED BEYOND LEGALISTICS AND CONSTITUTIONAL NICETIES."

POINTING OUT THAT THE WARSAW GOVERNMENT WOULD BE BROADENED AND THAT FREE ELECTIONS WOULD FOLLOW, THE STAR SAID, "THE LONDON GROUP SHOULD WAKE UP TO THE OPPORTUNITY EXTENDED TO ALL DEMOCRATIC POLES."

NIGHT LEAD (350)

BY ALEX SINGLETON

LONDON, FEB.14-(AP)-MINISTER OF STATE RICHARD K.LAW TOLD COMMONS TODAY THAT THE PROBLEM OF FEEDING THE HUNGRY AREAS OF LIBERATED WESTERN EUROPE "CERTAINLY IS GRAVE," BUT HE DEFENDED THE RELIEF ROLE OF UNRRA AND OUTLINED INCREASING ALLIED EFFORTS TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS.

FEB 15 1945

FRANCE NOW IS PRODUCING AS MUCH FOOD AS BEFORE HER OCCUPATION, HE SAID, BUT LACK OF TRANSPORTATION IS CAUSING "ALMOST INSOLUBLE DIFFICULTIES" AND GREAT HARDSHIPS IN SOME REGIONS.

THE STATEMENT CAME AFTER HE OUTLINED DIFFICULTIES, CHIEFLY OF TRANSPORTATION, IN FRANCE, BELGIUM AND THE LIBERATED SECTION OF HOLLAND, IN MOVING FOOD, AND HE EMPHASIZED THAT MANY OF THE REQUIREMENTS WERE "IN DIRECT CONFLICT WITH URGENT MILITARY DEMANDS."

LAW DENOUNCED AS "ALTOGETHER UNJUST" CRITICISM WHICH HAS BEEN DIRECTED AT UNRRA, REMINDING PARLIAMENT THAT THE INTERNATIONAL RELIEF ORGANIZATION IS BARRED FROM OPERATION IN ALLIED COUNTRIES EXCEPT AT THE REQUEST OF THE GOVERNMENTS CONCERNED.

"BOTH THE FRENCH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT AND THE BELGIAN GOVERNMENT HAVE PREFERRED TO TAKE ON THIS RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEMSELVES," HE SAID. "THIS DOES NOT MEAN THAT OTHER GOVERNMENTS X X X WILL NOT WISH TO HAND OVER THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES TO UNRRA, OR THAT UNRRA WILL NOT HAVE WORK TO DO WHICH WILL TAX ITS CAPACITY TO THE UTMOST."

ON THE WHOLE, HE SAID, THE SITUATION IN WESTERN EUROPE IS IMPROVING RAPIDLY WITH INCREASED IMPORTS. TO AID IN THE TRANSPORTATION SHORTAGE, THE ALLIES HAVE SENT TO THE CONTINENT 7,500 TRUCKS FOR CIVILIAN USE SINCE D-DAY, LAW DISCLOSED.

HE REPORTED ALSO THAT SEVERAL HUNDRED LOCOMOTIVES HAVE BEEN SENT OVER FOR USE OF THE ALLIED SUPREME COMMAND, WITH ANOTHER 200 GOING TO RELIEVE THE STRAIN ON FRENCH RAILWAYS.

OPENING A FORMAL REVIEW OF ECONOMIC AND SUPPLY CONDITIONS IN WESTERN EUROPE, LAW, IN AN OBVIOUS RETORT TO CRITICISM THAT THE ALLIES HAVE BEEN REMISS IN AIDING THE LIBERATED COUNTRIES, ASSERTED THAT THE FACT THERE IS "VERY GREAT HARDSHIP DOES NOT MEAN THERE IS A SERIOUS OVER-ALL SHORTAGE OF FOOD."

"NOR DOES IT MEANS," HE CONTINUED, "THAT THE PROBLEM WOULD BE SOLVED OR EVEN ERASED MERELY BY PUMPING QUANTITIES OF FOODSTUFFS INTO PORTS ALREADY STRAINED TO CAPACITY."

"BY THE TERMS OF ITS CONSTITUTION UNRRA CANNOT INTERVENE IN ANY COUNTRY UNLESS ASKED TO DO SO BY THE GOVERNMENT CONCERNED," HE SAID. "BOTH THE FRENCH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT AND THE BELGIAN GOVERNMENT HAVE PREFERRED TO TAKE ON THIS RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEMSELVES."

"THE MOST FORMIDABLE PROBLEM" WILL ARISE WHEN THE REMAINDER OF HOLLAND IS FREED, HE PREDICTED.

SEVERAL HUNDRED LOCOMOTIVES ALREADY HAVE BEEN SENT TO THE CONTINENT FOR THE USE OF SUPREME HEADQUARTERS AND ANOTHER 200 WILL BE SENT SOON, HE SAID, WHILE DELIVERIES OF TRUCKS MAY BE SPEEDED UP FROM THE PRESENT 100 PER WEEK TO ABOUT 350 BY THE END OF MARCH.

PARIS, FEB. 14-(AP)-DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN THE FRENCH CAPITAL, DEPLORING LACK OF FRENCH PARTICIPATION IN THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE, INDICATED TODAY THAT EXTENSIVE STUDY WOULD BE NECESSARY BEFORE THE GOVERNMENT COULD REPLY TO INVITATIONS TO JOIN A BERLIN CONTROL COMMISSION AND TO HELP SPONSOR THE APRIL 25 UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

THE BROAD OBJECTIVES OF THE BIG THREE MEETING, HOWEVER, MET GENERAL APPROVAL IN THE PRESS.

LES NOUVELLES EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT GEN.DE GAULLE WOULD SPEAK TO THE CONSULTATIVE ASSEMBLY BEFORE REPLYING TO THE INVITATIONS. FIGARO DECLARED FRANCE UNDOUBTEDLY WOULD ACCEPT HER RESPONSIBILITIES AMONG THE ALLIES, DESPITE LACK OF REPRESENTATION AT YALTA.

WITH THE 101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION IN ALSACE, FEB 14-(AP)-LT.COL. THOMAS J.ROUZIE NOW HAS AN OAK LEAF CLUSTER ON THE SILVER STAR HE WON FOR GALLANTRY 27 YEARS AGO AS A SERGEANT IN THE 112TH REGIMENT OF THE 29TH DIVISION FIGHTING IN THE MEUSE-ARGONNE OFFENSIVE.

ROUZIE, A FORMER OIL COMPANY REPRESENTATIVE WHOSE HOME IS AT JACKSONVILLE, FLA., WAS ONE OF A GROUP OF SOLDIERS DECORATED YESTERDAY BY LT.GENERAL ALEXANDER M.PATCH.

FEB 15 1945

ONE OF THE SILVER STARS WENT TO A SERGEANT FOR KILLING OR WOUNDING AT LEAST 50 GERMANS IN THE BATTLE OF BASTOGNE.

THE ACTION FOR WHICH ROUZIE RECEIVED THE OAK LEAF CLUSTER TO HIS OLD SILVER STAR WAS HIS PART IN FIGHTING BY GLIDER-BORNE INFANTRY IN NORMANDY A WEEK AFTER THE INVASION.

THE DIVISION HAS BEEN BUSY SINCE D-DAY, BUT THE BASTOGNE INCIDENT SLOWED UP THE WORK OF ISSUING CITATIONS FOR ACTIVITY EARLIER.

IT WILL BE SOME TIME BEFORE MANY OF THE AWARDS WILL BE PRESENTED FOR HEROISM AT BASTOGNE, BUT SGT.S.L.GRAHAM OF CRESTON, LA., WHO USED TO WORK IN A CASKET FACTORY AT SHREVEPORT, WAS ONE OF THOSE ON WHOM PATCH PINNED A SILVER STAR IN YESTERDAY'S CEREMONIES.

ON THE DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS NEAR BASTOGNE GRAHAM KEPT FIRING HIS .30 CALIBRE MACHINEGUN AT GERMAN INFANTRY DESPITE THE FACT ENEMY TANKS OVERRAN HIS POSITION. HE STAYED AT HIS GUN FOR MORE THAN SIX HOURS AND BROKE THE SPEARHEAD OF THE GERMAN ATTACK, THE CITATION SAID. HE ALSO WON THE PURPLE HEART.

BESIDES A SERGEANT OF THE LAST WAR WHO NOW IS A LIEUTENANT COLONEL, THE 101ST HAS A FORMER FRENCH ARMY OFFICER WHO IS NOW A SERGEANT. HE IS CHARLES MAYER, 44, FORMERLY OF 152 WEST 57TH ST., NEW YORK CITY, WHO WAS THE COMMERCIAL ATTACHE OF THE FRENCH PAVILION AT THE WORLD'S FAIR IN 1939.

MAYER WON THE BRONZE STAR FOR HIS DIRECTION OF ARTILLERY AT ZON, HOLLAND, LAST SEPTEMBER. A FORMER LIEUTENANT OF THE FIFTH REGIMENT ENGINEERS IN THE FRENCH ARMY, HE ALSO WEARS THE CROIX DE GUERRE.

FEB 15 1945

AFTER THE OUTBREAK OF THE PRESENT WAR THE VICHY GOVERNMENT ORDERED HIM TO REPORT TO IT. HE REFUSED. AT THE TIME HE WAS THE MEDITERRANEAN EXPORT MANAGER FOR A PACKING COMPANY. WHEN THE UNITED STATES CAME INTO THE WAR HE JOINED THE U.S. ARMY AS AN INTERPRETER AND GAINED HIS AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP.

WITH THE 83RD INFANTRY DIVISION, FEB. 14-(AP)-THE GERMA FINALLY KILLED BILL MILLER JUST LIKE THEY KILLED HIS FATHER 25 YEARS AGO, BUT NOT UNTIL THE DOUGHBOY FROM ILLINOIS HAD KILLED AT LEAST 70 OF THEM AND STOPPED AN ENEMY COUNTERATTACK SINGLEHANDED.

OTHER SOLDIERS OF THE 83RD INFANTRY DIVISION WILL TELL YOU DES PLAINES, THAT PFC. WILBER C.MILLER OF 1520 ALGONQUIN ROAD, (BLANK) NEVER FORGAVE THE GERMANS FOR KILLING HIS FATHER. HE ALWAYS INSISTED THE SECOND WORLD WAR THE GERMANS STARTED WAS HIS PERSONAL AFFAIR.

~~(EDS: WE'RE CHECKING FOR HOME TOWN)~~

IN NORMANDY'S HEDGEROWS HIS BROWNING AUTOMATIC CUT DOWN MANY A GERMAN UNTIL A SLUG IN THE HIP PUT HIM IN THE HOSPITAL.

HIS PALS WILL TELL YOU THAT WHILE HE WAS CONVALESCING FROM THAT WOUND BILL MILLER USED TO PRAY FOR RECOVERY SO THAT HE COULD GET BACK INTO THE LINE. WHEN HE LEFT THE HOSPITAL, MILLER HAD A LIMP. THREE TIMES HE WAS OFFERED REAR ECHELON ASSIGNMENTS, BUT TURNED THEM DOWN.

HIS DIVISION LAID SIEGE TO THE GERMAN TOWN OF BIRGEL, WEST OF DUEREN. THE GERMANS OPENED A COUNTERATTACK THE MORNING OF DEC. 15 AND FANNED OUT INTO A MUDDY COMMUNICATION TRENCH IN FRONT OF BILL MILLER'S POSITION.

FIRING STEADILY TO KEEP THEM DOWN, THE ILLINOIS SOLDIER MOVED ACROSS THE FROZEN GROUND TO VERY EDGE OF THE TRENCH. THEN HE SPRAYED THE TRENCH FROM ONE END TO THE OTHER, KILLING EVERY GERMAN IN IT.

REALIZING THAT ANOTHER WAVE OF GERMANS WAS ATTACKING, MILLER DROPPED IN AMONG THE ENEMY DEAD AND WAITED, RELOADING WHILE HE STOOD

THERE AND SQUINTING OUT OVER THE TOP OF THE TRENCH.
THEN THEY CAME FOR HIM--40 TO 50 GERMANS. MILLER SQUEEZED HIS TRIGGER. HW EIPED OUT THE WHOLE ATTACK, AND FORCED ANOTHER 80 MEN TO SURRENDER RATHER THAN FACE HIS DEVASTATING FIRE.

THEN THEY CAME FOR HIM--40 TO 50 GERMANS. MILLER SQUEEZED HIS TRIGGER. HE WIPED OUT THE WHOLE ATTACK, AND FORCED ANOTHER 80 MEN TO SURRENDER RATHER THAN FACE HIS DEVASTATING FIRE.
THAT WAS BILL MILLER'S GREATEST MOMENT. PERHAPS HE HAD THOUGHT ABOUT IT WHEN HE WAS A BOY, WONDERING HOW THINGS MIGHT HAVE BEEN IF HIS DAD HAD BEEN ALIVE TO GO FISHING WITH HIM.
BUT JUST THEN AN ENEMY POTATO MASHER GRENADE WHISTLED INTO HIS TRENCH FROM A HIDDEN POSITION AND IT KILLED HIM.

HIMSELF SLIGHTLY NICKED, MORESCHI PLUNGED INTO THE ICY WATER, WITH GERMAN MACHINEGUN FIRE GOING OVERHEAD. FOR MORE THAN AN HOUR HE FOUGHT THE POWERFUL CURRENT, FINALLY REACHING THE OPPOSITIVE SHORE A MILE DOWNSTREAM. SEARCHING XXX AROUND HE FOUND A LITTLE BOAT AND ROWED THE WOUNDED MEN BACK AGAIN XXX DESPITE HEAVY ENEMY FIRE.

RELUCTANT TO TALK ABOUT HIS DEED, MORESCHI SWITCHED THE CONVERSATION TO HIS CHEAP WATCH WHICH WAS STILL-RUNNING. "IT SURE TOOK A BEATING," HE SAID.

THIRD LEAD WESTERN FRONT

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS, FEB 14--WITH MASSED GUNS AND UNDER CLOUDS OF PLANES, CANADIAN FIRST ARMY TROOPS CRUSHED SIX FORMIDABLE COUNTERATTACKS TODAY AND WERE ADVANCING TONIGHT BEYOND THE BREACHED SIEGFRIED LINE AT THE TOP OF THE WESTERN FRONT.

ONE COLUMN WAS WITHIN A MILE AND A HALF OF HEAVILY FORTIFIED GOCH. ANOTHER MAJOR ROAD CENTER, CALCAR, WAS APPROACHED BY TROOPS WHO NEARED MOYLAND, THREE MILES NORTHWESTWARD. GOCH WAS OUTFLANKED BY THE CAPTURE OF BEDBURG AND HASSELT EAST OF KLEVE. MOYLAND IS 18 MILES FROM THE RUHR VALLEY RAILHEAD OF WESEL.

FEB 15 1945

THE BEATEN AND SORELY WOUNDED GERMANY INFANTRY, TANKERS AND PARACHUTE TROOPS APPARENTLY WERE FALLING BACK INTO PREPARED POSITIONS BETWEEN THE RHINE AND THE MEUSE IN A DESPERATE EFFORT TO STEM THE ALLIED FLANKING THREAT TO THE RUHR. THEY WERE LASHED BY THE MIGHTIEST AIR OFFENSIVE YET VISITED UPON THE FOE IN THE SIX-DAY OFFENSIVE.

EAST OF KLEVE AND THE CAPTURED REICHSWALD, THE CANADIAN ARMY WAS THROUGH THE MAIN SIETFRIED BELT AND HAD VIRTUALLY TURNED THE NORTHERN FLANK OF THAT PORTION OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE WEST OF THE RHINE. ONCE THEY NEGOTIATE THE WATERY WASTES BETWEEN KLEVE AND THE RHINE, CROSS THE NIERS IN FORCE AND CAPTURE GOCH, THEY WILL BE IN A POSITION TO ROLL UP GERMAN DEFENSES BY SWEEPING SOUTHWARD BETWEEN THE RHINE AND THE MEUSE.-,2))346

WAVE AFTER WAVE OF ROCKET-FIRING TYPHOONS FLEW LOW OVER THE FOE TO HURL THEIR DEADLY LANCES. WITH FLAMETHROWERS, TANKS AND BAYONETS, THE CANADIAN, BRITISH, SCOTCH AND WELSH TROOPS COMMANDED BY GEN. HENRY CRERAR ADVANCED UP TO TWO MILES IN MUD AND ICY FLOOD WATERS OF THE RHINE NORTHEAST OF KLEVE. THE SCOTS ATTACKED WITH BAGPIPES SKIRLING.

GOCH, MEETING PLACE OF 11 ROADS AND RAILWAYS, WAS OUTFLANKED BY THE CAPTURE OF HASSELT AND BEDBURG EAST OF KLEVE. KELLEN AND GRIETHAUSEN FELL.

THE NEAREST APPROACH TO GOCH WAS A WELSH SMASH INTO A STRONGPOINT AT ASPERBERG, ON THE MAIN HIGHWAY FROM KRANENBERG.

ADVANCING A MILE BEYOND BEDBURG, THE CANADIANS MOVED WITHIN 19 MILES OF THE RUHR AND ITS NEAREST RAILHEAD OF WESEL.

THE AMERICAN THIRD ARMY IN THE CENTER OF THE WESTERN FRONT ADVANCED UP TO A HALF MILE THROUGH NEW GASHES TORN THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED LINE SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM.

THE ROER RIVER RECEDED FOUR INCHES FROM FLOODS LOOSED BY BREACHES IN THE HEADWATER DAM GATES, BRINGING CLOSER THE TIME WHEN THE AMERICAN FIRST AND NINTH AND THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY COULD SHAKE OFF THEIR ENFORCED IDLENESS. THE RIVER WAS REPORTED WITHIN ITS BANKS ALONG 60 PER CENT OF ITS COURSE. WATERS STILL WERE HIGH AND WIDE ON THE NINTH ARMY SECTOR SOME 60 MILES SOUTH OF THE ATTACKING CANADIANS.

SCOTTISH TROOPS BRIDGED THE NIERS NEAR ZELDERSCHEMEIDE, JUST WEST OF GERMAN-HELD KESSEL ON THE APPROACHES TO GOCH. STREET FIGHTING ERUPTED IN NEARBY VILLERS. THE SCOTS BEAT DOWN A TANK-SUPPORTED COUNTERATTACK NEAR THE BORDER IN THE GENNEP AREA.

THE HARD ATTACKS OF THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN THE NORTH ATTRACTED MORE AND MORE GERMAN TROOPS TO THAT IMPERILLED AREA CLOSE TO THE RUHR VALLEY. FEB 15 1945

THE FIFTH DIVISION OF THE U.S. THIRD ARMY SOUTH OF PRUEM GAINED A QUARTER MILE AND FOUGHT HALFWAY THROUGH ERNZEN, NORTH OF ECHTERNACH. OTHER MEN OF THAT RED DIAMOND DIVISION ADVANCED A HALF MILE TO POINTS NEARLY A MILE NORTH OF FERSCHWEILER.

THE FOURTH (IVY) AND 80TH (BLUE RIDGE) DIVISIONS REPULSED THREE SMALL COUNTERATTACKS NORTHEAST OF PRUEM AND NORTHWEST OF ECHTERNACH. THE THIRD ARMY CAGED 461 PRISONERS YESTERDAY.

4 CRERAR'S CANADIAN, ENGLISH, SCOTTISH AND WELSH FORCES WIDENED STEADILY THEIR BREACH IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE BETWEEN THE MAAS AND RHINE RIVERS, SPEARED BEYOND KLEVE AND EMERGED FROM THE EASTERN EDGE OF THE PILLBOX-STUDDED REICHSWALD. SOUTH OF THAT FOREST THEY ESTABLISHED A BRIDGEHEAD OVER THE NIERS RIVER.

5 AIR SUPPORT WAS GIVEN THE TROOPS BY APPROXIMATELY 1,000 BRITISH PLANES WHICH HAMMERED AWAY AT THE NAZI FORCES, NOW ESTIMATED AT SEVEN DIVISIONS.

IN THE NORTHERN SECTOR THE CANADIAN FORCES BATTLED THEIR WAY

OVER FLOODED TERRAIN INTO GRIETHAUSEN, LESS THAN THREE MILES FROM THE INDUSTRIAL CITY OF EMMERICH (POP. 14,650) ACROSS THE RHINE AND ABOUT 20 MILES NORTHWEST OF WESEL.

FEB 15 1945

THE FIGHTING NORTH AND EAST OF KLEVE WAS DESCRIBED AS THE HEAVIEST TO DATE IN THE SEVEN-DAY-OLD CANADIAN FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE.

SOUTHWEST OF KLEVE CRERAR'S FORCES WERE ENLARGING STEADILY A BRIDGEHEAD OVER THE NIERS MORE THAN A MILE EAST OF CAPTURED GENNEP, FRONT ADVICES SAID LAST NIGHT. THREE MILES SOUTHEAST OF GENNEP AN ARMORED PATROL STABBED INTO HOMMSERSUM AND RETURNED WITH 60 PRISONERS TO BRING THE TOTAL TAKEN YESTERDAY ON THIS SECTOR TO 5,000.

HOMMSERSUM IS FIVE MILES DUE WEST OF GOCH. THE SOUTHEAST EDGE OF THE REICHSWALD IS ABOUT TWO MILES NORTH OF GOCH. CANADIAN FORCES TO THE NORTHWEST WERE BELIEVED LESS THAN THREE MILES FROM THE ENEMY STRONGHOLD.

THE BREACH IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE OPPOSITE THE LUXEMBOURG-GERMAN FRONTIER WAS MADE WHEN THE U.S. FIFTH AND 80TH INFANTRY DIVISIONS LINKED UP THEIR TWO BRIDGEHEADS IN THE WALLENDORF-ECHTERNACH AREA, FORMING A SINGLE SALIENT 10 MILES WIDE AND TWO MILES DEEP.

WITH THE CLEARING OF VIANDEN, FORMER ENEMY STRONGPOINT ON THE RONTIER, THE ALLIES HELD A CONTINUOUS 145-MILE FRONT INSIDE GERMANY, STRETCHING FROM THE KLEVE AREA TO SAARBRUECKEN.

OTHER SECTORS OF THE WESTERN FRONT WERE DORMANT.

BELGRADE, FEB. 14-(AP)-THE PEOPLES OF YUGOSLAVIA ARE CLOSING THEIR RANKS, RALLYING BEHIND THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT AND TACKLING THE PROBLEMS OF WAR AND RECONSTRUCTION WITH SPIRIT, ENERGY, AND FAITH. AS A RESULT OF THE BIG THREE CONFERENCE, AN EARLY SOLUTION OF THE REGENCY QUESTION IS JUBILANTLY ANTICIPATED, PAVING THE WAY FOR THE RETURN OF SUBASIC AND THE LONDON MINISTERS.

IT IS NEARLY THREE MONTHS SINCE I FIRST FLEW BY NIGHT INTO THIS GAUNT, GREY, SHELL-TORN CAPITAL BEHIND THE ANCIENT TURKISH FORTRESS OF KALEMAGDAN. ON THE SECOND VISIT WE FLEW BY DAYLIGHT OVER A REGION NOW CLEARED OF THE ENEMY -- A TORTUOUS TANGLE OF SNOW-SWEPT MONTENEGRAN HILLS AND GORGES, WILD UNCONQUERABLE COUNTRY WHICH SEEMS TO HAVE LEFT AN INDELIBLE IMPRINT ON THE MINDS AND CHARACTER OF THE SERBS.

(MORE) SN845PEW

BELGRADE--FIRST ADD YUGOSLAVIA BY WESTERN X X X OF THE SERBS.

THE CAPITAL OF YUGOSLAVIA IS STILL GAUNT AND GREY AND LINED BY TRAGEDY, BUT THE ATMOSPHERE HAS CHANGED BEYOND BELIEF. YOU SENSE IT IN THE FACES OF THE PEOPLE, IN THE BRIGHTER STREETS, AND ABOVE ALL IN THE RELATIONS OF MEN WITH THEIR NEIGHBORS. IN THE PAST FEW DAYS IN BELGRADE, I HAVE SEEN AND HEARD MUCH WHICH MODIFIES MY EARLIER IMPRESSION OF THE BALKAN THINGS TO COME.

AS A MINOR PUNISHMENT FOR THE GERMAN PEOPLE AFTER THIS WAR, I SUGGEST AN EARLY CURFEW IN EVERY CITY, ENFORCED BY STREET PATROLS. MUCH OF THE FORLORN ATMOSPHERE OF BELGRADE LAST NOVEMBER WAS, I THINK, DIRECTLY ATTRIBUTABLE TO THE FACT THAT LIFE WAS HUSHED AT EIGHT O'CLOCK. FOR THIS THE GERMANS WERE DIRECTLY RESPONSIBLE, FOR MANY STRAGGLERS, SOME ARMED WITH MACHINE GUNS, WERE AT LARGE IN THE CAPITAL. THE RESULT WAS THAT BY NIGHT THE CITY SEEMED BLACK, EMPTY, AND THREATENING. BY SEVEN MOST OF THE PEOPLE WERE SCURRYING TO GET HOME BEFORE CURFEW, AND MANY DARED NOT RISK ATTENDING THE FEW PLACES OF AMUSEMENT WHOSE DOORS HAD OPENED.

TODAY ALL THIS IS CHANGED. THE CURFEW HOUR HAS BEEN SET BACK TO 10, LEAVING A GOOD MARGIN FOR CINEMA-SEEKING CROWDS. ON THE SERBIAN NEW YEAR'S EVE, THE CURFEW WAS LIFTED ALTOGETHER. JUDGING FROM STREET TALK IN BELGRADE, IT MAY SOON BE A THING OF THE PAST.

MOREOVER SOME OF THE BETTER THEATRES ARE OPEN. NOEL COWARD'S "IN WHICH WE SERVE" DREW APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCES, AND YESTERDAY MARSHALL TITO ATTENDED A FIRST NIGHT PRESENTATION OF SEMI-CLASSICAL MUSIC AND BALLET BY A COMPANY OF RUSSIAN PLAYERS FROM MOSCOW'S FAMOUS BOLSHOI THEATRE.

FOR ANYONE INTERESTED IN A BIT OF SHOOTING BY NIGHT, ROME, WITH ITS GANGSTER PROBLEM, IS A FAR BETTER BET THAN THIS ONCE TURBULENT BUT NOW QUIET CAPITAL OF YUGOSLAVIA.

30.21.22997

THE PROBLEM OF RECKLESS DRIVING NEVER ARISES IN BELGRADE OWING TO THE SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF PETROL AND TRANSPORT. BUT SERBS LIVING IN THE SHATTERED DANUBIAN CITY POINT WITH PRIDE TO THEIR TRAMWAY SYSTEM, WHERE TROLLEYS ARE RATTLING AGAIN.

WHERE FORMERLY ONLY A FEW INTREPID MERCHANTS HAD OPENED THEIR BATTERED AND GUTTED SHOPS, TODAY YOU CAN FIND HUNDREDS OF LITTLE BUSINESSES. MANY STORES ARE WELL STOCKED, PARTICULARLY IN SUCH LINES AS FOODSTUFFS, BONBONS, WINES, AND PAPER-COVERED BOOKS. FOR SOME PRICES ROSE STEEPLY, BUT THE GOVERNMENT ACTED ENERGETICALLY, IMPOSING CEILING PRICES TO CHECK INFLATION. I HAVE HEARD SCATTERED COMPLAINTS THAT THE PEASANTS ARE WITHHOLDING PRODUCE FROM THE MARKETS IN CONSEQUENCE, BUT HAVE SEEN NO VISUAL EVIDENCE TO SUBSTANTIATE THEM.

FEB 15 1945

THE MOST IMPRESSIVE TESTIMONY TO THE ACHIEVEMENT OF THE NEW GOVERNMENT COMES FROM THE VERY PEOPLE WHO WERE FORMERLY THE MOST OUTSPOKEN IN CRITICISM. THE MAJORITY OF THESE ARE OLD-FASHIONED SERB RIGHTISTS, WHO FELT EITHER THAT THE COUNTRY WAS GOING COMMUNIST, OR THAT HENCEFORTH THEY WOULD BE RULED BY CROATS AND SLOVENES--WHOM DICTATORSHIP HAD ONCE PERSECUTED. BEYOND DOUBT NAZI AND NEDIC PROPAGANDA WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR MUCH OF THIS TALK, WHICH FOUND ECHOES OUTSIDE YUGOSLAVIA. THEN TOO, PEOPLE REMEMBERED HOW EUSTACHI, FOLLOWING THE GERMAN DIVIDE AND RULE POLICY, HAD INCITED CROATIANS IN THE EARLY MONTHS OF THE OCCUPATION TO SLAUGHTER SERBS.

IT IS VERY EVIDENT, HOWEVER, THAT THE COUNTRY HAS NOT GONE COMMUNIST, THAT ON THE CONTRARY THE YUGOSLAVS, UNDER THE TITO'S LEADERSHIP, ARE CHARTING THEIR OWN COURSE SOCIALLY, NATIONALLY, AND IN THE ECONOIC SPHERE. PEOPLE WHO WERE ONCE ANTI-PARTISAN WILL NOW ASSURE YOU THAT REFORMS ARE LONG OVERDUE, AND THAT MANY OF THE NEW MEASURES ARE SOUND AND JUST.

MIHAILOVIC STOCK IN BELGRADE HAS FALLEN TO ZERO. THE EVIDENCE OF HIS DEALINGS WITH THE GERMANS APPEARS SO CONCLUSIVE THAT HIS FORMER SUPPORTERS HAVE TURNED AWAY IN DISGUST. WITHIN THE PAST 24 HOURS I HAVE HEARD MEN, ONCE CHETNIK SYMPATHIZERS, REMARK: "MIHAILOVIC IS FINISHED. HAD HE WON, YOU WOULD HAVE SEEN A PERSECUTION OF DEMOCRATIC ELEMENTS IN BELGRADE. WHETHER HE WAS PERSONALLY GUILTY OR NOT, HE WAS A POOR LEADER, INCAPABLE OF CONTROLLING HIS OFFICERS IN THE FIELD."

ADD TO THIS THE FACT THAT THE YUGOSLAV RENNAISSANCE HAS FIRED THE IMAGINATIONS OF THE SERBS, AND YOU HAVE THE SECRET OF THIS PROCESS OF INTEGRATION WHICH IS BRIDGING THE OLD GULFS BETWEEN THE NATIONALITIES. I THINK IT A FAIR STATEMENT THJT THE MORAL ASCENDENCY IN THE BALKAN PENINSULA HAS PASSED TO THE YUGOSLAVS, AND THAT THIS IS AN EVENT OF EUROPEAN SIGNIFICANCE.

UNDOUBTEDLY THE LIBERAL ATTITUDE OF MARSHAL TITO HIMSELF HAS CONTRIBUTED IN GREAT MEASURE TO THIS WEAKENING OF OPPOSITION FORCES. FOR EXAMPLE, SOME SERBS UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF NEDIC PROPAGANDA THOUGHT THAT THE NEW REGIME WOULD MEAN PERSECUTION OF THE ORTHODOX CHURCH. ON THE CONTRARY, I WAS ASSURED BY ONE WHO IS NOT PARTISAN THAT THE ACTING PATRIARCH HAS BEEN TREATED WITH GREAT RESPECT, THAT THE CLERGY HAVE NOT BEEN MOLESTED IN ANY WAY, AND THAT THE CONGREGATIONS AT SUNDAY SERVICES ARE IF ANYTHING LARGER THAN IN FORMER TIMES.

AGAIN CONSIDER THE MATTER OF THE REGENCY. IT WAS FALSELY REPORTED ABROAD THAT MARSHAL TITO HAD OBJECTED TO THE NAME OF GENERAL SIMOVIC. ON THE CONTRARY, I WAS YESTERDAY ASSURED BY DR. VLADISLAV RIBNIKAR, MINISTER OF INFORMATION, THAT THE BELGRADE GOVERNMENT HAS NO OBJECTION TO THE FORMER PREMIER. SUTEJ, TO WHOM THEY DO OBJECT, WAS A MEMBER OF THE GOVERNMENT OF SURRENDER WHICH SIGNED THE TRI-PARTITE PACT.

FEB 15 1945

THE ACCEPTANCE OF SIMOVIC SPEAKS VOLUMES FOR THE STRENGTH OF THE NEW REGIME. FOR SIMOVIC IS NOT ONLY AN EXTREMELY PROMINENT SERB. HE IS ALSO SOMETHING OF A NATIONAL HERO, IN VIEW OF HIS PART IN THE COUP D'ETAT OF MARCH 1941, WHICH WAS IN EFFECT AN OPEN CHALLENGE TO THE AXIS, AND WHICH CERTAINLY PRECIPITATED THE TREACHEROUS GERMAN ATTACK. THE FACT THAT SIMOVIC IS ACCEPTABLE TO BOTH TITO

AND THE SERBIAN PUBLIC IS THE BEST POSSIBLE ANSWER TO ALLEGATIONS ABROAD. IN ANY CASE, IT IS HOPED IN BELGRADE THAT AN EARLY SETTLEMENT OF THE REGENCY PROBLEM WILL HASTEN THE FORMATION OF A SINGLE GOVERNMENT IN THE YUGOSLAV CAPITAL. AS A MINISTER REMARKED, "IT WOULD BE LUDICROUS IF ONE MAN COULD DISRUPT THE BUSINESS OF AN ENTIRE NATION."

FEB 15 1945

IT IS DIFFICULT TO ASSESS THE FEELING TOWARDS KING PETER, WHOSE INTRANSIGEANCE HAS SO OFTEN THREATENED THE PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT. AN OLD PROPAGANDA POSTER IS STILL IN EVIDENCE--IT SHOWS THE FUEHRER BESTOWING HIS BLESSING ON THE YOUNG KING.

ALSO GOING THE ROUNDS IS THE STORY OF ALEXANDER AND THE PARLIAMENT HOUSE. IT IS SAID THAT FOR YEARS THE SUPERSTITIOUS KING REFUSED TO COUNTENANCE WORK ON THE BUILDING. THE LEGEND RUNS THAT A GYPSY WOMAN ONCE WARNED THE MONARCH THAT WHEN SKUPSHTINA SHOULD COME TO COMPLETION, THE HOUSE OF KARAGEORGEVICH WOULD REACH ITS APPOINTED END.

TODAY THE PARLIAMENT HOUSE IS FINISHED. SO, PERHAPS, IS PETER, BUT ON THAT QUESTION PARLIAMENT WILL DECIDE.

THIS RIGHT CAME INTO PROMINENCE LAST DECEMBER WHEN BRITAIN VETOED THE APPOINTMENT OF COUNT CARLO SFORZA AS FOREIGN MINISTER.

THERE ALSO HAVE BEEN STATEMENTS THAT THE ARMISTICE DOES NOT DEAL WITH TERRITORIAL OR COLONIAL MATTERS.

WHILE IT IS NOT KNOWN WHETHER IT WAS BRITAIN WHICH OBJECTED TO PUBLICATION OF THE ARMISTICE TERMS. IT IS REPORTED RELIABLY THAT SHE HAS OPPOSED SCRAPPING OF THE ARMISTICE AND GETTING ON A DIFFERENT BASIS WITH ITALY. SOME AMERICAN OFFICIALS ARE UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE FOSTERED SUCH A PROPOSAL.

IN PRACTICE THE ARMISTICE IS THE ONLY REAL RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE ALLIES AND ITALY--A RELATIONSHIP WHICH IN EFFECT TREATS ITALY AS A CONQUERED NATION RATHER THAN AS A CO-BELLIGERENT WHOSE TROOPS AND SHIPS ARE FIGHTING THE GERMANS.

SCRAPPING OF THE ARMISTICE, SOME OFFICIALS FEEL, WOULD REMOVE A PSYCHOLOGICAL IMPEDIMENT TO FULL COLLABORATION FROM ITALY IN FIGHTING THE NAZIS AND A NEW AGREEMENT COULD STILL PRESERVE ALL THE RIGHTS OVER PORTS AND COMMUNICATION LINES ESSENTIAL TO THE ALLIED FORCES.

ROME, FEB 14-(AP)-STAFF SGT. PAT TAMBURRI, A DIMINUTIVE BALL-TURRET GUNNER IN A U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE B-24 LIBERATOR GROUP, IS WEARING A NEW DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS RIBBON ON HIS CHEST TODAY FOR "EXTRAORDINARY ACHIEVEMENT IN AERIAL FLIGHT" OVER AUSTRIA.

THE AWARD TO TAMBURRI, OF 279 MONTICELLO, AVENUE, JERSEY CITY, N.J., BROUGHT TO LIGHT THE STORY OF THE END OF THE "SCREAMING MEEMIE," A LIBERATOR.

FEB 15 1945

TAMBURRI'S GROUP WAS COMING IN ON ITS TARGET--THE LOBAU OIL REFINERY A FEW MILES FROM VIENNA--WHEN MORE THAN 150 GERMAN FIGHTERS ATTACKED. A SCORE OF CANNON SHELL HITS BLASTED BOTH RUDDERS.

TWO 20-MILLIMETER SHELLS EXPLODED IN THE BOMBER'S WAIST SECTION AND TWO MORE IN THE LEFT WING. ANOTHER LODGED IN THE RIGHT WING WITHOUT EXPLODING.

HYDRAULIC LINES WERE SEVERED, SO TAMBURRI HAD TO OPERATE HIS TURRET MANUALLY. HIS OXYGEN LINE WAS CUT. FIGHTING OFF LOSS OF CONSCIOUSNESS FROM LACK OF OXYGEN, HE POURED A STREAM OF FIRE INTO THE GERMAN FIGHTERS AND AN ATTACKING FOCKE WULF 190 BLEW UP.

TAMBURRI SAID NOTHING ABOUT HIS PLIGHT UNTIL THE "SCREAMING MEEMIE" FINISHED HER BOMB RUN. THEN HE CALLED FOR HELP. THE WAIST GUNNER GOT HIM OUT OF HIS TURRET AND HOOKED HIM ONTO ANOTHER OXYGEN SUPPLY.

THE BATTERED BOMBER NEVER REACHED HER BASE. HALFWAY ACROSS THE ADRIATIC SHE CAUGHT FIRE.

MOST OF THE CREW COULD NOT SWIM SO THE PILOT NURSED THE BURNING PLANE OVER ITALIAN SOIL. TAMBURRI AND HIS FELLOW CREWMEN BAILED OUT AND THE BOMBER, STILL AFLAME, CRASHED INTO A MOUNTAIN.

ROME,FEB.14-(AP)-PVT.ROBERT O.CORRALEZ OF 1651 VINE ST., BRAWLEY,CALIF., WUNG UNCONSCIOUS BY ONE FOOT OVER THE OPEN BOMB BAY OF HIS 15TH AIR FORCE LIBERATOR OVER GRAZ, AUSTRIA, BUT CAME BACK SAFELY.

CORRALEZ FORTUNATELY WAS WEARING A FLAK SUIT WHEN A CHUNK OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT SHELL HIT HIS CHEST, KNOCKING HIM OUT.

LT.ANTHONY V.PATRINO, 378 JULIAN AVE., AKRON, OHIO, BOMBARDIER, CAME UP ON THE FLIGHT DECK AFTER THE BOMBS WERE DROPPED, AND FOUND CORRALEZ DANGLING FROM HIS TURRET WITH ONE FLYING BOOT JAMMED IN THE TURRET'S FOOT CONTROLS. PATRINO PULLED CORRALEZ TO SAFETY AND FED HIM OXYGEN UNTIL HE REVIVED.

ROME, FEB 14-(AP)-MARION JACOBSON OF MADISON, WIS., AND MRS. ANETTA CONRAD OF 338 90TH ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y., ARE THIS YEAR'S VALENTINES FOR AN ENTIRE U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE FLYING FORTRESS GROUP IN ITALY.

THE GROUP CHOSE MISS JACOBSON AS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SWEETHEART AND MRS. CONRAD AS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WIFE IN A PRE-VALENTINE CONTEST, CHOOSING FROM PHOTOGRAPHS THE MEMBERS THEMSELVES SUBMITTED.

MISS JACOBSON'S PHOTOGRAPH WAS ENTERED BY T/SGT. GEORGE W. MOSLEY OF SWEETWATER, TEX., WHO MET HER SOON AFTER HE ARRIVED IN MADISON TO ATTEND AN AIR FORCE TECHNICAL SCHOOL FROM WHICH HE WAS GRADUATED IN FEBRUARY, 1943. HE IS THE GROUP'S ASSISTANT COMMUNICATIONS SECTION CHIEF.

MRS. CONRAD WAS THE ENTRY OF HER HUSBAND, T/SGT. ERNEST P. CONRAD, A FORTRESS ENGINEER-GUNNER WITH 10 COMBAT MISSIONS TO HIS CREDIT. SHE IS EMPLOYED AS A SECRETARY BY THE CHAPELLE MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

"I GET A LIFT JUST FROM LOOKING AT MY WIFE'S PHOTO AFTER RETURNING FROM A MISSION," CONRAD SAID.

"YOU KNOW, MARION'S PICTURE REALLY DOESN'T DO HER JUSTICE," SAID MOSLEY.

STOCKHOLM, FEB. 14-(AP)-SWEDEN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD INCREASED NAZI TERROR IN NORWAY WILL BE THE CHIEF TOPIC OF DISCUSSION AT THE NEXT MEETING OF THE CABINET ON FRIDAY, IT IS UNDERSTOOD FROM M RELIABLE SOURCES.

THE DECISION TO REVIEW SWEDEN'S POSITION REGARDING THE SUFFERING NEIGHBOR COUNTRY APPARENTLY WAS BROUGHT ABOUT BY GROWING PUBLIC AGITATION FOR FOR SOME FORM OF INTERVENTION IN NORWAY, WHERE ARRESTS AND EXECUTIONS HAVE MOUNTED DAILY IN THE LAST WEEK.

SWEDISH PAPERS HAVE INDICATED IN THE LAST DAY OR TWO THAT SWEDEN MAY ALTER HER "SHOOT TO HIT" POLICY TOWARD ALLIED AIRCRAFT CROSSING THE COUNTRY ON MISSIONS AGAINST GERMANY, RETURNING INSTEAD TO A POLICY OF WARNING SHOTS.

STOCKHOLM, FEB. 14-(AP)-AN INVASION OF DENMARK OR NORTHERN GERMANY IN LINE WITH SOME INTERPRETATIONS OF THE BIG THREE CRIMEAN DECLARATION'S REFERENCE TO "BLOWS FROM THE NORTH" WAS STRONGLY DISCOUNTED TODAY BY MILITARY AUTHORITIES VERSED IN THE SCANDINAVIAN SITUATION.

FEB 15 1945

THEY DID NOT ELIMINATE SUCH A MOVE AS IMPOSSIBLE, SAYING IT MIGHT BE ATTEMPTED AS A DIVERSION, BUT THEY POINTED OUT THAT ANY LANDING ON DENMARK'S WESTERN SHORES WOULD BE EXTREMELY DIFFICULT BECAUSE OF NATURAL OBSTACLES.

ANY OPERATION DIRECTED THROUGH THE SKAGERAK AND CATTEGAT INTO THE DANISH ISLES OR THE GERMAN BALTIC COAST WOULD BE EXTREMELY HAZARDOUS BECAUSE OF THE SAME SORT OF NATURAL BARRIERS, THEY CONTINUED, AND THE SAME IS TRUE OF THE GERMAN NORTH SEA COAST.

ANOTHER FACTOR AGAINST SUCH AN INVASION IS THAT XXXX THE NECESSARY AIR COVER WOULD BE BASED CONSIDERABLY FARTHER XXXX AWAY THAN THAT WHICH SUPPORTED THE NORMANDY LANDINGS FROM BRITAIN.

MOST OBSERVERS IN SWEDEN CONSIDER A RUSSIAN DRIVE ACROSS NORTHERN GERMANY OR AN ALLIED BREAKTHROUGH FROM THE WEST, BOTH OF WHICH WOULD CUT OFF DENMARK AND NORWAY, MUCH MORE PROBABLE THAN A DIRECT INVASION.

WHATEVER THE OPINION OF EXPERTS, THE FACT REMAINS THAT THERE IS CONSIDERABLE EVIDENCE OF NERVOUSNESS AMONG THE NAZIS IN DENMARK. REPORTS CONTINUE TO TRICKLE INTO SWEDEN OF TROOP MOVEMENTS IN DENMARK, ALL TENDING TO INDICATE THAT THE GERMANS HAVE NO IDEA OF GIVING UP THAT TINY KINGDOM WHICH IS A VITAL LINK IN THEIR COMMUNICATIONS WITH NORWAY.

THE DANISH WESTERN COAST IS LOW AND SANDY, DOTTED BY MANY OFFSHORE SANDBARS. THE GERMANS, WITH AN ESTIMATED FIVE DIVISIONS IN DENMARK, HAVE FORTIFIED THE COAST STRONGLY.

FEB 15 1945

THE NORTHERN AND EASTERN STRETCHES OF THE DANISH ISLES ARE "LOADED" WITH ONE-MAN TORPEDOES AND RADIO DIRECTED AND EXPLOSIVE-LADEN SPEEDBOATS, ONE SOURCE SAID. THESE WOULD BE EMPLOYED TO THE HILT AGAINST ANY INVADING FLOTILLA SEEKING TO FORCE THE NARROW WATERS OF THE KATTEGAT, "AND WHEN YOU ARE IN DENMARK, YOU ARE IN NOTHING BUT A BOTTLENECK WITH SMALL MANEUVERABILITY," HE ADDED.

THE MOST PROBABLE MEANING OF THE BIG THREE STATEMENT, THESE EXPERTS BELIEVE, WAS THAT THEY REFERRED NOT TO THE OPENING OF A NEW LAND FRONT, BUT TO A STEADY BUILD-UP OF AIR BLOWS AGAINST GERMANY'S NORTHERN FLANK.

FEB 15 1945

ACTUALLY, A MAJORITY OF THE OPPRESSED PEOPLE OF DENMARK AND NORWAY, PARTICULARLY THE LATTER WHERE MISERY IS MOUNTING DAILY, ARDENTLY HOPE FOR SOME METHOD OF ELIMINATING THE GERMANS WHICH WOULD SPARE THEIR COUNTRIES THE RUIN AND DESTRUCTION THAT AN INVASION WOULD CAUSE.

STOCKHOLM, FEB. 14-(AP)-STETTIN IS UNDER ALMOST CONSTANT AIR ATTACKS AS RUSSIAN GUNS BOOM IN THE DISTANCE, THE FREE DANISH PRESS SERVICE SAID TODAY, QUOTING EYEWITNESSES.

HUNGER AND EXHAUSTION ARE PREVALENT IN THE BALTIC PORT, AND EVEN CABBAGE IS RATIONED, IT SAID.

ONE INFORMANT, IT ADDED, SAID: "SOLDIERS AND UNIFORMED MEMBERS OF THE VOLKSSTURM PAY TERRIFIC PRICES FOR CIVILIAN CLOTHING WHICH ENABLES THEM TO DESERT."

MOSCOW, FEB 14-(AP)-U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE EDWARD STETTINIUS, IN MOSCOW FOR A "TOURIST VISIT," ATTENDED THE FAMED RUSSIAN BALLET LAST NIGHT AND RECEIVED A THUNDEROUS OVATION FROM THE COLORFUL, DIGNITARY-DOTTED AUDIENCE.

THE HANDSOME, WHITE-HAIRED SECRETARY BORE A 3,000 RUBLE (APPROXIMATELY $566 AT THE DIPLOMATIC EXCHANGE RATE) BOUQUET FOR THE PRIMA BALLERINA, BLOND MARINA SEMENOVA, WHEN HE ENTERED THE BOLSHOI THEATER FOR THE FOUR-ACT PERFORMANCE OF TCHAIKOVSKY'S "SWAN LAKE."

THE TUMULTUOUS GREETING THE AMERICAN STATESMAN RECEIVED WHEN HE ENTERED THE GOLD-LEAFED IMPERIAL BOX WITH FOREIGN COMMISSAR VYACHESLAV MOLOTOV AND VICE COMMISSAR ANDREI J.VISHINSKY WAS SILENCED ONLY BY THE PLAYING OF THE U.S. AND SOVIET ANTHEMS. THE IMPERIAL BOX WAS FESTOONED WITH FLAGS OF BOTH NATIONS.

THE AUDIENCE, SPRINKLED WITH RED ARMY OFFICERS, MEMBERS OF THE U.S. DIPLOMATIC STAFF, ALLIED, NEUTRAL AND SOVIET DIPLOMATIC PERSONNEL HEARD THE NEWS OF BUDAPEST'S FALL FROM THE STAGE AFTER THE FIRST ACT.

EDWARD J.FLYNN, FORMER CHAIRMAN OF THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE, A GUEST AT THE AMERICAN EMBASSY ALONG WITH STETTINIUS, ALSO WAS A GUEST IN THE IMPERIAL BOX. OTHERS INCLUDED KATHLEEN HARRIMAN, DAUGHTER OF U.S. AMBASSADOR W.AVERELL HARRIMAN; MRS.GEORGE F.KENNAN, WIFE OF THE U.S. MINISTER, AND MAJ.GEN.S.P.SPALDING, CHIEF OF THE SUPPLY DIVISION OF THE U.S. MILITARY MISSION.

MAXIM LITVINOFF, FORMER AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, SHARED THE DUTIES OF HOST WITH MOLOTOV AND VISHINSKY.

MANILA, FEB 13-(DELAYE)-(AP)-THE LITTLE BUSINESS MAN IS BUSY IN THE AMERICAN-HELD PORTION OF MANILA REPATCHING HIS LIFE FOR THE SECOND TIME IN THREE YEARS NEAR THRONGED STREETS IN THE SHELL AND FIRE BATTERED DISTRICTS WHICH ARE CLOSE ENOUGH TO THE FRONTLINES FOR PEDESTRIANS TO HEAR ARTILLERY FIRE AND THE OCCASIONAL MUTTER OF SMALL ARMS.

AS IN 1942, SMALL TRADING HAS ARISEN AS THE SUREST IMMEDIATE METHOD OF OBTAINING MONEY FOR ESSENTIALS IN ADDITION TO SUPPLIES WHICH THE PHILIPPINE CIVIL AFFAIRS UNIT IS DISTRIBUTING. THE LITTLE MERCHANDISER, WITH HIS TABLE FULL OF WARES,STRETCHES ALONG THE HOT STREETS SELLING EVERYTHING FROM ONIONS TO CAREFULLY HOARDED FRENCH CIGARETTES, WHISKY AND RUM.

THEY ATTEMPT TO DRIVE SHARP BARGAINS WITH THE AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS. FEW ARE WILLING TO ACCEPT MONEY WHICH TO THEM STILL IS OF UNCERTAIN VALUE, BUT INSIST ON PAYMENT IN FIELD RATIONS OR GI CLOTHING. OLD, CAREFULLY HOARDED COINS HAVE EMERGED AS CURRENCY FOR FILIPINO TRANS-ACTIONS. FOR THE FIRST TIME IN YEARS FILIPINO BUYERS ARE SEEING REAL PENNIES AGAIN.

PRICES ARE AS HIGH AS THE TRAFFIC WILL BEAR. WHEN MONEY IS ACCEPTED, WHISKY IS $10 A BOTTLE. OTHERWISE IT MAY BRING A SET OF KHAKI CLOTHES AND RATIONS.

THE JAPANESE-ISSUED CURRENCY IS DYING A NATURAL DEATH THROUGH THE UNIVERSAL BELIEF IT HAS NO REDEMPTION VALUE. YOUNGSTERS OFTEN HOLD UP A HANDFUL OF NOTES, ONCE WORTH SEVERAL HUNDRED PESOS, ASKING FOR CANDY.

ALL DAY, HUNDREDS TOIL AMID THE BURNED RUINS OF HOUSES AND BUILDINGS, EXTRICATING TIN ROOFING AND OTHERSALVAGEABLE MATERIALS FOR REBUILDING. FOR SEVERAL BLOCKS NORTHWARD OF THE PASIG RIVER AND WESTWARD OF RIZAL AVENUE, NEARLY EVERYTHING IS JUMBLED RUINS, INCLUDING THE ESCOLTA BUSINESS SECTION. EWASTWARD OF RIZAL MOSTOF THE HOMES ARE INTACT.

IN THEBURNED AREA A FEW BUILDINGS STLL STAND LIKE SENTINELS BUT THEIR INTERIORS ARE BLACKENED AND WALLS BULLET POCKED. THIS SECTION IS HEAVILY POPULATED AND THE CENTER OF THE BUSINESS DISTRICT.

HUNDREDS AMONG THE THRONGS ALONG AND NORTHWARD OF RIZAL AVENUE STLL AREHOMELESS. MANY ARE WORRIED OVER THE FATEOF RELATIVES CAUGHT IN THE BITTER FIGHTING SOUTH OF THEPASIG. ALL SEEMINGLY ARE TOUCHED HEAVILY BY WAR.

FOR MOST, THE FUTURE IS STILL VAGUE. JOBS ARE SCARCE EXCEPT FOR LABORERS WORKING FOR THE ARMY AND A FEW HOUSEBOYS AND CHAUFFERUS WHO RETURNED TO THEIR FORMER EMPLOYERS WITHIN THE SANTO TOMAS INTERN-

MENT CAMP.

PARTLY BECAUSE OF THIS AND PARTLY BECAUSE OF THE DEEP HATRED OF THE JAPANESE, RECRUITING IS BRISK FOR THEPHILIPPINE ARMY. REGISTRATION OFFICES FOR THE FORMER PHILIPPINE SCOUTS GENERALLY ARE CROWDED.

FEB 15 1945

CLOSENESS OF THE WAR IS EMPHASIZED BY THE FREQUENT CALLS FOR ASSISTANCE FOR WOUNDED CIVILIANS, THE VICTIMS OF SNIPERS OR ARTILLERY. PEDESTRIANS SEEMINGLY HAVE LOST THEIR FIRST NERVOUSNESS AT THE ALMOST CONTIUAL RUMBLE OF BATTLE. YET THEY AWAYS ARE ALERT. RECENTLY, WHEN A FEW ENEMY SHELLS LANDED NEAR RIZAL AVENUE, ALL TRFFIC WAS CLEARED IN LESS THAN A MINUTE, FILIPINOS SCUTTLING INTO THEIRHOUSES.

MANILA,FEB 14 (AP)-HOPES FOR A RELATIVELY RAPID CLEANUP IN MANILA'S SOUTH PASIG DISTRICT, WHERE FIERCE FIGHTING HAS BEEN RAGING FOR DAYS, BEGAN TO FADE TODAY BECAUSE OF THE STUBBORN RESISTANCE OF JAPANESE ENTRENCHED ALONG TAFT AVENUE TO THE COLLEGE GROUND NEAR HARRISON PARK.
THIS HOTLY CONTESTED AREA WAS STILL A MILE FROM THE WATERFRONT. THE NIPPONESE WERE KNOWN TO BE IN MANY PARTS OF THE INTERVENING TERRAIN.
TROOPS OF THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION CAPTURED THE MASONIC TEMPLE, ON TAFT AVENUE, YESTERDAY. THEY DID NOT REPORT HOW MUCH DAMAGE THE EDIFICE HAD SUSTAINED.
ALTHOUGH FIGHTING CONTINUED STIFF, THE SITUATION WAS IMPROVING HOURLY. ENEMY ARTILLERY FIRE DIMINISHED SHARPLY. IT WAS DIRECTED UNSUCCESSFULLY AGAINST OUR PONTOON BRIDGES ACROSS THE PASIG RIVER.
THE ENEMY'S AMMUNITION SEEMED TO BE RUNNING LOW AND 37TH DIVISION INFANTRYMEN FOUGHT TODAY HOUSE-TO-HOUSE AGAINST ONLY AUTOMATIC AND SMALL ARMS FIRE. THE JAPANESE APPARENTLY HAD RUN OUT OF MORTAR AMMUNITION. FURTHER EVIDENCE OF THIS WAS THAT SOME ATTACKING JAPANESE RESORTED TO SMOKE GRENADES.
FEROCITY OF THE FIGHTING IN THE SOUTH PASIG AREA WAS EVIDENCED BY THE NUMBER OF DEAD JAPANESE AND BY THE CAPTURE--LARGELY IN THIS AREA--OF 44 GUNS RANGING FROM 120 MILLIMETER RIFLES AND ANTIAIRCRAFT PIECES DOWN TO MACHINE GUNS. U.S.COUNTER FIRE IN MANILA IS CREDITED WITH KNOCKING OUT AN ADDITIONAL 75 MILLIMETER GUN AND ONE FIVE-INCH NAVAL RIFLE.
THE TAFT AVENUE SECTION IS ONE OF MANILA'S FINEST RESIDENTIAL SECTIONS. TAFT IS A WIDE BOULEVARD, WELL SHADED BY TREES. IN PRE-WAR DAYS IT WAS THE HOME DISTRICT OF MANY LEADING AMERICANS.
THE AVENUE RUNS EAST AND WEST, WITH ITS WEST FLANK FACING THE FAMOUS OLD WALLED CITY. IN THAT AREA ARE THE MODERN LEGISLATIVE BUILDING, THE HALL OF JUSTICE AND THE MUNICIPAL CENTER. SOME BLOCKS OUT THE AVENUE ARE THE JAI ALAI, SPANISH GAMBLING PALACE, A MILLION DOLLAR STRUCTURE WHICH THE JAPANESE USED AS GENDARMERIE HEADQUARTERS FOR SOME TIME; THE PHILIPPINE GENERAL HOSPITAL; SOME BUILDINGS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF THE PHILIPPINES; THE MASONIC TEMPLE, AND SUNDRY OTHER COLLEGES AND CHURCHES.
CAPTURE OF CAVITE NAVAL BASE AND NICHOLS FIELD, ANNOUNCED TODAY BY HEADQUARTERS, HAD GIVEN RISE TO THE PROSPECT OF A QUICK CLEANUP IN THE CITY. THE JAPANESE WERE SURROUNDED IN A THREE SQUARE MILE AREA NEAR THE MOUTH OF THE PASIG.

"THE END OF THE ENEMY'S TRAPPED GARRISON IS IN SIGHT," GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED ON THE 12TH DAY SINCE HIS COLUMNS ENTERED THE CITY, WHICH SINCE HAS BECOME THE MOST DEVASTATED BATTLEFIELD OF THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC CAMPAIGN.
DOOMED TO BE ADDED TO THE MORE THAN 68,000 ENEMY CASUALTIES INFLICTED ON LUZON ISLAND IN FIVE WEEKS, THE JAPANESE SURVIVORS WITHIN MANILA ARE MASSED BEHIND THICK WALLS OF THE CENTURIES-OLD INTRAMUROS, WITHIN GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS AND AMONG DOCKS.
CAVITE, ON THE SOUTH SHORE OF MANILA BAY, FELL TUESDAY.
THE LAST RISING SUN WARRIOR WAS KILLED AT NICHOLAS AIRFIELD NEAR THE CITY'S SOUTHERN OUTSKIRTS, ENDING FIVE BITTER DAYS OF STRUGGLE.
NIELSON AIRFIELD, ON THE SOUTHEAST, WAS CLEARED OF THE FOE.
MOST OF THE ENEMY'S BIG GUNS WITHIN MANILA HAVE BEEN SILENCED.
THOUSANDS OF JAPANESE HAVE DIED HERE, ADDING HEAVILY TO CASUALTIES WHICH DURING THE FIFTH WEEK OF THE LUZON CAMPAIGN EXCEEDED 20,00.
EVERY YANK KNOWS THE LAST NIPPONESE WILL FIGHT AS LONG AS THERE IS ONE MAN LEFT WITH A GUN. ENEMY TROOPS MAN THE THICK WALLS AND FILL THE NARROW STREETS OF THE INTRAMUROS (WALLED CITY), BUILT BY THE SPANISH WHO FOUNDED MANILA IN 1571.
THIRTYSEVENTH DIVISION INFANTRYMEN OF MAJ.GEN.ROBERT S. BEIGHTLER, USING FLAMETHROWER, RIFLE AND BAYONET, MOVED ON THE THE INTRAMUROS AFTER A SLOW PUSH THROUGH STREETS AND ALLEYWAYS, OVER AND AROUND WRECKED HOUSES, CHURCHES, HOSPITALS AND CEMETERIES. MANY JAPANESE YET TO BE ADDED TO THE CASUALTY LISTS ARE BURIED IN THE DEBRIS.
THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION OF MAJ.GEN.VERN D.MUDGE WHICH CROSSED THE PASIG ON THE EASTERN EDGE OF MANILA AND SKIRTED THE DEVASTATED BATTLE PIT OF THE 37TH, PLUNGED ALL THE WAY WEST TO MANILA BAY YESTERDAY THROUGH SUBURBAN PASAY.
BELOW PASAY, THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION OF MAJ.GEN.JOSEPH M.SWING SNUFFED OUT ALL ENEMY RESISTANCE AT NICHOLS AIRFIELD. OTHER ELEMENTS CAPTURED CAVITE. THAT NAVAL BASE, WHICH THE AMERICANS DESTROYED PRIOR TO ABANDONING MANILA WITHOUT A FIGHT LATE IN DECEMBER, 1941, YIELDED 10 ENEMY SEAPLANES AND A BATTERY OF THREE-INCH GUNS. NIGHT LEAD PHILIPPINES (600)
MANILA,THURSDAY,FEB 15 (AP)-JAPANESE REMNANTS REMAINING IN SOUTH MANILA, COMMITTED TO DIE AND DESTROY TACTICS, FOUGHT STUBBORNLY FROM ENTRENCHMENTS ALONG ONCE-MAGNIFICENT TAFT AVENUE TODAY, DIMMING EARLIER AMERICAN HOPES FOR A SPEEDY PURGE OF THE CITY.
THE FALL OF BITTERLY CONTESTED NICHOLAS AIRFIELD AND CAVITE NAVAL BASE TO THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION, REPORTED YESTERDAY BY GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, CAUSED THE JAPANESE GARRISON TRAPPED BEHIND ITS LAST STRONG DEFENSE SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER.
BUT THE NIPPONESE FOUGHT SAVAGELY AS 37TH INFANTRY DOUGHBOYS PRESSED THEM TIGHTER INTO THE OLD WALLED CITY AND THE DOCK AREAS.
THE ENEMY, HOWEVER, HAS LOST OF HIS ARTILLERY. FIRE FROM FIELD GUNS AND MORTARS DECREASED SHARPLY AND IN SOME INSTANCES THE JAPANESE WERE REDUCED TO THE USE OF SMOKE GRENADES TO SUPPLEMENT RIFLE AND MACHINEGUN FIRE.
FILIPINOS ENRAGED AT SEEING THEIR CAPITAL CITY BURNED AND THEIR FELLOW CITIZENS MURDERED BY JAPANESE WHO CANNOT POSSIBLY WIN THE BATTLE OF MANILA, FLOCKED TO RECRUITING STATIONS TO ENLIST IN THE PHILIPPINE ARMY AND THE PHILIPPINE SCOUTS.
THE SCOUTS HAVE LONG BEEN THE NATION'S MOST FAMOUS FIGHTING FORCE. THE PHILIPPINE ARMY THOUGH COMPARATIVELY NEW AND BARELY TRAINED SET A HEROIC TRADITION IN THE EARLY-WAR BATTLES ALONGSIDE AMERICAN TROOPS ON BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR.
TAFT AVENUE, WHERE THE YANKS ARE ROOTING THE JAPANESE FROM ENTRENCHMENTS AND SMASHED BUILDINGS. IS A WIDE BOULEVARD RUNNING

EAST AND WEST WITH THE INTRAMUROS, OR ANCIENT WALLED CITY, AT THE WEST END.

THE AMERICANS CAPTURED THE MASONIC TEMPLE ON THE AVENUE. GOVERNMENT EDIFICES AND UNIVERSITY, HOSPITAL AND CHURCH BUILDINGS COVER THE AREA OUTSIDE THE INTRAMUROS, WHICH ITSELF IS DENSELY PACKED WITH WORKERS' HOMES.

SMALL BANDS OF JAPANESE REMAINING IN OTHERWISE CLEARED NORTHERN MANILA STAGED SEVERAL SMALL ATTACKS NEAR THE POLO DISTRICT. IN ONE SUCH FORAY 43 NIPPONESE WERE KILLED. IN THE DAMPALIT AREA SEVERAL SMALL ENEMY GROUPS MADE SUICIDE ATTACKS.

FOLLOWING THE CAPTURE OF CAVITE AMERICAN PATROLS SCOUTING INTO THE HILLS EAST AND NORTH OF THE NAVAL BASE DISCOVERED A FAIRLY STRONG JAPANESE DEFENSE LINE IN THE RUGGED BOSOBOSO VALLEY.

A MARINE CORPS DIVEBOMBER CREW REPORTED HITTING A CAVE IN THAT REGION WHICH APPEARED TO CONTAIN A FEW ENEMY GUNS, AND THE BLASTING OF A LINE OF TRUCKS AND OTHER MATERIAL ON A RIDGE.

FEB 15 1945

A201KX

A CONCENTRATION OF JAPANESE IN SOME STRENGTH AROUND TERNATE, 16 MILES SOUTHWEST OF CAVITE, ALSO WAS REPORTED.

AMERICAN BOMBERS HAMMERED CORREGIDOR AT THE ENTRANCE TO MANILA BAY, SCORING HITS ON HEAVY GUN BATTERIES. FIGHTER AIRCRAFT SWOOPED LOW TO SPRAY GUNFIRE ON JAPANESE POSITIONS ON BATAAN PENINSULA, NORTH OF CORREGIDOR.

FRONTLINE REPORTS FROM NORTHERN BATAAN, WHERE THE 38TH DIVISION OF THE EIGHTH U.S.ARMY IS FIGHTING THE BATTLE OF ZIGZAG PASS, SAID THE YANKS HAD AT LAST REACHED TERRAIN WHERE THEIR TANKS COULD BRING GUNS TO BEAR ON JAPANESE POSITIONS IN CAVES.

JAMES HUTCHESON, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT WITH THE 38TH SAID IN A DELAYED DISPATCH DATED FEB.11 THAT THE 149TH INFANTRY REGIMENT HAD REACHED ORANI ON MANILA BAY, ON THE UPPER EAST COAST OF BATAAN.

AMERICAN DYNAMITE CREWS DESTROYED JAPANESE EMPLACEMENTS IN THE RUGGED JUNGLE COUNTRY ALONG ZIGZAG PASS, EXPLODING ENEMY AMMUNITION SUPPLIES AND BURYING JAPANESE WHO STUCK TO THEIR CAVE POSITIONS.

ON THE EAST COAST OF LUZON ISLAND, SIXTH DIVISION UNITS HAVE REACHED BALER BAY AND OCCUPIED AN ABANDONED ENEMY AIRFIELD.

THE AMERICANS ARE PATROLLING INTO THE CARABALLO MOUNTAINS NORTH OF THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAIN, PENETRATING TOWARD AREAS WHERE THE JAPANESE ARE REPORTED TO BE IN FORCE.

IN OTHER MOUNTAIN SECTORS, THE AMERICANS AT ROSARIO BEAT OFF JAPANESE RAIDERS AND IN THE ZAMBALES FOOTHILLS ON THE WEST COAST OF LUZON 40TH DIVISION UNITS CONTINUED TO MOP UP NIPPONESE TROOPS WHO MIGHT THREATEN CLARK FIELD.

GUATEMALA CITY, GUATEMALA, FEB. 14-(AP)-PRESIDENT-ELECT JUAN JOSE AREVALO ANNOUNCED TONIGHT THAT HE WOULD ASSUME THE PRESIDENCY ONLY AFTER A NEW CONSTITUTION TAKES EFFECT, AT A DATE NOT YET DETERMINED. HIS TERM IS SUPPOSED TO BEGIN MARCH 15.

MEANWHILE HE SAID HE AND AN EIGHT-MAN MISSION WOULD LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON FEB. 25. THE ITINERARY WILL INCLUDE STOPS AT MEXICO CITY, SAN FRANCISCO, XX CHICAGO AND NEW YORK.

MEXICO CITY,FEB 14 (AP)-THREE COMMISSION ROOMS, ONE FOR DISCUSSION OF EACH OF THE FIRST THREE POINTS ON THE AGENDA OF THE FEB.21 INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE, ARE BEING PREPARED AT CHAPULTEPEC CASTLE, BUT FOR THE FOURTH POINT, DEALING WITH "THE ARGENTINE REQUEST," NO SPECIAL PROVISION IS BEING MADE.

FEB 15 1945

COMMISSION NO.1 WILL DEAL WITH WAR PROBLEMS, NO.2 WITH ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL MATTERS, AND NO.3 WITH PEACE QUESTIONS. THESE GROUPS, WITH EACH PARTICIPATING NATION ENTITLED TO REPRESENTATION, WILL BE ORGANIZED THE OPENING DAY OF THE CONFERENCE.

THE FOURTH POINT, RELATIVE TO THE JAN. 8 PANAMERICAN UNION DECISION IN WASHINGTON, MAY BE TAKEN UP, ACCORDING TO THE AGENDA, ONCE THE FIRST THREE POINTS ARE DISPOSED OF. THE AGENDA, HOWEVER, CAN BE CHANGED BY TWO-THIRDS VOTE OF DELEGATIONS.

THE PANAMERICAN UNION DECISION, PROPOSED BY PERU, WAS TO POSTPONE ACTION ON THE ARGENTINE REQUEST FOR A "HEARING" OF ITS CASE, IN VIEW OF THE FORTHCOMING MEXICO CITY CONFERENCE.

CARPENTERS ARE PUTTING FINISHING TOUCHES ON THE CONFERENCE QUARTERS AT THE CASTLE. IN COMMISSION ROOMS 2 AND 3 THE DELEGATES MAY VIEW LARGE PAINTINGS OF MEXICAN COLONIAL FIGURES THAT LINE THE WALLS.

LARGER THAN THE COMMISSION QUARTERS IS A RECEPTION ROOM, AT ONE END OF WHICH THERE IS A BAR. SERVICE WILL BE WITHOUT CHARGE TO DELEGATES, BUT NOTHING STRONGER THAN BEER WILL BE SERVED.

ON THE SAME FLOOR, THE SECOND, ARE THE OFFICES OF MANUEL TELLO, CONFERENCE SECRETARY, AND PRESS AND RADIO ROOMS. ON THE FIRST FLOOR ARE OFFICES OF MANUEL BARROS SIERRA, PRESS CHIEF.

DELEGATES WILL BE GIVEN LAPEL BUTTONS BEARING A MAP OF THE AMERICAS AND "MEXICO 1945." AROUND THE MAP ARE THE WORDS "INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON PROBLEMS OF WAR AND PEACE."

CALGARY, ALTA, FEB.14-(AP)-A REVOLUTIONARY WAY OF MAKING BUTTER WITHOUT CHURNING PROBABLY WILL GAIN WIDE USE AFTER THE WAR, DR.E.G.HOOD, DAIRY RESEARCH CHIEF OF THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, SAID LAST NIGHT.

ADDRESSING THE MANUFACTURERS' SECTION OF THE ALBERTA DAIRY ASSOCIATION, HE QUOTED A STATEMENT FROM O.K.BURROWS, PUBLIC RELATIONS DIRECTOR OF A LARGE DAIRY EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURER, WHICH SAID A PROCESS HAD BEEN DEVELOPED FOR THE CONTINUOUS MANUFACTURE OF CREAMERY BUTTER WITHOUT THE USE OF A CHURN. BUTTER MANUFACTURED BY THIS PROCESS WAS REPORTED TO HAVE "PERFECT BODY AND TEXTURE, NORMAL COLOR, AND DESIRED SPREADABILITY."

ANOTHER DAIRY EXPERT SAID THE METHOD IS AN APPLICATION OF THE CENTRIFUGAL PRINCIPLE, THE SAME AS USED IN A CREAM SEPARATOR.

AN OFFICIAL JAPANESE SPOKESMAN WAS QUOTED BY THE DOMEI AGENCY WEDNESDAY AS DENOUNCING THE BIG THREE YALTA AGREEMENT AND DECLARING THAT WORLD PEACE IS POSSIBLE ONLY BY ACTING ON THE PRINCIPLE OF THE NIPPON FOREIGN MINISTER "NOT TO REJECT ANY HAND THAT OFFERS PEACE."

A DOMEI BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FCC, QUOTED SADAO IGUCHI, SPOKESMAN FOR THE JAPANESE INFORMATION BOARD. HE TERMED THE BIG THREE AGREEMENT "INTERNATIONAL POWER POLITICS."

STATING THAT JAPAN ALONE HAD SOUGHT TRUE WORLD PEACE BY INVITING THE COLLABORATION OF ALL NATIONS, THE TOP NIPPON PROPAGANDIST SAID "FUTURE WORLD PEACE AND SECURITY CANNOT BE FOUND BY DRIVING HARD BARGAINS FOR PERSONAL GAINS AT A COST TO OTHERS BUT BY JUST AND HONEST STATESMANSHIP THAT IS GUIDED BY THE PRINCIPLES ADHERED TO BY JAPAN WHICH FOREIGN MINISTER SHIGEMITSU HAS EXPLAINED AS EXCLUDING NONE BUT INVITING THE COLLABORATION OF ALL."

LESS THAN 24 HOURS BEFORE IGUCHI MADE HIS STATEMENTS THE CHINESE CHUNGKING CENTRAL DAILY NEWS HAD OPINED THAT THE RECENT RESHUFFLE OF THE JAPANESE KOISO CABINET WAS THE FORERUNNER OF A POSSIBLE NIPPON "POLITICAL OFFENSIVE" TO OBTAIN A NEGOTIATED PEACE.

FEB 15 1945

IGUCHI CAREFULLY AVOIDED MENTION OF RUSSIA. HE SAID "FOR ALL THEIR PROFESSIONS OF NOBLE IDEALISM AND FAIR PLAY THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN HAVE AT LEAST DEFINITELY EXPOSED THEIR TRUE AND FAITHLESS NATURE. X X X

"THEY SOLD POLAND DOWN THE RIVER IN ONE OF THE MOST SHAMEFUL ACTS IN THE GAME OF POWER POLITICS THE MODERN WORLD HAS KNOWN."

IN AN EARLIER BROADCAST DOMEI SAID AMERICA, BRITAIN AND RUSSIA "ARE INDULGING IN PREPOSTEROUS ASSUMPTIONS" THAT THE EUROPEAN WAR WILL TERMINATE BEFORE APRIL 25, DATE SET FOR THE WORLD SECURITY CONFERENCE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FCC, SAID "IT IS NOT POSSIBLE THAT THE GERMAN PEOPLE, WHO ARE FIGHTING TO DECIDE THE RISE OR FALL OF A PEOPLE, WILL SUBMIT TO UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER SO EASILY."

DIPLOMATIC SOURCES IN MONTEVIDEO PREDICTED YESTERDAY (WED)

THAT URUGUAY AND VENEZUELA WOULD COMPLETE THE RECENT SERIES OF DECLARATIONS OF WAR ON THE AXIS BY LATIN-AMERICAN NATIONS SOON AND THAT ALL THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE HEMISPHERE EXCEPT THAT OF ARGENTINA WOULD BE SUBSCRIBERS TO THE UNITED NATIONS PACT BEFORE THE OPENING OF THE PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE IN MEXICO FEB. 21.

FEB 15 1945

THESE SOURCES SAID THE URUGUAYAN GOVERNMENT WAS CONSIDERING HOW IT COULD TAKE THE STEP OF DECLARING WAR, WHICH MAY BE DONE CONSTITUTIONALLY ONLY BY A JOINT RESOLUTION OF THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES AND THE SENATE.

THEY ADDED THAT THE DECLARATIONS MAY BE INTERPRETED NOT AS AN END, BUT AS A MEANS OF LATIN-AMERICAN COUNTRIES BECOMING FULL-FLEDGED MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

ONE SOURCE SAID THAT WHEN ONE SOUTH AMERICAN COUNTRY INQUIRED WHAT ROAD IT SHOULD FOLLOW TO BECOME A MEMBER OF THE UNITED NATIONS, IT WAS TOLD BY THE GREAT POWERS THAT THE ONLY WAY WAS TO DECLARE WAR ON GERMANY AND JAPAN.

YESTERDAY PRESIDENT RIOS OF CHILE ANNOUNCED THAT HIS NATION WAS RECOGNIZING A STATE OF BELLIGERENCY WITH JAPAN AND SUBSCRIBING TO THE UNITED NATIONS/DECLARATION.

RIOS SAID HIS GOVERNMENT WAS NOT INCLUDING GERMANY IN ITS RECOGNITION OF BELLIGERENCY BECAUSE "THAT NATION ALREADY IS DEFEATED."

DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES IN OTHER SOUTH AMERICAN CAPITALS SAID VENEZUELA MIGHT TAKE THE STEP OF DECLARING WAR BEFORE THE END OF THIS WEEK.

FEB 15 1945

THEY OBSERVED THAT THE CRIMEAN DECLARATION OF THE BIG THREE EXPLICITLY EXCLUDED "ASSOCIATED NATIONS" FROM MENTION OF THOSE WHO WILL PARTICIPATE IN THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO BEGINNING APRIL 5.

REPRESENTATIVES OF EQUADOR, PARAGUAY, PERU AND CHILE ALL SIGNED THE UNITED NATIONS PACT IN WASHINGTON YESTERDAY. ALL EXCEPT CHILE HAD PREVIOUSLY DECLARED WAR.

JAPANESE-CORREGIDOR (240)
WASHINGTON, FEB 14-(AP)-NAVY OFFICIALS BELIEVE THAT CORREGIDOR, THE ROCK IN MANILA BAY, IS LESS STRONGLY FORTIFIED NOW THAN WHEN ITS AMERICAN AND FILIPINO DEFENDERS SO RELUCTANTLY YIELDED IT IN THE SPRING OF 1942.
NEVERTHELESS, CORREGIDOR AND OTHER FORTIFICATIONS GUARDING THE HARBOR MUST BE REDUCED TO IMPOTENCY AND THE BAY MUST BE SWEPT CLEAR OF MINES BEFORE THE HARBOR CAN BE USED BY AMERICAN SHIPS.
TO THAT END, IT WAS DISCLOSED, THE ROCK CURRENTLY IS BEING BLASTED WITH ONE OF THE GREATEST CONCENTRATION OF BOMBS EVER LAID ON A SINGLE POINT.
SWEEPING THE HARBOR WILL BE AN ESPECIALLY DIFFICULT TASK UNTIL THE FORTS WHICH GUARD IT ARE KNOCKED OUT OR CAPTURED. THE FORTS, HOWEVER, LIKE CORREGIDOR PROBABLY ARE NOT IN THEIR PEAK CONDITION. APPARENTLY THE JAPANESE DID NOT EXPECT SUCH A SPEEDY RETURN BY GEN. DOUGLAS MAC ARTHUR'S FORCES, AND WHEN THEY REALIZED THE IMMINENCE OF THE DANGER NOT ENOUGH TIME REMAINED TO DO A FULL JOB OF RESTORATION.
AMERICAN FORCES ARE NOT LIKELY TO BE MISLED BY APPEARANCES INDICATING LACK OF STRENGTH, AN OFFICIAL SAID, IN THE LIGHT OF THEIR PAST EXPERIENCES IN ATTACKING JAPANESE-HELD ISLANDS. THEY HAVE BECOME FAMILIAR WITH THE EXCELLENCE OF JAPANESE CAMOUFLAGE, AND ARE NOT LIKELY TO LEAVE STANDING ANYTHING THAT COULD POSSIBLY HIDE ENEMY ARTILLERY.
CONTINUOUS AIR RECONNAISSANCE AND INFORMATION FROM VARIOUS SOURCES SHOW AS MANY AS 266,000 JAPANESE TROOPS ON BY-PASSED ISLANDS OTHER THAN THE PHILIPPINES AND THE DUTCH EAST INDIES, A NAVY SPOKESMAN ALSO HAS REVEALED.
SOME OF THE CUT-OFF GARRISONS ARE IN UNHAPPY CIRCUMSTANCES AND EVENTUALLY WILL STARVE, BUT THE LARGER ONES, SUCH AS THE 50,000 ESTIMATED TO BE ON TRUCK, APPEAR TO BE WELL PROVISIONED AND ABLE TO HOLD OFF FOR A LONG TIME.

1,200 NAVY CARRIER PLANES BLAST TOKYO, BATTLESHIPS POUND THE VOLCANO ISLANDS; REDS OUTFLANK EAST DEFENSES OF BERLIN

Huge U.S. Fleet Hammers Japan In Daring Raid

FEB 16 1945 WAITE

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Friday, Feb. 16.—(AP) The most powerful battleship and aircraft carrier force afloat poured more than 1,200 Hellcats, Helldivers and Avenger planes today at Tokyo while warships and Army planes shelled and bombed islands to the south.

More flattops than America ever before assembled in a single sea operation are sending raiders in continuous waves against Tokyo's airfields and military defenses, tangling in sky battles with the enemy airforce.

The carriers, protected literally by thousands of anti-aircraft guns mounted on battleships, cruisers and destroyers, disgorged swarms of bombing, torpedoing and strafing raiders in the first such naval smash of the war at Japan's capital.

Challenges Jap Fleet

The huge and audacious operations, posing a challenge to Nippon's fleet, strongly suggests major developments.

(There was no word from headquarters of the raid's purpose but it easily could be intended to cover new amphibious landing operations within the inner defense ring of Japan's island outguards).

A Navy communique today, first disclosing the action, said the planes were raiding "in and around Tokyo" while warships shelled Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands and other enemy bases some 700 miles to the south.

The Navy thus spanned the last leg of a 4,000-mile trail across the Pacific from Pearl Harbor where the war opened.

The size of the attacking airforce was such as to outnumber anything Japan could muster hastily, Navy authorities said.

Leading air admirals indicated they would welcome the chance to engage whatever air strength the enemy could muster in time. They pointed to the American record of 20-to-one superiority in aerial combat in carrier operations through many weeks of January which took in the China and French Indo-China coasts.

Operation Long Planned

Nimitz, who only recently moved his base of operations to Guam, within 1,500 miles of Tokyo, said the operation "has long been planned."

It was regarded as a blunt challenge to the Japanese fleet, out of action since defeat last October in the battle of Leyte gulf, to come out and fight.

Tokyo was attacked April 18, 1942 by Army bombers of then Lt. Col. (now Lt. Gen.) Jimmy Doolittle flying from the aircraft carrier Hornet but today's job was the first full scale Navy operation against the Japanese capital or homeland.

(Webley Edwards, of the Columbia Broadcasting company, reported from Guam that "at this minute waves of the carrier planes are sweeping over Tokyo."

(After recalling the Doolittle raid, Edwards reported:

"(This one is different. This is the one we've been waiting for. This is by many carriers. The warships include battlewagons."

(Edwards said Nimitz is carrying the attack to Japan's "front yard and front steps and into the living rooms").

(Art Graham, of Mutual, speculated in a Guam broadcast that the American warships must be riding the seas within 300 miles of the coastline of Honshu, on which Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Osaka and other war centers are situated).

Tokyo radio, two hours after originally reporting the attack said:

"The air battle is still going on."

Hammer Iwo Jima

Pacific fleet surface units also were bombarding Iwo Jima, tiny island in the Volcano group just 750 miles south of Tokyo, the Superfortress bombing route from the Marianas to Tokyo.

Text of Admiral Nimitz's special communique follows:

"Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher is in command of a powerful task force of the Pacific fleet which is now attacking enemy aircraft, air forces and other military targets in and around Tokyo.

"This operation has long been planned and the opportunity to accomplish it fulfills the deeply cherished desire of every officer and man of the Pacific fleet.

"Surface units of the Pacific fleet are bombarding Iwo Jima. Aircraft of the strategic air force, Pacific ocean areas, are bombing Iwo Jima and nearby positions in the Bonins. The fleet forces are under the tactical command of Adm. R. A. Spruance, commander Fifth fleet."

Tokyo Confirms Raid

(Tokyo radio almost simultaneously confirmed the opening stages of the bold operation by reporting "the first raid of small enemy aircraft" on the Japanese mainland.

(The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications commission in the United States, said the planes attacked air strips in the vicinity of Tokyo about 7:15 o'clock Friday morning, Japanese time.

(Tokyo radio said enemy air units had been prepared for the raiders inasmuch as "enemy surface movements have been observed during the past few days.")

(Edwards, of CBS said: "While the air is swarming with United States and Japanese planes over Tokyo, we may expect the Japs to try to send planes at our carriers—if they can find them.

("The situation calls for them to send out their fleet, but fear of losing their fleet entirely may cause the Japs to hold the remaining warships back to fight another day."

(Jack Hooley, of the Blue Network, said there was every reason to expect one of the fiercest air fights of the war.")

High American air officials pointed out recently from Guam that Japan has been building up huge air reserves, with their losses nothing like their production, and could be expected to commit these on a grand scale when needed.

Admiral Mitscher, Wisconsin-born and a resident of Washington, D. C., only recently returned to the Naval wars.

Led Task Force 58

He came into prominence as the leader of "Task Force 58" which dealt the Nipponese navy a mortal blow while protecting the invasion of Saipan last year. He remained on the job to direct Third fleet planes against enemy islands in the far Western Pacific last October to help Gen. Douglas MacArthur return to the Philippines at Leyte.

After that, the Japanese claimed they had annihilated Task Force 58 and commented on the disappearance of Mitscher from the news.

The possible size of the attacks may be deduced from past statements of Naval authorities that once carriers move in on Tokyo it will be possible to send in as many as 1,000 planes at a time. There was, however, no official word on the size of the raiding airforce. The communique merely referred to a "powerful task force of the Pacific fleet."

Reports broadcast to the United States from Guam all stressed the power and daring of the operation.

(Hooley, of the Blue network, referred to a "new phase of the war" and of the Navy "snuggling in close to the heart of Japan.")

The way was cleared for the Navy to advance on Tokyo by months of steady raids by Superfortresses on Japanese aircraft plants which have so cut into the enemy's production that the Nipponese leaders have begun moving plants to Manchuria.

Islands along the way to Tokyo also were knocked out by such raids.

This is particularly true of Iwo Jima which has been raided daily for more than two months.

The shelling of Iwo announced today meant a return of the Navy to that island which has been bombarded several times this year.

TOKYO ASSAULT FLEET DESCRIBED

Task Force So Large It Is 'Difficult For Mind To Grasp'

HAUGLAND

A United States Naval Base in the Pacific, Feb. 8 [AP—Delayed], The largest warfleet in history rides at anchor here restlessly awaiting the date already scheduled when for the first time an American sea-borne force will strike at Tokyo in force.

he task force is so large that it is difficult for the mind to grasp this fantastic mixture of large ond small fighting ships and all the auxiliary vessels needed to keep them armed, fueled and supplied.

Of the hundreds of vessels in this great base, scores of them will steam toward Tokyo within a few days in quest of a fight.

Greatest Ever Known

That task force will be the greatest ever known to man—greater even than dreamed of a few years ago and it will include the largest and newest American carriers, battleships, light carriers, jeep carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

It will launch considerably more than 1,200 planes against Japan's main island of Honshu in the first low-level air attack upon Tokyo and any other cities selected as worthwhile targets.

Ships in this greatest of fighting fleets wil lstand off Honshu forming a line 200 miles or more up and down the coast while fighter, dive-bomber and torpedo planes carry the war into the heart of Japan.

Orderly Activity

This great anchorage where warships and auxiliaries are preparing for the greatest strike of the war is a place of constant orderly activity. Small craft churn the blue-green waters, dashing back and forth between larger vessels.

At night low-lying clouds glow with the flashing of signals between ships.

It is a 24-hour-a-day job to get this battlefleet into operation.

B-29'S AT NEW BASE JOIN RAID

Forces On Tinian And Saipan

Strike At Nagoya

WAR

Headquarters 21st Bomber Command, Guam, Feb. 15 (AP)—Superfortresses operating from a new base in the Marianas joined in a large-scale raid today on the industrial area of Nagoya, Japan.

The bombers flew from Saipan and from the new base on near-by Tinian, the 21st Bomber Command announced.

Weather reports indicated the targets were covered by clouds. No details were announced.

Aircraft Factory Target

[The War Department disclosed in a night communiqué from the 20th Air Force that the attack was a daylight blow at the Mitsubishi aircraft factory in Nagoya.

[A sizable force of the huge planes participated in the attack, made through an overcast which prevented observation of the results. None of the B-29's was lost to enemy action, the communiqué said.

[The Japanese fighter opposition was moderate and anti-aircraft fire only meager, the communiqué disclosed.]

Tokyo Names Areas

Tokyo radio reported in a communiqué and Domei news agency broadcasts that the Superfortresses had centered their attack on the Nagoya industrial area and also had caused some damage in the city proper.

A smaller force, the enemy reports said, caused "a certain amount of damage" in the city of Ukiyamada, some 50 miles southeast of Nagoya. The broadcast noted that the Ise Grand Shrine, revered national and religious monument at Ukiyamada, "remained unscathed."

[Another Tokyo broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said a small force of B-29's made a reconnaissance raid on Singapore today.]

Wear Seabees' Insignia

Tinian's new airfield was commissioned in December, it was disclosed, after its completion by Navy Seabees.

The first B-29's landed on Tinian December 21, their noses painted with the insignia of the Seabee units which had completed the field 11 days ahead of schedule.

The B-29's started striking at Japan from Saipan last fall and operational headquarters later were moved to Guam, as facilities here were completed.

These Marianas islands were taken from the Japanese in American invasions last summer.

B29s Rock Jap Home Island

Tokyo Says Nagoya Area Is Hit—Stimson Asserts No Haven Is Secure for Foe.

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Marianas-based Superfortresses rained fire and explosives anew on Japan's home island today, and Secretary of War Stimson said that Nippon's "diminishing area of conquest offers no secure haven of safety anywhere."

The War Department also announced that a new group of the giant bombers now is operating from Tinian Island in the Marianas.

Mr. Stimson's comment came shortly after the Tokyo radio acknowledged damage to the important industrial city of Nagoya from a fleet of sixty B-29s. The enemy account said the planes loosed their explosive and incendiary bombs also in Mie Prefecture across Atsuta Bay from Nagoya.

A Domei news agency broadcast, elaborating on the early announcement, said that the main strength of the raid was on the factory area of Nagoya but that there was also some bomb and fire damage in the city proper. The city of Ukiyamada, some fifty miles southeast of Nagoya in Mie Prefecture, was reported raided by a "small enemy formation." Domei said the city sustained a "certain amount of damage" but that the Ise Grand Shrine, a national monument, was "unscathed."

Discussing the Superfortress blows against Japan, Mr. Stimson said, "the Japanese admit the present damage to their industry and the certainty of much greater damage in the future when they speak of moving airplane factories and other vital plants to Manchuria."

Tinian Base Increases Scope.

A week ago Mr. Stimson told reporters that although air attacks had been doing damage to enemy war industry, Japan's productiveness has not yet been fundamentally weakened. Today he said damage inflicted on an aircraft factory at Ota last week was serious.

In announcing the new Tinian base Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the Twentieth Air Force, said it will increase the scope of bombing operations against Japan.

He added that with headquarters of the Twenty-first Command established on Guam and the original bases on Saipan in full operation, all three major islands of the Marianas group now become an impressive center of B-29 operations in the Pacific.

The planes on Tinian compose a new unit, the 313th Wing of the Twenty-first Bomber Command. The wing is commanded by Brig. Gen. John H. Davies of Piedmont, Cal. The Twentieth Air Force's other command, the Twentieth Bomber, operates from bases in southeast Asia.

Some Planes From Tinian.

Twenty-first Bomber Command Headquarters, Guam (via Navy Radio), Feb 15 (A. P.).—A large force of B-29 Superfortresses struck at Japan today. Some of the force took off from the new operational base on Tinian Island. The others operated from Saipan.

Tinian Field, it was disclosed today, was commissioned as an operational base in December and the first Superfortresses landed there December 21.

Early indications on today's raid were that the weather was unfavorable and the bombing was through overcast.

Direction of traffic on the network of roads around the new base was simplified by Capt. Paul J. Halloran of New York, chief of all Tinian construction. He noted the island was shaped like Manhattan Island. So now Tinian has a Battery, Wall Street, Park Row, Broadway, Central Park, Harlem, Bronx and Riverside Drive.

Earlier the Tokyo radio said single B-29s bombed the Tokyo-Yokohama metropolitan area last night and early today.

Today's strike was the fourth by Superfortresses since Saturday. An aircraft factory at Ota, forty miles northwest of Tokyo, was hit Saturday, the Rangoon area Sunday and Iwo Jima Monday.

MANILA BATTLE NEARING VICTORY

Japs Planned to Make City Turning Point of Luzon Campaign.

McDANIEL

MANILA, Friday, Feb. 16.—(AP) Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today that Japan's master plan to make Manila the turning point of the Luzon campaign in Nippon's favor is being smashed by a powerhouse American drive nearing victory in the scarred city and fast overrunning nearby Bataan peninsula.

Today's communique, reporting steady reduction of the enemy pocket in south Manila, new gains on Bataan and withering air attacks on Corregidor, also announced seizure of an enemy document.

Expected to Hold Manila

This document, the General said, made it clear the Japanese had expected to hold Manila with 20,000 troops, street and house fortifications, thousands of mines, elaborate concrete strongpoints and hundreds of heavy guns—all prepared for an attack from the south.

But MacArthur struck from the north and the campaign for Manila is close to American victory, with destruction of the defense system, slaughter of the last ditch defenders and capture of hundreds of cannon.

The trapped enemy fought back with at least temporarily renewed vigor, however.

After nearly a day of slackened resistance, the Japanese opened up at dawn yesterday with murderous fire over open sights. This limited American gains toward Intramuros to a matter of yards and blunted the American spearhead which had pushed through the University of the Philippines campus toward the bay front.

The 37th Division, forced back by point-blank fire of light artillery, mortars and machineguns, gained some ground toward the general hospital, a major Japanese strong point. The Americans withheld artillery fire because of the possible presence of civilian patients there.

The 11th Airborne division likewise encountered stiff opposition in their drive from captured Nichols Field toward Fort William McKinley to the northeast.

Sherman tanks and big guns were brought into the battle area for the first time to smash the stubborn enemy defenses.

Of high interest is the swift progress on Bataan, in a push of only a few days down the east coast. Yanks of the 38th division have advanced four miles below Abucay bay to the eastern bastion of the final American defense line in 1942.

MacArthur's revelations of the seized document recalled a Domei news agency broadcast from Tokyo Feb. 8 saying "the Luzon battle is fought for very high stakes."

Hammer Corregidor

The communique told of a 112-ton bombing of Corregidor but made no reference to Japanese reports that American minesweepers had forced entry of the bay, followed by bombarding warships and troop-laden transports.

The general said the captured document set forth Japanese expectancy of a major and successful defense of Manila.

"The garrison comprised more than 20,000 men, with hundreds of guns of various calibers, and many thousands of mines based on elaborate system of concrete strong points, pillboxes and street and house fortifications," he declared.

"These were especially fitted in anticipation of attack from the south and from Manila Bay. The enemy apparently hoped to hold Manila and Manila Bay, thus making this the turning point of the Luzon campaign."

MacArthur said these plans were defeated "by the rapidity of the envelopment by our forces and the dislocation and unbalance caused by our unanticipated advance and attack from the north and east."

Close in On Japs

MacArthur said the three Yank divisions closing in on the trapped Manila garrison had captured or destroyed an additional 320 cannon and 224 emplaced machineguns.

On Bataan, the 11th corps struck southward to seize the town of Balanga in an advance of four miles from Abucay on the peninsula's Manila bay side.

MacArthur said "this was the eastern bastion of our final defense line in 1942."

Corregidor fortress just off the top of Bataan was pounded with 112 tons of bombs centered in coastal defense positions, while southern Bataan was swept by fighters and light bombers flying at minimum altitude.

MacArthur announced that 420 enemy planes have been captured on Luzon in addition to "the thousands of enemy planes destroyed."

Medium bombers hit the Kagi airdrome on Formosa, destroying two parked planes and damaging many others. A locomotive was demolished and heavy casualties were inflicted on airdrome personnel.

Escorting fighters shot down six Japanese planes, and two others probably, in combat. An additional two enemy bombers were intercepted and destroyed to the southwest.

Tobera and Lakunai airdromes on Rabaul, on New Britain Island, were plastered with 115 tons of explosives unloaded by heavy and medium bombers and fighter-bombers. Large fires, with smoke rising to 3,000 feet, resulted. Vehicles and buildings were wiped out.

CHINA COMMUNIST STAND EXPLAINED

Leader Accepts Chiang But Not As Dictator

Chungking, Feb. 15 (AP)—China's Communists are ready to accept the supreme leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, but they "want him to be a Roosevelt, not a Hitler," Gen. Chou En-lai, chief negotiator for the Communists, declared today.

He was explaining the Communist rejection of Chungking Government proposals for a settlement of their differences.

General Chou issued a written statement as he departed for Yenan with new Government proposals after two weeks of negotiating here under the good offices of Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, United States Ambassador. He said he doubted whether his party would accept the new proposals any more readily than those rejected.

Want Coalition

The Communist spokesman made clear that his people wanted a coalition government and a unified high command, and that they would not accept a compromise in the form of representation on any consultative body, as offered by Chungking.

"The one-party dictatorship must go," he said.

The commander of the American force in China, Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, said he hoped the Government and the Communists would resolve their differences before the war is over.

General Wedemeyer disclosed that every officer in the China theater was required to sign a statement that he understood the American command's policy of not giving assistance to anyone but the Central Government. "I am ordered to support the Central Government, which is recognized by my Government," he explained.

General Chou described yesterday's government account of negotiations with him as unfair and lacking in frankness.

CHINA ANNOUNCES 500,000 DRAFT CALL

All-Out Offensive Move Is Linked to U. S. Landing—

Foe Seen Deteriorating

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 15 (AP)—Japan's once-powerful position on the mainland is deteriorating rapidly, the United States commander in China declared today as plans were announced for conscripting 500,000 Chinese for an all-out offensive in concert with coming American landings on the coast.

"Japan's over-all position is unfavorable," declared Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in the China theatre, in one of the most optimistic statements yet made on the war in the East.

"I don't believe the Japanese people realize that, but I am confident the Japanese High Command is deeply concerned. They must be."

Gen. Lu Chung-liu, Conscription Minister, announced that a half million new men would be drafted before the end of March "to meet the demand for the all-out Chinese counter-offensive in conjunction with the coming landing of American forces on the China coast."

[Similar optimism was expressed by Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, Commander in Chief in India, who told the Indian Legislature at New Delhi that the enemy was "on the run" in Burma and that Japan faced reverses in the interior of China.

[The situation in China, he said, had shown "signs of grave deterioration" until recently, when it took a more healthy turn under the "forceful leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and General Wedemeyer."]

Kunming Base Termed Secure

General Wedemeyer said that he had been "damn pessimistic" three months ago. The Japanese were driving deeper into the interior. China was being cut in two. Advanced United States air bases were falling.

General Wedemeyer declared the first consideration was the defense of the supply terminal at Kunming, which lies on the Burma Road and is a depot for supplies flown over the "hump" from India.

"Splendidly equipped," Chinese troops were moved in immediately, he said, and "we are now confident that we can defend that area."

General Wedemeyer described Gen. Ho Ying-chin, China's Chief of Staff and commander of new field headquarters at Kunming, as "the General Eisenhower of this theatre."

"His job," the general said, "is to secure the Kunming area—that's been done—and to prepare the Chinese counter-offensive. We have reason to feel confident over our future from a military viewpoint."

Supplies in increased amounts are now reaching Kunming since the opening of the Stilwell or Ledo Road.

Chinese Hold Near Foochow

Meanwhile, in the land fighting in China there were reports tonight of new clashes with Japanese troops in four provinces.

In Fukien Province on Feb. 12 the enemy attacked Chinese positions about ten miles west of Foochow, center of the newly developed protective area on the China coast, but was repulsed the same evening, the Chinese High Command announced.

In Kiangsi Province Chinese troops repulsed a Japanese thrust northeast of Suichwan and pressed to a point about nine miles from the city. Some fifty miles southward other Chinese units repulsed enemy atacks northeast of Kanhsein, site of another lost air base.

Fighting occurred in Hunan Province east of the Canton-Hankow railroad, and a Chinese counter-attack at the railway town of Chenhsein forced the enemy back about two miles, the High Command said. The fall of Yunghing, sixty miles south of Henyang on Feb. 9, was admitted.

In Kwangtung Province Japanese troops tried to retake Chihing which the Chinese claim to have wrested from the enemy. Chihing is thirty miles east of Kukong, enemy-occupied provisional capital of Kwangtung.

CHUNGKING ORDERS ARMY TO PREPARE FOR U. S. LANDING

To Draft Half a Million Men for All-out Attack to Time With Invasion.

Chungking, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—More than 500,000 men will be conscripted before the end of March "to meet the demand for the all-out Chinese counter-offensive in conjunction with the coming landing of American forces on the China coast," Gen. Lu Chung-liu, Conscription Minister announced today.

This was the first announcement that a counter-offensive would be synchronized with American landings.

Gen. Lu said that 300,000 of the new conscripts would be drafted from Szechwan province, in which this wartime capital is situated.

Meanwhile today Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, the commander of the American forces in China, declared that the Japanese position in China was steadily growing more unfavorable and expressed optimism over the military outlook. At the same time he voiced a hope that the Chinese Government and Communist leaders would be able to reconcile their differences in order to expedite the war effort.

Amplifying his reasons for optimism over the military picture, the American general said that the Japanese had lost much shipping and that the flow of raw materials to the Japanese homeland had been severely restricted by American air power in the Philippines.

Meanwhile, Communist Negotiator Gen. Chou En-lai returned to Yenan today after negotiations here, during which the Government's proposed settlements were rejected. Chou carried new proposals by the Government, but said he doubted his party would accept them. He made it clear the Communists wanted a coalition Government with a unified High Command and would not accept a compromise.

In a written statement Chou described the Government's account of the negotiations with him as unfair and lacking in frankness, and as not disclosing the conditions under which concessions were made. He said that these conditions were (1) that the Communist troops should be placed under a National Military Council which, he said, was tantamount to handing them over to the Kuomintang; and (2) that the Kuomintang obstinately insisted that China's present one-party dictatorship would not be terminated. These conditions, he added, made the Government's concessions impractical and meaningless.

The Government refused the Communist proposal to establish a democratic coalition government and a unified high command. It also rejected the proposal that the Kuomintang, the Communists and the Chinese Democratic Federation (a group of minor political parties) call an inter-party conference to decide how to terminate one-party rule.

Plane For Generalissimo

Chungking, Feb. 15 (AP)—A plane for the personal use of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is being made available by Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer and Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, American headquarters announced today.

U.S. Woman Edited Paper In Hideout In Philippines

Santo Tomas, Manila, Feb. 15 (AP).—Mrs. Jean Lowry, an American woman who lived with her 5-year-old son for two years in the mountains of Negros Island in the Philippines during the Japanese occupation, kept Filipinos informed on world events with her Victory News. It was a one-page typed transcript of news broadcasts.

"I only had enough paper to make eight copies of each issue," said Mrs. Lowry, whose mother lives at Gary, Ind., "but all Filipino clerks in Jap mills around the island copied the papers and circulated them through the towns."

Lived With Guerrillas

Mrs. Lowry's husband, Capt. William Lowry, of West Newton, Mass., was killed early in the war. She and her son lived in the mountains with guerrillas until November 27, 1943. Then:

"The door was kicked open in the middle of the night and I found myself surrounded by Jap soldiers. They just threw everything around. Billy left with only the clothes he had on—pajamas. While I was dressing and trying not to bump into one of the bayonets thrust toward me, the Japs set the house afire.

"They took us to San Carlos (town on the northeast coast of Negros) and that's where the fun started. They called me in every day and questioned me for hours.

"They threatened to kill my son. Sometimes threw burning cigarettes at me or launched a few swift kicks."

She was taken next to Bacolod, a town near the west coast, and thrown into jail.

"We were underneath the torture chamber," she said, and added as a distinct understatement:

"It was a little hard on the nerves."

Eventually she was brought to Santo Tomas, where she was reunited with her brother, Rupert M. Foley, who had been interned previously at Baguio.

Street-By-Street Battles Continuing In Manila

Manila, Feb. 15 (AP)—Under skies black from new enemy demolition destruction, American troops cautiously tightened an inevitable death noose today on Japanese so desperate they cold-bloodedly shot and bayoneted civilians in South Manila.

Yanks of three divisions closed in on the enemy, fighting for each street intersection, amid a flood of front-line reports of Japanese atrocities matching the rape of Nanking.

The Americans had to move carefully so as not to kill civilians within the Japanese lines. Front-line accounts told of the enraged Japanese shooting and bayoneting the unarmed civilians at their mercy.

More Fire And Blasts

Explosions and flames swept the old Intramuros, the Ermita and Malate districts along the Manila Bay shore south of the Pasig River mouth. The devastation wrought by demolition charges threatened to equal that which ravaged the Escolta business district north of the river.

[The wanton destruction of Manila by the Japanese will set the Philippines back fifteen to twenty years, NBC War Correspondent Pat Flaherty said in a broadcast from the island capital today.]

The doomed Japanese, holed up primarily in the Intramuros, where some walls are 40 feet thick at the base, were weakened but still fighting. Japanese artillery fire fell off markedly after American big guns poured a deadly barrage into the enemy-held sector Tuesday and Wednesday.

Troops of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Division, bearing the brunt of the house-by-house onslaught, yesterday reached the University of the Philippines campus, a half mile from the High Commissioner's residence on the bay front.

Japs Hold Hospital

The Japanese still held the General Hospital near by, however, and the American position was untenable. The hospital has been converted into one of the enemy's strongest positions.

Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson said the enemy was confined to an area about 5,000 by 2,000 yards.

"It is not a large area, and the Japanese here have taken a terrific beating, but it still is a dirty house-to-house fight, with American tanks being called in for point-blank fire in every block," he wrote.

Burned To Death

[George Thomas Folster, of NBC, broadcast that men, women and children had been burned to death in houses fired by the Japanese and killed if they fled the flames. He said some civilians had been bayoneted or hacked to death with sabers in "this wanton mass murder."

[CBS Reporter John Adams said Japanese atrocities in South Manila "undoubtedly will go down in history as a darker chapter than the rape of Nanking." He said army photographers documenting some of the atrocity incidents found, at one South Manila intersection, "the bodies of 26 civilians, of which nine were babies. It appeared that all had been bayoneted and many of them with their hands tied behind their backs. It was the same story in other parts of the city."]

Across Manila Bay on Bataan, 38th Division Yanks of Maj. Gen. Henry L. C. Jones captured Abucay in an 11-mile drive down the east coast of the bitterly contested jungle peninsula.

Navy Takes Steps to Speed Sending of Battle Stories

By ELMONT WAITE

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Guam, —(AP) Not so long ago, newsmen covering Naval actions in the far Western Pacific used to talk despairingly of inclosing their eyewitness stories in bottles and casting them adrift in the faint hope they'd eventually reach American newspapers.

And one night the Associated Press staff scoured Honolulu trying vainly to purchase a large, seagoing turtle as a birthday gift for Leif Erickson—so he could take it with him on his next cruise with the battle fleet and have it swim back with his copy.

Times Have Changed

Times have changed since then. The Navy today is trying hard to replace the turtle.

Use of ship's radio to transmit news copy promptly from the scene of action—the only possible speedy outlet—was for a long time and for many reasons denied. Now it is being done, although restrictions still prevent 100 per cent success. It cannot be done every time—not yet—but it is succeeding often enough to make the older correspondents out here very happy indeed.

There are two reasons for the big improvement: (1) the Navy has changed its attitude toward what one other ices, also have multiplied in pr tion.

Head d is growing organization is Capt. Harold B. Miller of Berkeley, Calif. Naval aviator who earlier in the war headed the scores of writers preparing training pamphlets, training movies and recognition publications.

"Its a Newton, Iowa, farmer boy who went to California, decided to go to Naval academy and went," he reports matter-of-factly. "I don't know a thing about handling press relations — I'm just trying to do what I'd like to have someone do for me if I were a reporter.

"We've made progress, but we still haven't licked the communications problem. I think we will, though. There's a big story out here, and my theory is if we just give you lads a chance you'll tell the story."

Captain Miller, incidentally, is half of the "Blaine and du Pont Miller" by line which has appeared over so much romantic fiction in the slicks. His wife, the former Jean du Pont, ex-Hollywood scenario writer, is the other half.

it calls "publicity"—probably a reflection of Secretary Forrestal's belief that prompt and thorough news coverage is vitally important in this war; and (2) some of the mechanical or technical problems are being overcome.

There's one complication which still exists: no ship in enemy waters would expose its position by opening up with its radio. Hence radio silence usually is enforced until the ship is out of the danger zone.

This difficulty isn't as bad as it sounds, however. For example, if announcement of a July 4 strike is released by Admiral Nimitz at headquarters July 9, then eyewitness stories still would be brand new on July 9. But if the admiral makes his first announcement of the strike on July 9, and eyewitness stories don't arrive until July 20, the newsmen scream.

Used Radio Facilities

As early as January, 1944, the Navy had arranged to handle one brief press story each day by radio from the scene of Central Pacific invasions, using the radio facilities of an amphibious flagship which remained near the beachehad. Correspondents from press services took turns writing this one story daily, which all services received. This, however, did not relieve the problem of the correspondents ashore with the troops, or of those roaming the nearby seas with the battle fleet.

It was not until Nov. 12, 1944, that the first press copy was transmitted by ship's radio from the battle fleet. Rembert James, veteran Associated Press correspondent and Phil Reed of International News service wrote the first stories to be so transmitted, based on Admiral Halsey's vivid reports of swift-moving carrier aircraft actions in the China sea which paved the way to General MacArthur's invasion of Luzon.

Lt. Philip T. Farnsworth, Piedmont, Calif., censor on that cruise, said 75,000 words were radioed from the ship in the ensuing ten weeks, out of a total of approximately 200,000 words cleared by the seagoing censors.

Ship's radio, however, still is restricted in one important respect, even after radio silence can be broken. Stories from the scene cannot tell more than headquarters chooses to disclose in its communiques—hence eyewitness copy cannot be radioed until after Admiral Nimitz has broadcast his communique and the press ship had received it.

Chief Press Censor Murray Ward points out, that security can best be served by allowing eyewitness stories to cover in detail only what the communique covers in general.

More Censors Used

Commander Ward of Los Angeles was the only Navy censor in the Central Pacific for the first seven of his 19 months out here. Now he has 40 censors to handle work at headquarters, to staff invasion beaches, to accompany fleet units here and there.

Public relations officers who help correspondents to and from hot spots, help get their copy to the s, and perform a thousand

Tinian Island Streets Named for New York's

GUAM, Feb. 15 (AP).—Direction of traffic on the network of roads around the new Superfortress base on Tinian Island was simplified by Captain Paul J. Halloran, of New York, chief of all Tinian construction.

He noted the island was shaped like Manhattan Island. So now Tinian has a Battery, Wall Broadway, Street, Park Row, Broadway, Central Park, Harlem, Bronx and Riverside Drive.

Halloran found it worked quite well.

'Elephant Boy' of Films Now Gunner on Plane

By The Associated Press.

THIRTEENTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Far East—Sabu is a ball turret gunner now.

The former "elephant boy" of the movies—Sgt. Sabu Dastagir — mans a set of twin fifty-caliber guns in one of the Thirteenth Army Air Force's Liberators attached to the famous long ranger bomber group.

He has piled up about thirty missions all the way from Borneo to the Philippines.

The young Hindu, whose nimble antics and flashing smile made him a screen favorite, is popular with his pals in the long ranger outfit.

Sabu is credited with one "smoker." During a Borneo raid he got one burst into a Zero. It was smoking when it disappeared in a cloud.

Jap Tanks Beaten In Drive On Lashio

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 15 (AP)—Tank-led American and Chinese forces driving down from northeastern Burma knocked out three Japanese tanks and captured numerous machine guns and other weapons in a brisk fight yesterday near Hsenwi, only 24 miles from the rail terminus of Lashio, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

Driving southward along the old Burma road, the Allied task force already has advanced more than half way between Mongyu, the junction of the Ledo and Burma roads, and Lashio, which is approximately 135 miles northeast of Mandalay. Kutkai, 48 miles north of Lashio, was seized yesterday without opposition.

Troops of the 19th Indian Division were reported to have made further gains in the Singu bridgehead on the east bank of the Irrawaddy River just north of Mandalay. Japanese counterattacks were diminishing in that sector, but the enemy was stubbornly defending positions north and west of the great river port.

Japs On Run In Burma, Auchinleck Declares

New Delhi, Feb. 15 (AP)—General Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in India, said today the Japanese were "on the run" in Burma and predicted the enemy's thrust into interior China "will not merely be stemmed but reversed."

"I don't want to strike a too confident note," he told the Indian Legislature.

"We all know a great deal of bitter fighting involving heavy casualties lies ahead before Burma can be liberated and we drive into other Japanese-occupied territories farther east. Nevertheless, we can fairly say we have got the Japanese on the run no less surely than the Americans have in the Southwest Pacific."

Calcutta Fights Smallpox.

Bombay, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Residents of Calcutta were officially warned today to be vaccinated before March 10 or be liable to imprisonment and fine. The step was taken by the Bengal Government as the result of a smallpox epidemic in the city which claimed 298 lives last week.

Hostility Grows To British Plan For Arab Union

French, Jews and Possibly Russians Uneasy Over Revival of Federation

O'BRIEN

ISTANBUL, Feb. 15 (AP).—Although the Crimean conference ended without official mention of the Middle East, information reaching here indicates that, as the war rolls farther from the Levant, internal problems are rising to the surface and threaten an explosion.

The French are reported bringing reinforcements by sea to Lebanese ports.

The British have called Arabs together in Cairo in an effort to revive last fall's Pan-Arab convention, which failed to establish an Arab federation because, one account said, the British insisted the federation contract should provide for tight relations with Britain.

The failure of the first meeting of British-backed chiefs of Arab countries to create a federation was followed by the fall from power of all its principal figures except King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia. He subsequently was visited by King Farouk of Egypt.

New leaders now are in power everywhere else in the Middle East, but the new attempt to get the federation back on its original basis is running into strong French, Jewish and possibly Russian opposition. The position of the United States is not clear, but Washington gave no support to the first federation conference.

This is the picture according to reliable information reaching here:

The worst sore spots are Syria, where the French are trying to reestablish their mandate grip, and Palestine, where Jewish opposition to the British policy of severe limitation of Jewish immigration is stiffening.

The British now are holding 1,600 Jews in prison or in concentration camps for illegal immigration or sympathy with the assassination of Lord Moyne. The assassination and the subsequent collaboration of the Palestine Jewish Agency with the British in the arrests that followed have weakened the Jewish Agency's position in Palestine and have strengthened the standing of the Washington-centered Hebrew Committee of National Liberation. This committee wants an autonomous Palestine Hebrew nation, and unrestricted immigration while that is being granted.

Jewish officials here predict an early outbreak of Jewish discontent in Palestine by the Stern organization.

DAILY NIGHT FEB 16 1945

RUSSIAN FORCES SEIZE NAZI CITY IN 30-MILE DRIVE

Sommerfeld Falls as Troops Cut Behind Over Strongholds.

HERCHER

PUSH TOWARD DRESDEN

American Bombers Hammer Strategic Rail Lines Supplying Enemy.

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 16—(AP) The Red army, paced by attacking American heavy bombers, outflanked Berlin's eastern defenses yesterday in a powerful 30-mile breakthrough which toppled the Brandenburg province stronghold of Sommerfeld, 67 miles from the imperilled Reich capital.

Sweeping across the Rober, Luebst and Queis rivers south of their confluence with the central Oder, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army cut in behind a 75-mile stretch of the Oder held by the enemy between Fuerstenberg and Neusalz, thus destroying the effectiveness of that defense line guarding the capital on the southeast.

Reds Overrun Sorau

The rapid advance from the depths of Silesia, apparently aimed at racing around the Fuerstenberg-Frankfurt-Kuestrin line due east of Berlin, also overran Sorau, 13 miles southeast of Sommerfeld and Gruenberg, 25 miles northeast of Sommerfeld.

The strength of the Soviet forces invading new sections of Brandenburg, Berlin's home province, was indicated in Premier-Marshal Stalin's order of the day which cited 29 generals in the capture of the three strongholds. Two thousand Germans and 120 parked planes were captured.

Berlin said the Russians already had reached and crossed the Neisse river west of Sommerfeld at a point only 57 miles from Berlin, putting Soviet troops 12 miles from the Spree, last natural defense line guarding Berlin on the southeast.

Front dispatches said that Konev's lower wing also had driven to within 45 miles of Dresden, capital of Saxony, after reaching the Neisse river in the area of Goerlitz, 74 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovak capital.

A Stockholm dispatch said that Dresden was a "burning inferno" because of heavy U. S. bomber attacks paving the way for the Soviet ground drive, and that "tens of thousands" of persons had been killed there. The report came from

Reds Cross Neisse River North Of Goerlitz

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—A German military spokesman said today Russian tank and cavalry forces, smashing ahead 17 miles in 24 hours, had crossed the Neisse River in an area only 65 miles from Berlin in the drive on the German capital from the southeast.

Other spearheads, Moscow dispatches said, had raced 22 miles in the offensive west of Breslau and reached Goerlitz on the Neisse, only 53 miles east of Dresden, and were now battling for bridgeheads in southern Germany.

A Tass broadcast from Moscow later said the Russians had reached a point only 45 miles from Dresden.

Marshal Ivan Konev's steadily reinforced blows fell with a speed and success which suggested that German resistance had been almost paralyzed.

Bombers Support Offensive

Allied bombers continued one of their greatest offensives just ahead of the Soviet columns.

The Berlin military spokesman said Konev's free-wheeling columns had reached the Autobahns, or military highways, both northwest and southwest of Forst, 65 miles from Berlin.

Forst is on the west side of the Neisse, 12 miles east of Cottbus and 40 miles north of Goerlitz. The town is 17 miles west of Sommerfeld, which the Germans said the Russians reached yesterday.

"Loose Connection"

The Germans said Konev in this area had established a "loose connection" with Marshal Gregory Zhukov's forces fighting east of Berlin, where they have established bridgeheads over the Oder south of Fuerstenberg. Fuerstenberg is 27 miles north of Forst.

To the south, Konev apparently had by-passed the important railway junction and stronghold of Kohlfurt in his 22-mile jump from Bunzlau to Goerlitz on the Neisse, last natural barrier before Dresden.

Kohlfurt, 11 miles northeast of Goerlitz, is a five-point trunk railway center.

Chojnice, Tuchola Fall

Meanwhile, Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day the capture of Chojnice in the old Polish Corridor, a city of 14,000, on the Berlin-Danzig railway, and Tuchola, 14 miles southeast of Chojnice.

Chojnice, 62 miles southwest of Danzig, and Tuchola were both German strongholds. They were captured after a penetration by Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army through the difficult heaths and forests of northwestern Poland.

Pravda first announced Marshal Konev's thrust to the Neisse, the last major water barrier before Dresden. Its correspondent said whole groups of German towns had been captured, bypassed or sealed off in a spectacular twenty-two-mile advance.

The speed of the drive indicated Nazi resistance in that sector was crumbling.

Breslau Is Surrounded.

The new successes of Marshal Konev's troops left the Silesian capital of Breslau surrounded some forty-five miles behind the Soviet vanguards, and the German radio said the fight for the city of 630,000 was at a climax.

Moscow announced that Marshal Zhukov had completed the conquest of the holdout fortress of Schneidemuehl, fifteen miles behind the Soviet lines in Pomerania, to the north, killing more than 7,000 Germans and capturing 5,000 after a two weeks' siege.

Other Russian troops driving northward through the Polish Corridor captured fifty additional towns in an area some sixty miles southwest of Danzig and were little more than two miles from the communications center of Chojnice.

Driving In Lake Region

Konev's northern wing spreading just below the Oder was coming up through the lake region southeast of Berlin with Storkow as its central objective. Storkow is 15 miles southeast of Berlin.

The German high command said the Russians had reached Gruenberg, 70 miles southeast of Storkow, and other German broadcasts reported the Russians even closer—at Sommerfeld, 50 miles southeast of Storkow.

Gruenberg is at the bottom of a 60-mile deep pocket formed by Zhukov's forces along the Oder and Konev's troops which yesterday captured Freystadt and reportedly reached Sorau and Sommerfeld.

Natural Defense Line

It was recognized that the lake district southeast of Berlin, including the chain of water barriers linked by the many channels of the meandering Spree River, was a natural defense line, but it was probable the Germans would be compelled to shift heavy new forces to meet this threat.

If they did so they would be in danger of weakening their defenses along the Oder, directly east of Berlin, where Marshal Zhukov was engaged in large-scale maneuvering behind a smoke screen and a terrific bombardment of the fortresses of Frankfurt and Kuestrin.

Bridgeheads Located

By German account, the Russians still had bridgeheads across the Oder in this area. The German high command named two of these at Wiesenau and Ziltendorf, between Frankfurt and Kuerstenberg. Ziltendorf is 5 miles north of Kuerstenberg and 45 miles from Berlin.

Cottbus on the Spree, 43 miles southwest of Frankfurt and 25 miles west of Sommerfeld, also was in the line of Konev's thrust toward Berlin.

Soviet correspondents told of Russian troops moving into German towns "abounding" with German soldiers as well as civilians who had been unable to get out of the way of the speedy advance toward Dresden.

Panic Reported

Scenes of panic were described in many such towns.

The Germans were reported badly split up, with many headquarters losing contact with their troops and with the high command, as Konev's tanks and cavalry slipped in behind many large enemy groups.

Moreover, this mighty push across the lines of communication between Berlin and the Moravian mountain fortress was receiving a constant flow of fresh reserves. Soviet accounts said steady streams of Russian troops were rolling up in trucks across strong bridges over the Oder in clear, cold weather which again had coated the river with ice.

Southeast of Goerlitz, Konev's wing in a dash along the last score of miles toward the Czech border was 185 miles northwest of Vienna, goal of Soviet armies from the area of captured Budapest, in Hungary. These latter forces moving up from the southeast were 85 miles from Vienna.

Although the Germans said Breslau, bypassed 45 miles by the Russian surge toward Dresden, was encircled, the Moscow radio reported only that all rail lines were cut into the besieged capital of Lower Silesia. The two remaining highways were under shellfire, Moscow said.

The Germans said the fight for Breslau was at its climax, while the battle for Dresden, eighth city of the Reich, swiftly approached.

U.S. Bombers Hit Dresden, Cottbus

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—American heavy bombers carrying out one of the greatest air offensives of the war, blasted Dresden again today, and bombed the clogged rail yards at Cottbus, only 12 miles from a sector in which Russian spearheads were reported operating.

Still another force of American heavy bombers again attacked the synthetic-oil plant outside Magdeburg, 75 miles southwest of the smoking German capital.

Even while this great armada of more than 1,100 Fortresses and Liberators with 450 fighter escorts was making these attacks, the German radio sounded new alarms. Fresh formations of Allied bombers were reported flying in over Holland and also from the south over Austria.

Tactical Planes Busy

The attacks brought to about 11,000 thus far the number of planes which have linke dthe eastern and western battlefronts und r a blanket of explosives and incendiaries in the last 48 hours.

Front-line reports said tactical aircraft also were having another great field day against Nazi road movements.

Cottbus is a big rail and highway junction jammed with Nazi troops and supplies in front of Marshal Konev's right flank.

Bombers Out From Italy

From Mediterranean bases United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers struck again at German communications in the Vienna area. Overcast made the use of instruments necessary and results could not be observed. It was the third straight day of attack on the Vienna area, and the Fortresses and Liberators ran into the usual flak barrage.

Today's assaults came after overnight blows by 1,300 RAF planes which struck at the East front rail center of Chemnitz, as well as at other targets. Twenty-two bomber command aircraft were lost, but some may have landed on the Continent.

Losses Not Revealed

Amercan losses from yesterday's 2,250-plane strike had not been announced because a number of "missing" planes were believed to have landed safely in France, air headquarters said.

Germany was undergoing a scourging such as she never before experienced.

In the 36 hours up to dawn today more than 9,000 American and British planes had loosed thousands of tons of explosives and incendiaries upon German cities, supply lines and troop concentrations.

Chemnitz, main target of the RAF assault last night, is 35 miles southwest of Dresden and is one of the largest industrial cities of Saxony. It had been hit only a few hours earlier by 450 Flying Fortresses—part of the great armada of 1,350 American bombers out over Germany yesterday.

Oil Plant Hit

the Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

The fall of the three "important junctions of communications and mighty strongpoints of German defenses" southeast of Berlin was aided by a U. S. heavy bomber attack on Cottbus, strategic rail junction only 27 miles west of captured Sommerfeld.

Planes Attack Cottbus

In another striking example of closest liaison between the American airmen and Russian ground forces nearly 500 U. S. bombers hurled some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, a big 12-way junction clogged with German troop and supply traffic rushed up in an effort to stop the Russians.

Cottbus controls a maze of arteries leading from Berlin to the Oder, Dresden, and to German troops based in Czechoslovakia.

Dresden also was attacked for the fourth time since the great Allied air assault began Tuesday night. Two hundred American heavyweights brought to 4,000 tons the weight of explosives dropped on that Saxon citadel.

The Soviet communique said that the Russians had swept up 150 places in German Silesia and Berlin's home province of Brandenburg. These included Naumburg, on the broken Bober river defense line 12 miles east of Sommerfeld, and Schweinitz, five miles southwest of Gruenberg.

Northwest of Budapest, captured Hungarian capital, other Soviet forces completed the destruction of isolated enemy groups which had broken out of the western part of the city, and captured 6,650 more prisoners, including three generals, the bulletin said.

This raised to nearly 130,000 the number of captives taken in the long siege of Budapest, and in addition perhaps 50,000 Germans and Hungarians were slain in the period since Dec. 27, when the Russians first broke into Budapest's streets.

In western Poland the Russians had captured most of Poznan, last big Polish city still in German hands, the communique said.

Konev's northern wing was only 28 miles southeast of Fuerstenberg, one of Berlin's outer fortresses already under assault by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army.

Berlin said Konev's armored spearheads already had reached Forst, another key road center on the west bank of the Neisse river 14 miles west of captured Sommerfeld, and had cut the Berlin-Breslau superhighway on both sides of that town. Forst is only 12 miles from Cottbus, shattered by the new American aerial blow.

The Russians, in taking Gruenberg and the other two strongholds, had destroyed a German bridgehead in a bend of the Oder river southeast of Fuerstenberg, and broken the entire German Oder river defense line extending clear down through Silesia almost to the Czechoslovak border.

In another order of the day Stalin announced the fall of the Polish corridor stronghold of Chojnice, on the Berlin-Danzig railway and highway 60 miles southwest of Danzig city, as Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army struck northward toward the Baltic in an effort to seal off thousands of enemy troops in Danzig territory and Pomerania.

Swamped by the swift advance of Konev's powerful armored formations, German home army and shock troops were being split up and cut off, and there still was no sign that the foe could stop the westward and northwestward surge.

The Soviet news agency Tass, which reported the push to the Neisse river menacing Dresden, said that in the forests near Sprottau the amount of enemy booty captured was so great that "special salvage squads can hardly register it." Sprottau, taken Wednesday, is 30 miles southwest of captured Sommerfeld.

A German government spokesman said Zhukov was building up a great reservoir of supplies and men east of the Fuerstenberg-Frankfurt-Kuestrin line on the Oder east of Berlin, where the Russians hold positions thirty to forty miles from the capital. Konev's thrust along the main Breslau-Berlin trunk railway and highway has exposed the flanks of this German line, and the enemy said a great frontal assault by Zhukov was likely now, to be timed with Konev's blows from the southeast.

Sommerfeld, on the Luebst River near its confluence with the lower Neisse, is astride the Frankfurt-Sagan railway. Three miles south of Sommerfeld other Soviet units crossed the Luebst and captured Gassen, on the west bank. The town of Sagan, a junction point for thirteen railways or roads, had been by-passed by the Russians and was hemmed in on three sides.

30-24-23017

British heavy bombers also attacked a synthetic oil plant at Rositz, just south of Leipzig, last night while Mosquitos hit refugee-packed Berlin.

German radio programs were interrupted every few minutes this morning by the voice of "Achtung Ann," the girl who gives warnings of approaching Allied bombers. Apparently a little nervous, she got her announcements mixed up several times and made a number of false starts.

More than 1,300 aircraft participated in the four night RAF attacks. Chemnitz was hit twice, each time by approximately 400 heavy bombers.

The first night blow at the city was timed at 9 P.M. Fires still were raging when the second wave struck shortly after midnight.

Like Dresden, Chemnitz is believed packed with refugees fleeing the Russian advance. It also is one of the places where some Berlin Government offices are reported to have been moved.

A major railroad hub, Chemnitz has been used by the Germans for collecting, billeting and regrouping German troops.

Token Defense Staged

The German air force, which attempted to halt only one of yesterday's four American daylight heavy bomber fleets, made a modest effort to protect rail movements in the British-Canadian battle area. Nazi fighters also staged a token defense of Chemnitz during the night.

"But the defenses were not nearly strong enough to save the town," an RAF pilot said.

still were not available.

Nearly 500 bombers dropped some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, aiming at a rail web in the center of the city, where six main lines converge. Extensive rail repair installations also are in the city, which is of prime importance in the German defense system.

Dresden was attacked for the fourth time since the air assault began Tuesday night, some 200 more American heavies bringing the total bomb weight unloaded on the Saxon capital to 4,000 tons.

Refinery Bombed

A synthetic oil refinery at Magdeburg, 65 miles southwest of Berlin, was the target for more than 350 bombers making their twelfth attack of the war and their second of the week on the plant. The refinery is one of only four synthetic fuel producers believed still to be active in Germany.

It was estimated that 14,000 Allied planes — more than half of them heavy bombers which had spread some 20,000 tons of explosives on at least fifteen industrial and rail centers from Austria to the Ruhr—had taken part in the 48-hour assault.

The figure included Allied tactical planes based on the Continent, which made 3,800 sorties against German troops and communications along the Western front yesterday and again struck in strength today. Also, United States heavy bombers from Italy flew into Austria for the third straight day and attacked communications in the Vienna area, aiming by instrument through heavy cloud layers.

New Raids Indicated

While the heavy fleet from Britain was heading back home after its blasts at Cottbus, Dresden and Magdeburg, the German radio warned that a bomber formation was approaching from the west and another from the south.

While the Nazis told of great air battles raging throughout Germany, there was no other indication that the American fleet had run into trouble. The Mustang and Thunderbolt escorts failed to rouse serious enemy opposition and had

Rail Yards At Cottbus Bear Main Weight Of Air Blow

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—More than 1,100 American heavy bombers escorted by 450 fighters, carrying the greatest nonstop air attack of the war into its second day, threw their main weight today against clogged rail yards at Cottbus, only 12 miles in front of the Russian Army. Dresden also was hit again.

Fifteen bombers and six fighters of the 8th Air Force were missing from the Thursday's assault, but some were believed to have landed in friendly territory. It was announced tonight that figures on the 8th's losses Wednesday, when 1,350 bombers and 900 fighters took part, time to make widespread sweeps against ground targets.

The bombers attacking Dresden and Cottbus through thick clouds were not even seriously molested by flak, though moderate anti-aircraft met the formations over Magdeburg.

Other available figures of Allied losses in the past two days were 28 RAF bombers, 13 bombers and 7 fighters of the 9th Tactical Air Force and 13 fighters of the 2d Tactical Air Force. A total of 29 German planes were reported shot down yesterday and five more destroyed on the ground.

Last night two waves of RAF heavies rained 730,000 incendiaries and hundreds of explosive bombs on Chemnitz, 35 miles southwest of Dresden, in a followup to a daylight blow by 450 Flying Fortresses. Other RAF targets for the night were Berlin, Duisburg, Mainz, Nuernburg, Dessau and an oil plant south of Leipzig.

EXILE PREMIER SAYS POLAND STANDS FIRM

Arciszewski Asserts Nation Resents Partition by Her Allies.

ASSAILS CRIMEA PROGRAM

Declares a Parliament Elected Now Would Not Be Free—Troops to Fight On.

FEB 16 1945

London, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Premier Tomasz Arciszewski of the Polish Government in exile today accused the Big Three of dictatorial acts, and declared Poland would "never surrender to slavery and the new partition done her by her Allies."

For forty-five minutes Mr. Arciszewski, who is a socialist, leveled accusations at Soviet Russia, and then terminated his press conference when an American correspondent, Phil Ault of the United Press, asked:

"Does this government in London propose to do anything but talk?"

For a moment the 67-year-old prime minister hesitated; then he retorted:

Says Poles Will Approve.

"Of course you may think these expressions of opinion by this government are superfluous, but under the orders of this government are important forces fighting on land, sea and air—and that is more than talking."

Premier Arciszewski said the decision taken by his government in rejecting the Big Three proposals would "certainly meet the approval of the Polish people, which this government legally represents and to which they are loyal." He said he would not resign because of the Crimea decisions, because that would mean accepting the dictates of foreign Powers."

He accused the Russians of arresting, deporting "and even killing" Polish home army officers and men.

"The situation in Poland today is tragic," he said. "The Russian Army has been followed by their secret police. There have been great requisitions and mass looting. The Russians not only are not giving the Poles food, but are taking food away from the Poles.

"My government does not believe that by including some new people in the proposed government, by decisions taken in Moscow, that it will be any more free than the governments in Lublin and Romania."

Warns Deserters.

Ed Morgan of the Chicago Daily News asked if the London government would revoke the citizenship of Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former premier, if he joined the new government. Premier Arciszewski replied that he had answered that question before. What he said before was that the Polish people would act against Poles who deserted the London government "when Poland is free," adding that those taking part in the regime would "be held jointly responsible for acts carried out by the Warsaw government."

He said, concerning the proposed elections in Poland, that a Parliament elected now "would not be free," and that "furthermore any election now or in the near future would be inadequate because of the four or five million Poles in Germany and Russia, where they were deported."

Meanwhile, in Rome, the Polish Public Relations Office announced that the London Government had appealed to Polish troops fighting in Italy "to carry out their duty, retaining peace, dignity and solidarity," despite "the heavy blow which the Polish cause has suffered" because of the Crimea decisions.

POLISH PREMIER SCORES PLAN TO PARTITION POLAND

PARRIS

LONDON, Feb. 15—(AP) Tomasz Arciszewski, premier of the exiled Polish government in London, declared today that Poland will "never surrender to slavery and a new partition done her by the Allies," and expressed indignation at the suggestion that his administration was without power to act.

The 67-year-old prime minister closed a 45-minute press conference blast against Russia when a reporter asked: "Does this government in London propose to do anything except talk?"

Opposes Plan Fiercely

Arciszewski's eyes blazed and his voice was raised as he shot back:

"Of course you may think these expressions of opinion by this government are superfluous, but under the orders of this government are important forces fighting on land, sea and in the air—and that is more than talking."

Then he rose and walked out uttering words in Polish. After the confusion a spokesman translated:

"The prime minister says we want the friendship of Russia and good relations with Russia, that we have no other possible designs against the Soviet, and that all we want from Russia is freedom and independence."

In connection with the troops under the London government, a dispatch from Rome today reported that Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, commander of Polish troops in Italy, had issued an order of the day appealing to his men to maintain discipline despite "the heavy blow which the Polish cause has suffered" in the Crimea conference decisions.

Arciszewski accused the Big Three of dictatorial acts and said that Britain and the United States may be disillusioned by Russia "in the very near future."

He said that his government would not resign because of the Crimea decisions. "If we resigned it would mean accepting the dictates of foreign powers," he said.

The Polish nation, he said, "does not believe in the words of Russia when she promises free democracy for Poland."

Scores Allies

"We are waiting for words to be put into practice, and not for promises," he continued. "We hope the free citizens of Britain and America will not believe in the sincerity of those words until they are put into practice. If Britain and America believe them they may be disillusioned in the very near future."

His government, he said, does not believe that if some new people should be included in the proposed new government, it would be "any more free than the governments in Lublin and Rumania."

"Any new government formed will never have freedom of action," he declared, "until one-power occupation is lifted and the fear of concentration camps and deportations is wiped out."

Arciszewski accused the Russians of "great requisitions" of Polish food and of "mass looting" which he said reached such a state that Poles now have been reduced to below subsistence level.

He further charged that the Russians had arrested, deported and "even shot" officers and men of the Polish home army.

Former Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, while not expressing complete approval of the Big Three's Crimea decisions, said through his newspaper weekly "Jutro Polski" that the Arciszewski government was "partially guilty for our absence while the decisions were taken."

FEB 16 1945

Mikolajczyk's paper said that "the results of the Big Three conference are for Poland bad indeed," but it added:

"We accept with all due respect the declaration concerning a strong independent and democratic Poland, and we attach great importance to this declaration if it is followed by complete good will and by a determination to carry it out."

The paper said that the Big Three decisions were the result of "the overthrow of Mikolajczyk's government and policy" and of Arciszewski's refusal to accept an offer of compensation of territory in the west.

NAZI REFUGEES SWARMING INTO CENTRAL REICH

KABELAKE

LONDON, Feb. 15—(AP) That the Nazis now are suffering extreme misery and death was reported officially tonight by the Germans who said that "several millions" of refugees from the east were swarming into the central Reich as the Red army pushed toward Berlin.

The total number of fleeing Germans is growing hourly with many of the travelers perishing in the wintry winds, the German DNB news agency said.

Nazis Still See Victory

(Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, writing in his weekly article in Das Reich, declared today that the Germans still had an "essential chance" for victory if they would make the invasion of Germany so costly that the Allies would "conceive that they cannot attain their aim without endangering their own existence." A portion of the Goebbels article was transmitted in English to the far East by the Transocean news agency and recorded by the Federal Communications commission.)

The Nazi report on the mass exodus from the east stated that the "several millions" figure was reached as long ago as two weeks. That was before Marshal Ivan S. Konev started his rampage from the west banks of the Oder river in Silesia toward the heart of the Reich putting to flight or engulfing hundreds of thousands more Germans.

Even a fortnight ago, DNB said, many of those who managed to reach the bomb-ridden interior had to be put up in "very primitive quarters."

The evacuation of the overrun eastern provinces was termed "one of the greatest achievements of all times," but the Nazi account admitted that the swift Russian advances had upset the government's plans and made the westward trek one of misery and death for many.

Those who could ride traveled on anything that had wheels—horse-drawn carts, trucks, buses and railroad freight cars. But for many, it was a forced march by foot through snow and wintry blasts, DNB said, adding that the "marchers" were women, children and the aged. The men were taken into the Volkssturm to stay behind and face the Red army as cannonfodder. Those in the trek had to leave the roads to the Wehrmacht which had travel priority to the front or rear.

To keep the marchers on the move Nazi helicopters hovered above to spot and report any traffic jams.

Nazis Deny Losses

DNB denied what it termed "absurd rumors about huge losses," but said none the less that it was true that "refugee columns and transport suffered losses because of the weather but the mortality rate was not abnormal for several millions of people."

(In his article declaring that Germany still had an "essential chance" for victory, Goebbels warned that to attain such a victory the Germans must use "every means" of defense including the "most audacious" and "most desperate" ones. He did not explain what he had in mind.

(Telling the German people again that they could not be defeated until they admitted defeat and that "nothing is irreparable" as long as a war lasts, Goebbels declared:

("It is true that the enemy today has at his disposal a larger war potential than we. But this is true only with respect to material and not with respect to morale. We know that the worst war still is better and more bearable than a peace imposed upon us by our enemies. A people determined to employ for the defense of their lives every means—even the most audacious ones—cannot be defeated.")

61 Allied Planes Lost In New Offensive

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—Announced Allied losses since the new air offensive against Germany began Tuesday night total 61 planes, including thirteen American light or medium bombers and seven fighters, and 28 British bombers and thirteen fighters.

These figures do not include losses in yesterday's 2,250-plane assault, or today's attacks.

With damaged planes ordered to land at bases on the continent, it is no longer possible to keep an accurate, up-to-the-minute tabulation.

British Method

The British announce the number of planes missing and then revise the figures from later reports. The United States Strategic Air Force follows a policy of not announcing figures until all planes have been accounted for.

After Tuesday night's twin attack on Dresden the RAF announced sixteen bombers missing. The figure finally was whittled to six, as straggler planes were located at French and Belgian bases.

Dresden Monuments Ruined, Germans Say

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—The German radio tonight described Dresden, Germany's art center now lying in the path of the Red Army, as "smoking heaps of rubble" left by the massive Allied air attacks.

Attacked four times since the aerial offensive was launched Tuesday night, the capital of Saxony became a prime target because it is a strategic communications and supply center for German troops on the Eastern front.

The Transocean agency said German officials "announced with violent rage" the complete destruction of the Boroque Catholic cathedral and the Zwinger, famous art gallery, as well as palaces, the old and new town halls, the history museum, opera house and hospitals.

The United States 8th Air Force reported tonight that reconnaissance planes over Dresden after today's bombing found the city obscured by smoke, but observed fires in the main freight yards.

'Leak' Of British Letters Investigated

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—Clement Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister, told Commons today that correspondence between Winston Churchill and Generalissimo Franco of Spain had been published in United States newspapers "without prior knowledge and still less with the consent of his Majesty's Government."

Franco was reported to have proposed a Spanish-British alliance as the basis of an anti-communistic bloc in western Europe, and Churchill rebuffed him caustically.

Protest Demanded

Attlee, answering a question, said the Government would do "what is in their power to prevent unauthorized leakages from taking place" in the future. He declined to give Commons an official report on the exchange, saying it would be "undesirable to set a precedent."

Earl Winterton, Conservative, demanded a strong protest to the United States Government "in view of the fact that this is not the first occasion on which documents sent to the United States Government have been published in an unauthorized way." House members cheered.

"We are doing our utmost to find how this leakage occurred and we have taken the matter up," Attlee responded.

FDR SENDS FAREWELL MESSAGE TO STALIN

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP) President Roosevelt's farewell message to Premier Stalin at the conclusion of the Crimea conference predicted the people of the world would see the results of the meeting "as a real guarantee that our three great nations can work in the peace just as well as in the war."

The text of the message as broadcast from Moscow tonight said:

"On leaving the hospitable shores of the Soviet Union I wish to tell you how deeply grateful I am to you for all the kindness you have shown me while I was your guest in the Crimea.

"I am departing much encouraged by the results of the conference between you, the Prime Minister and myself.

"The peoples of the world, I am sure, will see the achievements of this conference as real guarantee that our three great nations can work in the peace as well as in the war."

Fight Race Bias, Labor Urged

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—Joseph Curran, president of the CIO's National Maritime Union, urged today that the proposed new World Trade Union Federation include machinery to battle discrimination based on race, color or creed.

"Our brother comrades from Mexico," Curran said in an address to the international labor conference, "know full well that in the southwestern United States there still exists discrimination against workers of Mexican descent with respect to housing, food and wages."

The CIO official proposed that a special department in the international labor setup should investigate, educate and give publicity to instances of discrimination.

He said that the CIO was lessening discrimination against Negroes in the United States.

L. V. Markov, a Russian delegate said that one of the primary tasks of national trade unions should be to obtain employment for millions of men demobilized from the armies.

Yugoslav Exiles Leaving To Join Tito

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Ivan Subasic and other members of the Yugoslav Government in exile left London before daybreak today for Belgrade to merge themselves with Marshal Tito's Liberation Committee in a new provisional government.

King Peter did not accompany the party.

The plan for the formation of a Yugoslav interim government, in which Tito is expected to be premier, was approved by the Big Three at the Crimean conference. Subasic is expected to become foreign minister of the new government, which will continue until a general election can be held.

For Easing Armistice Terms.

London, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Some relaxation of Italian armistice terms and a possible inquiry by President Roosevelt into arrangements for the relief of French civilians were indicated today by Continental dispatches.

The best available information in Paris was that Mr. Roosevelt had not yet reached France. He was expected to visit Italy on his return trip and arrangements to receive him also have been made, both by the French Government and by Allied headquarters, a news story passed by Allied censorship from Paris said last night.

This dispatch, by Associated Press Bureau Chief Edward Kennedy, said "one of the war's greatest scandals may come out" in connection with French relief if the President visited France. He said that high-ranking administration officials and Army officers had been summoned to be prepared to meet the President.

"Judging from this," it was added, "the President may intend to inquire into the problem of the relief of the French civilian population. It is reported that White House directives for more of this relief have not been fulfilled."

Davis Denies Pledge.

In Washington, OWI Director Elmer Davis said he assumed the reference was to the failure to ship as much civilian supplies into France as planned before the invasion.

"However this Government made no promise that I know of," Mr. Davis said. "The estimate of shipping planned following D day was our guess rather than any pledge of performance."

The Paris dispatch said it was reliably reported that President Roosevelt expected to call on Pope Pius XII in Italy. From Vatican City today came word that the pontiff was bedfast with influenza and had temporarily canceled audiences. The Vatican City announcement did not mention the President.

A joint British and American statement announcing easing of the Italian armistice terms to some extent, giving greater economic aid to Italy and lifting some Allied administrative controls, was reported in the offing.

An Associated Press dispatch last night from Rome declared that it was understood there the declaration would be announced soon in Washington and London. This dispatch said that agreement on the new status for Italy was reported to have been reached after the British steadfastly refused an American suggestion that the present armistice be scrapped.

The new pronouncement was believed in Rome to keep Italy still definitely in the category of a conquered country. Some Italian officials are said to have advocated full elimination of the armistice agreement on the ground it constitutes a psychological impediment to full Italian collaboration in fighting the Nazis.

Bonus for Increase in Family

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP).—A postwar bonus plan for families, providing 5 shilings ($1) weekly for each child after the first, was proposed in a government bill made public today. Sir William Jowitt, minister of social insurance, estimated about 2,600,000 families would qualify for payments. The bonus would be part of the comprehensive government Beveridge plan.

CANADIAN TROOPS POUR OVER NIERS IN DRIVE ON GOCH

Battle for Plains Leading to Big Nazi Munitions Producing Area.

SMASH TOWARD CALCAR

Seventh Army Lashes Out in New Attack South of Saar Basin.

PARIS, Feb. 15—(AP) The Canadian First army in a two-mile gain poured troops and tanks today across the last river before the stronghold of Goch, beyond which lies open rolling country leading to Germany's great munitions producing region.

As Canadians and British welded two crossings of the Niers river into a solid five-mile bridgehead, other forces pressing due east 14 miles inside Germany neared Moyland, less than two miles from the communications center of Calcar and 17 miles from Wesel in the northwest corner of the industrial Ruhr.

Control Rhine Bank

On the north flank, Canadians seized control of 20 miles of the Rhine's south bank east of Nijmegen by entering Hurendeich and capturing a ferry crossing to the textile town of Emmerich, five miles northeast of Kleve.

At the opposite end of the Western front, the U. S. Seventh army lashed out in a new attack south of the Saar basin that gained up to a mile and a half on a five-mile front.

This attack, dealt by the 44th Division, ironed out a German salient east of the French city of Sarreguemines in the northern Vosges mountains.

Comparative quiet lay over the remainder of the front, except for the Eifel mountain sector where the U. S. Third army is attacking the westwall south of Pruem. This fallen German citadel was under enemy artillery fire.

Best Third army advance of the day was a mile and a half through advanced Westwall positions 25 miles south of Pruem along the Sure river.

A fall of 16 inches on the flooded Roer, where the U. S. First and Ninth and British Second armies are deployed, indicated that that troublesome barrier on the Cologne plain was returning to normal. The Germans shelled First army positions around the Roer dams southeast of Aachen.

Resistance to Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian First army was lightest on the south flank, where Scottish troops captured Kessel, bridged the Niers river and poured armor across four miles northwest of Goch.

Two and a half miles to the southwest, Hommersom, a second village blocking the approaches to Goch, also fell and the attack thus carried across the Niers all the way from Kessel to Gennep at the confluence of the Niers and Maas.

The Germans had been pouring in blistering fire along this river front, but now the weight of their defensive fire veered to the east.

Between the forces pressing on Goch and Calcar, a British column was punching slowly down the highway from Kleve to Uedem, a traffic control center four miles east of Goch. Enemy mortar and artillery fire was intense.

Battle in Moyland Woods

Heaviest fighting on the approaches to Calcar raged in Moyland woods, where the Germans were clinging to a hill from which they could sweep the main highway into the town.

Although the German lines guarding the northern approaches to the Ruhr and Rhineland were sagging dangerously, a front dispatch said the enemy was not yet trying to dig new defenses.

It attributed this surprising lack of preparation to the paralyzing effect of Field Marshal Montgomery's incessant artillery fire, which crushed six strong counterblows yesterday and left the enemy in a precarious situation.

Fog and haze cut the pace of the Allied aerial onslaught, but more than 1,100 U. S. heavy bombers roared out from Britain, smashing at targets deep inside the Reich, and tactical fleets were active.

As the Canadian First army offensive once more picked up momentum on the eighth day of operations, the most significant gains were made on the south, where the strong German Niers river line was cracking.

United Kingdom troops captured Kessel, across the river, and pushed on southest toward Goch, less than four miles away.

Simultaneously, other forces seized Hommersum, a second strong-point guarding Goch's network of roads and railways. They were about to link their Niers bridgehead there to the one at Kessel, which is two and a half miles northeast of Hommersum.

Scotch troops pressing down the Maas river captured Heijen, two miles south of the Germans' fallen Maas-Niers strong-point of Gennep. The advance here was slowed more by the mire than by the enemy.

The Germans were putting up the stoutest resistance near the center of the arching 20-mile front.

South and southeast of Kleve, advanced elements were held up about two and a half miles both from Goch and a second communications network at Calcar, had advanced nearly two miles beyond Bedburg, battling across the ooze of mudflats, where yesterday some of the strongest German counterblows were smashed.

Finally appreciating the full significance of Montgomery's offensive, the German high command was rushing reinforcements into the battle zone from all sectors of the far-flung Western front.

The mud was knee deep at places, restricting the use of armor and throwing the burden on the foot soldiers, who had to contend as well with dense mine fields.

Except for a few snipers and scatterings of detached troops, the Kleve state forest south of Kleve was cleared, and Allied troops were operating in the fringes.

On the north flank, the water was the biggest enemy along the flooded Rhine.

The drive was slowly rolling up strong German positions in the eastern edge of Holland along the Maas, which the enemy has converted into his first line of defense on this sector.

By the capture of Heijen, Crerar's hard-fighting Scotch were 33 miles north of Roermond, which from its strategic position behind the Maas and Roer rivers has been turned into a stronghold.

It was to bring their lines up along the Roer south of Roermond that the British Second army staged its limited offensive early this year.

At Roermond, the Roer assumes from the Maas the role of a defensive barrier to the munitions-making cities of the Ruhr and Rhineland. It is along this front that the British and the U. S. Ninth army are 14 miles from Muenchen Gladbach, in the western edge of the Ruhr industrial valley.

Canadians Push To West Bank Of Rhine

COWAN

Paris, Feb. 15 (AP)—Canadians fought through flood waters to the west bank of the Rhine opposite Emmerich today and swung slowly along the northern end of the Rhine valley in a drive behind the Siegfried Line that was threatening to outflank the Ruhr munitions industries.

The 20-mile Kleve front was the only active one in the west. On its south flank, British Empire troops crushed a series of violent German counterattacks and pressed close to the key defense bastions of Goch and Calcar.

Six More Nazi Attacks Fail

The Canadian 1st Army's attack gathered momentum today after the troops beat off six more Nazi attacks, the same number as yesterday. There were signs of German faltering under the bombardment of massed batteries of artillery and skies full of planes. Kessel, 5 miles west of Goch, was taken.

Newly captured prisoners in mud-caked uniforms straggled to the rear looking like scarecrows. They were silent and woebegone; their eyes were red with fatigue, their stubbled faces gaunt with hunger. All their fight was gone.

Nowhere was there evidence that the Canadians were attempting to cross the wide Rhine. The drive has already overrun 120 square miles, mostly in Germany.

Roer Falls 16 Inches

At the edge of the Cologne Plain to the south, where three Allied armies have been stymied by Roer River floods, the stream level fell sixteen inches from midnight to daybreak, bringing nearer the time when American and British armies may join the offensive.

More and more Germans were drawn into the semi-aquatic battle that was steadily turning the German flank in the north.

The Allies were making such a real threat to the Ruhr and Rhineland, the very heart of the German war effort, that Nazi Field Marshal Walther von Model mustered every reserve he could for their defense.

The Rhine was reached at Hurendeich. There the river is normally 3,270 feet wide but breaches in dykes have made it even wider. At low points north of Kleve and west of Emmerich it was as wide as the English Channel between Calais and Dover and flood waters were 8 feet deep, leaving only islands of sunken villages. The Canadians used amphibious tanks to advance.

Canadians' Position

The Canadian 1st Army, already behind the Siegfried Line and up to the Rhine, was in a position to push south and confine or kill the enemy on either side of his West Wall fortifications.

More and more Germans were drawn into the semi-aquatic battle which steadily was turning the German flank in the north. Barrages from hundreds upon hundreds of Field Marshal Montgomery's big guns, and huge fleets of Allied planes, paralyzed every German attempt to recover ground and exacted terrible casualties. Nonetheless, the threat was so real to the Ruhr and Rhineland, the very heart of the German war effort, that Field Marshal von Model mustered every reserve he could lay hands on for his defending army group.

The Rhine was reached at Hurendeich. There it is normally 3,270 feet wide, but breaches in dykes in the desolate lowlands have made it even more imposing. At low points north of Kleve and west of Emmerich, the Rhine was as wide as the English Channel between Calais and Dover and flood waters were eight feet deep, leaving only islands of sunken villages.

[Between Dover and Calais the channel is twenty-two miles wide.]

Farther south and near the center of the Western front, the American 3d Army made quarter-mile advances to within 8 miles of Bitburg, where seven military roads meet.

Harassing German artillery fire increased on the United States 7th Army front in Alsace. During the night 500 shells dropped on positions near Schweighouse, near Haguenau. A dozen heavy shells fell in Saverne, which commands the Vosges pass to Strasbourg. The Germans got a 30-man patrol across the Moder River at Schweighouse, but only two men escaped the hail of small-arms fire from the Americans.

10,000 Planes Used

The British Empire troops crept forward in the wake of blows dealt to Germany by 10,000 planes in 36 hours. Much of the pounding was given to the area between the Rhine and General Eisenhower's seven armies. One group wrecked the Rhine bridge at the Ruhr city or Wesel, 18 miles ahead of British troops. Gen. Henry Crerar's Canadian 1st Army appeared definitely headed south toward the Cologne Plain. On the west edge of that plain, the British 2d and the American 9th and 1st Armies were checkmated by the Roer floods, flowing from opened dams at the headwaters.

The Canadians, Britons, Scots and Welsh commanded by Crerar captured Hommersum, Heijen and Warbeyen. Opposite Emmerich and its factories, the Canadians were 13½ miles inside Germany and 49 from the great Rhine city of Dusseldorf.

Niers Bridgeheads Widened

German resistance stiffened on the eastern and southern flanks of the oozing battleground between the Rhine and Meuse. Two bridgeheads were widened and strengthened across the Niers River, along which the Germans had hoped to shield Goch. One was at Hommersum; the other at Villers. Both are five miles from Goch, but vanguards pressed within 3 miles of that town yesterday.

The small Kleve State Forest, 3 miles north of Goch, was cleared. Empire troops were within 3 miles of Calcar, road center close to the Rhine.

Scottish vanguards were advancing down the 8-mile Kleve-Calcar highway east of the Reichswald and along the main lateral from Nijmegen. Against heavy opposition, they also edged forward on the Kleve-Udem road.

Germans' Situation

Curiously, there was little indication that the Germans were trying to establish a new line of defense west of the Rhine in that area, although British flyers reported some digging between Goch and Calcar.

Associated Press Correspondent Roger D. Greene said the logical explanation was that the Germans had been hammered so violently and incessantly by artillery, planes and infantry that they had no time to erect new defenses. Their costly failure to stem the onslaught yesterday with half a dozen or more strong attacks made their situation even more precarious.

"With another three or four days of good flying weather such as yesterday, it is possible that the Germans will be so dazed, dispirited and bomb-happy that they will no longer be able to maintain a coordinated defense," Greene wirelessed.

More Nazis Captured

General Eisenhower's communiqué said the prisoner toll for the Colmar offensive had risen 2,500 to around 20,000. He said 5,087 Germans were captured in the three days ended Monday. The American 3d Army, despite its relative pause, took 726 prisoners in the Pruem-Echternach sector yesterday.

More pillboxes and fortified houses were mopped up on the 3d Army front and the 5th Division, in a slight advance, reached a point 1½ miles north of Ferschweiler and 8 southwest of Bitburg. Ground haze covered the central front early today, but flyers expected to get into the air by afternoon.

Floods and mud have checked Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., more than the Germans. The rivers were dropping to normal levels all along the front, however; the Sure River fell a foot in an hour.

Neglect Charge Faced By Mayor

WERNER

Paris, Feb. 15 (AP)—The American railway battalion black-market trials enter a new phase next week with the court-martial of Major Walter H. Marlin, former commander of the principal battalion involved in the supply lines scandal on charges of neglect of duty.

Marlin was relieved of the command of the 716th Railway Operating Battalion after military police raided that outfit last November and took 500 men to Paris for interrogation. Subsequently 160 enlisted men and two officers were convicted and sentenced to prison terms for participation or complicity in the looting of supply trains and diversion into the French black market of army supplies en route to the fighting front.

Not Charged With Deals

Lieut. Col. Carmon C. Harris, the prosecutor, emphasized tonight that Marlin is not accused of participation in the train looting or in black-market deals in looted supplies, but in neglect of duty in failing to prevent such diversion of supplies.

[In Washington, the War Department said that the 1939 home address listed for Major Marlin was Oakland, Cal.]

"It is difficult to conceive," Harris said, "how the wholesale pilfering from supply trains could have been engaged in by enlisted men of an operating battalion without the battalion and company commanders having knowledge thereof, or of being guilty of neglect of duty in not having such knowledge."

One Trial Starts Tuesday

One company commander, whose name was not disclosed, is scheduled to be tried with Marlin February 20. Others also are expected to be tried—possibly at the same time—but this will depend upon the outcome of a conference. A new court is being appointed to hear these cases.

Three officers previously tried, and one of whom was acquitted, all were below the rank of captain.

As a result of testimony in the longs series of enlisted men's trials just completed, a new list of alleged offenders is being compiled. It includes upward of 100 names. Somewhere between 25 and 100 are expected to be tried in a new series of courts-martial beginning in March. The investigations will be continued until every person connected with the looting has been brought to trial.

Nisei, With Name Struck From Roll, Dies A Hero

U. S. Army Headquarters, Feb. 15 (AP)—Frank T. Hachiya, 25, of Portland, Ore., one of sixteen Japanese-Americans whose names have been stricken from the country memorial roll by the Hood River, Ore., American Legion Post, died while performing a dangerous volunteer mission, the Army reported today.

Hachiya, attached to the 7th Division, was fatally wounded on Leyte, December 30. He died January 3 after most of the men in his regiment volunteered to give him blood transfusions..

Lieut. Howard Moss, Hachiya's commanding officer, said Frank volunteered to cross a valley under Japanese fire to scout an enemy position. The regiment was in a tough spot. Information on enemy disposition was essential. At the bottom of the valley Frank worked ahead of his protecting patrol.

"A Jap sniper let Frank have it at close range," Moss related.

Hachiya attended the University of Oregon. He enlisted shortly after the Pearl Harbor attack. He had served through the Kwajalein and Eniwetok invasions.

His father, Junkichi Hachiya, is in a War Relocation Authority camp.

Thirty-six Plants Captured

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Russians, in the East and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's armies in the West have overrun thirty-six of Germany's eighty-one major refineries and synthetic oil plants, which once turned out more than 500,000 tons of motor fuel a month, said a joint statement issued today by the United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe and the British Air Ministry.

[Among the plants captured by the Russians were those at Czechowice, Trzebinia and Oswiecim in Poland and at Odertal (Deschowitz) in Silesia, while two plants at Blechhammer in Silesia were neutralized, The United Press said. The plants captured by the Allies were not specified.]

Only forty-five of these major plants still are in German hands now and many of them have been badly damaged.

Loss of Refineries Cuts Nazi Motor Oil Output

BERLIN FEAR

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Feb. 15--(AP) The loss of refineries to Allied advances from the east and west, combined with air blows, has cut German motor fuel production by 80 per cent to 103,000 tons a month—hardly enough to keep an average size air force in operation—it was announced officially today.

The Russians in the East and Gen. Eisenhower's armies in the West have overrun 36 of Germany's 81 major refineries and synthetic oil plants, which once turned out more than 500,000 tons of motor fuel a month, said a joint statement of the U. S. strategic air forces in Europe and the British air ministry.

Refineries Blasted

When the air forces launched an all-out attack on German oil production last April, the high command selected 58 refineries and 23 synthetic oil plants as major producers of fuel and lubricants for the German armed forces and marked them for destruction.

Since last April, 52 of the refineries and 22 of the synthetic oil plants have been attacked a total of 450 times by heavy bombers of the U. S. Eighth air force from Britian and the Fifteenth air force from Italy.

Now, with the advance of the Red army and the Allies from the west only 45 of these major plants still are in enemy hands.

Because of constant "policing" by heavy bombers, only four synthetic oil plants and possibly one of the refineries still are operating.

The synthetic plants are at Bohlen, Ruhland, Magdeburg and the big Leuna plant at Merseburg.

Air force officers, pointing out the importance the enemy attaches to oil production, say the Leuna plant and one at Politz are more heavily defended against air attack than Berlin.

Despite continuous air attacks, it is considered likely that the Germans always will be able to scrape together enough oil to mount an offensive by a dozen or so divisions. This can be done by borrowing oil from divisions which are strictly on the defensive.

It is estimated the Germans used 120,000 tons of gasoline from Dec. to Jan. 15 in the battle of the Ardennes. They had planned to capture enough Allied stocks to keep the offensive rolling and failure to do so was one factor in halting the break-through.

The U. S. strategic air forces in Europe originally figured it would take six months to carry out a decisive program of destruction against German oil production.

It failed to achieve that goal because it underestimated the enemy's ability to repair plants — an ability now greatly diminished by a lack of supplies and manpower and a reduction in the production of equipment.

The major synthetic oil plants in the Ruhr have been prime targets of the Royal Air Force Bomber command, whose heavies have attacked them 42 times since last June. The Eighth Air force joined the attack with 21 raids.

As a result, the ten plants' output was reduced to but 15 per cent of normal production.

Fortunately, the Allied air forces have made their own job easier by reducing the enemy's oil supply to a point where he no longer can afford to train pilots to oppose American and British airmen on an equal basis. The training program now is virtually non-existent.

36 Of Nazis' 81 Oil Plants Are Overrun

BEALMEAR

Allied Headquarters, Paris, Feb. 15 (AP)—Russian armies in the East and General Eisenhower's forces in the West have overrun 36 of Germany's 81 major refineries and synthetic oil plants in their two-way squeeze on the Reich.

As a result of the ground and air attacks, German production of motor fuel which once ran well over 500,000 tons per month now is 103,000 tons per month, according to information available here. This is considered by the Allies as hardly enough to keep an average sized air force in action.

Attacked 450 Times

When the United States Air Forces started all-out attacks on German oil production last April, the high command selected 58 refineries and 23 synthetic oil plants as major producers of fuel and lubricants for German armed forces. All were marked for destruction.

Since April, 52 of these refineries and 22 of the synthetic plants have been attacked a total of 450 times by American heavy bombers.

But with the Red Army and those of the west closing in from two directions, only 45 of these major plants remain in enemy hands.

Four Believed Operating

Because of the constant "policing" by Allied strategic air forces, only four synthetic oil plants now are believed to be operating. These are at Bohlen, Ruhland, Magdeburg and Merseburg, where the huge Leuna plant is located. All the crude oil plants have been made inoperative, with one possible exception.

Air Force officers, speaking of the importance Germany attaches to oil production, asserted today that the Leuna plant and another at Politz have been more heavily defended against air attack than Berlin.

Refinery Losses Cut German's Oil

BERLIN

Allied Headquarters, Paris, Feb. 15 (AP)—The loss of refineries to Allied advances from the east and west, combined with air blows, has cut German motor fuel production by 80 per cent to 103,000 tons a month—hardly enough to keep an average size air force in operation—it was announced officially today.

Picked Major Producers

When the air forces launched an all-out attack on German oil production last April, the high command selected 58 refineries and 23 synthetic oil plants as major producers of fuel and lubricants for the German armed forces and marked them for destruction.

Since last April, 52 of the refineries and 22 of the synthetic oil plants have been attacked a total of 450 times by heavy bombers of the United States 8th Air Force from Britain and the 15th Air Force from Italy.

Now, with the advance of the Red Army and the Allies from the west only 45 of these major plants still are in enemy hands.

Because of constant "policing" by heavy bombers, only four synthetic oil plants and possibly only one of the refineries still are operating.

The synthetic plants are at Bohlen, Ruhland, Magdeburg and the big Leuna plant at Merseburg.

Cite Heavy Defenses

Air force officers, pointing out the importance the enemy attaches to oil production, say the Leuna plant and one at Politz are more heavily defended against air attack than Berlin.

Despite continuous air attacks, it is considered likely that the Germans always will be able to scrape together enough oil to mount an offensive by a dozen or so divisions. This can be done by borrowing oil from divisions which are strictly on defensive.

The United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe originally figured it would take six months to carry out a decisive program of destruction against German oil production.

Underestimated Repairs

It failed to achieve that goal because it underestimated the enemy's ability to repair plants—an ability now greatly diminished by a lack of supplies and manpower and a reduction in the production of equipment.

Ten major synthetic oil plants in the Ruhr have been prime targets of the Royal Air Force bomber command, whose heavies have attacked them 42 times since last June. The 8th Air Force joined the attack with 21 raids.

As a result, the ten plants' output was reduced to but fifteen per cent of normal production.

Kilmer's Son Writes Poetry Too

Back in Action on Alsace Front He Carries Volume of Verse With Him.

With the United States Thirty-sixth Division in Alsace, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Lieut. Christopher Kilmer, 27-year-old son of the poet Joyce Kilmer, is back in action with the tough Thirty-sixth Texas Division in Alsace after being temporarily incapacitated by enemy shellfire in Italy.

Lieut. Kilmer first served in the Pacific theater on Kauai Island after entering the Army by way of New York's Fighting Sixty-ninth National Guard Division.

Later he received a commission at the Fort Benning infantry school and joined the Thirty-sixth in Italy a year ago in the Piedmont area. He was with them when the push across the Rapido River started January 23, 1944.

Wounded in the leg by a shell fragment, Lieut. Kilmer spent nearly five months in a hospital, then served on limited duty in Corsica. He asked for a transfer to the Thirty-sixth Division however and came back to serve with the same mortar transport platoon he had left in Italy. Now he is a first lieutenant and division liaison officer.

Young Kilmer, whose father was killed in France in the first world war, writes a bit of poetry himself but confesses little has been published. A volume of handwritten verse he carried with him through Italy and during his hospital siege and subsequent stay in Corsica evidences a strong strain of brooding over the soldier's lot.

Dedicated to Wife.

Much of his verse is dedicated to his wife, the former Bert (correct) Daniel of Oxford, N. C., and their 5-year-old son, Robert.

He calls his wife "The Tarheel Colleen" and it is to her that his notebook collection of verse is dedicated.

One of his verses goes:

If I die here I want my friends to take what they can use,
Mapcase, protractor, odds and ends, and my enormous shoes;
But send my boy my souvenirs, my ribbon and my pay,
Tell him I'm sorry for the years I've been away.
Send Bert my photograph and book, my billfold and my ring,
Please, God, don't let her feel or look hurt by my vanishing.

Another Verse.

Another verse starts:

Being of somber turn of mind, of spirit sad, I sometimes feel
Beauty is water where my gloom unsurpassed holds steady keel
Either toward madness or the tomb.
Remember I do not wish it so
My hope is that where I must go
Love and a beauty unconfined
Will follow me, possess my mind,
Always anoint me, always stay.

Young Kilmer has not had a chance to visit his father's grave at Tar de Nois since he reached France with the Army, but made a pilgrimage there several years ago.

Lieut. Kilmer has an older brother and a sister in the United States. The brother is Kenton Kilmer, in the Library of Congress. His sister is a nun, Sister Michael, in the Benedictine Order at St. Cloud, Minn.

G. I.'S STORM CLIFF, THEN STOP TO PRAY

WITNOT

With the Eightieth Division, Wallendorf, Germany, Feb. 14 (Delayed) (A. P.).—At the bottom of a 375-foot stone cliff thirty doughboys knelt in the open air at Protestant and Catholic services today and thanked God that they had emerged alive from a mission that seemed certain death.

Capt. Vernon Kullowatz, Protestant chaplain, and Capt. Benedict Henderson, Catholic, both of Portland, Ore., conducted the Ash Wednesday services. They had to pause from time to time because of the deafening explosions as pillboxes on top of the cliff were destroyed so that the Germans could never use them again.

The doughboys were members of Company C, First Battalion, 319th Regiment, who crossed the flooded River Our at Wallendorf on February 7, with Germans in pillboxes "looking right down their throats," and who spent the next four days storming the cliff. Today, Pfc. Herman Rissinger of West Chester, Pa., a machine-gunner, declared: "You wouldn't believe any one could take an objective like that against the krauts in thick cement pillboxes. But we did it. Don't ask me how. I've been wondering, too."

One pillbox on the crest of the cliff was completely surrounded, but the doughboys had to fight for three days before they captured the eighteen Germans in it. Pfc. Elie Vincent of Abbeville, La., said: "I don't see how in hell we ever made it up that cliff. I doubt if I could do it again even without the krauts' shooting."

NAZIS SAY SIBERIA AWAITS DEFEATED

With Scottish Troops in Germany, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—The Germans have turned to slogans in a dual effort to whip up the jaded spirits of their troops in the Kleve area and to instill fear in the faint-hearted.

Typical of slogans splashed in white and green paint against the sides buildings captured today by the Ladies from Hell were these:

"Victory or Siberia!"
"We Shall Win Yet."
"Everything Counts Now."

Paris Undergoes Practice Alert

Paris, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—An air raid siren sounded in Paris shortly before midnight last night, creating considerable excitement until the all-clear sounded a few minutes later. Police explained that there were no enemy planes around—they merely decided to have a practice alert.

Major Faces Loot Trial

Court Martial in Paris Will Call Marlin Next Week

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP). — The market trials enter a new phase next week with the court martial of Major Walter H. Marlin, former commander of the principal battalion involved in the supply lines scandal, on charges of neglect of duty.

Marlin was relieved of the command of the 716th Railway perating Battalion after military police raided that outfit last November and took 500 men to Paris for interrogation. Subsequently, 160 enlisted men and two officers were convicted and sentenced to prison terms for participation or complicity in the looting of supply trains and dimarket of Army supplies enroute to the fighting front.

FDR ASKS PROBE OF FRENCH RELIEF

PARIS, Feb. 15.—(AP) President Roosevelt is having an investigation made of the reputed failure of American relief for France's civilians to be distributed during the current Winter as reported promised to the French government, reliable persons said today.

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, special adviser to the President, has been charged with this task, according to these sources.

There is no official word whether the President will come to France himself, but many persons here expect him to come and preparations have been made to receive him in case he does come.

Other representatives of the President, in addition to Judge Rosenman, also have been investigating the relief situation. No statement was available on the subject at Allied Supreme Headquarters, but it appears likely the matter eventually will be brought into the open.

In official French quarters it was said that only one-fourth the amount of food, clothing and medical supplies promised France had been delivered.

charged with this inquiry but other representatives of the President have been investigating.

No statement on the subject was available at supreme headquarters, but it appears likely that the matter eventually will be brought into the open.

President Concerned

Supreme headquarters did, however, inquire into an Associated Press dispatch of yesterday which reported the statements of reliable informants that the civilian food-relief program in France had never been put into effect as designed, and that the President is considerably exercised over the situation.

In official French quarters it was said that only one fourth of the food, clothing and medical supplies promised France had been delivered.

France Expects F.D.R. Visit

Paris, Feb. 15 (AP)—Elaborate arrangements for receiving President Roosevelt in France were pursued today, but there still was no definite information on the President's final decision whether he will visit this country.

Some high officers said they believed the President would visit France. In French official quarters it was said no official word had been received on the subject.

Probe Under Way

It was learned on good authority, meanwhile, that the President is already having an investigation made of the failure of the French civilian relief program to become operative to the extent promised France during the current winter.

Not only has his associate, Justice Samuel I. Rosenman, been

ALLIES HAMMER NAZIS RETREATING FROM YUGOSLAVIA

ROME, Feb. 15 — (AP) The Germans toiled desperately today to get their battered Balkan army out of Yugoslavia for use against the Russians after daylong attacks by American and British planes had left the Zagreb-Vienna escape route littered with the wreckage of military trains.

Both U.S. and R.A.F. craft struck heavy blows yesterday at enemy movements northward toward Vienna. American heavies blasted rail yards at Graz, Maribor and Zagreb—all key points on the Nazi evacuation route — and escorting Lightning fighters shot up 12 heavily-loaded troop trains.

Only two Nazi fighters attempted to interfere as the fleet of more than 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators delivered their loads with what was officially described as good results. Both enemy planes were beaten off.

Lt. Col. Robert M. Wray of Omaha, Neb., was credited with destroying three locomotives as the Lightnings swarmed down on the northbound trains between Zagreb and Graz. Lt. Frank A. Kieler, Hamburg, N. Y., was credited with two.

South African Beaufighters pumped 16 rockets into railyards at Karlovac, 30 miles southwest of Zagreb, starting fires visible for more than 50 miles. R.A.F. Mustang squadrons claimed destruction of 15 locomotives.

Ground action in Italy continued to be limited to patrol clashes except at the extreme western end of the front, where enemy raids and a small infiltration forced American troops to withdraw a short distance between the villages of Strettoia and Seravezza. Brazilian troops repulsed a German patrol near Affrico, 27 miles southwest of Bologna.

Both sides kept up a lively artillery fire all along the front.

Yank Italy Outposts Driven Back

Rome, Feb. 15 (AP)—German infiltration tactics drove back American outposts on the Tyrrhenian coastal sector of the Italian front and a Nazi raid in the Serchio Valley forced another slight withdrawal, but the ground later was regained, Allied headquarters announced today.

Describing the Tyrrhenian action the official report said:

"Between Strettoia and Seravezza our outposts moved back a short distance after enemy forces infiltrated our lines and also launched a raid about 500 yards east of Strettoia."

Yanks Regain Positions

Raiding Nazis forced American troops back a few hundred yards east of Lama Di Sotto, but the positions were regained later, the communiqué said.

Brazilian troops repulsed an enemy patrol a mile and a half northeast of Affrico, a village 27 miles southwest of Bologna. A Brazilian raiding party clashed with a German patrol northeast of Gaggio.

Fifth Army forces suffered some casualties when Germans laid down heavy fire on Allied patrols from strongly entrenched positions south of Bologna.

Action on the 8th Army front was limited to sharp patrol clashes. One Nazi patrol attacked a sector held by Italian troops south of the Valli di Comacchio lagoon.

No Information on Roosevelt.

Rome, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—The American embassy and Allied Headquarters said tonight they had no information that President Roosevelt was in Italy. They were commenting on Paris reports that the President was expected to visit this country.

GRID PLAYER GETS D. F. C. AND D. S. C.

Rome, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Major Louis T. Seith, former West Point football player from San Diego, Cal., won both the Distinguished Service Cross and the Distinguished Flying Cross today for leading a Flying Fortress formation through a torrid air battle to bomb a German airfield.

His formation of twenty-six heavy bombers was attacked by more than 200 Nazi fighters. Fourteen Fortresses were shot down, but gunners of the formation bagged sixty-five enemy craft. The surviving bombers destroyed many additional planes grounded on the field.

Mystery Radio Leads To Rescue Of Flyers

Rome, Feb. 15 (AP) — Mystery radio messages from Yugoslavia which were picked up and solved by RAF wireless operators in Italy have led to the rescue of 250 airmen, mostly Americans, who had bailed out over the Balkans during the German occupation.

The sender, a commercial operator, could not give specific details in his messages for security reasons. But he referred to the "fist on the wall." This was found to indicate a squadron emblem painted on the wall of its mess. He also sent the Army APO number of the United States 15th Air Force.

After the location of the hiding airmen was established beyond doubt, the flyers were rescued from a secret airfield in Yugoslavia. Some of the airmen were ill.

CHURCHILL GETS OVATION IN ATHENS

Athens, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—British Prime Minister Churchill arrived here by plane yesterday and received a stirring ovation in Constitution Square as he exhorted Athenians to "let party hatreds die" and promised personal co-operation in the rehabilitation of Greece.

"These are great days," Mr. Churchill told the assemblage. "These are the days when darkness rolls away and the future lies before your country. "There has been much misunderstanding and ignorance of our common cause and misrepresentation of the issues fought out here in Athens.

"Speaking as an Englishman I am very proud of the part the British army played in protecting this immortal city from violence and anarchy."

Mr. Churchill continued: "From the bottom of my heart I wish you prosperity, that Greece will take her proper place among nations who have suffered terribly in this war. Let right prevail. Let party hatreds die. Let there be unity."

Stadium street has been renamed Churchill street, the mayor's office announced today. It is the city's busiest thoroughfare.

A Government statement said today that 5,300 corpses had been exhumed in the Athens and Piræus regions, following the recent civil war. It declared 3,300 of the total had been executed by the ELAS organization and that the others were killed either in combat or by stray bullets.

MARSHALL GIVES D.S.C.'S IN ITALY

With the Fifth Army in Italy, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Gen. George C. Marshall decorated a number of Fifth Army soldiers during a surprise three-day tour of the Italian front concluded yesterday—and won the hearts of all doughboys with his easy informality.

The United States Army Chief of Staff conferred the Distinguished Service Cross—the Army's second highest award—on three veterans of the Thirty-fourth Infantry Division: Lieut. Sidney Goldstein of Glen Cove avenue, Glen Cove, L. I.; Corporal Morris P. Nelson of Belmond, Iowa, and Pfc. Joe F. Tinsley of Brevard, N. C.

After the ceremonies, Marshall looked at the husky trio and said with a laugh:

"I notice one big difference between you fellows down here, who handle thirty or forty Jerries apiece, and those I decorated in France. Most of those up there seemed to be about 5-foot 4 or 5 and weighed about 120 pounds."

Later he conferred the same decoration on Lieut. Steven M. Kosmyna of Perth Amboy, N. J., who received a battlefield promotion and the Silver Star Medal for previous exploiits.

Gen. Marshall told Fifth Army soldiers yesterday that they have immobilized large German forces in Italy, preventing these Nazi troops from bolstering sagging lines in the eastern and western fronts. It is estimated the Nazis have twenty-seven divisions in Italy.

The General was so unassuming that many of the men did not realize who he was until after he had left their sector. He got a haircut at the Fifth Army Command Post and visited a field kitchen in an exposed sector.

Red Cross Girl in Italy Finds GI Orphan's Family

By The Associated Press.

WITH UNITED STATES FIFTH ARMY in Italy, Feb. 15—Sgt. Stan Swinton of Detroit, Mich., a Stars and Stripes reporter, picked up a hitchhiker on a road near Pisa the other day and got this unusual story of the soldier, who introduced himself as Pvt. Ed Clements:

"I sure hated to leave that place (an evacuation hospital where he had been on duty.)

"For one thing, there was a Red Cross girl there, Clementine Miller, and she was just about the swellest person in the world.

"You see, I grew up as an orphan in a West Philadelphia, Pa., home.

"Somehow no one ever adopted me. In the Army I was assigned to this 'evac' hospital and came overseas and finally wound up on the Anzio beachhead.

Miss Miller was there, too. And I told her my story. She wrote to Philadelphia and asked the Red Cross there to investigate.

"A few weeks later I got a letter from my mother. She'd been hunting me for years. All the time she was in North Philadelphia right near me. She wrote me I had a stepfather, six sisters and four brothers.

"Boy, it's really something to find a family all of a sudden."

that was not true moved Representative Luther Johnson, a Texas Democrat, who next to Chairman Sol Bloom of New York is senior member of the committee, to declare with heat:

"Any American officer who circulates false rumors ought to be punished."

"All the members of the committee and all the king's horses would not make me give the names of these men," Mr. Richards replied.

In questions put to Colonel Spiegelberg, Mr. Richards brought out expressions from the witness that lend-lease had been vital from the beginning and that its discontinuance now would be "fatal."

It remained apparent the extension sought by the Administration was likely to be voted by the committee.

Izvestia Assails Wheeler Stand

Moscow, Feb. 15 (AP)—Izvestia assailed Senator Burton K. Wheeler today for criticism of the Polish agreement in the Crimea conference, calling the Montana Democrat "a worshipper of the reactionary clique of Polish exiles and a leader of the pro-Fascist element in the United States."

"Really," the article said, "Goebbels has not lost his American advocates yet."

The newspaper declared that the Soviet people not only heartily approved of the conference decisions, but were "determined by all means to realize them." It characterized a statement of Tomasz Arciszewski, Premier of the London Polish exile Government, as "remarkable for its lack of realism," and added that "'the democratic government of Arciszewski' fears democracy above all else."

Red Star Comments

An Izvestia editorial said that some foreign observers had held not long ago it was not possible to commence a new offensive in the west. The article commented:

"How do they feel now, now that the Allied staffs have fixed the exact terms and scales of decisive operations?"

The Red Army newspaper Red Star commented that in the chorus of approval of the Crimea confert ence, "one hears the voice of somet skeptics who continue to use magnifying glasses to find defects where they are non-existent or where they have been successfully overcome."

The newspaper included Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., Wisconsin Progressive, and an unnamed French news agency correspondent among those who, it said, "doubted if final agreements had been reached."

Sweden Banishes 5 Nazis

Finds Legation Members Listing Names of Norwegian Refugees

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 15 (AP).—Five members of the German Legation staff have been advised that their presence in Sweden is "no longer desirable" and will leave soon for Germany, it was learned authoritatively today.

All five were believed to be engaged in ferreting out the names of Norwegian refugees in Sweden for use in directing reprisals against relatives still in Norway. Two Swedes are being held on charges of providing such names to the Nazis.

80 Australian Captives Saved

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 15 (AP)—Official notification from Japan of the rescue of eighty Australian prisoners of war who had been classified as missing and believed dead after the sinking of a Japanese transport Sept. 9, 1944, was announced by Prime Minister John Curtin today. The rescued men were reported landed in Japan.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 15 (AP)—The hope that UNRRA would approach problems realistically "to get action rather than speeches and resolutions" was expressed by Dr. Tsiang, the Chinese delegate to the UNRRA conference at Lapstone today.

The conference, attended by delegates from the United States, Britain, Australia, China, France, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines and India, will frame plans for relief and reconstruction in the Pacific, to be submitted to the council in Washington for final approval.

Dr. Tsiang said that since they met in Washington the cause had made progress, with victory near in both Europe and the Far East, and those attending the conference would have to hasten or their military friends would say it was civilians who were delaying.

Although Russia is a member of UNRRA she is not represented at the conference, but her interest was shown by the presence of a Tass news agency representative.

80 Australian Prisoners On Transport Rescued

Canberra, Australia, Feb. 15 (AP). Official notification from Japan of the rescue of 80 Australian prisoners of war who had been classified as missing and believed dead after the sinking of a Japanese transport [illegible] announced September 9, 1944, was announced by Prime Minister John Curtin today. The rescued men were reported landed in Japan.

Other survivors who arrived in Australia last October said that a number of men, including some now reported rescued, were last seen launching a lifeboat, or in the water. Curtin said there were no known grounds for hopes that any further rescues have been made.

MOFFAT OVERDUE ON SYDNEY TRIP

Sydney, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Abbott Low Moffat, leader of the United States delegation, was missing today as the far eastern committee of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration opened a six-day conference.

Mr. Moffat was due by plane a week ago but failed to appear. Last night Washington was cabled, asking if he could be traced.

[The State Department said in Washington today that as far as was known there Mr. Moffat is proceeding normally on his journey. The last word the department received was that Mr. Moffat left San Francisco February 9 for Australia.]

The conference, attended by delegates from the United States, Britain, Australia, China, France, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines and India, will frame plans for relief and reconstruction in the Pacific to be submitted to the council in Washington for final approval.

Starvation and disease resulting from this war may exceed that of 1919, Australia's Minister of External Affairs, H. V. Evatt, declared today. UNRRA is "showing signs of frustration and disillusionment," he said.

Edwin G. Arnold, representing the United States, suggested that so far as China was concerned "UNRRA should make plans independently of any military plans for relief."

Abbot Low Moffat entered the Federal Government as an adviser to the State Department in connection with problems in liberated areas in September, 1943, and the State of New York thereby lost one of its most powerful and most competent legislators. Mr. Moffat for many years has been one of the outstanding Republicans in the predominantly Republican Fifteenth Assembly district, and he had represented that district fifteen years when he entered the State Department.

Mr. Moffat, one of the younger Republicans who caused a reshuffling of the State Republican setup in 1935, was a specialist in financial problems and when he resigned from the Assembly, he was chairman of the important Ways and Means Committee. As Assemblyman he was long regarded as the leading Republican representative from New York city, and no legislation on taxes and no State budgets got approval until Mr. Moffat had scrutinized them.

Pestilence Fear Told At UNRRA Conference

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 15 (AP)—Starvation and disease resulting from this war may exceed that of 1919, Australia's Minister of External Affairs, H. V. Evatt, declared today in a critical survey of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

UNRRA is "showing signs of frustration and disillusionment," Evatt told the organization's Far Eastern committee at the opening of a six-day conference.

Action Demanded, He Says

"People of the nations represented on UNRRA will not be satisfied with resolutions or paper promises," he said. "They are demanding action now. Many UNRRA officials have told us they are growing tired of shadow sparring. They want to get into the ring and get on with the job."

Edwin G. Arnold, representing the United States, suggested that so far as China was concerned, "UNRRA should make plans independently of any military plans for relief." He reported the Philippines were not yet in a position to say whether they would require help.

Cites Weaknesses

Evatt said UNRRA had three weaknesses, listing:

1. Delays in starting its activities in liberated areas.
2. Overcentralization in administration.
3. A need for wider national representation at all levels.

Saying "many of us feel that UNRRA should be far more active in Europe than it has become," the Australian Minister added that "we must see to it that there will not be the same delays in the Far East."

Abbott Low Moffatt, leader of the United States delegation, was missing as the conference opened.

Moffatt was due by plane a week ago but failed to appear.

[In Washington the State Department said today that as far as was known there Moffatt is proceeding normally on his journey.]

Action, Not Speeches, Sought

Hope that the UNRRA approach problems realistically "to get action rather than speeches and resolutions," was expressed by Dr. Tsiang, the Chinese delegate.

The conference, attended by delegates from the United States, Britain, Australia, China, France, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines and India, will frame plans for relief and reconstruction in the Pacific to be submitted to the council in Washington for final approval.

Dr. Tsiang said that since they met in Washington the common cause had made progress, with victory near in both Europe and the Far East, and those attending the conference have to hasten or their military friends would say it was civilians who were delaying.

Mexican Phone Strike Ends.

Mexico City, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Workers of the Swedish-owned Ericsson Telephone System won part of their demands today by a midnight strike that lasted six hours. The 2,500 workers, who asked double pay and other concessions, were accorded 25 per cent increases and 25 cents daily extra for night shifts.

URUGUAY, VENEZUELA JOIN IN WAR ON AXIS

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Uruguayan Government decided today to declare war on the Axis.

Today's Uruguayan decision was made by the Cabinet and President, and now goes to Parliament for ratification.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Government announced tonight that Venezuela recognized existence of a state of war with Germany and Japan.

Mitscher Has Been Making Naval Air History Since '15

Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, under whom Pacific Fleet units are challenging the Japanese Fleet in a daring attack on the Tokyo area, ranks as one of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's most effective leaders in the Pacific war.

Soft-spoken but hard-hitting, "Pete" Mitscher has been in command of Task Force 58, which, since its formation under him in February, 1944, has struck with destructive audacity at Japanese installations on Truk, Saipan, Palau, Yap, Marcus, Wake, Woleiai and the Volcano and Bonin islands.

Commander Hornet

In addition, this carrier commander's flyers cut Jap carrier air strength to pieces in the first battle of the Philippine Sea off Saipan last June, and helped defeat the enemy off the Philippines in October.

Admiral Mitscher, who is 57 and a native of Hillsboro, Wis., also was in command of the Hornet when that carrier transported Lieut. Col. (now Maj. Gen.) James Doolittle's army flyers to within 800 miles of Tokyo four months after Pearl Harbor and from which they took off for their sensational attack on the Japanese capital in April, 1942.

Was At Midway

Subsequently he commanded the Hornet in the Battle of Midway, and in April, 1943, became supreme commander of all the air forces in the Solomons and organized the first effective night-fighter interception in that theater.

Mitscher's achievements, however, were bringing him into prominence long before the present war broke out. Ever since 1915, when he learned to fly an old Curtiss pusher at Pensacola, he has been doing big things in naval aviation.

Won Navy Cross For Flight

In 1919 he piloted one of the three navy planes that attempted the first trans-Atlantic flight. For almost making it from the Azores to Newfoundland without stopping he was awarded the Navy Cross. In 1928 he landed the first plane on the flight deck of the new carrier Saratoga.

During the last war the closest Admiral Mitscher got to action was in convoy duty during the Summer of 1917. After that he was stationed at naval air stations in New York and Florida.

Man Of Quick Decisions

Men who have worked with this graduate of the Naval Academy, Class of 1910, attribute his efficiency in the Pacific to his intimate knowledge of carrier operations, his daring and his unfailing willingness to fight. He never has been disinclined to take chances, and is a man of quick, almost abrupt, decisions.

For his Pacific achievements Mitscher has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the Gold Star in lieu of a second DSM.

Looks His Part

Admiral Mitscher loves a good fight—especially with the Japs—but his belligerent spirit is belied by his mild manners and low voice. In fact, he is so self-effacing that one of the officers who was with him on Guadalcanal said that he almost blended into the jungle.

Though a tonic to the morale and fighting spirit of his own men, Admiral Mitscher has never overly concerned himself about Japanese morale or prestige. Fellow officers refer to him as one of the best Jap haters in the Navy—and with his enormous bush of sand-colored eyebrows, his long, thin, neck, his gaunt face and what remains of his bright red hair, he looks it.

Japanese Version of Attack

The Tokyo radio said last night in an overseas broadcast that "several formations" of small American aircraft had attacked airstrips in the vicinity of the Japanese capital.

"This is the first raid of small enemy aircraft on the Japanese homeland," said the broadcast, as recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The broadcast, which gave the time of the attack as 7:15 a. m. Friday (Tokyo time), asserted that Japanese air defense units were prepared for the raiders, inasmuch as "enemy surface movements have been observed during the last few days."

After the attack by the "small" planes, an estimated twenty "other enemy aircraft" penetrated into some localities of the Kanto area,

Moscow, Feb. 15 (A. P.)—Boleslaw Bierut, president of the Polish National Council, and Edward B. Osubka-Morawski, Premier of the Lublin regime, arrived in Moscow late yesterday and were welcomed by Andrei Vishinski, Soviet Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs. The presence of the two Polish leaders in the Russian capital, following the Big Three decisions with regard to the establishment of a provisional government for Poland, were regarded here as significant.

It was learned that the British and United States missions in Moscow expect the Polish question to be taken up very soon along the lines agreed upon by the Crimean conference. The Polish leaders were accompanied here by V. Z. Lebedev, Russian Ambassador to the Lublin regime.

which includes Tokyo, to strike at undisclosed targets, according to the broadcast. The Tokyo radio said these planes—of a type not specified—were "routed" by Japanese interceptors.

Same Terms for Japan As for Nazis Predicted

Chungking Paper Views Yalta as Pattern for East

"Ta Kung Pao," important Chungking newspaper, said yesterday that terms to be imposed upon Japan by the United States will closely parallel those outlined for Germany at the Yalta conference of the Big Three.

Its forecast of those terms, summarized by the Chungking radio in an overseas broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said that Premier General Kuniaki Koiso is "specifically told that the cost of Japan's defeat will be: (1) unconditional surrender; (2) establishment of separate zones of occupation of Japan by Allied forces; (3) disarming or disbandment of all Japanese armed forces; (4) elimination or control of all Japanese industries; (5) bringing all war criminals to justice; (6) reparations in kind, and (7) removal of all Japanese militarist influences from public office and from the cultural and economic life of the people."

Editorially analyzing Koiso's position, the newspaper predicted that "when the European war nears its end, Japan will go either of two extremes—a Fascist government to fight to the last or a moderate government by an elder statesman to seek peace. Of the two, a Fascist government for harakiri is more likely. Foiso is only a bridge, and a very tottering bridge at that."

E. A. M. Votes to Meet Terms of Athens Pact

Says It Promises to Restore Rights of Greek People

The central committee of the E. A. M. (Greek National Liberation Front) voted Wednesday night to take immediate measures for the "exact application" of the agreement signed between the E. A. M. and the Greek government Monday putting an end to civil strife in Greece, the E. A. M. wireless transmitter said yesterday in a dispatch reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

The dispatch said the Communist party publication "Rizoshastis" "stressed that the agreement secures internal peace and promises the restoration of the people's rights in our martyred country." The newspaper said, according to the dispatch, that in the general interest of the people of Greece and the anti-Fascist struggle," the E. A. M. "will make all attempts to put an end to the disturbances."

The British radio, meanwhile, quoted a message sent by the E. A. M. central committee to Prime Minister Churchill, in Athens, as saying, "We shall continue to strive with the Allies until Fascism is crushed and democracy in Greece is restored."

How Mussolini Irked Hitler

Invaded Greece Without Asking Fuehrer, Rome Court Told

The Italian invasion of Greece in 1940 was launched by Benito Mussolini without consultation with Adolf Hitler, according to testimony given by Dino Benini, a brother of the former Italian Minister for Albanian Affairs, at the trial in Rome yesterday of General Mario Roatta and fourteen other former Fascist leaders charged with maintaining the Fscist regime in power.

As a result, Benini said, a subsequent meeting of Hitler and Mussolini was a stormy one, but Mussolini was "highly satisfied with the idea of having done something on his own initiative."

The Office of War Information reported Benini's testimony.

GUERRILLA RISING IN ITALY SIGNALED

Clark Warns Patriots in N[orth] to Prepare to Strike Foe Fifth Army Falls Back

Italian guerrilla fighters operating behind the German lines in northern Italy were instructed yesterday, in an order issued by the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark and the Italian General staff to "prepare" themselves because the "moment of the final attack is approaching."

The order, quoted by the Rome radio in a domestic broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, recounted to the patriots the recent Allied successes on the Eastern and Western Fronts and declared that their "moment of insurrection" was at hand.

"Patriots," the order said, "the moment of the final attack is approaching and for you the moment of insurrection. Prepare yourselves, listen to us carefully. When the time has come, we will give you the signal."

The patriot fighters of northern Lombardy, meanwhile, were instructed to "do everything to increase sabotage" during the "waiting period" to facilitate the "war activities that you will undertake at the right time."

"Prepare yourselves," the Lombardians were told. "Organize information services. Destroy the spies. Establish contacts between the fighting troops and the supreme commands. Try to discover the enemy plans. Study closely the ground, positions and strength of the Germans.

"Remain united better to provide for the equipment and armament of your men. Do not permit the enemy to waste your strength with large-scale offensives."

Fleet Reported Shelling Corregidor

Japs Say Sweepers Are Clearing Channel for Burst Into Manila Bay.

FEB 16 1945

By Associated Press.

More than twenty American mine sweepers swept an entrance to Manila Bay Tuesday under cover of a naval and air bombardment, the Jap Domei news agency reported today in an unconfirmed dispatch saying: "Some ten enemy transports were believed to be following for a seaborne thrust at Manila.

Domei further on declared that the American fleet is "planning to rush into Manila Bay."

The Domei dispatch, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said eleven American warships engaged in an artillery duel with Corregidor's remaining big guns while the mine sweepers went to work on the channel lying between the fortress and Bataan.

"About 9:30 Tuesday morning an enemy fleet, comprised of two battleships, four cruisers and five destroyers, opened up a barrage of fire against Corregidor, coupled with heavy attacks from enemy aircraft," Domei said. "Our shore-batteries on Corregidor promptly returned the fire with a furious gun duel ensuing between our fortresses and the invading surface craft.

"Toward evening the same day, twenty enemy mine sweepers invaded the narrow strip of water north of Corregidor. One of these enemy vessels was immediately sunk by fire from shore batteries, while the rest of the enemy craft were effectivly checked in their attempt to make a way through the channel.

"There are indications that these enemy mine sweepers are being followed by some ten enemy transports, apparently carrying invasion forces."

The Jap Grand Strategy.

Simultaneously Major-Gen. Masenori Ito, one of Japan's leading military commentators, discounted the worth of Manila. Domei quoted him as saying it was of "no strategic value" and should not be defended to the last man.

In his analysis of the Philippines situation Ito said in effect that American conquest of Manila would not mean a defeat for the Japs because they didn't intend to defend it anyway. He also prepared his Oriental audience to expect heavy fighting soon in northern Luzon where Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita is believed to have the bulk of his forces concentrated.

"Already indications are that the scene of the major battle on the Luzon front has now moved on to the north. If we remember that the battle of Manila is being fought on as a part of our grand strategy we will realize at once that the strategical position of Manila has already been discounted voluntarily."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur daily reports heavy bombing raids on Corregidor. High American naval officers in Washington said the fortress is undergoing one of the heaviest pinpoint bombings in the history of warfare as a necessary prelude to sweeping Jap-laid mines out of Manila Bay.

The fortress must be knocked out and mines cleared from the bay before Pacific Fleet forces can enter the harbor and use Cavite naval base, former headquarters of the American Asiatic Fleet.

Goebbels Sees a Chance

Propaganda Minister Goebbels declared in his weekly article in "Das Reich" that the Germans had an "essential chance" for victory if they would make the invasion of Germany so costly that the Allies "conceive that they cannot attain their aim without endangering their own existence."

In a transmission recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, he warned that to attain such a victory the Germans must use "every means" of defense, including the "most audacious" and "most desperate" ones. He did not explain what he had in mind.

"It is true," he wrote, "that the enemy today has at his disposal a larger war potential than we. But this is true only with respect to materiel and not with respect to morale. We know that the worst war still is better and more bearable than a peace imposed upon us by our enemies.

"Our salvation is our arms. Let us wield them for the last battle that will decide everything. This battle is our big chance. It is up to us whether tomorrow this battle will be our big victory."

Japanese Version of Attack

The Tokyo radio said last night that "several tens" of "small-type" American planes flew in from the sea about 7:15 a. m. Friday (Tokyo time) and "raided principally" airfields on the Boso peninsula, southeast of Tokyo. About an hour and one-quarter later, Tokyo added, an additional "100 and several tens" of similar planes, also coming from the sea east of the Kanto area and attacked targets, not specified, in that area.

The Tokyo radio said some of the attacking formations penetrated into the "southern area" of the Japanese capital, which is in the Kanto area.

"With the enemy raid on our homeland with small-type craft, we have entered a new stage in this war," said one broadcast by Domei, the Japanese news agency. This and the other Tokyo broadcasts were recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

Both the Tokyo radio and Domei asserted in overseas broadcasts and press transmissions that Japanese air-defense units had been ready since "enemy surface movements have been observed during the last few days." Both said Japanese interceptor planes took to the sky immediately. Both declared various American formations had been "routed" and "repulsed."

At 9 a. m. Friday, Tokyo time, Domei reported in a transmission directed to North America: "The air battle is still going on."

One Tokyo broadcast to the United States said a "considerable number" of American planes had been shot down or damaged, while a later Domei transmission said "over a dozen" had been shot down.

A later Tokyo broadcast to Latin America was less specific and more cautious. This broadcast said "substantial war results have already been attained," and added: "Investigations are proceeding presently relative to detailed results."

Range on Tokyo Shortened

Yesterday's bombing of Tokyo by carrier planes from a United States task force, brought bases of American air fighters within the closest range of the Japanese capital since the start of the war.

It was the first flight from American carriers over Tokyo since Lieutenant General James M. Doolittle (then a lieutenant colonel) led sixteen medium bombers from the deck of the aircraft carrier Hornet across Japan on April 18, 1942.

The "regular Tokyo run" for giant B-29 Superfortresses was begun last Nov. 24 with a daylight raid on the Japanese capital. Those planes are based at Saipan in the Marianas Islands, 1,500 miles from Tokyo.

Brigadier General Emmett R. O'Donnell jr. led 111 Superfortresses over Tokio in the Nov. 24 raid.

This raid was followed quickly by three more, including a night attack on Tokyo on Nov. 29. As raids continued, sometimes by a lone reconnaissance plane, evacuation of the capital was reported to be beginning last Dec. 12. Intermittent attacks by light forces of Superfortresses continued through December and January. Incendiary bombs were dropped.

There was a renewal of full-force raids over Tokyo by the Superfortresses last Saturday, when a record number hit the Japanese capital from the Marianas bases.

Gripsholm Due Next Week; 463 Soldiers on It

All are Ill or Wounded; 665 U.S. and Other American Civilians Also on Board

Hundreds of American military and civilian prisoners, exchanged for German nationals in Switzerland, are scheduled to arrive at Jersey City aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm on or about Tuesday, the State Department announced last night.

The Gripsholm's passengers include 463 officers and enlisted men of the Army, all of whom are wounded or ill. Among the others are 665 civilians of the United States and other American republics and seventy-eight military personnel of Canada.

The War Department announced the names and addresses of all exchanged Army personnel and notified the next of kind. A list of civilian repatriates released by the State Department includes citizens of Mexico, El Salvador, Cuba, Costa Rica, Peru and Venezuela.

Some civilians whose names appeared on a list issued Feb. 5 by the State Department had to be left in Switzerland bceuase of the unexpectedly large number of military personnel it was necessary to put aboard the ship. They will be repatriated later.

The War Department said arrangements were being made for appropriate reception of Army repatriates and for immediate physical examinations, settlement of pay accounts in full, presentation of any decorations or awards which may have been authorized and issuance of necessary clothing.

Leave or furlough will be given each officer or enlisted man, if his physical conditions permits it, shortly after his arrival in the United States. Continued hospitalization will be given those who need it.

The Gripsholm sailed from Marseille Feb. 8.

Following is the Gripsholm's list of Army personnel, from New York City and vicinity, with names and addresses of next of kin:

Hart Takes Senate Oath Day After Leaving Navy

Legislator From Connecticut Sits on Republican Side

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP).—Admiral Thomas C. Hart, just retired from the Navy, donned civilian clothes today and took the oath of office as United States Senator from Connecticut.

The sixty-seven-year-old gray-haired Mr. Hart was escorted to the Senate rostrum by his colleague, Senator Brian McMahon, Democrat, of Connecticut. Vice-President Harry S. Truman swore him into office.

After taking the oath and signing the Senate register, Senator Hart took a desk on the Republican side of the aisle.

Before taking the oath Mr. Hart was greeted by several Senators, among them Wallace H. White, of Maine, minority leader, and Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, of Vermont.

The pen which he used in signing the register was presented to the new Senator.

Mr. Hart went on the Navy's retired list only yesterday. He had been a member of the Navy's general board. The new Senator's appointment, by Governor Raymond E. Baldwin, is for the unexpired term of the late Francis T.

Mail will be limited to letters and postcards.

MacArthur Congratulated

Stimson Terms Luzon Battle "One Of Most Brilliant in History"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP).—General Douglas MacArthur has been congratulated by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson for conducting "one of the most brilliant campaigns in history" in the battle of Luzon. Mr. Stimson told a news conference today that he sent the message on Feb. 6, the date upon which General MacArthur reported that Manila was liberated.

Asked if General MacArthur's presence in the Philippines would require a change in his title of Allied commander in chief of the southwest Pacific, Secretary Stimson replied in the negative. The Philippines, he said, "are included in the geographical area of the commander in chief of the southwest Pacific."

Goldwyn Will Go to England

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Samuel Goldwyn, the motion picture producer, is going to England to "undertake a special mission" for the Foreign Economic Administration. FEA declined to give any further information.

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—The United Mine Workers Journal today asked editorially whether the C. I. O., by its representation at the London World Trade Union Congress, will indorse the enslavement of German workers.

Noting that the A. F. of L. had rejected an invitation to the Congress, the editorial said that one item of Russian policy is a demand for the conscription of upward of 4,000,000 German workers to help rebuild Russia. It added: "Admitting that the Germans asked for it, and perhaps deserve it . . . the proposition is pretty awkward for American and British trade unionists. . . . Will the C. I. O. indorse the enslavement of German workers by going along with the Russian company unions, or will it risk offending the American Commies, who largely dominate the C. I. O. at home, and their Russian Comrat friends?"

TREASURY LIFTS BAN ON BALTIC 'ENEMIES'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP) — Finland, Poland, and "other Baltic areas" no longer under German domination will not be considered "enemy territory," effective Friday, the Treasury Department announced today.

The Treasury lifted its ban on commercial and business communications with those areas, and postal service is resumed.

"Other Baltic areas" obviously refer to Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. The Treasury announcement refrained from naming them as nations. Russia has made known its intention to keep those areas as part of the Soviet Union. Treasury officials declined to elaborate on American policy toward the Baltic States.

The Treasury said resumption of communications with other recently liberated areas was under consideration and that further announcements would be made later. These areas include Greece, Albania, Yugoslavia, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—all of them still classed as "enemy territory."

Wire and radio communications with Finland, Poland and the other Baltic areas still are not permitted.

Treasury licenses will still be required to send to those regions any communications that constitute or contain instructions or authorizations to effect financial or property transactions.

New A. T. C. Transpo Flies 300 Miles an Hou

12-Hour Washington-Londo Service in June Forecast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP). A Lockheed Constellation flew from Kansas City in 2 hours minutes today as the forerunn of a fleet which Transcontinent & Western Air will operate acro the North Atlantic for the A Transport Command.

Service with the new ship which fly more than 300 miles a hour, will begin about June 1, W. A. said, the interim period be ing required to check out crews, familiarize maintenance men with the plane and set up ground equipment.

Meanwhile, Pan American Airways announced in New York that Constellations, designated C-69 by the Army, would arrive at Miami Saturday for operation across the South Atlantic under A. T. C. contract.

T. W. A. said twelve-hour service between Washington and London would be established with the Constellations, compared with the present nineteen-hour average established with Douglas C-54 Skymasters.

The air line said it would carry military personnel and equipment eastbound and would bring wounded service men home from the European theater on return flights.

Stimson Expects Names Soon—Mail Directions Issued

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today that the War Department has not yet received a list of the American internees freed from Santo Tomas and other Japanese camps in Manila.

He old a news conference that the department had requested Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters to expedite transmission of the names, but there has been no response so far.

The War Department today issued instructions for addressing mail to military personnel and civilians freed from Japanese prison camps on Luzon. Mail should be addressed in this fashion: Name of person (use serial number for military personnel), American Red Cross, Civilian War Affairs Section, APO 442 c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif. Mail will be limited to letters and postcards.

Stimson Cites Enemy Fears

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, War Secretary, discussing Superfortress operations at his news conference today, said that "the Japanese admit the present damage to their industry and the certainty of much greater damage in the future when they speak of moving airplane factories and other vital plants to Manchuria."

He asserted that the Oriental aggressor's "diminishing area of conquest offers no secure haven of safety anywhere."

LITHUANIANS IN U. S. ASK FOR BIG 3 PLANS

WASHINGTON, Friday, Feb. 16 (AP)—Spokesmen who said they represented 1,000,000 Lithuanians in the United States asked the State Department today for a hearing on the intent of the Big Three toward their homeland.

The Lithuanian National Council convened a three-day session primarily devoted to obtaining information on the future status of Lithuania.

"We hope to obtain some light on the subject," said Miss Mary Kizis, a spokesman for the council.

None of the statements of the Crimea Conference contained any reference to the disposition of the Baltic republics, including Lithuania, she explained.

The council is dedicated to restore Lithuania's independence. Tomorrow is the nation's "Independence Day," the twenty-seventh anniversary of its establishment as a free republic. Since then it has been absorbed first by the Soviet Union, then overrun by the German armies, and then reclaimed by the U. S. S. R. as one of its republics.

Members said one of the principal aims of the council for the post-war period was to restore the Lithuanian population, "almost half of which has been dispersed or shot."

"We hope to bring back what is left," Miss Kizis asserted.

U. S. Has Lost 394,874 in West; 61,962 Casualties for Last Month

8,848 Killed, 41,325 Wounded, 11,789 Missing in Bitter Fighting During January—Army to Speed Up Lists to Newspapers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Erasing the German salient in the Ardennes and starting small-scale offensives along the western front during January cost the American ground forces 61,962 men, Secretary of War Stimson reported today.

The month's losses, including 8,848 killed, 41,325 wounded and 11,789 missing, were substantially smaller than those on the same front in December, when 74,788 ground troops were lost, principally during the German sweep into Belgium and Luxembourg.

With the "big push" into Germany still in the making the January fighting raised total casualties on the front since D-day to 394,874, or more than half of the Army losses in all theatres since Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Stimson put the over-all Army figure at 693,342 on the basis of individual names received in Washington through Feb. 7. Counting the Navy's 88,838, this makes the war losses 782,180—a rise of 17,596 since the report of last week.

The break down on Army losses in this week's report and corresponding figures for last week follow:

Killed, 135,510 and 130,266; wounded, 408,553 and 396,176; prisoners, 58,556 and 58,878; missing, 90,723 and 91,476.

Mr. Stimson reported that 202,813 of the wounded have returned to duty.

Similar figures for the Navy are:

Killed, 33,536 and 33,192; wounded, 40,607 and 40,248; prisoners, 4,474 and 4,475; missing, 10,221 and 9,873.

The decline in the number listed as prisoners by the Army and Navy presumably represents a shifting to other classifications.

Plan Speed-Up to Papers

With the issuance of the figures the War Department reported that it soon expects to deliver casualty lists to hometown newspapers within a week after relatives have been notified that soldiers have become casualties. The time difference in the past has been eight to nine weeks or longer.

Adoption of a new photograph process to produce the lists, press officers said, has trimmed this lag to two and one-half weeks, and rapid progress is being made in reducing an accumulation of names.

Increasingly long casualty lists and a heavy turnover of clerical help stymied attempts of the War Department to speed up its system, but then a new plan was devised. This eliminated the typing of long lists of names, preparation of stencils, the time-consuming task of checking the stencils and reproduction of the stencils.

The new method employs a photographic process of reproducing lists directly from carbon copies of telegrams sent to relatives of soldiers reported as casualties.

SENATORS WANT WORLD AIRPORT RIGHTS DEFINED

Policy for Civilian Agencies to Prevent Conflicts Is Urged—Use of UNRRA Criticized.

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.)—The Senate War Investigating Committee called today for early determination of United States rights in airports and other installations it has confiscated throughout the world.

In a report sharply critical of what it termed "the apparent lack of a definite national policy on post-war security and economic aims," a sub-committee headed by Senator Tunnell (D.-Del.) asserted:

"Neither the United States nor any of our American air lines have obtained any franchises to operate in North Africa.

"On the other hand, the B[illegible] Overseas Airways Corporation is running regularly scheduled commercial flights, accepting non-priority passengers when space permits. On a much smaller scale, the French and Belgians are operating in North Africa."

The Senators' Findings.

Senator Tunnell and Senator Burton (R.-Ohio), who accompanied him on a recent tour extending from Bermuda to Casablanca, gave the Senate findings that:

1. Records as to the costs of installations are "poorly kept" in many instances, indicating the need for a complete appraisal by the armed forces.

2. Documents containing terms of United States rights "should be assembled, indexed and preserved."

3. Titles and rights in installation not now clear "should be immediately clarified."

4. Where rights are possessory only, "possession should not be relinquished without due regard for our national interests."

5. Full information as to surpluses, both movable and immovable, and estimates as to costs of dismantling, removal and disposition "should be collected."

6. Future negotiations for rights in real estate for military and other wartime installations "should be conducted [illegible] age 12.

tion with the State I[illegible]

Senator Tunnell told [illegible] ate that in some instanc[illegible] and Senator Burton found that installations, such as airports, camps for road maintenance and other camps had been abandoned by the Army "and that inadequate measures were being taken for the maintenance of records on cost, fair rental or sale value." No adequate investigation, he added, "was being made as to the propriety of charging up against those of our Allies receiving benefits from installations erected at our expense, the fair value of such benefits."

Lend-lease Records Confused.

Senator Burton said in his speech that the most impressive need is for "an American foreign policy to guide the civilian agencies and the armed forces in protecting and developing American interests."

Senator Tunnell's [illegible]ort declared that he and S[illegible] Burton found lend-lease and reverse lend-lease accounts "in such condition that it is impossible to tell with certainty the exact status of balances for intra-theater transactions." This, he said, is due largely to discrepancies between British and American accounting methods.

He said the British refuse to price invoices on materials and services. He added that they charge 42 per cent on their cost for transportation, insurance and handling charges on supplies turned over to us, while the comparative American charge is 25 per cent.

The report said the British presented in their official documents a report of some $175,000,000 worth of material transferred to us on lend-lease, "which was appraised by our Navy at a value of only $10,000,000." It added:

"In negotiating for the settlement of obligations under the lend-lease act, it is obvious that this confusion as to accurate balances between our governments will make lend-lease settlements much more difficult than they would have been if invoices on such transactions had been priced."

Navy Has Accountings.

The Navy, the report said, secured from the British Admiralty an understanding which became operative on January 1 that they would price invoices on all transactions subsequent to that date, and would assist the Navy in going over prior transactions.

The Army, it said, has not been able to secure such a commitment.

The seriousness can be appreciated, the report said, when it is realized that warehouses full of unpriced invoices are accumulated.

The report criticized what was termed use of the UNRRA by the military for purposes other than it was originally created. The UNRRA, the report asserted, should be free of military control or there may be "unpleasant disagreements."

"Charges of such improper use were furnished to your committee as to the situation in Greece," it added. "Whether or not UNRRA employees were used practically for combat purposes to quiet a rebellion of the citizens of Greece is of much less importance than that this immense fund should not be used "for anything other than relief following in the wake of Allied military forces."

WOULD CHECK UP AIRBASE RUMORS

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—A demand for investigation of Army officers overseas for spreading false stories about British reverse lend-lease policies was made today before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Representative Luther A. Johnson (D-Tex.) recommendeed the inquiry after lend-lease officials had refuted a rumor that United States Air Forces are charged a landing fee for the use of a lend-lease constructed air base in Scotland.

Two members of the committee said they heard the story of the fees from American Army officers in Europe.

"If Army officers have made statements that are not fact they ought to be called to account," Mr. Johnson said. "Army officers who circulate false rumors affecting the activities of their own Government ought to be investigated."

Representative Richards (D.-S. C.) said the testimony by lease-lend officials is "clearing up some of the things,' but added that he had heard reverse lease-lend stories from two American officers in Europe, and "all this committee or all the King's men are not going to get their names from me."

The exchange took place during hearings on a bill to extend for one year the lease-lend act, which expires June 30.

B-29's Hit Honshu

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP).—Superfortresses operating from a newly revealed base struck a blow at Japanese production today.

The War Department disclosed in a night communique from the 20th Air Force that the new B-29 strike was a daylight blow at the Mitsubishi aircraft factory in Nagoya.

A sizable force of the huge planes participated in the attack, made through an overcast which prevented observation of the results. None of the B-29's was lost to enemy action, the communique said. Fighter opposition was moderate and anti-aircraft fire only meager, the communique disclosed.

A few hours after the announcement, 20th Air Force Headquarters here revealed that a new wing of its 21st Bomber Command, the 313th, is operating from Tinian. Previously, the only announced island operating base had been Saipan.

Soon afterward, 21st Bomber

Probe Of Army Men's Fake Lend-Lease Stories Asked

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—A demand for investigation of army officers overseas for spreading false stories about British reverse lend-lease policies was made today before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Representative Luther A. Johnson (D., Texas) recommended the inquiry after lend-lease officials refuted a rumor that United States Air Forces are charged a landing fee for the use of a lend-lease constructed air base in Scotland.

Heard Story In Europe

Two members of the committee said they heard the story of the fees from American army officers in Europe.

"If army officers have made statements that are not fact they ought to be called to account," Johnson said.

"Army officers who circulate false rumors affecting the activities of their own Government ought to be investigated."

Refuses To Reveal Names

Representative Richards (D., S.C.) said the testimony by lend-lease officials is "clearing up some of the things," but added that he heard reverse lend-lease stories from two American officers in Europe and "all this committee or all the king's men are not going to get their names from me."

The exchange took place during hearings on a bill to extend for one year the Lend-Lease Act, which expires June 30.

headquarters on Guam reported that some of today's raiders were from Tinian. That report accompanied early information that the bombardiers had to work through an overcast.

The Tinian field was commissioned in December, it was revealed, and the first B-29's landed there Dec. 21. The 20th Air Force's other command, the 20th Bomber, operates from bases in southeast Asia.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, in discussing Superfortress operations at his news conference today, said: "The Japanese admit the present damage to their industry and the certainty of much greater damage in the future when they speak of moving airplane factories and other vital plants to Manchuria." He declared Japan's "diminishing area of conquest offers no secure haven of safety anywhere."

Evidently reassessing B-29 results, since he said a week ago that "Japan's productiveness has not yet been fundamentally weakened," Mr. Stimson said the damage done to an aircraft factory at Ota last week was "serious."

Recent enemy reports have confirmed reconnaissance information that Japanese aircraft plants are being dismantled. The Tokyo radio said they were going to Manchuria.

394,874 Lost Since D-Day

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Army ground forces on the Western front lost 394,874 men from D-day last June to February 1.

In reporting this today, Secretary of War Stimson said that 63,410 were killed, 273,997 wounded and 57,467 missing. This report reflected an increase in casualties on the Western front of 61,962 in January, including 8,848 killed, 41,325 wounded and 11,789 missing.

Total Losses 782,180

Simultaneously, Stimson reported that the Army's casualties in all theaters since the beginning of the war now are 693,342 on the basis of names compiled in Washington through February 7 and reflecting combat action in the early part of January.

Linked with the Navy's latest report of losses of 88,838, this puts total American combat losses at 782,180, an increas of 17,596 since last week's report.

The breakdown on Army losses in this week's report and corresponding figures for last week follow:

Killed, 135,510 and 130,266; wounded, 408,553 and 396,176; prisoners, 58,556 and 58,878; missing, 90,723 and 91,476.

Stimson reported that 202,813 of the wounded have returned to duty.

Navy Figures

Similar figures for the Navy are: Killed, 33,536 and 33,192; wounded, 40,607 and 40,248; prisoners, 4,474 and 4,475; missing, 10,221 and 9,873.

The decline in the number listed as prisoners by the Army and Navy presumably represents a shifting to other classifications.

The losses on the Western front in January were 12,826 smaller than in December when the powerful German offensive in the Ardennes was under way.

Western Front Casualties for January 61,962

8,848 of Total Were Killed; Losses of Both Services in Week Are Put at 17,596

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP).—Erasing the German salient in the Ardennes and launching small-scale offensives along the western front during January cost American ground forces 61,962 men, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson reported today. The month's losses, including 8,848 killed, 41,325 wounded and 11,789 missing, were substantially smaller than those on the same front in December, when 74,788 ground troops were lost, principally during the German sweep into Belgium and Luxemburg.

With the "big push" into Germany still in the making, the January fighting boosted total casualties on the front since D Day to 394,874, or better than half of Army losses in all war areas since Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Stimson placed the overall Army figure at 693,342 on the basis of individual names received in Washington through Feb. 7. Counting the Navy's 88,838, this put the nation's war losses at 782,180, a rise of 17,596 since the two services reported last week.

Concurrently with the issuance of these figures, the War Department reported that it expects soon to deliver casualty lists to hometown newspapers within a week after relatives have been notified that soldiers have become casualties. The time difference in the past has been eight to nine weeks or longer.

Draft-Deferred U.S. Jobholders Double in Year

Total Put at 265,909 Now, Plus 88,293 Disqualified; Most Are in 30-38 Group

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP).—The number of Federal workers receiving draft deferments because of their employment has more than doubled since last year, Congress was told today.

The information came from the Selective Service Director, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, in a report which said that 265,909 government job holders qualified for military service were deferred as of Dec. 31 1944.

In a report a year ago, the total was given as 130,605. The figures are for men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-eight.

In addition to the 265,909, General Hershey said 88,293 other Federal workers held deferments, but they were not qualified for induction into the armed forces because of physical or other reasons.

He added that of those qualified for service, 211,430 are in the thirty-to-thirty-eight-age bracket.

The Navy was listed as having the most deferred personnel, with 155,888, closely followed by the War Department, with 112,995. The Post Office Department had 33,076, with other agencies far below.

Several states had more men listed than the District of Columbia, which had 12,905.

New York led with 46,509, while New York City, which had 36,941 of these, was ahead of any other city.

Other state leaders included Pennsylvania, 26,986; California, 25,949; Massachusetts, 21,486; Virginia, 17,981, and Texas, 17,404.

Delaware had the fewest, with 403. Others with low figures included Vermont, 423; Wyoming, 750, and North Dakota, 840.

Hawaii had 11,325.

Other state figures included:

Alabama, 5,994; Arizona, 1,436; Arkansas, 3,775; Colorado, 2,913; Connecticut, 2,001; Florida, 7,973; Georgia, 6,477; Idaho, 2,263; Illinois, 10,602; Indiana, 4,085; Iowa, 3,845; Kansas, 3,101; Kentucky, 2,422; Louisiana, 4,805.

Maine, 2,440; Maryland, 7,711; Michigan, 4,072; Minnesota, 2,757; Mississippi, 3,143; Missouri, 5,853; Montana, 1,769; Nebraska, 2,941; Nevada, 538; New Hampshire, 3,205.

New Jersey, 9,008; New Mexico, 2,004; North Carolina, 8,532; Ohio, 9,590; Oklahoma, 6,744; Oregon, 1,903; Rhode Island, 2,998; South Carolina, 8,919; South Dakota, 1,336; Tennessee, 4,824; Utah, 3,564; Washington, 9,379; Wisconsin, 3,415.

Other territories: Alaska, 454; Puerto Rico, 304; Virgin Islands, 23.

CONGRESS URGES LEND LEASE CHECK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP) Congressional demands for re-examination of Lend Lease accounts were voiced today in a report saying the British requested $175,000,000 credit on goods the Navy valued at $10,000,000.

The Senate's War Investigating committee, sharply criticizing "the apparent lack of a definite national policy on postwar security and economic aims," also called for:

1. An early determination of United States rights to airports and other installations it has constructed throughout the world.
2. Collection of full information as to surpluses, both movable and immovable, and estimates on the cost of dismantling, removal and disposition.
3. A State department investigation of trade conditions throughout the world. The department, the report added, should assume the obligation of "directing American economic interests after the termination of hostilities."

The report was read to the Senate by Senator Tunnell (D-Del.) who made a tour of battlefronts with Senator Burton (R-Ohio) for Mead committee.

The Senators found Lend-Lease and reverse Lend-Lease accounts in "such condition that it is impossible to tell with certainty the exact status of balances for intra-theater transactions."

For one thing, they said, the British refused to price invoices on materials and services Lend-Leased to the United States in some theaters on the ground that they did not have sufficient bookkeeping manpower.

For another, the report added, the British fixed a charge of 42 per cent, against comparative American cost of 25 per cent, for transportation, insurance and handling on materials turned over to us.

Maintaining prices for their own records, the committee continued, the British in one case presented documents in support of the transfer to us of some $175,000,000 worth of material "which was appraised by our Navy at a value of only $10,000,000."

After extended negotiations, the Navy obtained from the British Admiralty an understanding, effective January 1, that they would price invoices on all transactions subsequent to that date and assist the Navy in going over invoices on prior transactions.

ALLIED PRISONERS MOVED IN GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP) Great numbers of American and Allied prisoners of war, whom the Germans are transferring out of the path of Russian armies, are making the trip on foot.

Reporting this tonight, the American Red Cross added that the Geneva convention permits prisoners to make maximum daily marches of up to 12 1-2 miles unless longer ones are necessary to reach food and shelter.

Chairman Basil O'Connor said he had received a cable from Geneva, designating five military districts from which prisoners are being transferred.

As of January 1st, Red Cross maps show that approximately 29,000 Americans were held in camps in those districts. Six major American camps—Stalags II B, III B, III C; Stalag Lufts III and IV; and Oflag 64, were known to be in those areas, along with many other prisoner of war camps containing few Americans, and hospitals for prisoners.

O'Connor said that Stalags VIII B and 344, further east, were previously reported moved. Those camps had contained 58 Americans as of last November.

Until new addresses are received, families are advised by the War department to address mail to previously reported addresses.

"These movements of prisoners of war away from active military zones, in accordance with the Geneva convention, are estimated to affect about 75 per cent of the American prisoners of war officially listed as held by Germany at the beginning of the year," O'Connor asserted in a statement.

WALLACE SURVIVES FIRST HOUSE TEST

Democratic Leadership Defeats GOP in Test Vote on George Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — (AP) Legislation enabling Henry W. Wallace to become secretary of a cut-down Commerce department barely survived today its first test on the House floor.

By a vote of 202 to 192, the Democratic leadership turned back a solid Republican front, joined by some southern Democrats, that sought to sweep the Senate-passed George bill off the House floor.

The Wallace legislation still was in grave danger, however, for tomorrow the powerful coalition will seek in a final showdown vote to shelve it by sending it back to the banking committee for further consideration.

Republicans and anti-administration Democrats worked frantically to pull more Southern Democrats into their ranks. Both sides concentrated on getting their absent members in town in time for the vote tomorrow. There were 17 Republicans and 23 Democrats absent when the roll was called today.

The Senate bill is intended to rip the multi-billion dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation out of the Commerce department, before the Senate votes on confirmation of Wallace as Commerce secretary.

A change of six votes in the first House test would have thrown the government future of the former vice president into confusion.

The test came on adoption of the House rule by which the George bill was presented on the floor. If the rule had been rejected the bill would have gone back to committee, and probably into a pigeon hole. This was calculated by the opposition to bring about the outright rejection of Wallace for the President's cabinet, by forcing the Senate to vote on him not only as Commerce secretary but as head of the RFC.

It is conceded that Wallace would have little chance of confirmation without divorcement of the RFC.

Speaker Rayburn (D.-Tex.) and other Democratic leaders appeared confident after the narrow victory today, but the opposition will get another crack at the bill on the final vote, at the end of debate probably late Friday.

In today's test, an effort to form an overpowering coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats—a combination that often dominates legislation in the House—failed, although Rep. Rankin (R.-Miss.), usual coalition leader, sought to bring the Southerners into line against the George bill.

Republican lines held solid in the voting, which showed that 200 Democrats were joined by the two minor party (1 Progressive and 1 American-labor) members, for immediate consideration; while 19 Democrats—all from the South or border states, aligned with 173 Republicans in the effort to sweep the bill off the floor.

The debate swung into alternate criticism and praise of Wallace. Chairman Sabath (D.-Ill.) of the Rules committee described him as "a champion of the common people" and Rep. Cox (D.-Ga.), rules member, said a majority of the committee felt he is "unfit to become Secretary of Commerce under any condition."

Just prior to the test vote, Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, shouted to the House that opposition to the bill is "unadulterated politics," and Rankin (R.-Miss.) shouted back that Democrats in opposition "are as good Democrats as you are."

Names Of Internees Not Sent To U.S.

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today the War Department has not yet received a list of the American internees freed from Santo Tomas and other Japanese camps in Manila.

He told a news conference the department had requested General MacArthur's headquarters to expedite transmission of the names, but there has been no response so far.

Democrats Win 1st House Test On George Bill

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Democrats barely won their first House test today on the Senate-passed George bill, key to confirmation of Henry A. Wallace as Secretary of a trimmed-down Commerce Department.

The House voted, 202 to 192, to proceed with consideration of the bill to rip the multibillion-dollar RFC out of the commerce office before a Senate vote on Wallace's confirmation.

Two minor-party members joined 200 Democrats on the test vote while 18 Democrats aligned with 174 Republicans in opposition.

Scored And Praised

Wallace was described alternately in the House as a "champion of the common people" and as "unfit to become Secretary of Commerce under any conditions."

Rules Committee Chairman Sabath (D., Ill.) said he did not know why anyone should oppose "this honest and able man" except "the cartels and big institutions that cannot control him."

Cox Voice: Views

Another Democrat, Representative Cox, of Georgia, took a different view.

"I don't believe," he declared, "that the coat Jesse Jones wore can be cut down to buttonhole size without destroying the whole garment."

Cox added that the Rules Committee is opposed "two to one to Wallace becoming Secretary of Commerce under any conditions."

New Pay Boost Urged

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Representative Sparkman (D., Ala.) proposed today that members of the armed forces be granted a five per cent increase in pay for each year after their first year of overseas service. The increase would be in addition to the flat ten per cent salary increase now awarded service men for overseas duty.

Nazis Transfer U.S. Prisoners

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Great numbers of American and Allied prisoners of war, whom the Germans are transferring out of the path of Russian armies, are making the trip on foot.

Reporting this tonight, the American Red Cross added that the Geneva convention permits prisoners to make maximum daily marches of up to 12½ miles unless longer ones are necessary to reach food and shelter.

Basil O'Connor, American Red Cross chairman, said he had received a cable from Geneva, designating five military districts from which prisoners are being transferred.

29,000 Held In Area

As of January 1, Red Cross maps show that approximately 29,000 Americans were held in camps in those districts. Six major American camps—Stalags II-B, III-B, III-C; Stalag Lufts, III and V, and Oflag 64, were known to be in those

B-29's Strike Targets On Honshu

FEB 16 1945

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Superfortresses rained fire and explosives anew on Japan's home island today, and War Secretary Stimson said Nippon's "diminishing area of conquest offers no secure haven of safety anywhere."

Almost simultaneously the War Department announced that a new group of the giant bombers now is operating from Tinian Island in the Marianas.

Tokyo Acknowledgement

[A dispatch from 21st Bomber Command headquarters on Guam today said that a large force of B-29 Superfortresses bombed the industrial areas of Nagoya. Early indications were that the weather was unfavorable and the bombing was through an overcast. Some of the force took off from the Tinian base.]

The Cabinet member's comment, evidently a reassessment of his views of the air war against Japan, came shortly after the Tokyo radio acknowledged damage to the important industrial city of Nagoya from a fleet of 60 B-20's. The enemy account said the planes loosed their explosive and incendiary bombs also in Mie Prefecture across Atsuta Bay from Nagoya.

[A Domei news agency broadcast, elaborating on the early announcement, said the main strength of the raid was on the factory area of Nagoya but that there was also some bomb and fire damage in the city proper. The city of Ukiyamada, some 50 miles southeast of Nagoya in Mie Prefecture, was reported raided by a "small enemy formation." Domei said the city sustained a "certain amount of damage" but that the Ise Grand shrine, a national monument, was "unscathed."]

Moving To Manchuria

Discussing the Superfortress blows against the Japanese homeland at his news conference Stimson said: "The Japanese admit the present damage to their industry and the certainty of much greater damage in the future when they speak of moving airplane factories and other vital plants to Manchuria."

Enemy accounts have confirmed reconnaissance pictures showing the dismantling of the important factories. Tokyo said the plants are being moved to Manchuria.

Serious Damage

A week ago Stimson told reporters that although air attacks had been doing damage to enemy war industry, "Japan's productiveness has not yet been fundamentally weakened."

Today he said damage inflicted on an aircraft factory at Ota last week was "serious."

In announcing the new Tinian base, Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the 20th Air Force, said it "will increase the scope of bombing operations against Japan."

He added that with headquarters of the 21st Command established on Guam and the original bases on Saipan in full operation, "all three major islands of the Marianas group now become an impressive center of B-29 operations in the Pacific."

313th Wing

The planes on Tinian compose a new unit, the 313th Wing of the 21st Bomber Command. The wing is commanded by Brig. Gen. John H. Davies, of Piedmont, Cal.

The 20th Air Force's other command, the 20th Bomber, operates from bases in southeast Asia.

New System Speeding Casualty Lists To Press

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The War Department hopes soon to supply names of casualties to hometown newspapers within a few days after relatives receive word that a soldier has been killed, wounded, taken prisoner or is missing.

For some time it has been eight to nine weeks or even longer after notification of next of kin before the casualty lists arrived in the newsrooms.

This time lag created a lot of confusion. Relatives sometimes got the idea that a soldier was being reported as a casualty a second time. Newspaper editors were irked by the delay.

Photographic Process

Then a new plan was hit upon. This eliminated the typing of long lists of names, preparation of stencils, the time-consuming task of checking the stencils and the reproduction of the stencils.

The new method employs a photographic process of reproducing lists directly from carbon copies of telegrams sent to relatives of soldiers reported as casualties.

Col. Marshall E. Newton, chief of the press branch in the War Department's Bureau of Public Relations, said today the new system already had cut the time lag to 2½ weeks and the backlog of names has been rapidly whittled down.

How Report It Made

Within a short time, Newton said, the War Department expects to deliver the lists to newspapers a week after relatives get word of a casualty from the Adjutant General's office.

A casualty report passes through a lot of hands to reach the editor's desk and, at best, it always will take considerable time. The trail starts in the field where the reports are gathered from the various units.

Machine record cards, punched with the necessary information, are hurried to this country by courier. The cards then are processed in machines at the Adjutant General's office and the information they contain is transposed to an individual record card. From this, the telegrams to relatives are made up.

Sorting Of Telegrams

Carbon copies of the telegrams go to the casualty branch in the Bureau of Public Relations. They arrive in batches and must be sorted by clerks. They are first grouped according to theaters—Pacific, European, etc. — then broken down further into groups of those reported killed, wounded, etc. Classification by states under the various theater headings comes next. Then they are set up alphabetically under each state.

A check is made to insure that the relationship of the next of kin and the rank of the soldiers is on the carbon copy. Then the new system swings into high gear.

Wickard Asks To Testify On REA

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard found himself caught in the middle today in the Senate controversy over Aubrey Williams' nomination to head the REA.

He asked to come before the Senate Agriculture Committee after Senator Shipstead (R., Minn.) contended Harry Slattery, former Rural Electrification Administrator, was forced to resign and REA employés were punished because they would not "play Mr. Wickard's and Mr. Neal's political game."

Wickard, Shipstead declared, transferred all real authority over the agency from Slattery to William J. Neal, deputy administrator.

Democratic opponents of Williams' confirmation joined in the request for Wickard's appearance and apparently were shaping up a strategy of delaying action on Williams while pressing a bill to remove the REA from the Agriculture Department and make it an independent agency.

Williams' friends, conceding that the opposition to the committee has grown in the weeks the nomination has been before it, have almost given up hope of committee approval.

FEB 16 1945

Senator Ellender (D., La.) declared there was nothing in the hearings to damage Williams' case but, acknowledging a loss of ground, laid it to "outside propaganda."

UMW Opposes Russ 'Enslavement' Of Nazis

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The United Mine Workers' Journal asked editorially today whether the CIO, by its representation at the London World Trade Union Congress, will "indorse the enslavement of German workers."

Noting that the AFL rejected an invitation to the Congress, but that the CIO is represented, the Jour- [illegible] editorial said one item of Russ

...n's editorial said the ...
sian policy is a demand "for the conscription of upward of 4,000,000 German workers to help rebuild Russia."

"Admitting that the Germans asked for it and perhaps deserve it," the mine publication continued, ". . . the proposition is pretty awkward for American and British trade-unionists" because of their opposition to involuntary servitude as a "cardinal principle."

"Will the CIO indorse the enslavement of German workers by going along with the Russian company unions, or will it risk offending the American 'commies,' who largely dominate the CIO at home, and their Russian 'comrat' friends?" the editorial asked.

Army's Manpower Reported On

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Senate Military Committee, trying to decide whether coercive manpower controls are necessary, asked an army witness today whether the service is making the best use of its uniformed personnel.

Lieut. Gen. Thomas Handy, deputy chief of staff, began his reply by describing the Army's allocation of its personnel.

"Three Eighths In U.S."

Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) told reporters the committee learned from Handy that:

About three eighths of the Army is in the United States, the remainder overseas.

About five per cent of those in the United States are in hospitals or in the process of being hospitalized, including men wounded overseas and returned to the States.

About ten per cent of the Army is on special limited duty. This includes the WACs.

Two Divisions On Defense Duty

The equivalent of approximately two divisions of troops man regular defense posts in this country.

About half the troops in the United States are taking care of supplies and reserves.

The army's liberal furlough policy before a man goes overseas and after he returns may give an untrue impression of soldiers without apparent duties.

Deferred Federal Workers Double

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The number of Federal workers receiving draft deferments because of their employment has more than doubled since last year, Congress was told today.

The information came from Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey in a report which said 265,909 Government jobholders qualified for military service were deferred as of December 1, 1944.

In a report a year ago the total was given as 130,605. The figures are for men between the ages of 18 and 38.

In addition to the 265,909, Hershey said, 88,293 other Federal workers held deferments, but they were not qualified for induction into the armed forces because of physical or other reasons.

He added that of those qualified for service, 211,430 are in the 30-to-38 age bracket.

The Navy was listed as having the most deferred personnel, with 155,888, closely followed by the War Department, with 112,995.

Congress Gets Bill On World Bank

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—Legislation to make the United States a member of two international monetary organizations agreed upon at the Bretton Woods Conference went before Congress today.

The bill authorizes $5,925,000,000 for United States participation in a projected international monetary fund and an international bank for reconstruction and development—but in a way that would require no direct appropriations.

FEB 16 19

Would Nullify Johnson Act

It also would nullify Johnson Act application to countries joining both the fund and the bank. The Johnson Act prohibits private United States loans to nations in default on their debts to this country.

The measure, written with the help of the Treasury, was introduced in the House by Chairman Spence (D., Ky.) of the Banking Committee and in the Senate jointly by Senators Wagner (D., N.Y.) and Tobey (R., N.H.). They are the ranking members of the Senate Banking Committee.

Only Part To Be Used

Advocates of the bill said only a part—perhaps less than half—of the $5,925,000,000 American share would actually be used. Of that amount $2,750,000,000 is obligated for participation in the $8,800,000,000 fund and $3,175,000,000 toward the $9,100,000,000 capital of the bank.

Here's how the American obligation would be provided:

First, $1,800,000,000 would be transferred to the new fund from the exchange stabilization fund which the United States has been using since 1934 to help other countries exchange their currency for dollars in the interest of foreign trade.

Would Leave 280 Million

This would leave $280,000,000 in the old stabilization fund, which would continue in existence for special exchange operations consistent with the new fund. In addition the $280,000,000 United States fund would be given permanent status. Renewal every two years heretofore has been required.

Second, the remaining $4,125,000,000 of the total American obligation in both funds and bank would be furnished by the Treasury as needed, through sale of government securities.

PAPER TO RESUME AT WILLIAM-MARY

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Publication of the Flat Hat, student newspaper at William and Mary College, is to be resumed, but no announcement was forthcoming today as to who would succeed the editor whose editorial on race relations led to its suspension.

President John E. Pomfret released a statement by W. L. Williams, president of the student body, agreeing that the editor and six junior editors would constitute an editorial board pledged to consult a faculty counselor on any material of a doubtful nature.

Meanwhile in New York the United States Student Assembly said that the organization was asking colleges all over the country "to uphold the hands of this young editor at William and Mary College for her editorial." The assembly claims representation in forty colleges.

The editor, 22-year-old Miss Marilyn Kaemmerle of Jackson, Mich., was ousted from the editorship over the student body's protest for her editorial saying that eventually Negroes should attend the college and even "marry among us." Students previously had voted to suspend publication rather than accept outright faculty supervision. The new policy was offered as a compromise by Dr. Pomfret.

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—An anti-discrimination bill showed up in Congress today as the aftermath of Marilyn Kaemmerle's editorial in a College of the William and Mary campus paper, the Flat Hat.

Senator Langer (R.-N. D.) introduced a measure which would deny Federal funds to any college or university which discriminates in any way against any person because of "race, color or creed" or because of his views on racial matters. He said that it was the outgrowth of the controversy over Miss Kaemmerle's editorial which he said disposed of "white supremacy nonsense."

Bill To Require No Women But Nurses To Register

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The House Military Committee refused today to broaden a nurse-draft bill to require the registration of all women, regardless of occupation, between the ages of 18 and 45.

The action was taken in closed session and on a voice vote.

Committee members said the rejected proposal was offered by Representative Clare Boothe Luce (R., Conn.). It would not have subjected all women to national service but merely have required them to register.

Approval Predicted

Committee members were in general agreement that the nurse-draft measure would be approved at tomorrow's session, and would make all registered nurses between the ages of 20 and 45, inclusive, liable to induction for nursing service in the Army or Navy.

All who are in this group and are not in the military service now would be subject to induction through regular local draft board procedure, with the boards having authority to defer any nurse deemed to be holding a necessary nursing job.

The deferment provision was suggested to May to meet the request of the Veterans' Administration and the Public Health Service, as well as of numerous private groups, for protection of essential veterans' and civilian health needs.

WPB Okays More Winter Clothing

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The War Production Board yesterday approved two special programs calling for output of more than 17,000,000 winter garments.

The programs provide for production this year of about 7,500,000 infants' and children's snow suits, legging sets and snow or ski pants, and 9,960,000 men's, boys' and juveniles' mackinaws, coats and jackets.

This production, to be started soon, is intended to meet full requirements for 1945, the WPB said.

Manufacturers will be given priority assistance in obtaining materials for the garments, the board said.

Retailers To Get No More Copper Wire

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The sale of copper wire to retailers was suspended today by the War Production Board.

The board said the action was prompted by the critical need of the armed forces for field wire. The action means that retailers, while unable to buy new supplies of copper wire, may continue to sell what they have on hand. The WPB said present stocks would be sufficient to meet essential civilian needs until the middle of the year if dealers initiated self-rationing to their customers.

U.S. Moves To Encourage Increased Butter Output

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—A shift in rates under the Government's $500,000,000 dairy production subsidy designed to encourage large butter output was announced today by the War Food Administration.

Despite record milk marketing, butter production has dropped to the lowest level in many years. Government price ceiling and subsidy payments heretofore have encouraged the diversion of milk into fluid markets, evaporated milk, dried milk and other dairy products other than butter.

Today's rate alteration offers dairymen a higher payment for butter fat in relation to whole milk. The WFA said the change is expected to slow down any further shifts away from butter fat delivery to whole milk delivery and to encourage greater farm production of milk in the major butter-producing areas of the mid-West.

Organized butter manufacturers contend, however, that an increase of 6 cents a pound in the price of butter, in addition to the WFA's shift in subsidy rates will be necessary if any substantial increase in production is to be obtained.

The changes in the dairy subsidy program will become effective April 1.

Producer subsidy rates on whole milk then will be reduced 35 cents a hundred pounds, with the butter fat rate continuing unchanged at 10 cents a pound. The milk rates now range from 60 to 90 cents.

CONGRESS GETS BRETTON WOODS LEGISLATION

Measure, Drafted With Aid of Treasury, Goes to Senate and House.

NO DIRECT APPROPRIATIONS

Bill Provides for American Share in International Exchange and Money Lending.

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Legislation to make the United States a member of two international monetary organizations agreed upon at the Bretton Woods conference went before Congress today.

The bill authorizes $5,925,000,000 for United States participation in a projected international monetary fund and an international bank for reconstruction and development—but in a way that would require no direct appropriations.

It would nullify Johnson act application to countries joining both the fund and the bank. The Johnson act prohibits private United States loans to nations in default on their debts to this country.

The measure, written with the help of the Treasury, was introduced in the House by Representative Spence (D.-Ky.), chairman of the Banking Committee, and in the Senate jointly by Senators Wagner (D.-N. Y.) and Tobey (R.-N. H.), who are the ranking members of the Senate Banking Committee.

Thus the gong sounded for the opening of a congressional fight over American co-operation with other countries in the field of money exchange and international lending.

Advocates of the bill said only a part—perhaps less than half—of the $5,925,000,000 American share ever will actually be used. Of that amount $2,750,000,000 is obligated for participation in the $8,800,000,000 fund and $3,175,000,000 toward the $9,100,000,000 capital of the bank.

How Funds Would Be Divided.

The American obligation would be provided in the following way:

First, $1,800,000,080 would be transferred to the new fund from the exchange stabilization fund which the United States has been using since 1934 to help other countries exchange their currency for dollars in the interest of foreign trade.

This would leave $280,000,000 in the old stabilization fund, which would continue in existence for special exchange operations consistent with the new fund. In addition the $280,000,000 United States fund would receive permanent status. Renewal every two years heretofore has been required.

Second, the remaining $4,125,000,000 of the total American obligation in both fund and bank would be furnished by the Treasury as needed, through sale of Government securities.

30. 24 - 23029

The Treasury also would be authorized to issue special non-interest-bearing notes to take the place of dollars in the fund and bank until the dollars are needed in their operations. Nations are permitted under the Bretton Woods agreements to deposit such I. O. U. notes instead of currency, after actual cash working requirements of the two institutions have been met.

However, part of each nation's share must be in gold. The United States share of $689,000,000 for the fund and $63,500,000 for the bank would come from the present exchange stabilization fund under terms of the bill.

In the bank, which would make or guarantee international loans for specific development projects, each nation would have to contribute initially only one-tenth of its quota, with another one-tenth subject to call at any time. The remaining eight-tenths is callable only to meet losses. One-tenth of the United States bank quota is $317,500,000.

Fixes Dollar Gold Value.

The bill would require the President, in reporting to the fund the par value of the dollar, to use its present value of fifteen and five-twenty-one grains of gold nine-tenths fine. This could not be changed without congressional approval.

The measure authorizes the President to appoint the principal United States representatives in the fund and bank, subject to Senate confirmation.

Nothing is said in the bill about location of the headquarters for the two institutions. The Bretton Woods agreements provide that the nation with the largest quota—that is, the United States—shall decide where the headquarters will be. Treasury officials have said that both organizations will be centered in this country.

SUPERFORT BURNS IN FLUSHING BAY

Five Crew Members Missing as Big Bomber Crashes into Water.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 — (AP) A B-29 Superfortress, attempting to make an emergency landing at La Guardia airport, crashed and burned spectacularly in Flushing Bay at 3:50 p.m. today.

Five survivors were rescued from the flaming waters by Coast Guard, police, and airlines crash boats which fought through the fire and heavy smoke to the wreckage.

More than three hours after the accident the most disastrous at the airport since the field opened in 1939 five crew members were announced officially as missing. Of the survivors, four were said to be in good condition, with the fifth suffering from shock.

Col. Eugene F. Gillespie, commanding officer of the Army Air transport installations at the field, said such a plane usually carried a crew of 11.

Eye-witnesses said the big bomber apparently overshot the runway as it attempted to land. The pilot nosed the Superfortress up to circle the field again but as it turned, the left wing dipped. The ship lost altitude, struck the water, somersaulted and crashed, immediately bursting into flames.

It had taken off a short time earlier from Mitchel Field, Long Island, about 15 airline miles away.

Rescue equipment, thrown into action by a radio message from the plane that it was coming in with the left outboard engine not operating, was racing down the runway when the crashed occurred.

Firemen and crash workers, however, could only stand helplessly on the shore of the bay at the end of the runway as the plane blazed 250 yards off shore. Rescue boats immediately rushed to the scene.

As it crashed, the bomber broke into two sections and flames and heavy smoke billowed above the bay. A series of muffled explosions shook the cabin and wing section as gasoline tanks exploded in the heat.

The Army withheld identification of survivors and missing crew members pending notification of next of kin. The ATC said a board of officers would be appointed to investigate the cause of the crash.

Terms Like Germany's Predicted For Japan

New York, Feb. 15 (AP)—The influential Chungking newspaper, Ta Kung Pao, said editorially today that Allied terms for Japan would parallel those outlined for Germany by the "Big Three" at the Crimea conference, including separate zones of occupation.

The newspaper's article, summarized by the Chungking radio and recorded by the FCC, said the time and place of the world security conference to be held in San Francisco April 25 indicated that "the Japanese problem" would be taken up there.

The paper said that the cost of Japan's defeat will be:

Unconditional surrender; separate zones of ocupation of Japan by Allied forces; disarming or disbandment of all Japanese armed forces; elimination of control of all Japanese industries; bringing all war criminals to justice; reparations in kind, and removal of all Japanese militarist influences from public office and from the cultural and economic life of the Japanese people.

ARMY PREPARING SPY TRIAL RECORD

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(AP) The 212,500-word secret record of the Governors Island spy trial was being prepared today for authorities who must decide whether death sentences imposed on William C. Colepaugh and Erich Gimpel will be carried out.

FEB 16 1945

The seven-member military commission that convicted the Connecticut-born Colepaugh and his German associate first will submit the record to Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service command.

Then the transcript, telling what happened before and after Colepaugh and Gimpel landed from a German submarine on the Maine coast last Nov. 29, will be studied by a board of review in the Judge Advocate General's staff in Washington.

Last to see the record will be President Roosevelt, who is the only one empowered to commute the sentences of death by hanging.

The trial's official reporter, an Army captain, said the record included 850 pages of typewritten testimony. His summaries, issued twice daily to the press, omitted such testimony concerning security matters.

Colepaugh's mother and sister were not on Governors Island and the Army's Office of Technical Information said that so far as it knew they had not seen the man since he left this country for Germany nearly a year ago.

Colepaugh testified that he did not visit his mother after returning to the United States because he did not want her to know about his activities.

Whether his relatives would be permitted to visit him now is up to Gen. Terry, the Army said.

SEEKS BIG 3 VIEWS ON BALTIC NATIONS

Baltimore, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—The Lithuanian National Council now meeting in Washington will ask a clarification in regard to Lithuania and other Baltic countries of the Big Three's Crimea declaration, William Laukaitis of Baltimore said today.

Mr. Laukaitis, supreme president of the Lithuanian Alliance of America, said the inquiry would be made of the State Department.

Washington, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—In a plea for new independence for Lithuania, Representative Flood (D.-Pa.) told Congress today that the small Baltic nation is entitled to separate entity under the principles of the Atlantic Charter.

Taken over by Russia in 1940, by Germany in 1941 when Hitler began the Soviet campaign, and now again by Russia, Lithuania's anniversary of independence tomorrow "will not be observed in Lithuania itself," Mr. Flood said in remarks prepared for the House.

Lewis's Union Fails in Bid to Rejoin A. F. of L.

Miners' Demand for Seat on Council Is Blamed by Green; Door Left Ajar

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor executive council reported tonight that negotiations with John L. Lewis for re-affiliation of the United Mine Workers had failed.

The council adjourned its midwinter session, leaving the door only slightly ajar for eventual return of Mr. Lewis to the A. F. of L. The miners' leader left the federation finally and officially in 1938.

President William Green made the announcement on the Lewis negotiations, which have featured the ten-day Miami sessions, declaring that "we have failed to bring about a satisfactory understanding."

Mr. Green explained the barrier was a last-moment condition for the re-affiliation, imposed by Mr. Lewis in a letter to Mr. Green last Sunday, that the miners should be represented on the council as a condition to their return.

Mr. Green said the council, in his opinion, had "done everything it can" to promote the re-admission. He said Mr. Lewis, by withdrawing the stipulation, could renew the negotiations.

Mr. Lewis's proposition conflicted with the A. F. of L.'s laws, Mr. Green said, adding that the miners' chief, who formerly held a seat on the council, was well aware of that.

The federation president said he could only explain this last-minute obstacle presented by Mr. Lewis by the mine leader's knowledge that jurisdictional disputes likely to arise between some of the unions in his catch-all District 50 and well established A. F. of L. unions would have to be decided by the council. For this reason, Mr. Green thought, Mr. Lewis had sought representation for himself or some U. M. W. A. official on the council.

While a place on the fifteen-man council could be awarded to Mr. Lewis in the event of a vacancy between conventions, he eventually would have to be elected by the full convention, Mr. Green said.

The council itself made a one-sentence statement which Mr. Green released at his press conference winding up the Miami session.

It said: "We have advised the United Mine Workers of America that they will be readmitted to the American Federation of Labor with all the rights and privileges of affiliation enjoyed by all organizations, and such reaffiliation carries with it assumption of the obligations ordinarily attached to affiliation."

Lewis Deadline Set By AFL Is Near

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis, a veteran deadline meeter, has until tonight to accept the AFL executive council's terms for re-affiliation of his United Mine Workers.

The council arranged to wind up its midwinter sessions here tonight, after telling Lewis it might favor but could not guarantee him a place on the council as a condition to his return.

Lewis, exhibiting little penitence for his past criticism of the Federation, which he left in 1937, asked that a representative of the miners be named to the fifteen-member council which governs the American Federation of Labor.

500,000 Active Members

The miners' boss once sat on the council, and it was obvious that he did not desire to return as just another union leader. The UMWA has approximately 500,000 active members, and with those in the armed services the total is probably 600,000. This is as large as the carpenters and teamsters' brotherhoods, and almost as big as the machinists, all of which are represented on the council.

The council, while awaiting a reply from Lewis, issued a statement urging that the minimum wage level provided in the Fair Labor Standards Act be raised from 40 to 75 cents an hour to meet wartime problems of white-collar and government workers.

Meanwhile, President William Green said the AFL would fight to the finish what he termed efforts of the Christian American Association to push anti-labor legislation through legislatures "mostly in the south, where they think they can get it through."

Wife Can't Forgive 'Joke'

Sues Soldier Who Said He Wanted to Wed Native, Be Island King

ELYRIA, Ohio, Feb. 15 (AP).—Mrs. Sarah Willemson, thirty-seven years old, says she knew her soldier-husband was "only kidding" when he sent her a picture of himself posing with a South Sea Island girl and asked his freedom to marry the native and become "king of an island"—but she's going to divorce him anyway.

In a divorce action last week, Mrs. Willemson said her husband, Private First Class Leo Willemson, twenty-nine, sent "a photograph of himself with a dark-complexioned native . . . and says that he now desires to be released in order that he may remain with and marry one of the natives and become king of a certain island group to which he has become attached."

Her attorney, Otto K. Mischka, said a letter later from Private Willemson said it was all a "joke." "The native girl was the wife of a commercial photographer who took the picture," according to the letter.

Mr. Mischka said Private Willemson told his wife to proceed with the divorce plans, however.

PENICILLIN IS USED IN VARIED AILMENTS

Chicago, Feb. 15 (A. P.).—Physicians reported today that penicillin is good for streptococcic throat, tonsillitis, eye injuries and even bedsores. The announcements that this versatile drug helps treat this variety of ailments were made in the journal of the American Medical Association.

A study at the Fort Jay, N. Y., regional hospital by Major Norman Plummer and associates of the Army Medical Corps has produced evidence that penicillin, if given long enough, will shorten and alleviate the acute symptoms of streptococcic pharyngitis-tonsillitis, the journal said.

A perforating eye wound which had become seriously infected was treated successfully with penicillin and sulfadiazine, Dr. Nell White Sanders of Baltimore reported. He said that the sulfa drug alone caused no improvement and at one time, before penicillin was used, it was feared removal of the eye might be necessary.

The report that penicillin aids closure of bedsores was made by two Army doctors, Lieut.-Col. John D. Lamon Jr. and Capt. Eben Alexander Jr., who treated three infected sores on a soldier. They said they had found no other medical reports of the successful closure of such sores.

Japs Make Shambles of Manila

American Eyewitness Tells of Eleven Days' Slaughter of Filipinos.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—George Folster, NBC correspondent, said in a broadcast from Manila today that the city had been turned into a gigantic funeral pyre, and that "every day new evidence of Japanese infamy turns up."

Mr. Folster declared that for the past eleven days the Japanese have been killing countless men, women and children, asserting: "They have shot them down in the streets as they fled before the flames. They have speared, bayonetde and hacked them to death with Samurai swords."

They have herded Filipinos into wooden buildings and burned them, he said, and added: "American G. I.'s are seeing horrors they didn't think a human being could commit—like the body of a woman with a child at her breast, both shot. In one backyard they found the bodies of thirty-two civilians who were bayoneted or shot and burned."

Mr. Folster said he saw a Filipino man and woman hauling a white iron cot along a street, and that when he went to help them they said: "Look, Joe." They lifted a blanket, he added, revealing the body of a man whose head had been blown off.

American soldiers in blood-stained uniforms, he reported, unload ambulance after ambulance at a civilian hospital. Side by side with our American boys, Filipino doctors and nurses are working twenty-four hours a day, he added, to salvage what they can of the human wreckage.

Another NBC correspondent, Pat Flaherty, said that the wanton destruction of Manila by the Japanese will set the Philippines back fifteen or twenty years.

Bay Entrance'

Jap View Of GI Joe

San Francisco, Feb. 15 (AP)—Here's what Tokyo radio says one Japanese soldier thinks of the American fighting man:

"I can't say whether the enemy is courageous or whether he is crazy, but, at any rate, he is of a bad sort."

San Francisco, Feb. 15 (AP)—More than twenty American minesweepers swept an entrance to Manila Bay Tuesday under cover of a naval and air bombardment, the Japanese Domei news agency reported today in an unconfirmed dispatch saying "some ten enemy transports" were believed to be following for a sea-borne thrust at Manila.

The Domei Dispatch, recorded here, said eleven United States warships engaged in an artillery duel with Corregidor's remaining big guns while the minesweepers went to work on the channel lying between the rock-like fortress and Bataan.

"Furious Gun Duel"

"About 9.30 Tuesday morning an enemy fleet, comprised of two battleships, four cruisers and five destroyers, opened up a barrage of fire against Corregidor, coupled with heavy attacks from enemy aircraft," Domei said. "Our shore batteries on Corregidor promptly returned the fire with a furious gun duel ensuing between our fortresses and the invading surface craft.

"Toward evening the same day twenty enemy minesweepers invaded the narrow strip of water north of Corregidor. One of these enemy vessels was immediately sunk by fire from shore batteries, while the rest of the enemy craft were effectively checked in their attempt to make a way through the channel.

Transports Thought Following

"There are indications that these enemy minesweepers are being followed by some ten enemy transports, apparently carrying invasion forces."

Simultaneously Maj. Gen. Masenori Ito, one of Japan's leading military commentators, discounted the worth of Manila. Domei quoted him as saying it was of "no strategic value" and should not be "defended to the last man."

"The enemy forces hurrying their occupation of Manila are planning to rush into Manila Bay," Domei said, "and are daily carrying out reconnaissance and bombing flights over Corregidor Island."

Blocks Cavite Use

The fortress must be knocked out and mines cleared from the bay before Pacific Fleet forces can enter the great Philippine harbor and use Cavite naval base, former headquarters of the United States Asiatic Fleet, which the 11th Airborne Division recaptured this week.

In his analysis of the Philippines situation, Ito said, in effect, that American conquest of Manila would not mean a defeat for the Japanese because they didn't intend to defend it anyway. He also prepared his Oriental audience to expect heavy fighting soon in northern Luzon, where Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita is believed to have the bulk of his forces concentrated.

Want To Exact Heavy Toll

Ito said the Japanese plan was to use Manila "only as a scene of street fighting in defensive battle for the purpose of exacting heavy toll from the enemy. Once this line of strategy is decided upon, the abandonment of Manila means no defeat for the defender, nor does the reduction of Manila by the attacker mean his victory.

SIR WALTER CITRINE, SECRETARY OF THE BRITISH TRADE UNION COUNCIL AND PRESIDENT OF THE IFTU, TOLD NEWSPAPERMEN AT A LUNCHEON THAT WHATEVER WAS THE OUTCOME OF THE PRESENT CONFERENCE HE HOPED THE DOOR WOULD BE LEFT "WIDE OPEN" FOR PARTICIPATION BY THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, WHICH HAS NOT BEEN REPRESENTED IN THE CURRENT DELIBERATIONS.

A REPORT PLACED BEFORE THE CONVENTION INCLUDED AN APPEAL TO WAR WORKERS TO REMAIN ON THEIR JOBS UNTIL BOTH GERMANY AND JAPAN HAVE BEEN DEFEATED.

JOSEPH CURRAN, PRESIDENT OF THE CIO'S NATIONAL MARITIME UNION, PROPOSED THAT THE NEW WORLD TRADE UNION ORGANIZATION INCLUDE MACHINERY TO BATTLE DISCRIMINATION BASED ON RACE, COLOR OR CREED.

PARIS, FEB.15-(AP)-THE AMERICAN RAILWAY BATTALION BLACKMARKET TRIALS ENTER A NEW PHASE NEXT WEEK WITH THE COURT MARTIAL OF MAJ. WALTER H.MARLIN, FORMER COMMANDER OF THE PRINCIPAL BATTALION INVOLVED IN THE SUPPLY LINES SCANDAL, ON CHARGES OF NEGLECT OF DUTY.

MARLIN WAS RELIEVED OF THE COMMAND OF THE 716TH RAILWAY OPERATING BATTALION AFTER MILITARY POLICE RAIDED THAT OUTFIT LAST NOVEMBER AND TOOK 500 MEN TO PARIS FOR INTERROGATION. SUBSEQUENTLY 160 ENLISTED MEN AND TWO OFFICERS WERE CONVICTED AND SENTENCED TO PRISON TERMS FOR PARTICIPATION OR COMPLICITY IN THE LOOTING OF SUPPLY TRAINS AND DIVERSION INTO THE FRENCH BLACK MARKET OF ARMY SUPPLIES ENROUTE TO THE FIGHTING FRONT.

PROSECUTOR LT. COL. CARMON C.HARRIS STRESSED TONIGHT THAT MARLIN IS NOT ACCUSED OF PARTICIPATION IN THE TRAIN LOOTING OR IN BLACK MARKET DEALS IN LOOTED SUPPLIES, BUT IN NEGLECT OF DUTY IN FAILING TO PREVENT SUCH DIVERSION OF SUPPLIES.

(IN WASHINGTON THE WAR DEPARTMENT SAID THAT THE 1943 HOME ADDRESS LISTED FOR MAJOR MARLIN WAS 2938 56TH AVE., OAKLAND, CALIF.).

"IT IS DIFFICULT TO CONCEIVE," HARRIS SAID, "HOW THE WHOLESALE PILFERING FROM SUPPLY TRAINS COULD HAVE BEEN ENGAGED IN BY ENLISTED MEN OF AN OPERATING BATTALION WITHOUT THE BATTALION AND COMPANY COMMANDERS HAVING KNOWLEDGE THEREOF, OR OF BEING GUILTY OF NEGLECT OF DUTY IN NOT HAVING SUCH KNOWLEDGE."

ONE COMPANY COMMANDER WHOSE NAME WAS NOT DISCLOSED IS SCHEDULED TO BE TRIED WITH MARLIN FEB.20. OTHERS ALSO ARE EXPECTED TO BE TRIED--POSSIBLY AT THE SAME TIME--BUT THIS WILL DEPEND UPON THE OUTCOME OF A CONFERENCE. A NEW COURT IS BEING APPOINTED TO HEAR THESE CASES.

THREE OFFICERS PREVIOUSLY TRIED, AND ONE OF WHOM WAS ACQUITTED, ALL WERE BELOW THE RANK OF CAPTAIN.

AS A RESULT OF TESTIMONY IN THE LONG SERIES OF ENLISTED MEN'S TRIALS JUST COMPLETED, A NEW LIST OF ALLEGED OFFENDERS IS BEING COMPILED. IT INCLUDES UPWARD OF 100 NAMES. SOMEWHERE BETWEEN 25 AND 100 ARE EXPECTED TO BE TRIED IN A NEW SERIES OF COURTSMARTIAL BEGINNING IN MARCH. THE INVESTIGATIONS WILL BE CONTINUED UNTIL EVERY PERSON CONNECTED WITH THE LOOTING HAS BEEN

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 15-(AP)-THE BATTLE SOUTHEAST OF KLEVE REACHED A NEW CRESCENDO OF FURY TONIGHT AS BRITISH AND SCOTCH TROOPS FOUGHT WITH GERMAN PANZER GRENADIERS AND FRESH REINFORCEMENTS ON THE BROAD HIGHWAYS LEADING TO PIVOTAL GOCH AND CALCAR.

THE BATTLEFIELD WAS SHROUDED WITH SWIRLING MISTS AS BRITISH TROOPS STORMED AND CAPTURED KESSEL, FOUR MILES NORTHWEST OF GOCH.

FORWARD OFFICERS WHO KNOW THEIR WAR DECLARED TODAY THAT THIS SLOW SLUGGING MATCH MIGHT WELL HAVE BEEN A SPECTACULAR BREAKTHROUGH HAD NOT TOO MANY MEN AND TOO MUCH EQUIPMENT BEEN CROWDED INTO THE NARROW BATTLEFIELD.

THEY ASSERT THAT THE OFFENSIVE THAT BROKE EIGHT DAYS AGO CAUGHT THE GERMANS WITH NOTHING IN THE REICHSWALD AREA. THEN, THEY SAID, THE MISTAKE WAS MADE OF ATTEMPTING TO MOVE A STUPENDOUS WEIGHT OF MATERIAL OVER MUDDY ROADS THAT COULD NOT WITHSTAND THE WEAR AND TEAR.

TO BE SURE, THE ENEMY PAYS WITH AN APPALLING NUMBER OF DEAD BY TRYING TO CHECK THE CRUSHING WEIGHT OF THIS OFFENSIVE, BUT THE INITIAL OPPORTUNITY HAS BEEN LOST WHEREBY IT MIGHT HAVE BECOME A SPECTACULAR BREAKTHROUGH.

THE TROOPS TODAY RAN INTO RUGGED RESISTANCE IN MOYLAND FOREST, LESS THAN THREE MILES FROM CALCAR, WHERE THE ENEMY BROUGHT UP FRESH AND WELL-RESTED VETERANS AND THREW THEM INTO THE STRUGGLE.

TROOP CARRIERS ALONG THE EDGE OF THE FORE T WERE HELD UP BY MINES. THE GERMANS COMMANDED THE MINEFIELDS WITH MACHINEGUNS.

AHEAD OF THE FORCES FIGHTING THROUGH THE WOODS IS A SPUR OF HIGH GROUND THAT DOMINATES THE ROAD INTO CALCAR. IT IS HERE THAT THE GERMANS ARE PUTTING UP THE STRONGEST RESISTANCE IN THIS PART OF THE FRONT.

THE BATTLE DOWN THE KLEVE-GOCH HIGHWAY IS EQUALLY PAINFUL AND SLOW. PANZER GRENADIERS MAN MACHINEGUN NESTS BUILT INTO A REAR EXTENSION OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE AND THEY OVERLOOK THE HIGHWAY ALL THE WAY INTO GOCH.

GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR HAS NO OTHER CHOICE BUT TO WADE THROUGH THEM. THIS THE INFANTRY IS DOING BEHIND A THUNDEROUS BARRAGE OF HUNDREDS OF BIG GUNS, WHOSE ACCURATE AND DEADLY FIRE ALREADY HAS BROKEN UP ENEMY COUNTERATTACKS ONE AFTER ANOTHER.

TO THE NORTH, CANADIAN TROOPS ARE ON THE BANK OF THE RHINE ALL THE WAY TO EMMERICH, 20 WINDING MILES EAST OF NIJMEGEN. THEIR JOB IS STILL AN AMPHIBIOUS ONE. TODAY, IN FACT, KLEVE WAS ENCOMPASSED ON THREE SIDES BY WATER.

FORWARD TROOPS COULD MOVE NO FASTER THAN MATERIEL. THUS THE ENEMY, AFTER RECOVERING FROM THE INITIAL SHOCK, PUSHED UP REINFORCEMENTS AND THEY ARE STILL COMING IN BY BITS AND PIECES.

"HAD WE REMOVED ALL SURPLUS MATERIAL AND TROOPS AND PUSHED FORWARD AGAINST THE ONE DIVISION FACING US WITH THE MAXIMUM AMOUNT NEEDED FOR THAT OPERATION, THERE IS NO TELLING WHERE WE WOULD BE BY NOW," ONE OFFICER SAID.

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, FEB.15-(AP)-GEN.GEORGE C.MARSHALL, MAKING A SURPRISE TOUR OF THE ITALIAN FRONT, TOLD FIFTH ARMY SOLDIERS YESTERDAY THAT THEY HAVE IMMOBILIZED LARGE GERMAN FORCES IN ITALY, PREVENTING THESE NAZI TROOPS FROM BOLSTERING SAGGING LINES ON THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONTS.

IT IS ESTIMATED THE NAZIS HAVE 27 DIVISIONS IN ITALY.

MARSHAL'S STATEMENT WAS AN OBVIOUS TONIC TO THE FIFTH ARMY TROOPS, MANY OF WHOM HAVE BEEN OVERSEAS BATTLING THE AXIS MORE THAN THREE YEARS.

THE U.S.ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF MADE AN UNEXPECTED, THREE-DAY TOUR OF THE FIFTH'S SECTOR ON HIS WAY HOME FROM THE CRIMEAN CONFERENCE. HE WORE OVERSEAS FOR THE FIRST TIME HIS NEW FIVE-STAR INSIGNIA AS A GENERAL OF THE ARMY.

IT WAS MARSHALL'S FIRST VISIT TO THE ITALIAN FRONT SINCE LAST JUNE AND HE MADE 15 STOPS, INCLUDING A TRIP TO THE PLACE THE GI'S HAVE BEEN CALLING "DEATH VALLEY" SINCE THE GERMANS THREW SOME 1,500 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION INTO IT LAST DECEMBER. IT STILL IS UNDER PERFECT OBSERVATION FROM ENEMY-HELD HILLS.

LATER THE SAME AFTERNOON, MARSHALL SCRAMBLED UP A MUD-BOGGED TRAIL TO A FORWARD OBSERVATION POST FROM WHICH HE COULD SEE VIRTUALLY THE ENTIRE EASTERN SECTOR OF THE FIFTH ARMY FRONT.

HE GAVE OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN HERE ALL THE WAY FROM REAR ECHELONS TO THE FRONT A GENERAL PICTURE OF PLANS FOR THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY.

AS HIS TOUR ENDED, MARSHALL SAID:

"SUCH A SPIRIT OF COMMON PURPOSE, SUCH TEAMWORK, MAKES CERTAIN THE DESTRUCTION OF GERMAN MILITARY POWERS."

COMMENTING ON THE CAMPAIGN IN ITALY, HE ADDED:

"THE DIFFICULTIES OF A MOUNTAINOUS COUNTRY WITH FEW ROADS AND WINTER CONDITIONS ARE VERY REAL. THE STRENGTH OF THE ENEMY'S DEFENSIVE POSITIONS IN SUCH COUNTRY EQUALLY IS APPARENT.

"UNDER THESE CONDITIONS OUR U.S.TROOPS AND THOSE OF OUR ALLIES HAVE DONE A SPLENDID JOB AND MADE A GREAT CONTRIBUTION TO THE WAR. A LARGE GERMAN FORCE HAS BEEN HELD IN ITALY AND PREVENTED FROM BOLSTERING THE ENEMY'S HARD-PRESSED TROOPS ON THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONTS.

A17

"THE INFANTRY HAS BORNE THE GREATEST BURDEN OF THE STRUGGLE BUT HAS BEEN STRONGLY SUPPORTED BY THE PERFECT COOPERATION OF THE AIR, ARTILLERY AND OTHER ARMS OF THE SERVICE. THE SUPPLY OF TROOPS HAS BEEN MADE POSSIBLE BY THE REALLY MAGNIFICENT WORK OF THE ENGINEERS IN THE MOUNTAINS.

"THE STRATEGICAL AIR FORCE IN ITALY HAS STRUCK AN UNENDING SERIES OF BLOWS AGAINST ENEMY PRODUCTION CENTERS AND COMMUNICATIONS, DESPITE USUAL INCLEMENCY OF THE WEATHER.

"PROBABLY THE MOST IMPRESSIVE PHASE OF THE OPERATIONS IN ITALY IS THE DEGREE OF COOPERATION AND UNITY EVIDENCED BY THE ALLIED COMPOSITION OF THE FORCES. THE GUARD OF HONOR WHICH MET ME AT CLARK'S (LT.GEN.MARK CLARK, COMMANDER OF THE 15TH ARMY GROUP) WAS COMPOSED OF MILITARY REPRESENTATIVES OF 12 NATIONALITIES IN THE FIFTH AND EIGHTH ARMIES AND PARADED AS ONE BODY COMMANDED BY ONE OFFICER," THE PREPARED STATEMENT SAID.

IN ADDITION TO CLARK, MARSHALL WAS ACCOMPANIED BY LT.GEN.JOSEPH T.MCNARNEY, COMMANDER OF U.S.ARMY FORCES IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER, AND LT.GEN.LUCIAN K.TRUSCOTT, JR., COMMANDER OF THE FIFTH ARMY.

GUNS WERE RAKING GERMAN POSITIONS WEST OF THE BOBER RIVER.

MANY EMERGENCY UNITS OF THE GERMAN ARMY HURRIED EASTWARD FROM DRESDEN AND SOUTHEASTWARD FROM COTTBUS TO SLOW DOWN KONEV'S DRIVE ACROSS THE NORTH-SOUTH COMMUNICATION LINES OF THE REICH.

THE GERMANS OFFERED FRANTIC RESISTANCE TO KONEV'S DRIVE ON GRUNBERG, IN THE FORK BETWEEN THE ODER AND BOBER RIVERS, WHERE THERE WAS A POSSIBILITY OF A LINKUP WITH ZHUKOV'S MEN FOR A JOINT DRIVE ON BERLIN.

THE RUSSIANS SAID NOTHING ABOUT GERMAN ACCOUNTS OF FIGHTING GOING ON AT SORAU, WHICH IS WEST OF THE BOBER ABOUT 35 MILES FROM COTTBUS.

ANOTHER GROUP ON KONEV'S NORTHERN FLANK STRUCK OUT FROM CAPTURED FREYSTADT IN A NORTHWESTERLY DIRECTION TOWARD THE LOWER BOBER WHERE IT FLOWS INTO THE ODER AT KROSSEN, AND THIS PUSH PROMISED TO OUTFLANK GRUNBERG.

THE RUSSIANS APPEARED TO HAVE SPLIT THE GERMAN LINE THROUGH THIS SECTOR AND GREAT CONFUSION WAS REPORTED AS FRESHLY ARRIVED GERMAN UNITS BECAME MIXED UP WITH VETERAN GERMAN OUTFITS.

FROM THE WAY THE SOVIET ADVANCE IS GOING THE GERMANS APPEARED UNABLE TO HALT THIS PUSH, WHICH MUST SOON GET INTO THE SALIENT JUST SOUTH OF THE FORTRESS TOWN OF FRANKFURT.

U.S. ARMY PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, FEB 15-(AP)-FRANK T.HACHIYA, 25, OF PORTLAND, ORE., ONE OF 16 JAPANESE-AMERICANS WHOSE NAMES HAVE BEEN STRICKEN FROM THE COUNTY MEMORIAL ROLL BY THE HOOD RIVER ORE., AMERICAN LEGION POST, DIED WHILE PERFORMING A DANGEROUS VOLUNTEER MISSION, THE ARMY REPORTED TODAY.

HACHIYA, ATTACHED TO THE SEVENTH DIVISION, WAS FATALLY WOUNDED ON LEYTE DEC. 30. HE DIED JAN. 3 AFTER MOST OF THE MEN IN HIS REGIMENT VOLUNTEERED TO GIVE HIM BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS.

LT.HOWARD MOSS, HACHIYA'S COMMANDING OFFICER, SAID FRANK VOLUNTEERED TO CROSS A VALLEY UNDER JAPANESE FIRE TO SCOUT AN ENEMY POSITION. THE REGIMENT WAS IN A TOUGH SPOT. INFORMATION ON ENEMY DISPOSITION WAS ESSENTIAL. AT THE BOTTOM OF THE VALLEY FRANK WORKED AHEAD OF HIS PROTECTING PATROL.

"A JAP SNIPER LET FRANK HAVE IT AT CLOSE RANGE," MOSS RELATED. "FRANK EMPTIED HIS GUN INTO THE SNIPER. SHOT THROUGH THE ABDOMEN, FRANK WALKED BACK UP THE HILL. MEDICS GAVE HIM PLASMA AND STARTED HIM TO A HOSPITAL. HE WAS OPERATED ON IMMEDIATELY BUT THE BULLET HAD GONE THROUGH HIS LIVER AND HE DIED."

HACHIYA ATTENDED THE UNIVERSITY OF OREGON. HE ENLISTED SHORTLY AFTER THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK. HE HAD SERVED THROUGH THE KWAJALEIN AND ENIWETOK INVASIONS.

HIS FATHER, JUNKICHI HACHIYA, IS IN A WAR RELOCATION AUTHORITY CAMP.

A MEDICAL BATTALION HEADQUARTERS, MANILA, FEB. 15-(AP)-A PRIVATE FIRST CLASS FORCED OPEN A STOREROOM DOOR AND SMACK-DAB THERE BEFORE HIM WAS GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S SILVERWARE, THE BIGGEST COLLECTION HE HAD EVER SEEN, CERTAINLY.

PFC.YEN QUONG OF GREENVILLE, MISS., OF CANTONESE ANCESTRY, KNEW IT WAS THE GENERAL'S BECAUSE IT WAS INITIALLED: "D. MACA." OR "A. MACA." A.MACA. IS FOR HIS FATHER, ARTHUR.

QUONG CALLED OTHER MEN OF THE MEDICAL HEADQUARTERS ESTABLISHED IN A BUILDING IN THE SAN MIGUEL DISTRICT OF MANILA AND TODAY THEY ARE SPENDING THEIR SPARE MOMENTS POLISHING THE HIGHLY ORNATE BIG SERVICE PLATES, GOBLETS, DECANTERS, TRAYS, COCKTAIL SETS, TROPHIES--SEVERAL HUNDRED PIECES, ALL BEAUTIFULLY CARVED.

THE SILVER, WHICH HAS BEEN CHECKED AND WILL BE TURNED OVER TO THE 37TH DIVISION FOR DELIVERY TO THE GENERAL, WAS TAKEN FROM MACARTHUR'S HOME IN THE MANILA HOTEL BY THE INVADING JAPANESE IN 1941.

THE COLLECTION INCLUDES SILVER FRAMED PICTURES OF THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR, SCENES IN THE PHILIPPINES, MASSIVE CANDLESTICKS AND ONE SILVER PLAQUE FROM "RETIRED ENLISTED MEN OF THE PHILIPPINE SCOUTS TO GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, THEIR FRIEND AND BENEFACTOR."

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FRIDAY, FEB 16-(AP)-SCREAMING HELLCATS, THEIR HEAVY MULTIPLE MACHINEGUNS SPEWING DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN THE FIRST AMERICAN CARRIER SWEEP OVER TOKYO, JARRED THE JAPANESE CAPITAL SHORTLY AFTER DAWN INTO A DAY OF HYSTERICAL TERROR.

A GREAT NAVAL CARRIER FORCE UNDER VICE ADM.MARC A.MITSCHER REACHED THE END OF ITS YEAR-LONG, 4,000-MILE TRAIL--THE ENEMY'S OWN HOMELAND.

ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ ANNOUNCED IN A COMMUNIQUE TODAY THE STARTLING THRUST OF THE AMERICAN FIFTH FLEET, WHICH IS PRESUMED TO INCLUDE MORE CARRIERS AND MORE BATTLESHIPS THAN EVER BEFORE AFLOAT IN A SINGLE FORCE.

WHILE THIS GREAT CARRIER FLEET ATTACKED ENEMY AIRCRAFT, AIR BASES AND OTHER MILITARY TARGETS IN THE TOKYO AREA, SURFACE UNITS WERE BOMBARDING IWO JIMA, THE LITTLE ISLAND IN THE VOLCANO GROUP WHICH HAS BEEN HIT 69 CONSECUTIVE TIMES BY ARMY BOMBERS.

THE CARRIER STRIKE WAS THE FIRST ON THE JAPANESE MAINLAND SINCE LT.GEN. (THEN LT.COL.) JAMES H.DOOLITTLE'S MORALE-BOOSTING BLOW WITH B-25S FROM THE DECKS OF THE CARRIER HORNET IN APRIL, 1942.

TOKYO RADIO, TO WHICH AMERICAN NEWSMEN WERE LISTENING AT THIS ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, WENT SILENT AFTER BANGING A GONG AT 7 A.M. (TOKYO TIME) JUST AS THE AMERICAN FLAG WAS BEING RAISED AT HEADQUARTERS TO THE THRILLING STRAINS OF THE BUGLE CALL.

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, FRIDAY, FEB. 16-(AP)-CARRIERS OPENED THE PACIFIC WAR.
THEY WERE JAPANESE CARRIERS AND THEIR PLANES DEALT THE SNEAK ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR, DEC. 7, 1941.
TODAY AMERICAN AIRCRAFT CARRIERS ARE PAYING BACK THAT BLOW AND DEALING ONE SEVERAL TIMES BIGGER ON TOKYO. THUS THE UNITED STATES FLEET HAS COMPLETED THE LAST MILE OF THE 4,000 FROM PEARL HARBOR TO TOKYO.
THE CARRIER'S WESTWARD DRIVE BEGAN IN JANUARY, 1944, WHEN FLATTOP PLANES SUPPORTED INVASION OF THE MARSHALLS IN JANUARY.
THEN AS NOW VICE ADM. MARC A. MITSCHER COMMANDED THE FLATTOPS AND, THEN AS NOW, HE WAS OPERATING AS PART OF ADM. R.A. SPRUANCE'S FIFTH FLEET.
IN WHAT WAS REGARDED AS A STROKE OF BREATHLESS DARING, CARRIERS BLASTED THE ENEMY FORTRESS OF TRUK IN THE CAROLINES IN MID-FEBRUARY. ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTYNINE PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN. ONLY 14 OF 55 SHIPS IN TRUK'S LAGOON ESCAPED UNDAMAGED.
PUSHING BOLDLY FORWARD INTO ENEMY-CONTROLLED SEAS, MITSCHE'S FORCE ATTACKED THE MARIANAS A FEW DAYS LATER, DESTROYING OR DAMAGING ALL ENEMY AIRCRAFT SIGHTED.
BEFORE THE END OF MARCH, THE SPRUANCE-MITSCHER TEAM STRUCK THE PALAU ISLANDS, SINKING 29 ENEMY SHIPS, OTHERS FLED. YAP, ULITHI AND WOLEAI IN THE CAROLINES ALSO WERE TARGETS.
THE AMERICAN TASK FORCE THEN RANGED FAR SOUTHWARD TO SUPPORT GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S SEIZURE OF HOLLANDIA, DUTCH NEW GUINEA.
ON THE WAY BACK TO BASE, ANOTHER ATTACK WAS MADE ON TRUK IN LATE APRIL. SURFACE UNITS, SUPPORTED BY CARRIER PLANES, POUNDED PONAPE IN THE CAROLINES IN MAY.

FEB 16 1945

A128FX
MARCUS AND WAKE WERE DEALT CARRIER BLOWS IN LATE MAY. ANOTHER 150 ENEMY PLANES WERE DESTROYED IN A SECOND GREAT CARRIER ATTACK ON THE MARIANAS PRECEDING THE JUNE INVASION OF SAIPAN. SEVERAL CONVOYS WERE DESTROYED IN A SPREADING SEA ACTION BEFORE THE TROOPS LANDED JAN. 14. IWO JIMA, CHICHI JIMA AND HAHA JIMA IN THE VOLCANO AND BONIN ISLANDS ALSO WERE POUNDED -- THE FIRST ATTACKS ON THESE OUTPOSTS SO NEAR JAPAN'S HOMELAND.
THE BATTLE OF THE PHILIPPINE SEA BEGAN JUNE 18 WEST OF THE MARIANAS WHEN ENEMY CARRIER PLANES ATTACKED AMERICAN FLEET UNITS, ONLY TO LOSE 420 PLANES IN A SINGLE DISASTROUS DAY. AMERICAN CARRIER PLANES FOUND AND STRUCK THE ENEMY CARRIERS THE NEXT DAY, SINKING OR CRIPPLING AT LEAST ONE THIRD OF JAPAN'S CARRIER STRENGTH.
BEFORE THE END OF THE MONTH, ANOTHER 114 ENEMY PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN AT IWO JIMA, AT A COST OF FIVE RAIDERS. REGULAR ATTACKS ON THE BONIN AND VOLCANO ISLANDS FOLLOWED.
CARRIERS SUPPORTED THE JULY INVASION OF GUAM. THAT MONTH PALAU WAS HAMMERED AGAIN. ANOTHER CONVOY WAS WIPED OUT IN THE BONINS EARLY IN AUGUST.
A MIGHTY CARRIER FORCE PAVED THE WAY FOR THE INVASION OF PALAU IN SEPTEMBER.
SEPT. 20 AND 21, CARRIERS SENT PLANES INTO THE PHILIPPINES AREA. THEN IT WAS THE U.S. THIRD FLEET OF ADM. WILLIAM F. HALSEY IN ACTION, WITH MITSCHER COMMANDING THE CARRIERS. IN LATER ACTIONS, HALSEY'S CARRIERS WERE COMMANDED BY VICE ADM. JOHN S. MCCAIN.
IN THE SEPTEMBER ATTACK IN THE PHILIPPINES, MORE THAN 40 ENEMY SHIPS WERE SUNK.

A129FX
SOON THE CARRIERS WERE RANGING INTO THE RYUKYU ARCHIPELAGO IN GREAT FORCE, SINKING 46 MORE ENEMY SHIPS IN OCTOBER. THEY ALSO SMASHED FORMOSA WITH BLOWS WHICH COST THE ENEMY 416 PLANES AND 100 SHIPS SUNK OR DAMAGED.
THESE BLOWS PAVED THE WAY FOR GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S INVASION OF LEYTE IN THE CENTRAL PHILIPPINES.
CARRIER PLANES PLAYED THE CHIEF ROLE IN DECISIVILY WHIPPING THREE ENEMY FLEET FORMATIONS OFF LEYTE GULF LATE IN OCTOBER WITH LITTLE ESCORT CARRIERS AS WELL AS THE ESSEX TYPE IN ACTION. IN THAT BATTLE, THE ENEMY LOST 24 WARSHIPS, PROBABLY 13 OTHERS, WITH 21 MORE DAMAGED.
SINCE THEN THE CARRIERS HAVE ROAMED THE SOUTH CHINA SEA.
NOW THE CLIMAX HAS BEEN REACHED -- A SMASH AT TOKYO ITSELF.

CHIEF OF THE FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS MANILA BUREAU

INTRAMUROS, THE ANCIENT SPANISH WALLED CITY OF MANILA, WITH ITS NARROW STREETS AND ITS TEEMING POPULATION, MAY BE THE FINAL BATTLEFIELD IN THE BLOODY FIGHT FOR THE PHILIPPINES CAPITAL.

SLOWLY BUT SURELY THE JAPANESE SUICIDE TROOPS LEFT IN MANILA TO RAVAGE THE CITY ARE BEING BACKED INTO THE INTRAMUROS.

THE FAMOUS WALLED CITY, ITS HEAVY STONE RAMPARTS RISING SOME 25 FEET ABOVE GROUND LEVEL, DATES BACK TO THE DAYS WHEN SPAIN RULED THE PHILIPPINES. SPANISH REMNANTS WERE CORNERED THERE IN 1898 AND IT WAS WITHIN THE HIGH WALLS THAT THEY FINALLY SURRENDERED. ATOP THE RAMPART AT THE SOUTHEAST CORNER OF INTRAMUROS, FACING MANILA HOTEL, IS THE SPOT WHERE THE AMERICAN FLAG FIRST WENT UP IN THE METROPOLIS.

INTRAMUROS IS ONE OF THE MOST THICKLY POPULATED SECTIONS OF MANILA--POPULATED MAINLY BY FILIPINOS AND CHINESE. ITS NARROW STREETS CAN BE COVERED CROSSWISE IN A HEALTHY HOP, SKIP AND JUMP, BY A GOOD SIZED MAN. THE MAIN STREETS ARE CALLE REAL AND CALLE ARZOBISPO. ALONG REAL AND THE STREETS RADIATING FROM IT ARE SCORES AND SCORES OF FILIPINO AND CHINESE SHOPS AND RESTAURANTS.

ON ARZOBISPO IS THE PALACE OF THE CATHOLIC ARCHBISHOP OF THE MANILA DIOCESE.

THE WALLS OF INTRAMUROS ARE SO THICK--10 AND 12 FEET AT SOME SPOTS--THAT GRASSY PLOTS AND FLOWER GARDENS ABOUNDED ON TOP OF THEM IN PRE-WAR DAYS.
NORMALLY THERE WERE MANY SECOND-RATE HOTELS IN INTRAMUROS--FILIPINO AND CHINESE HOSTELS--AND ONE GOOD AMERICAN HOTEL.
DOTTED IN ALL PARTS OF THE CITY ARE CATHOLIC CHURCHES AND EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS. ON THE NORTHERN SIDE IS FORT SANTIAGO. BEFORE THE WAR, THE OLD FORT, WITH ITS DAMP, UNDERGROUND TORTURE CHAMBERS, WAS USED AS AMERICAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS. ITS INQUISITION CHAMBERS IN THOSE DAYS WERE BUT FOR SIGHTSEERS. BUT WHEN THE JAPANESE CAME IN THEY REVIVED USE OF THE DARK TORTURE DUNGEONS, BELOW THE LEVEL OF THE PASIG RIVER.
THE WALLED CITY STRETCHES ABOUT EIGHT BLOCKS ALONG BURGOS AVENUE ON THE EAST; ABOUT 15 BLOCKS ALONG THE PASIG RIVER ON THE NORTH AND THE WEST; AND ABOUT 10 BLOCKS JUST INLAND FROM MANILA BAY ON THE SOUTH.
IN ANCIENT DAYS INTRAMUROS WAS SURROUNDED BY DEEP MOATS. THESE WERE FILLED IN BY THE AMERICANS IN THE EARLY 1900S AND LATER THE GROUND BECAME A MUNICIPAL GOLF COURSE.

A11FX
THE BETTER KNOWN OF THE CHURCHES WITHIN INTRAMUROS, NEARLY ALL OF THEM CATHOLIC, ARE THE CATHEDRAL OF MANILA, THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION, OUR LADY OF LOURDES, SAN AUGUSTIN, ST.NICHOLAS, SANTO DOMINGA, SAN FRANCISCO AND ST.IGNATIUS.
THE LEADING COLLEGES IN THE WALLED CITY, MOST OF THEM CATHOLIC ALSO, ARE SAN JUAN DE LETRAN, SANTA CATALINA, SANTA ROSA, SANTA ISABEL, COLEGIO DE BEATERIO DE LA COMPANIA DE JESUS, COLEGIO DE NINOS DE LA IGLESIA CATEDRAL, AND THE CATHEDRAL FREE SCHOOL.
INTRAMUROS HOSPITALS INCLUDE SAINT PAUL'S AND SAN JUAN DE DIOS.
THE HEADQUARTERS OF MANY CATHOLIC RELIGIOUS ORDERS ALSO ARE INSIDE THE WALLS.

MORE THAN 20 AMERICAN MINESSWEEPERS SWEPT AN ENTRANCE TO MANILA BAY TUESDAY UNDER COVER OF A NAVAL AND AIR BOMBARDMENT, THE JAPANESE DOMEI NEWS AGENCY REPORTED TODAY IN AN UNCONFIRMED DISPATCH SAYING "SOME TEN ENEMY TRANSPORTS" WERE BELIEVED TO BE FOLLOWING FOR A SEA-BORNE THRUST AT MANILA."
THE DOMEI DISPATCH, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, SAID 11 U.S. WARSHIPS ENGAGED IN AN ARTILLERY DUEL WITH CORREGIDOR'S REMAINING BIG GUNS WHILE THE MINESWEEPERS WENT TO WORK ON THE CHANNEL LYING BETWEEN THE ROCK-LIKE FORTRESS AND BATAAN.
"ABOUT 9:30 TUESDAY MORNING AN ENEMY FLEET, COMPRISED OF TWO BATTLESHIPS, FOUR CRUISERS AND FIVE DESTROYERS, OPENED UP A BARRAGE OF FIRE AGAINST CORREGIDOR, COUPLED WITH HEAVY ATTACKS FROM ENEMY AIRCRAFT," DOMEI SAID. GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR DAILY REPORTS HEAVY BOMBING RAIDS ON CORREGIDOR. HIGH U.S. NAVAL OFFICERS IN WASHINGTON SAID THE ROCK-LIKE FORTRESS IS UNDERGOING ONE OF THE HEAVIEST PINPOINT BOMBINGS IN THE ISTORY OF WARFARE AS A NECESSARY PRELUDE TO SWEEPING JAPANESE-LAID MINES OUT OF MANILA BAY.
THE FORTRESS MUST BE KNOCKED OUT AND MINES CLEARED FROM THE BAY BEFORE PACIFIC FLEET FORCES CAN ENTER THE GREAT PHILIPPINES ARBOR AND USE CAVITE NAVAL BASE, FORMER EADQUARTERS OF THE U.S. ASIATIC FLEET, WHICH THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION RECAPTURED THIS WEEK.

HE ALSO PREPARED HIS ORIENTAL AUDIENCE TO EXPECT HEAVY FIGHTING SOON IN NORTHERN LUZON WHERE GEN. TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA IS BELIEVED TO HAVE THE BULK OF HIS FORCES CONCENTRATED.
ITO SAID THE JAPANESE PLAN WAS TO USE MANILA "ONLY AS A SCENE OF STREET FIGHTING IN DEFENSIVE BATTLE FOR THE PURPOSE OF EXACTING HEAVY TOLL FROM THE ENEMY. o

SCENE OF STREET FIGHTING IN DEFENSIVE BATTLE FOR THE PURPOSE OF EXACTING HEAVY TOLL FROM THE ENEMY. ONCE THIS LINE OF STRATEGY IS DECIDED UPON, THE ABANDONMENT OF MANILA MEANS NO DEFEAT FOR THE DEFENDER, NOR DOES THE REDUCTION OF MANILA BY THE ATTACKER MEAN HIS VICTORY.
"MANILA THUS IS MERELY A THEATER OF USUAL MOBILE WARFARE. MORE PRECISELY IT IS JAPANS STRATEGY TO LURE LARGE ENEMY FORCES INTO THE CITY OF MANILA TO ENGAGE THEM IN STREET FIGHTING AND THEREBY EXACT A HEAVY TOLL OF THEIR LIVES.
"ALREADY INDICATIONS ARE THAT THE SCENE OF THE MAJOR BATTLE ON THE LUZON FRONT HAS NOW MOVED ON TO THE NORTH. X X X

MANIFESTING CONTINUING CONCERN TODAY ABOUT SOVIET INTENTIONS IN THE FAR EAST, RADIO SINGAPORE'S PUPPET-CONTROLLED POLITICAL COMMENTATOR SAID: "WE DO NOT THINK ANYTHING HAS HAPPENED" TO ALTER RUSSIA'S NEUTRALITY POLICY, BUT "THERE IS UNDOUBTEDLY AN ELEMENT OF DANGER IN THE PRESENT SITUATION."

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, DECLARED THOSE NATIONS LOOKING TOWARD RUSSIA'S PARTICIPATION IN THE WAR AGAINST JAPAN ARE ENGAGING IN "WISHFUL THINKING."

"QUITE POSSIBLY RUSSIA'S ENTANGLEMENTS WITH GREAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA HAVE GONE SO FAR THAT SHE MIGHT FIND HERSELF HELPLESS AGAINST PRESSURE ALTHOUGH SHE IS FULLY AWARE THAT AN AGGRESSIVE STEP BY HER IN THE EAST WILL SERVE BRITISH AND AMERICAN INTERESTS MORE THAN RUSSIAN," THE COMMENTATOR SAID.

IN THE COMING WEEKS ANGLO-AMERICAN DIPLOMACY WOULD SEEK TO CREATE A RUSSO-JAPANESE RIFT, HE ADDED.

THE BROADCASTER DERIDED "ALLIED NEWS COMMENTARIES" FOR ATTACHING SIGNIFICANCE TO THE DATE OF THE WORLD SECURITY CONFERENCE MEETING IN SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 25, ONE DAY FOLLOWING THE POSSIBLE DENOUNCING DATE OF THE RUSSO-JAPANESE NEUTRALITY TREATY AND SAID:

"WHILE ALL ARE AGREED THAT THE DURATION OF THE PACIFIC WAR WILL LARGELY DEPEND UPON RUSSIA'S ATTITUDE TO IT, IT CAN HARDLY BE GAINSAID THAT NEUTRALITY WILL PAY RUSSIA THE BEST DIVIDENDS IN THE LONG RUN.

"THERE IS NO OUTSTANDING ISSUE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND JAPAN, THAT CANNOT BE SETTLED BY PEACEFUL NEGOTIATION AS WAS FULLY DEMONSTRATED BY THE AMICABLE SETTLEMENTS REACHED ON THE THORNY ISSUE OF JAPAN'S FISHING RIGHTS IN THE NORTH PACIFIC AND HER OIL CONCESSIONS IN SAKHALIN. UNDATED ISLANDS

THE BONIN AND VOLCANO ISLANDS, WHICH WERE SHELLED BY AMERICAN WARSHIPS YESTERDAY (THURS) WHILE CARRIER-BASED PLANES ATTACKED TOKYO, ARE LINKS IN THE LONG CHAIN OF LITTLE ISLANDS THAT FORM THE OUTPOSTS OF THE JAPANESE EMPIRE.

THEY PROTRUDE FROM THE PACIFIC IN LITTLE JUMBLES SCATTERED 600 TO 750 MILES SOUTHEAST OF TOKYO. THEY ARE DUE NORTH OF THE MARIANAS AND IN APPROXIMATELY THE SAME LATITUDE AS FORMOSA.

IWO JIMA, LARGEST OF THE THREE ISLANDS FORMING THE VOLCANO GROUP (ANNEXED BY JAPAN IN 1891), IS ABOUT FIVE MILES LONG AND CONTAINS THREE JAPANESE AIRFIELDS. IT HAS BEEN ATTACKED 69 TIMES BY ARMY BOMBERS.

THE BONIN ISLANDS, ALSO KNOWN AS THE OGASAWARA JIMA, FORM A GROUP OF 27 TINY ISLANDS HAVING AN AREA OF LESS THAN 40 SQUARE MILES AND SITUATED JUST NORTH OF THE VOLCANO GROUP.

THEY ALSO CONTAIN JAPANESE AIRBASES AND ONE, CHICHI JIMA, HAS A DEEP HARBOR.

TOKYO RADIO TODAY ANNOUNCED THE APPOINTMENT BY PREMIER KUNIAKI KOISO OF TWO CABINET ADVISERS, A VETERAN INDUSTRIALIST AND A RAILWAY EXPERT. THE APPOINTMENTS FOLLOWED A RECENT JAPANESE DIET RESOLUTION CALLING FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF AN "ECONOMIC GENERAL STAFF."

THOSE APPOINTED WERE FORMER MUNITIONS MINISTER GINJURO FUJIWARA, KNOWN AS JAPAN'S "PAPER KING" AND FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS AFFILIATED WITH THE MITSUI FINANCIAL INTERESTS, AND YOSHIAKI HATTA, TRANSPORTATION EXPERT AND FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE JAPANESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. THE BROADCAST WAS RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.

THESE NEW MEMBERS OF THE ADVISORY BOARD ARE EXPECTED TO TACKLE WEAK POINTS IN JAPAN'S WARTIME ECONOMY, INCLUDING IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTION AND RAIL TRANSPORTATION.

THE 75-YEAR-OLD FUJIWARA, WHO RESIGNED AS MUNITIONS MINISTER ONLY LAST DEC. 19 BECAUSE OF "ILL HEALTH", RETURNS TO KOISO'S GOVERNMENT AS A CABINET ADVISER WITH MINISTERIAL RANK.

HATTA WAS MINISTER OF TRANSPORTATION IN THE CABINET OF FORMER PREMIER HIDEKI TOJO'S CABINET. HE ALSO HAS SERVED AS MINISTER OF COMMERCE AND MINISTER OF OVERSEAS AFFAIRS.

THE NEW APPOINTMENTS FOLLOWED A CABINET SHUFFLE LAST SATURDAY IN WHICH KOISO NAMED NEW EDUCATION AND WELFARE MINISTERS AND CABINET SECRETARY.

UPDATED "INSIDE MANILA" (340)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MANILA'S AGONIES WHILE RESOLUTE YANKS WRENCH THE DEATH GASP FROM JAPAN'S SUICIDE GARRISON WERE DESCRIBED VIVIDLY TODAY (FRIDAY) IN FRONTLINE BROADCASTS FROM THE FIERY SCENE.

WILLIAM DUNN, COLUMBIA BROADCASTING COMPANY WAR CORRESPONDENT, REPORTED THE JAPANESE STILL ARE HOLDING MANY SPANIARDS, SWISS AND FILIPINOS "AND THERE IS LITTLE HOPE FOR THEM."

ARTHUR FELDMAN, OF THE BLUE NETWORK, TOLD HOW HE STOOD ATOP A SEMI-GUTTED BUILDING ON MANILA'S NORTH SIDE AND WATCHED AMERICAN SHELLS TEAR HUGE CHUNKS OUT OF THE WALLS OF THE INTRAMUROS DISTRICT WHILE JAPANESE SOLDIERS RACED BACK AND FORTH INSIDE.

GEORGE THOMAS FOLSTER, NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY, DESCRIBED A JAPANESE STAND INSIDE ONE SAND-BAGGED BUILDING ON THE CORNER OF A MAIN STREET, LOBBING HAND GRENADES THROUGH HOLES TORN IN THE ROOF UNTIL AMERICAN SELF-PROPELLED GUNS AND SHERMAN TANKS "KNOCKED THEM OUT."

"I HAVE TALKED TO FILIPINOS, THE SWISS, THE SPANIARDS AND THEIR STORY IS THE SAME," DUNN SAID.

"THE JAP IN HIS DYING FRENZY SEEMS DETERMINED TO TAKE AS MANY INNOCENT CIVILIANS WITH HIM AS POSSIBLE. I HAVE TALKED TO OCCIDENTALS, SUPPOSEDLY NEUTRALS, WHO HAVE FOUND THEIR NEUTRALITY MEANT NOTHING.

"ONE SWISS POINTED TO A SMALL BAG AND A BASKET.

"'TWENTYEIGHT YEARS IN THE PHILIPPINES,' HE SAID, 'AND ALAS ALL I HAVE TO SHOW FOR IT.'"

REPORTING THAT FILIPINOS "SEEM TO BE THE SPECIAL TARGET," DUNN ADDED:

"RIGHT NOW THE JAPS ARE CROWDING SCORES OF FILIPINOS INTO HOUSES, SETTING FIRE TO THOSE HOUSES AND MACHINEGUNNING ALL WHO TRY TO ESCAPE."

FELDMAN, FROM HIS OBSERVATION POST WHICH SHOOK AS ARTILLERY SHELLS BURST AFTER BEING FIRED DIRECTLY OVER THE BUILDING, SAID HE COULD SEE THE INTRAMUROS (WALLED CITY) AND WATCH FEVERISH ACTIVITY OF THE ENEMY BUT SAW NO CIVILIANS.

"THOUSANDS OF THEM ARE IN THERE," HE ADDED AND MADE A POINT OF REPORTING NO AMERICAN SHELLS HAD FALLEN INSIDE THE WALLED CITY.

FOLSTER SAID THAT, DESPITE THE BRUTALITY, IT MUST BE ACKNOWLEDGED THE JAPANESE ARE DISPLAYING "BRILLIANT, DELAYING DEFENSE ACTION."

HE SAID THEY "USED A RELATIVELY SMALL NUMBER OF MEN TO DO THE JOB BUT USED MANILA TOO, USED THE CAPITAL CITY OF THE PHILIPPINES AS ONE HUGE FORTRESS, REGARDLESS OF FILIPINOS AND PROPERTY."

UNDATED TOKYO (400)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
TOKYO, WHICH ONCE SEEMED REMOTE FROM THE FURY OF WAR, AT LAST HAS BEEN BROUGHT INTO RANGE OF REAL AMERICAN AERIAL DEVASTATION.
THE SPRAWLING JAPANESE CAPITAL, A CITY OF 214 SQUARE MILES WITH A POPULATION ESTIMATED AT MORE THAN 7,000,000 --- THE THIRD LARGEST CITY IN THE WORLD --- HAD BEEN BOMBED NEARLY A DOZEN TIMES BEFORE YESTERDAY.
JIMMY DOOLITTLE'S B-25 MEDIUM BOMBERS, TWIN-ENGINED MITCHELLS, DID IT FIRST ON APRIL 18, 1942 AND IN RECENT MONTHS MAMMOTH FOUR-ENGINED SUPERFORTRESSES HAVE STRUCK AT JAPAN'S HEART REPEATEDLY.
THESE RAIDS WERE "EXPERIMENTAL," BY 40, 60, 70, UP TO 80 OR SO SUPERFORTRESSES FLYING LONG DISTANCES -- 1,500 MILES FROM SAIPAN AND EQUIVALENT DISTANCES FROM BASES IN CHINA. THEY STRUCK AT PICKED TARGETS, FREIGHT YARDS, AIRCRAFT FACTORIES AND INDUSTRIAL PLANTS FOR THE MOST PART.
THEIR BLOWS WERE OMINOUS, DESTRUCTIVE, BUT NOT TERRORISTIC.
YESTERDAY'S CARRIER-BASED ASSAULT BY MORE THAN 1,200 PLANES OPERATING FROM THE GREAT AMERICAN BATTLE FLEET BOLDLY DRAWN UP IN JAPAN'S HOME WATERS WAS OF A DIFFERENT MOULD -- THE KIND OF AN ATTACK THAT COULD INFLICT THE GREATEST DAMAGE "IN AND AROUND TOKYO," THE WAY THE PACIFIC FLEET COMMUNIQUE DESCRIBED THE AREA RAIDED.
THERE IS A CONSIDERABLE QUESTION AS TO HOW VULNERABLE TOKYO IS TO FIRE AND PANIC.
THE CENTRAL SECTIONS OF THE CAPITAL HAVE MANY MODERN BUILDINGS, CONSTRUCTED SINCE THE GREAT EARTHQUAKE OF 1923. THEY ARE SOLID STRUCTURES, LIMITED TO NINE STORIES IN HEIGHT AND DESIGNED TO WITHSTAND SHOCKS.
BUT A MAJOR PORTION OF THE CITY STILL IS MADE UP OF FLIMSY BUILDINGS. BROAD AVENUES HAVE BEEN BUILT THROUGH THESE SECTIONS AND MIGHT SERVE AS FIRE BREAKS. THE POPULACE HAS BEEN DRILLED IN PREVENTIVE MEASURES. SURROUNDING SUBURBS IN THE CONGESTED METROPOLITAN AREA MAY NOT BE AS WELL PREPARED.
TOKYO ITSELF IS NOT VULNERABLE TO AN ATTACK FROM THE SEA. IT LIES ASTRIDE THE SHALLOW RIVER SUMIDA AT THE HEAD OF THE BAY OF TOKYO. ITS PORT IS YOKOHAMA, 18 MILES TO THE SOUTH.

A131

ALSO IN THE METROPOLITAN AREA IS THE CITY OF KAWASAKI AND THE NAVAL BASE OF YOKOSUKA.
THE TOKYO ZONE IS ONE OF JAPAN'S GREATEST INDUSTRIAL AREAS AS WELL AS THE NATION'S POLITICAL AND CULTURAL HEART. AS IN ANY LARGE METROPOLIS, THE RESIDENTS OF THIS AREA ARE COMMUTERS, TRAVELING BY SUBWAYS, BUSES, TROLLEYS AND BICYCLES. IN TOKYO ITSELF THERE ARE 5,000 BRIDGES, LARGELY OF IRON OR CONCRETE, SPANNING THE CITY'S NETWORK OF CANALS AND RIVERS.
THUS A WIDE SCALE ATTACK OVER THIS WHOLE AREA WOULD BE CAPABLE OF DISRUPTING A GREAT DEAL OF JAPAN'S WAR EFFORT AND BRINGING HOME TO THE WHOLE COUNTRY THAT THE WAR NOW HAS REACHED THE HOMELAND.

JAPANESE REPORT BIG AIR BATTLES RAGING OVER CITY

Spruance's Fifth Fleet Keeps Up Bombardment of Iwo Jima.

INVASION EXPECTED

1,500 Carrier Aircraft Return to Jap Capital in Powerful Attack.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Saturday, Feb. 17.—(AP) Wave on wave of American rocket-firing and bombing planes from the world's largest assemblage of aircraft carriers are over Tokyo again today, with the enemy admitting the attack has passed its third hour.

Seven hundred fifty miles to the south, battleships and cruisers of Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth Fleet are keeping up the deadly accurate bombardment of Iwo Jima, begun yesterday.

Coastal Batteries Destroyed

The hundreds of tons of bursting steel already have knocked out the vital coastal batteries of that air base island, where Japan expects a Yank invasion at any moment.

Tokyo, in acknowledging Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier planes, 1,500 strong, returned to that metropolitan area today, reported three hours after first placing the planes over the city that air battles still were in progress. Tokyo said yesterday's attack lasted nine hours.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz first announced the second day of attacks on Tokyo and Iwo Jima in a terse communique today.

Nimitz' announcement meant the Fifth Fleet, including some of the newest 45,000-ton battleships and the largest aircraft carriers, still remained within 300 miles of Japan, apparently unchallenged by Nippon's home defense fleet.

Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent at Guam headquarters, reported:

"That the mighty air strike of Mitscher's fast carrier force still was continuing today, some 26 hours after it began, is proof that it remained unhampered to any great extent either by air or by Japan's shirking fleet."

Tokyo Confirms Attacks

Tokyo radio belatedly confirmed the resumption of the attacks, saying they began at 7 a. m. Saturday morning with the appearance of three waves of raiders which were greeted by interceptors and anti-aircraft fire.

"The fiercest fighting is still going on," Tokyo said.

Its accounts, unconfirmed by Allied sources, included the claim that 43 American planes were shot down Friday.

Even the enemy version constituted an admission of weakness on the part of the Nipponese airforce to defend the vital homeland for the claimed bag was widely distributed—16 over Hamamatsu, six over Yachimata in Chiba prefecture, four over Shizuoka prefecture, eight over Kanagawa prefecture, three over Shmoshi point, three over Gumma prefecture and three over Odate.

Left-handedly, the enemy thus made known the blanketing character of the assault.

"Carrier aircraft of the Fifth fleet are continuing to attack the Tokyo area" Nimitz said.

"Preliminary reports indicate that substantial damage was inflicted on enemy installations on Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands in spite of adverse weather conditions during the bombardment by battleships and cruisers of the Pacific fleet on February 16. Our carrier aircraft set two luggers ablaze and three bombers were probably destroyed on the ground. A Kingfisher seaplane from one of the cruisers in the bombardment force shot down a Zero land plane fighter. One of our aircraft was destroyed by enemy anti-aircraft fire but the pilot was rescued.

"Enemy shore batteries which fired on the bombardment group were silenced by the guns of the fleet. The bombardment is continuing."

Nimitz also reported Army Liberator strikes on Iwo Jima and Chichi Jima, in the Bonin group, on Thursday, against moderate ack-ack.

Smoke billowing thousands of feet over the Tokyo-Yokohama area testified to the terrific power of the raid against one of Japan's prime industrial sections.

The U. S. Navy massed the greatest power in history for this blow in revenge for Pearl Harbor.

The attack, announced Friday within a few hours after the operation opened lasted by enemy admission, at least nine hours.

Simultaneously the warships opened up on Iwo Jima.

Japs Expect Invasion

Continuation of the aerial assault into today was expected by Tokyo, whose radio broadcasters immediately labeled it a diversion for an imminent amphibious invasion of Iwo Jima.

This heaviest aerial blow of the war against Japan, made by at least 1,500 planes, was struck by the mammoth carrier task force commanded by vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher.

Protecting the carriers and subjecting Iwo to a terrific bombment was Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth fleet.

The tremendous armada — ruler of the Pacific—was strung out for 200 miles in waters almost within the shadow of Japan. There it challenged the Japanese fleet, which slunk into retirement following its stinging defeat last October in the battle for Leyte gulf at the outset of the invasion of the Philippines.

(Whether the enemy fleet would come out of hiding was speculated on in Washington where a naval spokesman said "now is the time" for the Japanese to accept the challenge. If it does come out, he added, it will be rubbed out quickly, for there is no doubt the American Navy has complete control of the seas.

(As to an invasion of Iwo Jima, the Washington spokesman tersely said the Navy is capable of effecting a landing anywhere).

First eye and ear witness account of this aerial blasting which launches the air and naval blockade of Japan was brought to Guam by members of a B-29 crew which scouted the area today. Navy headquarters here has had no word to announce since Thursday night's communique, which was written in longhand by Admiral Nimitz. Spruance cloaked his operations in radio silence.

Scores of Japanese planes were caught by surprise on the dozens of airfields in the target area, said Navy Lt. David C. McMillin of San Francisco and Army Lt. John G. Garvin of Las Vegas, Nev. They observed the raid through breaks in the clouds and listened in on the radio conversations between Navy airmen as they struck.

"Give 'Em Hell" Says Airman

The vivid reports of the pilots, heard far above the target area by the cruising B-29 crew, told of destroying many Nipponese planes on the ground and of shooting others out of the skies.

"There's 60 planes on it. Give 'em Hell," crackled one airman reporting on Field No. 5.

"There's 50 single engine planes on Field No. 85," said another.

"Burned three on the ground," chimed in another hapy pilot as he zoomed upward.

"Five in the air," came the gleeful shout from another of the hard striking naval air arm.

Orders, too, barked over the radio.

"Clearing over targets, go and get them," was one tart command to the carrier fliers that came through to the listening ears of McMillin and Garvin.

No Hit Run Affair

McMillin said the attack was no hit-run affair but continued for at least six hours. Smoke rose densely today, he said, along the strip

In Near-By Waters, Japs Report

San Francisco, Feb. 16 (AP) — American carrier planes attacking Tokyo kept coming over for nine hours today, Japanese broadcasts said, while predicting they would renew the attack tomorrow and forecasting an imminent invasion of Iwo Jima, 750 miles to the south.

By Alva N. Dopking

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 16 (AP)—Tokyo was raided by more than 1,500 American carrier planes today in an unprecedented attack which Japanese headquarters said lasted for more than nine hours while the greatest naval fleet ever assembled hunted for a fight within 300 miles of Japan's shores.

FEB 17 1945

Rocket and bomb-bearing Hellcats and Helldivers and Avenger torpedo planes, swinging over Tokyo's 214 square miles, tore into airfields and military defense zones at 7 A.M. (Japanese time). They tangled over the city with the Japanese air force in fierce sky fights.

[Carrier attacks of this type usually last for two or three days. The power of the American force indicated this pattern would be followed against Tokyo.]

Fleet Shells Iwo Jima

Protecting Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's carrier forces, battleships, cruisers and destroyers of Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's 5th Fleet spread out in a 200-mile column in Japanese waters, daring the enemy fleet to come out.

Seven hundred miles to the south another task force, which Tokyo said was comprised of more than 30 warships, including battleships and carriers, shelled Iwo Jima in coordination with land-based bombers which have been attacking the island outpost daily for more than two months.

A Japanese imperial communiqué reported that "carrier-based planes of a powerful enemy task force which appeared in the seas adjacent to our shores" attacked airfields in and around Tokyo in successive waves from 7 A.M. to 4 P.M. today (Japanese time).

Japs Claim War Results

Japanese headquarters identified targets of the carrier force as lying in the Kanto (Tokyo metropolitan) area and Shizuoka prefecture, southwest of Tokyo.

It claimed Japanese interceptors "have scored considerable war results" in fierce air battles fought over Tokyo.

Twenty minutes before imperial headquarters released its brief communiqué, the enemy Domei news agency reported that the raiders struck in three waves with about 300 planes in each of two waves. Domei did not estimate the number of planes in the third of its reported three waves.

Airdromes which have sent up interceptors against Marianas-based Superfortresses bore the brunt of the attack, Domei said.

Text Of Jap Communique

The text of the imperial communiqué as broadcast by Domei and translated by FCC said:

"(a) From 7 A.M. to 4 P.M. the carrier-based planes of a powerful enemy task force which appeared in the seas adjacent to our shores carried out attacks chiefly on Kanto and on our airfields in Shizuoka prefecture in waves. Our air-defense units have intercepted these planes at various localities and have scored considerable war results.

"(b) From the early dawn of February 16 an enemy fleet comprised of 30 ships, including battleships and carriers, started to, and is presently carrying out, naval gun barrages on Iwo Jima."

Boso Targets Reported

In reporting that airbases had been the main objective of the American planes, Domei commented:

"The enemy presumably picked out these airfields as objectives in view of the heavy losses which Superfortresses have suffered in past raids by our interceptors based there."

Domei further noted that military installations and airfields on Boso Peninsula, the southeast arm of Tokyo Bay, were also attacked.

Tokyo Radio's Version

FEB 17 1945

The Tokyo radio gave this version of the assault:

"Enemy fleet units today, February 16, appeared in waters southeast of Japan. Carrier-borne planes belonging to this force penetrated into areas over east and central Japan. Enemy carrier-borne planes in several waves attacked Japanese airfields and war installations on Koso Peninsula, in eastern Japan.

"Enemy planes also attempted to attack traffic installations. The enemy air force has employed aircraft with small range against Japan proper for the first time today. The Americans as early as April 18, 1942, employed such planes against the Japanese homeland, but there is a big difference between that raid and today's attacks.

Japs Prepared, Says Tokyo

"With consideration to the present war situation in proximity to the Japanese islands it had been expected for a long time that the enemy would now go over to attacking the Japanese islands with smaller planes.

"The Japanese, accordingly, are thoroughly prepared to meet such assaults. Unescorted B-29 raids are too costly for the Americans. It is, therefore, an urgent task for the enemy to effectively attack military objectives on Japanese main islands.

"It is interesting to note that Americans made Japanese airfields their main targets, while so far they had chosen industrial centers.

"The Japanese watched every move by enemy fleet units which were carried out in the waters of the South China Sea east of the Philippines since the end of January. These enemy units a few days ago left their bases and approached the Japanese islands."

Probability Of Blockade

Tokyo's seven millions, long familiar with Superfortress raids, had never seen anything like today's carrier attack.

Something tremendous is unfolding.

The long-planned and extensive operations threatened the heart of the Japanese empire with:

1. The probability of blockading it into a condition for eventual invasion.
2. Continuous pounding to reduce its airplane factories to ruins.

January Achievements

Mitscher appeared bent on knocking out the bulk of Japan's home-based air force as his immediate objective. How well he can do that is suggested by the carrier air arm's achievements in January in destroying nearly 800 Nipponese aircraft in sweeps from Saigon, French Indo-China, to Amoy, China. During 1944, carrier planes destroyed 6,650 enemy aircraft.

"This operation has long been planned and the opportunity to accomplish it fulfills the deeply cherished desire of every officer and man of the Pacific Fleet," exaltedly announced five-star Admiral Chester W. Nimitz at his new Guam headquarters, within 1,500 miles of Tokyo.

Challenge To Jap Fleet

To Mitscher, whose carriers began the westward sweep in January 1944, in the Marshalls, went the honor of completing the last mile of the 4,000 to Tokyo from Pearl Harbor, where Japanese carriers opened the war December 7, 1941.

The close approach to Japan by the largest mass of American warships and carriers ever assembled flung a challenge at the Nipponese fleet. There was no indication it had been accepted.

The Tokyo radio, confirming the attack, gave the Japanese the shaky assurance that their air force was parrying the assault. By Tokyo's own admission, the Japanese fleet had full opportunity to move out and meet the American armada. Broadcasts acknowledged "enemy surface movements have been observed during the past few days."

"Largest War Fleet"

Vern Haughland, Associated Press correspondent who saw the giant fleet assemble for the Tokyo mission, described it as "the largest war fleet in history."

It includes the largest and newest aircraft carriers, battleships, light carriers, escort carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

Hundreds of warships and refueling units are participating. The warships have literally thousands of anti-aircraft guns to protect them against the best the Japanese air force can offer.

High naval air officers pointed out that in carrier sweeps of January along the China and French Indo-China coast American air superiority was 20 to 1. While Japan obviously has its greatest air strength in the homeland, these officers are confident that American air superiority can be maintained, even if in smaller ratio.

B-29 Raid On Nagoya

Possibly the largest formation of Superfortresses ever to bomb Japan supplied a fiery foretaste of events to come by plastering the Mitsubishi aircraft plant at Nagoya yesterday. They struck the same type of blow which gutted 755,900 square feet of the Nakajima aircraft plant near Tokyo recently.

Tokyo said the B-29's also hit Yokohama, Tokyo's port.

Today's massed raid on Tokyo was like a shout when contrasted with the whisper of the strike on April 18, 1942, of Mitchell bombers led by Lieut. Col. (now lieutenant general) Jimmy Doolittle from the since-sunk aircraft carrier Hornet.

Can Be Repeated

It packed power. More important, it is a mighty thing which can be repeated again and again. Doolittle's flyers winged on to China, to Russia—or to internment and death at the hands of the Japanese. Mitscher's planes are loading up, blasting with 2,000-pound bombs, spraying Tokyo's areas with heavy multiple machine guns—then returning to reload with more of the same.

The attacks, on a scale capable of disrupting the war effort in a city three times as densely settled as Berlin, served warning on Japan that the final step of the Navy's sea-air blockade has begun.

Tokyo is the climax of what Mitscher began in the Marshalls a little over one year ago. From there the carriers went to Truk and banished there the myth of Truk's impregnability.

Year Of Steady Advance

Then the carrier blows moved west, into the Marianas, into the Palau Islands, up to the Philippines, to Formosa, to the Volcano and Bonin islands, and back to a sweep of the French-Indo China and China coasts.

While building up the power now pommeling Japan's heart, carrier planes wiped out literally thousands of enemy aircraft and scores of warships in a year of steady advance toward today's operation.

By Tokyo's own admission, Mitscher's air arm swept over not only the city proper with its congested war industries but also to the southeast.

Many Targets In Tokyo

Targets in Tokyo are manifold. There are several dozen new and old airfields. The urban area is honeycombed with military establishments. It has freight yards, aircraft factories and industrial plants.

Within the city are the government buildings and the palace of Emperor Hirohito, but American airmen have been instructed at all times scrupulously to avoid attacking the Emperor's abode because it would inflame the Japanese populace without accomplishing any from Tokyo to beyond Yokohama.

At the outset of the raid, which was launched about dawn Friday, the Tokyo radio announcer was heard to scream. A Japanese language broadcast ceased abruptly. The announcer returned to the air for a few quick words, then all was silence. He returned at intervals for brief announcements. Continuous broadcasting, however, was not resumed until more than nine hours after the carrier-borne typhoon had hit Japan.

B-29s flying their bases in the Marianas Islands coordinated an attack with the slashing assault by the Nvy. They struck ahead, during and after the carrier planes smacked the enemy to fulfill what Nimitz termed "the deeply cherished desire of every officer and man" in the fleet.

Foe Blasted In Air, On Ground

The Superforts harassed the jittery enemy in the air and blasted him aground. They cruised protectively over the seaways between the Marianas and Japan, spotting enemy convoys and disclosing any countermoves which might have been contemplated.

Tokyo radio buzzed with broadcasts varying from speculation on a second-day return of the American carrier planes to hints of fears of an invasion of the homeland. There also were claims that citizens of the metropolis had taken the attack with calm devotion to routine.

Japanese from government officials to the old and young are strengthening their fighting line in determination to "fight to the death when our mainland becomes a battlefield," Domei agency said in a broadcast indicating thoughts on invasion possibilities.

Full expectations of an American landing on Iwo Jima was expressed by the enemy radio with the comment that the constant aerial bombardment of the island was in line with Yank routine before landing operations.

Greatest Of All Fleets

Magnitude of the U. S. fleet and task force which effected the historic sea-borne strike at Japan was indicated in a dispatch by Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, who said they included the largest and newest American carriers, battleships, light carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

The task force is the greatest in history and exceeded anything of its kind even dreamed of a few years ago, Haugland said.

The Tokyo attack produced joy in Chungking, Chinese war capital which has been hammered by Japanese planes. Newspapers of the city hailed the raid as an "almost unimaginable epic of American might and daring."

U.S. Task Force Still

military objective.

The buildup for this operation has been on an intensive scale for months.

Iwo Jima Lashed Daily

The Superforts began working over Japan from Marianas bases last November. Recently the Tokyo radio acknowledged the accumulating effectiveness of these attacks by reporting that Nipponese war factories are being transferred to Manchuria.

The islands in between Japan and Saipan have taken a terrific beating.

The eight square miles of Iwo Jima have been battered daily for 69 days by army Liberators and other types of bombers flying from Saipan. It also has been shelled on at least two other occasions this year, and the B-29's have cast down their big bomb loads on the island airbase.

Tokyo Radio Goes Off Air

Admiral Nimitz, attesting how far the war had moved west of Pearl Harbor, set up headquarters only a few weeks ago at Guam—more than twice as close to Tokyo as to Pearl Harbor.

Today as the clear notes of a bugle sounded and the American flag was raised over headquarters, the Tokyo radio suddenly went off the air.

It was the big moment.

no hit-run affair, he commented.

Smoke rose densely along "flak alley"—the strip from Tokyo to beyond Yokohama—Garvin and his B-29 crew reported. They declared the attack was one continuous pounding of the enemy. Their report filled in what radio listeners here had heard.

The grounded Japanese air men were surprised and their planes destroyed before they could get them into the air at dozens of fields around the Nipponese capital, judging by the radio conversations:

Samples included:

"Field No. 5.—There's sixty planes on it—give 'em hell."

"Field No. 85—There's fifty single engine planes."

Listened to Tokyo Radio.

Radio "ear" witnesses listened to Tokyo radio for first evidence that the momentous raid was under way.

They heard the Tokyo announcer start screaming; then a Japanese language broadcast abruptly ceased at about 7:25 A. M.

The announcer returned to the air momentarily for a few quick words now and then. Continuous broadcasting was not resumed until after 5 P. M.

the Japanese fleet will come out now or not."

Speculation that the operations were preliminary to a landing of much-bombarded Iwo Jima in the Volcanos brought only a terse comment that the Navy is capable of effecting a landing anywhere.

The spokesman said that full details of the operations have not been received because Admiral Spruance "will not break radio silence so long as he thinks there is a good chance he has not been discovered."

NAVY IS PLANNING NEW HEAVY BLOWS AGAINST JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 — (AP) Speculation that the carrier fleet blasting of Tokyo may be the curtain raiser to still more demonstrations of American seaborne might spread widely in Washington today.

The Navy, in enemy-taunting mood, did less than nothing to stop such speculation. A spokesman made the terse unqualified comment that the Navy can make a landing anywhere.

The statement was brought out in discussion of talk that the air operations against Tokyo, with simultaneous fleet bombardment of the enemy outpost on Iwo Jima, might presage invasion of that Volcano island stepping stone on the way to the Japanese homeland.

But the Navy spokesman wouldn't relate his words directly to the island strong point 675 miles southeast of Tokyo.

"It is going to be interesting," the highly placed Navy man said, "to see if the Japanese fleet will come out now or not. Presumably it was being held for the defense of the homeland, and now is the time."

Emphasizing confidence that Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's force is capable of dealing with whatever the Japanese can put to sea since the battle for Leyte gulf in the Philippines, he said Spruance would welcome a reception from the enemy fleet.

Even the enemy would get full confirmation of American mastery of the seas out of such a meeting, he said, and get it "as quickly as it would take to sink them." The Navy at all times has a pretty good idea where Japanese sea strength is to be found, he said.

The Navy official would not be drawn out in specific speculation, but there was no discounting the fact that Iwo Jima has been under almost daily assault for 68 days. The island is comparatively small but strategically located, about half-way between present American strongholds in the Marianas and the main Japanese island of Honshu.

He pointed out that carrier based bombers such as went after Tokyo yesterday can do tremendous damage in thickly concentrated Japanese industrial areas. It was pointed out that they work at much lower levels than big land based bombers and can be more selective as to targets.

Meanwhile the House of Representatives voted unanimously to cable congratulations to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz on the Tokyo operation.

3o. 24— 23047

strike which terrorized Tokyo this morning.

The B-29's harassed the enemy in the air and on the ground, and systematically covered the seaways from their Saipan base to Honshu, the main island of Japan, spotting enemy convoys and revealing countermoves which otherwise would have been undetected.

Yesterday's strike at the Mitsubishi aircraft plant at Nagoya—made without loss to the raiders—probably brought all available interceptors into the air the day before the carrier strike on the capital. The damage inflicted by the B-29's plus normal Japanese operational losses made a heavy dent in the enemy's ability to intercept the Navy's Hellcats today.

"Weather Strikes"

As many as 984 Japanese fighters have been counted attacking a single B-29 force. Such a battle invariably must leave the enemy weakened. Also, Nipponese pilots must have relaxed after the Nagoya raid, not expecting further strikes until the customary three or four days elapsed.

Aside from the full-strength raid on Nagoya, at least three Superforts have been harassing the foe during every 24 hours in so-called "weather strikes." They hit Tokyo, Osaka, Kobe, Nagoya, Yokohama, Kyoto, Hammamatsu or other cities, day or night, with varied bomb loads while observing the weather conditions.

[These weather strikes, not announced by the 21st Bomber Command, bring daily reports from the Tokyo radio or Superfort activity over Nippon, usually with the claim that negligible damage was inflicted.]

Returned Without Loss

The Nagoya raiders carried out their attack through heavy flak and returned without loss, the command said.

Bad weather broke up formations on the way from Marianas Island bases and the B-29s reached the target singly or in small groups.

Capt. Edward B. Feather, of Watauga, Tenn., brought his plane in safely after a flight from Japan with two engines out on the same side. One propeller was damaged and finally flew off, knocking out the other propeller on the same side.

The Superfort of Major Robert G. Fitzgerald, of Cincinnati, Ohio, lagged behind to escort Feathers's bomber which the crew expected to crash into the sea at any moment.

Britons Stress Tokyo Raid

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—The American attack on Tokyo monopolized London headlines today.

The Star commented editorially that the carrier-borne operation was an "outstanding example of naval skill and daring whose morale effect may be incalculable."

U. S. Navy Hits Several Places

(By the Associated Press)

America's mammoth navy has the wherewithal to hit both hard and in several places at the same time.

Yesterday in Washington a navy spokesman emphasized this by saying that while Tokyo and Iwo Jima, 750 miles apart, were being blasted something also was astir off Corregidor in the Philippines. He couldn't say what.

Today Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed that cruisers and destroyers of the Seventh fleet shelled Corregidor Thursday in support of landing operations on nearby Bataan.

That was the day before carrier planes swarmed on Tokyo. While the Seventh was firing its guns, the U. S. Fifth fleet in a size unequalled in history, was moving toward Tokyo.

Eyewitness Story of Navy's Attack on Tokyo

FEB 17 1945

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Saturday, Feb. 17 (A. P.).—Smoke rose 7,000 feet in the air from panic-stricken Tokyo to Yokohama as Navy carrier planes raided the Japanese capital area, an eyewitness reported here today.

The eye and ear witness account which disclosed that scores of enemy planes were caught on the ground, was given by Lieut (j. g.) David C. McMillin of San Francisco. He was the Navy observer in a Twenty-first Bomber Command B-29 Superfortress which was over the target for reconnaissance while the raid was under way.

No word of the carrier strike has come from the fleet itself, since radio silence still prevailed for Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's raiding force.

Smoke Rose Over Flak Alley.

Lieut. McMillin and Army Lieut. John G. Garvin of Las Vegas, Nev., pilot of the B-29, observed the raid both visually through breaks in clouds and by listening in on radio conversations between the carrier planes.

The attack on Japanese ground installations and grounded planes and accompanying aerial combat continued for at least six hours, Lieut. McMillin said. It was Radio conversations between the raiding carrier Hellcats and Corsairs provided most of the early news of the strike.

Some of this was brought back here by the crewmen of the B-29 Superfortress who listened in while their bomber cruised high above thick clouds in the area. They listened while they vainly sought glimpses of the ground. They heard one carrier plane pilot report: "Burned three on the ground."

"Five in the air," shouted another.

Later the weather cleared at lower levels, the B-29 crew reported, and they heard an order passed: "Clearing over targets, go and get them."

Says Spruance Is Ready.

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—A naval spokesman said today that Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's forces are more than a match for anything the Japanese are capable of bringing out. He told reporters the Navy has a pretty good idea" where the entire Nipponese fleet is.

"Presumably it was being held for defense of the homeland, and now is the time, "he asserted. "It is going to be interesting to see if

U.S. TROOPS LAND AT MARIVELES TO SEIZE PENINSULA

Surprise Attack Clamps Trap on Several Thousand Jap Defenders.

YANKS CLOSE ON MANILA

Enemy Resists Bitterly as Battle for City Nears Victory.

MANILA, Saturday, Feb. 17 —(AP) Recapture of historic Bataan peninsula was proclaimed today as its 11th corps Yanks landed at the south tip Thursday under Corregidor's silenced guns, seized Mariveles harbor and airdrome to clamp a trap on several thousand disorganized Japanese troops.

Protected by guns of the U. S. Seventh fleet, which shelled Corregidor fortress, and by planes of the Far East airforce, the Americans swung around from the Olongapo Naval base in Subic bay to establish a 500-yard beachhead at Mariveles. American losses were light.

A fourth division—the Sixth —was thrown into the raging battle for Manila, meanwhile. The thus reinforced 14th corps drove through to the bay front on an 800-yard front to reduce Japanese holdings in the city's heart to a triangle of about 3,000 yards by 2,000. The enemy still was resisting bitterly.

Yanks Smash Inland

On Bataan the Americans drove swiftly inland to close an 18-mile gap between them and a strong U. S. force moving down the Manila bay shore of the peninsula from the north.

"We have captured Bataan," General MacArthur announced. This the five-star general hailed the ture of Bataan in a campaign little more than two weeks. It took Japan more than three months to do it in 1942.

The fight may not be over on Bataan, but with control of the single coastal road and command of the northern entrance to Manila bay the Americans have all they want or need for the moment that bears directly on the principal military objectives of the Luzon campaign.

Only Corregidor fortress whose guns have been pounded into near helplessness and the Cavite coast to the south now bar the way into Manila bay.

Maj. Gen Charles P. Hall's 11th corpsmen landed at Mariveles Thursday morning. Preceding the landing, the harbor was cleared of mines "in a daring and skillful operation," today's communique said.

The American battle for Bataan's recapture opened Jan. 29 with Yank landings on the Sambales province coast in a push toward Olongapo.

From Mariveles, big land guns can be set up to shell Corregidor.

Steams Past Corregidor

Associated Press Correspondent Jim Hutcheson, aboard the attack force flagship, said the invasion fleet steamed unscathed past Corregidor, which fired only a half dozen shots.

The 38th Division units commanded by Brig. Gen. William C. Chase pushed quickly inland from a beachhead of 500 yards. Bombed and shelled Mariveles was occupied immediately. Two nearby airfields were seized.

The convoy had to sail through a gap a little more than four miles wide between the Rock and Cochinos Point on Bataan.

Gunfire from Corregidor fortress was neutralized beforehand by cruiser and destroyer batteries, and by American warplanes.

The invasion started from the Olongapo naval base in Subic bay, immediately north of Bataan on the Luzon west coast. Olongapo was captured last month after a virtually unopposed amphibious landing on the Zambeles province coast.

MacArthur said the landing was made along the south coast of Bataan at a number of points centering about Mariveles bay, which is immediately opposite Corregidor.

American losses were light.

Seizure of the peninsula, on which Americans and Filipinos fought a gallant but losing battle in the spring of 1942, puts the Yanks in position for knockout blows against Corregidor, the Fortress which guards the Manila Bay mouth.

Minesweepers Clear Channel

(Tokyo radio announced earlier that a score or so of American minesweepers were clearing th channel in preparation for a likely invasion by warships and troopships.)

Sixth division Yanks drove down the peninsula's Manila bay coast from captured Pilar, meanwhile, and moved toward a juncture with the 38th division along an east-west road.

The Japanese sealed off on Bataan peninsula are doomed.

In war-blackened Manila, MacArthur announced that three American divisions were continuing "the progressive reduction of the enemy's final position" in the old Intramuros district along the bay shore just south of the mouth of the Pasig river.

East of the capital American troops seized two airfields at Mandaluyong.

To the south of the city patrols reached the west gate of Fort William McKinley.

American bombers which have pounded Corregidor almost daily for weeks dropped a heavy load of 147 tons of explosives on the fortress.

FEB 17 1945

Formosa Again Bombed

Despite bad weather, U. S. fighters crossed the China Sea to attack Kato airdrome on Formosa, strafing a parked bomber and a train.

Three small freighters were sunk or damaged in the Mansei Islands, and another freighter was sent to the bottom off Hong Kong.

A small, heavily-laden freighter was left ablaze and sinking from a direct hit in the lesser Sunda Islands south of the Philippines.

Still clinging to the older waterfront sections of wreckage Manila, the frenzied Japanese garrison today appeared determined to die in a "blood bath" with hundreds of trapped civilians.

Repeated accounts from correspondents said the Japanese fighting in the Intramuros, old walled city district, shot down civilians attempting to escape to American lines.

The desperate Nipponese, burning and blasting buildings almost over their own heads as they retreated further into the Manila Bay-Pasig river triangle, still held parts of the Ermita and Malate districts, exclusive residential areas.

Americans of the 37th Infantry, First Cavalry and 11th Airborne Divisions controlled more than three-fourths of the city.

Ten Barges Destroyed

The Japanese, who Gen. Douglas MacArthur said had planned to defend Manila in the wrong direction, attempted to bring 12 barges ashore two miles north of the Pasig. American guns destroyed 10.

(Tokyo radio broadcast a news dispatch saying Japanese had made an amphibious attack on American positions south of Manila, on the west coast of Batangas province. There was no confirmation of such an attack.)

American bombers continued their daily pounding of Corregidor, Island fortress guarding the entrance of Manila Bay. (There still was no confirmation of Tokyo radio claims that American warships had attacked the island as minesweepers sought to clear the south channel into the bay.)

Squeeze Pressed Tighter

The squeeze against Japanese trapped on Bataan peninsula, as as Americans were in 1941-42, pressed tighter. MacArthur reported Friday that troops of the 11th Corps had made further advances on the Manila Bay side of Bataan.

MacArthur said captured documents indicated the Japanese had "contemplated a major and successful defense of Manila" by a garrison of more than 20,000 with great quantities of guns and ammunition.

The plan was frustrated when the Americans landed by surprise at Lingayen Gulf and moved on the Philippine capital from the north, MacArthur said. The enemy had expected the attack from the south.

Japanese in South Manila continued to fight back with desperate vigor. They checked the advance of doughboys through the University of Philippines campus.

They also turned their fire on civilians.

A Chinese merchant told Associated Press War Correspondent Russell Brines he had seen a score of Chinese mowed down as they attempted to flee from a burning building. Other accounts of similar ruthless killings were given by seven men who escaped through the Intramuros walls and swam the Pasig.

Brines reported that numerous Filipinos told him the Japanese had declared they would execute "any Filipinos who show sympathy or give assistance to the white invaders." They were quoted further: "We know that at least 95 per cent of the Filipinos are pro-American."

Jap Documents Show Manila Stand Plan

Manila, Feb. 16 (AP)—Documents showing that a large Japanese force expected to turn the tide of the Luzon campaign at Manila came to light today as the cornered remnant of that out-smarted garrison fought with new fury in its blazing South Manila trap.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing a deeper penetration of Bataan peninsula, a 112-ton bombing of Corregidor and the steady reduction of "the enemy's final pocket" in the rubble of the once-proud capital, disclosed also the seizure of the Nipponese documents.

These indicated that the enemy "contemplated a major and successful defense of Manila."

Expected Attack From South

MacArthur reported the Japanese, prior to his Luzon landing had a garrison of more than 20,000 men in Manila with great quantities of guns, mines, pillboxes and fortifications, expecting an attack from the south and from Manila Bay.

"The enemy apparently hoped to hold Manila and Manila Bay, thus making this the turning point of the Luzon campaign," MacArthur said.

"These plans were defeated by the rapidity of the envelopment by our forces and the dislocation and unbalance caused by our unanticipated advance and the attack from north and east."

The remaining Japanese, confined to an area about 5,000 yards by 1,500 yards, opened up at dawn yesterday with murderous fire and limited American gains to a matter of yards.

Blunted Drive

This renewed Japanese vigor blunted the 37th Infantry Division spearhead which had pushed through the University of the Philippines campus toward the bay shore.

The 37th was moving slowly toward the General Hospital, a highly fortified enemy strong point, using great care not to endanger patients who may be inside.

To the south, the 11th Airborne Division likewise was slowed by heavy opposition in their push from captured Nichols Field northeastward toward Fort William McKinley.

The enemy still has guns east and northeast of the city and a system of tunnel defenses, which may be difficult to solve, around Fort William McKinley and along the Pasig River about 5 miles east of the bay.

Fighting To Hold

"The Jap still is fighting as though he expected to hold Manila," said Lieut. Col. Homer Eaton, Jr., of Los Angeles, 14th Corps staff officer.

Undeterred by American control over three-quarters of the city north of the Pasig River, the Japanese attempted early yesterday to put thirteen barges ashore 2 miles north of the river. American guns blew ten of them out of the water.

Japanese guns Wednesday night threw about 100 rounds into the water-filtering plant area northeast of Manila, with little effect.

While heavy bombers poured another destructive bomb load on Corregidor and attack planes raked Bataan coastal defenses, troops of the 11th Corps pushed 4 miles south of Abucay, along the peninsula's Manila Bay coast, to the Balanga-Pillar area, the eastern end of the last line held by the American and Filipino defenders of Bataan three years ago.

In widespread air operations, United States bombers raked the Kagi airdrome on Formosa and unloaded 115 tons of bombs on two airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain Island.

Regain Rolls Royce For MacArthur

Manila, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The Americans have recaptured Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Rolls Royce.

The big car, still in good condition and highly polished, was found in a garage near the Government Palace north of the Pasig River. It apparently was used by a Japanese officer who didn't have time or the opportunity to take it with him.

A Cadillac also used by the general before war, was found earlier.

JAP PAYS HOMAGE TO THREE YANK M. P.'S

Manila, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Three military policemen led a prisoner into a Fourteenth Corps command post here today and turned him over to the interpreters. As the M. P.'s left, the stark-naked Japanese dropped to his knees, threw his hand above his head and bowed three times to the ground—one bow for each departing M. P.

"That's the first time anybody ever bowed to an M. P. of his own free will," said one.

More Manila Brutalities Reported

Manila, Feb. 16 (AP) — Increasing reports of Japanese brutality seeped out of war-ravished southern Manila today as more civilians escaped from the enemy-held battle area.

A reliable Chinese merchant told Associated Press War Correspondent Russel Brines that he saw a score of Chinese mowed down by machine-gun fire as they attempted to flee from a burning building.

Civilians Machine-Gunned

Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson reported that seven men who escaped through a shell hole in the thick wall of the Intramuros and swam the Pasig River to safety confirmed stories of machine-gunning civilians. They told American medical officers that the Nipponese segregated men and women within the walled city and in some instances carried out their threat to shoot any civilians who attempted to escape from the besieged stronghold.

Two 37th Division sergeants reported to Hampson that they found and photographed a heap of Chinese bodies, all bayoneted. They identified eleven as men, four as women and six as babies. All had bayonet wounds. The hands of some were tied behind them.

Wounded Feet

American medical officers yesterday treated two girls with bayonet wounds through the soles of their feet.

Brines reported that numerous Filipinos said that during the Japanese occupation of Manila Nipponese lecturers repeatedly said, "We know that at least 95 per cent of the Filipinos are pro-American.

"If the Americans do return to Manila, we will unhesitatingly execute any Filipinos who show sympathy or give assistance to the white invaders."

Captives Got Food Through Hole In Wall

Santo Tomas, Manila, Feb. 16 (AP)—There's a hole in the wall at Santo Tomas measuring 3 inches by 12 through which passed thousands of pounds of food and medicine and millions of pesos that kept hundreds of internees alive through three years of starvation.

It was so ingeniously operated, this hole-in-the-wall smuggling ring, that it was never discovered by the Japanese despite frequent frantic searches and investigations.

The key man was Luis de Alcuaz, a quite unassuming chemistry professor and secretary to the vice chancellor of the University of Tomas.

Has Office By Wall

As a university official he was permitted to maintain his office along the west wall of the camp.

When the deliberate starvation program became serious and medicines were exhausted, Alcuaz brought supplies through the gate into his office and concealed them there. He cut a tiny hole in the wall between his office and the dormitory housing single interned men.

Then, each night, Alcuaz signaled that he was ready to pass supplies by loudly slamming three filing cabinet drawers. If safe to proceed, the internee guards on the other side answered with three knocks.

Make Long, Slim Bags

To pass relatively bulky supplies of rice and beans through the tiny hole, Alcuaz made long, slim bags which could be squeezed through. It took more than two hours to pass through 600 pounds of canned meat about every other day.

Using bank drafts and pledges of internees, Alcuaz contacted numerous wealthy men in Manila and obtained funds for Santo Tomas civilians by which he could finance the black-market life within camp.

Alcuaz Under Suspicion

Several times it meant smuggling supplies through a very tight Japanese guard where the slightest slip-up meant ruin.

Alcuaz was under suspicion but the Japanese never could put their finger on the operations. He was taken to prison and questioned eight times but released.

"I don't drink," he said shrugging, "but I used to keep an open bottle of rum in my office and when the guards approached I swabbed my face with rum to appear intoxicated."

Jap Attack Reported.

In a broadcast dispatch recorded by the FCC and distributed by the Associated Press, Domei, the Japanese official news agency said today that Japanese units made a surprise amphibious attack on Tuesday night on the American positions at Nasugbu, on the west coast of Batangas province in southern Luzon, adding: "Our storming units dealt a heavy blow to the Americans, setting ablaze or blasting the barracks as well as demolishing the heavy guns with hand grenades."

There was no confirmation of these enemy assertions.

Reds Smash into Breslau Encircling Oder Bastion

Soviet Forces Capture Crossen, Battle Rages for Silesian Capital.

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 17 — (AP) Red army siege troops crashed into the edge of Breslau yesterday, completely encircling that big Silesian capital on the upper Oder river, while the Germans announced that other Soviet forces had captured the central Oder stronghold of Crossen, 93 miles southeast of Berlin.

An enemy broadcast late last night said that the "decisive battle" for Breslau had begun, with Soviet artillery slamming shells into the city from all sides.

Attack Big Nazi City

Breslau is the biggest German city yet within the grasp of any Allied army. It had a 1942 population of 630,000, later swollen to 1,000,000 by the influx of refugees from Berlin and other bomb-shattered Nazi cities. Most of the civilians were believed to have been evacuated, and the stage was set for a death grapple in its ancient streets.

The Russians officially were declared to be only four miles from the heart of Breslau, a sprawling industrial city on the east and west banks of the Oder. They broke into the edge of the city with the seizure of Drachenbrunn, adjoining Bischofswalde, a forest on the southeastern side of the city next to the Zoological Gardens.

More than 100 miles northwest of Breslau, a wild fluid battle had developed on the southeastern approaches to Berlin, and a late Moscow dispatch said the Germans were rushing reinforcements of veterans and unseasoned home army recruits into the area in an effort to stop the Russians who were threatening to turn Berlin's eastern defenses.

Soviet front dispatches said that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's northern wing, moving toward Cottbus, huge rail center 47 miles southeast of Berlin, was within sight of the Spree river, last natural defense line guarding the Reich capital. Cottbus, its military-glutted rail yards shattered by Thursday's American air attacks, is on the Spree.

The Soviet communique did not mention this sector, where Berlin also told of heavy fighting in the area of Forst 12 miles east of Cottbus, nor did the Russians confirm the German announcement that Crossen already had fallen.

But the Russian bulletin announced the capture of Rusdorf, one and a half miles southeast of Crossen, and Deutsch Sagar, and one half miles south of strategic town at the confluence the Bober and Oder rivers.

Smash Toward Berlin

Crossen is only 20 miles southeast of Fuerstenberg, one of Berlin's eastern fortresses under siege by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army. With the capture of Rothenburg, on the southern side of the winding Oder 13 miles east of Crossen, the two Soviet armies now had joined their flanks solidly for the assault toward Berlin.

Konev's northern wing reached the east bank of the Bober river south of its confluence with the Oder at Deutsch Sagar and also at Weissig, 13 miles south of Crossen. They were threatening the west bank stronghold of Bobersberg with the seizure of the intermediate village of Kossar, three miles east of Bobersberg.

The Russians captured 50 localities and gained up to 18 miles during the day in cleaning out a big enemy pocket between the Bober and Oder rivers, hurling the enemy into a marshy stretch one to three miles wide between Crossen and captured Rothenburg. The latter is six miles northwest of Gruenberg, seized Thursday.

South of Gruenberg more than 1,500 Germans were captured on Thursday, and also an arsenal containing 350 guns, 150 gun and mortar barrels, 1,500 heavy machine-guns, and a large quantity of ammunition, the bulletin said.

Two hundred localities were taken in the encirclement of Breslau, first announced two days before by Berlin. In completing the ring around the city the Russians had cut eight railways and seven highways leading into Breslau, which is 107 miles southeast of Crossen

Among the localities taken on the eastern side of the Oder were Margareth, three miles southeast of Breslau; Drachenbrunn, three miles northwest of Margareth on the highway into Breslau and five miles from the heart of the lower Silesian capital; Hundsfeld, one mile east-northeast of Breslau and four miles from the heart of the city; Paschkerwitz, five miles on the northeast; and Schebitz, six miles north.

On the western side of the river other Soviet forces captured the big suburban road junction of Deutsch Lissa, five miles northwest of Breslau; Klettendorf, at the southwestern edge of the capital and four miles from its center; and Kattern, four miles away on the southeast

Deepen Ring Around City

Deepening their ring around the city the Russians also captured Wansen, 19 miles south of Breslau and five miles northeast of the junction town of Strehlen.

Northwest of Budapest, Hungarian capital which fell Tuesday after a siege of nearly 50 days, the Russians captured 3,400 more Germans, completing the liquidation of a sizeable enemy band which had broken out of the Soviet siege ring and tried to escape.

This raised to approximately 133,000 the number of Axis prisoners taken in the Budapest battle, one of the fiercest of the war. Moscow has not yet announced the enemy death toll, which is expected to exceed 50,000.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army attacking northward through Polish Pomorze, or the "corridor" between German Pomerania and the Vistula river, captured seven villages in gains up to six miles on a 30-mile front.

Battling against heavy German resistance in the forests below Danzig, Rokossovsky's troops captured Schneidebruch, six miles northeast of Tuchola, taken Thursday, putting them within 54 miles southwest of Danzig on the Baltic.

At the eastern end of this front his troops took Jeschewo, 10 miles west of the east bank Vistula stronghold of Grudziadz and 57 miles south of Danzig.

After flying over the rain-soaked battlefields of Brandenburg in an observation plane, the Soviet newspaper Red Star's correspondent, Major M. Novigatsky, reported that Russian tanks had crossed a small river within sight of the Spree.

From his guarded description it was apparent that the Russians had crossed the Neisse river in force and were striking toward Beeskow and Cottbus, both Spree river fortresses, 26 and 47 miles from Berlin. These two communication centers control the routes to Berlin on both sides of the lake country which extends into the suburbs of Berlin.

Heavy fighting raged in a triangle formed by Crossen, Guben, 18 southwest of Crossen, and Fuerstenberg, 13 miles north of Guben. Fuerstenberg, 43 miles southeast of Berlin, is the most southerly of the Oder river fortresses being attacked by Zhukov's troops massed on both sides of the Oder.

Novigatsky's report said Konev's armored formations were "not far away from the Spree and the country houses of Berliners."

"The Germans had blown up a bridge, but the small river didn't halt our fighters," he said. "We saw carcasses of German tanks and a long grey ribbon of enemy prisoners marching in an endless column down the road."

Brussels radio said that a late Moscow report put the Russians only 31 miles from Berlin as they bore down swiftly on the Spree line, but this was not confirmed by the Soviet high command.

Berlin, however, said that the Russians had crossed the Neisse river north of Forst, which is only 12 miles east of menaced Cottbus, objective of a heavy saturation attack Thursday by American bombers aiding the Red army offensive.

Moscow radio repeated a report that the Nazi government had fled to Nuernberg, Nazi convention city, 227 miles sotuhwest of Berlin.

"A 30-mile zone around Nuernbearg has been declared out of bounds for refugees," the broadcast said. "Police guarding roads leading to it have been trebled. Many citizens have been forced to leave their homes to make room for the ministries evacuated from Berlin. Long columns of trucks are carrying archives and files into the city."

A Red Air Force reconnaissance pilot who flew over Berlin said that the bomb-burned Nazi capital was "one vast traffic jam—I've never seen anything like it."

"For miles on end traffic has come to a standstill in Berlin," said the pilot, Ivan Volkov, as uqoted by Moscow radio. "I noticed that while the streets in the eastern section of the city were desolate, traffic in the west and southwest was extraordinary, with all streets leading southwest hcrammed with cars and trucks intermingled with masses of civilians."

This report indicated a mass evacuation of non-combat Berliners and refugees which had flowed into the city ahead of the advancing Russians.

"The mission to Berlin can be done in a jiffy today," Volkov added. "Marshal Zhukov's front line planes are operating regularly over the city. We've already fought battles."

Reds Approach Spree River Defense Line

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—An armored mass of Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army bore down on Berlin's Spree River defenses from the southeast today, smashing toward Beeskow and Cottbus, 31 to 52 miles from the capital.

Soviet war correspondents indicated that the Neisse River defenses had been shattered after fierce battles in the areas of Forst and Guben, two towns on that river, which joins the Oder south of Frankfurt

They told of columns of tanks and cavalry rolling through shattered villages within sight of the Spree, and indicated that the main weight of Konev's 1st Ukranian Army had been turned in the "Berlin direction" after forming a firm link with Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army for an assault on the German capital.

37 Miles From Elbe

Konev's southern wing, however, was reported across the Neisse and within 37 miles of the upper Elbe, the river which rises in Czechoslovakia near Prague, passes through Dresden and flows diagonally across Germany to the North Sea at Hamburg.

The Soviet armored trains bearing down on Berlin, Moscow dispatches said, were attacking a thirty-mile stretch between Beeskow and Cottbus and flanking the Germans who have held up Zhukov's attack at Frankfurt and Kuerstin along the Oder.

Beeskow is thirty-one miles southeast of Berlin and eighteen miles southwest of Frankfurt on the Oder.

Cottbus, directly south of Beeskow, is fifty-two miles from Berlin and twelve miles west of Forst, where the Germans reported Soviet penetrations yesterday.

Form Natural Defense.

Both Beeskow and Cottbus are on the Spree, which links up with many lakes and water courses to form a natural defense for Berlin. The area is forested and is the location of many rich German estates overflowing from the Berlin suburbs.

Both are important communication centers. Cottbus is the hub of thirteen trunk railways, main highways and autobahns and Beeskow is the center of eight such arteries, including the main Frankfurt-Leipzig railway.

Soviet correspondents said fighting was raging near the east bank of the Spree.

These dispatches indicated that Forst and Guben, fifteen miles to the north, either had been by-passed or captured.

Zhukov Increases Attack.

With his flank now solidly secured by the sensational advances of the First Ukrainian Army, Zhukov increased the attacks of his First White Russian Army on Fuerstenberg, the fortress in the southwestern corner of the Oder bend below Frankfurt.

Fuerstenberg is twelve miles north of Guben at the junction of the Neisse and Oder.

Presumably these attacks were preliminary to an all-out assault to break past the Frankfurt-Kuestrin fortification in a double-barreled attack on Berlin from east and southeast.

At the same time the German High Command disclosed that the Russians had broadened their assault front to the north by making an advance of more than sixteen miles from Soldin toward Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port.

The communique showed that Bahn, twenty-two miles south of Stettin, and the same distance southwest of the fortified rail center of Stargard, had been surrounded, but declared contact had been re-established with the garrison by a counter-attack.

A similar counter-attack broke a ring around Arnswalde, forty miles southeast of Stettin, the communique said.

Street Battle in Sagan.

Fierce street fighting started southeast of Berlin in Sagan, bypassed and almost encircled by Konev's capture of Sorau on the west and his crossing of the Queis River on the south, a German military spokesman said. Sagan is about thirty miles southeast of Forst.

The spokesman declared however that Soviet spearheads which had penetrated as far as Forst were cut off and pushed back and that Sommerfeld remained in German hands.

The Germans also declared their counter-attacks had slowed the punch toward Dresden and forced Konev to regroup there.

But they said a powerful new push was underway in Slovakia toward Zvolen, sixty-five miles north of Budapest and about the same distance southeast of Jablunka Pass on Slovakia's northwestern border.

In a thirty-mile breakthrough Konev's troops yesterday toppled the Brandenburg province stronghold of Sommerfeld, sixty-seven miles from the, German capital.

His rapid thrust from the depths of Silesia already has destroyed the effectiveness of the Oder defenses where the Germans checked a direct march toward Berlin by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army.

With Zhukov steadily building up new strength for a large-scale crossing of the Oder, Konev now is in position to cut in behind the enemy's Fuerstenberg-Frankfurt-Kuestrin line. Whether the Germans could deploy their forces to stave off both threats for long remained to be seen.

The Brussels radio, quoting a Moscow dispatch, said today that fighting was in progress in the immediate outskirts of the Baltic port of Danzig and that three German ships had been sunk outside the harbor. Official Russian announcements never have placed Red Army troops closer to Danzig city than twenty miles — in East Prussia to the southeast.

Martial Law Imposed On German People

Court Martials to "Handle Ruthlessly" Any Who Shirk Nazi Death Struggle—Cowardice, Selfishness to Be Punished

FEB 17 1945

By Richard Kasischke

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler imposed martial law upon virtually all Germany and poised the executioner's axe today with a decree establishing court martials to "handle ruthlessly" anyone who shirks the Nazi death struggle.

"Summary Justice"

The "courts of summary justice" will be set up immediately in all invasion-threatened areas of the Reich, with power to deal the death sentence to anyone who attempts, "especially through cowardice or selfishness," to evade his duties.

The decree, broadcast by the German radio, meant that even in deepest Bavaria a German could be sentenced to death for selfishness in refusing shelter to a refugee from an overrun province or for "damaging the Reich" by uttering or repeating a rumor.

The summary courts are to be established, said the decree, "on orders of the fuehrer in agreement with the reichsminister of the interior (Himmler)," and they will be packed firmly with Nazis.

Presiding judges will be "assisted" by political leaders or section leaders of the Nazi party and by officers of the army, the SS elite guard or the police. Since Hitler is commander in chief of the army and Himmler controls the SS and the police, it will be a thoroughly Nazi setup.

Cover Any Dereliction

Before the summary courts will be brought all persons charged with "crimes by which German fighting strength or fighting determination are endangered." This could cover almost any dereliction in the invasion-torn Reich.

Defendants before the special courts either will be given the death penalty or win acquittal—nothing in between. Execution of the death sentence will be so swift that even the prosecutor may fix the time, place and method in certain cases.

In announcing the decree, the reichsminister of justice said, in part:

"The difficult struggle for the continued life of the Reich requires that every German should be ready to fight and display his devotion unto the last.

"Whoever tries to escape his duties to the community, especially out of cowardice or selfishness, must immediately be dealt with, applying the necessary rigor so that the Reich shall suffer no dire result from the failure of an individual.

Spirit Of Regulations

"The procedure shall be governed by the spirit of the regulations laid down in the Reich criminal proceedings order."

While the German high command said resistance was stiffening against the Russian offensive, reports pictured a worsening situation within the Reich.

The Moscow radio said Dresden was being evacuated of its industries and businesses and that refugees were pouring into and out of the heavily-bombed city. The German radio said Dresden had been "rubbleized" by the bombings, and Swiss reports said more than 30,000 persons had been killed in the city prior to yesterday's American daylight raid.

Moscow reiterated its report that Nuernberg in Bavaria was the new capital of Germany, with a 30-mile zone around the former Nazi party congress city barred to refugees.

The Paris radio quoted a German frontier report that German industrial leaders had informed Hermann Goering that the country's raw materials situation was desperate, with the fuel shortage particularly acute.

Martial Law Clamped On Reich; Military Trial Provided

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—Almost all Germany was placed under virtual martial law today by a sweeping decree calling for military trial of "whoever tries to evade his duties toward the community."

Civilians who show "cowardice" will be subject to the death penalty in the "Reich's defense areas threatened by the enemy." The order was one of the most drastic decrees ever issued by the Germans in their effort to bring every man, woman and child into their struggle. It was issued, Berlin said, on orders from Adolf Hitler and with the agreement of Heinrich Himmler.

The German radio gave this as the text of the decree:

"The hard struggle for the existence of the Reich demands of every German fighting determination and devotion to the utmost.

"Necessary Ruthlessness"

"Whoever tries to evade his duties towards the community, especially if he does it from cowardice or selfishness, must immediately be taken to task with necessary ruthlessness so that no damage should arise to the Reich from failure of an individual.

"On orders of the Führer and in agreement with the Reich's Minister of Interior and Chief of Reich's Cancellery, it is decreed:

"1. Military courts of summary justice will be established in the Reich's defense areas threatened by the enemy.

"Military courts of summary justice will be presided over by a judge who will be assisted by a political leader or section leader of the National Socialist Party and an officer of the Wehrmacht, Waffen SS or police.

Naming Of Court Members

"The Reich's Defense Commissar will appoint members of court and a public prosecutor.

"2. Military courts of summary justice will be instructed to try all crimes by which German fighting strength or fighting determination is endangered.

"Procedure will be in accordance with rules of the Reich's criminal code.

"3. The sentence of the military court's summary justice will be for death, acquittal or transfer to regular judicial proceedings.

"Decision of the court requires confirmation by the Reich's Defense Commissar, who will also decide the place, time and method of execution of sentence.

Deputy In Power

"If the Reich's Defense Commissar cannot be reached and immediate execution is absolutely necessary, his function will be exercised by a public prosecutor.

"4. Regulations necessary in amplification, alteration or execution of this decree will be issued by the Reich's Minister of Justice in agreement with the Reich's Minister of Interior and the chief of the party chancellery.

"5. This decree comes into force with its public announcement in press and on radio."

The decree did not mention civilians specifically, but the context made it clear that they were affected. Makeup of the courts places their control in the hands of the Nazis, although a German army officer will sit on the courtmartial boards.

Hitler In Town 2 Days Before Its Capture

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Moscow radio quoted a Soviet war correspondent today as saying Adolf Hitler had visited a German frontier town recently only two days before it was captured by the Red Army.

The correspondent did not identify the town, but said Hitler had exhorted "young and old to take up arms."

SCHACHT PUTTING OUT NAZI PEACE FEELERS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The recurring rumor that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht was putting out peace feelers in Germany's behalf cropped up again today in a French press agency report which the Federal Communications commission circulated.

The French dispatch said Schacht, German financier, had reached Switzerland and there were "certain reports" that he "is believed to be trying to establish contact with neutral and Allied personages in an attempt to negotiate a German surrender." Similar rumors in the past have never been corroborated in any detail.

Government Moved to Nuernberg

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today the German government had been moved 225 miles southwest, from Berlin to Nuernberg, in Bavaria.

"A thirty-mile zone around Nuernberg has been declared out of bounds for refugees," declared the Soviet broadcast. "Police guarding the roads leading to it have been trebled. Many citizens were forced to leave their homes to make room for the ministries evacuated from Berlin. Long columns of trucks are carrying archives and files into the city."

Berlin Set For Siege

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—The German radio declared today that final plans had been completed for the defense of Berlin and said the Nazi party had arranged to supply the populace with army rations when the siege begins.

The broadcast warned, however, that those seeking evacuation from the capital in the meanwhile "should not expect the impossible."

German commentators declared that Russian preparations for an all-out assault upon Berlin are nearly complete and reiterated that a "superoffensive" on the Western front is imminent.

NAZI OIL TARGETS HIT BY BOMBERS

3,500 Allied Planes Blast Reich from Eastern to Western Front

LONDON, Feb. 16—(AP) More than 3,500 Allied warplanes—escorted by perhaps 1,700 heavy bombers—scourged Germany today, shifting the main weight of attack from the eastern to the western front as the record non-stop bombardment extended through its third day.

Continent-based tactical air forces, out in great strength, destroyed seven planes in combat. The only Allied losses which had been reported late tonight, from among all the various forces engaged, were three medium bombers and eight fighter bombers of the U. S. Ninth air force.

Oil Refineries Hit

Uncontested by the Luftwaffe, a U. S. Eighth air force fleet of 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators and 200 Mustang fighters spread 3,000 tons of explosives on two natural oil refineries, two benzol plants and railyards at Hamm, Osnabrueck and Rheine.

Shortly after this American attack from British bases, more than 200 RAF Lancasters bombed the town of Wesel on the east bank of the Rhine about 20 miles southeast of Kleve, striking at one of the foremost German communications centers supporting the enemy's resistance to the Canadian First army's offensive.

German troops, equipment and armor have been spotted flowing through Wesel and American bombers recently attacked the town. RAF heavies, prevented from flying last night because of poor weather, found the skies clear during the day and delivered a highly concentrated blow.

The third phase of today's air assault on the Nazis was performed by the U. S. 15th air force's heavy bombers flying from Italy.

Eighth airforce smashes at Dresden and Chemnitz on the Eastern front in the last three days have been particularly effective and there were reports today that these two cities in the path of the Red army had been nearly wiped off the map.

The Paris radio said immediate evacuation of Dresden had been ordered. Through Stockholm came a report that 70,000 persons had been killed in the repeated bombings of the historic capital of Saxony.

The Scandinavian telegram bureau, German controlled, said all communications between Dresden, normally a city of 640,000, and other parts of the Reich had been severed.

Today's targets for the Eighth Air force included benzol plants at Dortmund and Gelsenkirchen in the Ruhr and refineries at Dortmund and Salzbergen.

Fog and haze lifted over the battlefields late in the day, turning loose hundreds of medium and fighterbombers, which plastered the enemy in the lines with bombs, rockets and bullets.

Uedem Hammered

British medium bombers hammered the traffic hub of Uedem on the Canadian First army front south of Kleve, and fighterbombers attacked Hassum and Asperden, the only towns between Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's forces and the communications center of Goch.

Goch also felt the weight of the aerial attack, and German troops, gun positions and strong points were bombed and strafed.

Fighters escorting the big British bombers to Wesel, who were intent on destroying that town in the corner of the Ruhr valley to block the flow of reinforcements, said the target was left a mass of flames.

American medium bombers pounded Lees, site of the first Rhine ferry upstream from Emmerich, whose use as a crossing point has been knocked out by the Canadian advance.

Three hundred medium and light bombers of the Ninth Air force attacked a Rhine railway bridge near Koblenz, and attacked a jet plane engine factory at Solingen, and an ordnance depot at Unna, both in the Ruhr.

Most of 1,000 Ninth Air force fighterbomber sorties, 400 First Tactical Air force sorties and some of the Second Tactical Air force's 500 sorties were directed at rail yards and rolling stock from Cologne to the Black Forest.

Some attacks were directed at armor, motor transport and artillery on the U. S. Third and Seventh army fronts. The three tactical air forces claimed they destroyed or damaged 1,809 railroad cars, 203 locomotives, 56 tanks and armored vehicles, 294 motor vehicles and 43 gun positions.

All oil targets were hit visually, and favorable results were reported. Direct hits were scored on the 30-mile-long rail yards at Hamm, largest and best equipped in Germany. Broken clouds swirled over the other objectives, requiring instrument aiming.

The Osnabruck, Rheine and Hamm rail yards normally can handle a total of 17,000 cars daily and have been given top priority for repairs so that troops and supplies can be funnelled to points of pressure on the western front. Today's was the Eighth air force's 17th attack on Hamm.

The small Salzberger oil refinery was hit once before by the Americans last August. The Dortmund oil works have been built in the past two months and were reported just getting into production.

Bombers of the 15th air force in Italy helped maintain the momentum of the great aerial offensive which in the past three days had rocked 22 cities from the Rhine to the Russian front. The Italian-based fleet struck an airdrome near Regensburg in southern Germany and rail yards east of Innsbruck in Austria and Rosenheim, 35 miles southeast of Munich, and Bolzano on the Brenner pass line in the Italian Tyrol.

between the Brenner Pass and Vienna, and another yard east of Innsbruck on a by-pass line from the Brenner.

Meanwhile, it was announced officially that the American losses in Wednesday's 2,250-plane assault on German targets close to the Russian front were eight bombers and five fighters. Yesterday's losses were changed from fifteen bombers and six fighters to twelve bombers and two fighters, seven of the aircraft previously missing having landed safely in France

1000 British-based Bombers Strike in West While Others Attack From Italy.

London, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—More than 1,000 heavy bombers of the British-based Eighth United States Air Force, continuing the record aerial offensive against the Reich, switched their attack back to western Germany today with seven simultaneous blows at oil targets and railroad yards in six cities.

After a night lull in the offensive in which sixteen cities from the Rhine to the Russian front were rocked with heavy loads of explosives, the Americans attacked two benzol plants at Dortmund and Gelsenkirchen in the Rhur, two oil refineries at Dortmund and Selzbergen and three large freight yards at Hamm, Osnabruck and Rheine. They were escorted by only 200 fighters, a good indication of how little punch the airmen feel is left in the German Air Force.

The marshaling yards at Hamm are the largest in Germany and, like those at Rheine and Salzbergen, twin cities just across the Dutch border, are important in the German scheme of supply against the Montgomery salient at Kleve.

Strike From Italy, Too.

At the same time today bombers of the Italian-based Fifteenth United States Air Force smashed at the Obertraubling airdrome at Regensburg in south Germany, where jet-propelled planes are based. These Fortresses and Liberators also battered a series of railroad yards, including those at Bolzano, on the Brenner line; at Rosenheim, thirty-five miles southeast of Munich, a junction almost constant hammering, the only air activity reported during the night was widespread mine-laying by the R. A. F. An Air Ministry communique did not name the locale, but a German broadcast said night bombers were over the Jutland area.

The co-ordinated attacks on Nazi war-making machinery reached a scale without precedent between Tuesday night and last night when more than 5,100 American and British four-engined bombers from Britain dumped more than 15,000 tons of bombs on Germany.

The main weight of these blows, aiding the Russian smash toward Berlin, was directed at Dresden, Chemnitz and neighboring "shelter cities" in the southeast corner of the Reich.

A Berlin broadcast said that a large part of Dresden had been reduced to rubble and that Chemnitz, equally important to Nazi defenses, suffered almost the same fate.

From continent bases United States Ninth Air Force planes flew 500 sorties yesterday against west front targets, dropping 475 tons of bombs and bringing to 14,000 the number of Allied planes of all descriptions which have flown over German soil in the last three days. The Ninth lost one medium bomber and one fighter.

Criticism Mounts Against UNRRA

Congress, Parliament May Investigate Involuntary Failure to Get Large-scale Relief Underway—Lack of Understanding With Army Emphasized.

FEB 17 1945

By Alex Singleton

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP)—A storm over UNRRA was brewing tonight, with the strong possibility investigations would be precipitated in both the U. S. Congress and the British Parliament into the organization's involuntary failure to get relief work under way on a larger scale.

Sources of revenue

Congress and Parliament are the two chief sources of revenue for the mercy agency, once envisioned as the first major test for international non-military collaboration.

Within a week UNRRA has drawn sharp criticism from opposite sides of the globe, with authoritative quarters insistent that the chief difficulty lies in a lack of understanding between UNRRA and the Army.

Among UNRRA personnel from the United States, belief mounted that Congress, probably through the Senate Finance committees, would call for a thorough-going inquiry before approving the $550,000,000 balance of $1,350,000,000 American contribution.

Here in London the Laborite Daily Herald bluntly demanded "what has gone wrong—why should this vast organization stand paralyzed in an hour when its activities should be mounting to a peak?"

Matter of Urgency

"Action there must be," the paper said in an editorial. "As a matter of the utmost urgency, the whole set-up and operations of UNRRA must be overhauled. The condition of liberated peoples urgently requires it, the honor of the United Nations demands it."

This criticism followed a statement by Dr. H. V. Evatt, Australia's minister of external affairs, that "something of a crisis is emerging in relation to UNRRA's functions."

"It must be admitter by any candid observer," Dr. Evatt said yesterday at the opening of a six-day meeting of the Far Eastern committee of UNRRA at Sydney, "that there are signs of frustration and disillusionment. Despite much elaborate organization, UNRRA has not functioned to any extent in Europe."

Expect Nothing

Earlier in the week, M. A. Lamping, representing the Netherlands; and Vicomte de Thieusies, delegate for Belgium, told UNRRA's European committee that their people were first led to believe that they could expect everything from UNRRA, but subsequently they came to the conclusion after liberation that they could expect nothing.

Rene Massigli, French ambassador to Britain, has told the committee that UNRRA should have authority to send emergency relief supplies immediately to liberated areas on the grounds that months have passed since liberation, with the people still suffering greatly.

Meanwhile UNRRA's hands remain tied, especially in the cases of France and Belgium. As British Minister of State Richard K. Law pointed out in the House of Commons Wednesday, the organization can enter a liberated coutnry only upon the invitation of its government. Neither France nor Belgium has invited UNRRA.

Debate Expected

Inside and outside of Commons, where a full dress debate on the situation is expected within two weeks, there has been an increasing speculation on the failure of the western European countries to extend such an invitation.

Generally, it is believed due to a combination of reasons—partly national pride, with fear that sovereignty would be impaired if an internationl organization were called in to handle relief, and partly belief that they will be able to obtain more food and other necessities by dealing directly with the source of supplies and paying for them out of their own treasuries.

Complicating the situation is a conflict between civilian and military demands for many of the "must" items. Also hundreds of bridges across which suppiles must be ferried have been shattered by bombs, and there is a lack of transportation, despite shipment to the continent of hundreds of trucks and trains.

tacking Allied forces around Kleve were about 75 per cent British and 25 per cent Canadian.

Special courts martial were set up in all invasion-threatened areas of Germany to "handle ruthlessly" anyone shirking the Nazi death struggle. The Italian front was quiet.

ALLIES DRAFT PLAN TO CONTROL REICH

Paris

LONDON, Feb. 16—(AP) Pressed by the Big Three to speed up plans for suppressing Germany's aggressive powers forever, the European Advisory commission is preparing to add the finishing touches to its blueprint for controlling future German economy.

France's recommendations, which are expected to be handed to the Commission within the next few days, are reported to include:

1. Destruction of all German armament works.

2. Ban on production of aircraft engines and tight control on the import of other types of machinery.

3. Strict limitation of other war potential to a minimum.

4. Supervision of laboratories and research industries.

5. Confiscation of German-owned industries abroad.

FEB 17 1945

The reported French proposals are practically identical with American recommendations previously submitted to the commission by Ambassador John Winant. British proposals also are believed to coincide. There were no indications that the Russian recommendations had yet been handed in.

The Big Three agreed in their Crimean declaration that they were determined to "eliminate or control all German industry that could be used for military production" and to "take in harmony such other measures in Germany as may be necessary to the future peace and safety of the world."

The final blueprint for economic control of Germany may be along these lines:

1. "Complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries, including aviation.

2. Control of German industries so they could not dominate European economy.

3. Steps to control Germany's chemical industries so she would be unable to manufacture poison gas or similar weapons.

4. Drastic supervision of German imports with a view to preventing Germany's buying abroad raw materials adaptable to strategic uses.

5. Plans for controlling German finance both at home and abroad.

There was a growing belief in diplomatic quarters that the Soviets would ask that several million Germans be sent to Russia to help in reconstruction of the country.

London, Feb. 16 (AP) — Arrangements are being made for a two-day war debate in Commons when Prime Minister Churchill reports on the Crimea conference.

'BIG 3' PEACE PLAN FAVORED BY WTUC

Fletcher

LONDON, Feb. 16—(AP) The World Union conference today formally welcomed the Big Three's Crimea declaration, recommended that the Trade Union movement "be associated with the peace settlement in all its phases," and urged the governments of more than 40 nations to crack down economically on Spain, Argentina and "other Fascist countries."

The statement of the Big Three communique was in the form of a report of a committee headed by James B. Carey, of the C.I.O., which was adopted virtually intact after hours of debate.

The conference resolved that measures must be taken to bring to justice all war criminals and those guilty of Nazi atrocities, liquidate the Nazi system, dissolve all Nazi organizations, confiscate party funds and properties, place under United Nations control not only heavy industries but German transport and banking systems and property owned by German trusts, cartels and junkers, utilize German industries and resources for rehabilitation of all countries plundered and devasted by Germany, and to secure full compensation for damages to Allied countries.

"On all these matters we consider it essential that the voice of the trade union shall be heard and heeded by the occupying authorities," the convention declared.

The conference also would liquidate the German labor front, establish a democratic trade union movement in Germany as speedily as possible during occupation and recover trade union funds seized by the Nazis.

The Trade Union movement, said the adopted resolution, "cannot forget that one of the basic causes of war is the scramble for markets by monopolizing interests," and it urged early action by the Allied assembly to end international cartels and monopolies.

The conference asked the Big Three that "accredited representatives of the Trade Union movement be received into their councils at the forthcoming San Francisco conference in an advisory and consultative capacity."

Crackdown Urged On Spain, Argentina

London, Feb. 16 (AP)—The governments of more than 40 nations were urged today by the World Trades Union Congress to crack down economically on Spain and Argentina and "all other Fascist countries which under the pretense of neutrality are rendering aid and assistance to our enemies."

The appeal was contained in a report submitted to the congress by a special committee made up of representatives from the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China.

Recommendations Accepted

Its recommendations were formally accepted by labor delegates from more than 40 countries.

After hitting directly at Spain and Argentina, the report added:

"We further call upon our governments to take prompt and vigorous steps to prevent any neutral nations such as Sweden and Switzerland from supplying Hitler Germany with food and war materials and to exact upon them guarantees against granting asylum to war criminals."

Role For Labor Urged

The TUC received a statement from its "peace conference" committee urging that trade-union representatives be associated with all phases of the war settlement.

"The employment of German labor, if used in restoration work (in liberated territories), must be placed under international supervision with trade-union participation in determination of labor standards in a way that this will not reduce the standards of other workers," the report said. "Such labor must not be allowed to degenerate into slave labor."

Mikolajczyk Offers Plan for Polish Frontier

Would Settle All Borders Simultaneously, Give Lwow, Galicia to Poland

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP).—In a letter to "The London Daily Herald" today, the former Premier of the Polish government in London, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, advocated simultaneous settlement of Poland's eastern, western and northern frontiers and urged that the city of Lwow and the Galician oilfields remain within the nation's borders. The Curzon line settlement proposed by the Crimea Conference would give both Lwow and the oilfields to the Soviet Union.

[Return of Mikolajczyk to Warsaw to participate in the new provisional Polish government was forecast by the Soviet Army newspaper "Red Star," a Moscow broadcast said.]

Mikolajczyk explained he was writing to "The Herald" because of an assertion by its diplomatic correspondent that the Crimea plan for settling the Polish problem had been based on a suggestion made by the former Premier.

"The essential aspects of the Polish problem are two-fold," Mikolajczyk said, "the question of frontiers and the question of the government.

"I maintain the view that the three great powers should share the responsibility in the frontier settlement, in which Poland also should participate . . . and I also maintain the view that by such a settlement the frontiers of Poland in the East as well as in the West and North should be fixed simultaneously. Moreover, I have always held that at least Lwow and the oilfields should remain within Poland.

"On the question of government, I have pronounced myself in public favor of convening a round-table conference of all leaders of the Polish underground in Warsaw, and of basing the government in Poland on all democratic elements, and guaranteeing to such a government the means for unhampered action. I have never suggested that this should be accomplished by the broadening and reorganization of the so-called provisional government in Lublin.

"One cannot assert, therefore, that the 'Crimea Plan' concerning Poland, both on the subject of frontiers and on the subject of new government in Poland, is based on my suggestions."

Red Star Says Mikolajczyk Splits With London Poles

Moscow, Feb. 16 (AP)—Red Star said today that Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former Premier of the Polish London Government, had dissociated himself from the stand of that administration against the Crimea conference decisions on Poland, and it commented approvingly.

"A split has begun among the emigres," said the Red Army newspaper. "Mikolajczyk has declined to accept the decision of the 'Government in exile.' One can foresee that among this group and also others, many people will be found who are ready to assume responsibility for the future fate of Poland and take part in the forthcoming reorganization of the Polish Government."

"Build Upon Hatred"

Red Star said members of the Government in exile, "building their policy upon stimulation of hatred toward the Soviet Union and attempting to shake the unity of the Allies, have found themselves thrown into the rubbish box of history."

British Ambassador Sir Archibald Kerr, United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and the Warsaw Poles are expected to begin negotiations almost immediately to form the new Polish government envisaged at Yalta.

NAZI SUBS ATTACK ALLIED CONVOY

FEB 17 1945

LONDON, Feb. 16—(AP)—A big Allied convoy on the Russian run has returned intact after its powerful escort sank two enemy submarines and squelched other lurking U-boats and torpedo planes so effectively they were unable to launch a single attack, it was announced today.

It was the most determined attempt that the Germans had made in months to cut the northern shipping lane, the Admiralty announced. The important convoy was tracked all the way to the Russian port and back. Three enemy torpedo planes were shot down and one Allied plane was lost.

The American and British merchantmen, screened by British and Canadian warships, were spotted by a German plane the second day out, said Commander G. B. Teale.

From then on the escort attacked everything that looked suspicious, and Teale said several other submarines were "undoubtedly damaged." The weather was so bad that U-boats did not appear until the journey neared an end.

It was on the second day out on the way home, the commander said, that 10 U-boats were spotted.

"One did not dive quickly enough," he said, "and got hit and damaged but was not sunk."

The U-Boats ran, and the following day torpedo-bomber planes tried to attack, swooping over in pairs. That afternoon four U-boats again showed up and two were sunk.

The rest of the trip was uneventful except for a southwest gale, which was so fierce that the convoy speed was cut to three knots.

2 U-BOATS SUNK IN CONVOY BATTLE

London, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—An important Allied convoy on a Russian run recently sank two U-boats and shot down two Nazi torpedo planes and a scout plane, thus beating off one of the strongest German efforts against northern shipping in months, the Admiralty announced today.

Several other U-boats undoubtedly were damaged, an officer of the convoy reported, when escort weapons opened up on submarine packs.

The Germans, who had spotted the convoy on its second day out, trailed it all the way to a Russian port and back, but were unable to launch a single attack, the Admiralty said.

A single Allied plane was lost.

American and British merchantmen made up the convoy under the protection of British and Canadian warships. One U-boat was sunk on the way to the Russian port and several others "undoubtedly damaged," the Admiralty said. During the first two hours of the homeward trip, ten U-boats were spotted.

"One did not dive quickly enough and was hit and damaged, but was not sunk," said Commander G. B. Teale. The U-boats fled. The next day German torpedo planes swooped in pairs. Two were shot down and others damaged.

Four U-boats returned in the afternoon. British planes sank one.

LANDING REPORTED ON SCHOUWEN ISLE

London, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio said today that the British attempted a landing on the Netherland island of Schouwen at the mouth of the Rhine north of the Beveland Islands on Wednesday night.

A transocean broadcast said the first wave of the amphibious assault was thrown back under the heavy fire of German coastal batteries, and a second attempt was repelled with British units leaving behind their arms and ammunition.

Schouwen Island is part of the Rhine estuary between the Costerschelde, a branch of the sea, and Gravelingen Krammer Volkerak, one of the mouths of the Rhine. It is thirty-two miles northwest of Antwerp and twenty-four miles southwest of Rotterdam.

Transocean did not indicate whether the assault forces finally gained a foothold. The report of the attack had not been corroborated by Allied sources.

The reports served to recall, however, recent Allied naval statements disclosing that Allied forces are active along the Netherlands islands and pointing out that the European coast north of the Rhine affords the same opportunities for amphibious operations that were exploited in France.

Red Cross Ship To Leave Japan

London, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Red Cross supplies for Allied prisoners of war and civilian interness are due to leave a Japanese port tomorrow, the Foreign Office announced. The Japanese ship will unload at Hongkong, Saigon, Singapore, Sourabaya, Batavia, and Muntok, off Sumatra.

Dutch Officer Is Held In London Tower as Spy

Seized After Arnhem Disaster; Feigned Underground Tie

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP).—A Dutch officer, a member of the underground army in Holland, has been a prisoner in the Tower of London since soon after the battle of Arnhem, it was disclosed tonight. He is awaiting trial for treason on charges of betraying Allied military secrets to the enemy.

Officials withheld the identity of the officer, who crossed to the Allied lines when underground forces struck last September in co-operation with the Allied airborne attack that ended in disaster.

His papers were in good order, but he was watched by intelligence men, and his arrest followed indications that he was in touch with the Nazis. His position in the Dutch home army was such that he had known the details of the projected Arnhem attack.

By order of Supreme Allied headquarters, he was flown to Great Britain and imprisoned to await trial.

BURIED BY ROBOTS

London, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Men and women clawed away tons of rubble by hand after a German V-bomb exploded and trapped a number of persons under demolished buildings in southern England recently.

Rescue workers brought up steam shovels and bulldozers but dared not use them for fear of injuring those trapped by the blast.

Frantically digging volunteers recovered a number of bodies and rescued several injured. Among the dead were three generations of one family—two children, their mother and their grandmother.

Southern England was under attack again last night and a communique reported additional casualties and damage.

MAIL TO FINNS RESUMED

LONDON, Feb. 16—(AP) Britain announced tonight resumption of mail service with her former enemy Finland. Finnish-owned property in the United Kingdom, however, remains under control of the custodians of enemy property.

BOARD OF TRADE LIFTS BAN ON FEW EXPORTS

LONDON, Feb. 16 — (AP) The Board of Trade today lifted restrictions on exports of a few products, but emphasized that this did not mean any large quantities would be shipped as production of some is still controlled and there is a shortage of others.

Under the new order, effective Monday, these goods can be exported without a license except to a few countries to which all shipments are controlled.

Among the items freed from restrictions are certain types of metal furniture, some musical instruments, including phonographs and parts, metal electric lighting fittings and various plastic articles such as dishes, buttons, buckles and knitting needles and some chemicals.

Britain's Exports Rise To 54% of Pre-War Leve

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 16—Grea Britain's exports in 1944 rose t £258,000,000, for an increase o £25,000,000 over the previous twelve months, the Board of Trade announced today.

The year's export figure, however, was only 54 per cent of the pre-war total of £470,800,000. It fell short of the 1942 amount, which was £270,900,000, despite wartime price increases.

Statistics showed that Britain's South American trade was off by $44,000,000. Exports to Russia accounted for $56,000,000 of the increase.

The Board of Trade today lifted restrictions on exports of a few products, but emphasized that this did not mean any large quantities would be shipped, as production of some is still controlled and there is a shortage of others.

ALLIES HAMMER ENEMY DEFENSES PROTECTING RUHR

FEB 17 1945

Germans Throw Artillery into Battle in Bid to Halt Drive.

PLANES POUND NAZIS

Canadians Smash Toward Calcar, Uedem and Goch Before Rhineland.

PARIS, Feb. 16—(AP) A roaring battle raged today on a ten-mile front south and east of Kleve, where Field Marshal Montgomery's offensive crunched southeastward yard by yard into a strongly-reinforced German line standing between his forces and the rich Ruhr and Rhineland.

Over a battlefield where hundreds of big guns blazed, swarms of Allied warplanes attacked with bombs, bullets and rockets, trying to knock the Germans from rising ground before the three strategic road networks of Goch, Uedem and Calcar.

Drive Toward Calcar

The Canadian First army—now disclosed to be made up of 75 per cent British forces—was about two miles from Calcar, five miles from Uedem and two and a half miles from Goch. More Allied tanks were joining the bruising struggle as the ground firmed underneath.

German civilians, men, women and children, streamed from the battle zone, seeking safety behind the Allied lines.

Scottish infantry driving east and gaining nearly a mile were attacking bitterly-defended heights south of Moyland, possibly within two miles of Calcar and 17 from Wesel at the gateway to the industrial Ruhr valley.

The Germans had thrown in elements of eight divisions to block the path to the Ruhr—last great source of enemy munitions—and U. S. heavy bombers battered at those war factories as more than 3,500 warplanes of all kinds took to the skies of western Europe.

Massed German artillery and mortars earlier in the day pinned down the advance on pivotal Goch along the Niers river, but a late dispatch said that once more the British were advancing on Hassum, three miles west of Goch.

Three battles southeast of Kleve—at the approaches to Calcar, on the road to Uedem, and over rolling hills in between—were merging into one.

One of the fiercest was southeast of Bedburg on the road to Uedem, where the Canadian charge by foot and armored troop carriers over Sandy fields was met by salvos of whining multiple mortars. By late afternoon they had reached two of three objectives.

German resistance was light on both ends of the 20-mile front, along the Maas river on the south where kilted Scots pressed on from captured Heijen—eight miles west of Goch—and along the Rhine northeast of Kleve.

Nazi Resistance Broken

A front dispatch said German resistance was ended along the flooded Rhine, where the enemy appeared to be relying on breached dikes for a defense. Both the floods on the Maas and Rhine were believed ebbing, the ground was drying, and the Canadian-British forces hoped soon to swing their armored superiority into the scales of battle.

The Germans were throwing in ceaseless counterattacks, which sometimes broke into the Allied lines, but they were finished off with bayonets and flame throwers or hurled back to their own positions.

The U. S. Third army on the only other active sector of the W ern front won a tactical victory in the Eifel mountains by seizing heights overlooking the Pruem and Enz rivers, which protect the south flank of Bitburg, eight miles to the north.

Bitburg, with its eight highways and one railway, looms more important in the German defense of the Westwall on this front since the Americans captured the traffic center of Pruem, 16 miles to the north.

In the advance the Americans captured a German airfield half a mile northwest of the fortified village of Ferschweiler, and found four burned out planes on the ground.

Between the Third and the Canadian armies, the enemy stepped up artillery fire on the flooded Roer which for the moment is keeping idle the U. S. First, Ninth and British Second armies poised for a smash toward the Rhineland.

First army patrols crossing the Roer last night ran into machine-gun fire, mines and barbed wire entanglements. It was disclosed for the first time that the Germans had mined the river.

The Alsatian front was quiet.

The German communique said a British attempt to land on Schouwen, a Dutch island at the mouth of the Rhine from which it is believed rockets are being launched against England, had been repulsed Wednesday night.

A Berlin broadcast said that three Allied landing vessels had been damaged and two assault waves were repulsed. There was no Allied confirmation.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar was committing more of his Canadian tanks into the mounting battle between the Rhine and the Maas river at the western frontiers of Germany, where the Germans massed 300 big guns to resist the advance.

Hold Rhine Bank

On the north flank, where Canadian troops hold 20 miles of the left or south bank of the Rhine, the advance edged on northeast of the ferry port of Hurendeich, opposite the German town of Emmerich.

Just to the south, other forces pushing three and a half miles east of Kleve captured Huisberden, about three miles from the Rhine where it loops southeastward.

A few miles to the south, where British and Canadians battled more than half a mile east of Kleve state forest, the Germans threw in incessant counterattacks that expired on the bayonets and the flame throwers of infantry standing firm in their lines.

Southeast of the forest, the British were scaling heights on the road to Uedem, four miles east of Goch, through which the enemy is feeding fresh troops into the battered lines.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army was broadening its footholds in western Germany opposite the Luxembourg border despite more aggressive action by the enemy, who was counterattacking all the way north to Pruem.

It was the Fifth Infantry division which occupied ground overlooking the Pruem and Enz rivers in gains of a quarter of a mile along a five-mile front stretching from two miles north of Echternach to three miles north of Bollendorf.

The 76th Division in this same Sure river bridgehead gained a half mile along the river and a quarter east of Echternach.

Five and seven miles to the south mechanized cavalry pushed into Born and Wasserbillig west of the German fortress of Trier, but withdrew under heavy fire.

The Third army announced that since it went into action in France it had knocked out 1,988 German tanks, including 718 Tigers, while losing 1,044 tanks and tank destroyers.

In the battle of the Ardennes, the Third destroyed 515 tanks and 202 pieces of mobile artillery against the loss of 168 tanks and tank destroyers and 91 artillery pieces.

Canadians Drive Mile Deeper In Rhine Valley

Paris, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Canadian 1st Army, aiming at the heart of the industrial Ruhr, thrust almost a mile deeper into the lower Rhine Valley of northwest Germany today through storms of heavy artillery and mortar fire from an ever-increasing number of German reserves.

The Canadians held 20 miles of the south bank of the flooded Rhine from the Nijmegen sector to opposite Emmerich, but made no move to cross the wide river. They stormed and captured water-hemmed Huisberden, 4 miles east of Kleve and 19 from the Ruhr gateway city of Wesel.

Nearer Goch And Calcar

Scots, Britons and Welshmen under Gen. Henry Crerar's command inched toward the Nazi defense keystones of Goch and Calcar in the center of the bulging 20-mile front. One field dispatch said the troops spread out south of Moyland, indicating an advance into the area less than 2 miles from Calcar. Scots moving down the highway from Kleve got within 1,000 yards of Moyland.

Other troops closed slowly on Goch from three directions and were within easy artillery range. Goch and Calcar are important military road hubs.

U.S. 3d And 7th Gain

The Germans were using parts of an 8th Division on the critical northern front—the 8th Parachute Division. Three other parachute, two infantry and two tank divisions have been identified. Prisoners totaled 5,700 for the offensive.

The American 3d Army made half-mile gains in the Pruem sector, slowly reducing German fortifications. The 7th Army in northern Alsace rested after local line-straightening operations which overran Rimling, 2 miles south of the German Saarland, and two other villages.

Nazis Intensify Fire

With the Roer River rapidly receding at the edge of the Cologne Plain, the Germans increased their artillery and V-weapon fire upon the American 9th and 1st armies. The Germans said both of those armies had been strengthened immensely for a drive toward the Rhine, 20 miles away. About 700 shells fell in the 9th Army sector from Schmidt to Hilfarth and 150 on Bourheim southwest of the Roer bastion of Juelich.

Ground mists covered sodden battlegrounds in the northern sector, preventing air support of the Canadian army. Three more Nazi counterattacks were repelled and the sting appeared to have been taken from the German blows.

Scots Gain Half Mile

Synchronized with the thrust down the Kleve-Calcar military road, a column of kilted Scots advanced 1,000 yards east of the Kleve Forest, cracking into strong German defenses. One report said 100 discouraged Austrians were waiting patiently in the northeast corner of the forest to surrender, but that the Scots were too busy to bother with them.

Field dispatches said the Canadians were firmly established on the Rhine opposite Emmerich. Resistance along that river was light; the Germans depended on the width of the stream and the floods from its breached dykes for protection.

Other Allied Advances

Maj. Gen. Leroy S. Irwin's 5th Division of the 3d Army occupied high ground overlooking the Pruem and Enz Rivers after quarter-mile gains on a five-mile front north of Echternach and Bollendorf. The 76th (Onaway) Division of New England reserves gained half a mile along the German-held side of the Sure River, reaching a point more than a mile east of Echternach. Other 76th Division infantrymen gained nearly a mile and were half a mile northwest of Minden.

Maj. Gen. Harry J. Malony's 94th Division, fighting a "private war" with the German 11th Panzer Division fifteen miles southeast of Luxembourg city, repulsed two attacks around Sinz and took several pillboxes.

Aachen Civilians Accuse Nazi

Victims of Oppression Testify He Led Terrorists

AACHEN, Germany, Feb. 16 (AP).—German civilian victims of Nazi oppression testified today at the trial of Otto Meyer, forty-six years old, before an American Military Government court.

Meyer, accused of giving Allied officials false information, was exposed as a local wheel horse of the Nazi party after he had worked himself into a position of trust with the American Army and had received several important secret missions.

The German witnesses said he had led a gang of terrorists in Hitler's Storm Troops known as the "Terror Commandos." Their victims were chiefly Communists and other opponents of Fascism.

Diary Taken from German Girl Expresses Hatred for Yanks

By TOM YARBROUGH

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY, Feb. 16.—(AP) A diary taken from a 17-year-old German girl expresses her complete hatred for Americans and a conviction that U. S. Doughboys are stupid cowards who are afraid to fight. Portions of her diary entries is an admission of her fear and a fatalistic attitude of despair regarding Germany's fate.

The young Nazi, Maria, lives in Monschau. Her diary which finally has been made public by Army authorities, is in the form of a series of letters to her lover, Peter, who is in the German army.

(At the time last month when U. S. Officers refused to allow disclosure of its contents, Associated Press War Correspondent Wes Gallagher described the young Nazi's writings as the best possible evidence for Gen. Eisenhower's order forbidding U. S. soldiers from fraternizing with the German people.)

The diary, now released to the press as a sample of what American occupation forces can expect from the youth of the Reich, contains the following passages:

"Slowly I realize that this is absolutely no honest, holy fight for the right to live, but a damned war of materials. It is not the fault of us poor Germans that we do not have such fertile country like America.

"Nowhere is there any advance in spite of the incessant bombardments. There is nothing but to shake the head again and again, and say again and again, 'there really is nothing better than the German soldiers.' The cowardice of the Americans is simply indescribeable.

"We, the youth are a sorely tried but also a steeled youth, and hard as iron, destined to fight on for the ideal of our indispensable leader. When everybody deserts our leader he shall depend on his real youth.

"We will prove ourselves worthy of our forefathers. I hate the Americans, especially since they are almost all former Germans.

"Tonight we talked in the club among other things about the speech of Doctor Goebbels. Peter, I shall never pardon him for saying the people in territories occupied by the enemy in the west are no longer Germans, that we had, by staying here, gone over to the Americans.

"Fighterbombers are strafing over our hills again. In the distance one can hear the buzzbomb too. Just on hearing these monsters the Americans scurry for shelter. He is an altogether comical soldier. He stands guard with an umbrella. Yesterday I had to laugh out loud when he stared stupidly at me as I grinned."

In an introduction to her diary the young Nazi said, "after the Americans arrived in Monschau the older German people acquiesced fearing American punishment, but not so with Maria and her associates. They had nothing but contempt for the American soldier."

In a later entry, she said:

"I am so afraid at times. How can we stand up against all that (American materials and supplies)? I guess we will have to stand up and fight because there is no other way out."

WELDED DOORS INFLUENCE NAZIS

Paris, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—United States First Army infantrymen assaulting the Siegfried Line recently found a method of dealing with Nazis who refuse to leave their pillboxes.

A mobile acetylene torch unit crept behind one emplacement and welded the steel doors shut, sealing the Germans inside. Other Nazis in neighboring pillboxes who realized what had happened quickly became more susceptible to persuasion.

American Plan Calls for Strict Control of Nazis

7th Army Officer Pledges Harsh Regime, Without Sympathy for Civilians

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY, Feb. 16 (AP).—German civilians under the Allied Military Government of the southern part of Germany will have to hew to their own harsh Nazi laws, will be denied food imports and will be expected to feed themselves, Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Canby said today.

The former executive of the Electric Parts Company, of Wynnewood, Pa., in charge of the 7th Army's team to help rule Germany when the time comes, declared bluntly, "We have no sympathetic interest in the Germans, as we did in the Italians."

"Our military courts," he said, "will have absolute powers. Sufficiently harsh penalties—and remember, we'll base the penalties on current German standards and not on Anglo-Saxon standards—will be administered.

"If the Germans don't obey the laws, if the penalties don't convince them, the Allies may have to pass to direct control and bring in civil servants to take over the government."

Canby declined at a press conference to hazard a guess as to how long military rule would be necessary asserting, "That depends upon the co-operation the German population will give us." He said the job would be a tough one if there was passive resistance.

"Remember," he said, "we are going to do something we haven't tried before. The little strip of territory we've held in Germany hasn't given us enough scope for a pattern of what we are going to do for the inside Germany.

"We don't know what Russia is doing now in the territory it occupied, but our program anticipates no interest at all in the German population except when it interferes with military operations. Then we will be strict. It means we'll do nothing to help them. No food will be imported. The Germans will have to feed themselves."

Furthermore, Canby asserted, the Germans will be required to provide supplies for 1,100,000 displaced Europeans, mostly concentrated around the southern German cities of Munich and Nuernberg, who have been uprotted by the Nazi march of conquest.

"We are setting a minimum food scale for displaced persons at 2,000 calories daily," Canby said. "The German scale is about 1,350 calories.

"Furthermore, if it develops German foodstocks would provide their civilians with more than that average, we wouldn't let the situation remain while Belgians and others subsisted on a substandard and there were trains to carry food to them. The Germans would be forced to denude their own scale of living.

French Group Asks Report on Big Three

PARIS, Feb. 16 (AP)—The foreign affairs committee of the French consultative assembly today voted to call in Foreign Minister Georges Bidault for a report on the Crimea conference and an outlining of French policy toward the Big Three.

The committee's action coincided with the cabinet approval of messages from Bidault to the French ambassadors in Washington, London and Moscow in which he instructed them to obtain further information on the joint Anglo-American-Soviet communique issued after the meeting at Yalta.

The French government needs a clarification of details before making a decision on sponsorship of the San Francisco conference and other questions raised by the Big Three declaration, the cabinet said.

The assembly committee adopted a report by Pierre Lapie former governor of the Tchad, recommending strict economic control of Germany, particularly the Rhineland, plus the destruction of Nazi war industries under the supervision of the International Security Organization's economic council.

Famed Crillon Hotel Now Officers' Club

Paris, Feb. 16 (AP)—American front-line lieutenants who get leaves to Paris are now able to sleep in the famous Crillon Hotel, World War headquarters of General Pershing.

The hotel now is a Red Cross officers' club. The staff includes Mary Stanton, Scranton, Pa.; Elvira Hills, Scranton, and Evelyn Ritscher, Pasadena, Cal.

Members of the preliminary peace commission for the League of Nations met at the Crillon in 1919. The hotel guest book, dating back to 1909, bears the names of Winston Churchill, Herbert Hoover, Marshals Joffre and Petain, Aristide Briand, King Boris of Belgium, Anthony Eden, Charles Lindbergh, Andrew Carnegie, Theodore Roosevelt and David Lloyd George.

The German high command used it during the occupation from 1940 to 1944.

Soldier Hanged For Rape Attempt

Allied Headquarters, Paris, Feb. 16 (AP)—An American soldier convicted by an Army court martial of murder and assault with intent to rape was hanged yesterday at Plabennec, on the Brest peninsula, it was announced today.

His name was not disclosed. General Eisenhower had reviewed the case and confirmed the sentence.

AMERICAN TROOPS RETREAT IN ITALY

ROME, Feb. 16.—(AP) American troops on the extreme left flank of the Fifth army front near the Tyrrhenian coast have fallen back onto the southern slopes of Monte Canala, four miles southeast of the road hub of Massa, after enemy infiltrations threatened their outposts, Allied Headquarters announced today.

This withdrawal put the 92nd Infantry division back in the positions it held prior to its two-day attack in that area a week ago, a communique said.

Enemy radio reports said Allied reinforcements were moving up behind the Eighth army's lines along the Senio river in the southern Po Valley, but suggested that any Allied offensive likely would be held up until the weather improved.

Fair weather prevailed over the front lines yesterday, but it brought no increased activity to the mud-bound armies.

German patrols which attempted to probe American lines southeast of Bologna were knocked back by mortar fire. There were numerous other skirmishes in the same general area, in one of which an entire Nazi patrol was captured.

Brazilian Thunderbolt pilots cut railroad tracks at three points in northeastern Italy yesterday and damaged several enemy vehicles. A flight of U. S. Thunderbolts bombed and strafed the Vicenza rail yards, destroying a locomotive and 10 cars. Two heavy bombers were missing from the raid by more than 500 Fortresses and Liberators on the Vienna area.

Yanks Again Fall Back In Italy

Rome, Feb. 16 (AP)—American 5th Army troops in the Tyrrhenian coastal sector were disclosed by the Allied Command today to have made further withdrawals following German infiltrations in positions at Monte Canala.

Headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark said that enemy pressure on Monte Canala, 4 miles inland and the same distance southeast of Massa, "caused our troops to withdraw to the southern slopes of this feature."

Held Prior To Attack

"These are the positions held prior to the recent attack by our forces in the coastal sector," it was added.

This is the area in which the United States 92d Infantry Division attacked last week, but subsequently was forced to retire.

Several enemy infiltration parties were engaged yesterday.

It seemed probable that the infiltration was directed against fairly lightly-held forward American outposts. An earlier announcement had shown that the 92d, after advancing last week to the northern slopes of Monte Canala, had tried to dig in there last Saturday.

Two Nazi Thrusts Balked

On the American right flank, mortar fire bea. back an enemy thrust at United States lines near Monte Caldero. Another enemy group pulled back after running into Allied machine-gun fire on the northwest slope of Frassineto Ridge.

A third German patrol was captured near Monte Cerere. All these actions were in an area roughly a dozen miles southeast of Bologna.

Allied artillery in the mountains south of Bologna teamed with bombers in a concentrated pounding of the northern Bologna area yesterday. Several explosions and much smoke were seen among enemy installations.

Captain Soper In Command

Fifth Army headquarters announced that the United States 88th mechanized reconnaissance troop has been active in Italy for the last year under Capt. Howard M. Soper, of Jackson Heights, N.Y. The former commander, Lieut. Col. Hugh E. Quigley, of Nutley, N.J., now commands the 1st Battalion of the 349th Infantry Regiment.

The announcement, lauding the skill of the reconnaissance troop, said it lost eight men killed in action in the year, and killed a substantial number of Germans, taking 103 prisoners.

On the British 8th Army front, Allied artillery shelled German working parties along the Senio River front.

Nazi Withdrawal From Italy Seen

(By the Associated Press)

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark told the Italian people yesterday a German attempt to withdraw from Italy appeared "more and more likely."

In a special message broadcast by the Rome radio, the American commander of Allied troops in Italy said the Nazis might be trying to withdraw in view of Russian advances on the eastern front and threatening Allied blows on the west.

He said the Allied air forces, consequently, were loosing an assault against communications lines leading from northern Italy and urged patriots there to attack these lines in coordination with the Allies.

The broadcast was reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

SACRIFICED LIFE TO SAVE GUNNER

Rome, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The Medal of Honor was awarded posthumously today to Lieut. David R. Kingsley of Portland, Ore., a Fifteenth Air Force fortress bombardier who sacrificed his life for an enlisted man.

It was the first of the nation's highest decorations awarded to a member of the Fifteenth Air Force. Kingsley was cited for heroism on a mission over the Ploesti oil fields of Romania last June 23. He gave his parachute harness to a wounded tailgunner, Sgt. Michael J. Sullivan, Chicago, and went down to his death in the crippled plane.

The incident was disclosed when survivors returned months later from a Bulgar prison camp.

The citation recounted:

"'After every one else had bared the ship,' Sullivan said later, 'Lieut. Kingsley picked up my parachute harness and discovered it had been ripped by cannon fire. He did not hesitate a minute, but took off his and placed it on me. Carrying me in his arms, Lieut. Kingsley struggled to get me through the door into the bomb bay.

"'As I was floating down, I saw the fort fall off and go into a spin. It crashed, exploded and burned. The last time I saw Lieut. Kingsley, he was standing on the catwalk over the open bomb bay doors.

"'Bulgarian soldiers later showed us a charred billfold with a picture of Lieut. Kingsley and cards belonging to him. They said they had taken them from a body in the wreckage'."

Greece Removes Press Curbs

ATHENS, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Government passed a law today restoring freedom of the press to Greece. It suppresses all the limitations the Metaxas dictatorship imposed on the issuance and circulation of newspapers.

Report 70,000 Dead In Raids on Dresden

Stockholm, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraphic Bureau said today that 70,000 persons were killed in this week's Allied raids on Dresden.

The city has been cut off from all communication with the rest of Germany as a result of the destruction of the telegraph station, post office, railroad stations and High Command Headquarters, the report added.

GERMANS TO DEFEND NORWAY AT ALL COST

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16 — (AP) Reichscommissar Josef Terboven, Norway's German boss, told the Nazi-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau today that Norway "will be defended at all cost" because of its strategic value to the German war effort.

In his first press interview since he came to Oslo five years ago, Terboven sought to paint a rosy picture of Norway's future and characterized as "a curious thought" the suggestion that Germany might collapse on the continent.

"For five years," he said, "with German organization and talent we have built up Norway's defense. Since Finland's capitulation and our forced evacuation of northern Norway we are stronger than at any time before."

Russian Says Japan Lags In Training Naval Hands

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 16—Red Fleet, organ of the Russian Navy, ran a three-column article today by Capt. A. Berenfeld, declaring that the Japanese Navy was faced with a severe shortage of trained reserves.

The Soviet naval officer estimated that Japan's naval manpower exceeded 900,000 at the end of 1943, but it became necessary to call up 17-year-olds and undertake mass recruiting of Koreans because of an increasing pressure on personnel.

The Russian writer said successful Allied advances had compelled the Japanese command to recall main naval units to home waters to be ready for the defense of Japan itself.

TITO HEMS FOE IN; EXPULSION NOT AIM

Centipede-Like Front Is Said to Explain Strategy Based on Enemy's Destruction

By MAURICE WESTERN
Hilton Newspapers Correspondent

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 16 (AP)—The front in Yugoslavia looks something like a centipede, with its long narrow body, spindly legs and twin tails. It is probably the strangest front in the world today, for a strange reason. In every occupied country the great objective has been to expel the Nazis. So it was in Yugoslavia, until the British landed in Greece and the Germans, assailed on three sides, began their rapid retreat from the Balkans.

Where they intended to stop no one knows—perhaps on the Trieste-Ljubljana-Budapest line. But this much is clear, the Yugoslavs made a heroic decision, comparable with their act of defiance in March, 1941. They decided, regardless of cost, to prevent the Nazis from escaping the Balkan trap.

Instead of choosing the easy way, permitting the enemy to withdraw his divisions in haste to reinforce the Eastern and Western Fronts, they determined at whatever sacrifice to impede his passage. I do not think this decision has been properly appreciated outside of Yugoslavia. For it was made by a people whose country had been so terribly devastated that in Montenegro only two towns remained unrazed.

The Yugoslavs accepted the inevitable consequences, more burned villages, more massacres of civilians, more bombing, more thousands of killed and maimed partisans.

Mark the result. The Germans pulled out of Greece in two or three weeks without serious opposition. After more than four months, they still are held in Yugoslavia. They have not extricated those twenty divisions and they have lost thousands of men in savage fighting throughout the length and breadth of the country.

It is partly because the Germans are trying to escape that the front looks like a centipede. For many people the Yugoslav war is an incomprehensible jumble of unpronounceable Slavic names, without clear lines to indicate where the Germans are. Actually it is fairly simple.

Two-thirds of the country is completely cleared of the enemy. This includes all of Macedonia, Serbia and Montenegro, most of Dalmatia—except for a tiny strip south of Fiume—and practically all of Istria, with the exception of Trieste and certain ports.

This leaves part of Bosnia, Croatia and Slovenia. But here, too, the Germans control nothing but a few strong points and lines of communication.

Now consider the centipede. Its tails curve around Mostar, a German fortress on the Naretva River, and about Sarajevo, scene of the famous assassination that precipitated World War I. Its long, curving abdomen stretches north up the Bosna River to Brod, where it joins the trunk, a widening strip running northwest to Zagreb, Croatian capital, and Ljubljana, capital of Slovenia.

The legs of the creature are simply corridors linking the trunk with fortress towns. There is a wider paw clutching at a block of territory between the Danube and the Sava, centering on the town of Vincovci, and the corridor from Zagreb reaching to the Adriatic, south of Fiume.

Up in northeastern Slovenia strong German forces merely continue the Nazi front on the Hungarian plains. Even in occupied country partisans are active and liberated blocks are held, not by a few guerrillas, but by organized Yugoslav Army corps.

It is not quite true to say that the Germans hold their escape corridors when, in point of fact, they can move between strong points only by means of heavily armored convoys. Thus, at the present time Yugoslav armies are assailing Zagreb from the east and west. The German belt that lies in between is perhaps forty miles wide, yet information passes from one side to the other because everywhere partisans have a network of relay posts with guides in every village.

YALTA DELEGATES TO SEE DE GAULLE

Cairo, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Well-informed quarters here said today that Gen. de Gaulle would confer with the British and American delegates to the Crimea conference before they returned to their respective capitals.

The conference will relate to problems of French security after the war, it was said. Whether Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt themselves will see Gen. de Gaulle is uncertain, these sources added.

The meeting, it was said by officials, will be an "extension of the Yalta conference," and British and American officials of "considerable importance" will attend.

CHINESE ATTACKS SLASH TWO ROUTES

Japanese Are Driven From 25 Miles of Canton Railway and From Highway

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 16 (AP)—Chinese counter-attacks have knocked a twenty-five-mile gap in the rebuilt Canton-Hankow Railway, which the Japanese hope to use as an overland supply route in the coming battle for China, a Chinese Army spokesman declared today.

Maj. Gen. Kung Chi-kwang said the breach began at Pingshek, about 180 miles north of Canton, and extended to Liangtien, twenty-five miles farther north in Human Province.

Japanese attempts to detour this troublesome stretch of the railway by throwing a land route out to the east through the former United States eastern China air bases at Suichwan, Kanhsien and Namyung also have been dealt a blow, General Kung asserted. He said counter-attacks had broken through this loop with the recapture of Chihing, thirty miles east of Kukong, which is 130 miles north of Canton.

The High Command said the Japanese had struck back six miles in a counter-blow aimed at Chihing. It declared the attack was checked nine and a half miles east of Chihing.

The Japanese also are striking back seventy-five miles north of Kukong in the area of Chenhsien, attempting to safeguard positions on the Canton-Hankow railway and prevent any widening of the breach. To the northeast, the Chinese claimed gains had carried their troops to a point six miles northeast of Suichwan, the lost Fourteenth Air Force base.

General Kung said there was a large movement of Japanese troops southward from Manchuria, apparently in preparation for the expected American landings on the Chinese mainland. Some of these troops, he said, had been sent to Shanghai and other occupied ports along the coast.

CHINESE CAPTURE 25-MILE RAIL STRIP

Chungking, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Chinese troops counter-attacking in southern Hunan province have broken the Japanese hold on the Canton-Hankow Railway for almost twenty-five miles, Major-Gen. Kung Chi-kuang, official Army spokesman, said today.

The Chinese now hold the railway from Pingsnek, in Kwangtung province, northward to Liangteen, across the border in Hunan, and, in addition, he added the Chinese have broken a loop the Japanese had thrown east of the railway in an effort to surround an area of some 15,000 square miles extending from the railway town of Hengyang, in south-central Hunan, to Kukong, the fallen provisional capital of Kwangtung. This loop, linked by the enemy's capture of the former American air bases at Kanhsien, Namyung and Suichwan, was pierced by the Chinese capture of Chihing, thirty miles east of Kukong, Gen. King declared.

A wide break in the enemy's hold on the Canton-Hankow Railway would retard the enemy's progress in linking Canton and Hongkong with Manchuria and Korea. The Japanese have been repairing and rebuilding the lines for a through rail connection.

The High Command said that the Chinese attack had reached points six miles northeast of Suichwan. But the Japanese, striking toward Chihing, also made gains, the Chinese said, winning six miles along the Kwangtung-Kiangsi highway, thirty miles east of Kukong. The Chinese said that another attack on their positions nine and a half miles east of Chihing was being held. The Japanese also attacked in Hunan province east of the Canton-Hankow Railway town of Chenhsien.

WEDEMEYER HAS EYES ON TOKIO

Chungking, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer hopes to be in Tokyo in a year.

The United States commander in China received a flag today in appreciation of his services to the Chinese. Bishop Paul Yupin, senior Catholic dignitary in China, made the presentation with the assurance the Chinese people would give him a similar flag in Tokyo.

"I hope you can do that one year from now," Gen. Wedemeyer responded.

ALLIED PLANES HIT BURMA RAIL LINES

FEB 17 1945

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY Ceylon, Feb. 16.—(AP) Continuing a campaign to blockade Japanese forces in southern Burma by air as Allied ground forces press down from the north, heavy bombers of the Eastern air command wrecked or damaged three rail and highway bridges on the enemy's main overland supply lines from Thailand yesterday, headquarters announced.

A bridge on the main Burma-Thailand rail line was destroyed by direct hits, while a span on the Bangkok-Chiengmai route also was struck by bombs. A road bridge in the same area was damaged, a communique said. Other bombers attacked an enemy supply dump south of the big river port of Mandalay, on which Allied ground troops are closely pushing from the north and west. One Allied plane was lost.

(A broadcast by the Tokyo radio said 15 B-29 Superfortresses were supporting American and Chinese forces fighting in northeastern Burma. If true, this would mark the first time the great ships had been employed on tactical missions.)

Little ground action was reported in today's communique. Indian troops were said to be mopping up remaining Japanese on Ramree island off the Burma west coast with the aid of naval and air bombardment. An Indian division which won a bridgehead across the Irrawaddy river at Singu, 40 miles north of Mandalay, continued to make progress against stiff opposition.

Jap Supplies Near Mandalay Bombed

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 16 (AP)—Heavy bombers of the Eastern Air Command yesterday bombed Japanese supply dumps south of Mandalay and hammered road and rail communications feeding enemy forces on the Burma fronts, Allied headquarters announced today.

One plane was lost in the widespread operations, which included attacks on bridges on the Burma-Thailand and Bangkok-Chiengmai railways.

Headquarters reported mopping-up operations continued on Ramree Island off the Burma west coast and in the Kangaw sector of western Burma, but otherwise gave little information on ground activity.

FRANK T. HACHIYA GIVES LIFE FOR U. S.

United States Army Pacific Headquarters, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Frank T. Hachiya, 25 years old, of Portland, Ore., one of sixteen Japanese - Americans whose names have been stricken from the county memorial roll by the Hood River, Ore., American Legion post, died while performing a dangerous volunteer mission, the Army reported today. Hachiya, attached to the Seventh Division, was wounded fatally on Leyte on December 30. He died on January 3 after most of the men in his regiment had volunteered to give him blood transfusions.

Lieut. Howard Moss, Hachiya's commanding officer, said that Frank volunteered to cross a valley under Japanese fire to scout an enemy position. The regiment was in a tough spot. Information on enemy disposition was essentigl. At the bottom of the valley Frank worked ahead of his protecting patrol.

"A Jap sniper let Frank have it at close range," Lieut. Moss related. "Frank emptied his gun into the sniper. Shot through the abdomen, Frank walked back up the hill. Medics gave him plasma and started him to a hospital. He was operated on immediately, but the bullet had gone through his liver and he died."

Hachiya attended the University of Oregon. He enlisted soon after the Pearl Harbor attack. He had served through the Kwajalein and Eniwetok invasions. His father, Junkichi Hachiya, is in a War Relocation Authority camp.

Week Overdue By Air, Moffat Reaches Sydney

Lapstone, Australia, Feb. 16 (AP). Concern over the whereabouts of Abbot Low Moffat, leader of the United States delegation to the UNRRA conference in Sydney, was relieved today with his arrival here safe and sound but a week behind schedule.

Nothing had been heard from Moffat since Washington announced his departure by plane en route to the conference.

He arrived wearing a green military jungle suit, minus his baggage and his spectacles. Details of his journey were not immediately disclosed.

[A dispatch from Sydney yesterday indicated that considerable concern was felt there over Moffat's failure to arrive at the UNRRA conference on schedule. The dispatch said authorities in Washington had been cabled asking if he could be traced.

[Moffat, who lives in New York city, served for fifteen years in the New York Legislature before resigning last year to become an adviser to the State Department in liberated areas.]

Herra Hits Plan To Declare War

Montevideo, Feb. 16 (AP)—Luis Alberto de Herra, who was defeated for the presidency of Uruguay as the Blanco party candidate in 1942, indicated to newsmen last night that he would oppose the Government's decision to declare war on Germany when it comes up for ratification in Parliament. He said the declaration was a useless act, attributable to "the unlimited influence of the United States" in Latin America.

(A Montevideo radio broadcast recorded in London quoted a Madrid dispatch as saying rumors were circulating in Spanish Government circles that Argentina was contemplating a declaration of war against Germany before the United Nations conference opens in San Francisco April 25.)

Canada Abandons Civilian Defense

Ottawa, Feb. 16 (AP)—Canada's Civil Defense Committee, formed five years ago to serve in case of enemy air attacks on the Dominion or in other emergencies, has been disbanded, it was disclosed last night. Remoteness of enemy air action against Canada was given as the reason.

The Civil Defense Bulletin, published monthly by the Office of the Director of Civil Defense, carried the announcement over the signature of Brigadier Alex Ross, Director of Civil Defense. The action was taken on the advice of military advisers.

JAP GENERAL DEAD

Baron Kojiro Uchiyama, 85-year-old retired Japanese general, died of a heart attack at his home in Japan Wednesday, the Domei news agency reported today in a broadcast recorded by the FCC, the Associated Press says.

Uchiyama was Chief of Staff of the Japanese Army's First Division in the Sino-Japanese War of 1894-95, was military attache to embassies in France and Soviet Russia, and aid-de-camp to the late Emperor Yoshihito.

House Okays George Bill 399-2 In Noisy Session

FEB 17 1945

By Francis M. Le May

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace's rocky pathway into the Roosevelt cabinet was smoothed today when the House passed legislation divorcing the Commerce Department from the RFC.

Opens Way For Wallace

The bill, which opens the way for Wallace to become secretary of commerce without the vast lending powers wielded by ousted Secretary Jesse Jones, now goes to the White House.

Known as the George Bill, the legislation was passed 399 to 2 on the final rollcall, but this was no measure of the struggle over it. Shortly before that, the administration escaped defeat by a hair's breadth margin of eight votes when the House voted 204 to 196 not to recommit (shelve) the bill.

The Senate is due to vote March 1 on the Wallace nomination. Wallace backers predict he will be confirmed, whereas most legislators believe that if the George Bill had not passed he would have been rejected.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader, told a reporter late today:

Improves Chances

"It is obvious that the action of the House in passing without amendment the George Bill greatly improves the chances of Mr. Wallace's being confirmed by the Senate as secretary of commerce.

"I hope now that this matter has been settled that his confirmation will be forthcoming without further serious controversy."

In today's uproarious session, a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats sought in vain to send the George Bill back to the House Banking committee for further study. The aim was to force the Senate to vote on Wallace's confirmation not only as commerce secretary but also as RFC administrator.

In this big test on the issue, 200 Democrats, two Republicans and and two minor party members voted to save the George bill, while 22 Democrats, mostly southerners, joined 174 Republicans in the rejected recommital effort.

Two Votes Against

On final passage the only two votes against the bill were by Representatives Lemke (R-Ind.) and Wilson (R-Ind.).

Separation of the loan agencies now leaves it up to the President to appoint a new "loan administrator," to suncceed Jones as head of RFC.

The House passed the George bill just as it came from the Senate. The Republicans failed further to fence in the commerce secretaryship with these restrictive amendments:

1. To repeal President Roosevelt's war powers to reshuffle federal agencies, this being intended to prevent the President from assigning to Wallace any powers except those of a bob-tailed commerce post. This was ruled out on a point of order.

Reorganize Bank

2. To reorganize the Federal export-import Bank so as to deny the commerce secretary a seat on its board. Republicans argued that through the bank Wallace might undertake to carry through his economic philosophies on a "global basis." This likewise was ruled out of order.

Another amendment, providing strict audits of government controlled financial agencies, met the same fate. The George Bill provides for an audit of RFC.

The final vote wrote a dramatic climax to two days of House debate turning principally on the former vice president's political, economic and social philosophies.

Wallace Supporters

Wallace's supporters shouted "He is the friend of the common people,' 'and that his opposition comes principally from "cartels and big interest that cannot control him."

His enemies described Wallace as "the symbol of the Leftist movement in America," and declared the issue of state socialism vs. the American way of life was involved.

However, a segment of anti-Wallace Democrats refused to accept this statement of the issue, arguing that the important thing is to separate the loan agencies from the commerce department. They expressed fears that if the George Bill failed ,the Senate might confirm Wallace for RFC administrator as well as commerce secretary.

Some of Wallace's friends chided the Republicans, saying that by opopsing him they were building him up in the public eye.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.) of the rules committee recalled to the House that the Senate rejected Van Buren when President Jackson nominated him to be ambassador to Great Britain—and a few years later the people elected Van Buren President.

"What his friends couldn't do Van Buren, his enemies did Sabath said.

ECONOMIC TRENDS IN EUROPE ENTER TRANSITION PHASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) European economic life is moving into "phase-two"—period of transition from war to peace.

The main concern here is to prevent confusion and skyrocketing prices and channel goods where they will be of most benefit.

Here are timely indicators of the way the European economic tides are running:

Face Problems of Relief

1—United States economic experts in neutral countries are concerned primarily with how the products of those countries may be used to meet relief requirements. Informal work already has been started by the U. S. supply mission for Spain and Portugal and is one of the subjects under discussion in Switzerland by the special delegation headed by White House Representative Lauchlin Currie.

2—The Lend-Lease material now on order for Russia, France and Britain includes long-life machinery which the French and Russians particularly had sought to purchase primarily for postwar use providing they could get credits in this country. Many of the items were found to have immediate wartime uses and to be qualified under Lend-Lease. That permits manufacture to start immediately.

3—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration placed before its central committee a proposal from its London office that it undertake relief operations in Western Europe, notably Belgium and Holland, where the people are suffering from shortages of fuel, clothing and food. UNRRA officials were uncertain whether they would be able to accomplish very much since, like American military and civil authorities they blame Europe's present suffering primarily on a shortage of shipping.

4—UNRRA announced the arrival of a group of 20 of its officials and relief experts in Yugoslavia together with 150 tons of food and medical supplies furnished by Anglo-American military authorities in Italy. Officials acknowledge that this shipment is very small but say other cargoes are being prepared. Yugoslavia has been one of the critical points of UNRRA planning because of the contest between Marshal Tito inside the country and the exiled government in London. In American quarters there was apprehension for a time that Tito would not allow outside observers to come in so they could certify that relief goods were distributed in a non-political manner, as UNRRA regulations require.

Create Polish Government

5—It is expected that the creation of a government of national unity in Poland, as agreed upon by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin in the Crimea, will solve among other problems those having to do with the distribution of relief and rehabilitation supplies in Poland. It will mean the opening of Poland to outside observers.

Activities in neutral countries are especially important because of the shipping problem created by longer and fiercer German resistance than expected. The more supplies which can be purchased in Spain and Portugal, the less have to be shipped across the Atlantic. At the moment the focus of United States economic pressures for the benefit of liberated territories is in Spain and Portugal but it is the policy here that Switzerland, Sweden and Turkey also should be sources.

TRUMAN WANTS ROOSEVELT TO TELL OF YALTA

Takes Lead in Move to Ask Him to Give Congress Parley Information.

WOULD QUIET COMPLAINTS

Vandenberg Has Administration Worried by His Delay in Accepting Place.

FEB 17 1945

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Vice-President Truman took the lead today in a move to invite President Roosevelt to tell Congress all he can — without revealing military secrets — about the Big Three's agreements at Yalta.

The Vice-President has told the President's advisers he believes Mr. Roosevelt would make a ten strike by appearing personally before the legislators for a frank discussion of foreign affairs such as Prime Minister Churchill often gives the House of Commons.

The idea, given some support earlier in the week by War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, won immediate bi-partisan approval in the Senate.

Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) observed that Mr. Roosevelt hadn't talked personally to the Legislators for a long time and he thought it "would be a wonderful thing if the President could come up and tell us about this conference."

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, seconded the motion, possibly with somewhat different motives.

"I think that Congress is entitled to more details about these agreements than it now has," said he.

Complaints Still Heard.

Mr. Truman's chief interest lies in quieting the complaints still heard in some Senate quarters, despite the voluminous report on the Crimean conference, that Congressmen don't know enough about what is going on behind the diplomatic scenes.

The administration has moved recently to give members of both parties a look behind the curtain, with Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) leading a bipartisan delegation of Foreign Relations Committee members to the White House before Mr. Roosevelt left for the meeting with Mr. Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.), named by the President as a delegate to the United Nations conference in San Francisco on April 25, was one of these. But he has the administration worried now by his refusal to say whether he intends to accept the place, despite Democratic betting odds of ten to 1 that he will.

French Step Indicated.

Paris, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—There were indications last night that France is preparing to take the first step toward accepting the decisions of the Crimea conference despite official silence and undercover disappointment at the exclusion from the Big Three meeting of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

In an obviously inspired article the official French news agency's diplomatic editor said that "exceptional circumstances" would justify Allied intervention in the affairs of smaller nations, although this was contrary to "French political tradition."

This statement, it was felt, answered French critics of the Crimea plan, whereby Allied commissions would oversee the administration of nations which are torn by disputes, such as Greece and Poland.

Five of 1,800 Americans Survive Sinking of Japanese Prison Ship

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16 (AP).—The death march of Bataan was described today as "a picnic compared with two weeks spent in the 'hell-hold' of a Jap prison ship" before it was torpedoed by an Allied submarine last October. The statement was made by one of the only five survivors thus far known of 1,800 aboard, en route from the Philippines to Japan.

Lieutenant Robert S. Overbeck was not on Bataan—he was captured when Corregidor fell—but he was one of the five who lived to tell of "inhuman living conditions" on the Japanese freighter, and two of the five who were in the death march told him that what they went through on the ship was much worse.

But for the fact that Overbeck, twenty-eight years old, was a powerful swimmer and able to endure long enough to catch up with an abandoned Japanese lifeboat being driven away by a strong wind, there possibly would have been no survivors among the Allied prisoners.

He was a civil engineer just outside Manila when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. He offered his services immediately to the Army and was sent to Corregidor with the Army engineers to help build beach defenses. After Corregidor fell, he was taken to Cabanatuan prison camp on Luzon, and later was transferred to Bilibid prison in Manila. On Oct. 11, 1944, he was put aboard the 5,000-ton Japanese freighter.

There were 1,800 men, Overbeck said, crammed into a space nine feet high, fifty feet wide and ninety feet long, divided into three tiers each three feet high. They couldn't even sit erect.

Their ship hid in islands near by until Oct. 20. The heat was almost unbearable, with the sides of the ship "so hot nobody could touch them as the men lay naked."

Japanese machine guns were trained on a tiny entrance to the hold, so small that only one man could pass through at a time. Only ten men who cooked rice for them were allowed on deck. They got only about two handsful of rice a day and had so little "dirty water" to drink they couldn't eat that.

They were told they were headed for Japan as part of a convoy guarded by some Japanese destroyers. On Oct. 24, four days later, their ship was torpedoed in the China Sea about 250 miles off the China coast.

"The Japs took the two lifeboats aboard as all 300 abandoned ship, but not before cutting ropes leading into the forward hold where 600 prisoners had been moved to lie on loose coal," Overbeck said. "The ropes were the only means of escape.

"For about fifteen seconds there was panic among us, but there were five or six chaplains who prayed fervently and quieted the men. The chaplains were great fellows."

Overbeck and others in his hold climbed to the deck where they saw many Japanese in the water with their own destroyers picking them up.

"When the torpedoing happened," he said, "most of the Americans didn't care a bit—they were that tired and weak and sick. Immediately we threw ropes into that forward hold to the 600 there.

"As darkness settled and our hopes for life flickered, we felt absolutely no resentment for the Allied submarine that had sent the torpedo crashing in. We knew that they could not tell who was aboard the freighter, and as far as the Navy could have known the ship could have been carrying Jap troops."

Overbeck later swam toward an enemy destroyer and grabbed iron rings. Laboriously he clambered upward and got his shoulders to the deck. Six Japanese ran up with clubs, beating him back into the water, one lick laying his left arm open. They did not shoot at the Allied prisoners, he said, but they did throw things at them from the destroyers. Then the survivors saw the abandoned lifeboat.

"Thirty-five of us began swimming toward it," said Overbeck. "I've always been a pretty powerful swimmer. I swam after it for about a mile as the wind kept driving it away in a fairly heavy sea. I finally caught it, but probably wouldn't have made it if it hadn't been low and heavy with water. I was the only one to get there."

He later picked up the four others, Sergeant Avery E. Wilber, of Navarino, Wis.; Corporal Anton E. Cichi, of New York Mills, Minn.; Corporal Don E. Meyer, of Wilmington, Calif., and Master Sergeant Calvin R. Graef, of Silver City, N. M.

Japan Silent on Sinking

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP).—Reports that a Japanese prison ship carrying approximately 1,800 Americans was torpedoed and presumably sunk last October have been given to the War Department by five survivors.

The department, disclosing this today, said it has received no confirmation from the Japanese, but has asked for the names of the prisoners who might have been aboard such a vessel. "No response has been received up to this time," a statement said.

The sinking, if confirmed, would be the second involving a Japanese ship carrying Allied prisoners. Last Sept. 7 a ship carrying approximately 750 prisoners was torpedoed off Mindanao in the Philippines. There were eighty-three survivors.

Allies Not to Deal With Nazis

Final Surrender Demands Expected to Go to German Field Commanders.

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The Allies are expected to deal with German field commanders—not the Nazi Government or the Wehrmacht's general staff—when the hour comes for imposing unconditional surrender terms on the beaten enemy.

This was suggested in competent quarters today as the answer to one question arising out of the Yalta conference announcement.

The Big Three conferees said the unconditional surrender terms would be imposed after German armed resistance had been crushed, but did not specify to what German or Germans the terms would be presented. The declaration apparently ruled out both the government and the general staff by emphasizing the intention to destroy both.

In accepting capitulation from whatever field commanders are leading German forces at the fighting fronts at the day of surrender, it is expected the terms will be confined to those of purely military aspect. Commitments of a political nature would be left for other individuals or groups.

The report that surrender demands probably would be directed to German field commanders instead of any Nazi or general staff group left still obscured the status of the Free Germany Committee. This group was set up in Russia some time ago to influence the German people and more especially the German soldiers in giving up the war. Reportedly, the committee contains a number of the older class of Junker officers, captured by the Russians.

Russia has been reported to view the committee as the logical nucleus for a post-war group representing the German people. Whether she continues to adhere to this view after the meeting between Premier Stalin, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill is one of the questions for which those not parties to the Big Three conference await an answer.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today 1,835 casualties in the European area.

In all of these cases next of kin have been previously notified and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

U. S.-Finland Mail Resumed

Service Also Restored to 3 Baltic States, Poland and Romania

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP).—The Post Office Department announced that mail service was resumed today between the United States and Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and parts of Poland and Romania.

Service to Poland, Finland, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania is limited to letters not exceeding one ounce and to non-illustrated postcards.

FEB 17 1945

Service to Bessarabia and parts of Bukovina and Moldavia (all in Romania but now under jurisdiction of the Soviet Union) includes letters, postcards, printed matter, samples of merchandise and commercial papers. The announcement said that mail addressed to these areas should include "Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

3,447,000 Tons Of Lend-Lease Aided Red Drive

Land Reveals Shipment of Food, Shells and Trucks During Last Half of '44

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP).—Russia's winter drive into Germany, Admiral Emory S. Land informed Congress today, was bolstered by 3,447,000 tons of lend-lease cargo shipped during the last six months of 1944.

Urging extension of the lend-lease program for another year beyond its June 30 expiration date, the head of the War Shipping Administration told the House Foreign Affairs Committee the shipments to Russia were "substantially in excess" of earlier goals.

They included, he said, urgently needed foodstuffs for the Red armies, munitions, equipment for Soviet war industries, railway equipment and motor trucks.

"The steady flow of this cargo has unquestionably had substantial influence in bolstering the Soviet war effort," Admiral Land declared, "particularly with respect to critical items which they are unable to procure themselves. Without this material support over the last several years it is questionable if the Soviet armies would have attained their present great striking power."

Shipping losses in the supply routes to Russia, Admiral Land told the committee, "are now negligible on both the north Russia and Mediterranean routes."

He said the war supplies move into Russia through routes to Murmansk, Archangel and the Black Sea. The latter service was inaugurated early this year and places cargo directly at Russian railheads at Odessa and other Black Sea ports.

He said merchant shipping still is in "critical short supply and probably will continue so until the war in Europe and the Pacific is won."

"The magnitude of the shipping job being performed by vessels under United Nations control," he said, "is demonstrated by the volume of exports from the United States in 1944 totaling 77,508,000 long tons."

This, he said, represented an increase of 27 per cent over 1943 and the equivalent of the carrying capacity of more than 2,000,000 freight cars and 600,000 tank cars.

FEA Sends Goldwyn On Mission Abroad

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Samuel Goldwyn, motion picture producer, is going to England to undertake a special mission for the Foreign Economic Administration. FEA declined to give any further information.

Nazi 'Bait' A Hero

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Here's a real hero: A doughboy who risked his life to warn his comrades of a German trap in which he was being used as the bait.

He is Pfc. Leo T. Zingale, of Cleveland. The War Department today announced it has awarded him the Distinguished Service Cross.

Zingale's squad was advancing against a German machine-gun position in France last July 10, when he was wounded.

An artillery barrage forced the squad to fall back, but Zingale was unable to withdraw.

German machine-gunners seized him and placed him in open ground 30 feet from their three guns, hoping to lure Zingale's buddies in to help him.

Zingale, realizing the danger to his comrades, struggled to his feet and shouted:

"Fire right at me, boys. Fire at me and you'll hit the Heinie machine guns."

Then he flopped to the ground, just as his squad fired into the machine-gun nest.

He kept on directing the fire until al the enemy gunners were wiped out.

"His unselfish act," said the citation, "in preventing his comrades from falling into a trap enabled them to continue the attack and reach their objectives."

POSTHUMOUS HONOR FOR KENNEDY'S SON

Boston, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Posthumous award of the Navy Cross to Lieut. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., who died on a voluntary air mission in Europe, August 12, was announced last night by a family secretary.

The medal, the Navy's highest honor next only to the Congressional Medal of Honor, will be presented to Mrs. Kennedy some time next month in a Boston Navy Yard ceremony.

The former Ambassador to the Court of St. James's and Mrs. Kennedy now are in New York.

The citation accompanying the award reads in part, the announcement said:

"For extreme heroism and courage in aerial flight as pilot of a United States Liberator bomber on August 12, 1944.

"Well knowing the extreme danger involved and totally unconcerned for his own safety, Lieut. Kennedy unhesitatingly volunteered to conduct an exceptionally hazardous and special operational mission. He willingly risked his life in the supreme measure of service."

Lieut. Kennedy was the eldest son. Another son, Lieut. John F. Kennedy, won a similar award for heroism as the commander of a PT boat in the Pacific.

Congress Medal for Lt. Wigle

Posthumous Award Presented to Wife of Former Violinist.

DETROIT, Feb. 16 (AP).—The Congressional Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military award, was presented today to the wife of Lieutenant Thomas W. Wigle, of Detroit, former concert violinist, killed in action in Italy on Sept. 14, 1944.

Major General Russel B. Reynolds, commanding general of the 6th Service Command, gave the award to Mrs. Margaret H. Wigle and her two-year-old daughter, Diana.

General Reynolds, lauding Lieutenant Wigle's courage in assaulting a German stronghold that had delayed the Allied advance in Italy, said "his action was an example for all Americans and all of us, whether in the armed forces or at home, owe him an eternal debt of gratitude."

Senators Asking Overseas Base, Trade Policies

FEB 17 1945

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—A bipartisan senatorial group challenged the State Department today to evolve a national policy for advancing foreign trade and protecting overseas investments in air bases and radio stations.

Asserting that this country has stood too long "in the shadow of the British," Senator Chandler (D., Ky.) indorsed the suggestion of Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) that "it is up to the State Department to take over."

Brewster In Agreement

Agreeing with their view, Senator Brewster (R., Maine) said that the State Department "should come to Congress for any statutory authority it needs."

The interviews came on the heels of a War Investigating Committee's report by Senators Tunnell (D., Del.) and Burton (R., Ohio). They reported that the United States virtually has no postwar rights in radio stations and airbases it has constructed all over the globe.

"Your committee believes that never again will the United States have an opportunity to share in world trade such as is offered to us by circumstances prevailing in the Mediterranean and Middle Eastern areas," said the senators, just back from hearings in those regions.

"No Real Titles"

They pointed out that the United States has airports and radio stations in which it has no real titles, and added:

"Our commerce may be limited by lack of commercial treaties, by an entire absence of the right to trade with many of the nations of the world.

"Our airlines do not have any commercial rights in most of the Mediterranean area."

Chandler said that it is up to the State Department to lead the way to the resumption of commercial efforts and proper negotiations for continuation of the use of American-financed facilities in the area.

"Take Over, Abandon, Retreat"

"We ought to quit winning back possessions for other nations, then moving out and going home," he continued.

"All we've done is take over, abandon and retreat. The British are always on hand to take over possession and control."

NAVY REVEALS NEW AVIATION PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP) Naval aviation cadets who "washed out" in advanced flight training will be given "special opportunity to enter certain fields in the aeronautical organization for which they are particularly qualified."

"Once a man is dropped from the Pilot Training program, no matter how cogent the reasons, there is inevitably a major morale problem in effecting his transition from aviation-cadet status to general enlisted status in the Navy," officials in charge of the program said today.

"After careful deliberation, recommendations were made which resulted in the establishment of a special reclassification center for former aviation cadets and other officer candidates at the Naval Training center, Great Lakes, Ill."

This center handles such men entirely apart from men recruits, giving each man a program of tests and interviews to determine the type of activity for which he is best qualified. Former aviation cadets are given special opportunity to remain in the aeronautical organization if they so desire. The men are also given certain minimum "retraining."

Among the fields in which former aviation cadets are given special opportunity are aircrews, aerology, aerial photography, ground maintenance of airplanes, control tower operation and radar.

"In addition," officials said, "consideration is now being given to a program whereby men who fail the pilot training course will be eligible to apply for training leading to a commission as non-pilot navigator. Certain educational and other qualifications must be met, of course, to enter this training."

The Navy announced last month it planned partially to restore the Pilot Training program cut back in June, 1944, but only those aviation cadets and student aviation pilots who were separated from the pre-flight stages of the program while in good standing and because of quota restrictions would be readmitted.

Army May Be Handling War Work Dodgers

Procedure Established To Administer Byrnes' Directive.

FEB 17 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Men under 38 who dodge war work may wind up doing it anyhow in Army uniform at Army pay, the War Department implied today.

The department laid down this procedure for administering the work-or-else directive of James F. Byrnes:

Those who quit war jobs without permission or refuse to take one will be inducted, regardless of their physical qualifications.

They will be given four weeks basic military training, immediately. The physically able will go on from there as soldiers.

Will Get Training

Those unable to measure up to Army standards will get their training at Camp Ellis, Ill., near Peoria. A sizeable group is scheduled to arrive there in a few days. They will be indoctrinated in military courtesy, discipline and rifle marksmanship.

The physically disqualified then will be given a chance to volunteer for essential work. Those who do will be given an inactive status in the enlisted reserve. That means they are out of the Army, but subject to recall.

Those who fail to volunteer, but who possess needed skills, may be put to work then in government-owned plants. Lacking skills and still failing to volunteer, they will be assigned to Army installations.

The department said those who would be forced into government plants would be in uniform. That means Army pay scales.

Byrnes Directive

The Byrnes directive applies to men under 38. It is aimed at those who have been deferred, principally as 4Fs, and haven't sought to participate in the war effort by working in an essential industry.

Meanwhile the Senate military committee completed hearings on the limited national service bill after two weeks of conflicting opinions, attempted compromises and efforts to substitute less stringent controls.

As the House passed the bill it provides jail penalties for men aged 18 through 45 who refuse to work at war jobs, but there have been indications the committee will rewrite it.

The committee today asked the War Department to survey the draft eligibility of 264,000 of its civilian employes. Acting Chairman Johnson (D-Colo) said the Army was unable to say why it had so many draft-age employes.

an answer." It was then that the committee requested the survey of all the male employees under 38.

Senator Johnson predicted that the committee will report out some kind of a man power bill next week.

OPA Charges Sabotage In Clothing Program

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—There were two versions today of whether attempts have been made to sabotage the Government's low-cost clothing program.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles said indirectly that such an attempt has been made by a special advocate for a group of textile manufacturers.

Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production Board declared, on the other hand, he was shocked by reports of sabotage which reached him as the order implementing the joint OPA-WPB program was being signed.

Agree On Production Plans

Both agencies and the committee of industry representatives are in complete agreement on plans for increased production and lower prices for essential garments, Krug told a news conference yesterday.

The WPB chief said: "One of the most amazing jobs has been done" in whipping the program into shape along lines announced last month. This calls for diversion of about 75 per cent of all civilian fabric to medium and low priced clothing.

"Pressure Campaign"

Man Power Hearings Close

But Senate Committee Asks Report on War Department's Civilian Workers.

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The Senate Military Committee wound up hearings on limited national service legislation today by asking the War Department to survey the draft eligibility of 264,000 of its civilian employees.

Acting Chairman Johnson (D.-Col.) said the hearings, which lasted two weeks, definitely are at an end and that the committee will meet early next week to discuss the House-approved work-or-jail bill and various proposed amendments and substitutes.

The members spent more than two and a half hours today questioning Lieut.-Gen. Thomas Handy, deputy chief of staff, about the War Department's 1,178,000 civilian employees. That total includes 641,000 men and 537,000 women.

Of the 60,000 male civilian employees between the ages of 18 and 25, Gen. Handy reported that the department had sought occupational deferments for only fifty-six men. In the group of 55,000 men between 26 and 29, there were 11,990 official deferment requests. The number of requests for the 149,000 men from 30 through 37 was not available.

Senator Johnson said the committee asked Gen. Handy why he had so many draft-age employees, but "he couldn't give us zance of published reports of sabotage, brought up the subject in a letter to members of the print cloth group of cotton manufacturers. In it he said that the executive director, William P. Jacobs, of Clinton, S.C., "has been waging a pressure campaign" with members of Congress and various Government agencies "to secure higher prices for cotton textiles and prevent wage increases" in the industry.

Bowles said these objectives were disclosed in a letter Jacobs wrote to textile manufacturers last month.

Referring to the low cost clothing program, Bowles continued:

"I cannot believe that the thinking members of the cotton textile manufacturing industry would countenance any plan concocted by Mr. Jacobs or other lobbyists in their employ to sabotage this necessary wartime program."

Terming the textile industry "as patriotic as any other group," Bowles said he is confident its members "will join in condemnation of the tactics which Mr. Jacobs says he is using."

Bowles said he desired to "nail and nail hard" two of "many gross inaccuracies" in Jacobs's "progress report."

Denies Influence Of Lobby

These, he said, were assertions that a lobby had "succeeded in holding OPA off on final textile ceilings" until the industry wage issue before the War Labor Board is settled, and that the OPA chief and an aide showed "the effect of pressure from higher up."

Bowles said the ceilings had been delayed, but "not because of any action by Mr. Jacobs . . . or because of the pending wage case." He said the ceilings would be announced soon, "irrespective of how or when the wage question is settled."

"Not Any Pressure"

On the matter of pressure from higher up, Bowles said this "could not be true, because there hasn't been any such pressure."

Referring to a conference he had with Jacobs, Bowles said he had agreed with a statement at that time by Jacobs that "the cotton textile industry in the past has been very badly represented in Washington."

"After reading Mr. Jacobs's letter, I am bound to say that the industry's representation does not seem to be improving as I had hoped," Bowles said.

Krug Lauds Labor On Strike Record

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Labor's strike record since Pearl Harbor is described as "quite remarkable" by Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production Board in a letter made public yesterday by Representative Ludlow (D., Ind.).

Declaring that the number of man-days lost due to strikes has declined over the period from 1942 to 1944, Krug expressed confidence in the "readiness of labor to cooperate in any steps that can be shown to be necessary and reasonable in order to increase military production."

Decline Shown, He Says

"Historically . . . strike activity has increased with growth in industrial activity," he stated. "Instead of increasing, however, the number has declined over the period 1942, 1943 and 1944. A preliminary estimate through November, 1944, shows that 0.1 per cent of available working days were lost because of strikes."

Krug's letter dated February 3 was written to Ludlow in answer to a request from the Indiana Congressman for his opinion on labor's part in winning the war.

Labor's Contribution Cited

"Labor's contribution to the war effort," Krug replied, "may be measured by the degree to which labor has mobilized for war work, the extent to which labor's voluntary effort has kept strikes, labor turnover, and absenteeism to a minimum, and the way in which labor has rallied to help solve production problems, manpower shortages, and other situations affecting critical war production, through local labor-management committees, and similar groups."

Krug made the following other observations:

Munitions production has nearly quadrupled over the period January, 1942, to December, 1943, while employment in munitions increased roughly 70 per cent.

Volume Increased

During the three years ended last December monthly production volume increased eleven times.

Output per worker as of April, 1944, was 30 to 35 per cent over December, 1942.

May Exempt Nurses Under 20 in Draft

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—The House Military Committee voted today to exclude nurses under 20 from the group it proposes to draft for military service. It left unchanged the maximum age limit, 45, as it upped the minimum from 18 to 20.

The committee also broadened the draft proposal to bring within its scope many nurses who have failed to register with their State boards, as well as those who are registered. Representative May (D.-Ky.), the chairman, predicted final committee approval for the legislation tomorrow.

All-Purpose Field Pack Is Developed by Army

50 Soldiers Marched 70 Miles in Helping to Test It

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP).—Development of a new all-purpose field pack, which soldiers themselves helped design, was announced today by the War Department.

Fifty soldiers of different sizes and weights marched ten miles a day for seven days carrying various combinations of packs and equipment before the new design was selected.

It is a combination of a combat pack and a cargo pack. The combat pack, containing toilet articles, mess kit and two days' rations, is normally carried into battle. The cargo pack, which carries an extra blanket, tenting equipment and similar articles, is left in a rear area until needed. The cargo pack alone resembles an ordinary canvas week-end bag.

A miniature ice-cream factory, capable of operating in a 120-degree temperature, has been developed by the Army to supply ice cream to troops in the tropics.

The machine weighs only 1,200 pounds and can be transported by truck or plane, the War Department said. It is equipped with a two and a half gallon freezer that produces ice cream in seven to fourteen minutes and with storage cabinets of forty gallons capacity.

Questions Stimson On Junking Plan

Washington, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Representative Engel (R.-Mich.) asked Secretary of War Stimson today if it was true that American troops shifted from Europe to the Pacific after Germany's defeat will leave the bulk of their equipment behind and will be armed anew. Mr. Engel declared that if this reported plan is an established War Department policy he may attempt to strike from the next War Department appropriation bill all new material and equipment which would be bought under such a policy.

In a letter to Secretary Stimson the Congressman asked the Secretary to submit to Congress a list of material which the Government intends to purchase under this reported plan and its cost.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—The Air Transport Command's "Fireball Express," winged supply line rushing war materials from Miami Army Air Field to India, chalked up the tenth million mile for C-87 Liberators along the route this week. The historic mile was recorded over the Atlantic on a trip between Ascension Island and Natal, Brazil, by a plane piloted by Capt. Leo J. Webber of Buffalo, N. Y.

Petrillo Union And KSTP Sign Wage Accord

Minneapolis Radio Station to Hire 8 Musicians at $52, Leader to Get $75

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 16 (AP).—The ten-month-old strike dispute between radio station KSTP and the Minneapolis Musicians' Association, Local 73, has been settled, subject to approval by the Minneapolis wage and hour division of the War Labor Board, it was announced today by George Murk, president of the union.

A two-year contract providing for the employment at the Minneapolis studio of a minimum of eight musicians at a minimum of $52 a week, with the leader receiving at least $75, was agreed upon by the station and the union. The station will employ only union musicians.

Dispute Began in 1944

The dispute between radio station KSTP and the Minneapolis Musicians' Association began in April, 1944, when James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, declined to allow union members to work at the Minneapolis studio unless a minimum staff of eight musicians and three record turners were employed at a salary of $52.50 a week for a twenty-two-hour week.

The musicians refused to obey directives of the National and Chicago War Labor Boards to return to work.

Last month Stanley E. Hubbard, president of KSTP, appealed to William H. Davis, chairman of the W. L. B., to take over the Petrillo union and have the Army operate it because of non-compliance with W. L. B. orders as in the Montgomery Ward case. At the same time Mr. Hubbard said he thought the board and Mr. Davis were "afraid of Petrillo."

Mr. Davis informed Mr. Hubbard that "there is no provision in law for the seizure of a union."

In another move directed at the Petrillo union, a bill was introduced in the House of Representatives last week to bring "illegitimate" activities of labor unions under provisions of the anti-trust laws. The measure would prohibit "featherbedding," by outlawing requirement of "standby" musicians who are not legitimately needed by broadcasting stations.

Settlement of the KSTP dispute marks a bowing to the demands of Mr. Petrillo by the station, just as the recording industry and other radio stations have fallen into line with his take-it-or-leave-it propositions, designed to keep as many musicians as possible employed at prevailing union wage scales.

Singer, Hurt, Denies Purple Heart Award

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Singer Jane Froman, answering charges by Representative Marion T. Bennett (R., Mo.), asserted today that neither she nor any other performer "who volunteered his services to entertain (service men) and may have been injured or lost his life has ever received the Purple Heart."

FEB 1 1945

Bennett on February 9 told the House in a speech inserted in the Congressional Record he was "shocked" to learn that the Purple Heart award "has been distributed with such reckless abandon in this war that dogs and blues singers are receiving it."

Miss Froman's denial was contained in a telegram to Bennett, the text of which was made public by her publicity representative, George Evans.

Denies Receiving Decoration

"You are . . . quoted as saying that Jane Froman, singer, was awarded the Purple Heart when she was injured in the plane crash in Lisbon while touring army camps abroad," the telegram said. "...I have never received any compensation, awards or rewards and I have never requested or desired them."

The singer said that "being a Missourian myself I find it strange that any representative Missourian should so stray from the tradition of our State 'Show me, I'm from Missouri,' and instead of getting the facts, accept a half truth or a fiction."

Miss Froman said she was "sure that in these trying times there is much a legislative representative can do by way of constructive ideas and action rather than take the time to thoughtlessly injure a group of people who are giving so unselfishly."

Questions His Contribution

"If your action in this instance is indicative of your legislative contribution to the war effort," she concluded, "I dare say the contributions of the theatrical profession will make a brighter page in our history books than your record as a member of the House of Congress. Possibly the cloak of immunity which is yours as a member of the House made you careless and was the basis of your vicious distortion of fact."

Miss Froman said she had spent, as a result of the Lisbon plane crash, "the better part of two years in hospitals," and had paid all her own hospital and doctor bills.

Plant Head Refuses To Rehire Men In Stoppage Dispute

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—John M. Aufiero, president and general manager of the E. A. Laboratories, said yesterday he would close the plant rather than rehire a group of men he asserted was responsible for a work stoppage last September.

Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director, announced in Washington earlier the cancellation of the firm's war contracts and priority assistance on the ground the company had "persistently refused" to comply with War Labor Board orders.

Directed To End Stoppage

The company's approximately 560 employés began a work stoppage September 22, 1944, and four days later the firm offered to rehire them on a "new employment basis."

Later the WLB directed the United Automobile Workers (CIO) to end the stoppage and the company to reinstate the employés involved with any disciplinary action being referred to the grievance procedure of the contract.

The company, contended, however, that the contract had been abrogated by the stoppage and that it was free to choose former employés on an individual basis, and as new employés.

"Won't Recognize Union"

"I will close my plant before I rehire those who were responsible for the work stoppage," Aufiero said. "I won't recognize the union, for there is no union here. Since the people went back to work, they do not want anything to do with the union."

He said previously the men concerned were "associates" of three union officials convicted last August of attempting to extort money from him and sentenced to one year in prison. They are now free under bail pending an appeal.

B-29 Wreckage Being Located In Flushing Bay

Baseball Manager's Son Killed as Pilot—Four Crew Members Lost.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Wreckage of the Superfortress that crashed and exploded in Flushing Bay was located today, spurring hopes for early recovery of the bodies of Maj. Billy Southworth, Jr., of Sunbury, Ohio, and four other missing crew members.

A section believed to be the giant bomber's nose and cabin was found less than 24 hours after the plane, en route to Florida from Mitchell Field, N. Y., overshot La Guardia Field in an attempted emergency landing and plunged into the bay.

First Army Air Force officials, who took charge of the salvage work, said the five bodies probably were in the wreckage "in that locality." Four other crew members and a civilian passenger were rescued.

Son of Manager

Southworth, 27, son of William H Southworth, St. Louis Cardinals manager, was the B-29's pilot. Holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters, he returned to the United States late in 1943 after piloting the Flying Fortress "winning run" in a tour of operations over Europe.

One of the first professional baseball players to join the Army Air Forces, the handsome young Southworth had been offered a motion picture contract by Producer Hunt Stromberg—to take effect when he returned from the service. In 1939, as a member of the Rome, N. Y., team, he was named the most valuable player in the Canadian-American League.

The others missing were identified by the Army as First Lt. Carl D. Magee, Las Vegas, Nev.; First Lt. Martin LiCursi, Hulberton, N. Y.; Second Lt. Ralph Lewis Stickle, Butler, N. J.; and Stf. Sgt. Joseph Yabrodi, New York.

Survivors were listed at W. A. Burkus, technical expert for the Bendix corporation, South Bend, Ind.; T-Sgt. Lewis Munford, Detroit; Maj. W. L. Anken, Grand Island, Neb.; Second Lt. R. M. Worcester, Pasadent, Calif; and Pvt. Howard Card, Riverdale, N. J.

WHETHER THE GERMANS COULD DEPLOY THEIR FORCES TO STAVE OFF BOTH THREATS FOR VERY LONG REMAINED TO BE SEEN.

AS THE TWO POWERFUL RUSSIAN ARMIES THUS WERE JOCKEYING THE ENEMY TROOPS INTO POSITION FOR THE EVENTUAL KNOCKOUT BLOW AGAINST THE GERMAN CAPITAL THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH AIR FORCES WERE LENDING A STRONG HELPING HAND.

U.S.HEAVY BOMBERS YESTERDAY DROPPED SOME 1,500 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON COTTBUS, AN ENEMY COMMUNICATIONS CENTER 43 MILES SOUTHWEST OF FRANKFURT AND ONLY 12 MILES AHEAD OF A KONEV SPEARHEAD THAT BERLIN REPORTED AT FORST.

IN SWEEPING TO SOMMERFELD, MARSHAL KONEV INVADED BRANDENBURG, BERLIN'S HOME PROVINCE, AT A NEW POINT. HIS RAPID ADVANCE--ACROSS THE BOBER, LUEBST AND QUEIS RIVERS--ALSO OVERRAN SORAU, 13 MILES SOUTHEAST OF SOMMERFELD, AND GRUENBERG, 25 MILES SOUTHEAST OF SOMMERFELD.

BY GERMAN ACCOUNT, KONEV WAS EVEN CLOSER TO BERLIN THAN SOMMERFELD. THE ENEMY SAID HIS TROOPS ALREADY HAD CROSSED THE NEISSE RIVER AT A POINT ONLY 57 MILES FROM THE GERMAN CAPITAL. THE BRESLAU-BERLIN SUPERHIGHWAY WAS DECLARED CUT ON BOTH SIDES OF FORST, A CITY BEYOND THE NEISSE.

RUSSIAN FRONT DISPATCHES SAID KONEV'S LEFT WING HAD THRUST TO WITHIN 45 MILES OF DRESDEN, CAPITAL OF SAXONY, AFTER REACHING THE NEISSE RIVER IN THE AREA OF GOERLITZ.

DRESDEN AGAIN WAS ATTACKED FROM THE AIR YESTERDAY, THIS TIME BY 200 AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS. THEIR EXPLOSIVES RAISED TO 4,000 TONS THE WEIGHT OF BOMBS DROPPED ON THAT CITY SINCE THE FIRST LARGE-SCALE RAF ATTACK TUESDAY NIGHT. A STOCKHOLM DISPATCH SAID DRESDEN WAS A "BURNING INFERNO."

KONEV'S ARMY YESTERDAY CAPTURED 2,000 GERMANS AND 120 PARKED PLANES, A MOSCOW COMMUNIQUE SAID. THE CAPTURE OF THE PLANES WAS A FURTHER INDICATION OF GERMANY'S INCREASING GASOLINE SHORTAGE.

A RUSSIAN FRONT DISPATCH SAID THE RED ARMY ADVANCE WAS SO SWIFT AND OVERWHELMING THAT GERMAN TROOPS WERE BEING SPLIT UP AND CUT OFF. THE WITHDRAWING ENEMY WAS LEAVING GREAT QUANTITIES OF EQUIPMENT BEHIND.

AHEAD OF THE RUSSIANS, "SEVERAL MILLIONS" OF REFUGEES ARE SWARMING INTO THE CENTRAL REICH, BERLIN ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT. THE GERMAN DNB NEWS AGENCY SAID MANY WERE PERISHING IN THE WINTRY WINDS. MOST OF THE MARCHERS, DNB SAID, WERE WOMEN, CHILDREN AND THE AGED, THE MEN ALL HAVING BEEN TAKEN INTO THE VOLKSSTURM (HOME ARMY).

AN INDICATION THAT THE GERMANS WERE DRAWING IN THEIR TROOPS REMAINING IN YUGOSLAVIA TO HELP WITH THE DEFENSE OF GERMANY PROPER CAME FROM ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY.

LOSSES IN THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE'S OPERATIONS ON WEDNESDAY, WHEN 2,200 PLANES DELIVERED THE OPENING DAYLIGHT BLOW OF THE NEW ASSAULT ON GERMANY, WERE ANNOUNCED AS EIGHT BOMBERS AND FIVE FIGHTERS. LOSSES ANNOUNCED FOR YESTERDAY WERE REVISED DOWNWARD FROM 15 TO 12 BOMBERS AND FROM SIX TO TWO FIGHTERS.

IN A JOINT STATEMENT THE U.S.AIR FORCES AND THE BRITISH AIR MINISTRY REPORTED THAT GERMAN GASOLINE PRODUCTION HAD BEEN REDUCED BY MORE THAN 80 PER CENT IN THE PAST 10 MONTHS.

"HOW MUCH OIL SUPPLY DIFFICULTIES HAVE HAMPERED THE WEHRMACHT AND THE LUFTWAFFE ON ALL FRONTS WILL NOT BE KNOWN FULLY UNTIL AFTER THE WAR," THE STATEMENT SAID, "BUT AMPLE EVIDENCE ALREADY HAS COME TO LIGHT THAT THEY HAVE BEEN A FOREMOST FACTOR IN DETERMINING GERMAN STRATEGY."

THE FRENCH TELEGRAPH AGENCY SAID "GENERAL STUMPF, COMMANDER OF THE LUFTWAFFE ON THE WESTERN FRONT, ADDRESSED AN ORDER OF THE DAY TO GERMAN SQUADRON LEADERS SAYING THAT BECAUSE OF THE LACK OF GASOLINE SQUADRONS SHOULD NOT GO UP FOR COMBAT."

THE FAILURE OF THE LUFTWAFFE TO OFFER ANY SERIOUS OPPOSITION TO ALLIED PLANES SINCE JAN.14 WHEN 186 NAZI CRAFT WERE DESTROYED REMAINED A LEADING TOPIC FOR SPCULATION BY AIR OFFICERS.

ONE EIGHTH AIR FORCE STAFF OFFICER SAID, "IF THE LUFTWAFFE HAS BEEN SHIFTED TO THE EASTERN FRONT YOU WOULD THINK THE GERMANS WOULD CONSIDER IT WORTHWHILE TO PULL SOME PLANES BACK A SHORT WAY TO HELP PROTECT SUCH VITAL CITIES AS BERLIN, DRESDEN, CHEMNITZ AND COTTBUS. STILL WE POUNDED THEM WITHOUT LUFTWAFFE INTERFERENCE.

"PERHAPS THEY ARE HOARDING THEIR PLANES FOR A LAST DESPERATE BLOW, BUT IT SEEMS IF THEY WERE DOING THAT NOW IS THE TIME TO COME OUT OF HIDING. MAYBE LACK OF PILOTS OR GASOLINE IS THE ANSWER."

LONDON, FEB 16-(AP)-THE GERMAN RADIO GAVE ITS VERSION TONIGHT OF THE RECENT CORRESPONDENCE IN WHICH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL RAPPED THE KNUCKLES OF GENERALISSIMO FRANCO OF SPAIN AND THEN CONCLUDED THE BROADCAST CRYPTICALLY BY REPORTING THAT "SPANISH CIRCLES" HAD BEEN ATTEMPTING TO ESTABLISH CONTACT WITH ENGLAND BUT HAD FAILED.

THE TRANSOCEAN BROADCAST DID NOT EXPLAIN WHAT IT MEANT BY THIS BUT THERE HAVE BEEN REPORTS FROM TIME TO TIME THAT THE GERMANS MIGHT ATTEMPT TO PUT OUT PEACE FEELERS THROUGH SPAIN.

THE DISPATCH QUOTED A SPOKESMAN FOR NAZI FOREIGN MINISTER VON RIBBENTROP AS SAYING THE ATTEMPT AT A CONTACT HAD BEEN A FAILURE.

CONCERNING THE CHURCHILL CORRESPONDENCE, THE BROADCAST SAID FRANCO HAD NOT WRITTEN THE PRIME MINISTER DIRECTLY, BUT INSTEAD HAD ADDRESSED A LENGTHY LETTER LAST NOVEMBER TO THE DUKE OF ALBA, SPANISH AMBASSADOR IN LONDON, "DEVELOPING HIS PERSONAL VIEWS ABOUT THE EUROPEAN SITUATION IN CONNECTION WITH ENGLISH PLANS OF A WESTERN TREATY."

"FRANCO EXPRESSED THE OPINION," SAID THE DISPATCH," THAT SUCH A TREATY WOULD BE SENSIBLE AND FRUITFUL FOR EUROPE IN CASE IT CARRIED THE IDEA OF SALVATION OF CIVILIZATION, AT LEAST OF WESTERN EUROPE, IN THE FACE OF THE BOLSHEVIST THREAT.

"THE DUKE OF ALBA, WHO IS KNOWN TO ENTERTAIN GOOD PERSONAL RELATIONS WITH CHURCHILL, SHOWED THE LETTER TO THE BRITISH PRIME MINISTER AND CHURCHILL SENT A DIRECT REPLY TO FRANCO ALTHOUGH THE LETTER WAS NOT DIRECTED TO HIM PERSONALLY.

LONDON, FEB.16-(AP)-THE TOKYO RADIO TODAY GAVE THIS VERSION OF THE ASSAULT UPON THE JAPANESE CAPITAL BY U.S.CARRIER-BASED PLANES:

"ENEMY FLEET UNITS TODAY, FEB.16, APPEARED IN WATERS SOUTHEAST OF JAPAN. CARRIER-BORNE PLANES BELONGING TO THIS FORCE PENETRATED INTO AREAS OVER EAST AND CENTRAL JAPAN. ENEMY CARRIER-BORNE PLANES IN SEVERAL WAVES ATTACKED JAPANESE AIRFIELDS AND WAR INSTALLATIONS ON KOSO PENINSULA, IN EASTERN JAPAN.

"ENEMY PLANES ALSO ATTEMPTED TO ATTACK TRAFFIC INSTALLATIONS. THE ENEMY AIRFORCE HAS EMPLOYED AIRCRAFT WITH SMALL RANGE AGAINST JAPAN PROPER FOR THE FIRST TIME TODAY. THE AMERICANS AS EARLY AS APRIL 18, 1942, EMPLOYED SUCH PLANES AGAINST JAPANESE HOMELAND, BUT THERE IS A BIG DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THAT RAID AND TODAY'S ATTACKS.

"WITH CONSIDERATION TO THE PRESENT WAR SITUATION IN PROXIMITY TO THE JAPANESE ISLANDS IT HAD BEEN EXPECTED FOR A LONG TIME THAT THE ENEMY WOULD NOW GO OVER TO ATTACKING THE JAPANESE ISLANDS WITH SMALLER PLANES. THE JAPANESE, ACCORDINGLY, ARE THOROUGHLY PREPARED TO MEET SUCH ASSAULTS. UNESCORTED B29 RAIDS ARE TOO COSTLY FOR THE AMERICANS. IT IS, THEREFORE, AN URGENT TASK FOR THE ENEMY TO EFFECTIVELY ATTACK MILITARY OBJECTIVES ON JAPANESE MAIN ISLANDS. IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THE AMERICANS MADE JAPANESE AIRFIELDS THEIR MAIN TARGETS, WHILE SO FAR THEY HAD CHOSEN INDUSTRIAL CENTERS.

"THE JAPANESE WATCHED EVERY MOVE BY ENEMY FLEET UNITS WHICH WERE CARRIED OUT IN THE WATERS OF THE SOUTH CHINA SEA EAST OF THE PHILIPPINES SINCE THE END OF JANUARY. THESE ENEMY UNITS A FEW DAYS AGO LEFT THEIR BASES AND APPROACHED THE JAPANESE ISLANDS."

"FORWARD OFFICERS WHO KNOW THEIR WAR DECLARE THIS SLOW SLUGGING MATCH MIGHT WELL HAVE BEEN A SPECTACULAR BREAKTHROUGH HAD NOT TOO MANY MEN AND TOO MUCH EQUIPMENT BEEN CROWDED INTO THE NARROW BATTLE-FIELD.

"THEY ASSERT THE OFFENSIVE THAT BROKE EIGHT DAYS AGO CAUGHT THE GERMANS WITH NOTHING IN THE REICHSWALD AREA," NORDNESS WROTE. "THEN, THEY SAID, THE MISTAKE WAS MADE OF ATTEMPTING TO MOVE A STUPENDOUS WEIGHT OF MATERIAL OVER MUDDY ROADS THAT COULD NOT WITHSTAND THE WEAR AND TEAR.

"BY THE VERY WEIGHT OF MEN AND MATERIALS IN THE SMALL MANEUVERING AREA, THE CANADIAN ARMY HAS LOST ITS INITIAL OPPORTUNITY TO TURN THIS INTO A SPECTACULAR BREAKTHROUGH REMINISCENT OF THE DASH THROUGH FRANCE, BELGIUM AND HOLLAND LAST YEAR."

RESISTANCE TO THE ADVANCE OF THE CANADIAN FIRST WAS LIGHTEST YESTERDAY ON THE SOUTH FLANK, WHERE SCOTTISH TROOPS CAPTURED KESSEL. TWO AND ONE-HALF MILES SOUTHWEST, HOMMERSOM, A SECOND VILLAGE BLOCKING THE APPROACHES TO GOCH, ALSO WAS TAKEN. THE ATTACK THUS CARRIED ACROSS THE NIERS FROM KESSEL TO GENNEP, AT THE CONFLUENCE OF THE NIERS AND MAAS.

BRITISH TROOPS BETWEEN THE FORCES MENACING GOCH AND CALCAR DROVE SLOWLY DOWN THE HIGHWAY FROM KLEVE TO UEDEM, A TRAFFIC CONTROL CENTER FOUR MILES EAST OF GOCH.

MOYLAND WOODS WAS THE SCENE OF HEAVIEST FIGHTING IN THE CALCAR DRIVE, WITH THE NAZIS STUBBORNLY DEFENDING A HILL FROM WHICH THEY COULD CONTROL THE MAIN HIGHWAY INTO THE TOWN.

WITH THE NINTH ARMY FEB 16-(AP)-A YOUNG ARMY OFFICER--ONCE A BUYER OF WOMEN'S SHOES--WHO HAS FOUGHT IN BOTH THEATERS OF WAR PREFERS TO BE IN EUROPE BECAUSE "THE PACIFIC DEFINITELY IS TOUGHER."

ELABORATING, FIRST LT.ROBERT G.KIMBALL OF 433 NORTH 16TH ST., BATON ROUGE, LA., ADDED:

"GIVE ME THIS. THE ENEMY OVER HERE ISN'T AS FANATICAL. THE GERMAN SOLDIER WILL GIVE UP. HOWEVER, A GERMAN COUNTERATTACK IS MUCH MORE EFFECTIVE BECAUSE IT'S BETTER ORGANIZED THAN THE JAPANESE 'BANZAI' CHARGE. WE JUST SLAUGHTERED THE JAPS WHEN THEY CAME HOLLERING DOWN ON US IN ONE OF THEIR FANATICAL CHARGES, WHEN THE GERMANS COUNTERATTACK THEY ARE ORGANIZED AND HARD TO STOP."

FEB 17 1945

KIMBALL, WHO KILLED 10 JAPS AND EARNED A BATTLEFIELD COMMISSION IN THE NEW GEORGIA CAMPAIGN DURING 23 MONTHS IN THE PACIFIC, CAME TO EUROPE AFTER FIVE MONTHS IN THE STATES DRILLING RECRUITS. HE HAS KILLED SIX GERMANS.

OTHER FACTORS THE FOUR-YEAR ARMY VETERAN BELIEVES MAKE THE WAR IN THE PACIFIC TOUGHER INCLUDE THE TROPICAL CLIMATE, LIVING CONDITIONS IN WHICH THE JUNGLE FIGHTER IS PLAGUED BY MOSQUITOES, LANDCRABS AND SCORPIONS AND THE EVER-PRESENT THREAT FROM MALARIA, FUNGI INFECTIONS AND OTHER DISEASES.

THE GERMAN 88'S DON'T BOTHER KIMBALL AS MUCH AS JAP MORTAR FIRE DID. "THAT JAP MORTAR DOESN'T DO AS MUCH DAMAGE AS AN 88," HE SAID, "BUT IT'S MUCH MORE ACCURATE."

ANOTHER JUNGLE HAZARD FROM WHICH KIMBALL IS GLAD TO BE FREE IS THE MENTAL STRAIN OF THE NIGHTS IN A FOXHOLE WHERE A MAN CAN'T TALK OR SMOKE.

"YOU CAN'T EVEN MOVE OUT OF YOUR HOLE IN THE JUNGLES AT NIGHT," HE SAID. "YOU MIGHT BE SHOT BY YOUR OWN TROOPS BECAUSE THE JAPS HAVE DONE SO MANY WEIRD THINGS IN THE DARKNESS."

HIS JUNGLE EXPERIENCE HAS MADE KIMBALL AN EXPERT ON PATROLLING, ACCORDING TO HIS COMPANY COMMANDER, CAPT.ROBERT DEXTER OF REDDING, CALIF. ON HIS FIRST PATROL INTO LINNICH WITH MEN OF THE 102 DIVISION'S 406TH INFANTRY, KIMBALL BAGGED TWO JERRIES WHILE THE REST OF THE 24-MAN PARTY KILLED FIVE.

B18 G3

"ONCE HE TOOK A 12-MAN PATROL INTO GERMANY WITH ORDERS TO GET A PRISONER AT ANY COST--USUALLY A FOUR-HOUR JOB," DEXTER RELATED. "BUT KIMBALL WAS BACK IN 20 MINUTES WITH HIS MAN. THE PATROL HAD ALSO KNOCKED OUT A MACHINEGUN NEST AND KIMBALL HAD KILLED TWO GERMANS."

THE GERMANS HAD THE DRAW ON THE TWO DOUGHBOYS AND COULD HAVE MOWED THEM DOWN. INSTEAD, THE KRAUTS THREW THEIR GUNS ON THE GROUND.

"GO AWAY," WALKER SAID. "WE'RE TOO BUSY TRYING TO GET OUT OF HERE TO TAKE YOUR PRISONER."

BUT THE GERMANS DIDN'T UNDERSTAND ENGLISH, AND THE AMERICANS COULDN'T SPEAK GERMAN.

"WHEN THE DOUGHBOYS CONTINUED RUNNING THE GERMANS HUNG TO THEM LIKE LEECHES YELLING "KAMERAD" EVERY FEW SECONDS. NAZI ARTILLERY SHELLS POUNDED THE AREA, AND EVERY TIME THE DOUGHBOYS HIT THE GROUND THE GERMANS FOLLOWED SUIT.

REVELL AND WALKER FINALLY CROSSED A ROAD INTO AMERICAN LINES. DOUGHBOYS WHO WERE COVERING THEM DROVE OFF THE GERMANS BUT CEASED FIRING WHEN WALKER SAID "THESE KRAUTS WORKED SO HARD TO GET THIS FAR YOU SHOULD LET THEM GO ALL THE WAY."

THE DOUGHBOYS DID.

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, FEB. 16-(AP)-THE FIERCEST ENEMY RESISTANCE SINCE FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY OPENED HIS NORTHERN OFFENSIVE NINE DAYS AGO SLOWED THE CANADIAN-BRITISH ADVANCE TODAY BUT DRYING ROADS AND EBBING FLOODS PROMISED THAT SOON THE DRIVE WILL BEGIN TO ROLL.
THIS BATTLEFIELD IS EXCELLENT TANK COUNTRY, BUT BECAUSE OF THE QUAGMIRES ARMOR HARDLY HAS BEEN USED AND WAITING TANK CREWS CHAMP WITH IMPATIENCE.
PERHAPS BEFORE LONG THEY CAN MOVE ON THE FIRM EARTH AND TURN THIIS SLUGGING MATCH INTO A RACE.
THE MAAS AND RHINE RIVERS, WHICH FORM THE BORDERS OF THE BATTLE-FIELD, ARE SETTLING DOWN. THE MAAS HAS REACHED ITS PEAK AND THE RHINE IS EXPECTED TO DO SO IN A FEW DAYS. BRIDGES ARE BEING CONSTRUCTED OVER THE STREAMS THAT LACE THIS BATTLEFIELD. ROADS ARE IN BETTER CONDITION.
HEAVIEST RESISTANCE TODAY CAME EAST AND SOUTH OF KLEVE STATE FOREST, WHERE THE ENEMY COUNTERATTACKED SO OFTEN THE FRONT LINE DEFENDERS LOST COUNT.
THE GERMANS RAN AGAINST A BUFFER OF BAYONETS, STEEL AND SEARING FLAME THAT THREW THEM BACK TO THEIR STARTING POINT--THOSE THAT SURVIVED.
BUT IF THE GERMANS COULD NOT BUDGE THE ALLIED LINE, THE CANADIANS AND BRITISH AT THE MOST COULD DO NO MORE THAN DENT THEIRS.
BRITISH TROOPS ARE SCALING HEIGHTS SOUTHEAST OF KLEVE STATE FOREST ON THE ROAD TO UEDEM. IN MOYLAND FOREST THEY ARE APPROACHING HIGH GROUND OVERLOOKING MOYLAND AND THE ROAD INTO CALCAR, TWO MILES AWAY.
OTHER TROOPS PUSHING BETWEEN COLUMNS FIGHTING TOWARD CALCAR AND UEDEM WENT INTO THE ATTACK THIS AFTERNOON, SUPPORTED BY TANKS.
GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR'D FORCES HAVE BAGGED 6,000 PRISONERS SO FAR. MANY OF THEM ARE BUT SCARECROWS OF THEIR FORMER SELVES AFTER TERRIFIC ARTILLERY AND MORTAR BOMBARDMENT.
THE ENEMY IS USING 300 OR MORE BIG GUNS IN THIS BATTLE, MORE THAN HE HAD CONCENTRATED ON ONE SECTOR IN SOME TIME, BUT THE MEN OF MONTGOMERY ARE THE MASTERS OF ARTILLERY.
"WHEN THE ENEMY," SAID AN ARTILLERY OFFICER, "THINKS HE CAN COMPETE WITH US IN ARTILLERY HE'S RIGHT DOWN OUR ALLEY. WHY WE HAVE SO MANY GUNS THE GERMANS' PUNY EFFORT IS LIKE A ONE-PIECE BAND ALONGSIDE A HUNDRED PIECE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA."

MOSCOW, FEB.16-(AP)-A RED STAR FIELD DISPATCH INDICATED TODAY THAT MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINE ARMY IN FORCE HAD CROSSED THE NEISSE RIVER SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN.

FROM NOVIGATSKY'S GUARDED DESCRIPTION THE STREAM COULD BE ANY ONE OF HALF A DOZEN RUNNING BETWEEN THE NEISSE AND THE SPREE.
"THIS PLACE IS NOT FAR AWAY FROM THE SPREE AND COUNTRY HOUSES OF BERLINERS," THE CORRESPONDENT REPORTED. "THE GERMANS HAD BLOWN UP A BRIDGE BUT THE SMALL RIVER DID NOT HALT OUR FIGHTERS. ABOARD BATAAN ATTACK FORCE FLAGSHIP, THURSDAY, FEB. 15-(DELAYED) -(AP)-A STRONG AMERICAN AMPHIBIOUS FORCE SAILED UNSCATHED PAST FORMIDABLE CORREGIDOR FORTRESS TODAY AND LANDED NEAR MARIVELES AT THE SOUTHERN TIP OF BATAAN PENINSULA.
IT WAS THE FIRST SMASHING BLOW TO OPEN THE ENTRANCE TO MANILA BAY AND PUT A CLAMP ON THE JAPANESE IN CENTRAL BATAAN.
WHILE THE LANDING WAS MADE AGAINST LIGHT OPPOSITION, AMERICAN NAVAL AND AIR BOMBARDMENT KEPT ENEMY GUNS OF NEARBY CORREGIDOR SILENT EXCEPT FOR A HALF DOZEN SHOTS WHICH SENT UP GEYSERS AROUND THE SMALL LANDING CRAFT AND SENT THEM SCURRYING TOWARD THE BEACH IN ZIG-ZAGS.
[illegible]
UNITS OF THE 38TH DIVISION MADE THE LANDINGS. THEY WERE UNDER THE COMMAND OF BRIG. GEN. WILLIAM C. CHASE, WHO A WEEK AGO LED A FLYING COLUMN INTO MANILA.
THE SEVENTH FLEET AMPHIBIOUS OPERATION WAS UNDER REAR ADM. ARTHUR D. STRUBLE.
DOUGHBOYS SWIFTLY PUSHED INLAND FROM A 500-YARD WIDE BEACH-HEAD. BOMBED AND SHELLED-
SMASHED MARIVELES WAS OCCUPIED ALMOST IMMEDIATELY AND THE TROOPS PUSHED AHEAD TO SMALL AIRSTRIPS WITHIN A FEW MINUTES.
THE ONLY ENEMY FIRE WAS FROM LIGHT WEAPONS NEAR THE AIRSTRIP.
THE AIRSTRIP WAS POCKED WITH TRENCHES AND OTHER DEFENSIVE POSITIONS BUT THERE WAS NO RESISTANCE FROM THEM.
MARIVELES IS BEST KNOWN AS THE MAIN JUMPOFF PORT BETWEEN BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR WHEN THE JAPANESE WERE PRESSING TOWARD THE CONQUEST OF BOTH THREE YEARS AGO.
THE YANK CONVOY HAD TO SAIL THROUGH A GAP A LITTLE OVER FOUR MILES WIDE BETWEEN THE ROCK AND COCHINOS POINT ON BATAAN.
A TWO DAY BOMBARDMENT BY REAR ADM. RUSSELLS. BERKEY'S CRUISERAND DESTROYER SQUADRON PROTECTING THE FLEET OF MINESW-EEPERS THAT PRECEDED D-DAY.
BILLOWING CLOUDS OF SMOKE ROSE FROM THE ISLAND FORTRESS OF CORREGIDOR AS LIBERATORS AND A20S PRESSED HOME THEIR BOMBING ATTACKS. THE BATAAN MOUNTAINS TOWERED ON THE LEFT AS THE CONVOY STEAMED IN.
ADM.STRUBLE MANEUVERED THE CONVOY CAREFULLY INTO THE CHANNEL FOR THE LANDING.
A FEW SHELLS FROM CORREGIDOR LANDED AROUND THE BARGES LINING UP FOR THE FIRST WAVE. OBVIOUSLY THEY WERE FROM SMALL CALIBER GUNS, BUT THE SHELLING STARTED A FLURRY FOR HELMETS BY PERSONNEL WHO HAD LAID THEI ASIDE CONFIDENTLY.

AMERICAN CARRIER PLANES ATTACKING TOKYO KEPT COMING OVER FOR NINE HOURS TODAY, JAPANESE BROADCASTS SAID WHILE PREDICTING THEY WOULD RENEW THE ATTACK TOMORROW AND FORECASTING AN IMMINENT INVASION OF IWO JIMA 750 MILES TO THE SOUTH.

A JAPANESE IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE REPORTED IWO WAS BEING BOMBARDED BY 30 U.S. WARSHIPS, INCLUDING BATTLESHIPS AND CARRIERS.

THE GOVERNMENT-DOMINATED DOMEI NEWS AGENCY SAID THE BOMBARDMENT POINTED "TO THE POSSIBILITY OF THE ENEMY'S ATTEMPTING A LANDING OPERATION ON IWO JIMA IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

"THIS IS HELD RATHER OBVIOUS FROM THE NUMEROUS INSTANCES OF THE ENEMY'S LANDING OPERATIONS IN THE PAST, IN WHICH THE ENEMY INVARIABLY PREFACED HIS LANDING OPERATION WITH LARGE-SCALE CARRIER-BORNE PLANE ATTACKS."

DOMEI POINTED OUT IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION THAT IWO IS THE LOOK-OUT POST FOR JAPAN'S AIR DEFENSE SYSTEM AGAINST MARIANAS-BASED SUPERFORTRESSES AND "THE ENEMY HIGH COMMAND IS SUPPOSED TO BE IN BAD NEED OF ELIMINATING THIS OBSERVATION POINT."

IN AMERICAN HANDS IWO WOULD MAKE AN IDEAL BASE FOR FIGHTER-ESCORTED MEDIUM AND HEAVY BOMBER ATTACKS ON JAPAN.

THE IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE SAID "A POWERFUL ENEMY TASK FORCE THAT APPEARED IN THE SEAS ADJACENT TO OUR SHORES" BEGAN SENDING WAVES OF CARRIER PLANES SWEEPING OVER AIRDROMES AROUND TOKYO AT 7 A.M., AND CONTINUED THE ATTACK UNTIL 4 P.M.

DOMEI ADDED "THERE IS HELD A STRONG POSSIBILITY THAT THE ENEMY WILL LAUNCH ANOTHER RAID ON THE JAPANESE HOMELAND WITH CARRIER-BORNE PLANES TOMORROW."

LONDON INTERCEPTED A TOKYO BROADCAST SAYING AT LEAST TEN CARRIERS CAPABLE OF CARRYING 1,000 PLANES FORMED THE BACK BONE OF THE FORCE LAUNCHING THE ATTACKS ON TOKYO.

THE BRIEF IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE MADE NO ATTEMPT TO DESCRIBE THE SIZE OF THIS FLEET.

DOMEI AGENCY SAID FURTHER THAT OCCUPATION OF IWO JIMA WOULD GIVE THE AMERICANS A BASE FOR "FIGHTERS THAT WOULD COOPERATE WITH THE B-29 RAIDERS ON THE JAPANESE MAINLAND."

THE DISPATCH REPORTED THAT A B-29 WAS OVER JAPAN "SEVERAL TIMES," APPARENTLY FOR RECONNAISSANCE PURPOSES, DURING THE CARRIER PLANE ATTACKS.

ATTACKS.

IT ADDED: "IT IS HELD LIKELY THAT THE ENEMY'S AIR RAIDS AGAINST OUR MAINLAND IN THE FUTURE WILL SEE MANY INSTANCES IN WHICH THE ENEMY CARRIER-BASED PLANES OPERATE IN CONCERTED ACTION WITH MARIANAS BASED B-29S."

THE DISPATCH ASSERTED THE TASK FORCE OFF HONSHU "IS KNOWN TO CONSIST OF THE MAIN STRENGTH OF THE ENEMY'S NAVAL FORCES NOW AVAILABLE IN THE PACIFIC." IT SAID THE FORCE INCLUDED TEN CARRIERS AND 1,000 PLANES.

TOKYO'S HOME RADIO DISCLOSED THE RAIDING CARRIER PLANES SCATTERED PROPAGANDA LEAFLETS AND INSTRUCTED THE PEOPLE, "DON'T PAY ANY ATTENTION TO THEM."

THE COMMUNIQUE WAS ISSUED AT 6:20 P.M. FRIDAY (TOKYO TIME) (5:20 A.M. EASTERN WAR TIME) AND TRANSMITTED IN ROMANIZED JAPANESE TO THE ORIENT BY THE GOVERNMENT-CONTROLLED DOMEI NEWS AGENCY.

JAPANESE HEADQUARTERS IDENTIFIED TARGETS OF THE CARRIER FORCE AS LYING IN THE KANTO (TOKYO METROPOLITAN) AREA AND SHIZUOKA PREFECTURE, SOUTHWEST OF TOKYO.

IT CLAIMED JAPANESE INTERCEPTORS "HAVE SCORED CONSIDERABLE WAR RESULTS" IN FIERCE AIR BATTLES FOUGHT OVER TOKYO.

TWENTY MINUTES BEFORE IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS RELEASED ITS BRIEF COMMUNIQUE, DOMEI REPORTED THAT THE RAIDERS STRUCK IN THREE WAVES, WITH ABOUT 300 PLANES IN EACH OF TWO WAVES.

AIRDROMES WHICH HAVE SENT UP INTERCEPTORS AGAINST MARIANAS-BASED SUPERFORTRESSES BORE THE BRUNT OF THE ATTACK, DOMEI SAID.

THE TEXT OF THE IMPERIAL COMMUNIQUE AS BROADCAST BY DOMEI AND TRANSLATED BY FCC SAID:

"(A) FROM 7 A.M. TO 4 P.M. THE CARRIER-BASED PLANES OF A POWERFUL ENEMY TASK FORCE WHICH APPEARED IN THE SEAS ADJACENT TO OUR SHORES CARRIED OUT ATTACKS

CHIEFLY ON KANTO AND ON OUR AIRFIELDS IN SHIZUOKA PREFECTURE IN WAVES. OUR AIR DEFENSE UNITS HAVE INTERCEPTED THESE PLANES AT VARIOUS LOCALITIES AND HAVE SCORED CONSIDERABLE WAR RESULTS.

"(B) FROM THE EARLY DAWN OF FEB. 16 AN ENEMY FLEET COMPRISED OF 30 SHIPS, INCLUDING BATTLESHIPS AND CARRIERS, STARTED TO, AND IS PRESENTLY CARRYING OUT, NAVAL GUN BARRAGES ON IWO JIMA."

DOMEI DID NOT ESTIMATE THE NUMBER OF PLANES IN THE THIRD OF ITS REPORTED THREE WAVES.

IN REPORTING THAT AIRBASES HAD BEEN THE MAIN OBJECTIVE OF THE AMERICAN PLANES, THE NEWS AGENCY COMMENTED:

"THE ENEMY PRESUMABLY PICKED OUT THESE AIRFIELDS AS OBJECTIVES IN VIEW OF THE HEAVY LOSSES WHICH SUPERFORTRESSES HAVE SUFFERED IN PAST RAIDS BY OUR INTERCEPTORS BASED THERE."

DOMEI FURTHER NOTED THAT MILITARY INSTALLATIONS AND AIRFIELDS ON BOSO PENINSULA, THE SOUTHEAST ARM OF TOKYO BAY, WERE ALSO ATTACKED.

THE FIRST WAVE APPEARED OVER THE HONSHU MAINLAND ABOUT 7 A.M., DOMEI SAID. ONE WAVE ATTACKED UNTIL 9 A.M., THE SECOND UNTIL 9:30 A.M., AND THE THIRD FROM 12:30 P.M. UNTIL 1:30 P.M.

THE OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUE, HOWEVER, INDICATED THAT OTHER WAVES FOLLOWED, SINCE IT SET THE WINDUP OF THE DAY'S ASSAULTS AT 4 P.M.

JAPANESE CIVILIANS REMAINED "CALM AND UNPERTURBED" WHILE MORE THAN 1,500 U.S. NAVAL CARRIER PLANES SPATTERED THE TOKYO-YOKOHAMA AREA WITH BOMBS AND MACHINEGUN FIRE, TOKYO RADIO CLAIMED TODAY.

THE RAID "FAILED TO AFFECT OUR CITIZENS' MORALE IN THE LEAST," SAID THE BROADCAST OF A DOMEI AGENCY DISPATCH, BEAMED TO THE UNITED STATES AND HEARD BY FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION MONITORS.

WHILE SPECULATION THAT "THE ENEMY PURPOSELY CHOSE THE RUSH HOURS FOR HIS RAID ON THE METROPOLIS SO AS TO INTERRUPT OUR PRODUCTION ACTIVITIES," THE PROPAGANDA BROADCAST SAID THAT WORKERS ALREADY HAD ARRIVED AT THEIR POST WHEN THE RAID SIRENS SOUNDED.

THE JAPANESE HAVE NEVER CONCEDED THAT AMERICAN RAIDS, EVEN THE HEAVIEST SUPERFORTRESS BLOWS, HAVE SERIOUSLY INTERFERRED WITH FACTORY PRODUCTION, BUT RECENT TOKYO BROADCASTS HAVE ANNOUNCED THAT SOME NIPPONESE WAR FACTORIES ARE BEING MOVED TO MANCHURIA.

Corregidor Falls in Sky and Land Assault; Japanese Report U.S. Invasion of Iwo Island, Warship Bombardment Continues 3d Day

FEB 18 1945

AIR-BORNE TROOPS ATTACK, FALL OF ISLAND IMMINENT

Paratroopers, Land Forces Link After Catching Japs Napping.

CASUALTIES LIGHT

Warships Pour Explosives on Rock, Fighting Rages in Manila.

MANILA, Sunday, Feb. 18, —(AP) Yank skytroopers, spectacularly parachuting from air transports onto a half mile square plateau, returned the American flag to Corregidor Friday where Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright sorrowfully surrendered the Philippines to the Japanese hordes in May, 1941.

FEB 18 1945

Dropping down after warships poured explosives on the "rock" and into tunnels where the Japanese were cowering, the skytroopers soon were joined by waterborne Yanks from Bataan.

Today, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announcing the dazzling operation, said Corregidor's complete capture "is assured"—opening Manila bay to the United States fleet.

Invaders Link Forces

In a dispatch from Corregidor, Associated Press Correspondent James Hutcheson told of a red smoke signal high atop the rock which confirmed that the paratroopers and amphibious invaders had linked forces.

"I wish General Wainwright could be here to see this," said Brig. Gen. William C. Chase, directing the operation.

"It would be the greatest sight of his life."

The descent of the parachutists, veterans of New Guinea fighting, squarely atop the "rock," completely surprised the Japanese and effected the capture of the island's defenses and mighty guns from the rear.

Infantrymen hit the island's shores shortly after the paratroops landed. They leaped from the craft which brought them from recently-captured Bataan, immediately advanced inland and joined the skyborne troopers.

"Our paratroopers have landed," read the first American dispatch sent directly from Corregidor in nearly three years.

Arthur Feldman, Blue network correspondent, said the first wave of parachutists dropped on high ground on the west side of the island Friday.

"Some struck the cliffs and slid down into the sea to be picked up by watching PT (Patrol Torpedo) boats," Feldman related.

"Early reports indicate no paratrooper casualties due to enemy action though some were hurt and killed as a result of their daring drop onto a small and rugged area from the C-47 transport planes.

Just prior to the appearance of the sky troops, attacking planes and warships caused "one prolonged explosion and smoke and flame and brown, red and white dust rose higher and higher."

Feldman said a favoring wind cleared the skies "barely in time and the first C-47 sailed in against a backdrop of large fleecy white clouds."

No Jap Planes Around

The men were "dropped from a sky where no Jap plane was flying, onto an island surrounded by a calm sea where no Jap ship sailed."

The amphibious force went ashore at 10:30 a.m., on the south side near a small jetty, which had remained undamaged.

At 12:30, a second group of paratroopers was landed.

The paratroopers had been flown from American-held Mindoro island, to the south of Manila.

The landings were effected "with light casualties' following a coordinated bombardment by warships of the U. S. Seventh fleet and planes of the Far Eastern airforce.

The storming of Corregidor, which the Americans yielded May 6, 1942, almost five months after the Japanese landed on Luzon island, was a two-way action.

Paratroopers of the 503rd Parachute regiment were dropped from planes. This was the unit which spectacularly landed at Lae, New Guinea, earlier in the war.

These paratroopers were "dropped on the topside of Corregidor, taking its batteries and defenses in the rear," MacArthur said.

"The enemy was completely surprised by the air landing."

Then elements of the 24th division of Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, which played a heroic role in the October invasion of Leyte, were ferried across the four-mile channel from Bataan. They landed on Corregidor's south shore.

Japs Dislocated

These hard-fighting Yanks threw the Nipponese garrison "into complete dislocation," headquarters related.

The 24th infantrymen advanced inland and effected a swift juncture with the paratroopers.

Securance of Corregidor opens Manila bay to the United States fleet a month and a week after MacArthur invaded Luzon island. The Japanese fleet was unable to use the bay until their invasion forces had been on Luzon almost half a year.

MacArthur said the action "opens this great harbor to our fleets," singularly using the plural in referring to naval groups.

On Bataan, captured from a strategic standpoint although the peninsula still harbors considerable enemy forces hiding in the hills, MacArthur announced the rescue of 21 officers and men who had been there since the outbreak of the war. Sixteen were Americans, three Dutch and two British.

In South Manila, a Japanese garrison which has ignored an ultimatum to surrender or even to release thousands of unarmed civilians was further reduced in bitter street and building battles south of the Pasig river mouth.

The Yanks scored gains in the vicinity of Fort McKinley, east of Neilson airfield.

In the Zambales mountains near captured Clark air center northwest of Manila, the 40th division of Maj. Gen. Papp Brush wiped out more enemy groups.

Yanks Strafe Foe's Fields

Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenny's Far Eastern Air Force ripped into enemy airdromes in the Philippines on the islands of Negros, Cebu and Mindanao.

Mitchell bombers, braving bad weather, bombed Japanese troop formations on Formosa, destroyed a highway bridge, ripped up railway lines and demolished fifteen locomotives.

Off Formosa's northeast coast among the Sakishima Islands, a small freighter was sunk and several others damaged.

Intramuros Japs Ignore Offer From U.S.

FEB 18 1945

Manila, Feb. 17 (AP)—American tanks and guns renewed their assault on the ancient walled city in Manila today after the Japanese defenders there ignored an offer of the corps commander, Maj. Gen. Oscar Griswold, of honorable surrender and safe conduct of several thousand civilians.

MAY

The offer, made at 8 o'clock last night, was unanswered at the end of a four-hour limit set by the general.

Griswold, in a message broadcast by radio and through loud speakers in Japanese, Tagalog and English, told the Japanese: "Your defeat is inevitable. I offer you an honorable surrender." The enemy either refused or failed to receive or comprehend the offer.

Surrender Technique

"If you decide to accept, raise a large Philippine flag over the Red Cross flag now flying and send an unarmed emissary with a white flag to our lines," the broadcast said. "In the event you do not accept my offer, I exhort you that, due to the spirit of Bushido and code of Samurai, you permit all civilians to evacuate Intramuros by the Victoria Gate without delay, in order that no innocent blood be shed."

The message was signed "Commanding General, United States Army Forces in Manila."

The renewal of the 11-day-old attack on the medieval citadel follows the encircling of several thousand Japanese on historic Bataan peninsula. General Douglas MacArthur proclaimed "We have captured Bataan," where Filipino and Americans fought a losing battle three years ago.

Under Corregidor Guns

A daring warship-supported landing on the south coast under the silenced guns of once formidable Corregidor resulted in the surrounding of the enemy on Bataan.

[Tokyo radio said American paratroopers and seaborne forces landed on Corregidor today and "fierce fighting" followed.]

Mariveles airdrome, seized after the landing, was already in use by American planes today.

Fleet Support

Losses were light as the Yank invasion troops, their path skillfully cleared by minesweepers, bombarding cruisers and destroyers of the United States 7th Fleet, opened a 500-yard beachhead in Mariveles harbor.

Meeting on light resistance, they seized Mariveles town and nearby airdrome and drove swiftly northeast toward a juncture with Maj. Gen. Edwin Patrick's 6th Division. The 6th was 18 road miles away, after capturing Lamao in a rapid drive down the Manila Bay side of the peninsula.

Units of the 38th Divis[illegible] the landings Thursday [illegible] They were under the co[illegible] Brig. Gen. William C. Ch[illegible] headed the 1st Cavalry Division spearhead which liberated the Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila February 3.

Sailed Near Corregidor

The 7th Fleet, under Rear Admiral Arthur Struble, sailed within four miles of Corregidor on the swing to Mariveles from the Olongapo naval base in Subic Bay, just north of Bataan.

Yet bombardment of cruisers and destroyers so effectively silenced Corregidor's guns the naval force was unscathed. Associated Press Correspondent James Hutcheson said only a half dozen shots were fired from Corregidor.

The operation constituted the first smashing blow to open the entrance to Manila Bay and posed an immediate threat to Corregidor. Big land guns on Bataan could easily shell "The Rock."

Still May Be Battle

Several thousand enemy troops are still on Bataan. The fight may not be over. But with control of the single coastal road on the peninsula and command of the northern jaw of Manila Bay, the Americans have all they want or need for the moment.

In Manila, the reinforced 14th Corps drove through to the bay on an 800-yard front to squeeze the cornered enemy garrison into a triangle measuring about 2,000 yards at the base along the Pasig River and 3,000 yards along the waterfront side.

Harrison Section Cleared

After three days of fighting the Harrison section at the southern tip of the triangle still left to the enemy was cleared, excep for one small pocket of resistance. But a mile and a half to the northeast the Americans were balked by stubborn defense around the strongly fortified General Hospital.

troops landed on the island. In concert with this action the enemy also launched landings with assault landing barges. Fierce battles are now raging on the southern shores of Corregidor Island."

Anti-aircraft batteries on "The Rock" were silenced more than a week ago by heavy daily American bombing attacks. Big guns were knocked out in combined air and naval bombardments preceding Thursday's amphibious landing on southern Bataan Peninsula, across a narrow strait from Corregidor.

Control of both Bataan, announced in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Saturday comminique, and Corregidor, would reopen Manila Bay and recaptured Cavite Naval Base to the American Fleet.

JAPS MISTREATED ROMULO FAMILY

Manila, P. I., Feb. 16 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo located some of the relatives he long worried about but they lived only at a heavy cost.

The Philippine Resident Commissioner gravely told the Associated Press of the hardships and brutality suffered by four relatives. His mother, Senora Maria de Romulo, has recovered from a broken leg resulting when a Japanese soldier smashed her with a rifle butt. His brother, Gilbert Romulo, and his brother-in-law, Carlos Kipping, were incarcerated for forty days in a gendarmerie station, and were beaten so badly that Kipping lost all his teeth.

The three, found in Tarlac province, said the gendarmerie "investigated" them with a stronghanded attempt to wring from them confessions that Gen. Romulo was sending secret messages during his broadcasts to the Philippines from Australia. "I was not that stupid," said the Filipino official.

Gen. Romulo said his father-in-law, Vincente J. Llamas, 56 years old, died after treatment at the Fort Santiago gendarmerie station where he refused to tell family details. The Japanese subsequently arrested all persons attending Llamas funeral.

Paratroops Land on The Rock—Manila Japs Ignore U. S. Demand to Give Up.

By the Associated Press

American paratroopers and seaborne troops landed on Corregidor in a two-way assault today, the Tokyo radio reported, and immediately engaged the Jap garrison in battles for control of the fortress guarding the entrance to Manila Bay.

TOKYO RADIO SAYS AMERICAN FORCES LAND ON ISLAND

Nimitz Silent on Carrier Plane Attack Against Enemy Capital.

JAPS RESIST FIERCELY

Powerful Shore Batteries Hit Back Damaging U. S. Warship.

Wire

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Sunday, Feb. 18—(AP) Battleships and cruisers bombarded Iwo Jima today—a day after Tokyo said Yanks have landed there—for the third straight day, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique which specified considerable Japanese resistance.

Silent on the carrier plane attacks against Tokyo, which may or may not be still in progress, Nimitz told of intense anti-aircraft fire Saturday at Iwo greeting raiding land-based and carrier planes and of shore fire damaging a warship.

Maintain Radio Silence

The feeling here among war correspondents was that the radio blackout meant the carrier task force remains within striking distance of Japan.

Both attacks opened Friday morning.

The communique said no details have come through the radio blackout shrouding the accomplishments of masses of carrier planes which battered the Tokyo area Friday and Saturday.

Al Dopking, Associated Press war correspondent, said in a headquarters dispatch that the communique reports on Iwo "indicated this island may be one of the most strongly fortified outposts for Japan."

Iwo's ability at this late stage to continue hitting back suggests Japan has been able to reinforce and build up the tiny island defenses despite slashing American air and sea attacks against its enfeebled merchantship supply line, Dopking added.

Making it clear that the enemy's power of resistance on Iwo still is considerable despite the withering shelling and 70 days of air attacks, Nimitz reported that one of the bombarding warships off the island was damaged "by shore gun fire."

He did not identify the ship's category.

Coastal Batteries Silenced

This followed his announcement yesterday that the bombarding warships, believed to include some of America's 45,000 ton battleships, had silenced coastal batteries.

His mention of intense anti-aircraft fire also was noteworthy.

The communique made no reference to enemy broadcasts stating that two landing attempts Saturday morning on the south end of Iwo were repulsed after which other Yanks got ashore to be engaged in fierce fighting.

Lack of reports from Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force which began sending 1,500 carrier-based divebombers, torpedo planes and fighters against the Tokyo-Yokohama area early Friday meant a protective radio blackout still is in force.

Such a blackout either could mean the attacks on Tokyo are going into the third day or that the fleet is shielding its withdrawal.

Such a blackout either could mean the attacks on Tokyo are going into the third day or that the fleet is shielding its withdrawal.

Today's communique, like yesterday's, placed the emphasis on Iwo.

All it stated concerning the assault on Japan was:

"Further reports on the attacks on Tokyo by aircraft of the 5th Fleet under Admiral R. A. Spruance on February 16 and 17 are unavailable."

The communiqué told of air attacks Saturday in the Bonin Islands, north of Iwo in the volcano group. Five enemy aircraft were strafed on the ground at Chichi. Eighty small craft were strafed and an ammunition barge blown up at Haha.

There was both antiaircraft and air opposition over the Bonins. The ack-ack was described as "intense." Two of the enemy planes were shot down.

Army Liberators bombed Marcus Island Friday and Marine planes raided in the Palau and western Caroline groups the same day.

Nimitz's Saturday communiqué had told of carrier plane attacks on Tokyo and bombardment of Iwo being carried into the second straight day.

Marcus Island Hit

Army Liberators bombed Marcus island Friday and Marine planes raided in the Palau and western Caroline groups the same day.

Nimitz' Saturday communique had told of carrier plane attacks on Tokyo and bombardment of Iwo being carried into the second straight day.

Navy sources in Washington declined to deny or confirm the Tokyo reports of the Iwo invasion.)

The Tokyo broadcast also expressed fear the devastating attacks by Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth fleet, mightiest of history, would go on into Sunday.

Japan's Domei agency said in the dispatch broadcast by Tokyo radio that two American landings within ten minutes on tiny Iwo Jima had been repulsed.

Two Tokyo newspapers, Asahi and Mainichi, were then quoted as warning that the Fifth fleet's activities might be preliminary to landings on the Nipponese mainland.

"All Japanese citizens," the broadcast advised, indicating the jittery state of nerves in the enemy capital, "should be on guard against any enemy landing on Japan proper."

Nimitz' communique gave no estimate of losses or damage in the continuing Tokyo raids, concentrated against enemy air fields and plane factories, but reported that the bombardment of Iwo had inflicted "substantial damage."

Little Iwo rocked for the second straight day under the shells of bombarding battleships and cruisers. Already the vital coastal batteries of the tiny and troublesome isle in the Volcano Islands had been silenced.

DAY

At Tokyo, 1,500 refueled planes from the world's largest flotilla of aircraft carriers hovering 300 miles off Japan's coast swept in for the second straight day to rekindle raging industrial fires in the capital.

The Tokyo domestic radio issued the startling warning to the Japanese people that the Americans "may attempt to come near the homeland at two points, one of them the Boso Peninsula," the eastern land arm of Tokyo Bay. It did not elaborate.

Nimitz Says Raids Continue.

Frantic appeals were issued for "total effort of the Government and the people" urging them "at this time to make still more firm the air-tight defense structure of our land."

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced the resumption of the Tokyo attacks in a brief communique today.

"Carrier aircraft of the Fifth Fleet are continuing to attack the Tokyo area," he said simply.

Tokyo claimed Japanese air units have set afire a United States carrier, an escorting destroyer, damaged three other naval vessels and shot down 145 American planes. There was no American confirmation to support any of the enemy claims.

No Word of Results.

B-29 superfortresses hovering over the Japanese capital yesterday reported inter-plane radio conversations about scores of American "kills" in the air and on the airstrips ringing the capital.

Admiral Nimitz supplied no official word of today's or yesterday's results at Tokyo. Instead, he stressed the shelling of Iwo Jima, which, in American hands, could send long-range fighter planes to cover B-29 raids on Tokyo.

Fleet Presses Tokyo At[illegible]

Vopking

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 17 (AP) — The powerful American Fifth Fleet continued its double-barreled assaults on Tokyo and Iwo Jima today while the enemy radio reported the invasion of Iwo and filled the air with alarm over possible invasion of the Japanese home islands.

[illegible] preliminary reports indicate that substantial damage was inflicted on enemy installations on Iwo Jima in spite of adverse weather conditions during the bombardment," Admiral Nimitz announced.

"Enemy shore batteries which fired on the bombardment group were silenced by the guns of the fleet. The bombardment is continuing."

Tokyo In Flames

Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's fleet maintained a radio blackout.

That the mighty air strike of Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's fast carrier task force still was continuing today, more than 24 hours after it began, is proof that it remained unhampered to any extent, either by enemy planes or by Japan's shirking navy.

The 5th Fleet, which includes some of the newest 45,000-ton battleships and the largest aircraft carriers, obviously ached to close with the shy imperial Japanese home fleet.

Many In Tokyo Spent Whole Day In Shelters

San Francisco, Feb. 17 (AP)—Low strafing and bombing carrier planes of the United States 5th Fleet forced many Tokyo residents to spend "practically the whole day (Friday, Tokyo time) in shelters," Harukazu Ogata, Japanese air defense official said today, warning "we may have to spend most of our lives underground in the future as is the case in Berlin."
